12. In October and November 2012, Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a "Balance Sheet" as of September 30, 2012 ("Balance Sheet"), a "Profit and Loss" report for the period October 1, 2011 through September 30, 2012 ("Profit and Loss Report"), and four Forms X-17A-5 Part IIA—one for each of the four quarters of 2012—that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), that bore the headers "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)," and that contained quarterly financial statements ("Quarterly FOCUS Reports").

13. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of September 30, 2012, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholder's Equity for the year ended September 30, 2012, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission.

14. In preparing the Statement of Financial Condition and Statement of Income, Firm staff aggregated line items and changed line item descriptions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer. Moreover, in preparing the Statement of Income, Firm staff deleted three captions included in, and added one caption absent from, the Profit and Loss Report.

15. In preparing the Statement of Changes in Stockholder's Equity filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission, Firm staff added a tabular presentation contained in neither the equity portion of the Balance Sheet nor any Statement of Changes in Ownership Equity in the Quarterly FOCUS Reports; included disaggregated amounts for "Common Stock," "Paid-in Capital," and "Retained Earnings" contained in the Balance Sheet but not in the Quarterly FOCUS Reports; and included row descriptions different from line item descriptions in the Quarterly FOCUS Reports and altogether absent from the Balance Sheet.

16. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended September 30, 2012, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in November 2012. The notes to the financial statements drafted by Firm staff included a disclosure consisting of several paragraphs that concerned pending litigation against the Broker-Dealer. The Firm's November 21, 2012 audit report included a paragraph captioned "Emphasis of Matter" that cited that disclosure, summarized some of its content, and stated that the Firm's opinion was not modified with respect to that matter.

ORDER

17. Firm staff emailed the Broker-Dealer a set of draft financial statements on November 21, 2012 for management approval.

18. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, including the notes thereto, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[6]

19. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the audit of the Broker-Dealer's September 30, 2012 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Leonard Rosen & Company, P.C., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2014-021 December 8, 2014

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Leonard Rosen & Company, P.C. ("Leonard Rosen," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Leonard Rosen is a registered public accounting firm with offices in New York, New York. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the New York State Education Department (Professional Service Corporation No. 007897). The Firm, formed in 1976, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. Leonard Rosen prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

ORDER

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[5] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In February 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 15, 2013. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[5] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

10. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in February 2013 various documents including a trial balance as of December 31, 2012, a "Balance Sheet" as of December 31, 2012, and several schedules.

11. Firm staff used the above documents to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition, Statement of Income, Statement of Changes in Member's Equity, Statement of Cash Flows, and Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to the Claims of General Creditors filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2013. In preparing the Statement of Financial Condition filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission, Firm staff aggregated line items, deleted captions, and deleted a line item description (while retaining the associated line item amount) as compared to corresponding information in the Balance Sheet obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

12. Firm staff also drafted the notes to the financial statements filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission.

13. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer a set of draft financial statements on February 14 or 15, 2013 for management approval.

14. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, including the notes thereto, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[6]

15. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (or, where the Firm by the date of this Order has already commenced but not completed such an engagement, before the Firm's release of its report), to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

b. within (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an audit; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Raines and Fischer LLP, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2014-022 December 8, 2014

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Raines and Fischer LLP ("Raines and Fischer," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings,

Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Raines and Fischer is a registered public accounting firm with offices in New York, New York. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the New York State Education Department (Partnership Identification No. 024631). The Firm, formed in 1984, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. Raines and Fischer prepared portions of the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. 8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In March 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 27, 2013. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[5] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

10. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in February 2013 various documents including a trial balance, a general ledger, a schedule titled "Balance Sheet - Groupings," and a Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2012, as well as a schedule titled "Profit & Loss - Grouping Sch," a Statement of Income, and a Statement of Changes in Members' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2012. The Firm did not obtain from the Broker-Dealer a cash flow statement or notes to the financial statements.

11. Firm staff used information from the balance sheet and profit and loss grouping schedules obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012 filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission. Firm staff also prepared the notes to the December 31, 2012 financial statements filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission. Firm staff prepared the notes by using as an initial draft the notes to the December 31, 2011 financial statements filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission the previous year, deleting a revenue-related note after confirming with the Broker-Dealer's management that it was no longer applicable, significantly revising two paragraphs of a note concerning the Broker-Dealer's accounting policies, modifying two other notes to reflect updated information, and adding a paragraph disclosure concerning customer funds and securities.

12. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a draft Statement of Cash Flows and draft notes to the financial statements in February 2013 for management approval.

13. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the cash flow statement and the notes to the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[6]

14. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (or, where the Firm by the date of this Order has already commenced but not completed such an engagement, before the Firm's release of its report), to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an audit; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Raphael and Raphael LLP, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2014-023 December 8, 2014

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Raphael and Raphael LLP ("Raphael and Raphael," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Raphael and Raphael is a registered public accounting firm with offices in Massachusetts and New Jersey. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Massachusetts Board of Public Accountancy (license no. 23) and the New Jersey State Board of Accountancy (license no. 20CB00602100). The Firm, formed in 1944, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. Raphael and Raphael prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended September 30, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[5] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's September 30, 2012 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In November 2012, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended September 30, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated November 19, 2012. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

10. An engagement letter dated October 10, 2012 confirmed the Firm's understanding of the services it would provide to the Broker-Dealer for the year ended September 30, 2012. The engagement letter stated that "[a]s part of our engagement, we will prepare the audited financial statements."

ORDER

11. A work paper prepared in connection with the Firm's audit of the Broker-Dealer's September 30, 2012 financial statements ("Audit") and titled "Audit Program for General Auditing and Completion Procedures" included a pre-printed item reading, "Draft or assist the client in drafting the financial statements." Typed alongside that item were the initials of a staff accountant assigned to the Audit.

12. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in October 2012 various documents including a trial balance as of September 30, 2012; a "Balance Sheet" as of September 30, 2012 ("Balance Sheet"); and a "Profit & Loss" report for the period October 1, 2011 through September 30, 2012 ("Profit and Loss Report").

13. Firm staff entered the information contained in the trial balance into a software program used by the Firm to generate financial statements. Firm staff then used the software to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of September 30, 2012, as well as the Statement of Income, Statement of Changes in Stockholder's Equity, and Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended September 30, 2012, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission.

14. In preparing the Statement of Financial Condition and Statement of Income, Firm staff aggregated line items, and added and deleted captions, as compared to corresponding information in the Balance Sheet and Profit and Loss Report obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

15. Firm staff also drafted the notes to the financial statements filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission.

16. Firm staff included in the work papers for the Audit copies of several pages from the Audit and Accounting Guide on Brokers and Dealers in Securities published by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. The text on those pages included the statements, "SEC Rule 17a-5 requires that the provisions set forth in SEC Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X be adhered to when determining whether the accountant is deemed to be independent" and "Auditors of nonissuer broker-dealers are restricted from performing those services specifically excluded by the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 and are expected to comply with all other SEC independence rules, including those that prohibit bookkeeping and the preparation of financial statements for nonissuer broker-dealers."

17. Firm staff emailed the Broker-Dealer a set of draft financial statements on November 13, 2012, and an additional draft set on November 19, 2012, for management approval.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

18. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, including the notes thereto, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[6]

19. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the audit of the Broker-Dealer's September 30, 2012 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order; (c) made payable to the

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Akiyo Yoshida, CPA, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2014-024 December 17, 2014

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Akiyo Yoshida, CPA ("Yoshida" or "Respondent"); (2) suspending him from being associated with a registered public accounting firm for a period of one year from the date of this Order; (3) limiting his activities in connection with any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), for an additional period of one year following the expiration of his suspension; and (4) requiring that he complete forty (40) additional hours of continuing professional education in subjects that are directly related to the audits of issuer financial statements under PCAOB standards. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Yoshida's violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the audit of the financial statements of Baldwin Technology Company, Inc. ("Baldwin") for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2010 ("FY 2010").

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Yoshida.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Yoshida has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Yoshida and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Yoshida consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Yoshida's Offer, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondent

1. Akiyo Yoshida, age 52, of Tokyo, Japan, is a certified public accountant ("CPA") licensed under the laws of the state of California (license no. 64454). In 2000, Yoshida's California CPA license became inactive. As a result, Yoshida is not required to meet California's continuing professional education requirements, and is not licensed to engage in the practice of public accountancy. At all relevant times, Yoshida was a partner in the Tokyo, Japan office of Grant Thornton Taiyo ASG, LLC ("GT Japan"),[3] a registered public accounting firm, and was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Yoshida's failures to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with his audit work concerning the revenue recognized by Baldwin-Japan, Limited ("BJL"), a material subsidiary of Baldwin. Baldwin's external auditor for FY 2010 was Grant Thornton LLP ("GT US"). Baldwin had subsidiaries in 11

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Yoshida's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

countries, and GT US used the work of other auditors, including GT Japan, to audit the financial reporting packages of Baldwin's subsidiaries. Baldwin consolidated these financial reporting packages into its FY 2010 consolidated financial statements, and GT US issued its audit report on Baldwin's consolidated financial statements.

3. BJL's revenue was included in net sales reported in Baldwin's FY 2010 consolidated financial statements. During FY 2010, BJL changed its revenue recognition policy. Prior to 2010, BJL's policy was to recognize revenue for both the sale and installation of equipment when installation was completed. In 2010, however, BJL began separating the elements of multiple-element arrangements. As a result, BJL began recognizing revenue from the sale of equipment at the time that the delivery of equipment occurred, instead of deferring that revenue until the installation of equipment was completed.

4. First, Yoshida was aware of the change in revenue recognition policy at the time of the FY 2010 audit, and he was instructed by GT US to test BJL's change in revenue recognition policy for compliance with U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("US GAAP"). Yoshida recognized, during audit planning, that the change in policy had the potential to cause material misstatements in BJL's FY 2010 financial reporting package.[4] Yoshida, however, failed adequately to test the change in revenue recognition policy to determine whether BJL had appropriate evidence to support separating deliverables in multiple-element arrangements pursuant to US GAAP.

5. Second, Yoshida failed to evaluate properly red flags that should have alerted him to the possibility that BJL may have been improperly accelerating the recognition of revenue during FY 2010. For example, while planning the audit, Yoshida recognized a risk of material misstatement related to fraud: "Since the power of the president of the company is relatively strong and the controller is new, the president could make employees accelerate sales recognition . . ." Yoshida, however, ignored red flags indicating that BJL may, in fact, have been improperly accelerating sales. Those red flags included BJL's recording of all of the material sales for the last month of FY 2010 on the last day of the fiscal year. Yoshida's failures compromised the audit's ability to detect the improperly accelerated sales at BJL.

6. This matter also concerns Yoshida's failure to supervise assistants in accordance with professional standards. Yoshida failed to review the work of assistants in order to determine whether their work was adequately performed and audit objectives were accomplished. One of the audit tests that Yoshida planned to perform to address the risk of improperly accelerated sales was to vouch sales to purchase orders and delivery documentation. Yoshida's review of the relevant work paper, however, did not provide him with sufficient information to determine if his assistants had tested whether BJL was delivering equipment at or near the date that its customers had requested delivery. In fact, BJL purportedly accelerated delivery for four of the 13 material sales recorded on the last day of FY 2010. For each of these orders, BJL's customers requested delivery in the fiscal year ended June 30, 2011 ("FY 2011"), but BJL purported to have delivered the equipment in FY 2010.

7. Finally, this matter concerns Yoshida's failure to ensure that he was technically proficient in relevant matters. Prior to FY 2010, Yoshida had never performed an audit that required testing whether the audit client was able to separate the elements of multiple-element arrangements in compliance with US GAAP. Yoshida, however, did not seek out training, and did not perform a sufficient review of the relevant professional guidance, in order to ensure that he would test BJL's new revenue recognition policy in accordance with professional standards.

C. Background

8. GT US audited the consolidated financial statements of Baldwin for the fiscal years ending June 30, 2007 through June 30, 2011. In auditing Baldwin's consolidated financial statements, GT US used the work of other independent auditors that were members of the Grant Thornton International Ltd. network of firms. GT US engaged GT Japan to audit the financial reporting packages prepared by BJL. At all relevant times, Yoshida was the GT Japan partner responsible for auditing BJL's financial reporting package.

9. Baldwin is a manufacturer of cleaning equipment and related consumable products used in the commercial printing industry. Baldwin has subsidiaries in 11 countries, including Japan. At all relevant times, Baldwin's common stock was registered under Section 12(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and was listed on the New York Stock Exchange. At all relevant times, Baldwin was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).[5]

[5] On March 30, 2012, Baldwin filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") a Form 15, Certification and Notice of Termination of Registration Under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or Suspension of Duty to File Reports Under Sections 13 and 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

10. In FY 2010, BJL was a material subsidiary of Baldwin. BJL was the largest contributor to Baldwin's FY 2010 consolidated net sales, constituting 26 percent, or approximately $40 million, of Baldwin's reported net sales. The vast majority of BJL's sales fell into two categories: (a) the sale and installation of blanket cleaning and spray dampening equipment (collectively, "equipment"); and (b) the sale of woven fabric, cleaning fluids, and spare parts used in BJL's equipment (collectively, "consumable products"). Equipment sales constituted more than half of BJL's total revenue in FY 2010.

The FY 2010 Audit

11. In June 2010, GT US sent Yoshida and his engagement team an International Assignment Memorandum ("IAM") containing instructions for Yoshida to follow in performing his audit work. The IAM instructed Yoshida that Baldwin's consolidated financial statements would be presented in conformity with US GAAP, and that Yoshida should conduct his audit work in accordance with PCAOB standards. The IAM instructed Yoshida to perform a full-scope integrated audit of BJL's financial reporting package.

12. After receiving the IAM, Yoshida sent GT US a letter stating that he would comply with the instructions contained in the IAM. This letter stated, in relevant part:

> [W]e confirm that we have received and reviewed the [FY 2010 IAM] as it relates to our work on [BJL's financial reporting package.]
> Our work will be carried out in accordance with the applicable US professional standards, and our personnel assigned to this engagement have the necessary knowledge and experience to perform their responsibilities. In addition, we understand the IAM instructions and anticipate no problems in responding by the due dates specified.

Yoshida signed this letter on July 7, 2010.

13. Approximately one month later, on August 12, 2010, Yoshida's engagement team sent GT US a reporting package concerning BJL. The reporting package did not identify any material unadjusted differences that were required to be made to BJL's FY 2010 financial reporting package. On September 28, 2010, the GT US partner for the Baldwin audit engagement authorized the release of GT US's audit report. The report contained an unqualified opinion on Baldwin's FY 2010 consolidated financial statements. On the same day, Baldwin filed its Form 10-K with the Commission. The Form 10-K contained Baldwin's FY 2010 consolidated financial statements, and GT US's audit report on those financial statements.

ORDER

Accounting Irregularities at BJL and Baldwin's Related Restatement

14. On May 10, 2011, Baldwin filed a Form 8-K with the Commission reporting that Baldwin's FY 2010 financial statements should no longer be relied upon. Baldwin reported that sales transactions recognized as revenue in the fourth quarter of FY 2010 should have been recognized as revenue in FY 2011. Baldwin reported that its premature recognition of revenue resulted from financial irregularities at BJL.

15. Two weeks later, on May 23, 2011, Baldwin filed a Form 10-K/A with the Commission. This filing contained Baldwin's restated FY 2010 financial statements. The restatement decreased consolidated net sales by 2.6 percent, or approximately $4 million, from approximately $152 million to approximately $148 million. The restatement decreased net income by 23 percent, from approximately $5 million to approximately $4 million. As a result of the restatement, Baldwin was in violation of the financial covenants contained in its revolving credit agreement. In March 2012, Baldwin was acquired by a private equity firm and Baldwin's stock ceased trading on the public markets.

16. In its restated financial statements, Baldwin disclosed, as follows: "In late February 2011, allegations surfaced that profits were being manipulated at the Company's Japanese subsidiary. The Audit Committee of the Board of Directors commissioned an investigation consisting of extensive employee interviews and audit procedures to review the allegations. The investigation confirmed the premature recognition of revenue and related costs primarily during the quarter ended June 30, 2010 through intentional circumvention of internal controls apparently intended to achieve sales and earnings forecasts previously submitted by the Japanese subsidiary to corporate senior management."

D. Yoshida Failed to Comply with PCAOB Standards in Connection with the Audit of BJL's FY 2010 Financial Reporting Package.

17. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with the Board's auditing standards.[6] Among other things, PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care, exercise professional skepticism, and obtain sufficient competent evidential matter to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements.[7]

18. Under PCAOB auditing standards, the auditor "has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud."[8] Because fraudulent financial reporting often results from an overstatement of revenues, including premature revenue recognition, "the auditor should ordinarily presume that there is a risk of material misstatement due to fraud relating to revenue recognition."[9] PCAOB auditing standards identify specific examples of fraud risks, including: (a) "significant declines in customer demand and increasing business failures in either the industry or overall economy;" and (b) the need "to obtain additional debt or equity financing to stay competitive."[10]

19. In forming judgments about the risk of a material misstatement due to fraud, PCAOB auditing standards provide: "The auditor should consider management's selection and application of significant accounting principles, particularly those related to subjective measurements and complex transactions. In this respect, the auditor may have a greater concern about whether the accounting principles selected and policies adopted are being applied in an inappropriate manner to create a material misstatement of the financial statements."[11]

20. PCAOB auditing standards state that "the auditor's assessment of the risks of material misstatement due to fraud should be ongoing throughout the audit."[12] Certain conditions identified during the audit may bear upon the auditor's assessment of the risk of fraud, including transactions that "are improperly recorded as to . . .

accounting period."[13] PCAOB auditing standards state, as well, that the auditor "should evaluate whether analytical procedures that were performed as substantive tests or in the overall review stage of the audit . . . indicate a previously unrecognized risk of material misstatement due to fraud."[14] PCAOB standards also note that trends and relationships may indicate a risk of material misstatement due to fraud: "Unusual year-end revenue and income often are particularly relevant. These might include, for example . . . uncharacteristically large amounts of income being reported in the last week or two of the reporting period from unusual transactions."[15]

21. PCAOB standards state that: "In evaluating whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles, the auditor should consider the effects, both individually and in the aggregate, of misstatements that are not corrected by the entity."[16] Further, the "consideration and aggregation of misstatements should include the auditor's best estimate of the total misstatements in the account balances or classes of transactions that he or she has examined."[17] PCAOB standards further state that: "Qualitative considerations also influence the auditor in reaching a conclusion as to whether misstatements are material."[18]

22. Yoshida failed to comply with these rules and standards in connection with the audit of BJL's FY 2010 financial reporting package.

Yoshida Was Aware of Certain Risks of a Material Misstatement at the Time of the FY 2010 Audit.

23. Yoshida was aware of numerous risks of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud, at the time of the FY 2010 audit. Yoshida did not take sufficient steps, however, in response to these known fraud risks. First, Yoshida knew that during the prior year, local management at the U.S. subsidiary of Baldwin had improperly accelerated revenue recognition by: (a) making shipments that were not supported by properly documented customer orders; and (b) recognizing revenue in a manner that did not conform with the terms of purchase orders.

24. Yoshida also knew that Baldwin was subject to bank debt covenants that required the company to meet sales targets in order to avoid being declared in default of its obligations under the terms of its loans. These bank covenants created an incentive for Baldwin and its subsidiaries, including BJL, to accelerate revenue recognition in order to ensure that Baldwin achieved its sales targets.

25. Yoshida also knew that demand for Baldwin's products had declined in FY 2010. This decline occurred in the context of a broader slowdown in the global economy. As Baldwin reported in its FY 2010 Form 10-K filing with the Commission:

> Since 2008, financial markets throughout the world have been experiencing disruption, including volatility in securities prices, diminished liquidity and credit availability, failure and potential failures of major financial institutions and unprecedented government support of financial institutions. These developments and the continuing economic downturn have and will adversely impact the Company's business and financial condition in a number of ways, including impacts beyond those typically associated with other recent downturns in the U.S. and foreign economies.

26. During audit planning, Yoshida and his engagement team recognized that revenue had a risk of material misstatement due to fraud. Yoshida understood that the President of BJL was powerful and could override internal controls. Further, the Controller of BJL was new. Yoshida expressly recognized the risk that the President of BJL could direct BJL's employees to improperly recognize revenue.

27. During audit planning, Yoshida specifically understood that sales cutoff was an area where the financial statements may be susceptible to material misstatement. He knew that BJL had changed its revenue recognition policy during the year under audit, and that this change in policy resulted in BJL accelerating its recognition of revenue from equipment sales. Yoshida understood that this change in revenue recognition policy could potentially cause material misstatements due to error in BJL's financial reporting package. Yoshida testified that he and his engagement team needed to "be very careful about the sales cutoff" because of: (a) the fraud risk that the President of BJL could force employees to accelerate sales recognition; and (b) the risk of errors in the timing of sales recognition due to the change in BJL's revenue recognition policy.

ORDER

Yoshida Failed Adequately to Test BJL's New Revenue Recognition Policy for Compliance with US GAAP.

28. In FY 2010, BJL changed its revenue recognition policy. Under the new policy, BJL would recognize revenue from equipment sales at the time that delivery of equipment occurred, and BJL would recognize revenue from the installation of equipment at the time that installation was completed. Previously, BJL's policy was to recognize revenue for both the sale and installation of equipment when installation was completed. Therefore, this change in policy had the effect of accelerating revenue recognition for equipment sales. Yoshida and his engagement team failed adequately to test the change in revenue recognition policy to determine whether BJL had appropriate evidence to support separating deliverables in multiple-element arrangements pursuant to US GAAP.

29. GT US instructed Yoshida to test BJL's new revenue recognition policy for compliance with US GAAP. On April 7, 2010, GT US emailed Yoshida supporting documents from BJL related to the change in revenue recognition policy, and instructed Yoshida that the attached documents "should be tested during interim for our FY 2010 audit." The documents that GT US sent to Yoshida included: (1) a client-prepared memorandum documenting BJL's new revenue recognition policy (the "Revenue Memo"); (2) a client-prepared spreadsheet calculating an hourly rate for the installation of BJL's equipment (the "Calculation Sheet"); and (3) four quotes from third-parties for the cost of installing BJL's equipment (the "Third-Party Quotes").

30. The US GAAP relevant to BJL's change in revenue recognition policy was Emerging Issues Task Force Issue No. 00-21, Revenue Arrangements with Multiple Deliverables ("EITF 00-21").[19] EITF 00-21 is used to determine whether an arrangement with multiple deliverables consists of more than one unit of accounting. If the arrangement consists of more than one unit of accounting, EITF 00-21 discusses how consideration for the arrangement should be allocated among the separate units of accounting. Because equipment will always be delivered prior to installation, there is a risk that a company will try to decrease the consideration allocated to the fair value of installation, in order to maximize the amount of revenue that the company can recognize upon delivery. EITF 00-21 requires, therefore, that the delivered item should [19] The accounting guidance in EITF 00-21 was codified in the FASB's Accounting Standard Codification ("ASC") Topic 605-25, Multiple-Element Arrangements, which became effective for interim and annual periods ending after September 15, 2009.

only be considered a separate unit of accounting if, among other things, there "is objective and reliable evidence of the fair value of the undelivered item(s)."[20]

31. Yoshida did not test management's assertions purportedly justifying BJL's change in revenue recognition policy that were outlined in the Revenue Memo. More specifically, the Revenue Memo contained BJL's estimate of the appropriate hourly rate for installing its equipment. Yoshida failed to test this estimate, despite the fact that GT US specifically instructed Yoshida to test the assertions in the Revenue Memo for compliance with US GAAP.

32. Yoshida and his engagement team, moreover, did not perform sufficient procedures to test whether BJL possessed objective and reliable evidence of the fair value of the installation element. More specifically, Yoshida did not adequately test the hourly labor rate that BJL used to estimate the fair value of installation. The Calculation Sheet took the Third-Party Quotes and made adjustments to deduct BJL-estimated amounts for outsourcing and travel expenses. This calculated adjustment resulted in a BJL-estimated total labor fee. BJL then took the BJL-estimated total labor fee and calculated an hourly rate using BJL management's own estimate of the number of hours that it would take BJL to install the equipment. BJL management used this hourly rate to estimate the cost of installation for multiple-element arrangements. Yoshida did not test either management's estimated fee adjustments, or management's estimate of the number of hours it would take BJL to install the equipment. Yoshida, therefore, did not gather sufficient competent evidential matter to determine whether BJL had objective and reliable evidence of the fair value of installation, as required by US GAAP.

Yoshida was Aware of Additional Red Flags in the Results of Audit Testing.

Sales Cutoff Tests

33. Yoshida also failed to take sufficient steps in light of audit evidence suggesting that BJL's financial reporting package may have been materially misstated due to error or fraud. Yoshida and his engagement team performed two procedures related to sales cutoff. The results of both tests contained red flags indicating that BJL's financial reporting package may have been materially misstated. Yoshida, however, [20] EITF 00-21 ¶ 9(b).

PCAOB

failed to exercise professional skepticism in assessing and evaluating the results of the cutoff tests.[21]

The Last/First Test

34. The first cutoff test that Yoshida and his engagement team performed involved selecting the last five sales from FY 2010 and first five sales from FY 2011, and testing whether each of these sales was recorded in the correct fiscal reporting period (the "Last/First" test). All sales, regardless of the amount or type of sale, were eligible for testing. The last five transactions of FY 2010 and the first five transactions of FY 2011 included sales of equipment as well as sales of consumable goods.

35. The Last/First test identified cutoff errors in four of the 10 sales selected for testing. In other words, for 40 percent of the selected transactions, BJL had recognized revenue in the wrong fiscal year. Three of the four sales were recognized as revenue in FY 2010, but should have been recognized as revenue in FY 2011. The fourth sale was recognized as revenue in FY 2011, but should have been recognized as revenue in FY 2010. And a fifth sale, for which BJL recognized revenue in FY 2010, could not be tested because BJL could not provide evidence to support the sale. Yoshida was aware of these cutoff errors at the time of the audit.

36. Yoshida did not consider whether to change the nature, timing, or extent of audit procedures in light of these cutoff errors. Yoshida considered neither the qualitative implications,[22] nor the quantitative implications,[23] of the forty-percent error

The auditor uses the knowledge, skill, and ability called for by the profession of public accounting to diligently perform, in good faith and with integrity, the gathering and objective evaluation of evidence.").

[22] See AU § 312.11 (noting that as "a result of the interaction of quantitative and qualitative considerations in materiality judgments, misstatements of relatively small amounts that come to the auditor's attention could have a material effect on the financial statements"); see also id. § 312.34 ("Qualitative considerations also influence the auditor in reaching a conclusion as to whether misstatements are material.").

rate in the results of the Last/First test. For example, three of the four cutoff errors involved sales of "clothroll," a consumable product used in BJL's equipment. In FY 2010, sales of clothroll totaled approximately $14 million, or more than one-third of BJL's approximately $40 million in total sales.

The Material Sales Test

37. For the second sales cutoff test, the engagement team examined quantitatively material sales for the last month of the fiscal reporting period (the "Material Sales" test). The threshold for the Material Sales test was set at approximately $110,000. Only transactions above this threshold were eligible for testing. The transactions selected for testing involved sales of equipment.

38. As part of BJL's change in revenue recognition policy, BJL created a document entitled the Product Delivery Completion Statement (the "Acceptance Form"). The Acceptance Form was used by BJL management to document that delivery of equipment occurred, such that BJL could recognize revenue from the sale of equipment at the time that BJL's customers accepted the equipment.

39. In planning the Material Sales test, Yoshida determined that his engagement team could rely on the Acceptance Forms. Yoshida and his engagement team did not receive the Acceptance Forms directly from BJL's customers. Rather, BJL sales associates provided these forms to BJL's sales administrators. BJL then provided these forms to Yoshida and his engagement team.

40. The results of the Material Sales test showed that BJL had 13 transactions over the threshold amount at year-end, and that each of these transactions was recorded on the last day of FY 2010.[24] The results of this test further indicated that BJL had no transactions over the threshold amount in the first month of the following fiscal year. PCAOB standards state that uncharacteristically large amounts of income being reported in the last week or two of the reporting period, from unusual transactions, may be evidence of a risk of material misstatement due to fraud.[25]

41. Yoshida was aware of the results of the Material Sales test at the time of the FY 2010 audit; however, Yoshida did not consider the results to be evidence of a risk of material misstatement due to fraud. He did not understand that late-entered transactions occurring at the end of a fiscal reporting period constituted a fraud risk. As a result, he failed to consider whether to change the nature, timing, or extent of audit procedures in consideration of the results of the Material Sales test. For example, Yoshida and his engagement team could have considered performing subsequent cash receipts testing to determine if BJL's customers paid for the equipment after the end of the fiscal year under audit. Yoshida and his engagement team, as well, could have considered obtaining third-party shipping documents supporting these sales.

Analytical Procedures

42. Yoshida also reviewed the results of analytical procedures that his engagement team performed. As a result of that review, Yoshida knew that BJL's sales had declined by 20 percent in FY 2010, while accounts receivable had increased by 11 percent. Yoshida took no steps to evaluate the relationship between these two trends. More specifically, Yoshida did not consider why sales increased toward the end of the year, in an amount sufficient to cause an 11 percent increase in accounts receivable, in the same year that total sales had decreased by 20 percent.

E. Yoshida Failed to Supervise Members of the GT Japan Engagement Team in Compliance with PCAOB Standards.

43. PCAOB standards required Yoshida to supervise the work of his assistants.[26] Supervision involves directing the efforts of assistants who are involved in accomplishing the objectives of the audit, keeping informed of significant problems encountered, reviewing work performed, and determining whether audit objectives were accomplished.[27] PCAOB standards require that the work performed by assistants be reviewed to determine whether the work was adequately performed.[28] Yoshida did not supervise his assistants in compliance with PCAOB standards.

44. During audit planning, Yoshida identified the fraud risk that BJL's President was powerful, its Controller was new, and BJL's President could override internal controls and direct BJL's employees to accelerate revenue recognition improperly. Also, Yoshida identified the risk of material misstatement due to error resulting from the fact that BJL had adopted a new, accelerated revenue recognition policy during FY 2010. Yoshida instructed the engagement team that they would need to be careful when performing sales cutoff testing.

45. Yoshida instructed his senior manager to follow the instructions in the IAM in order to test sales cutoff. Yoshida also reviewed and approved GT Japan's FY 2010 Revenue Audit Program, which instructed the engagement team to perform sales transaction testing as required by the IAM. The IAM, in turn, instructed Yoshida and the engagement team to obtain sales contracts in order to document material sales terms, including the date of sale. The IAM, as well, required Yoshida and his engagement team to trace sales transactions to purchase orders and delivery documentation.[29]

46. Yoshida understood that the work performed by his assistants needed to be reviewed in order to determine whether the work was adequately performed, and audit objectives were accomplished. Yoshida's review of the results of the Material Sales test, however, did not provide him with information sufficient to make these determinations. The Material Sales test work paper was not sufficiently detailed to show Yoshida if his assistants had reviewed sales terms, including sales dates. More specifically, the work papers contained no evidence that Yoshida's assistants had compared negotiated delivery dates, as indicated on purchase orders, with actual delivery dates, as purportedly indicated on the Acceptance Forms. Yoshida could not know from reviewing the Material Sales test work paper whether the identified risk of improperly recognized revenue was actually addressed by the engagement team's audit testing.[30] In fact, for four of the 13 Material Sales transactions, the customers had requested delivery to occur during FY 2011, yet BJL purportedly accelerated delivery to its customers, and recognized revenue from these sales, on the last day of FY 2010.

[29] In planning and performing the audit, PCAOB standards required Yoshida to understand the business arrangements of BJL and its customers. Id. §§ 311.06-.07. Auditors typically obtain and review purchase orders and sales agreements in order to determine that the sales recorded in the books and records of an audit client are consistent with the terms of the underlying contracts.

[30] See id. § 311.11 ("Supervision involves directing the efforts of assistants who are involved in accomplishing the objectives of the audit and determining whether those objectives were accomplished."); id. § 311.13 ("The work performed by each assistant should be reviewed to determine whether it was adequately performed . . .").

ORDER

F. Yoshida Failed to Comply with PCAOB Standards Related to Technical Training and Proficiency.

47. Due professional care requires the auditor to observe the standards of field work and reporting.[31] More specifically, due professional care requires that the engagement partner "should know, at a minimum, the relevant professional accounting and auditing standards and should be knowledgeable about the client."[32] Yoshida did not perform his audit work in compliance with these professional standards.

48. Yoshida knew at the time of the audit of BJL's FY 2010 financial reporting package that this would be his first audit engagement to involve evaluating the separability of deliverables in multiple-element arrangements, and the allocation of consideration among individual accounting units pursuant to EITF 00-21. Yoshida knew that he had never participated in an audit involving the application of EITF 00-21, whether as a staff or as a partner. Yoshida failed, however, to develop the necessary knowledge about EITF 00-21. Likewise, Yoshida failed to seek out additional training, and he failed to perform a sufficient review of the relevant professional guidance, in order to enable him to perform his audit work in accordance with professional standards.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Akiyo Yoshida's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Akiyo Yoshida is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Akiyo Yoshida is suspended for one (1) year from the date of this Order from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS

In the Matter of Morrill & Associates, LLC, Douglas W. Morrill, CPA, and Grant L. Hardy, CPA, Respondents.

January 12, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Morrill & Associates, LLC (the "Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration, and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 upon the Firm;[1] censuring Douglas W. Morrill, CPA ("Morrill"), barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, and making him jointly and severally liable for the Firm's civil monetary penalty;[2] and censuring Grant L. Hardy, CPA ("Hardy") and suspending him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for a period of one year from the date of this Order. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) Morrill and the Firm violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the audits of four issuer clients; (b) Morrill and the Firm violated Section 10A(j) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the Firm's audits of one issuer client; (c) Hardy violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with his engagement quality reviews ("EQRs") of the Firm's audits of three issuer clients; and (d) the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards and Morrill directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violation of PCAOB quality control standards.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Morrill may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against the Firm, Morrill, and Hardy (collectively "Respondents").

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions (the "Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[4] that:

A. Respondents

1. Morrill & Associates, LLC, is, and at all relevant times was, a sole

---

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondents in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that such sanctions may be imposed in the event of (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

proprietorship organized and licensed under the laws of the state of Utah (License no. 5168488-2603), and headquartered in Clinton, Utah. The Firm has been registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules since November 16, 2010.[5] At all relevant times, the Firm was the independent auditor for the issuers identified herein.

2. Douglas W. Morrill, 44, of West Haven, Utah, is the sole owner and managing partner of Morrill & Associates, LLC, and a certified public accountant licensed by the Utah Division of Occupational and Professional Licensing (License no. 3082647-2601). Morrill was the auditor with final responsibility for, and authorized the issuance of, the Firm's audits of the financial statements of The American Energy Group, Ltd. ("AEG"), COPsync, Inc. ("COPsync"), ForeverGreen Worldwide Corp. ("ForeverGreen"), and Fuelstream, Inc. ("Fuelstream"), identified below. At all relevant times, Morrill was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

3. Grant L. Hardy, 61, of Taylorsville, Utah, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Utah Division of Occupational and Professional Licensing (License no. 141081-2601), and a partner at a PCAOB registered firm other than Morrill & Associates, LLC. Hardy, a partner outside the Firm, served as the engagement quality reviewer and provided his concurring approval of issuance for the Firm's audit reports on COPsync and ForeverGreen's December 31, 2010 financial statements and AEG's June 30, 2011 financial statements. At all relevant times, Hardy was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

4. This matter concerns Morrill and the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the issuance of audit reports on the financial statements of four issuers over a two year period. As detailed below, Morrill and the Firm failed repeatedly, among other things, to obtain sufficient competent audit evidence, exercise due professional care, and exercise professional skepticism in connection with these audits.

[5] The Firm was previously registered with the PCAOB under the name of Bouwhuis, Morrill & Company, LLC from October 2003 until March 2009, at which time it withdrew its registration. The Firm reapplied for registration in October 2010, and the application was accepted by the Board on November 16, 2010.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

5. Morrill and the Firm also violated Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period. Morrill and the Firm were not independent with respect to the 2009 and 2010 audits of Fuelstream because Morrill resumed the role of lead audit partner within the five year cooling off period after having already served as the lead audit partner for the maximum five consecutive year period.[6]

6. Hardy violated PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7") by providing his concurring approval of issuance without performing with due professional care the EQRs required by this standard for the Firm's audits of COPsync and ForeverGreen's December 31, 2010 financial statements and AEG's June 30, 2011 financial statements.

7. Finally, the Firm failed to comply with PCAOB quality control standards in connection with the audits described herein, when it did not have procedures providing reasonable assurance that: the Firm and its personnel were independent from their audit clients;[7] the work performed by the engagement personnel met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality;[8] and the policies and procedures established by the firm for the elements of quality control described above were suitably designed and were being effectively applied.[9] The Firm also violated quality control standards by failing to communicate its quality control policies and procedures applicable to an EQR to Hardy[10] and failing to establish monitoring procedures sufficient to enable the Firm to obtain reasonable assurance that

C. Respondents' Violations of PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards, Independence Standards, and the Exchange Act

Morrill and the Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the Audits of COPsync, Fuelstream, ForeverGreen, and AEG

8. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[13] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[14] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care, exercise professional skepticism, and obtain sufficient competent evidence to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements.[15]

9. Additionally, PCAOB audit documentation standards provide that the documentation for an audit must contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement: (a) to understand the nature, timing, extent, and results of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached, and (b) to determine who performed the work and the date such work was completed as well as the person who reviewed the work and the date of such review.[16] Moreover, AS 3 requires an auditor to prepare an engagement completion document that identifies all "significant findings or issues," such as matters that could result in a modification of the audit report and audit adjustments[17] and assemble for retention a complete and final set of audit documentation as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date, defined in AS 3 as the "documentation completion date."[18]

10. As detailed below, Morrill and the Firm failed to comply with the aforementioned rules and standards, among others, in connection with the audits.

Reaudits of COPsync and Fuelstream's December 31, 2009 Financial Statements

11. COPsync is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Canyon Lake, Texas. COPsync's public filings disclose that it sells the COPsync™ service, which is a real-time data collection and information sharing solution for law enforcement agencies. Its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, COPsync was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

12. Fuelstream is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Fuelstream's public filings disclose that prior to April 2010, the Company operated under the name of "SportsNuts, Inc." and had been primarily engaged in sports marketing and management. Following its reorganization in April 2010, Fuelstream has operated as an in-wing and on-location supplier and distributor of aviation fuel to corporate, commercial, military, and privately-owned aircraft. Its common stock is quoted on the OTC Pink marketplace. At all relevant times, Fuelstream was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

13. COPsync and Fuelstream's 2009 financial statements were originally audited by Chisholm, Bierwolf, Nilson & Morrill, LLC ("CBNM"), where Morrill was an audit partner. On April 8, 2011, the Board revoked the registration of CBNM, and barred two of the firm's partners, Todd D. Chisholm, CPA, and Troy F. Nilson, CPA, from being associated persons of a registered public accounting firm.[19] As a result of the revocation of CBNM's registration by the Board, COPsync and Fuelstream could no longer include CBNM audit reports in future public filings, and their 2009 financial statements had to be reaudited by another registered firm to be included in their 2010 Form 10-Ks.

14. In March 2011, the Firm became COPsync and Fuelstream's external auditors and was engaged to perform an audit of their financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2009 and December 31, 2010. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 15, 2011, expressing an unqualified opinion on COPsync's 2009 and 2010 financial statements that was included in COPsync's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on the same day. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 14, 2011, expressing an unqualified opinion on Fuelstream's 2009 and 2010 financial statements that was included in Fuelstream's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 15, 2011. Morrill served as the auditor with final responsibility on the COPsync and Fuelstream engagements and authorized the issuance of all relevant audit reports.

15. PCAOB standards require that "[s]ufficient competent evidential matter is to be obtained through inspection, observation, inquiries, and confirmations to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[20] Where an auditor is asked to audit and report on financial statements that have been previously audited and reported on, the auditor is considered a successor auditor.[21] PCAOB standards permit a successor auditor, as part of a reaudit engagement, to "consider the information obtained from inquiries of the predecessor auditor and review the predecessor auditor's report and working papers in planning the reaudit."[22] However, the PCAOB standards make clear that "the information obtained from those inquiries and any review of the predecessor auditor's report and working papers is not sufficient to afford a basis for expressing an opinion."[23] The nature, timing, and extent of the audit work performed and the conclusions reached in the reaudit are solely the responsibility of the successor auditor performing the reaudit.[24]

16. Morrill and the Firm failed to comply with these standards. Morrill had no involvement with CBNM's 2009 audits of COPsync and Fuelstream, but obtained the predecessor auditor's workpapers for its 2009 audits through his prior association with CBNM. In violation of PCAOB standards, Morrill and the Firm failed to perform audit procedures or obtain sufficient competent evidential matter for the 2009 COPsync and Fuelstream reaudits. Although Morrill obtained updated trial balances for both issuers, Morrill and the Firm improperly relied on the predecessor auditor's substantive audit procedures and audit evidence as the basis for expressing the Firm's opinion on the reaudited 2009 financial statements that were filed with COPsync and Fuelstream's 2010 Form 10-Ks. Consequently, Morrill improperly authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit reports for COPsync and Fuelstream's 2009 financial statements, which incorrectly stated that the Firm had conducted its audits in accordance with PCAOB standards.[25]

Audit of COPsync's December 31, 2010 Financial Statements

17. Concurrent with the 2009 COPsync reaudit, Morrill and the Firm performed the audit of COPsync's December 31, 2010 financial statements. During the 2010 COPsync audit, Morrill and the Firm failed to perform sufficient audit procedures concerning revenue and deferred revenue. For 2010, total revenue was $2.4 million, while total deferred revenue was $1.1 million and accounted for 48% of COPsync's total liabilities. COPsync's Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2010 disclosed that its sales arrangements include Multiple-Element Arrangements, "which typically include computer hardware, hardware installation, license fees and other miscellaneous revenues related to training and interface development." COPsync also disclosed that, to the extent that the secondary deliverables are other than perfunctory, it recognized revenue on each deliverable, if separable, or on the completion of all deliverables, if not separable, based on the allocation of the deliverables' fair value. Furthermore, COPsync disclosed that its licensing fees are recognized on a monthly basis over the life of the licensing agreement when all revenue recognition criteria have been met.

18. Morrill identified revenue as a significant audit area and as a risk of fraud involving improper revenue recognition, and planned to perform extended procedures, as part of a substantive audit approach, in response to those risks. Other than obtaining COPsync's 2010 detailed sales ledger by revenue type and performing limited sales cut-off procedures at year-end, Morrill and the Firm failed to perform any other procedures related to revenue. Further, Morrill and the Firm failed to perform any procedures to test COPsync's deferred revenue. As a consequence, Morrill and the Firm failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter regarding COPsync's revenue and deferred revenue.

19. Morrill and the Firm also failed to perform sufficient audit procedures with respect to COPsync's capitalized software development costs. COPsync's capitalized software development costs were $1.7 million for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2010, and accounted for 75% of COPsync's total assets. Despite the significance of capitalized software development costs to COPsync's financial statements, Morrill and the Firm only obtained and reviewed a schedule from COPsync's management reflecting quarterly and cumulative capitalized software development costs and amortization expenses from inception to December 31, 2010. Morrill and the Firm failed to perform any other procedures concerning COPsync's capitalized software development costs and, as a result, failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter with respect to COPsync's capitalized software development costs.

Audit of ForeverGreen's December 31, 2010 Financial Statements

20. ForeverGreen is a Nevada corporation headquartered in Orem, Utah. ForeverGreen's public filings disclose that, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, it is engaged in the research, development, marketing and sales of whole foods, nutritional supplements, personal care products and essential oil. Its common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, ForeverGreen was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

21. The Firm issued an audit report dated May 12, 2011, expressing an unqualified opinion on ForeverGreen's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2010, that was included in ForeverGreen's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on May 16, 2011. Morrill served as the auditor with final responsibility on the ForeverGreen engagement and authorized the issuance of the audit report.

22. Morrill and the Firm failed to perform sufficient audit procedures concerning the goodwill on ForeverGreen's December 31, 2010 financial statements. ForeverGreen's goodwill on its December 31, 2010 financial statements was $7 million and accounted for 78% of its total assets during that period. Morrill identified other assets, which included goodwill, as a significant audit area while planning the 2010 ForeverGreen audit. As part of the audit, Morrill obtained and reviewed a schedule of management's annual goodwill impairment assessment that concluded goodwill was not impaired. Morrill and the Firm failed to perform any other audit procedures to evaluate whether ForeverGreen's goodwill was properly valued and, as a result, failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter with respect to ForeverGreen's goodwill.

23. In addition, PCAOB standards require an auditor to state whether a company's financial statements are presented in conformity with U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP") and to identify circumstances in which such principles have not been consistently observed.[26] Morrill failed to perform procedures to identify whether ForeverGreen's goodwill impairment testing was in conformity with GAAP during the 2010 audit.

24. On April 4, 2012, in a Form 8-K, ForeverGreen announced non-reliance on its financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2009 and December 31, 2010, based on the Firm's determination, following a PCAOB inspection, that ForeverGreen's goodwill impairment test was not performed in accordance with GAAP.[27] On September 28, 2012, ForeverGreen filed a Form 10-K/A with the Commission that amended and restated ForeverGreen's financial statements and related disclosures for the year ended December 31, 2010, impairing goodwill from $7 million down to zero. The Firm issued an audit report in connection with ForeverGreen's Form 10-K/A, dated June 3, 2011, except for Note 13, which was dated May 16, 2012.[28]

25. In addition, Morrill identified revenue as a significant audit area and as a risk of fraud involving improper revenue recognition while planning the 2010 ForeverGreen audit. In response to this risk, Morrill and the Firm planned to perform extended procedures as part of a substantive audit approach. For the year ended December 31, 2010, ForeverGreen reported revenue of $10.6 million. Despite the identified fraud risk and significance of revenue to ForeverGreen's financial statements, [28] The Firm was dismissed as ForeverGreen's external auditor on August 1, 2011, and the audit report on ForeverGreen's December 31, 2011 financial statements included in ForeverGreen's September 29, 2012 Form 10-K/A was issued by the successor firm.

ORDER

Morrill and the Firm failed to perform any audit procedures to test ForeverGreen's revenue during the 2010 audit. As a consequence, Morrill and the Firm failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter with respect to ForeverGreen's revenue.

Audit of AEG's June 30, 2011 Financial Statements

26. AEG is a Nevada corporation headquartered in Westport, Connecticut. AEG's public filings disclose that it is an independent oil and natural gas company, and that it now maintains and manages certain royalties and convertible working interests in oil and gas leases after it emerged from bankruptcy in 2004. Its common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, AEG was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

27. The Firm issued an audit report dated October 11, 2011, expressing an unqualified opinion on AEG's financial statements for the year ended June 30, 2011, that was included in AEG's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on October 13, 2011. Morrill served as the auditor with final responsibility on the AEG engagement and authorized the issuance of the audit report.

28. Morrill and the Firm failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to test AEG's investment in an oil and gas working interest that AEG disclosed in its Form 10-K as being acquired from a related party. AEG's investment in an oil and gas working interest was valued at approximately $1.6 million and accounted for 82% of AEG's total assets for the year ended June 30, 2011. In planning AEG's 2011 audit and assessing audit risk, Morrill identified other assets, which included AEG's investment in the oil and gas working interest, as a significant audit area.

29. During the AEG audit, Morrill obtained a memorandum prepared by management that relied primarily on excerpts and representations from the website of the operator of the acquired oil and gas working interests to support that the value of AEG's investment was not impaired. Beyond reviewing the memorandum and making inquiries of management, Morrill and the Firm failed to perform any other procedures to corroborate management's representations or otherwise obtain sufficient competent evidential matter that AEG's investment in the oil and gas working interest was appropriately valued as of June 30, 2011.

Audit Documentation Failure

30. In addition to the audit deficiencies identified above, Morrill and the Firm also failed to comply with AS 3 in connection with the audits described herein. For the

ORDER

Firm's 2009 COPsync and Fuelstream reaudits, Morrill failed to complete an engagement completion document that identified the significant findings or issues.[29]

31. Further, in connection with the 2010 COPsync and ForeverGreen audits and the June 30, 2011 AEG audit, the Firm's audit documentation did not indicate who performed the work and the date such work was completed, as well as the person who reviewed the work and date of such review.[30]

32. Finally, Morrill and the Firm failed to comply with AS 3 in connection with the 2010 COPsync audit by failing to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation by the documentation completion date.[31]

Morrill and the Firm Failed to Comply with Audit Partner Rotation Requirements

33. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[32] "[A] registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws."[33]

34. Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act provides, "[i]t shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm to provide audit services to an issuer if the lead (or coordinating) audit partner (having primary responsibility for the audit), or the audit partner responsible for reviewing the audit, has performed audit services for that issuer in each of the 5 previous fiscal years of that issuer."

33 PCAOB Rule 3520, Note 1.

ORDER

35. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 provides that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the partner rotation requirements of Commission Regulation S-X.

36. Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client when an audit partner performs the services of a lead or concurring audit partner for the same issuer for more than five consecutive years and within the five consecutive year period following the performance of services for the maximum period permitted.[34]

37. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the omission would directly and substantially contribute to violations by that firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards.[35]

38. While a partner at Bouwhuis, Morrill & Company, LLC, Morrill served five consecutive years as the lead audit partner for the audits of Fuelstream's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2003 through December 31, 2007.[36] The 2007 Fuelstream audit was Morrill's fifth consecutive year serving as the lead audit partner and, as a consequence, Morrill was prohibited from serving as Fuelstream's lead audit partner for the five consecutive years thereafter. For the fiscal years ended December 31, 2008 and December 31, 2009, Fuelstream was audited by CBNM and Morrill did not participate in the audits.

39. On March 31, 2011, after the Firm changed its name to Morrill & Associates, LLC, the Firm was reappointed as Fuelstream's auditor to audit Fuelstream's December 31, 2009 and December 31, 2010 financial statements and [36] Throughout this five year period, Bouwhuis, Morrill & Company, LLC had more than five public issuer clients and was subject to the audit partner rotation requirements of the Exchange Act and its related rules. 17 C.F.R. §§ 210.2-01(c)(6)(ii).

Morrill resumed his role as lead audit partner. On April 14, 2011, Morrill authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit report on Fuelstream's financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2009 and December 31, 2010, that was included in Fuelstream's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 15, 2011.

40. By resuming his role as Fuelstream's lead audit partner within the five consecutive year period following the performance of services for the maximum period permitted, Morrill failed to comply with Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 and PCAOB rules and standards, and the Firm failed to comply with Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, with Morrill directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act.

Hardy Failed to Comply with Engagement Quality Review Requirements

41. PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7, provides that an EQR and concurring approval of issuance are required for all audits and interim reviews for fiscal years beginning on or after December 15, 2009.[37] The Firm retained Hardy, a partner at another PCAOB registered firm, as the engagement quality reviewer for its audits of COPsync and ForeverGreen's December 31, 2010 financial statements, and AEG's June 30, 2011 financial statements.

42. Under AS 7, the engagement quality reviewer may provide concurring approval of issuance for an audit report only if, after performing with due professional care the review required by AS 7, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[38] AS 7 states that a significant engagement deficiency in an audit exists when: "(1) the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB, (2) the engagement team reached an inappropriate overall conclusion on the subject matter of the engagement, (3) the engagement report is not appropriate in the circumstances, or (4) the firm is not independent of its client."[39]

43. An engagement quality reviewer should evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[40] In performing an EQR for an audit, the engagement quality reviewer should, among other things, evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, significant risks, including fraud risks, identified by the engagement team or other significant risks identified by the engagement quality reviewer.[41] The engagement quality reviewer should also evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks and whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to matters reviewed.[42]

44. For the 2010 COPsync audit, Hardy failed to evaluate the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement team with respect to revenue, deferred revenue, and capitalized software development costs. Although Hardy specifically requested workpapers for revenue and capitalized software development costs from Morrill during his EQR, Hardy provided his concurring approval of issuance without ever obtaining those workpapers and without ever evaluating whether the engagement team had obtained sufficient competent evidential matter and whether appropriate conclusions were reached and documented for those audit areas. Further, Hardy failed to obtain and evaluate any audit engagement documentation with respect to COPsync's deferred revenue.

45. For the 2010 ForeverGreen audit, Hardy failed to evaluate the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement team with respect to revenue and goodwill impairment. Hardy failed to obtain and evaluate any audit engagement documentation with respect to ForeverGreen's revenue. In addition, although Hardy received and reviewed audit documentation of ForeverGreen's goodwill impairment assessment during the 2010 audit, Hardy failed to properly evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he reviewed supported the conclusions reached by the engagement team. The audit documentation reviewed by Hardy showed that the engagement team did not perform any audit procedures to test whether management's assertion for the valuation of goodwill was reasonable and that its goodwill impairment testing was in conformity with GAAP.

46. Further, Hardy failed to evaluate the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement team during the June 30, 2011 AEG audit with respect to AEG's investment in an oil and gas working interest. While Hardy obtained a workpaper from Morrill reflecting a memorandum prepared by AEG, Hardy failed to properly evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he reviewed supported the conclusions reached by the engagement team. The audit documentation reviewed by Hardy showed that there was no evidence of any supporting audit procedures performed by the audit engagement team regarding the valuation of AEG's investment in the oil and gas working interest.

47. As noted above, Morrill and the Firm failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter for a number of audit areas during the Firm's audits of COPsync and ForeverGreen's December 31, 2010 financial statements and AEG's June 30, 2011 financial statements. In failing to perform an EQR sufficient to discover these significant engagement deficiencies, Hardy provided his concurring approvals of issuance for these audits without performing his EQRs with due professional care, and his EQRs violated AS 7.

D. Morrill and the Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards Related to Quality Control

48. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards.[43] PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[44] PCAOB quality control standards state that policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that "personnel maintain independence . . . in all required circumstances" and "that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[45] PCAOB quality control standards make clear that the latter requirement also applies to engagement quality reviews.[46] Additionally, PCAOB quality control standards provide that policies and procedures "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control . . . are suitably designed and are being effectively applied," and that "its system of quality control is effective."[47] Finally, under PCAOB standards, quality control policies and procedures should be communicated to a firm's personnel in a manner that provides reasonable assurance that they are understood and complied with.[48]

49. PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation of Board standards by that firm.[49]

50. The Firm failed to have procedures providing reasonable assurance that the work performed by the engagement personnel, including the engagement quality reviewer, met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[50] As described above, Firm personnel, including the engagement quality reviewer, failed to perform procedures necessary to comply with PCAOB standards and regulatory requirements on multiple instances during the course of the audits described herein. The Firm also failed to communicate its quality control policies and procedures applicable to an EQR to Hardy.[51]

51. The Firm failed to have procedures providing reasonable assurance that the Firm and its personnel were independent from their audit clients and did not follow the policies in place during the audits. For example, Morrill and the Firm accepted and performed the Fuelstream engagement in March 2011, despite the Firm's policy that "the engagement and concurring partners shall rotate off the audit engagement after serving for five years (previously or prospectively) and shall remain off the engagement for a period of five additional years."

ORDER

52. Further, the Firm's system of quality control also failed to provide reasonable assurance that engagement personnel complied with PCAOB audit documentation requirements, as set forth in AS 3. As noted above, as a result, the Firm's audits violated AS 3 in multiple respects.

53. Overall, the Firm's monitoring procedures, taken as a whole, did not enable the Firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was effective.[52] For example, the Firm did not take appropriate steps to monitor whether its associated persons were, in fact, complying with policies and procedures related to audit partner rotation requirements and engagement performance, neither of which were effective.

54. Morrill, as the Firm's owner and sole audit partner, had responsibility for the development, maintenance, communication, and monitoring of the Firm's quality control policies and procedures. In connection with the audits described herein, Morrill took, or omitted to take, actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of PCAOB quality control standards, in contravention of PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Morrill & Associates, LLC, Douglas W. Morrill, and Grant L. Hardy are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Douglas W. Morrill is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[53]

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Madsen & Associates CPAs, Inc., and Ted A. Madsen, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-002 January 15, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Madsen & Associates CPAs, Inc. ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, and revoking the Firm's registration;[1] and censuring Ted A. Madsen, CPA ("Madsen") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and/or Madsen (collectively, "Respondents") repeatedly violated PCAOB rules, auditing standards and quality control standards, violated Section 10A(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and failed to timely disclose certain reportable events to the Board on PCAOB Form 3.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Madsen may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[4] that:

A. Respondents

1. Madsen & Associates CPAs, Inc. is, and at all relevant times was, a corporation organized under Utah law, and headquartered in Salt Lake City, Utah. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and is licensed by the Utah Board of Accountancy (license no. 956535-2603). At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

2. Ted A. Madsen, CPA, age 60, is, and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the Utah Board of Accountancy (license no. 132743-2601). At all relevant times, Madsen owned a controlling interest in the Firm and was the Firm's quality control partner. Madsen is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondents in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that each Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' failures to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the audit of the financial statements of Sino Agro Food, Inc. ("Sino Agro") for the year ended December 31, 2011, and the audit of the financial statements of REDtone Asia, Inc. ("REDtone") for the year ended May 31, 2011.

4. In the case of each audit, Respondents hired Hong Kong-based engagement team members who performed most of the audit work. Madsen violated PCAOB standards by failing to properly supervise the work of those engagement team members and to review their work to determine its proper performance.

5. Despite identifying possible manipulation of revenue as "[a] high priority" for the Sino Agro audit, Respondents failed to identify and assess, or failed to ensure that the engagement team had identified and assessed, the risks of material misstatement of revenue at the assertion level as required by PCAOB standards. Moreover, with respect to three long-term contracts that Sino Agro accounted for using the percentage-of-completion method and that generated thirty percent of the issuer's annual revenue, Respondents and the engagement team failed to assess the reasonableness of the estimates underlying management's percentage-of-completion calculations, and failed to audit total costs incurred and management's estimates of total costs to completion. Further, despite evidence in the work papers suggesting related-party transactions not disclosed in Sino Agro's financial statements, Respondents and the engagement team failed to perform adequate procedures to identify and test the valuation of related-party transactions and to test whether Sino Agro's related-party disclosures were complete and accurate. Respondents and the engagement team also failed to consider whether a possible undisclosed transaction between Sino Agro and its chief executive officer constituted an illegal act, and as a result, Respondents violated Section 10A(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") by failing to include audit procedures designed to provide reasonable assurance of detecting illegal acts that would have a direct and material effect on the financial statements.

6. Despite identifying overstatement of revenue as an audit and fraud risk for the REDtone audit, Respondents failed to perform, or failed to ensure that the engagement team had performed, audit procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that the issuer's reported revenues were fairly stated. Moreover, Respondents and the engagement team failed entirely to test REDtone's reported accounts receivable balance.

7. The Firm also failed to comply with PCAOB quality control standards in connection with both audits, and Madsen took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB quality control standards. Finally, the Firm failed timely to disclose certain reportable events to the Board on Form 3 as required by PCAOB rules.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

8. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[6]

9. For audits of fiscal years ("FY") beginning before December 15, 2010, those standards require, among other things, that the auditor obtain sufficient competent evidence to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements,[7] and that the efforts of assistants who perform work on the audit are properly supervised and that their work is reviewed to determine that it was adequately performed.[8] For audits of fiscal years beginning on or after December 15, 2010, those standards require, among other things, that the auditor plan and perform the audit to obtain appropriate audit evidence that is sufficient to support the opinion expressed in the auditor's report;[9] those standards also make the engagement partner responsible for proper supervision of engagement team members, including that their work be reviewed to evaluate whether it was properly performed and documented.[10]

ORDER

10. PCAOB standards further require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in performing the audit.[11] In addition, PCAOB standards require the auditor to obtain satisfaction concerning the purpose, nature, and extent of related party transactions through the performance of certain procedures that extend beyond management inquiry.[12] Those standards also require the auditor to evaluate the information available concerning related party transactions in order to satisfy the auditor that they have been adequately disclosed in the financial statements.[13] PCAOB standards also require the auditor to obtain and evaluate sufficient appropriate evidential matter to support significant accounting estimates, and to evaluate the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management.[14] Moreover, PCAOB standards require the auditor to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at both the financial statement level and the assertion level.[15]

Audit of Sino Agro's FY 2011 Financial Statements

11. At all relevant times, Sino Agro was a Nevada corporation with its principal executive offices in Guangzhou, People's Republic of China ("PRC"). Sino Agro's public filings disclosed that it was an integrated developer, producer and distributor of organic food and agricultural products in the PRC.[16] At all relevant times, Sino Agro's common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the Pink OTC Markets.[17] At all relevant times, Sino Agro was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

12. On April 10, 2012, Madsen, as the engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report expressing an unqualified opinion on Sino Agro's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011. The report was included in

Sino Agro's Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") on April 12, 2012.

13. As the engagement partner on the FY 2011 Sino Agro audit, Madsen was responsible for the engagement and its performance, including compliance with PCAOB standards.[18] Respondents hired Hong Kong-based engagement team members to perform most of the audit procedures. Madsen was responsible for properly supervising the work of those engagement team members, including reviewing their work to evaluate whether it was performed and documented; whether the objectives of the procedures were achieved; and whether the results of the work supported the conclusions reached.[19] Madsen failed to properly supervise the work of engagement team members who performed procedures in the audit areas discussed below, and failed properly to review that work.

14. The work papers documented that "revenue recognition and manipulation of revenue/expenses is [a] high priority for [the] audit," but Respondents failed to identify and assess, or failed to ensure that the engagement team had identified and assessed, the risks of material misstatement of revenue at the assertion level as required by A.S. 12. Sino Agro reported total consolidated revenue of $51.8 million in 2011, thirty percent of which ($15.8 million) was generated from three long-term contracts entered into that year to provide consulting and construction services to related joint party ventures in connection with the construction of fish farms and hatcheries.[20] Sino Agro disclosed that revenues from these and other long-term contracts were accounted for under the percentage-of-completion method, in accordance with Financial Accounting Standards Board Accounting Standards Codification Topic 605, Revenue Recognition.[21] Sino Agro's disclosures explained that under the percentage-of-completion method, "[t]he percentage of costs incurred determines the amount of revenue to be recognized… For fixed-price contracts, the Company uses the ratio of costs incurred to date on the contract … to management's estimate of the contract's total costs, to determine the percentage of completion on each contract."[22]

ORDER

15. Respondents failed to obtain, or failed to ensure that the engagement team had obtained, sufficient audit evidence regarding the reasonableness of the estimates underlying management's percentage-of-completion calculations.[23] Further, the engagement team failed to audit the total costs incurred to date (through December 31, 2011) on the contracts, or Sino Agro's estimates of the total costs to completion.

16. Respondents failed to perform, or failed to ensure that the engagement team had performed, adequate procedures to determine the existence of related parties, to identify related-party transactions, and to test the valuation of identified related-party transactions. Moreover, Respondents failed to perform, or failed to ensure that the engagement team had performed, procedures to determine whether all significant related-party transactions and balances had been properly disclosed in Sino Agro's financial statements, and whether Sino Agro's related-party disclosures were complete and accurate.[24] Indeed, a management-prepared schedule in the work papers indicated that Sino Agro and a related party had entered into a prawn hatchery and nursery contract valued at $8.08 million. That contract was not disclosed in Sino Agro's public filings, and there is no explanation in the work papers of why such disclosure was not made.

17. Other information in the work papers also conflicts with Sino Agro's related-party disclosures in the footnotes to its financial statements. Specifically, the work papers reflected that at the end of 2011, Sino Agro's chairman and chief executive officer owed an "other receivable" in the amount of ¥2.48 million (or approximately $350,000) to a Sino Agro subsidiary. The work papers provided no explanation of why that amount due from the chairman and chief executive officer was not disclosed in the notes to Sino Agro's financial statements, even though a lesser amount due from him was disclosed. Finally, Respondents failed to consider, or failed to ensure that the engagement team had considered, whether the undisclosed transaction between Sino Agro and its chairman and chief executive officer might constitute an illegal act. As a result, Respondents violated Section 10A(a) of the Exchange Act by failing to include in the audit, procedures designed to provide reasonable assurance of detecting illegal REDtone's public filings disclosed that it was in "the business of offering discounted call services…and paperless reload services for prepaid mobile air-time reload for end users in Shanghai [PRC] covering all three major telecommunications operators, namely China Mobile, China Unicom, and China Telecom," each of which was a PRC state-run entity.[26] At all relevant times, REDtone's common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, REDtone was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

19. On August 26, 2011, Madsen, as the engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report expressing an unqualified opinion on REDtone's financial statements for the year ended May 31, 2011. The report was included in REDtone's Form 10-K/A filed with the Commission on October 28, 2011.[27]

20. Respondents hired Hong Kong-based assistants to perform most of the audit procedures. Madsen was the auditor with final responsibility for the FY 2011 REDtone audit and supervised the work of those assistants. Madsen failed to properly supervise the work of assistants who performed procedures in the audit areas discussed below, and failed to review that work to ensure that it was adequately performed.[28]

21. In FY 2011, REDtone reported total consolidated revenue of $5.4 million, 84% of which was generated by two subsidiaries that marketed and distributed call services in the PRC through arrangements with state-run telecommunication entities.[29]

[26] REDtone Asia, Inc., Form 10-K/A for the year ended May 31, 2011 (October 28, 2011).

[27] In its Form 10-K/A filed on October 28, 2011, REDtone indicated that the Firm's audit report was inadvertently omitted from REDtone's Form 10-K for the year ended May 31, 2011, which was filed with the Commission on August 31, 2011.

ORDER

Respondents and the engagement team identified overstatement of revenue as an audit and fraud risk. Respondents failed to perform, or failed to ensure that the engagement team had performed, audit procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that REDtone's FY 2011 revenues were fairly stated. The only procedures performed by the engagement team were walk-throughs of a single telephone call transaction for two subsidiaries and, for a small sample of transactions involving the same subsidiaries, a comparison of revenue amounts recorded in REDtone's general ledger with amounts reflected in sales reports generated by REDtone's information system. Regarding the latter testing, there was no evidence that test selections were made from a complete population of sales transactions. This limited testing failed to address the occurrence of REDtone's revenues and addressed accuracy only to the extent that REDtone's general ledger postings agreed to its own internal sales records.

22. In 2011, REDtone reported accounts receivable totaling $645,000 (or approximately 5% of the company's total assets of $12.6 million),[30] which were material to REDtone's FY 2011 financial statements. Because REDtone's receivable balance consisted primarily of receivables from two state-run entities, Respondents and the engagement team concluded that confirmation testing would be ineffective. While the audit plan included alternative procedures to test the receivable balance by tracing receivables to subsequent cash receipts, no such testing or any other testing of accounts receivable was performed.

D. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards And Madsen Contributed to Those Violations

23. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[31] which, in turn, require that a registered public accounting firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[32] Under PCAOB quality control standards, a firm should establish policies and procedures that "provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[33] The standards also provide that policies and procedures "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control . . . are suitably designed and are being effectively applied," and that "its system of quality control is effective."[34] Those procedures should encompass "all phases of the design and execution of the engagement," including "planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement."[35]

24. The Firm failed to comply with these PCAOB quality control standards in connection with the FY 2011 Sino Agro and REDtone audits. Specifically, at all relevant times, the Firm failed to put in place policies and procedures to ensure that engagement personnel performed the audit procedures necessary to comply with all PCAOB auditing standards. As a result, in multiple instances, engagement personnel failed to complete necessary audit work before the Firm released its audit opinions for the FY 2011 Sino Agro and REDtone audits.

25. As evidenced by the multiple audit violations in each of the audits discussed above, the Firm's system of quality controls and quality control procedures did not provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality, and did not provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the Firm were effectively applied.

26. PCAOB Rule 3502 prohibits an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation of Board standards by that firm.[36] Madsen, the managing member of the Firm, was principally responsible for designing, implementing, and monitoring the Firm's system of quality control. Accordingly, Madsen had overall responsibility for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. All of the Firm's conduct described above constitutes acts or omissions to act by Madsen for which he was responsible. Madsen knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's quality control violations described above. As a result, he violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

E. The Firm Failed to Timely Disclose Certain Reportable Events to the Board

27. Promulgated pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[37]

28. By December 31, 2009, Madsen was aware that the Commission had sued L. Rex Andersen, CPA ("Andersen"), who then was partner of the Firm performing issuer audits, in a civil fraud action in federal district court relating to his work concerning an issuer audit that predated his association with the Firm.[38] On or about May 17, 2010, Madsen became aware, from reading a Commission release, that a final judgment and permanent injunction had been entered against Andersen in the aforementioned civil action.[39] On or about June 10, 2010, Madsen became aware, again from reading a Commission release, that Andersen had been named a respondent in public administrative proceedings pursuant to Rule 102(e)(3) of the Commission's Rules of Practice.[40] Although each of those three events constituted a reportable event, the Firm failed to file Forms 3 reporting the events to the Board.[41]

29. The Firm also failed timely to disclose that it had been named a respondent in an administrative disciplinary proceeding initiated by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy ("Texas Board") in October 2011, or that the proceeding had been concluded on January 19, 2012. Madsen was aware of each of these reportable events at the times they occurred. However, the Firm did not file a Form 3

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Madsen & Associates CPAs, Inc. and Ted A. Madsen, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Ted A. Madsen, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[43]

C. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Ted A. Madsen, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Madsen & Associates CPAs, Inc. is revoked; and [43] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Madsen. Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act provides that "[i]t shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

ORDER

E. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Madsen & Associates CPAs, Inc. may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of R.A. Bianchi & Associates, An Accountancy Corporation, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-003 January 22, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring R.A. Bianchi & Associates, An Accountancy Corporation ("Respondent" or "Bianchi") and revoking Respondent's registration. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely file an annual report in 2013 and 2014 and failure to pay an annual fee in 2013 and 2014.

I.

On September 10, 2014, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") (as amended) and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement, Bianchi did not file an answer indicating the firm's consent or lack of consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Bianchi is a corporation located in Woodland Hills, California. Bianchi is licensed by the California Board of Accountancy to engage in the practice of public accounting (License No. COR 6798), but such license is in "delinquent" status. Bianchi registered with the Board on May 8, 2012, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2 . . . ." PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing Annual Report, sets forth that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and Rule 2200, Bianchi failed to timely file an annual report for 2013 and 2014.

3. In addition, pursuant to Section 102(f) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must pay an annual fee to the Board on or before July 31 . . . ." In violation of Rule 2202, Bianchi failed to pay its annual fee for 2013 and 2014.

C. Subsequent Events

4. The Board instituted these proceedings on September 10, 2014.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

5. On November 25, 2014, Bianchi filed its annual reports for 2013 and 2014.

6. To date, Bianchi has not paid its annual fees for 2013 and 2014.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Bianchi is censured; and

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Bianchi is revoked.

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Brown and Company CPAs PC, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-004 February 3, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Brown and Company CPAs PC ("Respondent" or "Brown and Company") and revoking Respondent's registration. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely file an annual report in 2013 and 2014 and failure to pay an annual fee in 2011, 2012, 2013, and 2014.

I.

On September 10, 2014, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") (as amended) and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement, Brown and Company was deemed to have answered, but did not indicate the firm's consent or lack of consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Brown and Company is a partnership located in Woodbury, New Jersey. Brown and Company was licensed by the New Jersey State Board of Public Accountancy to engage in the practice of public accounting (License No. 20CB00633800). Brown and Company registered with the Board on March 29, 2010, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2 . . . ." PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing Annual Report, sets forth that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and Rule 2200, Brown and Company failed to timely file an annual report for 2013 and 2014.

3. In addition, pursuant to Section 102(f) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must pay an annual fee to the Board on or before July 31 . . . ." In violation of Rule 2202, Brown and Company failed to pay its annual fee for 2011, 2012, 2013, and 2014.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Dustin M. Lewis, CPA, and Eric S. Bullinger, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-005 April 1, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring Dustin M. Lewis, CPA ("Lewis"), barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, and imposing upon him a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000;[1] and (2) censuring Eric S. Bullinger, CPA ("Bullinger") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2]

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that in connection with multiple audits, Lewis and Bullinger repeatedly violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Lewis and Bullinger (collectively "Respondents").

[1] Lewis may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) year from the date of this Order.

[2] Bullinger may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Dustin M. Lewis, age 40, of Henderson, Nevada, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. CPA-3205). At all relevant times, Lewis was a partner in the Las Vegas, Nevada office of L.L. Bradford & Company LLC (the "Firm" or "L.L. Bradford"), and was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Lewis is no longer employed by L.L. Bradford and is currently self-employed.

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that each Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

2. Eric S. Bullinger, age 44, of Worland, Wyoming, is a certified public accountant licensed under the laws of Wyoming (License No. 2741).[5] At all relevant times, Bullinger was a partner in the Las Vegas, Nevada office of L.L. Bradford, and was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Bullinger separated from L.L. Bradford in January 2013. Bullinger is currently employed at an entity that is not a registered public accounting firm.

B. Summary

1. This matter relates to repeated violations of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 and PCAOB rules and standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's audit clients throughout the audit and professional engagement periods. Lewis was not independent with respect to five issuer audit clients because Lewis served as either lead partner or concurring partner on five issuer audits for a combined period of more than five consecutive years.[6] Bullinger was not independent with respect to six issuer audit clients because: (1) Bullinger served as lead partner on four issuer audits for more than five consecutive years; and (2) Bullinger served as either lead partner or concurring partner on two issuer audits for a combined period of more than five consecutive years.[7]

2. This matter also concerns Bullinger's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to two issuer audit clients because Bullinger served as engagement quality reviewer immediately after serving as the engagement partner without satisfying the mandatory two year "cooling-off" period.[8]

[5] During the relevant period, Bullinger was a certified public accountant licensed under the laws of Nevada (License No. 3735). Bullinger voluntarily surrendered his Nevada license effective December 31, 2014.

ORDER

3. In addition, this matter concerns Lewis's violation of AS 7 with respect to the engagement quality review he performed for L.L. Bradford's audit and review of an issuer audit client.

C. Lewis and Bullinger Violated PCAOB and Exchange Act Rules and PCAOB Auditing Standards

Lewis and Bullinger Failed to Comply with Audit Partner Rotation Requirements and Bullinger Violated the Mandatory "Cooling-Off" Period

4. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[9] PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[10] A registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") under the federal securities laws.[11]

5. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 provides that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the partner rotation requirements of Commission Regulation S-X.

6. Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client when an audit partner performs the services of lead or concurring audit partner for the same issuer for more than five consecutive years and within the five consecutive year period following the performance of services for the

AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[13] Further, paragraph 8 of AS 7 provides: "The person who served as the engagement partner during either of the two audits preceding the audit subject to the engagement quality review may not be the engagement quality reviewer."

8. As described below, Bullinger and Lewis failed to comply with Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 and PCAOB rules and standards.

Audits of All American SportPark, Inc.'s Financial Statements

9. At all relevant times, All American SportPark, Inc. ("AASP") was a Nevada corporation with its headquarters in Las Vegas, Nevada. AASP's public filings disclosed that it was a smaller reporting company as defined by Rule 12b-2 of the Exchange Act and operated a golf facility in Las Vegas, Nevada. Its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, AASP was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

10. L.L. Bradford was engaged as All American SportPark's external auditor in May 2006. The Firm issued six unqualified audit reports on AASP's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2006 through December 31, 2011. Each of those six audit reports was included in a Form 10-K or 10-KSB that AASP filed with the Commission.

11. Lewis served as the lead partner on the audit of AASP for 2006. Thereafter, Lewis served as concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer on the audits of AASP between 2007 and 2010. After serving as lead or concurring partner for the aforementioned five year period, Lewis continued to serve as the engagement quality reviewer on the audit of AASP's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011 and on the review of ASAP's March 31, 2012 financial statements, in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

12. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of AASP between 2007 and 2011. After serving for the five year period, Bullinger continued to serve as lead partner on the review of AASP's March 31, 2012 quarterly financial statements in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

Audits of Brownie's Marine Group, Inc.'s Financial Statements

13. At all relevant times, Brownie's Marine Group, Inc. ("Brownie's") was a Nevada corporation with its headquarters in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Brownie's public filings disclosed that it was a smaller reporting company as defined by Rule 12b-2 of the Exchange Act and was engaged in the design, testing, manufacturing, and distribution of recreational hookah diving, yacht based scuba air compressor and nitrox generation systems, and scuba and water safety products. Its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, Brownie's was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

14. L.L. Bradford was engaged as Brownie's external auditor in April 2004. The Firm issued eight unqualified audit reports on Brownie's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2004 through December 31, 2011. Each of those eight audit reports was included in a Form 10-K or 10-KSB that Brownie's filed with the Commission.

15. Lewis served as lead partner on the audits of Brownie's financial statements for three consecutive fiscal years, between 2004 and 2006. Lewis thereafter served as concurring partner on the Firm's next two audits of Brownie's financial statements between 2007 and 2008. After serving as lead or concurring partner for the aforementioned five year period, Lewis continued to serve as the concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer on the audits of Brownie's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2009 and December 31, 2010, in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

16. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of Brownie's financial statements between 2007 and 2011. After serving as lead partner for the aforementioned five year period, Bullinger then served as engagement quality reviewer on the reviews of Brownie's March 31, 2012, June 30, 2012, and September 30, 2012 quarterly financial statements, in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220. Because Bullinger served as the engagement quality reviewer

Audits of Bravo Enterprises Ltd.'s Financial Statements

17. At all relevant times, Bravo Enterprises Ltd. (formerly known as Organa Gardens International and Shotgun Energy Corp.) ("Bravo") was a Nevada corporation with its headquarters in Patchogue, New York. Bravo's public filings disclosed that it was a smaller reporting company as defined by Rule 12b-2 of the Exchange Act and engaged in the manufacturing, distribution, and marketing of water harvesting equipment. Its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, Bravo was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

18. L.L. Bradford was engaged as Bravo's external auditor in December 2006. The Firm issued six unqualified audit reports on Bravo's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2006 through December 31, 2011. Each of those six audit reports was included in a Form 10-K or 10-KSB that Bravo filed with the Commission.

19. Lewis served as the lead partner on the audit of Bravo's financial statements for 2006 and as the concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer on the audits of Bravo's financial statements between 2007 and 2010. After serving as lead partner or concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer for the aforementioned five year period, Lewis continued to serve as the engagement quality reviewer on the audit of Bravo's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011, in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

20. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of Bravo's financial statements between 2007 and 2011. After serving for the five year period, Bullinger then continued to serve as lead partner on the review of Bravo's March 31, 2012 quarterly financial statements, in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

On May 14, 2013, Terralene filed a Form 15 to deregister its common stock. At all relevant times, Terralene was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

22. L.L. Bradford was engaged as Terralene's external auditor in December 2006. The Firm issued six unqualified audit reports on Terralene's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2006 through December 31, 2011. Each of those six audit reports was included in a Form 10-K or 10-KSB that Terralene filed with the Commission.

23. Lewis served as lead partner on the audit of Terralene's 2006 financial statements and as the concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer on the audits of Terralene's financial statements between 2007 and 2010. After serving as lead partner or concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer for the aforementioned five year period, Lewis continued to serve as the engagement quality reviewer on the audit of Terralene's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011, in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

24. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of Terralene's financial statements between 2007 and 2011. After serving for the five year period, Bullinger then served as engagement quality reviewer on the review of Terralene's March 31, 2012 and June 30, 2012 quarterly financial statements, in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220. Because Bullinger served as the engagement quality reviewer immediately after serving as lead partner on Terralene's audits, Bullinger also violated AS 7. [15]

Audits of Solar Energy Initiatives, Inc.'s Financial Statements

The Firm issued five unqualified audit reports on U-Swirl's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2007 through December 31, 2011. Each of those five audit reports was included in a Form S-1/A or Form 10-K that U-Swirl filed with the Commission.

30. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of U-Swirl for the fiscal years 2007 through 2011. After serving on the audit of five fiscal year periods, Bullinger then continued to serve as lead partner on the review of U-Swirl's March 31, 2012 quarterly financial statements, in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

Bullinger's Violations Continued After Notice from PCAOB Inspectors

31. In connection with a June 2012 inspection of L.L. engagement quality review partner on the issuers identified by PCAOB inspections staff. Contrary to that representation, Bullinger continued as the engagement quality reviewer on the reviews of Brownie's June 30, 2012 and September 30, 2012 interim financial statements and the review of Terralene's June 30, 2012 interim financial statements, even after learning that he had violated the audit partner rotation requirements with respect to those issuers.

Lewis Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with the Audit of the 2011 Financial Statements of WebXU

32. WebXU, Inc. ("WebXU") was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in Los Angeles, California. WebXU's public filings disclosed that it was a media company engaged in developing high-value branded websites to service consumers for products and services. During the relevant period, its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board.[16] At all relevant times, WebXU was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

33. L.L. Bradford became the auditor for WebXU on December 5, 2011. L.L. Bradford audited WebXU's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011, and issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion dated April 9, 2012, which was included in WebXU's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 9, 2012. The audit report stated that, in L.L. Bradford's opinion, WebXU's financial statements presented fairly, in all material respects, the issuer's financial position in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") and that L.L. Bradford's audit was performed in accordance with PCAOB standards. Lewis served as the engagement quality reviewer on the 2011 audit of WebXU and provided concurring approval for the issuance of the Firm's audit report.

engagement to review interim financial information."[17] Under PCAOB standards, the engagement quality reviewer for an audit should, among other things, (1) "evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to . . . [s]ignificant risks identified by the engagement team . . . and . . . [o]ther significant risks identified by the engagement quality reviewer;" and (2) "evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed . . . [s]upports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed."[18]

35. Lewis violated PCAOB standards as the engagement quality reviewer for the 2011 WebXU audit in numerous respects. First, he failed to properly evaluate the audit engagement team's assessment of and audit responses to significant risks.[19] During audit planning, the engagement team failed to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement and assertion level. The engagement team's assessment of risk was limited to assessing inherent risk, control risk, and audit risk. The risks of material misstatement were not properly assessed. Furthermore, the engagement team's risk assessment was performed at a level of aggregation above that permitted by PCAOB standards. For example, the engagement team assessed risk on all assets collectively. A similar approach was taken with liabilities. As a result, cash carried the same risk assessment as goodwill (identified in the financial statements as "Investment in Lot6"). Accordingly, the engagement team failed to recognize or document significant risks at a financial statement and assertion level, yet Lewis failed to identify that deficiency.[20]

36. Second, in violation of AS 7, Lewis failed to properly evaluate the significant judgments made by the audit engagement team.[21] In particular, Lewis failed to properly evaluate (a) the engagement team's consideration of WebXU's recent significant activities, including its acquisition of Lot6 Media LLC ("Lot6"), an affiliate marketing company, and (b) the related financial reporting issues and risks.[22] At December 31, 2011, the goodwill associated with Lot6 was the largest item on WebXU's balance sheet and constituted nearly two-thirds of total reported assets. However, the audit engagement team failed to identify in its planning memorandum the goodwill associated with the acquisition of Lot6 as a significant accounting issue and failed to set forth an audit approach to ensure that the goodwill recorded at acquisition was properly valued. In his engagement quality review, Lewis failed to identify that the engagement team had not properly considered the financial reporting issues and risks associated with the Lot6 acquisition.

37. Third, Lewis failed to properly evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he reviewed regarding the Lot6 acquisition and WebXU's reported revenue supported the conclusions reached by the engagement team. With respect to the acquisition of Lot6, the engagement team failed to evaluate the qualifications and competence of a specialist retained to value the acquisition. The engagement team also failed to perform sufficient procedures to test the valuation of purchase consideration for the Lot6 acquisition. Specifically, the engagement team failed to evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by the issuer and its specialist to determine the fair value of shares and notes payable issued in connection with the acquisition. Finally, the engagement team failed to test data provided to the specialist by the issuer and properly evaluate whether the specialist's findings supported the related financial statement assertions.

38. With respect to revenue, the documentation that Lewis reviewed showed that the engagement team had failed to: (1) test the completeness of the population from which the selected revenue transactions were chosen by; (2) obtain, understand, and evaluate customer contracts to determine whether the issuer's recognition of revenue was in accordance with GAAP; and (3) perform cutoff procedures on Lot6 revenues to test whether revenue was recognized in the correct period.

39. Lewis provided his concurring approval of issuance of the Firm's audit report notwithstanding the significant deficiencies apparent from the documentation he reviewed regarding the engagement team's evaluation of the Lot6 acquisition and its testing of revenue.[23] In light of the significant engagement deficiencies, Lewis failed to exercise due professional care in the performance of his engagement quality review responsibilities.[24]

Lewis Violated PCAOB Auditing Standards in Connection with the Review of the June 30, 2012 Financial Statements of WebXU

40. When an interim review is performed, PCAOB standards require that the engagement quality reviewer "evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement" and "[e]valuate the significant judgments made about . . . the materiality and disposition of corrected and uncorrected identified misstatements," among other things.[25] In addition, "the engagement quality reviewer should evaluate whether the engagement documentation . . . supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed."[26] An engagement quality review should also "evaluate whether appropriate matters have been communicated, or identified for communication, to the audit committee, management, and other parties, such as regulatory bodies."[27]

41. The engagement quality reviewer "may provide concurring approval of issuance only if, after performing with due professional care the review required by this standard, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency."[28]

42. Lewis served as the engagement quality reviewer for L.L. Bradford's review of WebXU's June 30, 2012 financial statements. As detailed below, Lewis failed to comply with PCAOB standards in connection with that review.

43. On August 21, 2012, WebXU filed its Form 10-Q with the Commission for the quarter ended June 30, 2012. Included in the Form 10-Q was an explanatory note that stated that the auditors had failed to complete the required field work and review of WebXU's filing due to technical problems with the auditor's email system. The engagement team, aware that WebXU had filed before the completion of its review, internally discussed whether WebXU would need to file an amended Form 10-Q once the review was complete, but took no further action and continued its review.

44. On September 25, 2012, more than a month after WebXU filed its Form 10-Q, the engagement team signed the Completion Document and the Supervision, Review, and Approval Form indicating that the Firm had completed the quarterly review. The next day, the engagement partner, sent an email to WebXU stating: "Just so everyone is on the same page here, we are still analyzing the goodwill impairment for the quarter ended 6/30/2012 . . . In other words, the quarter is still not final. In the event that the adjustment to the impairment write-down is deemed material, a restatement of the financials and an amended 10Q will need to be filed."

45. As part of its review procedures, the engagement team identified a likely misstatement of goodwill impairment of more than $2 million, an amount that was material to the financial statements, but the team understood that it needed to do more work to conclude. The engagement team did not complete its additional inquiries and procedures prior to signing off on the quarterly review. According to other email communications among the engagement partner, Lewis, and the engagement manager, the engagement team was still assessing in October 2012 whether the second quarter impairment charge taken by WebXU was misstated. Although the engagement team was aware of the potential impact of the likely misstatement, the amount of the likely misstatement was not discussed with management or the audit committee. The engagement team never completed its additional inquiries and review procedures related to goodwill impairment. By failing to complete procedures "necessary to achieve the objective of a review of financial information, . . . the review [was] incomplete."[29]

46. Lewis violated PCAOB standards because as engagement quality reviewer he failed to properly evaluate (a) the significant judgments made about the materiality and disposition of the likely misstatement of goodwill at June 30, 2012; (b) whether the engagement documentation related to goodwill supported the conclusions reached by the engagement team; and (c) whether appropriate matters, including the engagement team's inability to complete the review and the likely misstatement of goodwill had been communicated to the audit committee, management, or regulatory bodies.[30] Lewis further violated PCAOB standards by providing his concurring approval

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter Hazel-Leilani De Los Reyes Bradford, CPA, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-006 April 1, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Hazel-Leilani De Los Reyes Bradford, CPA ("Bradford" or "Respondent"), barring her from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, and imposing upon her a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Bradford directly and substantially contributed to a registered public accounting firm's violations of PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction

[1] Bradford may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondents

1. Hazel-Leilani De Los Reyes Bradford, age 46, of Henderson, Nevada, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. CPA-2438). At all relevant times, Bradford was a partner in the Las Vegas, Nevada office of L.L. Bradford & Company LLC ("L.L. Bradford" or the "Firm") and was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). At all relevant times, Bradford owned a majority stake in L.L. Bradford and was the partner responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of the Firm's quality control policies and procedures.

B. Registered Firm

2. L.L. Bradford is a company organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, and is headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada. L.L. Bradford registered with the Board on October 22, 2003, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. L.L. Bradford is licensed to practice public accountancy by the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. LLC-0113) and, at all relevant times, was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

C. Summary

3. This matter relates to Respondent's direct and substantial contribution to L.L. Bradford's violations of PCAOB quality control standards. Specifically, this matter

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5)(A), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

concerns Bradford's pervasive failures to properly carry out her responsibility to establish, implement, and monitor L.L. Bradford's quality control policies and procedures. Bradford's quality control related failures contributed to L.L. Bradford's violations of (i) Section 10A(j) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's audit clients throughout the audit and professional engagement periods and to comply with partner rotation requirements; (ii) the two-year "cooling-off" requirement set forth in Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review, which prohibits a person from serving as engagement quality reviewer immediately after serving as the engagement partner on an issuer audit;[4] (iii) Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, as well as PCAOB independence rules and standards, prohibiting the provision of certain non-audit services to an issuer audit client at any point during the audit and professional engagement period; and (iv) PCAOB rules and auditing standards.

4. At all relevant times, Bradford was responsible for the development, implementation, and monitoring of L.L. Bradford's quality control policies and procedures. Despite those responsibilities, Bradford took, or omitted to take, action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that her acts and/or omissions would directly and substantially contribute to L.L. Bradford's violation of PCAOB quality control standards, in contravention of PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

D. Background

5. L.L. Bradford was formed in 1994 as a sole proprietorship, and Bradford joined the firm as a partner the following year. In 2012, the time period during which the majority of the violations occurred, L.L. Bradford had nineteen issuer audit clients and three personnel authorized to sign audit reports on behalf of the Firm. Bradford had limited public audit experience and inadequate knowledge of PCAOB standards and relevant Commission rules and regulations. Nonetheless, she assumed the responsibility for designing, implementing, and monitoring the Firm's quality control policies and procedures, did an inadequate job of making herself aware of such requirements, and ultimately failed to design and maintain a system of quality control that provided the Firm with reasonable assurance its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and the Firm's standards of quality. As described below, Bradford repeatedly failed to perform her quality control responsibilities.

E. Bradford Violated PCAOB Rules by Directly and Substantially Contributing to L.L. Bradford's Quality Control Violations

6. PCAOB Rules require that a registered accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's quality control standards.[5] PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[6] The design and maintenance of a firm's quality control policies and procedures "should be assigned to an appropriate individual" with consideration given to the "proficiency" of the individual, the "authority to be delegated," and "the extent of supervision to be provided."[7]

7. Among other things, a firm's quality control policies and procedures should provide reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence in fact and appearance.[8]

8. PCAOB quality control standards also provide that policies and procedures "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control . . . are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[9] Firms are required to establish monitoring procedures to "enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective."[10] Such monitoring procedures include, among other things, inspection procedures, post-issuance reviews of selected engagements, and analysis and assessment of the results of independence confirmations.[11]

9. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to violations by that firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") issued under the Act, or professional standards.[12]

10. As detailed below, the Firm failed to comply, and Bradford directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's failure to comply, with PCAOB rules and quality control standards.

Independence, Integrity, and Objectivity

11. The Firm failed to adopt and implement appropriate quality control policies and procedures governing the Firm's independence with respect to its issuer audit clients. Specifically, the Firm's 2011 quality control policies and procedures, which Bradford was responsible for preparing, included incorrect guidance with respect to audit partner rotation requirements, were silent as to engagement quality reviewer rotation requirements, and did not reflect the practices of the Firm during the relevant time period.

12. With respect to audit partner rotation requirements, Bradford assumed the responsibility for the Firm's, and its associated persons', compliance with audit partner rotation requirements.[13] Significantly, the Firm and Bradford failed to design and implement a process to track and monitor audit partner assignments and rotation

[12] See PCAOB Rule 3502.

[13] The Firm's quality control policies and procedures stated that the managing partner assigned audit partners to audit engagements and was responsible for ensuring compliance with audit partner rotation requirements; however that statement was inaccurate. The Firm's audit partner assignments were determined by a group of the Firm's partners, and the responsibility for compliance with audit partner rotation requirements was delegated to Bradford, the Firm's quality control partner.

ORDER

compliance. Indeed, Bradford failed to take any affirmative steps to track and monitor audit partner rotation requirements. These failures contributed to the Firm's violations of partner rotation requirements with respect to six issuer audit clients. Specifically, the Firm violated partner rotation requirements with respect to its audits of six issuer clients because Firm partners served as the lead partner and/or concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer for more than the permitted five year period set forth in Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act and Regulation S-X.[14]

13. The Firm and Bradford also failed to design and implement a process for monitoring the Firm's compliance with AS 7, paragraph 8, which requires a two year "cooling-off" period before a partner who served as lead partner can assume the role of engagement quality reviewer. The Firm's quality control policies and procedures did not address the cooling-off requirement. In fact, the Firm and Bradford were not aware of the requirements set forth in AS 7 until members of the Firm attended training in 2014 conducted by a third-party. These failures contributed to the Firm's violations of AS 7 with respect to two issuer audits.[15]

14. In addition, the Firm and Bradford failed to design and implement a process for confirming the Firm's independence with respect to potential new issuer audit clients prior to accepting the clients. The Firm and Bradford failed to design and implement any such process despite their awareness that at least two senior personnel at L.L. Bradford provided non-audit services to issuers outside of their work for L.L. Bradford. Indeed, despite this awareness, the Firm and Bradford failed to obtain from at least one of the senior personnel a list of the issuers for whom he was providing non-audit services or otherwise apprise itself of the non-audit services he was providing. That failure, combined with the failure to implement a process to confirm the Firm's independence with respect to new issuer audit clients, contributed to the Firm's violation of independence requirements during the audit of another issuer client. Specifically, the Firm was not independent of that issuer audit client because one of the senior personnel noted above, an audit principal at L.L. Bradford, had provided bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services for the issuer during the relevant audit period.[16]

Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 provides that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the partner rotation requirements of Commission Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client when an audit partner performs the services of lead or concurring audit partner for the same issuer for more than five consecutive years and within the five consecutive year period following the performance of services for the maximum period permitted.

15. The Firm and Bradford also failed to implement policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel maintained independence.[17] Specifically, despite a requirement to obtain annual independence confirmations in the Firm's quality control policies and procedures, Bradford failed to obtain and/or retain independence confirmations from Firm personnel for 2013.

Monitoring

16. The Firm also failed to appropriately implement the required quality control monitoring procedures. As noted above, Bradford assumed the role of quality control partner at the Firm despite the fact her prior audit experience was largely limited to a small number of non-public companies, and she lacked the relevant experience, knowledge, and proficiency necessary to carry out the monitoring function.[18] Moreover, Bradford failed to take sufficient steps to develop the requisite proficiency after becoming the Firm's quality control partner. In August 2013, Bradford conducted an internal quality control inspection of the audits and reviews conducted on certain of the Firm's issuer clients. Because Bradford did not have the necessary experience, knowledge, and proficiency, she failed during her quality control inspection to identify multiple audit deficiencies and failures to comply with the Firm's own policies and procedures. For example, with respect to her inspection of one interim review for an issuer client, Bradford did not identify the engagement team's failure to properly communicate with the issuer's management and the audit committee regarding the Firm's inability to complete the interim review. With respect to her inspection of the interim review of another issuer client, Bradford failed to identify erroneous disclosure determinations. Bradford's monitoring procedures also did not identify a pervasive failure by the Firm's personnel to use the standard audit and review work papers required by the Firm's quality control policies and procedures or to use the up-to-date version of such work papers and forms.

Bradford's Role

17. In Bradford's role as the Firm's quality control partner, she had primary responsibility for the design, implementation, maintenance, communication, and monitoring of the Firm's quality control policies and procedures. Bradford assumed this role despite her lack of public company audit experience and her inadequate knowledge of PCAOB standards and relevant Commission rules and regulations, and then failed to take steps to develop the requisite knowledge. Furthermore, the Firm and Bradford failed to put into place and/or perform procedures to (i) properly update the Firm's quality control policies and procedures; (ii) track and monitor compliance with audit partner rotation requirements; (iii) track and monitor compliance with the engagement partner cooling-off requirements set forth in AS 7; (iv) track and monitor the provision of non-audit services by firm personnel outside the scope of their L.L. Bradford employment; (v) confirm the independence of Firm personnel prior to acceptance of an issuer audit engagement; and (vi) obtain and/or retain annual independence confirmations for Firm personnel for 2013.

18. All of the Firm's conduct described above in paragraphs 11-16 was either conduct of Bradford's or omissions to act for which Bradford was responsible. With respect to all such acts and omissions, Bradford knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that her acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's quality control violations enumerated above.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Hazel-Leilani De Los Reyes Bradford is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Hazel-Leilani De Los Reyes Bradford is barred from being an associated

C. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Hazel-Leilani De Los Reyes Bradford may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm; and

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 payable by Hazel-Leilani de Los Reyes Bradford is imposed. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Hazel-Leilani de Los Reyes Bradford shall pay the $25,000 civil money penalty, within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Services money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies the payor as a Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Gordon Brad Beckstead, CPA, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-007 April 1, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring Gordon Brad Beckstead, CPA ("Beckstead" or "Respondent"); (2) suspending him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for a period of one year from the date of this Order; (3) limiting his activities in connection with any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), for an additional period of one year following the expiration of his suspension; and (4) requiring that he complete forty (40) additional hours of continuing professional education in subjects that are directly related to the audits of issuer financial statements under PCAOB standards. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Beckstead's violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with an audit and an interim review of the financial statements of one issuer audit client during 2011 and 2012.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Beckstead.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Beckstead has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Beckstead and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Beckstead consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Gordon Brad Beckstead, CPA, age 50, of Henderson, Nevada, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. CPA-2701). At all relevant times, Beckstead was an audit principal in the Las Vegas, Nevada office of L.L. Bradford & Company, LLC ("L.L. Bradford"). Beckstead was the engagement partner on L.L. Bradford's audit of the financial statements of WebXU, Inc. ("WebXU") for the year ended December 31, 2011 ("2011 WebXU Audit") and review of WebXU's financial statements for the period ended June 30, 2012 ("2012 WebXU Review"). Beckstead is no longer employed by L.L. Bradford. He is the sole proprietor of Beckstead & Company, which was registered with the Board from June 19, 2013 until the Board granted Beckstead & Company's request to withdraw its registration on February 6, 2015. At all relevant times, Beckstead was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Beckstead's failures to appropriately plan and perform the 2011 WebXU Audit. Specifically, during audit planning, Beckstead failed to properly assess the risk of material misstatement with respect to WebXU's 2011 financial statements. As a result, Beckstead failed to properly identify significant risks in connection with the 2011 WebXU Audit. Beckstead also failed to properly establish an overall strategy for the audit and develop an audit plan that included planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risk of material misstatement. In addition, Beckstead failed to perform audit procedures that addressed the risks of material misstatement.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

3. In connection with the WebXU 2011 Audit, Beckstead violated PCAOB standards in multiple other respects as well. Among other things, Beckstead failed to evaluate the qualifications and competence of a specialist that WebXU retained to value a significant acquisition. He also failed to evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by the issuer and its specialist to determine the fair value of purchase consideration for that acquisition. Beckstead also failed to test data WebXU provided to the specialist and properly evaluate whether the specialist's findings supported the related financial statement assertions. Beckstead further violated PCAOB standards by failing to evaluate the adequacy of WebXU's disclosure of the terms of the acquisition. In addition, Beckstead also failed to perform, or ensure that the engagement team performed, sufficient audit procedures to test WebXU's reported revenue.

4. This matter also concerns Beckstead's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the 2012 WebXU Review. Specifically, Beckstead failed to properly communicate with management and the audit committee regarding the engagement team's inability to complete the review.

C. Beckstead Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with the 2011 WebXU Audit

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[3] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[4] Among other things, PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care, exercise professional skepticism, and obtain sufficient appropriate evidential matter to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements.[5]

6. PCAOB auditing standards also require that an audit be properly planned, that auditors identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level, and that auditors design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[6]

7. When an auditor relies on the work of a specialist, PCAOB standards require the auditor to "consider the . . . qualifications of the specialist in determining that the specialist possesses the necessary skill or knowledge in the particular field" and conduct "appropriate tests of data provided to the specialist."[7]

8. PCAOB standards further require that the auditor test an issuer's fair value measurements and disclosures. In doing so, the auditor should evaluate whether (1) "[m]anagement's assumptions are reasonable and reflect, or are not inconsistent with, market information," (2) "[t]he fair value measurement was determined using an appropriate model," and (3) "[m]anagement used relevant information that was reasonably available at the time."[8]

9. PCAOB standards also require that the auditor evaluate whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework. In doing so, "the auditor should evaluate

10. As detailed below, Beckstead failed to comply with these PCAOB standards in connection with the audit of the December 31, 2011 financial statements of WebXU, Inc.

11. WebXU was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in Los Angeles, California. WebXU's public filings disclosed that it was a media company engaged in developing high-value branded websites to service consumers for products and services. During the relevant period, its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board.[10] At all relevant times, WebXU was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

12. L.L. Bradford became the auditor for WebXU on December 5, 2011. L.L. Bradford audited WebXU's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011, and issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion dated April 9, 2012, which was included in WebXU's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 9, 2012. The audit report stated that, in L.L. Bradford's opinion, WebXU's financial statements presented fairly, in all material respects, the issuer's financial position in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") and that L.L. Bradford's audit was performed in accordance with PCAOB standards. Beckstead served as the engagement partner on the 2011 audit of WebXU and authorized the issuance of L.L. Bradford's audit report.

13. Beckstead failed to comply with PCAOB standards in connection with the 2011 audit of WebXU. During audit planning, Beckstead failed to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement and assertion level. Beckstead's assessment of risk was limited to assessing inherent risk, control risk, and audit risk. The risks of material misstatement were not properly assessed. Furthermore, Beckstead's risk assessment was performed at a level of aggregation above that permitted by PCAOB standards.[11] For example, Beckstead assessed risk on all assets collectively. A similar approach was taken with liabilities. As a result, cash carried the same risk assessment as goodwill (identified in the financial statements as "Investment in Lot6").

14. Because Beckstead failed to properly assess the risks of material misstatement and failed to identify significant risks at the financial statement and assertion level, he also failed to properly establish an overall strategy for the engagement and develop an audit plan that included planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risks of material misstatement. In addition, Beckstead failed to perform audit procedures that addressed the risks of material misstatement.[12]

15. Beckstead also failed to perform appropriate procedures with respect to a significant acquisition WebXU made in 2011. In November 2011, WebXU acquired Lot6 Media LLC ("Lot6"), an affiliate marketing company. Under the terms of the share exchange agreement, purchase consideration included 1,000,000 shares of WebXU common stock, a $5,000,000 note payable, a $1,861,532 working capital note payable, and contingent consideration in the form of an earn-out agreement. In the event WebXU failed to repay or timely repay the notes payable, the share exchange agreement included a penalty provision that required WebXU to issue additional shares to the seller, as well as a right of rescission clause, which gave the seller the right to terminate the acquisition in the event of non-payment. At December 31, 2011, the goodwill WebXU recorded in connection with the acquisition of Lot6 was the largest item on WebXU's balance sheet and constituted nearly two-thirds of total reported assets. By September 30, 2012, less than a year after the acquisition and less than six months after the Firm issued its audit opinion on the December 31, 2011 financial statements, WebXU wrote off the full value of the Lot6 goodwill.

16. As a result of the acquisition of Lot6, Beckstead understood that WebXU retained a specialist to value the assets and liabilities acquired, including any goodwill, as well as the purchase consideration given. Beckstead failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to comply with PCAOB standards on the use of specialists when he failed to evaluate the qualifications and competence of the specialist retained.[13] The work papers contained no evaluation of the specialist. Further, Beckstead acknowledged that he was aware the specialist had no experience valuing affiliate marketing companies, and though he knew the specialist had done other valuations, he did not know how many, or her qualifications for doing valuations in general.

17. In violation of PCAOB standards, Beckstead and the engagement team also failed to perform sufficient procedures to test the valuation of purchase consideration.[14] Specifically, Beckstead and the engagement team failed to evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by the issuer and its specialist to determine the fair value of shares and notes payable issued in connection with the acquisition.[15] In particular, neither Beckstead nor anyone else on the engagement team properly evaluated the reasonableness of the share price used to value the restricted common stock given as consideration. Beckstead and the engagement team also failed to test the imputed interest rate applied to the notes payable issued as part of the purchase consideration.

18. Finally, Beckstead and the engagement team failed to test data provided to the specialist by the issuer and properly evaluate whether the specialist's findings supported the related financial statement assertions.[16] Beckstead and the engagement team failed to test the data utilized by the valuation specialist to assess the probability of triggering the earn-out targets included as part of purchase consideration. Specifically, there is no indication as to how, if at all, Beckstead or the engagement team tested the Lot6 historical growth rates utilized by the specialist. The valuation report included historical information for 2009 and 2010, as well as each of the quarters in 2011; however, Beckstead acknowledged that the engagement team did not perform procedures to test the financial information for the year ended December 31, 2009, and there are no work papers indicating that L.L. Bradford audited the financial information for the year ended 2011 or the quarters therein.

19. In violation of PCAOB standards, Beckstead also failed to evaluate the adequacy of WebXU's disclosure of the terms of the Lot6 acquisition in the financial statements.[17] The share exchange agreement with Lot6 included: (a) a right of rescission clause in the event WebXU failed to timely repay notes payable issued in connection with the acquisition and (b) penalties for late or non-payment of the notes payable. At the time the financial statements and audit opinion were issued, Beckstead was aware that WebXU had triggered the penalties clause because WebXU failed to make any payments on the notes payable and that WebXU was actively considering whether to service the notes payable or walk away from the transaction. WebXU did not disclose in its 2011 financial statements or the notes thereto the right of rescission or the penalty provision. Despite the significance of Lot6 to WebXU's financial condition, Beckstead failed to evaluate the need for WebXU to disclose those terms of the Lot6 acquisition, in violation of PCAOB standards.[18]

20. Beckstead also failed to perform, or direct the engagement team to perform, sufficient audit procedures to test WebXU's reported revenue.[19] Specifically, Beckstead and the engagement team failed to evaluate whether revenues recognized by Lot6 satisfied the relevant revenue recognition criteria. As of December 31, 2011, Lot6 had been a subsidiary of WebXU for less than two months but contributed 32% of WebXU's total reported revenues for the year. Despite the significance of Lot6 revenue, Beckstead and the engagement team failed to: (1) test the completeness of the population from which the selected revenue transactions were chosen by, for example, failing to reconcile the population to the issuer's general ledger; (2) obtain, understand, and evaluate customer contracts to determine whether the issuer's recognition of revenue was in accordance with GAAP; and (3) perform cutoff procedures on Lot6 revenues to test whether revenue was recognized in the correct period.

D. Beckstead Violated PCAOB Standards in Connection with the 2012 WebXU Review

21. In performing a review of interim financial information, if an accountant becomes aware of information that causes the accountant to believe that the interim financial information may not be in conformity with GAAP, PCAOB standards require that the accountant "make additional inquiries or perform other procedures . . . to provide a basis for communicating whether he or she is aware of any material modifications that should be made to the interim financial information."[20] If an accountant is unable to perform procedures he or she considers necessary to achieve the objective of a review, the review is incomplete.[21] The inability to complete the review, as well as any material modification that should be made to the financial information for it to be in conformity with GAAP, should be communicated to management, and if management does not respond appropriately, those matters should be communicated to the issuer's audit committee.[22] The accountant is also required to communicate certain other items to the audit committee, including issues relating to sensitive accounting estimates and adjustments that could have a significant effect on the financial statements.[23]

22. As detailed below, Beckstead failed to comply with these PCAOB standards in connection with the review of the June 30, 2012 financial statements of WebXU.

23. On August 21, 2012, WebXU filed its Form 10-Q with the Commission. Included in the Form 10-Q was an explanatory note that stated that the auditors had failed to complete the required field work and review of WebXU's filing due to technical problems with the auditor's email system. Beckstead, aware that WebXU had filed before the completion of its review, discussed with the engagement quality reviewer for the audit whether WebXU would need to file an amended Form 10-Q once the review was complete, but took no further action and continued the review.

ORDER

24. On September 25, 2012, more than a month after WebXU filed its Form 10-Q, Beckstead and other members of the engagement team signed the Completion Document and the Supervision, Review, and Approval Form indicating that L.L. Bradford had completed the quarterly review. The next day, Beckstead sent an email to WebXU stating: "Just so everyone is on the same page here, we are still analyzing the goodwill impairment for the quarter ended 6/30/2012 . . . In other words, the quarter is still not final. In the event that the adjustment to the impairment write-down is deemed material, a restatement of the financials and an amended 10Q will need to be filed."

25. As part of its review procedures, the engagement team identified a likely misstatement of goodwill impairment of more than $2 million, an amount that was material to the financial statements, but the team understood that it needed to do more work to conclude. The engagement team did not complete its additional inquiries and procedures prior to signing off on the quarterly review. According to other email communications among Beckstead, the engagement quality reviewer, and the engagement manager, the engagement team was still assessing in October 2012 whether the second quarter impairment charge taken by WebXU was misstated. Although Beckstead was aware of the potential impact of the likely misstatement, the amount of the likely misstatement was not discussed with management or the audit committee. Beckstead and the engagement team never completed their additional inquiries and review procedures related to goodwill impairment.

26. By failing to complete procedures "necessary to achieve the objective of a review of financial information, . . . the review [was] incomplete."[24] Because Beckstead failed to make the appropriate communications to management and the audit committee regarding L.L. Bradford's inability to complete the review, he violated PCAOB standards.[25]

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Gordon Brad Beckstead is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Gordon Brad Beckstead is suspended for one (1) year from the date of this Order from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[26]

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for one (1) year following the termination of the suspension ordered in paragraph B, Gordon Brad Beckstead's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Beckstead shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in the Board's Auditing Standard No. 10, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in the Board's Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "lead partner," "practitioner-in-charge," or "concurring partner"); or (4) exercise authority, or supervise the work of another person exercising authority, either to sign a registered public

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Suzanne M. Herring, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-008 April 1, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Suzanne M. Herring ("Respondent" or "Herring"), barring her from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, and imposing on her a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards, as well as Section 10A(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence, in connection with the audits of two issuers.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over her and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent

[1] Herring may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Suzanne M. Herring, age 49 of Las Vegas, Nevada, is a principal with the registered public accounting firm, L.L. Bradford & Company, LLC ("L.L. Bradford"), a position she has held since January 2013. From February 2008 until January 2013, Herring worked as an audit staff person for another registered public accounting firm, Samyn & Martin, LLC ("Samyn & Martin"). At all relevant times, Herring was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Herring's violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's issuer audit clients throughout the relevant audit and professional engagement periods, as well as Herring's violations of Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence. When Herring was an associated person of Samyn & Martin, she was not independent with respect to two of Samyn & Martin's issuer audit clients because she: (1) provided bookkeeping and financial statement preparation work for one of those issuers, Decision Diagnostics Corp. ("Decision Diagnostics"), during the audit period for which she served on the audit engagement team; and (2) provided derivative accounting and valuation services for the other issuer, American Petro-Hunter, Inc. ("APH"), during the audit and professional engagement period for which she was a member of the audit engagement team.[4]

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

3. This matter also concerns Herring's violation of the PCAOB rule that prohibits an associated person from directly and substantially contributing to a registered public accounting firm's violation of, among other things, relevant independence requirements.[5] Specifically, when Herring joined L.L. Bradford in January 2013, she solicited Decision Diagnostics to engage L.L. Bradford as its external auditor. In connection with the retention of L.L. Bradford to audit Decision Diagnostics' December 31, 2012 financial statements, Herring, on behalf of L.L. Bradford, established the terms of the engagement. In addition, Herring served as a senior member of L.L. Bradford's engagement team for the audit, was responsible for decision-making on significant auditing matters, and was the engagement team member who maintained contact with Decision Diagnostics' management during the audit. At the time Herring took those actions, she was aware that another audit principal at L.L. Bradford had provided prohibited bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services to Decision Diagnostics during the audit period. As a result of the L.L. Bradford audit principal providing those prohibited non-audit services, L.L. Bradford was not independent of Decision Diagnostics during the audit of the company's December 31, 2012 financial statements. Through her actions, Herring directly and substantially contributed to L.L. Bradford's violation of applicable independence requirements, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502.

C. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards and the Exchange Act

4. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[6] A registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") under the federal securities laws.[7]

5. Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act provides that it shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm that performs an audit for an issuer "to provide to that issuer, contemporaneously with the audit, any non-audit service, including . . . [b]ookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client" and "[a]ppraisal or valuation services."

6. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 states that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the prohibited non-audit services provisions of Commission Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides certain non-audit services for an audit client, including bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services and appraisal or valuation services.[8]

7. As described below, Herring failed to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules in connection with Samyn & Martin's audits of Decision Diagnostics 2011 financial statements and APH's 2012 financial statements.

Samyn & Martin's Audit of Decision Diagnostics' 2011 Financial Statements

8. Prior to 2011, Herring was engaged to provide bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services for Decision Diagnostics.[9] In that capacity, Herring prepared journal entries, maintained Decision Diagnostics' accounting records, advised the issuer on generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), and prepared the issuer's financial statements and Forms 10-Q and 10-K that were filed with the Commission. Contemporaneously, Herring worked as a staff person for Samyn & Martin on more than ten audits unrelated to Decision Diagnostics.

[9] At all relevant times, Decision Diagnostics (prior to February 9, 2012, known as instaCare Corp.) was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Westlake Village, California. Decision Diagnostics' public filings disclose that it is a nationwide prescription and non-prescription diagnostic and home testing products distributor. Its common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, Decision Diagnostics was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. On August 5, 2011, Decision Diagnostics engaged Samyn & Martin as the issuer's auditor for the year ended December 31, 2011. When Decision Diagnostics engaged Samyn & Martin, Herring ceased providing bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services for Decision Diagnostics and joined the 2011 audit engagement team for Samyn & Martin. During Samyn & Martin's audit of Decision Diagnostics' fiscal year 2011 financial statements, Herring audited accounting records that she had previously prepared and that reflected accounting principles she had recommended. In addition, the December 31, 2011 Decision Diagnostics' financial statements that Herring assisted in auditing were based, at least in part, on the quarterly financial statements that she had previously prepared.

10. Herring violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules because she provided prohibited non-audit services to Decision Diagnostics during the audit period with respect to which she served on the Decision Diagnostics' audit engagement team.[10]

Samyn & Martin's Audit of APH's 2012 Financial Statements

11. Beginning in March 2012, Herring provided accounting and valuation services to APH related to a derivative liability that APH recorded.[11] As of the end of the third quarter of 2012, the derivative liability was the largest liability on APH's balance sheet, representing more than 68% of APH's total reported liabilities. As part of Herring's services for APH, she calculated the value of the derivative liability and related amounts, prepared source data and documents that supported the amounts reflected in

Its common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. the accounting records and financial statements of APH, prepared the journal entries for APH to record in its accounting records, and assisted in the preparation of APH's financial statements and notes thereto.

12. At the time Herring performed those non-audit services for APH, she was also an audit staff person for Samyn & Martin, APH's external auditor. Notwithstanding her performance of accounting and valuation services for APH during 2012, Herring also assisted with Samyn & Martin's quarterly review of APH's September 30, 2012 financial statements. Furthermore, Herring was aware that Samyn & Martin relied upon her accounting and valuation work in performing its quarterly review. Herring continued to provide derivative accounting and valuation services to APH throughout 2012 and into 2013.

13. Herring violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules because she provided prohibited non-audit services to APH contemporaneous with her service on the audit engagement team for APH.[12]

D. Respondent Directly and Substantially Contributed to L.L. Bradford's Violation of PCAOB Rules and the Exchange Act

14. PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to violations by that firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards.[13] As described below, L.L. Bradford failed to comply with Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 and PCAOB rules, and Herring directly and substantially contributed to those violations.

15. Shortly after Herring stopped providing bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services to Decision Diagnostics in August 2011, an audit principal at L.L. Bradford ("L.L. Bradford Principal"), succeeded her and provided bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services for Decision Diagnostics through at least December 2012. As part of those services, the L.L. Bradford Principal prepared the first, second, and third quarter 2012 financial statements and Forms 10-Q for Decision Diagnostics.

16. L.L. Bradford was engaged as Decision Diagnostics' external auditor on February 11, 2013 to audit the company's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012 (the "2012 Audit"). Herring was on the Decision Diagnostics audit at Samyn & Martin and, when she joined L.L. Bradford, Herring solicited Decision Diagnostics to engage L.L. Bradford as its external auditor. Herring established the terms of 2012 audit engagement with Decision Diagnostics, prepared the engagement letter, and prepared another letter provided to Decision Diagnostics prior to retention concerning independence, as required by PCAOB Rule 3526, Communication with Audit Committees Concerning Independence.[14] Herring served as a senior member of the L.L. Bradford audit engagement team for the 2012 Audit and was the primary client contact for L.L. Bradford. In fact, the engagement letter between L.L. Bradford and Decision Diagnostics (erroneously) identified Herring as the engagement partner on the 2012 Audit. At the time L.L. Bradford accepted Decision Diagnostics as an audit client, Herring was aware of the timing and the nature of the services that the L.L. Bradford Principal had provided for Decision Diagnostics during fiscal year 2012. Herring was uniquely aware of the nature and timing of the L.L. Bradford Principal's services because she had provided the same services to Decision Diagnostics and had transitioned her duties to the L.L. Bradford Principal.

17. During the 2012 Audit, L.L. Bradford performed audit procedures on the underlying accounting records of the issuer that were prepared by the L.L. Bradford Principal and that reflected the accounting principles recommended by him. In addition, the December 31, 2012 financial statements that L.L. Bradford audited were based, at least in part, on the quarterly financial statements prepared by the L.L. Bradford Principal. L.L. Bradford issued an unqualified audit report on Decision Diagnostics' financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012, which was included in the Form 10-K the issuer filed with the Commission on April 16, 2013.

18. As a result of the bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services provided by the L.L. Bradford Principal, L.L. Bradford was not independent of Decision Diagnostics during the fiscal year 2012 audit period, in violation of Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220. Given her knowledge of the services performed by the L.L. Bradford Principal, her relationship with the issuer, her role in bringing the Decision Diagnostic audit to L.L. Bradford, and her senior role on the Decision Diagnostics engagement team, Herring violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation of relevant independence requirements. Specifically, Herring took action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that her actions would directly and substantially contribute to L.L. Bradford's violations.

[14] See paragraphs 19-20, infra.

19. PCAOB Rule 3526 requires that a registered public accounting firm describe, in writing, to the audit committee of a potential audit client, all relationships between the firm or any affiliates of the firm and the potential audit client that may reasonably be thought to bear on independence. The firm is also required to discuss with the audit committee the potential effects of such relationships should the firm be appointed as the potential audit client's auditor and to document the substance of such discussion.

20. On January 21, 2013, contemporaneous with accepting the Decision Diagnostics engagement, Herring prepared and L.L. Bradford issued a letter to Decision Diagnostics pursuant to PCAOB Rule 3526. In violation of Rule 3526, however, that letter failed to disclose the bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services provided by the L.L. Bradford Principal. Also in violation of Rule 3526, L.L. Bradford failed to discuss with the Decision Diagnostics audit committee the potential impact of those services on L.L. Bradford's independence. Herring violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by taking action, knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that her preparation of the Rule 3526 letter would directly and substantially contribute to L.L. Bradford's violations.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Herring's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Suzanne M. Herring is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Suzanne M. Herring is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[15]

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Ronald R. Chadwick, P.C. (the "Firm"), and Ronald R. Chadwick, CPA ("Chadwick"), revoking the registration of the Firm,[1] and barring Chadwick from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the Firm and Chadwick (collectively, "Respondents") on the basis of its findings that Respondents violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the audits of the financial statements of five (5) issuer clients.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party,

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Chadwick may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[4] that:

A. Respondents

1. Ronald R. Chadwick, P.C. is a registered public accounting firm located in Aurora, Colorado. The Firm is licensed by the state of Colorado (License No. FRM.0006687). Chadwick is the sole proprietor of the Firm. The Firm has been registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB Rules since 2003.

2. Ronald R. Chadwick, CPA, 59, is a resident of Aurora, Colorado. Chadwick is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Colorado (License No. CPA.0014681). He was the engagement partner for the Firm's audits of the financial statements of the five (5) issuers discussed below and authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit reports on those financial statements. Chadwick is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondents in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that such sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' numerous and repeated violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the issuance of audit reports on the financial statements of five (5) issuers in 2011 or 2012 (collectively, the "Audits").[5]

4. Further, Respondents, among other things, repeatedly: (1) failed to plan and perform audit work sufficiently; (2) failed to exercise sufficient due professional care and professional skepticism in connection with the Audits; (3) failed to identify and assess the risk of fraud in planning several of the Audits; (4) failed to properly identify and assess audit risk, including the risk of material misstatement; (5) failed to appropriately evaluate the results of the Audits to determine whether the audit evidence obtained was sufficient and appropriate; (6) failed to obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence in support of the Firm's audit opinions; and (7) improperly authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit reports which incorrectly stated that the Firm had conducted those Audits in accordance with PCAOB standards.

5. Finally, in connection with two of the Audits, Respondents violated PCAOB standards by adding information to the audit work papers after the documentation completion date without indicating the date such information was added, the name of the person who added it, and the reason for adding such information months after the documentation completion date.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards In Connection with the Audits

6. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] Under PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed that opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[7] Those standards state that "[t]he objective of the auditor is to conduct the audit of financial statements in a manner that reduces audit risk to an appropriately low level."[8] Auditors are required to "plan the audit so that the audit is conducted effectively,"[9] exercise due professional care and professional skepticism,[10] and "obtain appropriate audit evidence that is sufficient to support the opinion expressed in the auditor's report."[11]

7. Further, PCAOB standards require an auditor to "perform risk assessment procedures that are sufficient to provide a reasonable basis for identifying and assessing the risks of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud, and designing further audit procedures."[12] In order to address the risks of material misstatement, the auditor must design and implement audit responses that address those risks that were identified and assessed.[13] PCAOB standards also provide that "'[t]he auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud.'"[14] PCAOB standards also provide that "[t]he auditor's assessment of the risks of material misstatement, including fraud risks, should continue throughout the audit. When the auditor obtains audit evidence during the course of the audit that contradicts the audit evidence on which the auditor originally based his or her risk assessment, the auditor should revise the risk assessment and modify planned audit procedures or perform additional procedures in response to the revised risk assessments."[15]

8. Under PCAOB standards "[t]he auditor neither assumes that management is dishonest nor assumes unquestioned honesty. In exercising professional skepticism, the auditor should not be satisfied with less than persuasive evidence because of a belief that management is honest."[16] Further, "[i]n forming an opinion on whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework, the auditor should take into account all relevant audit evidence, regardless of whether it appears to corroborate or to contradict the assertions in the financial statements."[17] Although management representations "are part of the evidential matter the independent auditor obtains, … they are not a substitute for the application of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[18] Moreover, if a management representation "is contradicted by other audit evidence, the auditor should investigate the circumstances and consider the reliability of the representation made. Based on the circumstances, the auditor should consider whether his or her reliance on management's representations relating to other aspects of the financial statements is appropriate and justified."[19]

9. In the case of "significant transactions that are outside the normal course of business for the entity [under audit], or that otherwise appear to be unusual given the auditor's understanding of the entity and its environment," the auditor "should gain an understanding of the business rationale for such transactions and whether that rationale (or the lack thereof) suggests that the transactions may have been entered into to engage in fraudulent financial reporting or conceal misappropriation of assets."[20] PCAOB standards further provide that, "[i]n understanding the business rationale for the transactions, the auditor should consider [among other things] … "[w]hether the transactions involve previously unidentified related parties …," and "[w]hether management is placing more emphasis on the need for a particular accounting treatment than on the underlying economics of the transaction."[21]

10. PCAOB standards also require an auditor to obtain satisfaction concerning the purpose, nature, and extent of material transactions involving related parties, through the performance of procedures that extend beyond inquiry of management.[22] In addition, PCAOB standards require the auditor to evaluate the information available concerning material related party transactions in order to satisfy the auditor that they have been adequately disclosed in the financial statements.[23]

11. Additionally, PCAOB standards provide that information may be added to the audit documentation after the deadline for assembling a complete and final set of audit documentation (the "documentation completion date"); however, any information added must indicate: (a) the date the information was added; (b) the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation; and (c) the reason for adding it.[24]

12. As detailed below, Respondents failed to comply with the aforementioned rules and standards , among others, in connection with the Audits.

Violations Relating to the Audit of Hinto's 2011 Financial Statements

13. Hinto was, at all relevant times, a Wyoming corporation with its principal office located in Arvada, Colorado. Hinto's public filings disclose that it is a company that engages in the acquisition, exploration, and development of oil and gas prospects in the Rocky Mountain region. stock is quoted Over The Counter ("OTC") on the pink sheets under the ticker symbol "HENI." At all relevant times, Hinto was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

14. The Firm audited Hinto's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011, and issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion dated March 30, 2012, which included going concern explanatory language regarding those financial statements (the "Hinto Audit"). The audit report was included in a Form 10-K filed by Hinto with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") on April 13, 2012.

15. Respondents failed to plan and perform the Hinto Audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether Hinto's financial statements were free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud.[25] In addition, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in connection with the Audit.[26] Specifically, despite several red flags, Respondents failed to obtain an understanding of the business rationale for a series of significant unusual transactions involving a party related to Hinto,[27] and failed to evaluate whether those related party transactions were adequately disclosed in the financial statements.[28]

16. Hinto's periodic filings and Respondents' work papers indicate that, during the fourth quarter of 2011, Hinto raised approximately $710,000 in cash proceeds from the sale of Hinto stock in a private placement and from the issuance of a convertible note payable (the "Convertible Note").[29] Respondents' work papers indicate that, during that same quarter, Hinto (a) advanced approximately one-third of those cash proceeds, $239,000, to its majority shareholder; (b) recorded the advance as an "inter-company receivable;" and then (c) fully impaired the "inter-company receivable." The impairment represented approximately 69% of Hinto's net loss for the year ended December 31, 2011.

17. During the Hinto Audit, Respondents performed a review of bank statements and inquiries of management.[30] But they failed to obtain a sufficient understanding of the business rationale for Hinto's cash advances to its majority shareholder, a related party.[31] They also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning Hinto's decision to impair almost immediately the related-party receivable arising from the cash advances.

18. In addition, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning the entity to which some of the cash was actually paid. Specifically, although Respondents' work papers list Hinto's majority shareholder as the recipient of the entire $239,000 in cash, the work papers also indicate that $100,000 of that amount was actually paid to another party. However, Respondents failed to gain an understanding of who that other party was and its relationship with Hinto and its majority shareholder.[32]

19. Furthermore, Respondents failed to perform procedures to provide a basis to evaluate whether Hinto's related party transactions were adequately disclosed in the financial statements as required by U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP").[33] For example, the only place that Hinto disclosed the cash advances and subsequent impairment in its financial statements were in two financial statement line items: "impairment of intercompany receivable" on the statements of operations; and "increase in advances to parent company" on the statement of cash flows.

20. Finally, during the Hinto Audit, Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support Hinto's accounting for the Convertible Note it had issued in the fourth quarter.[34] According to Respondents' work papers, the Convertible Note contained a feature that allowed the note to be converted to Hinto's common stock at $1 per share. Respondents relied on a management representation that the conversion feature was not "in-the-money" and required no separate valuation. According to Chadwick, Hinto management represented that, for purposes of determining whether the note's conversion feature was beneficial, it was appropriate to value Hinto's common stock at $0.50 per share based on recent cash sales in private placements. Without performing any other procedures, Respondents inappropriately accepted management's representation that Hinto's common stock should be valued at $0.50 per share.[35] They did so despite Chadwick's understanding that private placement sales can occur at a discount, and notwithstanding contradictory audit evidence,[36] including: (1) Hinto's publicly available $1.50 per share price, which was documented in Respondents' audit work papers; and (2) Hinto's disclosed high/low share price, which ranged from $1.75 per share to $1.50 per share for the quarter ended December 31, 2011, a valuation that was at least 50 percent higher per share than the valuation Respondents indicated management had used.[37]

Violations Relating to the Audit of Medina's Fiscal Year 2012 Financial Statements

21. Medina was, at all relevant times, a Colorado corporation with its principal offices located in Corona, California. According to Medina's fiscal year 2012 Form 10-K, the company's business plan focuses on rescue, emergency, defense and recreational watercraft manufacturing through its wholly owned subsidiary, Harbor Guard Boats, Inc. Medina's common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board under the ticker symbol "MIHI." At all relevant times, Medina was an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

22. The Firm audited Medina's financial statements for the fiscal year ended April 30, 2012, and issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion dated July 26, 2012, which included going concern explanatory language regarding those financial statements (the "Medina Audit"). The audit report was included in a Form 10-K filed by Medina with the Commission on August 14, 2012.

23. For the Medina Audit, Respondents failed to plan and perform audit procedures sufficient to identify and appropriately address departures from GAAP concerning discontinued operations.[38] Respondents also failed to identify and appropriately assess the risks of material misstatement.[39] Respondents further failed to appropriately evaluate several significant unusual transactions and whether Medina had appropriately disclosed all material related party transactions. All of those failures related to a significant acquisition that Medina disclosed it had entered into during fiscal year 2012, but then dissolved prior to the end of the fiscal year.

24. Specifically, in its fiscal year 2012 Form 10-K, Medina disclosed that, on June 28, 2011, the company had entered into a Contribution and Exchange Agreement (the "Acquisition") with WinTec Protective Systems, Inc., ("WinTec"), whereby Medina acquired "51% of the issued and outstanding common stock of WinTec, making WinTec a subsidiary of the company."[40] Medina consolidated the results of operations and financial position of WinTec in its interim financial statements, during each of the quarterly periods ending July 30, 2011, October 31, 2011, and January 31, 2012.[41]

25. However, at Medina's fiscal year-end (April 30, 2012), Medina did not consolidate WinTec's results and financial position. Instead, Medina disclosed in its 2012 Form 10-K that, on March 28, 2012, it had entered into a Settlement Agreement and Mutual Release ("Release") with WinTec and another entity.[42] According to Medina's disclosure, all "agreements entered into in 2011 [were] terminated and cancelled effective immediately…. As a result of the termination, WinTec is no longer a subsidiary of the Company."[43] Respondents understood that as a result of the Release, Medina derecognized WinTec's operating results, assets and liabilities from its consolidated financial statements.

26. PCAOB standards required Respondents to evaluate whether Medina's financial statements were presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with GAAP.[44] Under GAAP, Medina should have (1) included the operating results of WinTec in its audited consolidated financial statements as discontinued operations for the year under audit;[45] (2) recognized a gain or loss as a result of derecognizing the acquired company;[46] and (3) included disclosures related to the Release and discontinued operations in the notes to its financial statements.[47] Medina's failure to do so constituted departures from GAAP, and Respondents should have identified and addressed those departures.[48]

27. Respondents also failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in connection with the Medina Audit.[49] In particular, Respondents failed to obtain a sufficient understanding of the business rationale for the Release, which was a significant unusual transaction in that it involved the dissolution of a recently completed acquisition and included another entity that was not a party to the original acquisition agreement, a copy of which was included in Respondents' work papers.[50] During the Medina Audit, Respondents failed to take any steps to understand the other

Respondents failed to do so, despite including in their work papers minutes from a meeting of Medina's Board of Directors indicating that Medina may have entered into the Release due to litigation threats made by the other entity.

28. Respondents also failed to appropriately evaluate other significant unusual transactions that Medina entered into during 2012. Specifically, subsequent to the WinTec Acquisition, Medina advanced approximately $237,000 in cash to WinTec and recorded the advances as "intercompany receivables."[51] At the time of the Release, Medina converted the entire intercompany receivable balance into a two-year note. Shortly thereafter, however, Medina reserved for the full amount of that note (based on an audit adjustment proposed by Respondents). Also upon Release, Medina executed a business consulting agreement with the president of WinTec in exchange for 500,000 shares of Medina's common stock.

29. Respondents failed to take steps to obtain a sufficient understanding of (1) the business rationale for Medina's consulting agreement with WinTec, and (2) the transactions surrounding the two-year note from WinTec before they proposed the audit adjustment that led to the write-off of the note.[52] Moreover, Respondents failed to evaluate whether Medina should have disclosed any or all of the transactions with WinTec as material related party transactions in its 2012 financial statements.[53]

The Firm issued its consent to include its audit reports in each of maniaTV's Forms S-1/A. maniaTV's registration statement became effective on May 13, 2013, which required the company to file reports under Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act. maniaTV is pending listing on the OTC Bulletin Board. According to its filings, maniaTV provides a library of shows for online and application-based viewing by consumers. At all relevant times, maniaTV was an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

31. The Firm audited maniaTV's financial statements for the year ended December 31 2012, and issued an audit report containing an unqualified audit opinion on March 25, 2013 (the "maniaTV Audit"). The audit report was included in the above-described Form S-1 and Forms S-1/A maniaTV filed with the Commission.

32. Respondents failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in connection with the maniaTV Audit.[54] In filings with the Commission, maniaTV disclosed that it generates revenue from online advertising agencies and advertising networks to provide advertising on the company's website, and recognizes revenue in accordance with contract terms.[55] maniaTV's reported revenue increased approximately 690% in 2012. Despite that increase and the requirement that auditors should presume that there is a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition,[56] Respondents did not identify a risk of fraud associated with revenue recognition, nor did the audit work papers document any reasons why a fraud risk was not identified.[57]

33. Additionally, Respondents failed to plan and perform sufficient audit procedures with respect to revenue.[58] Specifically, despite Chadwick's understanding that maniaTV recognized revenue based on contract terms, Respondents did not obtain and review maniaTV's sales contracts. Because respondents did not test controls and performed limited substantive audit procedures for revenue, e.g., they vouched a selection of sales to invoices and cash receipts, they did not obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to conclude that (1) persuasive evidence of an

The Firm issued its consent to include its audit report in each of RD&G's Forms S-1/A.

36. Respondents failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to plan and perform the RD&G Audit in accordance with PCAOB standards.[59] As in the maniaTV Audit, Respondents failed in the RD&G Audit to identify a risk of fraud associated with revenue recognition[60] and failed to document any reasons why a fraud risk was not identified.[61]

37. Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to accounts receivable.[62] Further, Respondents failed to evaluate conditions relating to the assessment of fraud risks.[63] As of December 31, 2012, accounts receivable represented approximately 33% of RD&G's reported total assets. In order to test accounts receivable, Respondents sent accounts receivable confirmation requests, but failed to maintain any records of how accounts were selected for confirmation or how many confirmation requests were sent. The work papers contain a limited number of confirmation responses, but the work papers provide no evidence that Respondents used an appropriate sampling approach for selecting the accounts to be confirmed.[64] Therefore, the responses failed to provide reasonable assurance as to the existence of the entire accounts receivable balance.

38. In addition, one of the confirmation responses received by Respondents was a negative response (the party stated that it did not know who RD&G was). Respondents failed to identify the negative confirmation response as a matter that might affect the assessment of fraud risks and, therefore, failed to evaluate sufficiently the results of the auditing procedures on the RD&G fraud risk assessments and failed to evaluate whether additional audit procedures needed to be performed.[65] Instead, Chadwick viewed the negative response as an "incomplete reply" and failed to re-evaluate the related risk assessments. He also undertook no additional audit procedures or steps with respect to RD&G's accounts receivable.[66] called "SOBR." TransBiotec's common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board under the symbol "IMLE." At all relevant times, TransBiotec was an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

40. The Firm audited TransBiotec's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012, and issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on April 25, 2013, which included going concern explanatory language regarding those financial statements ("TransBiotec Audit"). The audit report was included in a Form 10-K filed by TransBiotec with the Commission on May 9, 2013.

41. Respondents failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to plan and perform the TransBiotec Audit in accordance with PCAOB standards.[67] Specifically, Respondents failed to plan and perform sufficient procedures to properly evaluate TransBiotec's accounting for the issuance of equity instruments as consideration for services provided.[68] In particular, during the TransBiotec Audit, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to evaluate whether TransBiotec had recorded in the proper period expenses for services provided.[69]

42. TransBiotec reported in its 2012 financial statements that it issued approximately 3.8 million shares of common stock for services and recorded additional-paid-in-capital of approximately $2.3 million for those equity transactions. The expenses TransBiotec reported related to the issuance of stock as consideration for services during 2012 equaled approximately 65% of TransBiotec's net loss for 2012.

43. According to Respondents' work papers, 2.28 million of the 3.8 million shares of common stock that TransBiotec issued for services during 2012 related to an agreement that TransBiotec had entered with a consultant during the prior fiscal year (the "Consulting Agreement"). Respondents included in their 2012 work papers a copy of the Consulting Agreement, pursuant to which the consultant would be paid based on the achievement of certain milestones. One of the milestones was assisting TransBiotec with completing a reverse merger transaction, which TransBiotec, in fact, completed during 2011.[70] Despite the completion of the reverse merger during 2011, Respondents' work papers indicate that all stock issuances pursuant to the Consulting Agreement occurred during 2012. Respondents undertook no procedures to evaluate whether (and when) each of the milestones under the Consulting Agreement was reached, and whether some or all of the expenses related to TransBiotec's stock issuances under the Consulting Agreement should have been recorded in the prior year.[71]

Violations Relating to Audit Documentation

44. Respondents also violated the PCAOB audit documentation standard, AS 3, in connection with the maniaTV and RD&G audits. Specifically, long after the documentation completion dates for both audits, Respondents added information to the work papers. Respondents added information about the sale of common shares to a work paper documenting the activity in maniaTV's stockholders' equity accounts. Regarding RD&G, Respondents added notations to the accounts receivable work papers indicating customer balances for which subsequent cash collections were reviewed. Respondents added that documentation to the maniaTV and RD&G work papers without indicating the date of the additions, the reason the additions were made, and the name of the individual who made the additions, in violation of AS 3.[72]

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Ronald R. Chadwick, P.C., is hereby censured;

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS

In the Matter of Mark Shelley CPA, Mark A. Shelley, CPA, and Allan J. Ricks, Respondents.

May 28, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Mark Shelley CPA ("Firm") and revoking the Firm's registration; censuring Mark A. Shelley, CPA ("Shelley") and barring Shelley from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm; and censuring Allan J. Ricks ("Ricks") and barring Ricks from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) Shelley and the Firm violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the Firm's audits of an issuer client's financial statements; (b) the Firm violated Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") and Rule 10b-5 thereunder in connection with one of those audits; (c) Shelley directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 thereunder; and (d) Ricks violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with his engagement quality reviews ("EQRs") of the Firm's audits.

I.

[1] Ricks may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondents

1. Mark Shelley CPA, is, and at all relevant times was, a sole proprietorship organized and licensed under the laws of the state of Arizona (registration no. 4242), and located in Mesa, Arizona. The Firm has been registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules since October 14, 2003.[4] The Firm has one

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondents in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that such sanctions may be imposed in the event of (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[4] The Firm was previously registered with the PCAOB under the name Shelley International CPA. See PCAOB Form 3 at 1, 10 (May 6, 2014) (reporting change of legal name from "Shelley International CPA" to "Mark Shelley CPA" effective July 1, 2014).

issuer audit client (identified below) and no registered broker-dealer audit clients. At all relevant times, the Firm was the independent auditor for the issuer identified herein.[5]

2. Mark A. Shelley, CPA, 63, of Mesa, Arizona, is the sole owner of Mark Shelley CPA, and a certified public accountant ("CPA") licensed by the Arizona State Board of Accountancy (certificate no. 3115). Shelley had final responsibility for, and authorized the issuance of reports on, the Firm's audits of the financial statements of Unilava Corporation ("Unilava"), identified below, for the years ended December 31, 2012 and 2013. At all relevant times, Shelley was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

3. Allan J. Ricks, 62, of Mesa, Arizona, was a full-time employee of the Firm until December 2012, when he left the Firm and joined one of its non-issuer clients as the company's financial controller. Ricks thereafter continued to assist Shelley and the Firm with client work, including by performing EQRs of Unilava audits. Ricks served as the engagement quality reviewer, and provided his concurring approval of issuance, for the Firm's audits of Unilava's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2012 and 2013. At all relevant times, Ricks was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

4. This matter concerns violations by Respondents of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the Firm's audits of Unilava's financial statements for 2012 and 2013 ("Unilava Audits").[6] As detailed below, Shelley and the Firm failed repeatedly, among other things, to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence, exercise due professional care, and exercise professional skepticism in connection with those audits.

5. The Firm also violated Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act, and Rule 10b-5 thereunder, by issuing an audit report stating that the audit of Unilava's 2013 financial statements had been performed in accordance with PCAOB standards when it knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that the statement was false. Shelley took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5, and thereby violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

6. The Firm also violated Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), by failing to have EQRs performed for those audits by an engagement quality reviewer possessing the level of knowledge and competence relating to accounting, auditing, and financial reporting required by that standard. Shelley took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of AS 7, and thereby violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

7. Ricks violated AS 7 by providing his concurring approval of issuance without performing with due professional care the EQRs required by that standard for the Unilava Audits.

C. Shelley and the Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with the Audits

8. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[7] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[8] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care, exercise professional skepticism, and obtain appropriate audit evidence that is sufficient to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed in the auditor's report.[9]

ORDER

9. As detailed below, Respondents failed to comply with the aforementioned rules and standards, among others, in connection with the Unilava Audits.

The 2012 Unilava Audit

10. Unilava is a Wyoming corporation headquartered in San Francisco, California. Unilava's public filings disclose that it provides communication services, products, and equipment that address the needs of small to medium enterprise businesses and consumers. Its common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and is quoted on the OTC Pink marketplace. At all relevant times, Unilava was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

11. In November 2012, the Firm became Unilava's external auditors. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 15, 2013, expressing an unqualified opinion with a going concern explanatory paragraph on Unilava's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012. The Firm's audit report was included in Unilava's Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") on April 16, 2013. Shelley had final responsibility for the audit of Unilava's 2012 financial statements ("2012 Audit") and authorized issuance of the Firm's audit report.

12. Shelley and the Firm violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in conducting the 2012 Audit. Among other things, Shelley and the Firm failed to plan the 2012 Audit by failing to develop an overall strategy for the audit that set the scope, timing, and direction of the audit,[10] or to develop and document an audit plan that included a description of the nature, timing, and extent of the risk assessment procedures, tests of controls, and substantive procedures.[11] Shelley and the Firm also failed to perform sufficient procedures necessary to identify, assess, and respond to the risks of material misstatement due to fraud, including performing journal entry testing.[12]

ORDER

13. In performing the 2012 Audit, Shelley and the Firm failed to exercise due professional care and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning significant balances and transactions in Unilava's financial statements.[13] Unilava reported total revenue of $3.1 million during 2012. During the 2012 Audit, Shelley and the Firm failed to perform sufficient audit procedures concerning revenue. Specifically, Shelley and the Firm failed to identify the risks of material misstatement at the assertion level or to perform procedures to address those risks.[14] This included a failure to assess whether there was a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition and evaluate which types of revenue, revenue transactions, or assertions may have given rise to a fraud risk.[15] In addition, Shelley and the Firm failed to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that were specifically responsive to that fraud risk.[16]

14. Other than tracing deposits from bank records to Unilava's general ledger for one month during the year and examining several revenue contracts, Shelley and the Firm did not perform any procedures relating to revenue. Shelley and the Firm failed to perform procedures sufficient to test the existence and valuation of revenue reported by the company throughout the year. Furthermore, Shelley and the Firm failed to evaluate whether Unilava's revenue recognition complied with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States ("US GAAP"). Shelley and the Firm accordingly failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding Unilava's 2012 revenue.[17]

15. Shelley and the Firm also failed to perform sufficient audit procedures concerning the valuation of goodwill in Unilava's December 31, 2012 financial statements. Unilava reported goodwill of $767,873, which accounted for approximately 29 percent of its total reported assets as of December 31, 2012. Unilava disclosed in its 2012 Form 10-K that it annually reviews the carrying value of goodwill to determine whether an impairment, as measured by a change in fair market value, may exist.[18]

Unilava also disclosed that there was substantial doubt about its ability to continue as a going concern due to various factors, including operating losses during 2012, as well as negative working capital and an accumulated deficit as of year-end. Furthermore, Unilava recorded a goodwill impairment charge in the previous year's financial statements. Shelley and the Firm failed to perform any audit procedures to evaluate whether Unilava's goodwill was properly valued including obtaining any impairment analyses prepared by Unilava and, therefore, failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to Unilava's goodwill.[19]

16. Unilava reported total long-lived assets, net of accumulated depreciation, of $1.5 million, accounting for approximately 57 percent of total reported assets as of December 31, 2012. Unilava disclosed in its 2012 Form 10-K that during a prior year it had acquired microwave towers, representing approximately 78 percent of total long-lived assets, in exchange for an ownership interest in one of its subsidiaries. In addition, Unilava disclosed that it had an arrangement with the seller of the towers, a related entity, whereby Unilava had the right to a specified number of towers and the ability to exchange towers with the related entity if a tower was sold or was not deemed suitable. The only procedures performed by Shelley and the Firm with respect to Unilava's long-lived assets consisted of reading the predecessor auditor's related work papers and searching an internet website to locate a number of the towers listed on an issuer-prepared depreciation schedule. The website searches did not provide any audit evidence with respect to ownership of, rights to, or valuation of the towers. Shelley and the Firm accordingly failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence.[20]

17. Finally, Shelley and the Firm failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to test the existence and valuation of accounts receivable. Unilava reported accounts receivable, net of an allowance for doubtful accounts, of $246,438—which accounted for approximately nine percent of total reported assets at the end of the year. existence of accounts receivable, Shelley and the Firm sent confirmation request letters to customers with balances that, in aggregate, represented approximately 95 percent of year-end gross accounts receivable. Prior to the Firm's issuance of its audit report regarding Unilava's 2012 financial statements, Shelley and the Firm did not receive any responses to the confirmation request letters. Nor did Shelley and the Firm perform alternative procedures to test the accounts receivable balances for which confirmation responses were not received. Shelley and the Firm accordingly failed to perform sufficient procedures to test the existence of accounts receivable.[21] Additionally, Shelley and the Firm failed to perform any procedures relating to the valuation of Unilava's accounts receivable.[22]

18. Furthermore, on April 17, 2013, two days after the date of the Firm's audit report regarding Unilava's 2012 financial statements, the Firm received a response to one of its confirmation request letters. The response, sent by a Unilava customer, stated that the customer did not owe any amounts to Unilava. That customer had a reported accounts receivable balance of $172,499 (approximately 70 percent of total reported gross accounts receivable) as of December 31, 2012. Shelley and the Firm failed to perform sufficient audit procedures with respect to the information in that confirmation request response, including to determine whether the information was reliable, to discuss the matter with Unilava, or to evaluate whether the Firm's report would have been affected if the information had been known to Shelley and the Firm at the date of the Firm's report.[23]

19. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 12, 2014, expressing an unqualified opinion with a going concern explanatory paragraph on Unilava's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013. The Firm's audit report was included in Unilava's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 14, 2014. The audit report stated that the audit was conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards and that Unilava's financial statements presented fairly, in all material respects, Unilava's financial position and the results of its operations in conformity with US GAAP. had final responsibility for the audit of Unilava's 2013 financial statements ("2013 Audit") and authorized issuance of the Firm's audit report.

20. In performing the 2013 Audit, Shelley and the Firm again failed to exercise due professional care and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence.[24] During the 2013 Audit, Shelley and the Firm failed to plan the audit, performed few audit procedures overall, and performed no audit procedures relating to certain significant balances and transactions in Unilava's financial statements. Shelley and the Firm: (a) failed to plan the audit in accordance with PCAOB standards; (b) failed to perform sufficient procedures necessary to identify, assess, and respond to the risks of material misstatement due to fraud, including performing journal entry testing; (c) failed to perform any procedures relating to Unilava's reported revenue of $2.7 million; and (d) failed to perform any audit procedures relating to the existence and valuation of Unilava's significant reported assets including goodwill of $767,873 (approximately 30 percent of reported total assets), net long-lived assets of $1.4 million (approximately 55 percent of reported total assets), and net accounts receivable of $294,150 (approximately 11 percent of reported total assets).[25]

D. The Firm Violated Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 Thereunder, and Shelley Violated PCAOB Rule 3502, in Connection with the 2013 Audit

21. Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 thereunder prohibit a person, in connection with the purchase or sale of a security, from making an untrue statement of a material fact or from omitting to state a material fact necessary to make statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.[26] To violate Section 10(b) or Rule 10b-5, a respondent must act with scienter,[27] which the Supreme Court has defined as "a mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud."[28] Scienter encompasses knowing or intentional conduct, or recklessness.[29]

22. An auditor violates Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 thereunder by issuing an audit report stating that the audit has been performed in accordance with PCAOB standards when it knows, or is reckless in not knowing, that the statement is false.[30] These statements are clearly material, as "[f]ew matters could be more important to investors than that of whether an issuer's financial statements, contained in its filings with the Commission, had, in fact, been subjected to an annual audit conducted in accordance with [PCAOB standards] in all material respects."[31]

23. As detailed above, Shelley and the Firm did not plan the audit, performed few audit procedures, and performed no audit procedures relating to certain significant balances and transactions to provide support for the Firm's unqualified opinion that Unilava's 2013 financial statements were fairly presented in accordance with US GAAP. The Firm nevertheless issued its audit report regarding Unilava's 2013 financial statements, and Shelley authorized the issuance of that audit report.

24. The Firm violated Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 thereunder by issuing an audit report that falsely stated that the 2013 Audit had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards when the Firm knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that no planning, few audit procedures, and no audit procedures relating to certain significant balances and transactions had been performed prior to the issuance of the Firm's audit opinion.

audit report regarding Unilava's 2013 financial statements. Shelley accordingly violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

E. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with Engagement Quality Reviews

26. AS 7 provides that an EQR and concurring approval of issuance are required for any audit conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[32] Shelley and the Firm assigned Ricks to perform the EQRs for the 2012 and 2013 Audits.

27. AS 7 provides that the engagement quality reviewer must possess the level of knowledge and competence relating to accounting, auditing, and financial reporting required to serve as the engagement partner on the engagement under review.[33] At the time he provided his concurring approvals of issuance of the Firm's audit reports for the 2012 and 2013 Audits, Ricks was not a CPA, had issuer-audit experience consisting only of a few weeks' audit staff work for a single issuer client in a different industry than Unilava, had received no training in PCAOB auditing standards or SEC reporting requirements, and was not otherwise familiar with those standards and requirements. The Firm nonetheless assigned Ricks to perform the EQRs for the 2012 and 2013 Audits, even though Ricks lacked the required level of knowledge and competence relating to accounting, auditing, and financial reporting. The Firm accordingly violated AS 7.

28. Shelley knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7 when he assigned an engagement quality reviewer who did not possess the required level of knowledge and competence to perform the EQRs for the 2012 and 2013 audits. Shelley accordingly violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

29. Moreover, under AS 7, the engagement quality reviewer may provide concurring approval of issuance for an audit report only if, after performing with due professional care the review required by AS 7, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[34] AS 7 states that a significant engagement deficiency in an audit exists when: "(1) the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB, (2) the engagement team reached an inappropriate overall conclusion on the subject matter of the engagement, (3) the engagement report is not appropriate in the circumstances, or (4) the firm is not independent of its client."[35]

30. An engagement quality reviewer should evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[36] In performing an EQR for an audit, the engagement quality reviewer should, among other things, evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, significant risks, including fraud risks, identified by the engagement team or other significant risks identified by the engagement quality reviewer.[37] The engagement quality reviewer should also evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks and whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to matters reviewed.[38] Finally, the engagement quality reviewer should review the engagement completion document.[39]

31. In connection with each of the 2012 and 2013 Audits, Ricks failed to evaluate the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement team with respect to significant audit areas including revenue, goodwill, long-lived assets, and accounts receivable. In addition, Ricks failed to obtain and evaluate any audit documentation with respect to those audit areas. As noted above, Shelley and the Firm failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence relating to those audit areas during the 2012 and 2013 Audits, and Ricks failed to perform EQRs sufficient to discover those significant engagement deficiencies. Furthermore, Ricks failed to review the engagement completion document. Ricks provided his concurring approvals of issuance without performing the EQRs with due professional care and accordingly violated AS 7.

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in the Respondents' Offers. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Mark Shelley CPA, Mark A. Shelley, CPA, and Allan J. Ricks are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Mark Shelley CPA is revoked;

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Mark A. Shelley, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[40]

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Allan J. Ricks is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[41] and

[40] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Shelley. Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act provides that "[i]t shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

[41] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will also apply with respect to Ricks.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Harris & Gillespie CPA's, PLLC ("Firm"); (2) revoking the Firm's registration;[1] (3) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $15,000 on the Firm; (4) censuring Thomas J. Harris, CPA ("Harris"); and (5) barring Harris from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the Firm and Harris (together, "Respondents") on the basis of its findings that Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of three issuer clients.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (together, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to

[1] The Firm may re-apply for registration after five (5) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Harris may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after five (5) years from the date of this Order.

which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[4] that:

A. Respondents

1. Harris & Gillespie CPA's, PLLC, is a professional limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Washington and headquartered in Seattle, Washington. It is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and is licensed by the Washington State Board of Accountancy (license no. 5987).

2. The audit reports discussed in this Order were issued by the registered firm Thomas J Harris CPA ("Predecessor Firm"), a sole proprietorship that registered with the Board on October 5, 2004. The Firm succeeded to the registration status of the Predecessor Firm in 2014 by filing with the Board a Form 4, Succeeding to Registration Status of Predecessor, in which it affirmed that, "for purposes of the Board's authority…to impose disciplinary sanctions, the Firm either has retained or assumes responsibility for the conduct of any predecessor registered public accounting firm before the change or business combination reported on this Form took effect." The Firm and the Predecessor Firm are therefore referred to in this Order together as the "Firm."

3. Thomas J. Harris, CPA, 71, of Lake Forest Park, Washington, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Washington State Board of Accountancy (license no.

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondents in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that such sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

02796). He is the managing member of the Firm, and at all relevant times was the owner of the Predecessor Firm. Harris authorized the issuance of all audit reports discussed in this Order. Harris is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

4. This matter concerns Respondents' repeated and numerous failures to comply with PCAOB rules and standards. Specifically, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with auditing the financial statements of Amerilithium Corp. ("Amerilithium"), Hitor Group, Inc. ("Hitor"), and Asia Interactive Media, Inc. ("Asia Interactive"), for the year ended December 31, 2011 ("FY 2011"), and in connection with the audit of Hitor for the year ended December 31, 2012 ("FY 2012").

5. Respondents also violated federal securities laws and PCAOB rules and standards relating to independence during the FY 2011 audit and FY 2012 quarterly reviews of Asia Interactive's financial statements, because Harris served as lead partner for more than five consecutive years. Respondents also violated applicable independence rules in connection with the Firm's audit report concerning Asia Interactive's restatement of its FY 2011 financial statements, for which a Firm employee prepared the restated financial statements.

6. Subsequent to the audits discussed above, Respondents failed to maintain their documentation for the FY 2011 Hitor and Asia Interactive audits for the time period required by PCAOB standards.

C. Respondents Repeatedly Violated Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for his or her opinion.[7] Those standards also require that, if an auditor has not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence about a relevant assertion, the auditor should perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address the matter. If the auditor is unable to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to have a reasonable basis to conclude about whether the financial statements as a whole are free of material misstatement, the auditor should express a qualified opinion or a disclaimer of opinion.[8]

8. PCAOB standards state that, in planning an audit, an auditor should, among other things: establish an overall strategy for the audit; develop and document an audit plan; and determine whether specialized skill or knowledge is needed to perform the audit.[9]

9. In connection with the planning and performance of an audit, an auditor should also identify and assess the risks of material misstatement in the financial statements.[10] Procedures related to these risks include holding discussions concerning the risks of material misstatement with engagement team members and inquiring with management about the risks of material misstatement that exist.[11] PCAOB standards also state that auditors should perform procedures to "obtain satisfaction concerning the purpose, nature, and extent" of identified related-party transactions and to satisfy themselves that those transactions are adequately disclosed.[12] PCAOB auditing standards also state that an auditor should consider materiality in planning and performing an audit.[13]

10. PCAOB standards require each audit engagement and interim review to have an engagement quality review and concurring approval of the issuance of an audit report from an engagement quality reviewer.[14] PCAOB standards also require that audit procedures be documented.[15]

11. PCAOB rules also prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation of Board standards by that firm.[16]

Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards During the FY 2011 Audit of Amerilithium

12. Amerilithium was, at all relevant times, a Nevada corporation headquartered in Henderson, Nevada. According to its public filings, Amerilithium was a mineral exploration company. Its common stock was quoted on the OTC Markets OTCBB under the symbol "AMEL." At all relevant times, Amerilithium was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). The Firm acted as Amerilithium's external auditor for FY 2011.

13. The Firm issued an audit report dated March 29, 2012, that was included in Amerilithium's Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on April 4, 2012. The report stated that the audit of Amerilithium's FY 2011 financial statements had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards, and expressed an unqualified opinion concerning those financial statements. Harris authorized the issuance of the audit report.[17]

14. In connection with the audit of Amerilithium's FY 2011 financial statements, Respondents failed to properly plan the audit. They failed to establish an audit strategy for the engagement or to develop an audit plan.[18] They also failed to consider materiality when performing their audit procedures.[19] Additionally, Respondents failed to perform sufficient risk assessment procedures by not performing procedures to identify risks of material misstatement and not inquiring of management about those risks, despite knowing that such inquiries were required by PCAOB standards.[20]

15. Respondents also failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning significant balances and transactions in Amerilithium's FY 2011 financial statements. Amerilithium's financial statements reported total assets of $7.8 million. Mining claims represented 93% of those reported assets, yet Respondents failed to perform any procedures to test the reported value of those claims, including by failing to perform any procedures to consider whether the claims were impaired at year-end 2011.[21]

16. Amerilithium's FY 2011 financial statements reported total liabilities of approximately $627,000. Convertible debentures represented almost 99% of those reported liabilities. Respondents, who had no experience with or understanding of convertible debt, took no steps to determine whether specialized skill or knowledge was required to audit Amerilithium's accounting for the liability.[22] They then failed to perform any procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning the convertible debt.[23] As a result of their failure to perform procedures concerning the convertible debt, Respondents did not consider whether the convertible debt contained a beneficial conversion feature that affected the proper accounting for that debt.

17. During FY 2011, Amerilithium issued 4.4 million shares, both to raise capital for mining claims and related services and in exchange for the conversion of debt. The company valued the shares at approximately $709,000. Respondents failed to perform any procedures to determine whether Amerilithium's issuances of shares were valued appropriately.[24]

ORDER

18. The Firm also failed to obtain a concurring approval of issuance of the audit report from an engagement quality reviewer prior to authorizing its issuance.[25] Harris knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation of AS 7 when he improperly authorized the issuance of the audit report by the Firm without an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance.[26] After Respondents ultimately obtained an engagement quality review in April 2012 (after Amerilithium had filed its Form 10-K), the engagement quality reviewer noted that Amerilithium had incorrectly accounted for its convertible debentures. Respondents notified Amerilithium of the results of the belated engagement quality review, and Amerilithium filed restated financial statements on Form 10-K/A on June 28, 2012.

Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards During the FY 2011 Audit of Hitor

19. Hitor was, at all relevant times, a Nevada corporation headquartered in Kirkland, Washington. According to its public filings, Hitor owned proprietary technology to increase the fuel efficiency of vehicles. Its common stock was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board under the symbol "HITR." At all relevant times, Hitor was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). The Firm acted as Hitor's external auditor for FY 2011 and FY 2012.

20. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 16, 2012, that was included in Hitor's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 17, 2012. The report stated that the audit of Hitor's FY 2011 financial statements had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards, and expressed an unqualified opinion concerning Hitor's FY 2011 financial statements. Harris authorized the issuance of the audit report.

21. At the time Respondents performed the FY 2011 audit of Hitor, Harris understood that Hitor was under significant time pressure to file its financial statements. Respondents conducted the audit in a narrow time frame which ended in multiple audit deficiencies.

[26] See PCAOB Rule 3502.

ORDER

22. Respondents failed to properly plan the audit. They failed to establish an audit strategy and to develop an audit plan.[27] In addition, they failed to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement.[28]

23. Respondents also failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning significant balances and transactions in Hitor's FY 2011 financial statements. Hitor's financial statements reported liabilities of approximately $806,000. Over 49% of those reported liabilities consisted of convertible notes payable. As with Amerilithium, Respondents had no experience with or understanding of convertible debt and took no steps to determine whether specialized skill or knowledge was required to audit Hitor's accounting for that debt.[29] They also failed to perform any procedures concerning the valuation of the notes.[30]

24. An additional 19% of Hitor's reported December 31, 2011, liabilities consisted of a "deposit." Respondents understood that this deposit was a prepayment from a customer, but failed to perform any procedures concerning that item and failed to inquire of management concerning the current status of Hitor's relationship with the customer.[31]

25. Hitor's FY 2011 financial statements also reported certain notes payable. One of these notes, which represented approximately 8% of its liabilities, was disclosed as "a note payable with one of its officers and shareholders." Respondents understood at the time of the audit, however, that this note actually reflected funds loaned by family members of Hitor's chief executive officer ("CEO") to the company, which the CEO was using for personal expenses. Respondents failed to address the discrepancy between this understanding and the company's disclosure, or to take any steps to investigate the nature of the transaction.[32] They also failed to perform any procedures concerning the purpose, nature, and extent of the loan or to satisfy themselves that the loan was adequately disclosed.[33]

ORDER

26. The Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review for the FY 2011 Hitor audit.[34] Harris knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation of AS 7 when he improperly authorized the issuance of the audit report by the Firm without an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance.[35]

Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards During the FY 2011 Re-Audit of Hitor

27. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 15, 2013, that was included in Hitor's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 16, 2013. The report, as subsequently corrected in a Form 10-K/A,[36] stated that the audits of Hitor's FY 2012 and FY 2011 financial statements had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards, and expressed an unqualified opinion concerning those financial statements.

28. In early 2013, while preparing for the audit of Hitor's FY 2012 financial statements, Respondents determined that they might not be independent of Hitor, and might not have been independent of Hitor for the FY 2011 audit, because the FY 2011 audit had been the sixth consecutive audit for which Harris had acted as lead partner. In response, Harris asked another auditor ("Outside Auditor") to serve as partner for the audit of Hitor's FY 2012 financial statements, and simultaneously to conduct a "re-audit" of Hitor's FY 2011 financial statements. The Outside Auditor had no prior experience with the Hitor audits. The Outside Auditor agreed to and did serve as partner for both audits and became an associated person of the Firm in connection with the FY 2012 Hitor audit and FY 2011 re-audit.

[35] See PCAOB Rule 3502.

[36] The audit report included in the April 16, 2013, Form 10-K stated that the Firm had "audited the accompanying financial statements of [Hitor], which comprise the balance sheet as of February 28, 2013, and the related statements of income, stockholders' equity and cash flows for the year then ended." The audit report then expressed an unqualified opinion as to "the financial position of [Hitor] as of December 31, 2012, and the results of their operations and the cash flows for the year then ended." On September 27, 2013, Hitor filed a Form 10-K/A that included a corrected Firm report that pertained to the financial statements for FY 2011 and FY 2012. That report was based on the audit work conducted in connection with the Form 10-K filed on April 16, 2013.

ORDER

29. Respondents agreed that the Outside Auditor would play the lead role in the audit work, though a staff employee of the Firm would perform most of the field procedures. Harris, however, retained sole authority to authorize the issuance of the Firm's audit report.

30. The Firm failed to perform any procedures to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement.[37]

31. The Firm also failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning significant balances and transactions in Hitor's FY 2011 financial statements. Hitor reported total assets of approximately $187,000 as of December 31, 2011, of which cash represented over 58%. The Firm failed to perform adequate procedures to test the existence of cash. It did not send or receive cash confirmations; its only procedure was to review bank statements provided by the client.[38]

32. Similarly, inventory represented over 40% of Hitor's reported assets as of December 31, 2011. The Firm failed to perform any procedures regarding the existence or valuation of that inventory, despite the fact that in FY 2012 (the year that it was simultaneously auditing) Hitor wrote off the inventory.[39]

33. With regard to Hitor's liabilities reported in the FY 2011 financial statements, the Firm failed to perform any procedures concerning convertible notes payable, a deposit, or notes payable, financial statement line items that together represented 78% of Hitor's reported $806,000 in liabilities.[40]

34. The Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review for the FY 2011 Hitor re-audit.[41] Harris knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation of AS 7 by failing to ensure that an engagement quality review was performed and concurring approval of issuance was obtained.[42]

35. As stated above, the Firm's April 15, 2013 audit report also contained an unqualified opinion concerning Hitor's FY 2012 financial statements. Again, the Outside Auditor served as a partner and Harris authorized the issuance of the audit report. The Firm conducted the audit of the FY 2012 financial statements simultaneously with the re-audit of Hitor's FY 2011 financial statements.

36. As with the FY 2011 re-audit, the Firm failed to perform any procedures to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement, including by failing to hold discussions with the engagement team and failing to inquire with the client about those risks.[43]

37. The Firm failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning significant balances and transactions in Hitor's FY 2012 financial statements. Hitor reported assets of approximately $146,000 as of December 31, 2012. Prepaid expenses represented almost 40% of total assets, an increase from the December 31, 2011, balance of zero. The Firm failed to perform any procedures concerning prepaid expenses.[44]

38. The Firm also failed to perform any procedures concerning Hitor's decision to write off the value of its inventory to zero as of December 31, 2012.[45] Similarly, almost 16% of Hitor's reported assets consisted of an "Investment in Hitor Poland LLC," but when Hitor's only documentation of this "asset" consisted of an invoice recording Hitor's purchase of a wind turbine from a Canadian company, the Firm failed to address or inquire about the discrepancy between the nature of the invoice and the reported investment.[46]

39. Additionally, Hitor reported liabilities of approximately $1 million as of December 31, 2012, of which 65% consisted of notes payable and convertible notes payable. The Firm failed to perform any procedures regarding these items.[47]

ORDER

40. The Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review for the FY 2012 Hitor audit.[48] Harris knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation of AS 7 by failing to ensure that an engagement quality review was performed and concurring approval of issuance was obtained.[49]

Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards During the FY 2011 Audit of Asia Interactive

41. Asia Interactive was, at all relevant times, a Nevada corporation headquartered in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China. According to its public filings, Asia Interactive was a "blank check" company formed for the purpose of conducting a business combination with one or more operating businesses. Its common stock was registered with the Commission under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"). At all relevant times, Asia Interactive was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). The Firm acted as Asia Interactive's external auditor for the years ended December 31, 2006, through 2011, as well as for the FY 2012 quarterly reviews.

42. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 4, 2012 that was included in Asia Interactive's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 11, 2012. The report stated that the audit of Asia Interactive's FY 2011 financial statements had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards, and expressed an unqualified opinion concerning those financial statements. Harris authorized the audit report's issuance.

43. Respondents failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning Asia Interactive's FY 2011 financial statements. Asia Interactive's financial statements reported total assets of approximately $271,000, including a loan receivable related to a bridge loan agreement that represented almost 88% of that total. Despite the fact that the reported outstanding balance due under the bridge loan agreement had steadily increased for the prior four years, Respondents failed to perform any procedures concerning the valuation of the loan receivable.[50]

49 See PCAOB Rule 3502.

50 See AU § 230; AS 15; AS 14 ¶ 35.

ORDER

44. Prior to issuing the audit report, the Firm failed to obtain concurring approval from an engagement quality reviewer.[51] Harris knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation of AS 7 when he improperly authorized the issuance of the audit report by the Firm without an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance.[52] Respondents subsequently retained an engagement quality reviewer, who questioned the collectability of Asia Interactive's loan receivable. After Respondents notified Asia Interactive of the engagement quality reviewer's questions, the company determined that the receivable was not collectible and restated its FY 2011 financial statements on November 2, 2012, in a Form 10-K/A filed with the Commission to reflect a write-off of that asset.

D. Respondents Violated Independence Rules

45. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[53] "[A] registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws."[54]

46. Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act provides that "[i]t shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm to provide audit services to an issuer if the lead (or coordinating) audit partner (having primary responsibility for the audit), or the audit partner responsible for reviewing the audit, has performed audit services for that issuer in each of the 5 previous fiscal years of that issuer."[55]

47. Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client when an audit partner performs the services of lead or concurring audit partner for the same issuer for more than five consecutive years.[56]

48. Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act prohibits an auditor from providing non-audit services to an audit client that relate to its financial statements.[57] Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X also provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client when the accountant provides certain non-audit services to an audit client, including bookkeeping services such as "[p]reparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission."[58]

49. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 provides that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the partner-rotation requirements and non-audit services requirements of Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X.[59]

Respondents Violated Applicable Independence Rules During the FY 2011 Audit and FY 2012 Reviews of Asia Interactive

50. The Firm was engaged as Asia Interactive's external auditor in early 2007. The Firm issued six unqualified audit reports on Asia Interactive's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2006, through December 31, 2011. Each of those six audit reports was included in a Form 10-K or 10-KSB that Asia Interactive filed with the Commission.

51. Harris served as the lead partner on the audit of Asia Interactive for the years ending December 31, 2006, through 2010. After serving as lead partner for the aforementioned five-year period, Harris continued to serve as the lead partner on the audit of Asia Interactive's FY 2011 financial statements and on the reviews of Asia Interactive's FY 2012 quarterly financial statements.

[56] See Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X, 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(c)(6)(i)(A)(1). At all relevant times, the Firm had five or more issuer clients, and did not qualify for the exemption contained in Rule 2-01(c)(6)(ii), 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(c)(6)(ii).

ORDER

52. As a result of the services described above, Respondents were not independent during the audit of Asia Interactive's FY 2011 financial statements and quarterly reviews of Asia Interactive's FY 2012 financial statements, in violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Commission Regulation S-X, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.[60]

53. As stated above, Asia Interactive filed restated FY 2011 financial statements on November 2, 2012. The Firm issued a revised audit report dated October 26, 2012, concerning those financial statements. Harris served as lead partner in connection with that audit report, in further violation of applicable independence rules relating to partner rotation.[61]

54. Additionally, after Harris informed Asia Interactive of the need to restate its FY 2011 financial statements, he directed the Firm staff employee to prepare the restated financial statements, and Harris provided the restated financial statements to Asia Interactive to be included in the Form 10-K/A filed with the Commission, resulting in an additional violation of applicable independence rules by Respondents.[62]

E. Respondents Violated Audit Documentation Standards

55. PCAOB standards require that audit documentation be retained for seven years after the report release date.[63] The report release date for the FY 2011 Hitor audit was on or about April 17, 2012. The report release date for the FY 2011 Asia Interactive audit was on or about April 11, 2012. Respondents were therefore required to maintain their audit documentation for the FY 2011 Hitor and Asia Interactive audits until on or about April 17, 2019, and April 11, 2019, respectively.

56. During the Board's investigation in this matter, Respondents lost all of their audit documentation for the FY 2011 Hitor and Asia Interactive audits.

ORDER

57. Respondents failed to maintain their audit documentation for the FY 2011 Hitor and Asia Interactive audits for the required seven-year period, in violation of PCAOB standards.[64]

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Harris & Gillespie CPA's, PLLC, is censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Harris & Gillespie CPA's, PLLC, is revoked;

C. After 5 years from the date of this Order, Harris & Gillespie CPA's, PLLC, may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Thomas J. Harris, CPA, is censured;

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Thomas J. Harris, CPA, is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[65]

ORDER

F. After 5 years from the date of this Order, Thomas J. Harris, CPA, may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm; and

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $15,000 is imposed upon Harris & Gillespie CPA's, PLLC. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Harris & Gillespie CPA's, PLLC shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Harris & Gillespie CPA's, PLLC, as a Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release Number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Samyn & Martin, LLC and John J. Samyn, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-012 July 9, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring Samyn & Martin, LLC (the "Firm" or "Samyn & Martin"), revoking the Firm's registration,[1] and imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000; and (2) censuring John J. Samyn, CPA ("Samyn") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards, as well as Section 10A(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence, in connection with the audits of two issuers, and Samyn directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations with respect to one issuer.

I.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

[2] Samyn may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Samyn & Martin, LLC is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, and is headquartered in Kansas City, Missouri. Samyn & Martin registered with the Board on October 8, 2003, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Samyn & Martin is licensed to practice public accountancy by the Missouri State Board of Accountancy (License No. 2014007505) and, at all relevant times, was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below. During 2011 and 2012, the time periods in which the violations occurred, Samyn & Martin had three audit partners and one audit staff person.

2. John J. Samyn, age 45, of Overland Park, Kansas, is, and at all relevant times was, a partner in the Kansas City, Missouri office of Samyn & Martin and a certified public accountant licensed by the Missouri State Board of Accountancy (License No.

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

018897). At all relevant times, Samyn was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Other Relevant Individual

3. Suzanne M. Herring, age 49, of Las Vegas, Nevada, was, at all relevant times, an audit staff person in the Kansas City, Missouri office of Samyn & Martin. In that role, she served on the engagement team for the Firm's audit of one of the two issuers identified below and participated in one of the Firm's interim reviews of the other issuer identified below. At all relevant times, Herring was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Herring left Samyn & Martin in December 2012 and is currently employed at an entity that is not a registered public accounting firm. On April 1, 2015, the Board issued an order instituting and settled disciplinary proceedings against Herring related to her violations of PCAOB rules and standards, as well as Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence.[5] That order concerned, in part, the provision of prohibited non-audit services to the two Samyn & Martin issuer audit clients as discussed in Section D below.

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's issuer audit clients throughout the relevant audit and professional engagement periods, as well as the Firm's violations of Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence. The Firm was not independent with respect to two of its issuer audit clients because one of its staff auditors, Herring, provided the following prohibited non-audit services to its audit clients: (1) bookkeeping and financial statement preparation work for one of those issuers, Decision Diagnostics Corp. ("Decision Diagnostics"), during the audit period for which she served on the audit engagement team; and (2) derivative accounting and valuation services for the other issuer, American Petro-Hunter, Inc. ("APH"), during the year under audit and while she was assisting with one of the Firm's interim reviews of APH's financial statements.[6]

5. In addition, this matter concerns the Firm's violation of PCAOB quality control standards. Specifically, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards by failing to establish and implement policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that the Firm and its personnel maintained independence in fact and appearance.[7]

6. This matter also concerns Samyn's violation of the PCAOB rule that prohibits an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from directly and substantially contributing to the firm's violation of, among other things, relevant independence requirements.[8] Specifically, Samyn, the engagement partner on the APH audit, (a) asked Herring to assist APH by providing it with derivative accounting and valuation services, (b) acted as an intermediary between APH and Herring, and (c) at least initially, supervised Herring's performance of such services. Through his actions and omissions, Samyn directly and substantially contributed to Samyn & Martin's violation of applicable independence requirements, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502.

D. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards and the Exchange Act

7. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[9] A registered public accounting firm's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") under the federal securities laws.[10]

8. Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act provides that it shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm that performs an audit for an issuer "to provide to that issuer, contemporaneously with the audit, any non-audit service, including . . . [b]ookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client" and "[a]ppraisal or valuation services."

9. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 states that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the prohibited non-audit services provisions of Commission Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides certain non-audit services for an audit client, including bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services and appraisal or valuation services.[11]

10. As described below, the Firm failed to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules in connection with its audits of Decision Diagnostics 2011 financial statements and APH's 2012 financial statements.

11. On August 5, 2011, Decision Diagnostics engaged Samyn & Martin as its auditor for the year ended December 31, 2011. Prior to Samyn & Martin accepting that engagement, Herring had provided bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services for Decision Diagnostics, including in 2010 and in the first half of 2011.[12] In Decision Diagnostics' public filings disclose that it is a nationwide prescription and non-prescription diagnostic and home testing products distributor. On April 22, 2015, Decision Diagnostics filed a Form 15 to deregister its common stock. that capacity, Herring prepared journal entries, maintained Decision Diagnostics' accounting records, advised the issuer on generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), and prepared the issuer's financial statements and Forms 10-Q and 10-K that were filed with the Commission. Contemporaneously, Herring worked as a staff person for Samyn & Martin on more than ten audits unrelated to Decision Diagnostics.

12. When Decision Diagnostics engaged Samyn & Martin, Herring ceased providing bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services for Decision Diagnostics and joined the 2011 audit engagement team for Samyn & Martin. During Samyn & Martin's audit of Decision Diagnostics' fiscal year 2011 financial statements, the Firm audited accounting records that Herring had previously prepared and that reflected accounting principles she had recommended. In addition, the December 31, 2011 Decision Diagnostics' financial statements that Herring assisted in auditing were based, at least in part, on the quarterly financial statements that she had previously prepared.

13. As a result of the bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services provided by Herring, the Firm was not independent of Decision Diagnostics during its audit of the issuer's December 31, 2011 financial statements, in violation of PCAOB rules and auditing standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules.[13]

14. In addition, on March 13, 2012, the Firm issued a letter to Decision Diagnostics pursuant to PCAOB Rule 3526, Communication with Audit Committees Concerning Independence. In violation of Rule 3526, however, that letter failed to disclose the bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services provided by Herring. Also in violation of Rule 3526, the Firm failed to discuss with the Decision Diagnostics' audit committee the potential impact of those services on the Firm's independence.

ORDER

Samyn & Martin's Audit of APH's 2012 Financial Statements

15. Samyn & Martin was engaged as APH's external auditor in March 2009.[14] Beginning in March 2012, at the request of Samyn, the engagement partner for the APH audit, Herring provided accounting and valuation services to APH related to a derivative liability that APH recorded. As of the end of the third quarter of 2012, the derivative liability was the largest liability on APH's balance sheet, representing more than 68% of APH's total reported liabilities. As part of Herring's services for APH, she calculated the value of the derivative liability and related amounts, prepared source data and documents that supported the amounts reflected in the accounting records and financial statements of APH, prepared the journal entries for APH to record in its accounting records, and assisted in the preparation of APH's financial statements and notes thereto.

16. At the time Herring performed those prohibited non-audit services for APH, she was also an audit staff person for Samyn & Martin. Notwithstanding her performance of accounting and valuation services for APH during 2012, Herring also assisted with Samyn & Martin's quarterly review of APH's September 30, 2012 financial statements. Furthermore, Samyn and the Firm relied upon her accounting and valuation work in performing their quarterly review and their year-end 2012 audit.

17. As a result of the accounting and valuation services provided by Herring, the Firm was not independent of APH during its review of the issuer's September 30, 2012 financial statements and during its audit of the issuer's December 31, 2012 financial statements. The Firm thereby violated PCAOB rules and standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules.[15]

18. In addition, on January 7, 2013, the Firm issued a letter to APH pursuant to PCAOB Rule 3526. In violation of Rule 3526, however, that letter failed to disclose the derivative accounting and valuation services provided by Herring. Also in violation of Rule 3526, the Firm failed to discuss with the APH's audit committee the potential impact of those services on the Firm's independence.

Its common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, APH was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

E. Samyn Directly and Substantially Contributed to Samyn & Martin's Violation of PCAOB Rules and Standards and the Exchange Act

19. PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to violations by that firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards.[16]

20. As described above, Samyn & Martin failed to comply with Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the third quarter review and the year-end audit of APH's 2012 financial statements. Samyn directly and substantially contributed to those APH-related violations because, in his role as the engagement partner on the APH audit, Samyn requested that Herring provide derivative accounting and valuation services for APH, acted as an intermediary between APH management and Herring, and, at least initially, supervised Herring's performance of such services. Despite doing so, Samyn failed to properly communicate with the audit committee regarding the impact of Herring's services on the independence of the Firm, signed off on the quarterly review of APH's September 30, 2012 financial statements, and approved the issuance of an audit opinion on APH's December 31, 2012 financial statements. Accordingly, Samyn violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by taking or omitting to take actions, knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that such actions or omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's APH-related independence violations.

F. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

21. PCAOB Rules require that a registered accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards.[17] PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[18]

22. Policies and procedures "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[19] Among other things, a firm's policies and procedures should provide reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence in fact and appearance.[20] Furthermore, a "firm should communicate its quality control policies and procedures to its personnel in a manner that provides reasonable assurance that those policies and procedures are understood and complied with."[21] As detailed below, the Firm failed to comply with PCAOB rules and quality control standards.

23. The Firm failed to adopt, implement, and communicate, in writing or through the actions of its partners, appropriate quality control policies and procedures governing the Firm's independence with respect to its issuer audit clients. For example, the Firm's quality control policies and procedures related to independence failed to include a prohibition on providing prohibited non-audit services to issuer audit clients and were also silent as to partner rotation requirements. Indeed, past and present Samyn & Martin personnel have acknowledged that they had an inadequate understanding of the prohibitions on providing non-audit services to issuer audit clients, which contributed to the independence violations of the Firm.

24. In addition, although the firm obtained annual independence confirmations from partners and staff members from 2011-2014, those confirmations required a statement that each individual complied with AICPA standards but not PCAOB rules and standards. Moreover, the Firm failed to confirm compliance with PCAOB independence rules and standards in any other manner during those four years.

25. The Firm also failed to design and implement an appropriate process for confirming the Firm's independence with respect to potential new issuer audit clients. Although the Firm's partners confirmed their independence prior to accepting a new issuer audit engagement, no process was implemented to confirm the independence of audit staff prior to accepting a new issuer audit engagement. Accordingly, there was no process in place to determine whether the Firm's audit staff, including Herring, were independent of an issuer before the Firm accepted an audit engagement with that issuer.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in the Firm and Samyn's Offers. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Samyn & Martin, LLC and John J. Samyn are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration Samyn & Martin, LLC, is revoked;

C. After one (1) year from the date of the Order, Samyn & Martin, LLC may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), John J. Samyn is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[22]

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Conn & Company, P.C., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-013 July 9, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Conn & Company, P.C. ("Conn & Company," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) in the event the Board grants any future registration application by the Firm,[1] requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has

Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Conn & Company is a registered public accounting firm located in Atlanta, Georgia. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Georgia State Board of Accountancy (license no. ACF001663). The Firm, formed in 1970, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. Conn & Company prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[3] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[4] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[5]

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[6] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[7] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In February 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 14, 2013. That report stated, among other

[7] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

10. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in January and February 2013 various documents including a trial balance and "Trial Balance Worksheet" as of December 31, 2012, portions of the Broker-Dealer's general ledger, a "Balance Sheet" and "Balance Sheet Prev[ious] Year Comparison" as of December 31, 2012, a "Profit & Loss Prev[ious] Year Comparison" for January through December 2012, and a Form X-17A-5 Part IIA for the period October 1, 2012 to December 31, 2012 that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") and that bore the header "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)."

11. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012, and to draft the notes to the financial statements, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2013.

12. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the cash flow statement and the notes to the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[8]

13. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm, should the Board grant any future application of the Firm for registration, is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date the Board grants any future application of the Firm for registration ("Future Registration Date"), to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an

2. within ninety (90) days from the Future Registration Date, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the Future Registration Date and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the Future Registration Date, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the Future Registration Date,

b. within thirty (30) days from the Future Registration Date, to any client of the Firm as of the Future Registration Date for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the Future Registration Date. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of CST Group, CPAs, P.C., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-014 July 9, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm CST Group, CPAs, P.C. ("CST Group," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $7,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") in connection with two audits of a broker-dealer client as a result of preparing financial statements that the broker-dealer filed with the Commission and thus impairing the Firm's independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings,

Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. CST Group is a registered public accounting firm located in Reston, Virginia. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Virginia Board of Accountancy (license no. 50317). The Firm, formed in 1973, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. CST Group prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the years ended December 31, 2012 and December 31, 2013. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited both sets of financial statements and issued audit reports that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In each of the audit reports, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, each of those representations violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. audits of brokers and dealers.[6] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements, as well as its December 31, 2013 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In March 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 19, 2013. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

10. Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements ("2012 Audit"). That form included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the entity desire from our firm?" Firm staff added a checkmark under "Yes" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements."

11. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in January and February 2013 various documents including a Form X-17A-5 Part IIA that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") and that bore the header "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)." That Form X-17A-5 Part IIA contained, among other things, three financial statements: a Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2012, a Statement of Income (Loss) for the period October 1, 2012 to December 31, 2012 ("FOCUS Statement of Income"), and a Statement of Changes in Ownership Equity for the period October 1, 2012 to December 31, 2012. The documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer also included at least two other sets of financial statements: a one-page financial statement document containing a balance sheet, an income statement, a statement of changes in members' equity, and a reconciliation of the income reflected in the FOCUS Statement of Income to income statement amounts recorded by the Broker-Dealer in internal accounting records; and an electronic file containing a general ledger, a trial balance, a balance sheet, an income statement, a cash flow statement, and a statement of changes in members' equity.

12. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2012, as well as the Statement of Income, Statement of Changes in Member's Equity, and Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2013.

13. In preparing the above financial statements, Firm staff aggregated line items and changed line item descriptions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

14. Firm staff also prepared the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2013. Firm staff based the preparation of the notes on the content and presentation of the notes to the previous year's financial statements filed by the Broker-Dealer, and in preparing them incorporated certain financial data provided by the Broker-Dealer.

15. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with draft sets of financial statements on February 25 and February 26, 2013 for management approval.

ORDER

16. In October 2013, Board inspection staff conducted a review of certain aspects of the 2012 Audit. Board inspection staff communicated to the Firm the staff's finding that, as a result of the Firm's preparation of financial statements of the Broker-Dealer, the Firm had not been independent with respect to the 2012 Audit.

17. In July 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 24, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

18. The Firm commenced work on the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 ("2013 Audit") in December 2013.

19. On December 20, 2013, Firm staff emailed the managing member and the business manager of the Broker-Dealer, writing in part:

> When we had the PCAOB examination in October they were tough on the fact that we did not have you provide the financial statements to us already prepared (including footnotes), even though you gave us all the parts, just not in one cohesive form. So, I have attached a draft of the usual financial statements in MS Word format for you to enter the 2013 numbers. You do not need to worry about it looking perfect as we will put the numbers into our system and generate the final product as usual, just fill in where the XXX numbers are and any blank underlined ___ spaces.

20. Attached to the December 20, 2013 email was a draft set of financial statements, including a Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013; a Statement of Income, a Statement of Changes in Member's Equity, and a Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013; and notes to the financial statements. The financial statements were facially complete except for dollar amounts, which appeared therein as placeholders consisting of one or more typed X's (e.g., "X" or "X,XXX"). The notes were facially complete except for dollar amounts and one calendar date, which appeared therein as placeholders consisting of blank underscores ("__") and the text "[DATE]," respectively. Firm staff based the preparation of these draft financial statements on the content and presentation of the previous year's financial statements filed by the Broker-Dealer.

21. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in January and February 2014 various documents including items similar to those obtained in connection with the previous year's audit: a Form X-17A-5 Part IIA that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with FINRA and that contained financial statements; an electronic file containing a general ledger, a trial balance, a balance sheet, an income statement, a cash flow statement, and a statement of changes in members' equity; and other financial statements, reports, and schedules prepared by the Broker-Dealer. The draft set of financial statements provided by Firm staff to the Broker-Dealer on December 20, 2013 differed from, and reflected the aggregation of line items and changes to line item descriptions as compared to, corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

22. On January 8, 2014, the Firm received a comment form issued by Board inspection staff in connection with the staff's review of certain aspects of the 2012 Audit. The comment form set out the staff's finding that the Firm had failed to maintain auditor independence under Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X because it had prepared financial statements of the Broker-Dealer.

23. On February 6, 2014, the Broker-Dealer's business manager emailed back to Firm staff a revised version of the draft set of financial statements received by the Broker-Dealer on December 20, 2013. The revised set, including notes, was identical to the draft set except for the substitution of all twenty-four (24) placeholders with dollar amounts and, in one instance, a calendar date. After certain additional changes were made to the financial statements, the Broker-Dealer filed the financial statements with the Commission.

24. On February 24, 2014, Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the 2013 Audit. That form, unlike the version completed for the previous year's audit, contained no reference to financial statement preparation. It did contain, however, the following text in a section concerning independence: "The SEC expects auditors of broker-dealers to comply with the independence requirements established by the accounting profession (the AICPA), as well as the requirements promulgated by the Commission and its staff. The SEC's independence rules are set forth in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X." Firm staff also added a checkmark under "No" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Have any prohibited nonaudit services been performed for this client?"

25. Firm staff prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements, including notes, notwithstanding the fact that Firm staff took different steps to do so than it had in the previous year and believed that those steps would not impair the Firm's independence.

26. As a result of the Firm's conduct—both in preparing the December 31, 2012 financial statements before being notified by Board inspection staff that such preparation impaired its independence, and in preparing the December 31, 2013 financial statements after that notification—the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audits of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

27. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit reports that it had performed the audits of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements and December 31, 2013 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairments described above, the audits had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. Those violations constituted violations of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $7,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order,

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Goracke & Associates, P.C., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-015 July 9, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Goracke & Associates, P.C. ("Goracke & Associates," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000; and (3) in the event the Board grants any future registration application by the Firm,[1] (a) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers, and (b) prohibiting the Firm from accepting any new broker-dealer engagement clients for a period of one year from the date of this Order. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") in connection with two audits of a broker-dealer client as a result of preparing financial statements that the broker-dealer filed with the Commission and thus impairing the Firm's independence.

I.

[1] The Firm has filed a Form 1-WD seeking leave to withdraw from registration with the Board, which the Board has determined to grant as of the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Goracke & Associates is a registered public accounting firm located in La Vista, Nebraska. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Nebraska Board of Public Accountancy (permit no. 38505). The Firm, formed in 2000, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. Goracke & Associates prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3)

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

to audits of brokers and dealers.[4] Board inspection staff reviewed aspects of the December 31, 2012 audit of the Broker-Dealer and communicated to the Firm that its preparation of the financial statements had impaired the Firm's independence. Notwithstanding that communication, Goracke & Associates, for the year ended December 31, 2013, again prepared the Broker-Dealer's financial statements and took substantially the same steps to do so as it had the previous year.

3. The Firm audited both sets of financial statements and issued audit reports that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In each of the audit reports, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, each of those representations violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

5. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this

[4] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

6. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

7. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[5] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[6]

8. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[7] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[8] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:

> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

9. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements, as well as its December 31, 2013 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

10. In February 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 5, 2013. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

11. Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements ("2012 Audit"). That form included pre-printed text reading, in part:

> The SEC expects accountants to comply with the independence requirements established by the PCAOB, Independence Standards Board, and the accounting profession (the AICPA), as well as the requirements promulgated by the Commission and its staff. The SEC's independence rules are set forth in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01's general standard of independence requires both the fact and the appearance of independence.

12. Firm staff also completed a work paper titled "Audit Program for General Auditing and Completion Procedures" in connection with the 2012 Audit. The pre-printed text therein included, among other things, a direction to the engagement team to "[o]btain a draft of the financial statements from the client."

ORDER

13. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in January and February 2013 various documents including a trial balance as of December 31, 2012; a balance sheet as of December 31, 2012; an income statement for the year ended December 31, 2012; and four Forms X-17A-5 Part IIA—one for each of the four quarters of 2012—that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), that bore the headers "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)," and that contained quarterly financial statements.

14. Firm staff used the above documents and other information obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012, as well as to draft the notes to the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2013.

15. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a draft Statement of Cash Flows and draft notes to the financial statements on February 2, February 13, and February 20, 2013 for management approval.

16. Following the 2012 Audit, Board inspection staff conducted a review of certain aspects of the 2012 Audit. On October 22, 2013, the Firm received a comment form issued by Board inspection staff in connection with that review. The comment form set out the staff's finding that the Firm had failed to maintain auditor independence under Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X because it had prepared the Statement of Cash Flows and the notes to the financial statements of the Broker-Dealer.

17. On January 13, 2014, Firm staff sent an email to the Firm's broker-dealer clients highlighting certain aspects of the Commission's regulation of registered broker-dealers and of the Board's oversight of broker-dealer audit firms. That email characterized the PCAOB as "focused" on the preparation of broker-dealer financial statements, including notes; quoted that portion of Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X identifying the preparation of financial statements filed with the Commission as a prohibited non-audit service; and noted that Firm staff as part of their audit procedures would "need to document that you prepared the entire financial statement including footnotes and supplementary schedules."

18. On January 22, 2014, Firm staff emailed a quarterly "PCAOB Newsletter"/"Broker-Dealer Quarterly Update" to its broker-dealer clients. The newsletter reported that the Commission had finalized amendments to broker-dealer reporting rules, described at length the auditor independence criteria set out in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X (including the prohibition against preparing financial statements filed with the Commission), and stated:

> The amendments do not change the independence requirements. However, the SEC's announcement contains a reminder that broker-dealers and their independent public accountants must comply with the independence requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X. . . .
> Small broker dealers may need to hire a second accounting firm to prepare the statement of cash flows and the footnotes to the financial statements in order to meet the independence requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X.

19. On January 27, 2014, Firm staff sent yet another email to the Firm's broker-dealer clients concerning auditor independence. That email stated in part: "Please make sure that you have made arrangements for 2014 to fully prepare your financial statement[s] including the statement of cash flows and footnotes. Alternatively you can hire a second accounting firm to perform that function."

20. In February 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 17, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

21. In connection with the audit of the December 31, 2013 financial statements ("2013 Audit"), Firm staff again completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form." That work paper contained the same pre-printed text as the previous year's version, including the same reference to "[t]he SEC's independence rules . . . set forth in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X."

22. In January and February 2014, Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in connection with the 2013 Audit substantially the same types of documents obtained the previous year in connection with the 2012 Audit.

23. Firm staff used the above documents and other information obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013, as well as to draft the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2014.

24. Firm staff prepared the Statement of Cash Flows, and the notes to the financial statements, for the year ended December 31, 2013 notwithstanding the Firm's receipt on October 22, 2013 of the Board inspection staff's comment form noting that the Firm's preparation of the Broker-Dealer's Statement of Cash Flows and financial statement notes for the previous year had impaired the Firm's independence.

25. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a draft Statement of Cash Flows and draft notes to the financial statements on February 18, February 19, and February 20, 2014 for management approval.

26. As a result of the Firm's conduct—both in preparing the Statement of Cash Flows and notes to the financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012 before being notified by Board inspection staff that such preparation impaired its independence, and in preparing the Statement of Cash Flows and notes to the financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 after that notification—the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audits of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[9]

27. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit reports that it had performed the audits of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements and December 31, 2013 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairments described above, the audits had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. Those violations constituted violations of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm, should the Board grant any future application of the Firm for registration, is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date the Board grants any future application of the Firm for registration ("Future Registration Date"), to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

2. within ninety (90) days from the Future Registration Date, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the Future Registration Date and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the Future Registration Date, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the Future Registration Date,

b. within thirty (30) days from the Future Registration Date, to any client of the Firm as of the Future Registration Date for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the Future Registration Date. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), the Firm, should the Board grant any future application of the Firm for registration, is prohibited from accepting any new SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement clients for a period of one year from the date of this Order.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Bret M. Sewell, CPA, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-016 July 9, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring Bret M. Sewell, CPA ("Sewell" or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon Sewell a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000; and (3) barring Sewell from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Sewell took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to violations by a registered public accounting firm of a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"). Those violations, in connection with two audits of a broker-dealer client, resulted from the firm's preparation of financial statements that the broker-dealer filed with the Commission, which impaired the firm's independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other

[1] Sewell may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Sewell, age 44, of Omaha, Nebraska, is, and was at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the Nebraska Board of Public Accountancy (permit no. 39820). At all relevant times, Sewell was a partner at Goracke & Associates, P.C. ("Goracke & Associates" or "Firm"). Sewell is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

2. Goracke & Associates prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[4] Board inspection staff reviewed aspects of the

---

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[4] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports,

ORDER

December 31, 2012 audit of the Broker-Dealer and communicated to the Firm that its preparation of the financial statements had impaired the Firm's independence. Notwithstanding that communication, Goracke & Associates, for the year ended December 31, 2013, again prepared the Broker-Dealer's financial statements and took substantially the same steps to do so as it had the previous year.

3. The Firm audited both sets of financial statements and issued audit reports that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In each of the audit reports, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, each of those representations violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

4. Sewell, as engagement partner for each of the audits, took or omitted to take actions in connection with the Firm's audits and its preparation of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of Rule 17a-5(i). Sewell thereby violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

C. Respondent Violated a Board Rule

5. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

6. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

7. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

8. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[5] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[6]

9. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[7] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[8] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

[5] AU-C Section 200.15-.16, Overall Objectives of the Independent Auditor and the Conduct of an Audit in Accordance With Generally Accepted Auditing Standards. References herein to GAAS are to the versions of the auditing standards that were applicable to audits of brokers and dealers at the time of the audit at issue here.

[7] 17 C.F.R. Part 210.

[8] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

10. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements, as well as its December 31, 2013 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

11. In February 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 5, 2013. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

12. Firm staff completed, and Sewell on January 5, 2013 signed off on, an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements ("2012 Audit"). That form included pre-printed text reading, in part:

> The SEC expects accountants to comply with the independence requirements established by the PCAOB, Independence Standards Board, and the accounting profession (the AICPA), as well as the requirements promulgated by the Commission and its staff. The SEC's independence rules are set forth in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01's general standard of independence requires both the fact and the appearance of independence.

ORDER

13. Firm staff also completed a work paper titled "Audit Program for General Auditing and Completion Procedures" in connection with the 2012 Audit. The pre-printed text therein included, among other things, a direction to the engagement team to "[o]btain a draft of the financial statements from the client."

14. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in January and February 2013 various documents including a trial balance as of December 31, 2012; a balance sheet as of December 31, 2012; an income statement for the year ended December 31, 2012; and four Forms X-17A-5 Part IIA—one for each of the four quarters of 2012—that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), that bore the headers "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)," and that contained quarterly financial statements.

15. Firm staff used the above documents and other information obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012, as well as to draft the notes to the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2013.

16. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a draft Statement of Cash Flows and draft notes to the financial statements on February 2, February 13, and February 20, 2013 for management approval.

17. Following the 2012 Audit, Board inspection staff conducted a review of certain aspects of the 2012 Audit. On October 22, 2013, the Firm received a comment form issued by Board inspection staff in connection with that review. The comment form set out the staff's finding that the Firm had failed to maintain auditor independence under Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X because it had prepared the Statement of Cash Flows and the notes to the financial statements of the Broker-Dealer.

18. On January 13, 2014, Firm staff sent an email to the Firm's broker-dealer clients highlighting certain aspects of the Commission's regulation of registered broker-dealers and of the Board's oversight of broker-dealer audit firms. That email characterized the PCAOB as "focused" on the preparation of broker-dealer financial statements, including notes; quoted that portion of Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X identifying the preparation of financial statements filed with the Commission as a prohibited non-audit service; and noted that Firm staff as part of their audit procedures would "need to document that you prepared the entire financial statement including footnotes and supplementary schedules."

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

19. On January 22, 2014, Firm staff emailed a quarterly "PCAOB Newsletter"/Broker-Dealer Quarterly Update" to its broker-dealer clients. The newsletter reported that the Commission had finalized amendments to broker-dealer reporting rules, described at length the auditor independence criteria set out in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X (including the prohibition against preparing financial statements filed with the Commission), and stated:

> The amendments do not change the independence requirements. However, the SEC's announcement contains a reminder that broker-dealers and their independent public accountants must comply with the independence requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X. . . .
> Small broker dealers may need to hire a second accounting firm to prepare the statement of cash flows and the footnotes to the financial statements in order to meet the independence requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X.

20. On January 27, 2014, Firm staff sent yet another email to the Firm's broker-dealer clients concerning auditor independence. That email stated in part: "Please make sure that you have made arrangements for 2014 to fully prepare your financial statement[s] including the statement of cash flows and footnotes. Alternatively you can hire a second accounting firm to perform that function."

21. In February 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 17, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

22. In connection with the audit of the December 31, 2013 financial statements ("2013 Audit"), Firm staff again completed, and Sewell on January 25, 2014 signed off on, an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form." That work paper contained the same pre-printed text as the previous year's version, including the same reference to "[t]he SEC's independence rules . . . set forth in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X."

23. In January and February 2014, Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in connection with the 2013 Audit substantially the same types of documents obtained the previous year in connection with the 2012 Audit.

24. Firm staff used the above documents and other information obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

December 31, 2013, as well as to draft the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2014.

25. Firm staff prepared the Statement of Cash Flows, and the notes to the financial statements, for the year ended December 31, 2013 notwithstanding the Firm's receipt on October 22, 2013 of the Board inspection staff's comment form noting that the Firm's preparation of the Broker-Dealer's Statement of Cash Flows and financial statement notes for the previous year had impaired the Firm's independence.

26. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a draft Statement of Cash Flows and draft notes to the financial statements on February 18, February 19, and February 20, 2014 for management approval.

27. As a result of the Firm's conduct—both in preparing the Statement of Cash Flows and notes to the financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012 before being notified by Board inspection staff that such preparation impaired its independence, and in preparing the Statement of Cash Flows and notes to the financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 after that notification—the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audits of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[9]

28. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit reports that it had performed the audits of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements and December 31, 2013 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairments described above, the audits had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. Those violations constituted violations of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

29. Sewell, as the engagement partner for the 2012 and 2013 Audits, had responsibility for ensuring that he and Firm staff were aware of applicable independence requirements and that the Firm maintained its independence, as required by GAAS, under the independence criteria in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X made applicable by Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to those audits. Moreover, Sewell authorized and supervised the preparation of the Broker-Dealer's cash flow statement and financial statement notes, both for the year ended December 31, 2012 and—after the Firm received a Board inspection comment form noting that financial statement preparation had impaired the Firm's independence in connection with the 2012 Audit—for the year ended December 31, 2013. In connection with the 2012 and 2013 Audits, therefore, Sewell took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of Rule 17a-5(i).

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Bret M. Sewell, CPA, is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Bret M. Sewell, CPA, is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[10] and

[10] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Sewell. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

ORDER

C. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, Bret M. Sewell, CPA, may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed upon Bret M. Sewell, CPA. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Sewell shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Sewell as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of James G. Pirolli, CPA, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-017 July 9, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm James G. Pirolli, CPA ("Firm" or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings,

ORDER

Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. The Firm, a sole proprietorship, is a registered public accounting firm located in Holland, Pennsylvania. At all relevant times, the Firm's proprietor and sole professional was licensed by the Pennsylvania State Board of Accountancy (license no. CA018279L). The Firm, formed in 1986, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

ORDER

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[5] apply to

audits of brokers and dealers.[6] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In March 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 25, 2013. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

10. The engagement letter for the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements ("Audit")—signed by the Firm's owner, who served as the engagement partner for the Audit—stated in part: "The financial statements I issue will also include reporting on internal control as required by SEC Rule 17a-5(g)(1) . . . . I understand that the SEC and FINRA require that the audited financial statements be submitted within 60 days after the end of the year and I will submit the financial statements to you in sufficient time to meet this requirement [emphases added]."

11. The "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" completed in connection with the Audit included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the entity desire from our firm?" The engagement partner added a checkmark under "Yes" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements." The same form included a separate item titled "Factors to Consider" with pre-printed text reading, "In addition to the AICPA independence standards, auditors may be required to comply with more stringent independence rules imposed by regulatory bodies."

12. A work paper prepared in connection with the Audit and titled "Final Review Procedures" listed sixteen descriptions of procedures performed and actions undertaken, including: "Prepared an auditor's report and financial statements and released report on 2/25/13 [emphasis added]."

13. The engagement partner obtained from the Broker-Dealer in January and February 2013 various documents including a Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2012; a Statement of Operations, Statement of Stockholders' Equity, and Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012; several schedules titled "Balance Sheet" and "Income Statement"; a "Financial St[ate]m[e]nt Groupings" report; a "Trial Balance Worksheet" as of December 31, 2012; portions of the Broker-Dealer's general ledger; and four Forms X-17A-5 Part IIA—one for each of the four quarters of 2012—that the engagement partner understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), that bore the headers "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)," and that contained quarterly financial statements.

14. The engagement partner used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2012, as well as the Statement of Operations, Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity, and Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2013.

15. In preparing those financial statements, the engagement partner added and deleted line items, aggregated and disaggregated line items, and changed line item descriptions and amounts, as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

16. The engagement partner also drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2013.

17. The engagement partner provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements on February 20, 2013 for management approval.

18. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

19. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

ORDER

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (or, where the Firm by the date of this Order has already commenced but not completed such an engagement, before the Firm's release of its report), to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

b. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Mistretta Associates and Robert Mistretta, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-018 July 9, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Mistretta Associates ("Mistretta Associates" or "Firm"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000; (3) in the event the Board grants any future registration application by the Firm,[1] (a) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers, and (b) prohibiting the Firm from accepting any new broker-dealer engagement clients for a period of one year from the date of this Order; (4) censuring Robert Mistretta, CPA ("Mistretta"); and (5) barring Mistretta from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings (a) that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") in connection with two audits of a broker-dealer client as a result of preparing financial statements that the broker-dealer filed with the Commission and thus impairing the Firm's independence, and (b) that Mistretta took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of a Commission rule.

[1] The Firm has filed a Form 1-WD seeking leave to withdraw from registration with the Board, which the Board has determined to grant as of the date of this Order.

[2] Mistretta may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against the Firm and Mistretta ("Respondents").

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Mistretta Associates is a registered public accounting firm located in Sacramento, California. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the California Board of Accountancy (license no. 1296). The Firm, formed in 2003, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

2. Robert Mistretta, CPA, 63, of Sacramento, California, is, and was at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the California Board of Accountancy (license no. 25884). He is the sole owner of Mistretta Associates. Mistretta is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. Mistretta Associates prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[5] Board inspection staff reviewed aspects of the December 31, 2012 audit of the Broker-Dealer and communicated to the Firm that its preparation of the financial statements had impaired the Firm's independence. Notwithstanding that communication, Mistretta Associates, for the year ended December 31, 2013, again prepared the Broker-Dealer's financial statements and took substantially the same steps to do so as it had the previous year.

4. The Firm audited both sets of financial statements and issued audit reports that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In each of the audit reports, the Firm represented that the audits had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, each of those representations violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

5. Mistretta, as sole owner of the Firm and engagement partner for each of the audits, took or omitted to take actions in connection with the Firm's audits and its preparation of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of Rule 17a-5(i). Mistretta thereby violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

[5] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

ORDER

C. Respondents Violated Commission and Board Rules

6. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

7. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

8. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

9. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[6] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[7]

10. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[8] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[9] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

11. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements, as well as its December 31, 2013 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Mistretta served as engagement partner for both audits.

report signed by the Firm dated February 19, 2013. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

13. On February 7, 2013, Mistretta completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements ("2012 Audit"). That form included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the entity desire from our firm?" Mistretta added a checkmark under "Yes" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements." The same form included a separate item titled "Factors to Consider" with pre-printed text reading, "In addition to the AICPA independence standards, auditors may be required to comply with more stringent independence rules imposed by regulatory bodies."

14. Mistretta and Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in January and February 2013 various documents including a trial balance, a profit and loss schedule, and a Form X-17A-5 Part IIA that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") and that bore the header "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)." That Form X-17A-5 Part IIA contained, among other things, three financial statements: a Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2012 ("FOCUS Statement of Financial Condition"), a Statement of Income (Loss) for the period October 1, 2012 to December 31, 2012 ("FOCUS Statement of Income"), and a Statement of Changes in Ownership Equity for the period October 1, 2012 to December 31, 2012 ("FOCUS Statement of Changes in Ownership Equity").

15. Mistretta and Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Balance Sheet as of December 31, 2012, as well as the Statement of Income and Proprietor's Equity for the year ended December 31, 2012, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2013.

16. In preparing the Balance Sheet and Statement of Income and Proprietor's Equity filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission, Mistretta and Firm staff aggregated line items and changed line item descriptions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

17. Mistretta and Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2013.

ORDER

18. Mistretta and Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements in February 2013 for management approval.

19. Following the 2012 Audit, Board inspection staff conducted a review of certain aspects of the 2012 Audit. On January 22, 2014, the Firm received a comment form issued by Board inspection staff in connection with that review. The comment form set out the staff's finding that the Firm had failed to maintain auditor independence under Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X because it had prepared financial statements of the Broker-Dealer.

20. In March 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 20, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

21. Rather than completing a new "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements ("2013 Audit"), Mistretta used a copy of the form he had completed in connection with the 2012 Audit and made a few changes, including adding the applicable financial statement year end ("12/31/13") at the top of the form and adding new sign-offs at the top and bottom of the form dated February 10, 2014. Like the previous year's form, the copy of the form for the 2013 Audit included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the entity desire from our firm?" and a checkmark added by Mistretta under "Yes" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements."

22. In January and February 2014, Mistretta and Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in connection with the 2013 Audit substantially the same types of documents obtained the previous year in connection with the 2012 Audit. Mistretta and Firm staff also obtained from the Broker-Dealer a balance sheet prepared by the Broker-Dealer.

23. In February 2014, Mistretta and Firm staff used the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, as well as the Statement of Income and Proprietor's Equity for the year ended December 31, 2013, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2014.

24. In preparing the Statement of Financial Condition and Statement of Income and Proprietor's Equity filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission, Mistretta and Firm staff aggregated line items and changed line item descriptions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

25. Mistretta and Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2014.

26. Mistretta and Firm staff prepared in February 2014 the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements, including notes, notwithstanding the Firm's receipt on January 22, 2014 of the Board inspection staff's comment form noting that the Firm's preparation of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements had impaired the Firm's independence.

27. Mistretta and Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements in February 2014 for management approval.

28. As a result of the Firm's conduct—both in preparing the December 31, 2012 financial statements before being notified by Board inspection staff that such preparation impaired its independence, and in preparing the December 31, 2013 financial statements after that notification—the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[10]

29. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit reports that it had performed the audits of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements and December 31, 2013 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairments described above, the audits had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. Those violations constituted violations of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

30. Mistretta, as the Firm's sole owner and the engagement partner for the 2012 and 2013 Audits, had responsibility for ensuring that he and Firm staff were aware of applicable independence requirements and that the Firm maintained its independence, as required by GAAS, under the independence criteria in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X made applicable by Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to those audits. Moreover, Mistretta authorized, supervised, and participated in the preparation of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, both for the year ended December 31, 2012 and—after Mistretta received on behalf of the Firm a Board inspection comment form noting that financial statement preparation had impaired the Firm's independence in connection with the 2012 Audit—for the year ended December 31, 2013. In connection with the 2012 and 2013 Audits, therefore, Mistretta took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of Rule 17a-5(i).

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary,

ORDER

Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm, should the Board grant any future application of the Firm for registration, is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date the Board grants any future application of the Firm for registration ("Future Registration Date"), to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

2. within ninety (90) days from the Future Registration Date, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the Future Registration Date and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the Future Registration Date, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the Future Registration Date,

b. within thirty (30) days from the Future Registration Date, to any client of the Firm as of the Future Registration Date for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the Future Registration Date. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), the Firm, should the Board grant any future application of the Firm for registration, is prohibited from accepting any new SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement clients for a period of one year from the date of this Order.

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Robert Mistretta, CPA, is censured.

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Robert Mistretta, CPA, is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[11] and [11] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Mistretta. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

G. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, Robert Mistretta, CPA, may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Sanford, Baumeister & Frazier, LLP, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-019 July 9, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Sanford, Baumeister & Frazier, LLP ("Sanford, Baumeister & Frazier," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Sanford, Baumeister & Frazier is a registered public accounting firm with offices in Fort Worth and Dallas, Texas. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy (license no. P05381). The Firm, formed in 1949, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. Sanford, Baumeister & Frazier prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended June 30, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

ORDER

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[5] apply to

audits of brokers and dealers.[6] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's June 30, 2012 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In August 2012, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended June 30, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated August 23, 2012. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

10. Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the audit of the Broker-Dealer's June 30, 2012 financial statements ("Audit"). That form included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the entity desire from our firm?" Firm staff added a checkmark under "Yes" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements."

11. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in July 2012 various documents including a trial balance and a "Balance Sheet" as of June 30, 2012, a 2012 "Income Statement," a general ledger, and a Form X-17A-5 Part IIA that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") and that bore the header "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)." That Form X-17A-5 Part IIA contained, among other things, three financial statements: a Statement of Financial Condition as of June 30, 2012, a Statement of Income (Loss) for the period April 1, 2012 to June 30, 2012, and a Statement of Changes in Ownership Equity for the period April 1, 2012 to June 30, 2012.

12. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of June 30, 2012, as well as the Statement of Income for the year ended June 30, 2012, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in August 2012.

13. In preparing the Statement of Financial Condition and the Statement of Income, Firm staff aggregated and disaggregated line items, and changed line item descriptions and the wording of a caption, as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

14. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity and Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended June 30, 2012.

15. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements on August 22, 2012 for management approval.

16. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

17. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the audit of the Broker-Dealer's June 30, 2012 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary,

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Walker & Armstrong LLP, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-020 July 9, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Walker & Armstrong LLP ("Walker & Armstrong," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $7,500; and (3) in the event the Board grants any future registration application by the Firm,[1] requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") in connection with two audits of a broker-dealer client as a result of preparing financial statements that the broker-dealer filed with the Commission and thus impairing the Firm's independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Walker & Armstrong is a registered public accounting firm with offices in Phoenix, Tucson, and Carefree, Arizona. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Arizona State Board of Accountancy (registration no. 375). The Firm, formed in 1971, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. Walker & Armstrong prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the years ended December 31, 2012 and December 31, 2013. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[3] The Firm nevertheless audited both sets of financial statements and issued audit reports that the Broker-Dealer

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

ORDER

included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In each of the audit reports, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, each of those representations violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[4] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[5]

ORDER

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[6] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[7] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements, as well as its December 31, 2013 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In February 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 25, 2013. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[7] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." ORDER

10. Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements ("2012 Audit"). That form included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the financial institution desire from our firm?" Firm staff added a checkmark under "No" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements," as well as a note that the Broker-Dealer "determines groupings and note disclosure language with recommendations by [Walker & Armstrong]."

11. Firm staff also completed a work paper titled "Understanding the Entity and Identifying Risks," which contained a pre-printed item calling for an identification of "significant accounting policies," specialized or new "accounting standards," and "any other issues related to the application of GAAP." In response to that item, Firm staff added a note reading, in part: "SEC independence rules, PCAOB audit standards (possible in the near future)" (emphasis added).

12. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in January and February 2013 various documents including a trial balance, a balance sheet as of December 31, 2012, and an income statement for the year ended December 31, 2012. The documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer also included four Forms X-17A-5 Part IIA—one for each of the four quarters of 2012—that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), that bore the headers "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)," and that contained quarterly financial statements ("Quarterly FOCUS Reports"). Firm staff also obtained from the Broker-Dealer in connection with each Quarterly FOCUS Report a set of documents containing related information for that quarter—specifically, a trial balance, a sales report, and a financial statement document consisting of a "Balance Sheet," a "Statement of Operations," and a "Calculation of Net Capital."

13. On February 5, 2013, Firm staff emailed the Broker-Dealer proposed groupings of asset, liability, income, and expense items under captions and into line items for inclusion in the financial statements to be filed with the Commission. Firm staff noted in the email that the attached groupings matched those used in connection with the previous year's financial statements filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission. By February 15, 2013, Broker-Dealer management had communicated approval of those groupings to Firm staff.

14. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from and groupings approved by the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

December 31, 2012, as well as the Statement of Income for the year ended December 31, 2012, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2013.

15. In preparing the groupings approved by the Broker-Dealer, and thereafter the Statement of Financial Condition and Statement of Income filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission, Firm staff aggregated line items, deleted captions and line items, and changed line item descriptions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

16. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Changes in Partners' Capital and Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012, which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2013.

17. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements on February 22, 2013 for management approval.

18. Following the 2012 Audit, Board inspection staff conducted a review of certain aspects of the 2012 Audit. On January 21, 2014, the Firm received a comment form issued by Board inspection staff in connection with that review. The comment form set out the staff's finding that the Firm had failed to maintain auditor independence under Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X because it had prepared financial statements of the Broker-Dealer. Firm staff discussed the comment form and the finding therein with Broker-Dealer management personnel.

19. In February 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 26, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

20. Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements ("2013 Audit"). Like the form completed in connection with the previous year's audit, this form included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the financial institution desire from our firm?," as well as a checkmark added by Firm staff under "No" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements." Firm staff also added a note reading, "[Broker-Dealer] prepares."

21. Firm staff also completed a work paper titled "Understanding the Entity and Identifying Risks." Like the form completed in connection with the 2012 Audit, this form contained a pre-printed item calling for an identification of "significant accounting policies," specialized or new "accounting standards," and "any other issues related to the application of GAAP." Firm staff added the same note in response to that item as had been added to the previous year's form: "SEC independence rules, PCAOB audit standards (possible in the near future)" (emphasis added).

22. In January and February 2014, Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in connection with the 2013 Audit substantially the same types of documents obtained the previous year in connection with the 2012 Audit.

23. In addition, on February 6, 2014, Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer a draft set of December 31, 2013 financial statements, including Statements of Financial Condition, Income, Changes in Partners' Capital, and Cash Flows, as well as a draft set of notes to those financial statements, for filing with the Commission. Firm staff thereafter identified certain aspects of the financial statements including notes that, in their view, should be revised. Firm staff discussed and obtained approval for those proposed revisions during a meeting on February 24, 2014 with the Broker-Dealer's chief financial officer; made those revisions in the electronic copy of the draft financial statements that the Firm had received; provided the Broker-Dealer with a copy of that revised set on February 26, 2014 for management approval; and generated from that Firm-revised set the final version of the financial statements including notes, which were later filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission.

24. The revisions made by Firm staff to the financial statements and notes drafted by and obtained from the Broker-Dealer included changes to 15 of 31 line item amounts in the Statement of Financial Condition and Statement of Income; nine of 24 line item descriptions and 16 of 24 line item amounts in the Statement of Cash Flows; and 13 of 43 paragraphs in the notes to the financial statements (including, for example, the deletion of one paragraph altogether, the addition of a tabular presentation, and the disaggregation on a year-by-year basis of information concerning the timing of certain future payments due from the Broker-Dealer).

25. Firm staff also asked Broker-Dealer management personnel to make the same revisions to the Broker-Dealer's own electronic copy of the draft financial statements, and then to email to the Firm a copy of that client-revised set for the Firm's records. Broker-Dealer management personnel did so.

26. Firm staff prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements, including notes, notwithstanding the fact that Firm staff took different steps to do so than it had in the previous year and believed that those steps would not impair the Firm's independence.

27. As a result of the Firm's conduct—both in preparing the December 31, 2012 financial statements before being notified by Board inspection staff that such

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

preparation impaired its independence, and in preparing the December 31, 2013 financial statements after that notification—the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audits of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[8]

28. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit reports that it had performed the audits of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements and December 31, 2013 financial statements in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairments described above, the audits had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. Those violations constituted violations of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $7,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Cowan, Gunteski & Co., P.A. and William Meyler, CPA Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-021 July 23, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring the registered public accounting firm Cowan, Gunteski & Co., P.A. ("Cowan" or the "Firm") and censuring William Meyler, CPA ("Meyler"). The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning the Firm's and Meyler's (collectively, "Respondents"): (1) violations of Section 10A(j) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audits of two issuer clients.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:

A. Respondents

1. Cowan, Gunteski, & Co, P.A. is, and at all relevant times was, a professional association organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey, and headquartered in Toms River, New Jersey. Cowan is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Cowan is licensed by the New Jersey State Board of Accountancy (license no. 20CB00205500). Cowan merged with Meyler & Co., LLC in early 2013. At all relevant times, either Cowan or Meyler & Co., LLC was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

2. William Meyler, 70, of Middletown, New Jersey, is a certified public accountant licensed under the laws of the state of New Jersey (license no. 20CC00656300). At all relevant times, he was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and auditing standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit clients throughout the audit and professional engagement period. Respondents were not independent with respect to one issuer audit client, Tauriga Sciences, Inc. ("Tauriga"), because Meyler served as lead partner on the audits of that client's financial statements for more than five consecutive years.[2]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[2] See Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act; Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, Auditor Independence; PCAOB Rule 3520, Auditor Independence; and AU §§ 220.01-02, Independence.

ORDER

4. This matter also concerns Respondents' failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to one issuer audit client, China Ginseng Holdings, Inc. ("China Ginseng"), because Meyler served as engagement quality reviewer immediately after serving as the engagement partner for China Ginseng without satisfying the mandatory two-year "cooling-off" period for former engagement partners.[3]

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB and Exchange Act Rules, and PCAOB Auditing Standards

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[4] PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[5] A registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") under the federal securities laws.[6]

6. Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act provides, "[i]t shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm to provide audit services to an issuer if the lead (or coordinating) audit partner (having primary responsibility for the audit), or the audit partner responsible for reviewing the audit, has performed audit services for that issuer in each of the 5 previous fiscal years of that issuer." Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 provides that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the partner rotation requirements of Commission Regulation S-X.

7. Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client when an audit partner performs the services of lead or concurring audit partner for the same issuer for more than five consecutive years and within the five consecutive year period following the performance of services for the maximum period permitted. The partner rotation requirements set forth in Rule 2-01 were promulgated in 2003.[7]

8. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[8] Further, paragraph 8 of AS 7 provides: "[t]he person who served as the engagement partner during either of the two audits preceding the audit subject to the engagement quality review may not be the engagement quality reviewer."

9. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[9]

10. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 and PCAOB rules and standards, the Firm failed to comply with Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, and Meyler took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and/or omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act.

Audits of Tauriga's Financial Statements

11. At all relevant times, Tauriga Sciences, Inc. was a Florida corporation headquartered in Danbury, Connecticut. Tauriga's public filings disclose that it was engaged in the business of developing a method of remediating wastewater generated by nuclear energy production, developing an alternative clean energy platform using proprietary microbial solutions that create electricity while consuming polluting molecules from wastewater, and selling a topical medicinal cannabis product. At all relevant times, Tauriga was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

12. Meyler & Co., LLC was engaged as Tauriga's external auditor in 2009. Meyler & Co., LLC audited Tauriga's March 31, 2009 through 2012 year-end financial statements over a period of four consecutive fiscal years,[10] and issued audit reports, which were filed with the Commission, expressing unqualified opinions on those financial statements. Meyler served as the lead audit partner on each of the Tauriga engagements and authorized the issuance of all audit reports during this four-year period.

13. Cowan was engaged as Tauriga's external auditor in 2013. Cowan audited Tauriga's March 31, 2013 year-end financial statements and issued an audit report, which was filed with the Commission, expressing an unqualified opinion on the financial statements. Meyler served as the lead audit partner on the March 31, 2013 Tauriga engagement and authorized the issuance of the audit report for a fifth consecutive year.

14. After serving as lead audit partner for the aforementioned five year period, Meyler continued to serve as the lead audit partner on the audit of Tauriga's March 31, 2014 year-end financial statements in violation of Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220. Meyler also authorized the issuance of an audit report that was included in a Form 10-K filed with the Commission, expressing an unqualified opinion on those financial statements, even though the Firm and Meyler were not independent of the client. As a result, both Respondents failed to comply with Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 and PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

[10] The initial audit report, issued in 2009, covered Tauriga's March 31, 2008 and 2009 year-end financial statements.

ORDER

Audits of China Ginseng Holdings, Inc.'s Financial Statements

15. At all relevant times, China Ginseng was a Nevada corporation headquartered in the People's Republic of China. China Ginseng's public filings disclose that it was in the business of farming, processing, distributing, and marketing fresh ginseng, as well as the business of producing and selling ginseng juice and wine. At all relevant times, China Ginseng was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

16. Meyler & Co., LLC audited China Ginseng's June 30, 2012 year-end financial statements, and issued an audit report, which was filed with the Commission, expressing an unqualified opinion on the financial statements. Meyler served as the lead audit partner for the China Ginseng audit and authorized the issuance of the audit report.

17. Cowan was engaged as China Ginseng's external auditor in 2013. Cowan audited China Ginseng's June 30, 2013 year-end financial statements and issued an audit report, which was filed with the Commission, expressing an unqualified opinion on the financial statements. After serving as the lead audit partner on the prior year's audit, Meyler immediately served as the engagement quality reviewer on the June 30, 2013 China Ginseng audit without satisfying the mandatory two-year "cooling-off" period. As a result, Respondents violated AS 7.[11]

IV.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring the registered public accounting firm Weaver and Tidwell, L.L.P. ("Weaver," the "Firm," or "Respondent"). The Board is imposing this sanction on the basis of its findings concerning the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with two of the Firm's audits of one issuer audit client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over it and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent

ORDER

consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Weaver and Tidwell, L.L.P. is, and at all relevant times was, a limited liability partnership organized under the laws of the state of Texas, and headquartered in Fort Worth, Texas. Weaver is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Weaver is licensed by the Texas State Board of Accountancy (license no. P04338). At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for the issuer identified below.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Respondent's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to one issuer client, San Juan Basin Royalty Trust ("San Juan Basin Royalty"). A partner at Weaver, Dale Jensen ("Jensen"),[2] served as engagement quality reviewer on two San Juan Basin Royalty audits immediately after serving as the engagement partner on San Juan Basin Royalty's audits, without satisfying the mandatory two year "cooling-off" period for former engagement partners.[3]

C. Respondent Violated Auditing Standard No. 7

3. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[4] For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[5] Further, paragraph 8 of AS 7 provides: "[t]he person who served as the engagement partner during either of the two audits preceding the audit subject to the engagement quality review may not be the engagement quality reviewer."[6]

4. As described below, Respondent failed to comply with AS 7.

Audits of San Juan Basin Royalty's Financial Statements

5. At all relevant times, San Juan Basin Royalty Trust was a Texas corporation headquartered in Fort Worth, Texas. San Juan Basin Royalty's public filings disclose that it was in the business of collecting and distributing royalties from the production of natural gas. At all relevant times, San Juan Basin Royalty was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

6. Weaver audited San Juan Basin Royalty's 2011 year-end financial statements, and issued an audit report, which was filed with the Commission, expressing an unqualified opinion on the financial statements. Jensen served as the engagement partner for the 2011 San Juan Basin Royalty engagement and authorized the issuance of the audit report.

7. Weaver also audited San Juan Basin Royalty's 2012 and 2013 year-end financial statements and issued audit reports, which were filed with the Commission, expressing unqualified opinions on the financial statements. Jensen served as the engagement quality reviewer on the audits of San Juan Basin Royalty's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2012 and December 31, 2013, immediately after serving as the engagement partner on the 2011 audit, violating AS 7's two-year "cooling-off" period for former engagement partners.

[5] See AS 7 ¶ 1.

[6] At all relevant times, Weaver had five or more issuer audit clients and did not qualify for AS 7 ¶ 8's small firm exemption.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Weaver and Tidwell, L.L.P. is hereby censured.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Dale Jensen, CPA Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-023 July 23, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Dale Jensen, CPA ("Jensen" or "Respondent"). The Board is imposing this sanction on the basis of its findings concerning Jensen's violation of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with two audits of an issuer audit client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Dale Jensen, 39, of Wylie, Texas, is a certified public accountant licensed under the laws of the state of Texas (license no. 081626). At all relevant times, he was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, Weaver and Tidwell, L.L.P. ("Weaver"), as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[2]

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Respondent's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to one issuer client, San Juan Basin Royalty Trust ("San Juan Basin Royalty"). Jensen served as the engagement quality reviewer on two San Juan Basin Royalty audits immediately after serving as the engagement partner on San Juan Basin Royalty's audits, without satisfying the mandatory two-year "cooling-off" period for former engagement partners.[3]

C. Respondent Violated Auditing Standard No. 7

3. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[4]

4. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[5] Further,

[5] See AS 7 ¶ 1.

ORDER

paragraph 8 of AS 7 provides: "[t]he person who served as the engagement partner during either of the two audits preceding the audit subject to the engagement quality review may not be the engagement quality reviewer."[6]

5. As described below, Respondent failed to comply with AS 7.

Audits of San Juan Basin Royalty's Financial Statements

6. At all relevant times, San Juan Basin Royalty was a Texas corporation headquartered in Fort Worth, Texas. San Juan Basin Royalty's public filings disclose that it was in the business of collecting and distributing royalties from the production of natural gas. At all relevant times, San Juan Basin Royalty was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

7. Weaver audited San Juan Basin Royalty's 2011 year-end financial statements, and issued an audit report, which was filed with the Commission, expressing an unqualified opinion on the financial statements. Jensen served as the engagement partner for the 2011 San Juan Basin Royalty engagement and authorized the issuance of the audit report.

8. Weaver also audited San Juan Basin Royalty's 2012 and 2013 year-end financial statements and issued audit reports, which were filed with the Commission, expressing unqualified opinions on the financial statements. Jensen served as the engagement quality reviewer on the audits of San Juan Basin Royalty's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2012 and December 31, 2013, immediately after serving as the engagement partner on the 2011 audit, violating AS 7's two-year "cooling-off" period for former engagement partners.

IV.

---

[6] At all relevant times, Weaver had five or more issuer audit clients and did not qualify for AS 7 ¶ 8's small firm exemption.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of HDSG & Associates Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-024 July 23, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring HDSG & Associates ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000 upon the Firm, and requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward ensuring compliance with the engagement quality review criteria requirements applicable to audits of issuers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audit of one issuer audit client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over it and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. HDSG & Associates is, and at all relevant times was, an accounting firm organized under Indian law, and headquartered in New Delhi, India. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and is licensed by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (license no. 002871N). At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for the issuer, Skajaquoda Group, Inc. ("Skajaquoda").

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to its issuer client, Skajaquoda. In the case of the Firm's audit of Skajaquoda's 2011 year-end financial statements, the Firm failed to have an engagement quality review performed even though it was required.

C. Respondent Violated PCAOB Auditing Standards

3. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[2]

4. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[3] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance.[4]

Audit of Skajaquoda's Financial Statements

5. At all relevant times, Skajaquoda was a Delaware corporation headquartered in Claymont, Delaware. The company's public filings disclose that it was in the business of managing an investment fund. At all relevant times, Skajaquoda was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

6. The Firm was engaged as Skajaquoda's external auditor in 2011. The Firm was engaged to audit the financial statements of Skajaquoda for the year ended December 31, 2011. The Firm issued an audit report, dated May 3, 2012, which was included in Skajaquoda's Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") on May 4, 2012.

7. The Firm issued its audit report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), HDSG & Associates is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000 is imposed upon HDSG & Associates. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. HDSG & Associates shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Anil Bedi, CPA Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-025 July 23, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Anil Bedi ("Bedi"). The Board is imposing this sanction on the basis of its findings that Bedi directly and substantially contributed to a registered public accounting firm's violation of PCAOB rules and standards.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Anil Bedi, CPA, 52, of Suwanee, Georgia, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Georgia State Board of Accountancy (license no. CPA020365). At all relevant times, Bedi was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, HDSG & Associates ("Firm"), as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[2] At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for the issuer, Skajaquoda Group, Inc. ("Skajaquoda"). Bedi served as the engagement partner for the Skajaquoda engagement.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Bedi's direct and substantial contribution to the Firm's violation of PCAOB rules and auditing standards with respect to the Firm's audit of Skajaquoda's year-end 2011 financial statements.

C. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules

3. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[3]

4. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review, ("AS 7") requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[4] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance.[5]

[2] See HDSG & Associates, PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-024 (July 23, 2015).

[3] PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards.

[5] Id. at ¶ 13.

ORDER

5. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[6]

Audit of Skajaquoda's Financial Statements

6. At all relevant times, Skajaquoda was a Delaware corporation headquartered in Claymont, Delaware. The company's public filings disclose that it was in the business of managing an investment fund. At all relevant times, Skajaquoda was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

7. The Firm was engaged as Skajaquoda's external auditor in 2011. The Firm was engaged to audit the financial statements of Skajaquoda for the year ended December 31, 2011. The Firm issued an audit report, dated May 3, 2012, which was included in Skajaquoda's Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") on May 4, 2012.

8. The Firm issued its audit report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

9. Bedi served as the engagement partner for the Skajaquoda audit and authorized the issuance of the audit report. HDSG considered Bedi to be responsible for the audit. Bedi knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation when he improperly permitted the issuance of the audit report by the Firm without an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Bedi violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Timothy Alan Coons, CPA and Timothy Coons, CPA Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-026 July 23, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Timothy Alan Coons, CPA ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $7,500 upon the Firm, and requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward ensuring compliance with the engagement quality review requirements applicable to audits and reviews of issuers; and censuring Timothy Coons, CPA ("Coons"). The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Coons (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audits of two issuer audit clients.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:

A. Respondents

1. Timothy Alan Coons, CPA, is, and at all relevant times was, a sole proprietorship headquartered in La Jolla, California. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

2. Timothy Coons, CPA, 54, of La Jolla, California, is a certified public accountant licensed by the California Board of Accountancy (license no. 82466). At all relevant times, Coons was the sole owner of the Firm and was the Firm's sole accountant. At all relevant times, he was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, Timothy Alan Coons, CPA, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to two issuer clients. In the audits of each client, the Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review of the two audits even though an engagement quality review was required under AS 7.

4. This matter also concerns Coons's failure to comply with PCAOB Rules with respect to the same two issuer clients. Coons took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB standards.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

ORDER

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[2]

6. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[3] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance.[4]

7. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[5]

8. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards.

Audit of Boxceipts' Financial Statements

9. At all relevant times, Boxceipts was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Overland Park, Kansas. Boxceipts' public filings disclosed that it was in the business of developing a system that allows retail companies the option of emailing customer transactions receipts. At all relevant times, Boxceipts was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[5] See PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

10. The Firm was engaged as Boxceipts' external auditor in 2011. Respondents were engaged to audit the financial statements of Boxceipts for the period from October 25, 2010 to August 31, 2011.

11. Respondents issued their audit report dual dated "September 19, 2011" and "November 29, 2011," which was included in Boxceipts' December 1, 2011 amended Form S-1 filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

12. Coons knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7 when he caused the Firm to grant permission to the client to use the engagement report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Coons violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Audit of Offsite Docs' Financial Statements

13. At all relevant times, Offsite Docs was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Overland Park, Kansas. Offsite Docs' public filings disclosed that it was in the business of providing for a cloud-based document storage and security solution targeted at law firms, financial service companies and other businesses that store and manage a large number of documents. At all relevant times, Offsite Docs was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

14. The Firm was engaged as Offsite Docs' external auditor in 2011. Respondents had been engaged to audit the financial statements of Offsite Docs for the period from March 30, 2011 to July 31, 2011.

15. Respondents issued their audit report dated October 7, 2011, which was included in Offsite Docs' October 11, 2011 amended Form S-1 filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

16. Coons knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7 when he caused the Firm to grant permission to the client to use the engagement report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Coons violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Timothy Alan Coons, CPA and Timothy Coons, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $7,500 is imposed upon Timothy Alan Coons, CPA. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Timothy Alan Coons, CPA shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Timothy Alan Coons, CPA as a Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release Number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or review and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent basis, concerning Auditing Standard No. 7, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any audit services (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(vii));

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, and before the Firm's commencement of any audit services, to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order;

b. within (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform audit services;

c. before the commencement of any audit services, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such audit services; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring the registered public accounting firm R.R. Hawkins & Associates, International A Professional Corporation ("Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration,[1] and censuring R. Richard Hawkins, II, CPA ("Hawkins") and barring him from being an associated person for a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Hawkins (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of two issuer audit clients.

I.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

[2] Hawkins may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[4] that:

A. Respondents

1. R.R. Hawkins & Associates, International A Professional Corporation, is, and at all relevant times was, a sole proprietorship headquartered in Los Angeles, California. The firm is licensed to practice public accountancy by the California Board of Accountancy (license no. 6533). The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

2. R. Richard Hawkins, II, CPA, 63, of Los Angeles, California, was a certified public accountant licensed by the California Board of Accountancy (license no. 55450). At all relevant times, Hawkins was the sole owner of the Firm. At all relevant times, he was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

3 The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

4 The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondents in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that each Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to two issuer audit clients. In the case of each client, the Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review of each audit even though it was required to be performed.

4. This matter also concerns Hawkins' direct and substantial contribution to the Firm's violations of AS 7 with respect to the Firm's audits of two issuer clients. Hawkins took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts or omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5]

6. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[6] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance.[7]

7. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[8]

8. As described below, the Firm and Hawkins failed to obtain an engagement quality review for each of the audits described below even though an engagement quality review was required to be performed.

Audit of Denali Concrete's Financial Statements

9. At all relevant times, Denali Concrete Management, Inc. ("Denali Concrete") was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Carson City, Nevada. The company's public filings disclose it was focusing on efforts to obtain a business opportunity, either through a merger or through the acquisition of a business opportunity. At all relevant times, Denali Concrete was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

10. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2010 year-end financial statements of Denali Concrete. On March 3, 2011, Denali Concrete filed a Form 10-K with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC"). Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated January 27, 2010, which was included in Denali Concrete's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

11. Hawkins knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation when he caused the Firm to grant permission to the client to use the engagement report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Hawkins violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Respondents' Violations Continued After Notice from PCAOB Inspectors

12. In connection with a 2010 inspection of the Firm, the PCAOB Inspections staff reminded the Firm that it needed to comply with AS 7 for all audits and interim reviews performed by the Firm for fiscal years beginning on or after December 15, 2009.[9]

---

[8] See PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

[9] AS 7 was not effective for the audits reviewed as part of the 2010 inspection period.

Audits of Pacific Software's Financial Statements

13. At all relevant times, Pacific Software, Inc. ("Pacific Software") was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Carson City, Nevada. The company's public filings disclose that it ceased operations in December 2009, and is focusing efforts on seeking a business opportunity, either through a merger or through the acquisition of a business opportunity. At all relevant times, Pacific Software was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

14. Respondents were engaged to audit the September 30, 2011 year-end financial statements of Pacific Software. On January 10, 2012, Pacific Software filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated December 9, 2011, which was included in Pacific Software's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. Even though Hawkins was aware that an engagement quality review needed to be performed, the Firm failed to have an engagement quality review performed on the September 30, 2011 year-end audit of Pacific Software. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

15. Respondents were engaged to audit the September 30, 2012 year-end financial statements of Pacific Software. On December 12, 2012, Pacific Software filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated November 28, 2012, which was included in Pacific Software's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

16. Hawkins knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7 when he caused the Firm to grant permission to the client to use the engagement report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Hawkins violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondents' Offers.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), R. Richard Hawkins, II, CPA and R.R. Hawkins & Associates, International A Professional Corporation are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), R. Richard Hawkins, II, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[10]

C. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, R. Richard Hawkins, II, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of R.R. Hawkins & Associates, International A Professional Corporation is revoked; and

E. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, R.R. Hawkins & Associates, International A Professional Corporation may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Bravos & Associates CPA's, and Thomas W. Bravos, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-028 July 23, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Bravos & Associates CPA's ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, revoking the Firm's registration,[1] and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 upon the Firm; and censuring Thomas W. Bravos, CPA ("Bravos") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Bravos (collectively, "Respondents") repeatedly violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

[2] Bravos may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Bravos & Associates CPA's is, and at all relevant times was, a partnership organized under Illinois law, and headquartered in Bloomingdale, Illinois. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and is licensed by the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation (license no. 066003838). At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for United American Healthcare Corporation ("UAHC").

2. Thomas W. Bravos, CPA, age 68, is, and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation (license no. 065009475). Bravos is also licensed as a certified public accountant by the Indiana Board of Accountancy (license no. CP11200116), and as a licensed accountant by the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

Affairs (license no. 1101029533). At all relevant times, Bravos was the sole owner of the Firm and was the Firm's sole member. Bravos is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' repeated failures to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the audits of the consolidated financial statements of UAHC for fiscal years ended ("FYE") June 30, 2012 and June 30, 2013, and the six months ended December 31, 2013.[5]

4. With respect to the FYE June 30, 2013 UAHC audit, Respondents failed to appropriately plan and perform the audit. Specifically, during audit planning, Respondents failed to properly assess the risk of material misstatement, and as a result, Respondents failed to properly identify significant risks in connection with the audit. Respondents also failed to properly establish an overall strategy for the audit and develop an audit plan that included planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risk of material misstatement. In addition, Respondents failed to perform audit procedures that adequately addressed the risks of material misstatement.

5. Respondents also failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to test (a) the valuation of UAHC's goodwill (constituting approximately 65% of the company's reported total assets), (b) the valuation of UAHC's other intangible assets (constituting approximately 10% of the company's reported total assets), and (c) UAHC's reported revenue. As a result, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for their audit opinion's conclusions regarding UAHC's financial statement assertions relating to goodwill, intangible assets and revenue.

6. Additionally, in the case of all three audits – for FYEs June 30, 2012 and June 30, 2013, and the six months ended December 31, 2013 – the Firm failed to obtain engagement quality reviews for the audit engagements, even though such reviews were required by PCAOB standards.

[5] After filing its Form 10-K for FYE June 30, 2013, UAHC changed the company's fiscal year end to December 31. Accordingly, UAHC filed its audited financial statements covering the transition period from July 1, 2013 through December 31, 2013 on Form 10-KT.

ORDER

7. Further, Bravos took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB auditing standards concerning the requirement for engagement quality reviews.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with the FYE June 30, 2013 UAHC Audit

8. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] Among other things, PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care, exercise professional skepticism, and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements.[7]

9. PCAOB auditing standards also require that an audit be properly planned, that auditors identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level, and that auditors design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[8] The auditor should develop and document an audit plan that describes, among other things, the planned risk assessment procedures required to be performed so that the engagement complies with PCAOB standards.[9]

ORDER

10. As detailed below, Respondents failed to comply with these PCAOB standards in connection with the audit of the FYE June 30, 2013 consolidated financial statements of UAHC.

11. UAHC was, at all relevant times, a corporation headquartered in Chicago, Illinois. UAHC's public filings disclosed that its wholly owned subsidiary, Pulse Systems, LLC, is a medical device manufacturer that represents substantially all of UAHC's ongoing operations. At all relevant times, UAHC was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).[10]

12. In connection with Respondents' audit of UAHC's consolidated financial statements for FYE June 30, 2013, Bravos authorized issuance of the Firm's unqualified audit report, which included going concern explanatory language regarding those financial statements. The audit report also stated that, in the Firm's opinion, UAHC's financial statements for FYE June 30, 2013 presented fairly, in all material respects, the issuer's financial position and results of its operations and cash flows in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America ("GAAP"), and that the Firm's audit was performed in accordance with PCAOB standards. However, Respondents did not have a reasonable basis for making these statements and issuing their audit report.

13. During audit planning, Respondents failed to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the assertion level as required by PCAOB standards.[11] Respondents also failed to properly plan and perform any analytical procedures as risk assessment procedures.[12] In addition, the risks of material misstatement were not properly assessed. For example, Respondents failed to identify any risks with respect to revenue recognition and management override of controls, even though PCAOB standards provide that the auditor should presume that there is a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition and should include the risk of management override of controls in his identification of fraud risks.[13] Respondents' work papers do not document any justification for failing to identify these fraud risks.

14. Respondents also failed to properly establish an overall strategy for the engagement and develop an audit plan that included appropriate planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the above risks of material misstatement.[14] In addition, Respondents failed to perform appropriate audit procedures that addressed these risks of material misstatement.[15]

15. Respondents also failed to appropriately evaluate UAHC's reported goodwill. As of June 30, 2013, UAHC reported goodwill representing about 65% of UAHC's total assets and other intangible assets representing about 10% of assets. Under GAAP, UAHC was required to assess the goodwill and other intangible assets for impairment, and to follow certain procedures in performing these assessments.[16] GAAP also required UAHC to assess the remaining useful life of the other intangible assets to ensure that they were amortized properly.[17] At the time of the audit, though, Respondents failed to consider these GAAP requirements in their audit.

16. Respondents' audit procedures with respect to UAHC's goodwill and other intangible assets as of June 30, 2013 did not comply with PCAOB standards. The notes to UAHC's financial statements, and the Firm's audit report, disclosed and reported that UAHC's liabilities and working capital deficiency raised substantial doubt about its ability to continue as a going concern. But the financial statement notes also indicated that management had concluded that there was no impairment of goodwill, and the notes made no disclosure about impairment of the other intangible assets. Nevertheless, Respondents failed to obtain any evidence about how UAHC had reached its conclusions on the issues of impairment and remaining useful life, and failed to perform sufficient procedures to assess the valuation of UAHC's goodwill and other intangible assets.[18]

17. Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support UAHC's reported consolidated revenue.[19] Specifically, to test revenue, Respondents tested the collection of cash subsequent to the end of the year under audit equaling approximately 14% of UAHC's total revenue for FYE June 30, 2013. Other than this testing of a portion of revenue, Respondents failed to perform procedures to test UAHC's consolidated revenue.

D. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards Relating to Engagement Quality Reviews

18. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[20] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to an audit client to use the firm's audit report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance of the report.[21] In connection with the audits of UAHC's financial statements for FYE June 30, 2012, June 30, 2013, and the six months ended December 31, 2013, the Firm failed to comply with these requirements.

19. For each of these audit engagements, the Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report, which UAHC included in a Form 10-K or Form 10-KT filed with the Commission,[22] without obtaining an engagement quality review and [23] On December 17, 2012, UAHC filed a Form 10-K/A for FYE June 30, 2012. The amended filing contained a revised audit report from the Firm, which was still dated October 11, 2012. The revised audit report represented that the Firm had audited UAHC's financial statements for FYE June 30, 2012 and June 30, 2011, correcting the original representation that the Firm had audited only the financial statements for FYE June 30, 2012.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Bravos & Associates CPA's and Thomas W. Bravos, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Thomas W. Bravos, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[25]

C. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, Thomas W. Bravos, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Bravos & Associates CPA's is revoked;

E. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, Bravos & Associates CPA's may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Keith K. Zhen, CPA and Keith Zhen, CPA Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-029 July 23, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Keith K. Zhen, CPA ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, revoking the Firm's registration,[1] and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $15,000 upon the Firm; and censuring Keith Zhen, CPA ("Zhen") barring him from being an associated person for a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Zhen (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit of five issuer audit clients.

I.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Zhen may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[4] that:

A. Respondents

1. Keith K. Zhen, CPA, is, and at all relevant times was, a sole proprietorship headquartered in Brooklyn, New York. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is not licensed. At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

2. Keith Zhen, CPA, 45, of Brooklyn, New York, is a certified public accountant licensed by the New York State Education Department (license no. 085787). At all relevant times, Zhen was the sole owner of the Firm. At all relevant times, he was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, Keith K. Zhen, CPA, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondents in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that each Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns the Firm's repeated failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to five issuer audit clients and for multiple audits for some. In the case of each client, the Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review of each audit even though it was required to be performed.

4. This matter also concerns Zhen's direct and substantial contribution to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and standards with respect to the Firm's audits of five issuer clients. Zhen took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts or omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5]

6. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[6] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance.[7]

7. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[8]

8. As described below, the Firm and Zhen failed to obtain an engagement quality review for each of the audits described below even though an engagement quality review was required to be performed.

Audits of China Northern's Financial Statements

9. At all relevant times, China Northern Medical Device, Inc. ("China Northern") was a Nevada corporation headquartered in the People's Republic of China. The company's public filings disclose that it is in the business of developing portable medical devices designed for home treatments. At all relevant times, China Northern was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

10. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2010 year-end financial statements of China Northern. On March 31, 2011, China Northern filed a Form 10-K with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC"). Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated March 31, 2011, which was included in China Northern's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

11. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2011 year-end financial statements and obtained an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance of the audit report.

12. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2012 year-end financial statements of China Northern. On April 16, 2013, China Northern filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated April 16, 2013, which was included in China Northern's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

13. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2013 year-end financial statements of China Northern. On April 15, 2014, China Northern filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated April 14, 2014, which was included in China Northern's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

14. Zhen knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7 when he caused the Firm to grant permission to the client to use the engagement report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Zhen violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Audit of Smooth Global's Financial Statements

15. At all relevant times, Smooth Global (China) Holdings, Inc. ("Smooth Global") was a Nevada corporation headquartered in the People's Republic of China. The company's public filings disclose that it is in the business of manufacturing and distributing rechargeable polymer lithium-ion batteries. At all relevant times, Smooth Global was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

16. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2010 year-end financial statements of Smooth Global. On May 19, 2011, Smooth Global filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated April 15, 2011, which was included in Smooth Global's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

17. Zhen knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation when he improperly permitted the issuance of the audit report by the Firm without an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Zhen violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Audits of China Du Kang's Financial Statements

18. At all relevant times, China Du Kang Co. Ltd. ("China Du Kang") was a Nevada corporation headquartered in the People's Republic of China. The company's public filings disclose that it is in the business of manufacturing, selling, licensing, and distributing a proprietary line of white wines and other spirits. At all relevant times, China Du Kang was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

19. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2010 year-end financial statements of China Du Kang. On April 15, 2011, China Du Kang filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated April 15, 2011, which was included in China Du Kang's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

20. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2011 year-end financial statements and obtained an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance of the audit report.

21. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2012 year-end financial statements of China Du Kang. On April 16, 2013 China Du Kang filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated April 15, 2013, which was included in China Du Kang's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

22. Respondents were engaged to audit the 2013 year-end financial statements of China Du Kang. On July 29, 2014 China Du Kang filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated June 18, 2014, which was included in China Du Kang's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

23. Zhen knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations when he improperly permitted the issuance of the audit reports by the Firm without an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Zhen violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Audit of Anpulo Food's Financial Statements

24. At all relevant times, Anpulo Food Inc. ("Anpulo Food") was a British Virgin Islands corporation headquartered in the People's Republic of China. The company's public filings disclose that it is in the business of processing and distributing meat products. At all relevant times, Anpulo Food was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

25. Respondents were engaged to audit the year-end July 31, 2013, financial statements of Anpulo Food. On September 9, 2013, Anpulo Food filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated September 6, 2013, which was included in Anpulo Food's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

As a result, Zhen violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Audit of China Environmental Protection's Financial Statements

27. At all relevant times, China Environmental Protection, Inc. ("China Environmental Protection") was a Nevada corporation headquartered in the People's Republic of China. The company's public filings disclose that it is a water treatment equipment supplier and project contractor. At all relevant times, China Environmental was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

28. Respondents were engaged to audit the year-end September 30, 2010 financial statements of China Environmental Protection. On October 23, 2012, China Environmental Protection filed a Form 10-K with the Commission. Respondents improperly permitted the issuance of the Firm's audit report dated October 23, 2012, which was included in China Environmental Protection's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

29. Zhen knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation when he improperly permitted the issuance of the audit report by the Firm without an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Zhen violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Keith K. Zhen, CPA and Keith Zhen, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Keith Zhen, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[9]

C. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Keith Zhen, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Keith K. Zhen, CPA is revoked;

E. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Keith K. Zhen, CPA, may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101; and

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $15,000 is imposed upon Keith K. Zhen, CPA. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Keith K. Zhen, CPA shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Keith K. Zhen, CPA as a Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release Number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe Brown,

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Nancy Pei Hui, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-031 August 13, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Nancy Pei Hui ("Respondent" or "Hui") and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely file an annual report in 2014 and timely pay an annual fee in 2014.

I.

On June 10, 2015, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") (as amended) and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement, Hui did not file an answer indicating the firm's consent or lack of consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:

A. Respondent

1. Hui is a proprietorship located in Bayside, New York. The firm's Principal, Nancy Pei Hui, is licensed by the New York State Education Department to engage in the practice of public accounting (License No. 091303). The firm registered with the Board on January 8, 2013, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2 . . . ." PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing Annual Report, sets forth that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and Rule 2200, Hui failed to timely file an annual report for 2014.

3. In addition, pursuant to Section 102(f) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must pay an annual fee to the Board on or before July 31 . . . ." In violation of Rule 2202, Hui failed to timely pay its annual fee in 2014.

C. Subsequent Events

4. The Board instituted these proceedings on June 10, 2015. Hui did not file an answer pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5421(b).

5. On June 17, 2015, Hui paid its annual fee for 2014.

6. On June 17, 2015, Hui filed its annual report for 2014.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

7. On June 17, 2015, Hui filed a Form 1-WD to request leave to withdraw its registration from the Board.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Hui is censured; and

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act, and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000 is imposed upon Hui. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Hui shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Hui as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

V.

Upon performance by Hui of Part IV above, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2107, the Board shall consider Hui's Form 1-WD and whether to grant it leave to withdraw. In doing so, the Board shall not take into consideration its findings contained in Part III herein.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Albert Thomas, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-030 August 13, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Albert Thomas ("Respondent" or "Thomas") and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely file an annual report in 2014 and timely pay an annual fee in 2014.

I.

On June 10, 2015, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") (as amended) and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement, Thomas did not file an answer indicating the firm's consent or lack of consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:

A. Respondent

1. Thomas is a proprietorship located in New York, New York. The firm's President, Albert Thomas, CPA, is licensed by the New York State Education Department to engage in the practice of public accounting (License No. 07-089527). The firm registered with the Board on February 10, 2009, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2 . . . ." PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing Annual Report, sets forth that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and Rule 2200, Thomas failed to timely file an annual report for 2014.

3. In addition, pursuant to Section 102(f) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must pay an annual fee to the Board on or before July 31 . . . ." In violation of Rule 2202, Thomas failed to timely pay its annual fee in 2014.

C. Subsequent Events

4. The Board instituted these proceedings on June 10, 2015. Thomas did not file an answer pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5421(b).

5. On June 24, 2015, Thomas paid its annual fee for 2014.

6. On June 24, 2015, Thomas filed its annual report for 2014.

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

ORDER

7. On June 29, 2015, Thomas filed a Form 1-WD to request leave to withdraw its registration from the Board.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Thomas is censured; and

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act, and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000 is imposed upon Thomas. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Thomas shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Thomas as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

V.

Upon performance by Thomas of Part IV above, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2107, the Board shall consider Thomas' Form 1-WD and whether to grant it leave to withdraw. In doing so, the Board shall not take into consideration its findings contained in Part III herein.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Brookscardiel & Company, PLLC, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-032 September 10, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Brookscardiel & Company, PLLC ("Respondent, "Firm," or "Brookscardiel"), imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,000, and requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely pay an annual fee in 2014.

I.

On June 10, 2015, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement, Brookscardiel did not file an answer indicating the firm's consent or lack of consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:

A. Respondent

1. Brookscardiel & Company, PLLC is a limited liability corporation located in The Woodlands, Texas. Brookscardiel is licensed by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy to engage in the practice of public accounting (License No. C08031). The Firm registered with the Board on September 6, 2012, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules. A search of public records indicates that the Firm has not issued any audit reports or broker-dealer certifications since registering with the Board.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(f) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must pay an annual fee to the Board on or before July 31 . . . ." In violation of Rule 2202, Brookscardiel failed to timely pay its annual fee in 2014.

C. Subsequent Events

3. The Board instituted these proceedings on June 10, 2015.

4. On June 12, 2015, Brookscardiel paid its annual fee for 2014.

IV.

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Brookscardiel is censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act, and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,000 is imposed upon Brookscardiel. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Brookscardiel shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Brookscardiel as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. to provide a copy of this Order –

    a. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)) with the Firm as of the date of this Order,

    b. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an "Audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), or SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report – whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report – required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, as amended (found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5)),

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Buffington & Company, P.C., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-033 September 10, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Buffington & Company, P.C. ("Respondent, "Firm," or "Buffington"), temporarily suspending Respondent's registration for a period of one year from the date of the issuance of this Order, and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $3,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely file an annual report in 2014.

I.

On June 10, 2015, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement ("Offer"), Buffington did not file an answer indicating the Firm's consent or lack of consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Buffington & Company, P.C. is a proprietorship located in Houston, Texas. The Firm registered with the Board on March 1, 2005, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules. Buffington is licensed by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy to engage in the practice of public accounting (License No. C02130). During the 2014 reporting period, the Firm issued a broker-dealer certification for a broker-dealer which was filed with the Commission on February 28, 2014.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2 . . . ." PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing Annual Report, sets forth that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and Rule 2200, Buffington failed to timely file an annual report for 2014.

3. On September 5, 2014, the Division of Registration and Inspections ("DRI") sent a notice of non-compliance with PCAOB Rules to Buffington that the Firm had not

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

complied with the requirement to file an Annual Report for 2014 as required by PCAOB Rules 2200 and 2201. On October 17, 2014, DRI sent a second notice on non-compliance to Buffington. On December 22, 2014, the Division sent a charging letter to Buffington regarding the Firm's failure to file its 2014 annual report. Buffington only filed its annual report for 2014 on June 24, 2015, two weeks after the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings against the Firm.

C. Subsequent Events

4. The Board instituted these proceedings on June 10, 2015.

5. On June 24, 2015, Buffington filed its annual report for 2014.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Buffington is censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), Buffington's registration is temporarily suspended for a period of one year from the date of the issuance of this Order; and

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act, and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $3,000 is imposed upon Buffington. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Buffington shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Buffington as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary,

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring David A. Aronson, CPA, P.A. ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, and revoking the Firm's registration; and censuring David A. Aronson, CPA ("Aronson"), and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Aronson (collectively, "Respondents") repeatedly violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with ten audits of issuer clients.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Respondents admit the facts, findings, and violations set forth below, and consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order").[1]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondents

1. David A. Aronson, CPA, P.A. is, and at all relevant times was, a professional association organized under Florida law, and headquartered in North Miami Beach, Florida. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is licensed by the Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation (license no. AD64119). At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

2. David A. Aronson, CPA, age 55, is, and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation (license no. AC0029792). At all relevant times, Aronson was the sole owner of the Firm and was the Firm's sole member. Aronson is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns the Firm's repeated failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), PCAOB rules and standards in connection with ten issuer audit engagements from 2011 through 2014. In the case of each client, the Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review of each audit engagement even though it was required to be performed. For eight of these audits, the Firm failed to obtain engagement quality reviews despite being on notice of the requirement from PCAOB inspectors and, in one case, despite also being on notice from the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("DEI").

[2] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondents in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that each Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

4. This matter also concerns Aronson's direct and substantial contribution to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and standards concerning the requirement for engagement quality reviews. With respect to each of the ten audit engagements in which the Firm failed to have an engagement quality review, Aronson took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and standards.

5. Additionally, for five of the above audit engagements, Respondents issued audit reports related to issuers for which Aronson's son had acted in an accounting role during the period under audit. In doing so, Respondents violated independence requirements that prohibit auditors from having certain employment relationships with an audit client.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

6. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[3]

The Firm Failed to Obtain Engagement Quality Reviews

7. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[4] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance of the report.[5]

8. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the

9. As described below, the Firm and Aronson failed to obtain an engagement quality review for each of the audits described below even though an engagement quality review was required to be performed.

Audit of Yellow7, Inc. for FY 2010

10. At all relevant times, Yellow7, Inc. ("Yellow7") was a corporation with its headquarters in Little Elm, Texas. Yellow 7's public filings disclosed that its business was to provide online marketing and advertising services. At all relevant times, Yellow7 was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

11. The Firm was engaged as Yellow7's external auditor for fiscal year ended December 31, 2010. On March 31, 2011, Yellow7 filed a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended December 31, 2010 with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC"). The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report dated March 30, 2011, which was included in Yellow7's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[7]

Audit of VDO-PH International, Inc. for FY 2010

12. At all relevant times, VDO-PH International, Inc. ("VDO") was a corporation with its headquarters in Las Vegas, Nevada. VDO's public filings disclosed that its business was developing a software program to allow businesses to operate telephone, computer, and Internet services from one appliance. At all relevant times, VDO was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

13. The Firm was engaged as VDO's external auditor for fiscal year ended December 31, 2010. On April 13, 2011, VDO filed with the Commission a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended December 31, 2010. The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report dated April 10, 2011, which was included in VDO's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[8]

The Firm Continues to Fail to Obtain Engagement Quality Reviews after the PCAOB's Inspection Staff Put the Firm on Notice of the Failures

14. In connection with a June 2011 inspection of the Firm, the PCAOB's Inspections staff brought to the Firm's attention apparent failures by the Firm to comply with AS 7 regarding the performance of an engagement quality review in connection with certain audits. In the Firm's response, it agreed that AS 7 requires an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance for audit engagements conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards. Despite this acknowledgment, the Firm continued to fail to comply with AS 7 regarding the performance of engagement quality reviews in connection with its subsequent issuer audits.

Audits of Frozen Food Gift Group, Inc. for FY 2011 and FY 2012

15. At all relevant times, Frozen Food Gift Group, Inc. ("FFG")[9] was a corporation with its headquarters in La Jolla, California, and in Kansas City, Missouri. FFG's public filings disclosed that its business was an e-commerce retailer that sells and ships frozen desserts, ice cream, and associated food products throughout the United States. At all relevant times, FFG was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

16. The Firm was engaged as FFG's external auditor for fiscal year ended December 31, 2011. On March 30, 2012, FFG filed with the Commission a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended December 31, 2011. The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report dated March 22, 2012, which was included in FFG's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[10]

17. The Firm also was engaged as FFG's external auditor for fiscal year ended December 31, 2012. On April 15, 2013, FFG filed with the Commission a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended December 31, 2012. The Firm released its audit report dated February 22, 2013, along with a similarly-dated consent to use the audit report in FFG's Form 10-K. The consent was included in FFG's Form 10-K filing, and the audit report was included in a Form 10-K/A filed on April 18, 2013. The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[11]

Audit of Medifirst Solutions, Inc. for FY 2012

18. At all relevant times, Medifirst Solutions, Inc. ("Medifirst") was a corporation with its headquarters in Boca Raton, Florida, and in Freehold, New Jersey. Medifirst's public filings disclosed that its business included selling an electronic cigarette product and developing an on-line healthcare directory and social media site for both professionals and consumers. At all relevant times, Medifirst was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

19. The Firm was engaged as Medifirst's external auditor for fiscal year ended December 31, 2012. On April 1, 2013, Medifirst filed with the Commission a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended December 31, 2012. The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report dated March 9, 2013, which was included in Medifirst's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[12]

Audit of Flow Tech Solutions, Inc. for FY 2013

20. At all relevant times, Flow Tech Solutions, Inc. ("Flow Tech")[13] was a corporation with its headquarters in Portland, Oregon. Flow Tech's public filings disclosed that it was a development stage company planning to open a massage clinic in Carson, California. At all relevant times, Flow Tech was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report dated July 18, 2013, which was included in Flow Tech's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[14]

The Firm Still Fails to Obtain Engagement Quality Reviews after Again Being Put on Notice during a Second PCAOB Inspection

22. In connection with another inspection of the Firm in early March 2014, the PCAOB inspection staff again notified Respondents about the engagement quality review requirements in AS 7, and notified Respondents of the Firm's apparent failures to fulfill those requirements with respect to the inspected audits.

Audit of Sipup Corporation for FY 2013

23. At all relevant times, Sipup Corporation ("Sipup") was a corporation with its headquarters in New York, New York. Sipup's public filings disclosed that the company was formed to produce, pack, and sell flavored yogurts. At all relevant times, Sipup was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

24. The Firm was engaged as Sipup's external auditor for fiscal year ended November 30, 2013. On March 17, 2014, Sipup filed with the Commission a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended November 30, 2013. The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report dated March 12, 2014, which was included in Sipup's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[15]

The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report dated April 11, 2014, which was included in FFG's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[17]

The Firm Commits Yet Another AS 7 Violation after Notice of a Board Investigation: Audit of Medifirst Solutions, Inc. for FY 2014

27. In connection with a DEI inquiry regarding Respondents' audits, DEI staff notified Respondents in March 2015 about the Firm's apparent repeated failure to comply with AS 7 with respect to the aforementioned issuer audits. The Firm was engaged as Medifirst's external auditor for fiscal year ended December 31, 2014. On April 15, 2015, Medifirst filed with the Commission a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended December 31, 2014. Despite being aware of DEI's inquiry and notice of the Firm's apparent prior violations of AS 7, the Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report dated April 5, 2015, which was included in Medifirst's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[18]

Aronson Contributed to the Firm's Violations of PCAOB Rules and Standards

28. PCAOB Rule 3502 prohibits an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that firm of the Act, the rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards.

29. Aronson, the sole owner and only member of the Firm, was principally responsible for the audits conducted by the Firm. Accordingly, Aronson had overall responsibility for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. Aronson knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7, described above. As a result, he violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Respondents Failed to Comply with Professional Standards Regarding Auditor Independence

30. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[19] "[A] registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria applicable to the engagement set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws."[20]

31. Rule 2-01 of the Commission's Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client when a close family member of the accountant serves in an accounting role at an audit client during the period covered by the audit.[21] An accounting role means a role in which a person is in a position to, or does, exercise more than minimal influence over the contents of the accounting records or anyone who prepares them.[22] Under Regulation S-X, "close family member" includes a person's nondependent child and any dependents.[23]

32. During five of the above-mentioned audit engagements, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB independence requirements because Aronson's son served in an accounting role at VDO during fiscal year 2010, at FFG during fiscal years 2011 and 2012, at Flow Tech during fiscal year 2013, and at Sipup during fiscal year 2013. Aronson was aware that these audit clients had hired a bookkeeping firm owned by his son because Aronson had recommended his son's firm to the audit clients.[24] Aronson's son's firm served as the primary bookkeeper (recording journal entries directly to the clients' general ledgers) and preparer of the financial statements for the clients. Respondents audited those financial statements, and issued unqualified audit reports by the Firm, in violation of PCAOB independence rules and standards.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), David A. Aronson, CPA, P.A. and David A. Aronson, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), David A. Aronson, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[25] and [24] Aronson's son's firm was not a public accounting firm registered with the PCAOB.

[25] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Aronson. Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act provides that "[i]t shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Oliva, Goddard & Wright, Certified Public Accountants, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-035 October 15, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Oliva, Goddard & Wright, Certified Public Accountants ("Oliva, Goddard & Wright," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") as a result of having maintained and prepared accounting records, and having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission, for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Oliva, Goddard & Wright is a registered public accounting firm located in San Diego, California. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the California State Board of Accountancy (license no. 5948). The Firm, formed in 1993, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer"). The Firm did so through personnel from outside the Firm whom it retained and directed for the purpose of performing work in connection with the Firm's audit of those financial statements. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

ORDER

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

ORDER

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[5] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[6] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (i) Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client. Any service, unless it is reasonable to conclude that the results of these services will not be subject to audit procedures during an audit of the audit client's financial statements, including:
> (A) Maintaining or preparing the audit client's accounting records;
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements ("Audit"). At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In February 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 15, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

10. In connection with the Audit, the Firm contracted with another accounting firm ("Contract Firm") to have two professionals at the Contract Firm perform audit work. The two Contract Firm professionals were directed and supervised in their work by a Firm partner who served as the engagement partner responsible for the Audit. Together, the Contract Firm professionals and the engagement partner made up the engagement team.

11. The engagement team noted in planning documentation for the Audit that the engagement team, and not the Broker-Dealer, maintained the Broker-Dealer's fixed asset subledger. The engagement team also understood during the audit planning stage that it would be preparing certain accounting records of the Broker-Dealer. Specifically, in addition to maintaining the Broker-Dealer's fixed asset subledger, the engagement team prepared the annual journal entries for the Broker-Dealer's income tax provision and accounts payable accrual. Moreover, the engagement team prepared the Broker-Dealer's depreciation expense entry and reconciled the Broker-Dealer's fixed asset balances.

12. The engagement team also prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements. The engagement team identified in a work paper titled "Overall Risks and Responses" a risk that the Broker-Dealer's management had a "[l]ack of expertise in the preparation of financial statements (primarily related to disclosures)." In response to that risk, the engagement team noted that it "prepares the financial statements" for the Broker-Dealer and, in order to do so, uses "a disclosure checklist" and "ma[kes] numerous inquiries of management to include all required disclosures."

13. The engagement team also completed a form titled "Program for General Audit and Completion Procedures." The engagement team noted therein that the "[Contract Firm] will draft the FS on behalf of Oliva, Goddard & Wright." The engagement team noted in another section of the same form that it would "[d]raft or assist the owner/manager in drafting the financial statements." Alongside that item were the typed initials of an engagement team member and the date "1/17/14," thereby indicating that an engagement team member had completed this task on January 17, 2014.

14. The engagement team obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a balance sheet as of December 31, 2013; an income statement for the year ended December 31, 2013; trial balance data; portions of a general ledger; and a Form X-17A-5 Part IIA that the engagement team understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") and that bore the header "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)." That Form X-17A-5 Part IIA contained, among other things, three financial statements—a Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, a Statement of Income (Loss) for the period October 1, 2013 to December 31, 2013, and a Statement of Changes in Ownership Equity for the period October 1, 2013 to December 31, 2013.

15. The engagement team used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2013, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2014.

16. In preparing those financial statements, the engagement team aggregated line items, changed line item descriptions and amounts, and added, deleted, and changed captions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

17. The engagement team also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2014.

18. In February 2014, the engagement partner and members of the engagement team met with the Broker-Dealer's management to discuss the Audit and obtain management approval of the draft financial statements.

19. Included in the Form X-17A-5 Part III filed with the Commission in February 2014 was an Auditors' Report on Internal Control in which the Firm identified a significant deficiency in connection with the Broker-Dealer's lack of financial accounting and reporting expertise. Specifically, the Firm stated therein that the Broker-Dealer lacked the capability to prepare its financial statements because the Broker-Dealer did not have personnel with the knowledge and skills to prepare financial statements including all required disclosures.

20. As a result of the Firm's conduct in maintaining and preparing accounting records and in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the Audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

21. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary,

ORDER

Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (or, where the Firm by the date of this Order has already commenced but not completed such an engagement, before the Firm's release of its report), to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

b. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

ORDER

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Reilly, Penner & Benton LLP, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-036 October 15, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Reilly, Penner & Benton LLP ("Reilly, Penner & Benton," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Reilly, Penner & Benton is a registered public accounting firm with offices in Milwaukee, Madison, and McFarland, Wisconsin. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Wisconsin Department of Safety and Professional Services (license no. 123-3). The Firm, formed in 1907, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended September 30, 2013. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

ORDER

5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

ORDER

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[5] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[6] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's September 30, 2013 financial statements ("Audit"). At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In November 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended September 30, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated November 22, 2013. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

10. Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the Audit. That form included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the entity desire from our firm?" The Firm typed a checkmark under "Yes" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements?"

11. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a trial balance and balance sheet as of September 30, 2013; an income statement for the month ending September 30, 2013; portions of a general ledger; and four Forms X-17A-5 Part IIA—one for each of the four quarters of 2013—that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), that bore the header "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)," and that contained quarterly financial statements.

12. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of September 30, 2013, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended September 30, 2013, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in November 2013.

13. In preparing those financial statements, Firm staff aggregated line items, added a line item, changed a line item description and amount, and changed a caption as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

14. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended September 30, 2013, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in November 2013.

15. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements on November 18, 2013 for management approval.

16. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the Audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

17. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary,

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of SHEDJAMA, Inc., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-037 October 15, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm SHEDJAMA, Inc. ("SHEDJAMA," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. SHEDJAMA is a registered public accounting firm located in Lafayette, Indiana. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Indiana Professional Licensing Agency (license no. FP 50700038). The Firm, formed in 2006, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2013. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements ("Audit"). At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In February 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 6, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

10. Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the Audit. That form included pre-printed text reading, in part:

> The SEC expects accountants to comply with the independence requirements established by the PCAOB, Independence Standards Board, and the accounting profession (the AICPA), as well as the requirements promulgated by the Commission and its staff. The SEC's independence rules are set forth in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01's general standard of independence requires both the fact and the appearance of independence.

11. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a balance sheet as of December 31, 2013, a "Profit & Loss" statement for the year ended December 31, 2013, and four Forms X-17A-5 Part IIA—one for each of the four quarters of 2013—that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), that bore the headers "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)," and that contained quarterly financial statements.

12. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2013, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2014.

13. In preparing those financial statements, Firm staff aggregated line items, changed line item descriptions, and changed a caption as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

14. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2014.

15. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements on February 11, 2014 for management approval.

16. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the Audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

17. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (or, where the Firm by the date of this Order has already commenced but not completed such an engagement, before the Firm's release of its report), to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

b. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Turner, Jones and Company PLLC; Stephen M. Turner, CPA; and Mark E. Turbyfill, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-038 October 15, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Turner, Jones and Company PLLC ("Turner Jones" or the "Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 upon the Firm;[1] censuring Stephen M. Turner ("Turner") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[2] and censuring Mark E. Turbyfill ("Turbyfill") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[3] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm, Turner, and Turbyfill (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with two audits of one issuer client.

I.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Turner may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

[3] Turbyfill may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[4]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[5]

A. Respondents

1. Turner, Jones and Company PLLC is, and at all relevant times was, a professional limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Virginia, and headquartered in Vienna, Virginia.[6] Turner Jones is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Turner Jones is licensed to practice public accountancy by the Virginia Board of Accountancy (License No. 132825). At all relevant times the Firm was the external auditor for the issuer identified below.

[4] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[5] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[6] During 2014, the Firm changed its name to Turner, Leins & Gold, LLC.

ORDER

2. Stephen M. Turner, 57, of Herndon, Virginia is a certified public accountant licensed by the Virginia Board of Accountancy (License No. 9850) since 1986. At all relevant times, Turner was the managing partner of Turner Jones and served as a staff member on one audit and engagement partner on the other audit discussed below. Turner is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

3. Mark E. Turbyfill, 44, of Broadlands, Virginia is a certified public accountant licensed by the Virginia Board of Accountancy (License No. 25136) since 2000. At all relevant times, Turbyfill was an employee of Turner Jones who acted as the engagement partner on certain Firm issuer audits. Turbyfill is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

4. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the issuance of audit reports on the financial statements of Next Generation Energy Corp. ("NextGen") over a two year period.[7] As detailed below, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence and exercise due care and professional skepticism in connection with the audit of the December 31, 2011 financial statements of NextGen (the "2011 audit"). And, as detailed below, Turner and the Firm failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence and exercise due care and professional skepticism in connection with the audit of the December 31, 2012 financial statements of NextGen (the "2012 audit").

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[8] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[9] Those standards require among other things, that an auditor plan and perform the audit to obtain appropriate audit evidence that is sufficient to support the opinion expressed in the auditor's report.[10] PCAOB standards further require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in performing the audit.[11] In addition, PCAOB standards require the auditor's evaluation of audit results to include an evaluation of conditions identified during the audit that relate to the assessment of the risk of material misstatement due to fraud.[12]

6. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with Turner Jones's audit of the 2011 NextGen financial statements, and Turner and the Firm failed to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the Firm's audit of the 2012 NextGen financial statements.

Violations in Connection with Turner Jones's Audit of NextGen's 2011 Financial Statements

7. NextGen is a Nevada corporation headquartered in Annandale, Virginia. NextGen's public filings disclose that, at all relevant times, it was in the business of acquiring and holding interests in the energy business, including natural gas and oil properties. At all relevant times, NextGen's common stock was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, NextGen was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

8. Turbyfill, as engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report expressing an unqualified audit opinion on NextGen's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011 and supervised the work of the engagement team. The report was included in NextGen's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 18, 2012. Turner served as an engagement team member on the 2011 audit and was involved in the audit areas discussed below.

9. In March 2011, NextGen purchased a privately held company named Knox Gas, LLC ("Knox") from two related parties for $500,000.[13] The purchase price was financed via two promissory notes of $250,000 each payable to the related parties with no principal payments due until February 21, 2016 (hereinafter the "Knox transaction").

10. In the Knox transaction, NextGen acquired all the membership interests of Knox.[14] Respondents understood that Knox's only assets were four oil and gas leases purchased by Knox during 2010.[15] Knox purchased one lease for $1 in May 2010 and the remaining three leases for $40,000 in August 2010. Notwithstanding the difference between Knox's purchase of the four leases for $40,001 and NextGen's $500,000 purchase price for all the membership interests in Knox less than a year later, NextGen recorded the transaction as an "evaluated oil and gas properties" asset of $500,000 with a corresponding note payable of $500,000. The Knox transaction, as recorded, represented 67% of NextGen's total reported 2011 assets and 48% of its total reported liabilities.

11. In connection with the 2011 audit, Respondents did not document any risk presented by the Knox transaction even though they knew the purchase was entirely financed via notes from related parties.[16] Moreover, Respondents failed to identify the need to evaluate whether the oil and gas leases acquired in the Knox transaction needed to be recorded by NextGen at Knox's carrying amount because Knox and NextGen were related parties under common control.[17]

[13] The related parties involved in the Knox transaction were the wife of NextGen's chairman and CEO and a NextGen Director.

[14] Membership interests are a member's collective ownership rights in a limited liability company. In order to acquire all of Knox, NextGen had to acquire all of Knox's membership interests.

[15] Respondents did not perform any procedures to determine if Knox had any other assets or liabilities. At the time of the audit, Respondents knew that Knox did not have any financial statements.

12. Additionally, in auditing the Knox transaction, Respondents failed to perform sufficient procedures over NextGen's $500,000 valuation assigned to the leases acquired in the Knox transaction. Respondents obtained a July 2010 Gas Reserve and Valuation Report ("2010 Valuation Report") prepared by a third-party appraiser as the only support for management's $500,000 valuation. Respondents failed to perform sufficient procedures over NextGen's reliance on the work of the third-party specialist that prepared the 2010 Valuation Report.[18] Specifically, Respondents failed to perform sufficient procedures: (a) to obtain an understanding of the methods and assumptions used by the specialist, (b) to make appropriate tests of the data provided to the specialist, and (c) to evaluate whether the specialist's relationship with NextGen might impair the specialist's objectivity.[19] Nor did Respondents know that, less than two months after the report was prepared, three of the oil and gas leases had been purchased by Knox for only $40,000.

Violations in Connection with Turner Jones's Audit of NextGen's 2012 Financial Statements

13. Turner, as engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report expressing an unqualified audit opinion on NextGen's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012 and supervised the engagement team. The report was included in NextGen's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 22, 2013.

14. During the 2012 audit, NextGen concluded that the "evaluated oil and gas properties" acquired in the 2011 Knox transaction were impaired as of December 31, 2012. According to management, the impairment "was primarily due to the Company anticipating conversion of the leases into a royalty agreement with an operator."

ORDER

Management recorded an impairment charge of $286,119 for the "evaluated oil and gas properties" originally valued at $500,000 (a 57% decrease).

15. Although the potential impairment was identified as a significant audit risk, Turner and the Firm failed to perform sufficient procedures related to the impairment charge. Initially, NextGen management proposed a new valuation of $417,750 for the properties, but ultimately asserted a valuation of $213,881 for the oil and gas wells. Turner evaluated the $213,881 valuation by considering the 2010 Valuation Report previously relied on for the $500,000 valuation in 2011 and NextGen's anticipated conversion of the leases into a royalty agreement with an operator. Turner and the Firm, however, failed to perform sufficient procedures concerning NextGen's continued reliance on the 2010 Valuation Report, including how the Report supported both the original $500,000 and the new $213,881 valuations.

16. In December 2012, less than two years after the Knox transaction, the $500,000 note payable entered into in connection with the Knox transaction was forgiven by the related parties. As a result, NextGen wrote-off the $500,000 note payable in its 2012 financial statements.

17. While the loan forgiveness was identified as a significant audit risk, Turner and the Firm failed to consider whether the forgiveness and related write-off contradicted the original valuations of the Knox leases. Despite this contradictory audit evidence, Turner and the Firm failed to perform any procedures to consider whether the 2011 Knox transaction presented a risk of material misstatement due to error or fraud and whether it was appropriately recorded in both 2011 and 2012.[20]

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Turner, Jones and Company PLLC, Stephen M. Turner, and Mark E. Turbyfill are hereby censured;

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of BDO Auditores, S.L.P., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-039 November 12, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring BDO Auditores, S.L.P. ("Firm" or "Respondent"), a registered public accounting firm, imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 upon the Firm, and requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm twice failed to timely disclose certain reportable events to the Board on PCAOB Form 3, Special Report, in violation of PCAOB rules.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making

Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. BDO Auditores, S.L.P. is, and at all relevant times was, a limited liability corporation organized under Spanish law, and headquartered in Madrid, Spain. The Firm is a member of BDO International Limited, and forms part of the international BDO network of independent member firms. At all relevant times, the Firm has been registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is licensed in Spain by the Official Register of Auditors (R.O.A.C.) (license no. S1273).

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns the Firm's failures to timely disclose certain reportable events to the Board on Form 3 as required by PCAOB rules. Specifically, the Firm became a respondent in two separate disciplinary proceedings initiated by the Instituto de Contabilidad y Auditoria de Cuentas ("ICAC"), the foreign auditor oversight authority in Spain.[2] PCAOB rules required the Firm to complete and file a PCAOB special report on Form 3 within 30 days of becoming aware that it had become a respondent in those disciplinary proceedings. The Firm became aware of the disciplinary proceedings in May 2012 and February 2014, respectively, yet failed to file a Form 3 reporting the proceedings until May 2015, after the PCAOB commenced its investigation, and well after the 30-day reporting deadline. The disciplinary proceedings in Spain are currently on appeal or pending resolution by ICAC, respectively.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] A "foreign auditor oversight authority" means any governmental body or other entity empowered by a foreign government to conduct inspections of public accounting firms or otherwise to administer or enforce laws related to the regulation of public accounting firms. See PCAOB Rule 1001(f)(iii).

ORDER

C. Respondent Failed to Timely Disclose Certain Reportable Events to the Board, in Violation of PCAOB Rules

3. In effect since 2009, PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[3] One such specified event is when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[4] The proceeding only has to relate to "professional services for a client" and does not necessarily have to involve an audit of an issuer, broker or dealer. With respect to two such events involving the Firm described below, Respondent failed to timely file a Form 3 with the Board.

4. First, on or about May 11, 2012, the Firm became aware that it had become a respondent in a disciplinary proceeding initiated by ICAC. The proceeding arose out of the Firm's audit of Establiments Miro, S.L. (a Spanish company that is not a U.S. issuer[5]) for fiscal year ending January 31, 2010. By April 2013, ICAC determined that the Firm had violated certain auditing standards. The Firm's appeal to the Spanish Courts of Justice is currently pending.

5. Second, on or about February 27, 2014, the Firm became aware that it had become a respondent in another disciplinary proceeding initiated by ICAC. The proceeding arose out of the Firm's audit of Pescanova, S.A. (a Spanish company that is not a U.S. issuer) for fiscal year ending December 31, 2011. As of the date of this Order, those disciplinary proceedings have not been concluded as to the Firm.

[3] See PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports. As the Board noted when adopting its rules on special reporting, "[R]eportable events will sometimes occur, and the public interest, as well as the ability to consider whether prompt action is warranted by the Board's inspection staff or enforcement staff, will be served by contemporaneous reporting of the event." See PCAOB Rel. No. 2008-004 at 17 (June 10, 2008).

[5] The term "issuer" means an issuer (as defined in Section 3 of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Exchange Act")), the securities of which are registered under Section 12 of the Exchange Act, or that is required to file reports under Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act, or that files or has filed a registration statement that has not yet become effective under the Securities Act of 1933, and that it has not withdrawn. See PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

6. In violation of Rule 2203, the Firm failed to file a Form 3 with respect to either proceeding until May 5, 2015, approximately three years after learning of the first proceeding and more than a year after learning of the second proceeding.

7. The Firm's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the proceedings before ICAC as being reportable to the PCAOB and ensure timely reporting pursuant to PCAOB rules.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

ORDER

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process;

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to assign the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to an individual within the Firm who possesses adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority within the Firm to fulfill those requirements on behalf of the Firm; and

4. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to have the individual referenced in paragraph C(3) above certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(3) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of L.L. Bradford & Company, LLC, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-041 December 3, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring L.L. Bradford & Company, LLC ("L.L. Bradford" or the "Firm"); (2) revoking the Firm's registration; and (3) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $12,500.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that in connection with the Firm's audits of numerous issuer audit clients, the Firm repeatedly violated PCAOB rules, auditing standards, and quality control standards and, in connection with several of those audits, also violated Section 10A(g) and Section 10A(j) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence.

I.

On April 3, 2015, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings against L.L. Bradford pursuant to Section 105 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1). These proceedings were not public pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203. The Board determined, under Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public, and the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, L.L. Bradford did not consent to make the hearing in this proceeding public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, L.L. Bradford has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of this proceeding and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except to the Board's jurisdiction over the Firm, which is admitted, L.L. Bradford consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of L.L. Bradford's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. L.L. Bradford is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, and is headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada. L.L. Bradford is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. L.L. Bradford is licensed to practice public accountancy by the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. LLC-0113) and, at all relevant times, was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

B. Other Relevant Individuals and Entities

2. Gordon Brad Beckstead, age 51, of Henderson, Nevada, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. CPA-2701). At all relevant times, Beckstead was an audit principal in the Las Vegas, Nevada office of L.L. Bradford. Beckstead was the engagement partner on L.L. Bradford's audit of WebXU Inc.'s ("WebXU") December 31, 2011 financial statements and review of WebXU's June 30, 2012 financial statements.[4] Beckstead is no longer

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to L.L. Bradford's Offer and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that L.L. Bradford's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

employed by L.L. Bradford. At all relevant times, Beckstead was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

3. Hazel-Leilani De Los Reyes Bradford, age 47, of Henderson, Nevada, is a partner with L.L. Bradford and a certified public accountant licensed by the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. CPA-2438). At all relevant times, Bradford was a partner in the Las Vegas, Nevada office of L.L. Bradford, and was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). At all relevant times, Bradford owned a majority stake in L.L. Bradford and was the partner responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of the Firm's quality control policies and procedures.[5]

4. Eric S. Bullinger, age 45, of Worland, Wyoming, is a certified public accountant licensed under the laws of Wyoming (License No. 2741).[6] At all relevant times, Bullinger was a partner in the Las Vegas, Nevada office of L.L. Bradford, and was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[7] Bullinger separated from L.L. Bradford in January 2013.

5. Suzanne M. Herring, age 50, of Las Vegas, Nevada, is an audit principal with L.L. Bradford, a position she has held since January 2013. Herring was a senior member of the engagement team on L.L. Bradford's audit of the financial statements of Decision Diagnostics Corp. ("Decision Diagnostics") for the year ended December 31, 2012.[8] At all relevant times, Herring was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Herring is no longer employed by L.L. Bradford.

ORDER

6. Dustin M. Lewis, age 41, of Henderson, Nevada, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. CPA-3205). At all relevant times, Lewis was a partner in the Las Vegas, Nevada office of L.L. Bradford, and was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Lewis was the engagement quality reviewer on the 2011 WebXU audit and the June 30, 2012 WebXU review.[9] Lewis is no longer employed by L.L. Bradford and is currently self-employed.

C. Summary

7. This matter relates to the Firm's pervasive independence and quality control violations in its issuer audit practice, as well as the Firm's numerous violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with an audit and quarterly review of an issuer audit client.

8. First, the Firm repeatedly violated Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the Firm's issuer audit clients. The Firm was not independent with respect to six issuer audit clients because of audit partner rotation violations by two partners of the Firm. Moreover, in connection with the audits of two of those issuer audit clients, L.L. Bradford also failed to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), because one of its partners served as the engagement quality reviewer immediately after serving as the engagement partner, in violation of AS 7's mandatory two year "cooling-off" period.

9. Second, the Firm also violated Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, as well as PCAOB independence rules and standards, prohibiting the provision of certain non-audit services to an issuer audit client at any point during the audit and professional engagement period. The Firm was not independent of one issuer audit client because an audit principal at the Firm provided bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services to that issuer audit client during the audit period. In connection with that same audit, the Firm also violated a PCAOB rule that requires a registered public accounting firm to communicate, in writing, to the audit committee of a potential audit client, all relationships between the firm and the potential audit client that may reasonably be thought to bear on the firm's independence and to discuss with the audit committee the potential effects of such relationships should the firm be appointed as auditor.

10. Third, the Firm violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards with respect to an audit and a quarterly review of one issuer audit client. Specifically, the Firm in conducting its audit of the financial statements of WebXU for the year ended December 31, 2011, failed to properly assess the risks of material misstatement. As a result, the Firm failed to properly identify significant risks in connection with the 2011 WebXU audit. The Firm also failed to properly establish an overall strategy for the audit and develop an audit plan that included planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risks of material misstatement. In addition, the Firm failed to perform sufficient audit procedures that addressed the risks of material misstatement.

11. The Firm violated PCAOB standards in multiple other respects as well in its 2011 WebXU audit. In connection with a significant acquisition that WebXU consummated during 2011, the Firm failed to (i) evaluate the qualifications and competence of a specialist that WebXU retained to value the acquisition; (ii) evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by the issuer and its specialist to determine the fair value of purchase consideration for the acquisition; (iii) test data WebXU provided to the specialist and properly evaluate whether the specialist's findings supported the related financial statement assertions; and (iv) evaluate the adequacy of WebXU's disclosure of the terms of the acquisition. In addition, the Firm failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to test WebXU's reported revenue.

12. The Firm also failed to comply with PCAOB standards in connection with its review of WebXU's quarterly financial statements for the period ended June 30, 2012. Specifically, the Firm failed to properly communicate with management and the audit committee regarding the engagement team's inability to complete the review.

13. Finally, as detailed below, the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards by failing to establish and implement quality control policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel maintained independence in fact and appearance. In addition, the Firm failed to establish and implement quality control policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the Firm for each of the elements of quality control were suitably designed and being effectively applied.

D. Background

14. L.L. Bradford was formed in 1994 as a professional corporation. In 2012, the time period during which the majority of the violations occurred, L.L. Bradford had nineteen issuer audit clients and three personnel authorized to sign audit reports on behalf of the Firm: Lewis, Bullinger, and Beckstead. Bradford, another Firm partner, was responsible for designing, implementing, and monitoring the Firm's quality control policies and procedures. Bradford had limited public company audit experience and limited knowledge of PCAOB standards and relevant Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") rules and regulations. After assuming responsibility for the Firm's quality control policies and procedures, Bradford failed to become sufficiently knowledgeable of PCAOB and Commission requirements, and ultimately failed to design and maintain a system of quality control that provided the Firm with reasonable assurance its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and the Firm's standards of quality.

E. L.L. Bradford Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards, and the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rules

L.L. Bradford Repeatedly Failed to Comply with Audit Partner Rotation Requirements and the Mandatory "Cooling-Off" Period

15. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[10] PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[11] A registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws.[12]

ORDER

16. Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act provides that "[i]t shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm to provide audit services to an issuer if the lead (or coordinating) audit partner (having primary responsibility for the audit), or the audit partner responsible for reviewing the audit, has performed audit services for that issuer in each of the 5 previous fiscal years of that issuer."

17. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 provides that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the partner rotation requirements of Commission Regulation S-X.

18. Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client when an audit partner performs the services of lead or concurring audit partner for the same issuer for more than five consecutive years or within the five consecutive year period following the performance of services for the maximum period permitted.[13]

19. AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[14] To ensure the objectivity of the engagement quality reviewer, paragraph 8 of AS 7 sets forth a mandatory two year cooling-off period before an engagement partner can assume the role of engagement quality reviewer on an issuer audit.[15] Specifically, AS 7 provides: "The person who served as the engagement partner during either of the two audits preceding the audit subject to the engagement quality review may not be the engagement quality reviewer."[16]

20. As described below, Respondent failed to comply with Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and standards.

Audits of All American SportPark, Inc.'s Financial Statements

21. At all relevant times, All American SportPark, Inc. ("AASP") was a Nevada corporation with its headquarters in Las Vegas, Nevada. AASP's public filings disclosed that it was a smaller reporting company as defined by Rule 12b-2 of the Exchange Act and operated a golf facility in Las Vegas, Nevada. Its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, AASP was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

22. L.L. Bradford was engaged as AASP's external auditor in May 2006. The Firm issued six unqualified audit reports on AASP's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2006 through December 31, 2011. Each of those six audit reports was included in a Form 10-K or 10-KSB that AASP filed with the Commission.

23. Lewis served as the lead partner on the audit of AASP for 2006. Thereafter, Lewis served as concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer on the audits of AASP between 2007 and 2010. After serving as lead or concurring partner for the aforementioned five year period, Lewis continued to serve as the engagement quality reviewer on the audit of AASP's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011.

24. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of AASP between 2007 and 2011. After serving for the five year period, Bullinger continued to serve as lead partner on the review of AASP's March 31, 2012 quarterly financial statements.

25. As a result of the services described above, L.L. Bradford was not independent during the audits and reviews of AASP's 2011 financial statements and during the review of AASP's interim financial statements for the first quarter of 2012, in violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

Audits of Brownie's Marine Group, Inc.'s Financial Statements

26. At all relevant times, Brownie's Marine Group, Inc. ("Brownie's") was a Nevada corporation with its headquarters in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Brownie's public filings disclosed that it was a smaller reporting company as defined by Rule 12b-2 of the Exchange Act and was engaged in the design, testing, manufacturing, and distribution of recreational hookah diving, yacht based scuba air compressor and nitrox generation systems, and scuba and water safety products. Its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, Brownie's was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

27. L.L. Bradford was engaged as Brownie's external auditor in April 2004. The Firm issued eight unqualified audit reports on Brownie's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2004 through December 31, 2011. Each of those eight audit reports was included in a Form 10-K or 10-KSB that Brownie's filed with the Commission.

28. Lewis served as lead partner on the audits of Brownie's financial statements for three consecutive fiscal years, between 2004 and 2006. Lewis thereafter served as concurring partner on the Firm's next two audits of Brownie's financial statements between 2007 and 2008. After serving as lead or concurring partner for the aforementioned five year period, Lewis continued to serve as the concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer on the audits of Brownie's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2009 and December 31, 2010.

29. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of Brownie's financial statements between 2007 and 2011. After serving as lead partner for the aforementioned five year period, Bullinger then served as engagement quality reviewer on the reviews of Brownie's March 31, 2012, June 30, 2012, and September 30, 2012 quarterly financial statements.

30. As a result of the services described above, L.L. Bradford was not independent during the audits and reviews of Brownie's 2009 and 2010 financial statements and during the reviews of Brownie's interim financial statements for the first three quarters of 2012, in violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220. Moreover, because Bullinger served as the engagement quality reviewer immediately after serving as lead partner on Brownie's audits, Respondent violated AS 7.[17]

Audits of Bravo Enterprises Ltd.'s Financial Statements

31. At all relevant times, Bravo Enterprises Ltd. (formerly known as Organa Gardens International and Shotgun Energy Corp.) ("Bravo") was a Nevada corporation with its headquarters in Patchogue, New York. 32. L.L. Bradford was engaged as Bravo's external auditor in December 2006. The Firm issued six unqualified audit reports on Bravo's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2006 through December 31, 2011. Each of those six audit reports was included in a Form 10-K or 10-KSB that Bravo filed with the Commission.

33. Lewis served as the lead partner on the audit of Bravo's financial statements for 2006 and as the concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer on the audits of Bravo's financial statements between 2007 and 2010. After serving as lead partner or concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer for the aforementioned five year period, Lewis continued to serve as the engagement quality reviewer on the audit of Bravo's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011.

34. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of Bravo's financial statements between 2007 and 2011. After serving for the five year period, Bullinger then continued to serve as lead partner on the review of Bravo's March 31, 2012 quarterly financial statements.

35. As a result of the services described above, L.L. Bradford was not independent during the audit and reviews of Bravo's 2011 financial statements and during the review of Bravo's interim financial statements for the first quarter of 2012, in violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

Audits of Terralene Fuels Corporation's Financial Statements

36. At all relevant times, Terralene Fuels Corporation (formerly known as Golden Spirit Enterprises Ltd.) ("Terralene") was a Delaware corporation with its headquarters in Patchogue, New York. Terralene's public filings disclosed that it was a smaller reporting company and engaged in the development of alternative fuels. Its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. On May 14, 2013, Terralene filed a Form 15 to deregister its common stock. At all relevant times, Terralene was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

37. L.L. Bradford was engaged as Terralene's external auditor in December 2006. The Firm issued six unqualified audit reports on Terralene's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2006 through December 31, 2011. Each of those six audit reports was included in a Form 10-K or 10-KSB that Terralene filed with the Commission.

38. Lewis served as lead partner on the audit of Terralene's 2006 financial statements and as the concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer on the audits of Terralene's financial statements between 2007 and 2010. After serving as lead partner or concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer for the aforementioned five year period, Lewis continued to serve as the engagement quality reviewer on the audit of Terralene's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011.

39. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of Terralene's financial statements between 2007 and 2011. After serving for the five year period, Bullinger then served as engagement quality reviewer on the review of Terralene's March 31, 2012 and June 30, 2012 quarterly financial statements.

40. As a result of the services described above, L.L. Bradford was not independent during the audits and reviews of Terralene's 2011 financial statements and during the reviews of Terralene's interim financial statements for the first two quarters of 2012, in violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220. Moreover, because Bullinger served as the engagement quality reviewer immediately after serving as lead partner on Terralene's audits, Respondent violated AS 7.[18]

Audits of Solar Energy Initiatives, Inc.'s Financial Statements

41. At all relevant times, Solar Energy Initiatives, Inc. ("SEI") was a Delaware corporation with its headquarters in Cary, North Carolina. SEI's public filings disclosed that it was a smaller reporting company and it had no present operations other than seeking new business activities. Its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. On January 8, 2014, SEI filed a Form 15 to deregister its common stock. At all relevant times, SEI was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

42. L.L. Bradford was engaged as SEI's external auditor in August 2007. The Firm issued five unqualified audit reports on SEI's financial statements for the years ended July 31, 2007 through July 31, 2011. Each of those five audit reports was included in a Form SB-2 or Form 10-K that SEI filed with the Commission.

43. Bullinger served as lead partner and Lewis served as the concurring partner/engagement quality reviewer on the audits of SEI for the fiscal years 2007 through 2011. After serving on the audit for five fiscal year periods, Bullinger then continued to serve as lead partner and Lewis as engagement quality reviewer on the review of SEI's October 31, 2011, January 31, 2012, and April 30, 2012 quarterly financial statements.

44. As a result of the services described above, L.L. Bradford was not independent during the reviews of SEI's interim financial statements for the first three quarters of fiscal year 2012, in violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

Audits of U-Swirl, Inc.'s Financial Statements

45. At all relevant times, U-Swirl, Inc. ("U-Swirl") was a Nevada corporation with its headquarters in Henderson, Nevada. U-Swirl's public filings disclosed that it was a smaller reporting company and engaged in the operation and franchising of frozen yogurt cafes. Its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, U-Swirl was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

46. L.L. Bradford was engaged as U-Swirl's external auditor in November 2007. The Firm issued five unqualified audit reports on U-Swirl's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2007 through December 31, 2011. Each of those five audit reports was included in a Form S-1/A or Form 10-K that U-Swirl filed with the Commission.

47. Bullinger served as lead partner on the audits of U-Swirl for the fiscal years 2007 through 2011. After serving on the audit of five fiscal year periods, Bullinger then continued to serve as lead partner on the review of U-Swirl's March 31, 2012 quarterly financial statements.

48. As a result of the services described above, L.L. Bradford was not independent during the review of U-Swirl's interim financial statements for the first quarter of 2012, in violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

L.L. Bradford Failed to Comply with Independence Requirements Related to Prohibited Non-Audit Services

49. Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act provides that it shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm that performs an audit for an issuer "to provide to that issuer, contemporaneously with the audit, any non-audit service, including . . . [b]ookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client."

50. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 states that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the prohibited non-audit services provisions of Commission Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides certain non-audit services to an audit client, including bookkeeping services such as "[p]reparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission."[19]

51. In addition, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm describe, in writing, to the audit committee of a potential audit client, all relationships between the firm or any affiliates of the firm and the potential audit client that may reasonably be thought to bear on independence.[20] The firm is also required to discuss with the audit committee the potential effects of such relationships should the firm be appointed as the potential audit client's auditor and to document the substance of such discussion.[21]

52. As described below, Respondent failed to comply with Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules in connection with the audit of Decision Diagnostics' December 31, 2012 financial statements.

53. Beginning in August 2011, Beckstead, an audit principal at L.L. Bradford, was employed on a contract basis by Decision Diagnostics to provide bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services for Decision Diagnostics through at least December 2012. As part of those services, Beckstead prepared the first, second, and third quarter 2012 financial statements and Forms 10-Q for Decision Diagnostics.

54. L.L. Bradford was engaged as Decision Diagnostics' external auditor on February 11, 2013 to audit the company's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012 (the "2012 Decision Diagnostics Audit").[22] Herring, an auditor who had recently joined L.L. Bradford, solicited Decision Diagnostics to engage the Firm as its external auditor, and served as a senior member of the Firm's audit engagement team for the 2012 Decision Diagnostics Audit. At the time the Firm accepted Decision Diagnostics as an audit client, Herring and others at the Firm were aware of the timing and the nature of the services that Beckstead had provided for Decision Diagnostics during fiscal year 2012.

55. During the 2012 Decision Diagnostics Audit, the Firm performed audit procedures on the underlying accounting records of the issuer that were prepared by Beckstead and that reflected the accounting principles recommended by him. In addition, the December 31, 2012 financial statements that the Firm audited were based, at least in part, on the quarterly financial statements prepared by Beckstead. The Firm issued an unqualified audit report on Decision Diagnostics' financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012, which was included in the Form 10-K the issuer filed with the Commission on April 16, 2013.

56. As a result of the bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services provided by Beckstead, L.L. Bradford was not independent of Decision Diagnostics during the fiscal year 2012 audit period, in violation of Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, PCAOB Rule 3520, and AU § 220.

57. In addition, on January 21, 2013, contemporaneous with accepting the Decision Diagnostics engagement, the Firm issued a letter to Decision Diagnostics pursuant to PCAOB Rule 3526. In violation of Rule 3526, however, that letter failed to

L.L. Bradford Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with the Audit of the 2011 Financial Statements of WebXU

L.L. Bradford Failed to Comply with PCAOB Rules and Standards

58. An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[23] Among other things, PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care, exercise professional skepticism, and obtain sufficient appropriate evidential matter to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements.[24]

59. PCAOB standards also require that an audit be properly planned, that auditors identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level, and that auditors design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[25]

60. When an auditor relies on the work of a specialist, PCAOB standards require the auditor to "consider the . . . qualifications of the specialist in determining that the specialist possesses the necessary skill or knowledge in the particular field" and conduct "appropriate tests of data provided to the specialist."[26]

61. PCAOB standards further require that the auditor test an issuer's fair value measurements and disclosures. In doing so, the auditor should evaluate whether (1) "[m]anagement's assumptions are reasonable and reflect, or are not inconsistent with, market information," (2) "[t]he fair value measurement was determined using an appropriate model," and (3) "[m]anagement used relevant information that was reasonably available at the time."[27] For purposes of AU § 328, management's assumptions include assumptions developed by a specialist engaged or employed by management.[28]

62. PCAOB standards also require that the auditor evaluate whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework. In doing so, "the auditor should evaluate whether the financial statements contain the information essential for a fair presentation of the financial statements."[29]

63. As detailed below, L.L. Bradford failed to comply with these auditing standards in connection with the audit of the December 31, 2011 financial statements of WebXU.

64. WebXU was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in Los Angeles, California. WebXU's public filings disclosed that it was a media company engaged in developing high-value branded websites to service consumers for products and services. During the relevant period, its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board.[30] At all relevant times, WebXU was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

SEC, Exchange Act Release No. 72323. On December 18, 2014, the Commission revoked the registration of WebXU's securities due to the issuer's failure to file periodic reports with the Commission since its December 31, 2012 Form 10-K. SEC, Exchange Act Release No. 73869.

ORDER

65. The Firm became the auditor for WebXU on December 5, 2011. The Firm audited WebXU's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011, and issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion dated April 9, 2012, which was included in WebXU's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 9, 2012. The audit report stated that, in L.L. Bradford's opinion, WebXU's financial statements presented fairly, in all material respects, the issuer's financial position in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") and that L.L. Bradford's audit was performed in accordance with PCAOB standards. Beckstead served as the lead partner on the 2011 audit of WebXU and authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit report. Lewis served as the engagement quality reviewer on the 2011 audit of WebXU and provided concurring approval for the issuance of the Firm's audit report.

Audit Planning and Risk Assessment

66. L.L. Bradford failed to comply with PCAOB standards in connection with the 2011 audit of WebXU. During audit planning, the Firm failed to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement and assertion level. The engagement team's assessment of risk was limited to assessing inherent risk, control risk, and audit risk. The risks of material misstatement were not properly assessed. Furthermore, the engagement team's risk assessment was performed at a level of aggregation above that permitted by PCAOB standards.[31] For example, the Firm assessed risk on all assets collectively. A similar approach was taken with liabilities. As a result, cash carried the same risk assessment as goodwill (identified in the financial statements as "Investment in Lot6").

67. Because the Firm failed to properly assess the risks of material misstatement and failed to identify significant risks at the financial statement and assertion level, the Firm also failed to properly establish an overall strategy for the engagement and develop an audit plan that included planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risks of material misstatement. In addition, the Firm failed to perform sufficient audit procedures that addressed the risks of material misstatement.[32]

Valuation of Lot6 and Related Purchase Consideration

68. The Firm also failed to perform appropriate procedures with respect to a significant acquisition WebXU made in 2011. In November 2011, WebXU acquired Lot6 Media LLC ("Lot6"), an affiliate marketing company. Under the terms of the share exchange agreement, purchase consideration included 1,000,000 shares of WebXU common stock, a $5,000,000 note payable, a $1,861,532 working capital note payable, and contingent consideration in the form of an earn-out agreement. In the event WebXU failed to repay or timely repay the notes payable, the share exchange agreement included a penalty provision that required WebXU to issue additional shares to the seller, as well as a right of rescission clause, which gave the seller the right to terminate the acquisition in the event of non-payment. At December 31, 2011, the goodwill WebXU recorded in connection with the acquisition of Lot6 was the largest item on WebXU's balance sheet and constituted nearly two-thirds of total reported assets. By September 30, 2012, less than a year after the acquisition and less than six months after the Firm issued its audit opinion on the December 31, 2011 financial statements, WebXU wrote off the full value of the Lot6 goodwill.

69. As a result of the acquisition of Lot6, the Firm, Beckstead, and Lewis understood that WebXU retained a specialist to value the assets and liabilities acquired, including any goodwill, as well as the purchase consideration given. The Firm failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to comply with PCAOB standards on the use of specialists when it failed to evaluate the qualifications, and competence of the specialist retained.[33] The work papers contained no evaluation of the specialist. Further, Beckstead acknowledged that he was aware the specialist had no experience valuing affiliate marketing companies, and though he knew the specialist had done other valuations, he did not know how many, or her qualifications for doing valuations in general.

70. In violation of PCAOB standards, the Firm also failed to perform sufficient procedures to test the valuation of purchase consideration.[34] Specifically, the Firm failed to evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by the issuer and its specialist to determine the fair value of shares and notes payable issued in connection with the acquisition.[35] In particular, the Firm failed to properly evaluate the reasonableness of the share price used to value the restricted common stock given as consideration. The Firm also failed to test the imputed interest rate applied to the notes payable issued as part of the purchase consideration.[36]

71. Finally, the Firm failed to test data provided to the specialist by the issuer and properly evaluate whether the specialist's findings supported the related financial statement assertions.[37] The Firm failed to test the data utilized by the valuation specialist to assess the probability of triggering the earn-out targets included as part of purchase consideration. Specifically, there is no indication as to how, if at all, the Firm tested the Lot6 historical growth rates utilized by the specialist. The valuation report included historical information for 2009 and 2010, as well as each of the quarters in 2011; however, Beckstead acknowledged that the engagement team did not perform procedures to test the historical financial information for the year ended December 31, 2009, and there are no work papers indicating that L.L. Bradford audited the 2011 quarterly financial information. Moreover, as discussed below, the Firm failed to properly audit Lot6 revenue for the period ended December 31, 2011.

Disclosure of Lot6 Acquisition Terms

72. In violation of PCAOB standards, the Firm also failed to evaluate the adequacy of WebXU's disclosure of the terms of the Lot6 acquisition in the financial statements.[38] The share exchange agreement with Lot6 included: (a) a right of rescission clause in the event WebXU failed to timely repay notes payable issued in connection with the acquisition and (b) penalties for late or non-payment of the notes payable. At the time the financial statements and audit report were issued, the engagement team was aware that WebXU had triggered the penalties clause because WebXU failed to make any payments on the notes payable. They further knew that WebXU was actively considering whether to service the notes payable or walk away from the transaction. WebXU did not disclose in its 2011 financial statements or the notes thereto the right of rescission or the penalty provision. Despite the significance of Lot6 to WebXU's financial condition, the Firm failed to evaluate the need for WebXU to disclose those terms of the Lot6 acquisition, in violation of PCAOB standards.[39]

Revenue Recognition

73. The Firm also failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to test WebXU's reported revenue.[40] Specifically, the Firm failed to evaluate whether revenues recognized by Lot6 satisfied the relevant revenue recognition criteria. As of December 31, 2011, Lot6 had been a subsidiary of WebXU for less than two months but contributed 32% of WebXU's total reported revenues for the year. Despite the significance of Lot6 revenue, the Firm failed to: (1) test the completeness of the population from which the selected revenue transactions were chosen by, for example, failing to reconcile the population to the issuer's general ledger; (2) obtain, understand, and evaluate customer contracts to determine whether the issuer's recognition of revenue was in accordance with GAAP; and (3) perform cutoff procedures on Lot6 revenues to test whether revenue was properly recognized in the correct period.

L.L. Bradford Violated PCAOB Auditing Standards in Connection with the Review of the June 30, 2012 Financial Statements of WebXU

74. In performing a review of interim financial information, if an accountant becomes aware of information that causes the accountant to believe that the interim financial information may not be in conformity with GAAP, PCAOB standards require that the accountant "make additional inquiries or perform other procedures . . . to provide a basis for communicating whether he or she is aware of any material modifications that should be made to the interim financial information."[41] If an accountant is unable to perform procedures he or she considers necessary to achieve the objective of a review, the review is incomplete.[42] The inability to complete the review, as well as any material modification that should be made to the financial information for it to be in conformity with GAAP, should be communicated to management, and if management does not respond appropriately, those matters should be communicated to the issuer's audit committee.[43] The accountant is also required to communicate certain other items to the audit committee, including issues relating to sensitive accounting estimates and adjustments that could have a significant effect on the financial statements.[44]

75. As detailed below, L.L. Bradford failed to comply with these PCAOB standards in connection with the review of the June 30, 2012 financial statements of WebXU.

76. On August 21, 2012, WebXU filed its Form 10-Q with the Commission for the quarter ended June 30, 2012. Included in the Form 10-Q was an explanatory note that stated that the auditors had failed to complete the required field work and review of WebXU's filing due to technical problems with the auditor's email system. The Firm, aware that WebXU had filed before the completion of its review, internally discussed whether WebXU would need to file an amended Form 10-Q once the review was complete, but took no further action and continued its review.

77. On September 25, 2012, more than a month after WebXU filed its Form 10-Q, the Firm signed a Completion Document for the review and a Supervision, Review, and Approval Form indicating that the Firm had completed the quarterly review. The next day, Beckstead, the engagement partner, sent an email to WebXU stating: "Just so everyone is on the same page here, we are still analyzing the goodwill impairment for the quarter ended 6/30/2012 . . . In other words, the quarter is still not final. In the event that the adjustment to the impairment write-down is deemed material, a restatement of the financials and an amended 10Q will need to be filed."

78. As part of its review procedures, the Firm identified a likely misstatement of goodwill impairment of more than $2 million, an amount that was material to WebXU's financial statements, but the engagement team understood that it needed to do more work to conclude. The Firm did not complete its additional inquiries and procedures prior to signing off on the quarterly review. According to other email communications among Beckstead, Lewis, and the engagement manager, the engagement team was still assessing in October 2012 whether the second quarter goodwill impairment charge taken by WebXU was misstated. Although it was aware of the potential impact of the likely misstatement, the Firm did not discuss the amount of the likely misstatement with management or the audit committee. The Firm also never completed its additional inquiries and review procedures related to goodwill impairment.

79. By failing to complete procedures "necessary to achieve the objective of a review of financial information, . . . the review [was] incomplete."[45] Because the Firm failed to make the appropriate communications to management and the audit committee regarding the Firm's inability to complete the review, the Firm violated PCAOB standards.[46]

F. L.L. Bradford Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

80. PCAOB Rules require that a registered accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards.[47] PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[48] The design and maintenance of a firm's quality control policies and procedures "should be assigned to an appropriate individual" with consideration given to the "proficiency" of the individual, the "authority to be delegated," and "the extent of supervision to be provided."[49]

81. Among other things, a firm's policies and procedures should provide reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence in fact and appearance.[50]

82. PCAOB quality control standards also provide that policies and procedures "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control . . . are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[51] Firms are required to establish monitoring procedures to "enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective."[52] Such monitoring procedures include, among other things, inspection procedures, post-issuance reviews of selected engagements, and analysis and assessment of the results of independence confirmations.[53]

83. As detailed below, L.L. Bradford failed to comply with PCAOB rules and quality control standards.

Independence, Integrity, and Objectivity

84. The Firm failed to adopt and implement appropriate quality control policies and procedures governing the Firm's independence with respect to its issuer audit clients. Specifically, the Firm's 2011 quality control policies and procedures included incorrect guidance with respect to audit partner rotation requirements, were silent as to engagement quality reviewer rotation requirements, and did not reflect the practices of the Firm during the relevant time period.

85. With respect to audit partner rotation requirements, Bradford assumed responsibility for the Firm's, and its associated persons', compliance with audit partner rotation requirements.[54] Significantly, the Firm and Bradford failed to design and implement a process to track and monitor audit partner assignments and rotation compliance. Indeed, Bradford acknowledged that she failed to take any affirmative steps to track and monitor audit partner rotation requirements. These failures contributed to the above-described violations of partner rotation requirements with respect to six issuers.

86. The Firm also failed to design and implement a process for monitoring its personnel's compliance with AS 7, paragraph 8, which requires a two year "cooling-off"

[52] QC § 30.03.

[53] See id.

[54] The Firm's quality control policies and procedures stated that the managing partner assigned audit partners to audit engagements and was responsible for ensuring compliance with audit partner rotation requirements; however that statement was inaccurate. Audit partner assignments were determined as a group and the responsibility for compliance with audit partner rotation requirements was delegated to Bradford, the Firm's quality control partner.

ORDER

period before a partner who served as lead partner can assume the role of engagement quality reviewer. The Firm's quality control policies and procedures did not address the cooling-off requirement. In fact, the Firm was not aware of the requirements set forth in AS 7 until members of the Firm attended a training in 2014 conducted by a third-party. These failures contributed to the Firm's above-described violations of AS 7, paragraph 8.

87. In addition, the Firm failed to design and implement a process for confirming its independence with respect to potential new issuer audit clients prior to accepting the clients. The Firm failed to design and implement any such process despite its awareness that at least two of the Firm's senior personnel, including Beckstead, were permitted to provide non-audit services to issuers outside of their work for L.L. Bradford. During the 2012 inspection, the Board's Division of Registration and Inspections ("DRI") issued a comment noting that Bullinger and Beckstead were permitted to provide non-audit services to issuers outside of their work for L.L. Bradford and that the Firm had not put in place proper procedures to identify and evaluate relevant business relationships between the Firm's partners and its issuer audit clients. Despite DRI's comment, neither the Firm nor Bradford took any actions to implement procedures to identify and evaluate such relationships. In fact, the Firm failed to obtain from Beckstead a list of the services and issuers to whom he was providing non-audit services or otherwise apprise itself of the non-audit services he was providing. That failure, combined with the failure to implement a process to confirm the Firm's independence with respect to new audit clients, contributed to the Firm's violation of independence requirements during the 2012 Decision Diagnostics Audit.

88. The Firm also failed to implement policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence.[55] Specifically, despite a requirement to obtain annual independence confirmations in the Firm's quality control policies and procedures, the Firm failed to obtain and/or retain independence confirmations from its personnel for 2013.

Monitoring

89. The Firm also failed to appropriately implement the required quality control monitoring procedures. The Firm placed Bradford in charge of quality control; however, Bradford's prior audit experience was limited, and she lacked the relevant experience, knowledge, and proficiency necessary to carry out the monitoring function.[56] Moreover,

[56] See QC § 20.22.

PCAOB

ORDER

Bradford failed, and the Firm did not require Bradford, to take sufficient steps to develop the requisite proficiency after becoming the Firm's quality control partner.

90. In August 2013, Bradford conducted an internal quality control inspection of the audits and reviews conducted on certain of the Firm's issuer audit clients. Because Bradford did not have the necessary experience, knowledge, and proficiency, she failed during the Firm's internal quality control inspection to identify multiple audit deficiencies and failures to comply with the Firm's own policies and procedures. For example, Bradford did not identify the Firm's violations of PCAOB standards that occurred during its review of WebXU's financial statements for the period ended June 30, 2012. In addition, with respect to her inspection of the interim review of another issuer client, Bradford failed to identify erroneous disclosure determinations.

91. In addition to the deficiencies in the Firm's 2013 internal inspection process, the Firm and Bradford's monitoring procedures failed to identify a pervasive failure by the Firm's personnel to use the standard audit and review work papers required by the Firm's quality control policies and procedures or to use the up-to-date version of such work papers and forms. As a result of these failures, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards requiring appropriate monitoring.[57]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), L.L. Bradford & Company, LLC is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration L.L. Bradford & Company, LLC is revoked;

C. After five (5) years from the date of the Order, L.L. Bradford & Company, LLC may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101; and

ORDER

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $12,500 payable by L.L. Bradford & Company, LLC is imposed. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. L.L. Bradford & Company, LLC shall pay the $12,500 civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Services money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies the payor as a Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS

In the Matter of Vernon Oates,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-042

December 3, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Vernon Oates ("Respondent, "Firm," or "Oates"), temporarily suspending Respondent's registration for a period of one year from the date of the issuance of this Order, and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $3,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely file an annual report in 2014.

I.

On June 10, 2015, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") (as amended) and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations (the "Division") consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement, Oates did not file an answer indicating the firm's consent or lack of consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Vernon Oates is a proprietorship located in Fontana, California. The Firm's owner, Vernon Dwayne Oates, is licensed by the California Board of Accountancy to engage in the practice of public accounting (License No. 82073). The Firm registered with the Board on July 26, 2012, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules. During the 2014 reporting period, the Firm issued a broker-dealer certification for a broker-dealer which was filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on March 18, 2014.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2 . . . ." PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing Annual Report, sets forth that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and Rule 2200, Oates failed to timely file an annual report for 2014.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

3. On September 5, 2014, the Division of Registration and Inspections ("DRI") sent a notice of non-compliance with PCAOB Rules to Oates that the Firm had not complied with the requirement to file an annual report for 2014 as required by PCAOB Rules 2200 and 2201. On October 17, 2014, DRI sent a second notice of non-compliance to Oates. On December 22, 2014, the Division sent a charging letter to Oates regarding the Firm's failure to file its 2014 annual report. Oates only filed its annual report for 2014 on July 4, 2015; three weeks after the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings against the Firm.

C. Subsequent Events

4. The Board instituted these proceedings on June 10, 2015.

5. On July 4, 2015, Oates filed its annual report for 2014.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Oates is censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), Oates' registration is temporarily suspended for a period of one year from the date of the issuance of this Order; and

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act, and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $3,000 is imposed upon Oates. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Oates shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Oates as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Stein & Company, LLP and Jon H. Stein, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-040 December 3, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Stein & Company, LLP ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000 upon the Firm, and requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward ensuring compliance with the engagement quality review requirements applicable to audits and reviews of issuers; and censuring Jon H. Stein, CPA ("Stein"). The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Stein (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with two of the Firm's audits of an issuer client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:

A. Respondents

1. Stein & Company, LLP is, and at all relevant times was, a limited liability partnership organized under the laws of the state of California, and headquartered in Glendale, California. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and is licensed by the state of California (license no. 7410). At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for the issuer identified below.

2. Jon H. Stein, CPA, 56, of Glendale, California, is a certified public accountant licensed by the California Board of Accountancy (license no. 54438). At all relevant times, Stein was the sole owner of the Firm and was one of the Firm's two accountants. At all relevant times, he was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, Stein & Company, LLP, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to two separate audits of one issuer client, HealthTalk Live, Inc. ("HealthTalk"). In the Firm's audit of HealthTalk's 2013 year-end financial statements and its audit of HealthTalk's 2014 year-end financial statements, the Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review of the audits even though an engagement quality review was required under AS 7.

4. This matter also concerns Stein's failure to comply with PCAOB rules with respect to the same two audits. Stein took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB standards.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

ORDER

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[2]

6. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[3] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance.[4]

7. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[5]

8. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards.

Audits of HealthTalk's Financial Statements

9. At all relevant times, HealthTalk was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Sparks, Nevada. HealthTalk's public filings disclose that it is in the business of providing traditional, plus natural, health and wellness information services through its real-time interactive website, HealthTalkLive.com, and through a live radio show. At all relevant times, HealthTalk was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[2] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards.

[3] See AS 7 ¶ 1.

[4] Id. at ¶ 13.

[5] See PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

ORDER

10. The Firm was engaged in 2013 to audit the financial statements of HealthTalk for the year ended March 31, 2013. The Firm issued its audit report dated June 20, 2013, which was included in HealthTalk's September 3, 2013 amended Form S-1 filing, September 24, 2013 amended Form S-1 filing, October 9, 2013 amended Form S-1 filing, and two October 10, 2013 amended Form S-1 filings. The Firm improperly issued that audit report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

11. The Firm also was engaged to audit the 2014 year-end financial statements of HealthTalk. On July 7, 2014, HealthTalk filed a Form 10-K with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Firm improperly issued its audit report dated July 3, 2014, which was included in HealthTalk's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

12. Stein knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7 when he caused the Firm to grant permission to the client to use the June 20, 2013 and July 3, 2014 engagement reports without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, Stein violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Stein & Company, LLP and Jon H. Stein, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000 is imposed upon Stein & Company, LLP. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Stein & Company, LLP shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order (a) made payable to the Public Company

ORDER

Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Stein & Company, LLP as a Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release Number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or review and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent basis, concerning Auditing Standard No. 7, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any audit services (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(vii));

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, and before the Firm's commencement of any audit services, to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order;

b. within (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform audit services;

c. before the commencement of any audit services, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such audit services; and

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Craig M Harbsmeier, PSC, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-044 December 17, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Craig M. Harbsmeier, PSC ("Respondent" or "Harbsmeier") and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely file an annual report in 2014 and timely pay an annual fee in 2014.

I.

On June 10, 2015, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") (as amended) and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement, Harbsmeier did not file an answer indicating the firm's consent or lack of consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:

A. Respondent

1. Craig M Harbsmeier, PSC is a proprietorship located in Louisville, Kentucky. Harbsmeier is licensed by the Kentucky Board of Accountancy to engage in the practice of public accounting (License No. 233). During the 2014 reporting period, the Firm issued a certification for a broker dealer, which was filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on March 4, 2014. The Firm registered with the Board on March 1, 2010, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2 . . . ." PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing Annual Report, sets forth that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and Rule 2200, Harbsmeier failed to timely file an annual report for 2014.

3. In addition, pursuant to Section 102(f) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must pay an annual fee to the Board on or before July 31 . . . ." In violation of Rule 2202, Harbsmeier failed to timely pay its annual fee in 2014.

C. Subsequent Events

4. The Board instituted these proceedings on June 10, 2015.

5. On June 17, 2015, Harbsmeier paid its annual fee for 2014.

6. On June 17, 2015, Harbsmeier filed its annual report for 2014.

7. On June 15, 2015, Harbsmeier filed a Form 1-WD to request leave to withdraw its registration from the Board.

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Harbsmeier is censured; and

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act, and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000 is imposed upon Harbsmeier. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Harbsmeier shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Harbsmeier as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

V.

Upon performance by Harbsmeier of Part IV above, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2107, the Board shall consider Harbsmeier's Form 1-WD and whether to grant it leave to withdraw. In doing so, the Board shall not take into consideration its findings contained in Part III herein.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of David A. Levy, CPA, PC, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2015-043 December 17, 2015

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring David A. Levy, CPA, PC ("Respondent" or "Levy") and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely file an annual report in 2011 and 2014.

I.

On June 10, 2015, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") (as amended) and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement, Levy filed an answer that did not include its consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:

A. Respondent

1. David A. Levy, CPA, PC is a corporation located in Needham, Massachusetts. The firm registered with the Board on October 5, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules. Levy is licensed by the Massachusetts Board of Accountancy to engage in the practice of public accounting (License No. 678). A search of public records indicates that the firm has not issued any audit reports or broker-dealer certifications since registering with the Board.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2 . . . ." PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing Annual Report, sets forth that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and Rule 2200, Levy failed to timely file an annual report for 2011 and 2014.

C. Subsequent Events

3. The Board instituted these proceedings on June 10, 2015.

4. On June 18, 2015, Levy filed its annual report for 2011 and 2014.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Levy is censured; and

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

ORDER

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act, and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000 is imposed upon Levy. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Levy shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Levy as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-003
In the Matter of Derek WAN Tak Shing,	January 12, 2016
Respondent.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Derek WAN Tak Shing ("Respondent") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's noncooperation with a Board investigation, by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand requiring his testimony.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(3) against the Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

---

[1] Respondent may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer, and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer in this matter, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. Derek WAN Tak Shing, age 50, is a resident of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China ("Hong Kong") and a Member of the Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("HKICPA") (License No. P04844). At all relevant times, Respondent was a partner with the registered public accounting firm of PKF, a partnership headquartered in Hong Kong ("PKF [Hong Kong]" or "the Firm"), and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with a PCAOB Investigation.

2. Pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB Rules, the Board conducts investigations into acts or practices of registered public accounting firms and their associated persons that may violate any provision of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") issued under the Act, or professional standards. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for refusing to testify in connection with a Board investigation. Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[4] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes failing to comply with an accounting board demand.[5]

3. As described below, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand, issued to Respondent pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5102(b), requiring Respondent to provide testimony as part of a Board investigation.

[3] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order are imposed pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3), and PCAOB Rule 5300(b).

[4] See PCAOB Rules 5110 and 5200(a)(3).

[5] See PCAOB Rule 5110(a)(1).

ORDER

Background

4. PKF [Hong Kong] audited the financial statements of a People's Republic of China ("PRC")-based issuer ("Issuer A"). At all relevant times, Issuer A was an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

5. On January 9, 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation regarding the Firm's audits and reviews of the financial statements of Issuer A.[6]

Respondent's Failure to Appear and Testify

6. Pursuant to the Board's Order of Formal Investigation, on January 10, 2014, the Board's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") issued an Accounting Board Demand ("ABD"), which required Respondent to appear for testimony.

7. After an attempt to accommodate Respondent with respect to the dates and location of testimony, including an accommodation to have the testimony take place in Hong Kong, Respondent, through counsel, informed the Division in April 2015 that Respondent would not comply with the ABD for testimony.

8. Respondent, through counsel, declared that he would not appear for the required testimony about the audits of Issuer A asserting that: (1) the Division was required to make a request for assistance under the May 2013 Memorandum of Understanding ("MOU") on Enforcement Cooperation between the Board, the China Securities Regulatory Commission ("CSRC") and the PRC Ministry of Finance ("MOF") in order to obtain the testimony[7] and (2) the testimony could not proceed without first obtaining the approval of the CSRC or the MOF. Respondent stated that this position was based on his understanding of MOF pronouncements.[8]

[6] PKF [Hong Kong] had resigned as Issuer A's auditor more than a year prior to the Board's Order of Formal Investigation.

[7] Respondent also raised with the MOF the applicability of the MOU to the Division's request for testimony.

[8] During the investigation, Respondent cited as the basis for this position the following two MOF pronouncements: Provisional Rules Regarding Foreign Accounting Firm to Conduct Audit Work Temporarily in China (Caihui [2011] No. 4) and the Notice Regarding the Delegation of Issues Related to the Combined Policies of

ORDER

9. Respondent's reliance on the MOU was not a valid justification for refusing to provide testimony in a Board investigation. The MOU "sets forth the [parties'] intent with regard to mutual assistance and the exchange of information for the purpose of enforcing and securing compliance with the respective Laws and [r]egulations of [the parties'] jurisdictions...."[9] At the same time, the MOU states that it is "not intended to create legally binding obligations or ... supersede domestic laws" of the parties. By its unequivocal terms the MOU affords Respondent no legal rights.[10] What the MOU contemplates is that the parties to the agreement will use the mechanisms provided in the MOU in appropriate circumstances.[11]

10. The Division's personnel informed Respondent that his asserted grounds for refusing to testify were not valid, including through a letter from the Division pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5109(d) notifying Respondent of the Division's intention to recommend a disciplinary proceeding in the event of a continued refusal to testify. Respondent continued to assert that he was unable to testify for the reasons stated above. Respondent's failure to provide the required testimony impeded the Board's ability to determine if the Firm's audits of Issuer A were performed in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards, and whether violations occurred which justified sanctions.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Derek WAN Tak Shing is hereby censured;

Approval of Foreign Accounting Firms to Conduct Audit Work Temporarily in China (Caihui [2013] No. 25) (specifically paragraph 8).

[9] See MOU at 1.

[11] In this case, the Chinese authorities were aware that the PCAOB did not seek testimony from Respondent through the MOU.

ORDER

B. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Derek WAN Tak Shing is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[12] and

C. After three (3) years from the date of this Order, Derek WAN Tak Shing may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-002
In the Matter of Edith LAM Kar Bo,	January 12, 2016
Respondent.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Edith LAM Kar Bo ("Respondent") and barring her from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's noncooperation with a Board investigation, by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand requiring her testimony.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(3) against the Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer in this matter, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. Edith LAM Kar Bo, age 41, is a resident of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China ("Hong Kong") and a Member of the Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("HKICPA") (License No. P05453). At all relevant times, Respondent was a partner with the registered public accounting firm of PKF, a partnership headquartered in Hong Kong ("PKF [Hong Kong]" or "the Firm"), and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with a PCAOB Investigation.

2. Pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB Rules, the Board conducts investigations into acts or practices of registered public accounting firms and their associated persons that may violate any provision of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") issued under the Act, or professional standards. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for refusing to testify in connection with a Board investigation. Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[4] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes failing to comply with an accounting board demand.[5]

3. As described below, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand, issued to Respondent pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5102(b), requiring Respondent to provide testimony as part of a Board investigation.

[3] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order are imposed pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3), and PCAOB Rule 5300(b).

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-004
In the Matter of Kim Wilfred Ti,	January 12, 2016
Respondent.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Kim Wilfred Ti ("Respondent") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's noncooperation with a Board investigation, by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand requiring his testimony.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(3) against the Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

---

[1] Respondent may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer, and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer in this matter, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. Kim Wilfred Ti, age 32, is a resident of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China ("Hong Kong"). At all relevant times, Respondent was a manager with the registered public accounting firm of PKF, a partnership headquartered in Hong Kong ("PKF [Hong Kong]" or "the Firm"), and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with a PCAOB Investigation.

2. Pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB Rules, the Board conducts investigations into acts or practices of registered public accounting firms and their associated persons that may violate any provision of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") issued under the Act, or professional standards. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for refusing to testify in connection with a Board investigation. Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[4] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes failing to comply with an accounting board demand.[5]

3. As described below, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand, issued to Respondent pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5102(b), requiring Respondent to provide testimony as part of a Board investigation.

[3] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order are imposed pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3), and PCAOB Rule 5300(b).

[4] See PCAOB Rules 5110 and 5200(a)(3).

[5] See PCAOB Rule 5110(a)(1).

ORDER

Background

4. PKF [Hong Kong] audited the financial statements of a People's Republic of China ("PRC")-based issuer ("Issuer A"). At all relevant times, Issuer A was an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

5. On January 9, 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation regarding the Firm's audits and reviews of the financial statements of Issuer A.[6]

Respondent's Failure to Appear and Testify

6. Pursuant to the Board's Order of Formal Investigation, on January 10, 2014, the Board's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") issued an Accounting Board Demand ("ABD"), which required Respondent to appear for testimony.

7. After an attempt to accommodate Respondent with respect to the dates and location of testimony, including an accommodation to have the testimony take place in Hong Kong, Respondent, through counsel, informed the Division in April 2015 that Respondent would not comply with the ABD for testimony.

8. Respondent, through counsel, declared that he would not appear for the required testimony about the audits of Issuer A asserting that: (1) the Division was required to make a request for assistance under the May 2013 Memorandum of Understanding ("MOU") on Enforcement Cooperation between the Board, the China Securities Regulatory Commission ("CSRC") and the PRC Ministry of Finance ("MOF") in order to obtain the testimony[7] and (2) the testimony could not proceed without first obtaining the approval of the CSRC or the MOF. Respondent stated that this position was based on his understanding of MOF pronouncements.[8]

[6] PKF [Hong Kong] had resigned as Issuer A's auditor more than a year prior to the Board's Order of Formal Investigation.

[7] Respondent also raised with the MOF the applicability of the MOU to the Division's request for testimony.

[8] During the investigation, Respondent cited as the basis for this position the following two MOF pronouncements: Provisional Rules Regarding Foreign Accounting Firm to Conduct Audit Work Temporarily in China (Caihui [2011] No. 4) and the Notice Regarding the Delegation of Issues Related to the Combined Policies of

ORDER

9. Respondent's reliance on the MOU was not a valid justification for refusing to provide testimony in a Board investigation. The MOU "sets forth the [parties'] intent with regard to mutual assistance and the exchange of information for the purpose of enforcing and securing compliance with the respective Laws and [r]egulations of [the parties'] jurisdictions...."[9] At the same time, the MOU states that it is "not intended to create legally binding obligations or ... supersede domestic laws" of the parties. By its unequivocal terms the MOU affords Respondent no legal rights.[10] What the MOU contemplates is that the parties to the agreement will use the mechanisms provided in the MOU in appropriate circumstances.[11]

10. The Division's personnel informed Respondent that his asserted grounds for refusing to testify were not valid, including through a letter from the Division pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5109(d) notifying Respondent of the Division's intention to recommend a disciplinary proceeding in the event of a continued refusal to testify. Respondent continued to assert that he was unable to testify for the reasons stated above. Respondent's failure to provide the required testimony impeded the Board's ability to determine if the Firm's audits of Issuer A were performed in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards, and whether violations occurred which justified sanctions.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Kim Wilfred Ti is hereby censured;

Approval of Foreign Accounting Firms to Conduct Audit Work Temporarily in China (Caihui [2013] No. 25) (specifically paragraph 8).

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-001
In the Matter of PKF [Hong Kong],	January 12, 2016
Respondent.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring the registered public accounting firm PKF, a partnership headquartered in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China (captioned as "PKF [Hong Kong]") (hereinafter, "Respondent" or "the Firm") and revoking the Firm's registration.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's noncooperation with a Board investigation, by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand ("ABD") requiring the testimony of an associated person on behalf of the Firm.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(3) against the Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer in this matter, the Board finds that[3]

A. Respondent

1. Respondent is, and at all relevant times was, a partnership headquartered in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China, and is a member of the PKF International network. The Firm is a Member of the Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("HKICPA") (License No. 0044). The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for the issuer identified below.

B. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with a PCAOB Investigation.

2. Pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB Rules, the Board conducts investigations into acts or practices of registered public accounting firms and their associated persons that may violate any provision of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") issued under the Act, or professional standards. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction a registered public accounting firm for refusing to testify in connection with a Board investigation. Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[4] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes failing to comply with an accounting board demand.[5]

---

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer, and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order are imposed pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3), and PCAOB Rule 5300(b).

[4] See PCAOB Rules 5110 and 5200(a)(3).

[5] See PCAOB Rule 5110(a)(1).

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

3. As described below, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand, issued to Respondent pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5102(b), requiring an associated person of the Firm to provide testimony on behalf of the Firm.

Background

4. Respondent audited the financial statements of a People's Republic of China ("PRC")-based issuer ("Issuer A"). At all relevant times, Issuer A was an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

5. On January 9, 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation regarding Respondent's audits and reviews of the financial statements of Issuer A.[6]

Respondent's Failure to Appear and Testify

6. Pursuant to the Board's Order of Formal Investigation, in early April 2015, the Board's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") issued an Accounting Board Demand ("ABD") requiring Respondent to make a representative of the Firm available for testimony on certain topics outlined in the ABD, including topics related to the Firm's audits of Issuer A.

7. After an attempt to accommodate Respondent with respect to the dates and location of testimony, including an accommodation to have the testimony take place in Hong Kong, Respondent, through counsel, informed the Division in late April 2015 that the Firm would not comply with the ABD for testimony relating specifically to the Firm's audits of Issuer A.

8. Respondent declared that it would not provide an associated person of the Firm to provide the required testimony about the audits of Issuer A asserting that: (1) the Division was required to make a request for assistance under the May 2013 Memorandum of Understanding ("MOU") on Enforcement Cooperation between the Board, the China Securities Regulatory Commission ("CSRC") and the PRC Ministry of Finance ("MOF") in order to obtain the testimony[7] and (2) the testimony could not

[6] Respondent had resigned as Issuer A's auditor more than a year prior to the Board's Order of Formal Investigation.

[7] Respondent also raised with the MOF, the applicability of the MOU to the Division's request for testimony.

ORDER

proceed without first obtaining the approval of the CSRC or the MOF. Respondent stated that its position was based on its understanding of MOF pronouncements.[8]

9. Respondent's reliance on the MOU was not a valid justification for refusing to provide testimony in a Board investigation. The MOU "sets forth the [parties'] intent with regard to mutual assistance and the exchange of information for the purpose of enforcing and securing compliance with the respective Laws and [r]egulations of [the parties'] jurisdictions...."[9] At the same time, the MOU states that it is "not intended to create legally binding obligations or ... supersede domestic laws" of the parties. By its unequivocal terms the MOU affords Respondent no legal rights.[10] What the MOU contemplates is that the parties to the agreement will use the mechanisms provided in the MOU in appropriate circumstances.[11]

10. The Division's personnel informed Respondent that its asserted grounds for refusing to testify were not valid, including through a letter from the Division pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5109(d) notifying Respondent of the Division's intention to recommend a disciplinary proceeding in the event of a continued refusal to testify. Respondent continued to assert that a representative was unable to testify for the reasons stated above. Respondent's failure to provide the required testimony impeded the Board's ability to determine if Respondent's audits were performed in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards, and whether violations occurred which justified sanctions.

[8] During the investigation, Respondent cited as the basis for its position the following two MOF pronouncements: Provisional Rules Regarding Foreign Accounting Firm to Conduct Audit Work Temporarily in China (Caihui [2011] No. 4) and the Notice Regarding the Delegation of Issues Related to the Combined Policies of Approval of Foreign Accounting Firms to Conduct Audit Work Temporarily in China (Caihui [2013] No. 25) (specifically paragraph 8)

[9] See MOU at 1.

[10] Id.

[11] In this case, the Chinese authorities were aware that the PCAOB did not seek testimony from Respondent through the MOU.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), PKF is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), the registration of PKF is revoked; and

C. After three (3) years from the date of this Order, PKF may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Kantor Akuntan Publik Jimmy Budhi, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-005 January 21, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Kantor Akuntan Publik Jimmy Budhi ("Respondent" or "Kantor"); temporarily suspending Respondent's registration for a period of one year from the date of the issuance of this Order, and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's failure to timely pay its annual fee for 2013 and 2014 and timely file an annual report for 2014.

I.

On June 10, 2014, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") (as amended) and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Board determined that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting its Offer of Settlement, Respondent did not file an answer indicating the firm's consent or lack of consent to making the hearing public.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[1] that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Kantor is a partnership located in Jakarta, Indonesia. Kantor is licensed by the Ministry of Finance ("MOF") of the Republic of Indonesia (Licenses No. KEP-155/KM.6/2003 and S.4226/LK/2003 (MOF Director of Accountants and Appraisers). The Firm registered with the Board on April 12, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Violations

2. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2 . . . ." PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing Annual Report, sets forth that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and Rule 2200, Kantor failed to timely file an annual report for 2014.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order may be imposed only if a respondent's conduct meets one of the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5). The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

3. Pursuant to Section 102(f) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee, provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must pay an annual fee to the Board on or before July 31 . . . ." In violation of Rule 2202, Kantor failed to timely pay its annual fee for 2013 and 2014.

C. Subsequent Events

4. The Board instituted these proceedings on June 10, 2015.

5. On October 2, 2015, Kantor filed its annual report for 2014.

6. On October 6, 2015, Kantor paid its annual fees for 2013 and 2014.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Kantor is censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), Kantor's registration is temporarily suspended for a period of one year from the date of the issuance of this Order; and

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act, and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000 is imposed upon Kantor. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Kantor shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Kantor as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary,

AMENDED ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, AND ORDER MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Clay Thomas, P.C., and Clay Thomas, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-006 February 18, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring Clay Thomas, P.C. (the "Firm") and Clay Thomas, CPA ("Thomas") (collectively, "Respondents"); (2) revoking the Firm's registration; and (3) barring Thomas from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm. The Board is imposing these sanctions on Respondents on the basis of its findings concerning their noncooperation with a Board investigation and violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the Firm's audits of two issuer audit clients.

I.

On November 3, 2015, the Board issued an Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings against Respondents pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(3). Pursuant to Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, these proceedings were not public. The Board determined, under Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203 that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, the Division of Enforcement and Investigations (the "Division") consented to making the hearing in this proceeding public. Prior to submitting their Offers of Settlement (collectively, "Offers"), Respondents did not file an answer indicating their consent or lack of consent to making the hearing in this proceeding public.

Pursuant to Section 105(c) and PCAOB Rules 5200(a)(1) and (a)(3), the Board now deems it appropriate to issue this Amended Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings against Respondents that includes allegations that (1) the Firm violated Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7") because the Firm failed

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

to obtain an engagement quality review on three audits of two issuers from fiscal year ("FY") 2012 through 2013, (2) Thomas directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of AS 7 concerning the requirement for engagement quality reviews, and (3) Respondents violated Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS 3"), by failing to retain audit documentation with respect to an issuer audit engagement for 2013.

II.

In anticipation of the issuance of this Amended Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, and Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted their Offers, which the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondents

1. Clay Thomas, P.C. is and, at all relevant times, was a professional corporation organized under the laws of the state of Texas. The Firm's office is located in Nacogdoches, Texas. The Firm is and, at all relevant times, was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB Rules. The Firm was licensed to

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondents in this Order are imposed pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3), 105(c)(4), and 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 7215(b)(3), 7215(c)(4), and 7215(c)(5), and PCAOB Rules 5300(a) and (b). The Board finds that Respondents' conduct meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

practice public accountancy by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy ("TSBPA") (License No. C04871). The Firm's license expired as of September 30, 2014. Public records indicate that the Firm issued two audit reports for issuer clients in 2015. As of its 2015 Annual Report on PCAOB Form 2, the Firm had one principal (Clay Thomas, CPA) and no audit staff.

2. Clay Thomas, CPA, 57, is and, at all relevant times, was the sole owner of the Firm and a certified public accountant licensed by the TSBPA (License No. 077520). In addition, in 2013, Thomas was admitted to the State Bar of Texas. Thomas is and, at all relevant times, was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Thomas was the engagement partner on the Firm's audits of the financial statements of Biofuels Power Corp. ("Biofuels") for FY 2012, 2013, and 2014 and on the Firm's audits of the financial statements of Woodgate Energy Corp. ("Woodgate") for FY 2013 and 2014.

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' repeated failure to cooperate with a Board investigation and comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of two issuer audit clients.

4. First, Thomas failed to appear for testimony, and Respondents failed to produce certain documents and information, in response to Accounting Board Demands ("ABDs") the Division issued during a formal investigation concerning the Firm's audits of Biofuels and Woodgate. Those failures occurred despite the Division providing Respondents with numerous accommodations and extensions of deadlines.

5. Second, in violation of PCAOB standards, the Firm failed to obtain engagement quality reviews in connection with its audits of Biofuels for FY 2012 and FY 2013, and Woodgate for FY 2013.

6. Third, Thomas failed to comply with PCAOB rules with respect to the same Biofuels and Woodgate audits. Thomas took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and omission would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB standards.

7. Fourth, Respondents violated AS 3, by failing to retain audit documentation for the Biofuels FY 2013 audit for the required period of time.

ORDER

C. Respondents Failed to Cooperate with a PCAOB Investigation

8. Section 105(b)(3) of the Act authorizes the Board to impose disciplinary sanctions if a registered public accounting firm or associated person refuses to cooperate with a Board investigation. Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[3] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes failing to comply with an ABD.[4] As described below, Thomas failed to comply with a May 18, 2015 ABD requiring him to appear for sworn testimony.[5] Further, Respondents failed to comply with ABDs issued on April 29, 2015, by failing to produce certain documents and information.[6]

Thomas's Failure to Appear for Testimony Pursuant to an ABD

9. On December 16, 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation ("OFI") related to potential violations of PCAOB rules and standards involving the Firm's audits of the financial statements of Biofuels[7] and Woodgate.[8] Thomas was the sole auditor involved in those audits.

[4] See PCAOB Rule 5110(a)(1).

[5] See PCAOB Rules 5102(a) and 5110.

[6] See PCAOB Rules 5103(a) and 5110.

[7] At all relevant times Biofuels was a Texas corporation headquartered in Humble, Texas. Its public filings disclosed that it was a distributed energy company engaged in the building and operation of small-scale distributed electrical power generating plants and was engaged in refining, blending, and reprocessing biofuels for use in its electrical power generating facilities. At all relevant times, Biofuels' common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934; its common stock was quoted on the OTC Pink Marketplace under the symbol "BFLS.OB"; and Biofuels was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[8] At all relevant times, Woodgate was a Delaware corporation headquartered in Houston, Texas. Its public filings disclosed that it was engaged in the business of coal bed methane energy and the production of associated natural gas. At all relevant times, Woodgate's common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act; its common stock was issued pursuant to an exemption from registration

10. Pursuant to the OFI, the Division issued an ABD to Thomas on May 18, 2015. The ABD required Thomas to appear for sworn testimony. The ABD set his testimony to begin on June 16, 2015, and continue day-to-day until completed, at the PCAOB's offices in Washington, D.C.

11. On May 18 and May 21, 2015, the Division left voicemails for Thomas at three different telephone numbers requesting Thomas to confirm receipt of the ABD and his appearance for testimony that was scheduled to commence on June 16, 2015. The Division also sent an e-mail to Thomas on May 21, 2015, again requesting that he confirm receipt of the ABD and whether he would be appearing for testimony. Thomas did not reply or otherwise respond to the voicemails or email.

12. On May 27, 2015, the Division sent an email requesting that Thomas provide a time when he was available for a telephone call on May 28, 2015 to discuss several issues, including his testimony. On May 27, 2015, the Division received a letter from Thomas informing the Division that he could not appear for testimony on the dates set forth in the May 18, 2015 ABD because, in his capacity as an attorney, he had a trial on those dates. Thomas did not provide alternative dates for testimony.

13. On June 1, 2015, the Division sent a letter to Thomas requesting that he provide alternative dates for testimony by June 3, 2015, reminding him of the importance of complying with the Board's ABDs and formal investigation, and explaining that the "PCAOB may institute a disciplinary proceeding for noncooperation with an investigation when a registered public accounting firm or a person associated with a registered public accounting firm fails to comply with an ABD." Thomas responded to the Division's June 1 letter in an email dated June 5, 2015, but declined to offer alternative dates for his testimony.

14. On June 8, 2015, the Division left voicemail messages at Thomas's telephone numbers and sent an email to Thomas asking him to contact the Division.

15. The Division did not receive any response from Thomas. On June 16, 2015, Thomas failed to appear for scheduled testimony.

of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, as part of a private placement of securities; and Woodgate was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

ORDER

Respondents' Failure to Respond to Certain Demands for Documents and Information

16. Following the issuance of the OFI, on December 19, 2014, the Division issued an ABD directed to the Firm for documents and information (the "December ABD"). The December ABD required the Firm to produce responsive documents and information by January 9, 2015. The demanded documents and information were relevant to the Board's investigation. Specifically, the December ABD required the Firm to produce, among other things, documents relating to the Firm's audits and reviews of Biofuels and Woodgate, peer reviews, and the Firm's system of quality control.

17. On February 2, 2015, the Division issued a separate ABD to Thomas (the "February ABD") for, among other things, the same documents and information demanded from the Firm in the December ABD. The February ABD required Thomas to produce responsive documents and information by February 17, 2015.

18. Respondents failed to produce certain documents and information, including documents concerning the Firm's FY 2013 audit of Biofuels, by the deadlines for the December ABD and February ABD.

19. In a March 17, 2015 letter to the Firm, the Division detailed the omissions in the Firm's and Thomas's productions, including their failure to produce audit documentation concerning the Firm's FY 2013 audit of Biofuels. In the letter, the Division staff reminded Respondents of the importance of their cooperation with the Board's ABDs and formal investigation.

20. In subsequent communications, Thomas stated that he had provided the original FY 2013 Biofuels audit documentation to Respondents' former counsel ("Former Counsel") for production to the Division and had not retained a copy. Thomas indicated that he would contact Former Counsel and request that Former Counsel send the FY 2013 Biofuels audit documentation to the Division.

21. After the Division continued unsuccessfully to obtain further information concerning the status of the FY 2013 Biofuels audit documentation, Thomas sent the Division an email on April 24, 2015. Thomas's April 24 email to the Division forwarded an email he had received from Former Counsel on the same day. Former Counsel's email stated that Thomas "never provided the documents in question" (the FY 2013 Biofuels audit documentation) to Former Counsel.

22. On April 29, 2015, the Division issued Thomas and the Firm separate ABDs (the "April ABDs") for documents and information regarding their assertion that they had provided the FY 2013 Biofuels audit documentation to Former Counsel. The

April ABDs required Thomas and the Firm to produce responsive documents and information by May 13, 2015.

23. Aside from demands that Thomas and the Firm provide (a) a description of the search they performed in response to the April ABDs; and (b) a certification that they had produced all responsive documents, the April ABDs contained only three demands. Respondents failed to produce any documents or information in response to two of those three demands.

24. One of the two demands with which Respondents failed to comply (Item III.A.1) required them to provide a detailed description of all documents shipped by Respondents to Former Counsel. Respondents never produced the demanded information.

25. The other demand with which Respondents failed to comply (Item III.A.3) required them to provide "a sworn written declaration or affidavit describing in reasonable detail Clay Thomas's shipment to [Former Counsel] of the original complete and final set of audit documentation assembled for retention in connection with the Firm's audits and reviews of Biofuels Power Corporation's consolidated financial statements . . ." Respondents never responded to this demand.

26. In a June 1, 2015 letter, the Division advised Respondents that they had missed the May 13, 2015 deadline to respond to Items III.A.1 and 3 in the April ABDs. The Division informed Respondents that those documents and information should be provided immediately, again reminded Respondents of the importance of complying with the Board's ABDs and formal investigation, and again explained "that the PCAOB may institute a disciplinary proceeding for noncooperation with an investigation when a registered public accounting firm or a person associated with a registered public accounting firm fails to comply with an ABD." In addition, along with the April ABDs, the Division staff enclosed copies of an informational PCAOB Form ENF-1, detailing the consequences of a refusal to comply with an ABD.

The Charging Letter and Respondents' Statement of Position

27. On June 19, 2015, the Division sent Respondents a letter (the "Charging Letter") outlining the Division's intent to recommend that the Board commence a disciplinary proceeding to determine whether Thomas had failed to cooperate with a Board investigation, by failing to comply with the May 18, 2015 ABD for testimony, and whether both he and the Firm had failed to cooperate with a Board investigation by failing to comply with the April ABDs for documents and information.

ORDER

28. The Charging Letter detailed the events surrounding (a) Thomas's failure to appear for sworn testimony; and (b) Respondents' failure to comply with two specific demands for documents and information in the April ABDs.

29. The Division notified Respondents that they could submit, by July 6, 2015, a written statement to the Division, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5109(d), setting forth their position regarding whether a disciplinary proceeding should be commenced.

30. On July 6, 2015, Respondents submitted a brief statement of position to the Charging Letter (the "SOP"). The SOP did not offer any alternative dates for the testimony of Thomas, and Respondents did not produce any documents or information requested in Items III.A.1 and 3 of the April ABDs.

31. In the SOP, Respondents provided two responses with respect to Thomas's failure to appear for testimony or provide alternative dates. First, the SOP asserted that Thomas had "several jury trials . . . converging on the same several weeks for quite some time" and that, if the Division had "pinpointed a date," Thomas "might have been capable of scheduling a day for testimony to be taken in Texas but little more." Second, the SOP asserted that it is "beyond [Thomas's] financial reach to come to Washington for several days."

32. With respect to the April ABDs for documents and information, the SOP did not address Respondents' failure to provide a list of all documents they had shipped to their Former Counsel, including materials that Respondents' claim were original documents that were lost in shipment (Item III.A.1 of the April ABDs). And although the SOP stated that Respondents would be "happy to reaffirm" the facts surrounding their shipment of documents to Former Counsel, they did not enclose any sworn written affidavit or declaration, as demanded by Item III.A.3 of the April ABDs.

33. On July 14, 2015, the Division sent Respondents a letter addressing their SOP. That letter (a) noted Thomas's continuing failure to provide alternative testimony dates; and (b) pointed out that Thomas was continuing to audit public companies and issue audit reports while contending that he was unavailable for testimony. In addition, the July 14 letter advised Thomas that the Division was willing, under the circumstances, to either reimburse his reasonable costs associated with traveling to Washington, D.C. to testify, or conduct his testimony at the PCAOB's office in Texas, where Thomas lives. The letter further advised Thomas that the Division was willing to conduct his testimony over four consecutive days in either August or September 2015 in either Washington, D.C. or Irving, Texas, so long as he identified dates for his testimony by no later than July 17, 2015.

ORDER

34. On July 22, 2015, the Division received an email from Thomas in which he stated that he has "been attending several hearings around the state and have not been home to receive the Fedex [containing the Division's July 14, 2015 letter]. I will check back through my emails and respond as soon as possible."

35. Respondents never responded to the July 14, 2015 letter from the Division, Thomas never offered alternative dates for his testimony, and Respondents never produced documents and information demanded in Items III.A.1 and 3 of the April ABDs.

* * * * *

36. As a result of the foregoing conduct, Thomas failed to cooperate with a Board investigation by failing to comply with an ABD demanding his sworn testimony. Further, both Respondents failed to cooperate with a Board investigation by failing to comply with ABDs requiring the production of certain documents and information to the Division.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

37. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[9] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards. Those standards provide, among other things, that for each audit an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance are required in accordance with AS 7 and audit documentation is to be prepared and retained in accordance with AS 3.

The Firm Failed to Obtain Engagement Quality Reviews

38. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[10] AS 7 also

[10] See AS 7 ¶ 1.

provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance of the report.[11]

39. As described below, the Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review for each of the audits described below even though an engagement quality review was required to be performed.

Audits of Biofuels for FY 2012 and FY 2013

40. The Firm was engaged to audit the financial statements of Biofuels for the years ended December 31, 2012 and 2013. The Firm issued an audit report, dated April 22, 2013, on Biofuels' FY 2012 financial statements. That audit report was included in Biofuels' Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on April 24, 2013, and in Biofuels' Forms 10-K/A filed December 30, 2013, and January 22, 2014. The next year, the Firm issued an audit report, dated April 11, 2014, on Biofuels' FY 2013 financial statements. That audit report was included in Biofuels' Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 15, 2014. The Firm improperly issued the audit reports on Biofuels' FY 2012 and FY 2013 financial statements without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

Audit of Woodgate for FY 2013

41. The Firm was engaged to audit the financial statements of Woodgate for the year ended December 31, 2013. The Firm issued an audit report, dated April 11, 2014, on Woodgate's December 31, 2013 financial statements. That audit report was included in Woodgate's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 15, 2014 and also in a Form 10-K/A filed July 29, 2014. As a result of Woodgate's restatement of its FY 2013 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report for FY 2013, dated August 19, 2014, which was included in Woodgate's Form 10-K/A filed with the Commission on August 29, 2014. The Firm improperly issued the audit reports without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

Thomas Contributed to the Firm's Violations of PCAOB Rules and Standards

42. PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[12]

43. Thomas, the sole owner and only member of the Firm, was principally responsible for the audits conducted by the Firm. Accordingly, Thomas had overall responsibility for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. Thomas knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7 when he caused the Firm to grant permission to Biofuels and Woodgate to use audit reports without the Firm having obtained the required engagement quality reviews and concurring approvals of issuance. As a result, Thomas violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Respondents Failed to Comply with AS 3

44. Respondents also failed to comply with PCAOB audit documentation standards in connection with the FY 2013 Biofuels audit. Pursuant to AS 3, an "auditor must prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB."[13] AS 3 further requires the auditor to "retain audit documentation for seven years from the date the auditor grants permission to use the auditor's report in connection with the issuance of the company's financial statements (report release date), unless a longer period of time is required by law."[14]

45. As described above, Thomas informed the Division, in a letter dated April 14, 2015, that he had sent the original FY 2013 Biofuels audit documentation to Respondents' Former Counsel without retaining a copy of that audit documentation. Respondents thereby violated AS 3[15] and were unable to provide the FY 2013 Biofuels audit documentation to the Division in response to demands made during its investigation.

ORDER

IV.

A. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) and 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(5) and 5300(b)(1), Clay Thomas, P.C. and Clay Thomas, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(ii) and 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(1) and 5300(b)(1), the registration of Clay Thomas, P.C. is revoked; and

C. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(i) and 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(2) and 5300(b)(1), Clay Thomas, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[16]

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Mark K. Nelson, CPA, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-008 February 18, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Mark K. Nelson ("Respondent" or "Nelson") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, in connection with the audit of the financial statements of Anchor Funding Services, Inc. ("AFS") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2012 (the "Audit"), Nelson violated PCAOB rules and standards, as well as Section 10A(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

[1] Nelson may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Mark K. Nelson ("Nelson"), age 50, of Matthews, North Carolina, is a certified public accountant licensed by the North Carolina State Board of Certified Public Accountant Examiners (License No. 19066). At all relevant times, he was a partner at a public accounting firm that was not registered with the PCAOB ("Nelson's non-PCAOB registered Firm"). Scott and Company LLC ("Scott"), a registered public accounting firm,[4] engaged Respondent to assist with the Audit. In connection with the Audit, Nelson performed audit procedures in certain audit areas. Because of his role on the Audit, Nelson was, at all relevant times, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Nelson's violations of PCAOB rules and standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's issuer audit clients throughout the audit, as well as Nelson's violations of Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2

---

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[4] Scott has filed a Form 1-WD seeking leave to withdraw from registration with the Board. See Scott and Company LLC and Michael J. Slapnik, CPA, PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-007 (Feb. 18, 2016).

ORDER

concerning auditor independence. During the Audit, Nelson was not independent with respect to AFS because he prepared certain accounting records for AFS, and then performed audit procedures on those very records.[5] Specifically, Nelson prepared AFS's tax provision and the informational tables in AFS's financial statement tax footnote for the year under audit contemporaneous with his work on the Audit, which included performing audit procedures on the tax provision and footnote information that he had prepared.

C. Nelson Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards and the Exchange Act

3. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] PCAOB rules and standards also require that a registered public accounting firm be independent of an issuer audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[7] A registered public accounting firm's or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") under the federal securities laws.[8]

4. Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act provides that it shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm (and any associated person of that firm, to the extent determined appropriate by the Commission) that performs an audit for an issuer "to provide to that issuer, contemporaneously with the audit, any non-audit service, including

. . . [b]ookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client."

5. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 states that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the prohibited non-audit services provisions of Commission Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides certain non-audit services for an audit client, including bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services.[9]

6. As described below, Nelson failed to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules in connection with the Audit.

Nelson's Work on the Audit of AFS's 2012 Financial Statements

7. On or about February 11, 2013, AFS engaged Scott as its auditor for the year ended December 31, 2012.[10] Scott engaged Nelson to assist with the audit of AFS's 2012 financial statements. Nelson's work on the Audit was to include performing audit procedures concerning AFS's 2012 tax provision and the tax footnote for AFS's 2012 financial statements. During the Audit, Nelson provided Scott with a signed letter representing that he was independent of AFS, and he also signed off on a Supervision, Review, and Approval work paper affirming that he had maintained his independence throughout the performance of the Audit.

8. However, during the Audit, Nelson obtained source data from AFS – such as payroll, depreciation schedules, revenue by state, asset additions – and then prepared AFS's tax provision for 2012. He also created a document that contained the tax provision, the informational tables that appear in the tax footnote for AFS's 2012

[9] See 17 C.F.R. §§ 210.2-01(b), (c)(4)(i).

[10] At all relevant times, AFS was a Delaware corporation headquartered in Charlotte, North Carolina. AFS's public filings disclose that its business objective was to create a national financial services firm for small businesses providing services such as accounts receivable funding (factoring), purchase order finance, and outsourcing of accounts receivable management. At all relevant times, AFS's common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act, and the company was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). In October 2013, AFS changed its name to FlexShopper, Inc.

financial statements filed with the Commission, and source data as support for those tables.[11] Scott received this document (the "Tax Support") and included it as a work paper in its documentation for the Audit.

9. During the Audit, both Nelson and the engagement partner for the Audit signed off as having reviewed the Tax Support work paper. Although the Tax Support work paper contained the header, "Tax provision has been provided by client by way of [Nelson's non-PCAOB-registered Firm]. All S+C [Scott and Company] comments in red," Nelson did not inform Scott that he had prepared that document.

10. On March 27, 2013, Scott issued its unqualified audit report on AFS's financial statements for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2012. On that same day, AFS filed those financial statements and Scott's audit report with the Commission.

11. As a result of Nelson's work in both preparing and performing audit procedures on AFS's tax provision and tax footnote, he was not independent of AFS during the Audit, in violation of PCAOB rules and auditing standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules.[12]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Nelson's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Nelson is hereby censured;

[11] AFS disclosed in the tax footnote of its 2012 Form 10-K that its income tax provision was $0 for the year, after applying net operating loss carryforwards to the current-year taxable income of $161,000. The tax footnote also disclosed that AFS had recognized a valuation allowance in the full amount of the company's $1,547,000 in gross deferred tax assets for 2012, to adjust the deferred tax assets to the amount of net operating losses that AFS expected to be realized.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Nelson is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[13] and

C. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, Nelson may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Scott and Company LLC and Michael J. Slapnik, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-007 February 18, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring Scott and Company LLC (the "Firm" or "Scott"), (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000, (3) in the event that the Board grants any future registration application by the Firm,[1] requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of issuers, brokers, and dealers; and (4) censuring Michael J. Slapnik, CPA ("Slapnik"). The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, in connection with the audit of the financial statements of Anchor Funding Services, Inc. ("AFS") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2012 (the "Audit"): (1) the Firm and Slapnik violated PCAOB rules and standards; and (2) the Firm also violated Section 10A(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence.

I.

[1] The Firm has filed a Form 1-WD seeking leave to withdraw from registration with the Board, which the Board has determined to grant as of the date of this Order.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:

A. Respondents

1. Scott and Company LLC is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of South Carolina, and is headquartered in Columbia, South Carolina. The Firm registered with the Board on October 8, 2003, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.[3] The Firm is licensed to practice public accountancy by the South Carolina Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation (License No. AFI 3038), and by the North Carolina State Board of Certified Public Accountant Examiners. At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for AFS.[4] At the time of the Audit, AFS was the Firm's only issuer audit client. Currently, the Firm has no issuer audit clients.

At all relevant times, Slapnik was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Slapnik served as the engagement partner for the Audit.

B. Other Relevant Individual

3. Mark K. Nelson ("Nelson"), age 50, of Matthews, North Carolina, is a certified public accountant that Scott engaged to assist with the Audit.[5] At the time of the Audit, Nelson was also a partner in another public accounting firm that was not registered with the PCAOB ("Nelson's non-PCAOB registered Firm"). In connection with the Audit, Nelson performed audit procedures in certain audit areas. Because of his role on the Audit, Nelson was, at all relevant times, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[6]

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's issuer audit clients throughout the audit, as well as the Firm's violations of Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 concerning auditor independence. the same time serving on the Firm's audit engagement team.[7] Specifically, Nelson prepared AFS's tax provision and the informational tables in AFS's financial statement tax footnote for the year under audit contemporaneous with his work on the Audit, which included performing audit procedures on the tax provision and footnote information that he had prepared.

5. This matter also concerns Slapnik's violation of PCAOB rules concerning the engagement partner's responsibility to determine compliance with independence requirements. During the Audit, Slapnik failed to respond properly to indications that Nelson, and thus the Firm, was not independent of AFS because Nelson had prepared AFS's tax provision and tax footnote for the year under audit.

D. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards and the Exchange Act

6. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[8] PCAOB rules and standards also require that a registered public accounting firm be independent of an issuer audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[9] A registered public accounting firm's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") under the federal securities laws.[10]

ORDER

7. Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act provides that it shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm (and any associated person of that firm, to the extent determined appropriate by the Commission) that performs an audit for an issuer "to provide to that issuer, contemporaneously with the audit, any non-audit service, including . . . [b]ookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client."

8. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 states that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the prohibited non-audit services provisions of Commission Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides certain non-audit services for an audit client, including bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services.[11]

9. As described below, the Firm failed to comply with PCAOB rules and auditing standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules in connection with the Audit.

The Firm's Audit of AFS's 2012 Financial Statements

10. On or about February 11, 2013, AFS engaged the Firm as its auditor for the year ended December 31, 2012.[12] The Firm engaged Nelson to assist with the audit of AFS's 2012 financial statements. His work on the Audit was to include performing audit procedures concerning AFS's 2012 tax provision and the tax footnote for AFS's 2012 financial statements. During the Audit, Nelson provided the Firm with a signed letter representing that he was independent of AFS, and he also signed off on a Supervision, Review, and Approval work paper affirming that he had maintained his independence throughout the performance of the Audit.

11. During the Audit, the Firm received the AFS tax provision and source data for AFS's Form 10-K tax footnote in a document containing the header, "Tax provision has been provided by client by way of [Nelson's non-PCAOB-registered Firm]. All S+C [Scott and Company] comments in red." This document (the "Tax Support") was included as a work paper in the Firm's documentation for the Audit. The Tax Support work paper contained the informational tables that appear in the tax footnote for AFS's 2012 financial statements filed with the Commission, and contained source data as support for those tables.[13] During the Audit, both Nelson and Slapnik signed off as having reviewed the Tax Support work paper.

12. Despite the header noting that Nelson's non-PCAOB-registered Firm had been involved in preparing the Tax Support document, neither the Firm nor Slapnik asked Nelson if he personally had any involvement in the preparation of the document.[14] In fact, Nelson himself had prepared the Tax Support document on which he and Slapnik subsequently signed off as reviewers.

13. On March 27, 2013, Slapnik authorized the Firm's issuance of its unqualified audit report on AFS's financial statements for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2012. On that same day, AFS filed those financial statements and the Firm's audit report with the Commission.

14. As a result of Nelson's work in both preparing and performing audit work on AFS's tax provision and tax footnote, the Firm was not independent of AFS during the Audit, in violation of PCAOB rules and auditing standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules.[15]

[13] AFS disclosed in the tax footnote of its 2012 Form 10-K that its income tax provision was $0 for the year, after applying net operating loss carryforwards to the current-year taxable income of $161,000. The tax footnote also disclosed that AFS had recognized a valuation allowance in the full amount of the company's $1,547,000 in gross deferred tax assets for 2012, to adjust the deferred tax assets to the amount of net operating losses that AFS expected to be realized.

[14] During the prior year (2011) audit, Nelson had served on the engagement team and had offered either to prepare AFS's tax provision, or to get another firm to prepare it. Slapnik informed Nelson that he should get another firm to prepare the 2011 tax provision because Nelson was on the 2011 engagement team. Based on this interaction, and Nelson's written affirmations referenced above, Respondents assumed during the 2012 Audit that another member of Nelson's firm, rather than Nelson himself, had prepared the Tax Provision document. But even if that assumption had been correct, such circumstances would have resulted in the Firm not being independent of AFS during the 2012 Audit. See 17 C.F.R. §§ 210.2-01(b), (c)(4).

[15] See Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act; Exchange Act Rule 10A-2; PCAOB Rule 3520; and AU §§ 220.01-.02.

E. Slapnik Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards Concerning Determining Compliance with Independence

15. PCAOB auditing standards provide that the engagement partner "is responsible for the engagement and its performance."[16] That responsibility includes determining compliance with independence requirements at the beginning of the audit and reevaluating that determination with changes in circumstances during the audit.[17]

16. As described above, Slapnik failed to properly determine compliance with independence requirements in connection with the Audit. During the Audit, he became aware of circumstances indicating that Nelson's non-PCAOB registered Firm, and thus, perhaps Nelson, was involved in preparing the work on which Nelson was performing audit procedures. Nevertheless, Slapnik failed to take reasonable steps to reevaluate whether Nelson, and thus the Firm, complied with PCAOB standards requiring auditors to be independent of the audit client during the audit and professional engagement period. Accordingly, Slapnik violated AS 9 by failing to properly determine Nelson's, and the Firm's, compliance with independence requirements during the Audit.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in the Firm's and Slapnik's Offers. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm and Slapnik are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty is imposed in the amount of $10,000 upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay the $10,000 civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Carnaghi & Schwark, PLLC, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-009 March 15, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Carnaghi & Schwark, PLLC ("Carnaghi & Schwark," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client, which impaired the Firm's independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Carnaghi & Schwark is a registered public accounting firm located in Roseville, Michigan. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Michigan State Board of Accountancy (license no. 1102003710). The Firm, formed in 1971, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended May 31, 2014. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[5] apply to

audits of brokers and dealers.[6] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (i) Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client. Any service, unless it is reasonable to conclude that the results of these services will not be subject to audit procedures during an audit of the audit client's financial statements, including:
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's May 31, 2014 financial statements ("Audit"). At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In July 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended May 31, 2014. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated July 26, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." 10. In June and July 2014, Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a trial balance and balance sheet as of May 31, 2014 and a cash flow schedule for the year ended May 31, 2014.

11. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of May 31, 2014, as well as the Statement of Income, Statement of Cash Flows, and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended May 31, 2014, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in July 2014.

12. In preparing those financial statements, Firm staff added, aggregated, and disaggregated line items, changed line item descriptions, and added captions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

13. Firm staff also prepared the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements by updating the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements for the prior year as well as incorporating material provided by the Broker-Dealer.

14. In August 2014, the Firm sent the Broker-Dealer an invoice reflecting charges for (i) "Examination of books of account and preparation of Financial Statements for the period June 1, 2013 to May 31, 2014" and (ii) "Preparation of Financial Statements and Supporting Schedules Pursuant to Rule 17a-5 of the Securities and Exchange Commission at May 31, 2014 . . . . ."

15. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the Audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

16. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Steven G. Hirshenson, Chartered, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-012 March 15, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Steven G. Hirshenson, Chartered ("Firm" or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client and thus impairing its independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings,

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

1. Steven G. Hirshenson, Chartered is a registered public accounting firm located in Rockville, Maryland. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Maryland Board of Public Accountancy (license no. 519). The Firm, formed in 2005, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2012. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. Rule 17a-5(i) at the time required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). In the audit report, the Firm instead represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with the auditing standards of the Public Company Accounting

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

Oversight Board ("PCAOB standards").[3] That representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), because the Firm did not and—as GAAS requires independence—could not state that the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[4] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[5]

[3] GAAS, not PCAOB standards, applied to this and other broker-dealer audits of periods ending before June 1, 2014. The July 2013 amendments to Rule 17a-5 required that such audits be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013).

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[6] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[7] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (i) Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client. Any service, unless it is reasonable to conclude that the results of these services will not be subject to audit procedures during an audit of the audit client's financial statements, including:

that were applicable to audits of brokers and dealers at the time of the audit at issue here.

PCAOB standards, applicable to broker-dealer audits of periods ending on or after June 1, 2014, also require auditor independence—including an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements. At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In February 2013, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2012. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 4, 2013. That report did not state that the audit was performed in accordance with GAAS, and instead stated, among other things, that the audit was conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards.

10. The engagement letter for the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements ("Audit") stated in part (emphasis added): "We will advise you about appropriate accounting principles and their application and will assist in the preparation of your financial statements . . . ."

11. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer in December 2012 and January 2013 various documents including a "Statement of Condition" and trial balances as of December 31, 2012; a schedule of capital transactions; and a Form X-17A-5 Part IIA that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") and that bore the header "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)." That Form X-17A-5 Part IIA contained, among other things, three financial statements: a Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2012, a Statement of Income (Loss) for the period October 1, 2012 to December 31, 2012, and a Statement of Changes in Ownership Equity for the period October 1, 2012 to December 31, 2012.

12. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the "Statement of Financial Position" as of December 31, 2012, as well as the Statement of Operations and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2013.

13. In preparing those financial statements, Firm staff added line items and columns, aggregated and disaggregated line items, and changed line item descriptions and amounts, as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

14. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2012, as well as the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2013.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

15. On February 12, 2013, Firm staff sent a set of draft financial statements to a partner at another registered public accounting firm for review and suggestions. After receiving back comments, Firm staff revised the notes to the financial statements. On February 17, 2013, Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with the revised set of draft financial statements for management approval.

16. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit of the Broker-Dealer's financial statements. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[8]

17. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) because it did not and could not state in its audit report that it had performed the audit of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2012 financial statements in accordance with GAAS. In fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the audit had not and could not have been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm.

ORDER

All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (or, where the Firm by the date of this Order has already commenced but not completed such an engagement, before the Firm's release of its report), to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

b. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Holt & Patterson, LLC, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-010 March 15, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Holt & Patterson, LLC ("Holt & Patterson," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") as a result of having maintained and prepared accounting records, and having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission, for a registered broker-dealer audit client, which impaired the Firm's independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Holt & Patterson is a registered public accounting firm located in Chesterfield, Missouri. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Missouri State Board of Accountancy (license no. 2005022844). The Firm, formed in 2005, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer"). As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[5] apply to

audits of brokers and dealers.[6] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (i) Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client. Any service, unless it is reasonable to conclude that the results of these services will not be subject to audit procedures during an audit of the audit client's financial statements, including:
> (A) Maintaining or preparing the audit client's accounting records;
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements ("Audit"). At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In March 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 21, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

10. The Firm prepared the Broker-Dealer's annual depreciation expense journal entry for the year ended December 31, 2013, using the fixed asset subledger that the Firm maintained for the Broker-Dealer.

11. The Firm also prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements. In a work paper titled "Evaluating and Communicating Internal Control Deficiencies," the Firm noted that the Broker-Dealer "lacks the ability to prepare GAAP basis financial statements and footnotes," and further noted that although Holt & Patterson had "previously communicated [this] deficiency" to the Broker-Dealer, the issue "ha[d] not yet been remediated."

12. In a work paper titled "Summary of Risk Assessment," the Firm identified as a risk the Broker-Dealer's "[i]nability to generate financial statements and footnote disclosures in accordance with GAAP." The Firm also noted that as part of its "[a]udit approach" to this risk, the Firm would "prepare the footnote disclosures and give [them] to [the Broker-Dealer's president] for review."

13. The Firm obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a balance sheet and trial balance as of December 31, 2013 and an income statement for the year ended December 31, 2013.

14. The Firm used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2013, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2014.

15. In preparing those financial statements, the Firm added and aggregated line items, deleted a line item, changed line item descriptions and amounts, and added, deleted, and changed captions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

16. The Firm also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2014.

17. Included in the Form X-17A-5 Part III filed with the Commission in March 2014 was an Auditors' Report on Internal Control in which the Firm noted that the Broker-Dealer "does not have in place controls that would assure the preparation of internal financial statements and related note disclosures in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles." The Firm also noted that the Broker-Dealer engaged the Firm "to draft the audited financial statements."

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

18. As a result of the Firm's conduct in maintaining and preparing accounting records and in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the Audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

19. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (or, where the Firm by the date of this Order has already commenced but not completed such an engagement, before the Firm's release of its report), to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

ORDER

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

b. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Keiter, Stephens, Hurst, Gary & Shreaves, P.C., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-011 March 15, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Keiter, Stephens, Hurst, Gary & Shreaves, P.C. ("Keiter," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client, which impaired the Firm's independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Keiter is a registered public accounting firm located in Glen Allen, Virginia. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Virginia Board of Accountancy (license no. 131975). The Firm, formed in 1978, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2013. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

ORDER

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[5] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[6] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
>
> (i) Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client. Any service, unless it is reasonable to conclude that the results of these services will not be subject to audit procedures during an audit of the audit client's financial statements, including:
> . . .
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. The Firm served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements ("Audit"). At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In February 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 26, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States."

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

10. Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the Audit. That form included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the entity desire from our firm?" The Firm typed a checkmark under "Yes" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements?"

11. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a trial balance as of December 31, 2013. Firm staff used the trial balance obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2013, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2014.

12. In preparing those financial statements, Firm staff input line items and amounts from the trial balance into the Firm's audit software. Firm staff then used the Firm's audit software to convert the trial balance into financial statements that incorporated preset formats and groupings contained in that software.

13. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2014.

14. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the Audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

15. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

ORDER

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (or, where the Firm by the date of this Order has already commenced but not completed such an engagement, before the Firm's release of its report), to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

b. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of WJB & Co., P.C., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-013 March 15, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm WJB & Co., P.C. ("WJB," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) in the event the Board grants any future registration application by the Firm,[1] requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") as a result of having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission for a registered broker-dealer audit client, which impaired the Firm's independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. WJB is a registered public accounting firm located in Athens, Georgia. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Colorado State Board of Accountancy (license no. FRM-5000032). The Firm, formed in 2012, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm prepared the financial statements for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer") for the year ended December 31, 2013. As a result, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[3] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[3] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[4] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[5]

At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

ORDER

9. In March 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by the Firm dated February 22, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

10. On February 4, 2014, Firm staff emailed the Broker-Dealer's president a draft set of financial statements, including notes, for the year ended December 31, 2013. The Firm prepared these draft financial statements based on the content and presentation of the previous year's financial statements filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission. The draft financial statements were facially complete except they did not include dollar amounts. In addition, certain of the financial statement notes contained outdated amounts and percentages that had not been modified to reflect information applicable to the reporting period and, in some instances, blank spaces in place of such amounts.

11. Later in February 2014, the Broker-Dealer emailed to Firm staff a revised version of the draft financial statements. In the revised financial statements, the Broker-Dealer had inserted dollar amounts into line items contained in the Statements of Financial Condition, Income, and Changes in Stockholders' Equity. The Broker-Dealer also had modified the financial statement notes with updated amounts and percentages reflecting current reporting period information. The Broker-Dealer had failed, however, to populate most of the line items in the Statement of Cash Flows with dollar amounts.

12. Also in February 2014, Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a trial balance and balance sheet as of December 31, 2013; an income statement for the month ending December 31, 2013; and four Forms X-17A-5 Part IIA—one for each of the four quarters of 2013—that Firm staff understood had been filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), that bore the header "FOCUS Report (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report)," and that contained quarterly financial statements.

13. Firm staff used the above documents to complete its preparation of the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, the Statements of Income, Cash Flows, and Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2013, and the notes to the financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2014.

14. In completing its preparation of these financial statements, Firm staff aggregated and disaggregated line items, added and deleted line items, added line item amounts, and changed line item descriptions and amounts as compared to the revised financial statements received in February 2014 from the Broker-Dealer.

ORDER

15. As a result of the Firm's conduct in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the Audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[8]

16. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm, should the Board grant any future application of the Firm for registration, is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date the Board grants any future application of the Firm for registration ("Future Registration Date"), to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

2. within ninety (90) days from the Future Registration Date, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the Future Registration Date and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the Future Registration Date, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the Future Registration Date,

b. within thirty (30) days from the Future Registration Date, to any client of the Firm as of the Future Registration Date for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the Future Registration Date. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Moss, Krusick & Associates, LLC; and Joseph M. Krusick, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-014 April 12, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Moss, Krusick & Associates, LLC ("Moss Krusick" or the "Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration,[1] and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 upon the Firm; and censuring Joseph M. Krusick, CPA ("Krusick"), barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm,[2] and imposing on him a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that (a) the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards concerning auditor independence, Section 10A(g) of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 because it was not independent with respect to an issuer audit client during several audit and professional engagement periods, and (b) Krusick violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations, because he took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations.

I.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Krusick may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, the Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Moss, Krusick & Associates, LLC is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Florida, headquartered in Winter Park, Florida, and at all relevant times was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm has been licensed to practice public accountancy by (a) the Florida Board of Accountancy (License No. AD0017790) since 1990, (b) the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. LLC-0252) since 2010, and (c) the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy (License No. C07868) since 2011, and at all relevant times was the external auditor for the issuer identified below.

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

2. Joseph M. Krusick, CPA, age 57, of Orlando, Florida, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Florida Board of Accountancy (License No. AC0022686) since 1991 and the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License No. CPA-4742R) since 2008. Krusick is a partner at Moss Krusick and served as the engagement partner for the audits and reviews discussed below. Krusick is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. The Firm was not independent of an issuer audit client, Credit One Financial, Inc. ("Credit One"), throughout a five-year period because it prepared the issuer's financial statements that were filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC" or "Commission") in violation of PCAOB rules and auditing standards concerning auditor independence,[5] Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2.

4. During the Firm's audit of Credit One's financial statements for fiscal year 2010 ("2010 Annual Financial Statements") and its reviews of Credit One's interim financial statements for the first three quarters of fiscal year 2011 ("2011 Interim Financial Statements"), the Firm provided prohibited bookkeeping services to Credit One by obtaining subsidiary trial balances from Credit One and preparing Credit One's financial statements that were filed with the Commission.

5. Thereafter, during the Firm's audits of Credit One's financial statements for each of fiscal years 2011, 2012, 2013, and 2014 ("2011-2014 Annual Financial Statements") and its reviews of Credit One's interim financial statements for the first three quarters of each of 2012, 2013, and 2014 ("2012-2014 Interim Financial Statements"), the Firm provided prohibited bookkeeping services to Credit One by directing and profiting from the work of a local certified public accountant whom it selected and paid to prepare Credit One's financial statements filed with the Commission.

6. Krusick, the engagement partner for each of the Credit One audits and reviews at issue, violated PCAOB Rule 3502 because he took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards, Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2.

ORDER

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards, and the Exchange Act

7. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] PCAOB rules and auditing standards also require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[7] A registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws.[8]

8. Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act provides that it shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm that performs an audit for an issuer "to provide to that issuer, contemporaneously with the audit, any non-audit service, including . . . bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client".[9]

9. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 provides that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent under certain provisions of Regulation S-X, including Rule 2-01(c)(4).[10] Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X states in part:

[6] PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards, and PCAOB Rule 3200T, Interim Auditing Standards. All references to PCAOB standards are to the versions of those standards in effect at the time of the relevant audits.

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (i) Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client. Any service, unless it is reasonable to conclude that the results of these services will not be subject to audit procedures during an audit of the audit client's financial statements, including:

Moss Krusick's Audit of Credit One's 2010 Annual Financial Statements and Reviews of Credit One's 2011 Interim Financial Statements

10. Credit One is a Florida corporation with principal executive offices in New York and no operations in the United States. Credit One's public filings with the Commission disclosed that all of its assets, officers, and directors were located outside the United States, including in the People's Republic of China ("PRC") and Macau. Credit One used the services of an outsourced CFO in New York to assist with its financial reporting obligations ("Outsourced CFO"). In 2009 and 2010, Credit One produced and sold mineral products, primarily graphite, in the PRC through a wholly owned subsidiary. In 2010, Credit One ceased producing and selling mineral products and, through a different wholly owned subsidiary, entered into a ten-year agreement to be the exclusive advertising agent for a Macau-based television company. Credit One's common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and quoted on the OTCQB marketplace. At all relevant times, Credit One was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

11. Moss Krusick audited Credit One's 2010 and 2011-2014 Annual Financial Statements, and reviewed its 2011 and 2012-2014 Interim Financial Statements. Krusick was the engagement partner for each of those audits and reviews. With respect to the audits, Krusick signed and authorized the release of each of Moss Krusick's audit reports, which were included in Form 10-Ks Credit One filed with the Commission.

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

12. During the audit of the 2010 Annual Financial Statements ("2010 Audit"), Respondents obtained subsidiary trial balances and a draft of Credit One's 2010 Form 10-K containing financial statements with blank account balances from the Outsourced CFO. Respondents prepared Credit One's consolidating and adjusting journal entries, and consolidated balance sheet, income statement, and cash flow statement ("Consolidated Financial Statements"), using the subsidiary trial balances.

13. Then, Respondents sent a handwritten, marked up version of the 2010 Form 10-K back to the Outsourced CFO with the financial statement account balances filled in based on the Consolidated Financial Statements prepared by Respondents. Respondents also drafted language for certain financial statement disclosures. The Outsourced CFO updated the electronic version of the 2010 Form 10-K with the financial statement amounts and disclosures provided by Respondents. The Outsourced CFO then filed the 2010 Form 10-K, including the 2010 Annual Financial Statements, with the Commission. Respondents prepared similar documents and information that were included in or formed the basis for Credit One's 2011 Interim Financial Statements, which Respondents reviewed ("2011 Reviews") and Credit One filed with the Commission.

14. By preparing Credit One's financial statements in connection with the 2010 Audit and 2011 Reviews as described above, the Firm was not independent of Credit One during the 2010 Audit and 2011 Reviews and violated PCAOB rules and standards concerning auditor independence, Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2.

15. Krusick, the engagement partner for the 2010 Audit and 2011 Reviews, was aware that the Firm was providing bookkeeping services to Credit One. As a result, Krusick violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by taking or omitting to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of PCAOB rules and standards, Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2.

Moss Krusick's Audits of Credit One's 2011 Through 2014 Annual Financial Statements and Reviews of Credit One's 2012 Through 2014 Interim Financial Statements

16. In October 2011, Krusick, who expressed concerns that Moss Krusick's assistance to Credit One could be viewed as impairing the Firm's independence and the PCAOB could inspect Moss Krusick's Credit One audits, asked Credit One to prepare its own financial statements for fiscal year 2011, and suggested that Credit One engage a firm in China to assist it. In response, Credit One asked Respondents to find a local accountant in Florida to do this work. Respondents subsequently identified a solo practitioner accountant in Orlando, Florida (the "Accountant") and negotiated with her an agreement under which she would prepare Credit One's annual and interim financial statements for a capped fee of no more than $2,500 per quarter, or $10,000 per year. The agreement was memorialized in an engagement letter between the Accountant and Credit One dated March 3, 2012. The engagement letter provided, among other things, that the Accountant would submit her invoices to Moss Krusick and be paid by Moss Krusick, which in turn would bill Credit One for the Accountant's services.

17. Thereafter, the Accountant prepared the 2011-2014 Annual Financial Statements in the same manner that Respondents had prepared the 2010 Annual Financial Statements. Respondents audited the 2011-2014 Annual Financial Statements ("2011-2014 Audits") that Credit One filed with the Commission. The Accountant similarly prepared Credit One's 2012-2014 Interim Financial Statements, which Respondents reviewed ("2012-2014 Reviews") and Credit One filed with the Commission.

18. Krusick, as well as other members of the Moss Krusick engagement team, provided direction to the Accountant in connection with her preparation of Credit One's 2011-2014 Annual Financial Statements and 2012-2014 Interim Financial Statements. In performing her work, the Accountant had no direct communications with Credit One. Instead, she relied on Moss Krusick to provide her with all of Credit One's financial information and sent all of her work to Moss Krusick for review, comment, and approval. For example, on a quarterly basis Moss Krusick received subsidiary trial balances from the Outsourced CFO that Moss Krusick sent to the Accountant directing her to prepare a balance sheet and income statement. The Accountant prepared balance sheets and income statements that she sent to the Firm and on which the Firm noted: "Auditor takes full responsibility for all work performed by [the Accountant] . . . ."

19. In addition to directing the Accountant's work, Respondents determined how much she was paid, and Moss Krusick profited from her work. Pursuant to Moss Krusick's understanding with Credit One, Moss Krusick billed, and was paid by Credit One, $2,500 per quarter for the Accountant's work, irrespective of the amounts Moss Krusick paid the Accountant. Krusick decided to pay the Accountant $1,250 or $1,500 per quarter and the Firm kept the difference.

20. In February 2014, an accountant newly employed by the Firm and assigned to the audit of Credit One's fiscal year 2013 annual financial statements raised concerns with Krusick regarding the Firm's independence from Credit One in light of the Firm's arrangement with the Accountant. In response, the Firm initiated telephone consultations with the national SEC consultant referred by the association of accounting

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

firms to which the Firm belonged at the time. During the consultations, Krusick and others at the Firm explained the pass-through billing arrangement with the Accountant, but did not disclose that the Firm profited from the Accountant's work or discuss other aspects of the arrangement. Although the consultant apparently concluded the pass-through billing arrangement did not impair the Firm's independence, the consultant did not assess whether the Firm's independence was impaired as a result of other aspects of its relationship with the Accountant. Following the consultations, the Firm did not alter its arrangement with the Accountant and the new accountant resigned from the Firm.

21. As a result of the conduct described above, the Firm provided Credit One with prohibited bookkeeping services in connection with the 2011-2014 Audits and 2012-2014 Reviews in violation of PCAOB rules and standards concerning auditor independence, Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2.

22. Krusick, the engagement partner for the 2011-2014 Audits and 2012-2014 Reviews, was aware of the arrangement with the Accountant. Krusick selected her to provide bookkeeping services to Credit One; negotiated her agreement with Credit One; decided how much Moss Krusick paid her and how much Moss Krusick profited from her services; administered her requests for Credit One's information; determined what information about Credit One she received; and directed her work preparing Credit One's financial statements. As a result, Krusick violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by taking or omitting to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of PCAOB rules and standards, Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in the Offers. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Moss, Krusick & Associates, LLC and Joseph M. Krusick, CPA are censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Moss, Krusick & Associates, LLC is revoked;

C. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Moss, Krusick & Associates, LLC may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101;

ORDER

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Joseph M. Krusick, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[12]

E. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Joseph M. Krusick, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm; and

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed upon Moss, Krusick & Associates, LLC, and a separate and additional civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000 is imposed upon Joseph M. Krusick, CPA. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Moss, Krusick & Associates, LLC and Joseph M. Krusick, CPA shall each pay the civil money penalty imposed within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter that identifies, as applicable, Moss, Krusick & Associates, LLC or Joseph M. Krusick as one of the Respondents in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of said cover

[12] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Krusick. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of The Hall Group, CPAs and David S. Hall, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-015 April 26, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring The Hall Group, CPAs ("THG" or the "Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration, and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 upon the Firm;[1] and censuring David S. Hall, CPA ("Hall") and barring Hall from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (1) the Firm and Hall (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the audits of the financial statements of three issuer clients; (2) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the Board's 2013 inspection of the Firm; and (3) the Firm violated PCAOB rules in connection with its failure, in 2014, to file an annual report and to pay an annual fee to the Board.

I.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Hall may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. The Hall Group, CPAs is, and at all relevant times was, a professional corporation organized under the laws of the state of Texas, and headquartered in Lewisville, Texas. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm previously was licensed to practice public accountancy by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy ("TSBPA") (license no. C06240). The Firm's license with the TSBPA expired on May 31, 2014. At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for the three issuers discussed below.

2. David S. Hall, age 58, of Lewisville, Texas, is a certified public accountant licensed by the TSBPA (license no. 037991). At all relevant times, Hall was the president and sole owner of the Firm, and he served as the engagement partner for the three audits discussed below. Hall is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the audits of the June 30, 2012 ("FY 2012") financial statements of Seven Arts Entertainment Inc. ("Seven Arts") and Freestone Resources, Inc. ("Freestone"), and the December 31, 2012 financial statements of Medient Studios, Inc. ("Medient") (collectively, the "Audits"). Respondents repeatedly failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence and to exercise due care and professional skepticism in connection with the Audits.

4. This matter also concerns Respondents' failures to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS7"). The engagement quality reviewer ("EQR") assigned to two of the Audits did not possess the level of knowledge and competence required to perform engagement quality reviews. In addition, Hall served as the EQR for the third Audit, while simultaneously serving as the engagement partner.

5. This matter also concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors, and Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS3"). In advance of the Board's 2013 inspection of the Firm, Hall, and others acting at his direction improperly altered, added to, and backdated archived work papers. Respondents made these misleading work papers available to the Board's inspectors in violation of PCAOB Rule 4006. Respondents also failed to comply with AS3 because Hall, and others acting at his direction, did not indicate the date that the work papers were modified, the names of the persons who made the modifications, and the reason for doing so.

6. This matter also concerns the Firm's failure, in 2014, to file an annual report with the Board and to pay an annual fee to the Board. See Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report; PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee.

7. Finally, this matter concerns Hall's violation of PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations. At all relevant times, Hall was the sole owner of the Firm and the engagement partner for each of the Audits. Hall was in charge of the Firm's issuer audit practice, and he was the Firm's contact with the Board. Hall took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and/or omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards.

ORDER

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with the Audits.

8. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[6] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in performing the audit.[7]

9. PCAOB standards require auditors to take certain steps in connection with the identification and assessment of risks of material misstatement. An auditor should evaluate whether the company's selection and application of accounting principles are appropriate for its business and consistent with the applicable financial reporting framework and accounting principles used in the relevant industry.[8] Also, "[t]he auditor should evaluate whether the information gathered from the risk assessment procedures indicates that one or more fraud risk factors are present and should be taken into account in identifying and assessing fraud risks."[9] The improper recognition of revenue is a presumed fraud risk.[10]

10. To determine whether an identified and assessed risk is a significant risk, the auditor should evaluate whether the risk requires special audit consideration because of the nature of the risk or the likelihood and potential magnitude of misstatement related to the risk.[11] Relevant factors in determining whether a risk is a significant risk include: (a) whether the identified risk is a fraud risk; and (b) whether the risk involves significant transactions with related parties.[12] The assessment of risk should continue throughout the audit and, when the auditor obtains audit evidence that contradicts audit evidence on which the original risk assessment was made, "the auditor should revise the risk assessment and modify planned audit procedures or perform additional procedures in response to the revised risk assessments."[13]

11. PCAOB auditing standards require auditors to design and implement appropriate audit responses to the risks of material misstatement.[14] The auditor should determine whether it is necessary to make pervasive changes to the nature, timing, or extent of audit procedures to adequately address the assessed risks of material misstatement.[15] "The auditor's responses to the assessed risks of material misstatement, particularly fraud risks, should involve the application of professional skepticism in gathering and evaluating audit evidence."[16] Also, the auditor should gain an understanding of the business rationale for significant unusual transactions and evaluate whether that rationale (or the lack thereof) suggests that the transactions may have been entered into to engage in fraud.[17]

12. The auditor must plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[18] The "auditor should take into account all relevant audit evidence, regardless of whether it appears to corroborate or to contradict the assertions in the financial statements."[19]

The auditor must evaluate the results of the audit to determine whether the audit evidence obtained is sufficient and appropriate to support the opinion to be expressed in the auditor's report.[20] "If the auditor has not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence about a relevant assertion . . . the auditor should perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address the matter."[21] The auditor must evaluate whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[22]

13. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with the above PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the Audits.

Seven Arts

14. At all relevant times, Seven Arts Entertainment Inc. was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Los Angeles, California. The public filings of Seven Arts disclosed that it was a motion picture production company. At all relevant times, its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act")[23] and was quoted on the OTC Pink marketplace. At all relevant times, Seven Arts was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

15. Hall was the engagement partner for the Firm's audit of the June 30, 2012 financial statements of Seven Arts, and he supervised the work of the engagement team. On October 14, 2012, Hall authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report expressing an unqualified opinion on Seven Arts' financial statements. The audit report was included in the Form 10-K that Seven Arts filed with the Commission on October 15, 2012.

16. At the time of the audit, Respondents understood that the majority of the revenue recognized by Seven Arts resulted from a significant unusual transaction between the company and a related party. Seven Arts disclosed in its public filings that it was a motion picture production and distribution company. Ninety percent of the revenue that the company recognized in FY 2012, however, related to applications for tax credits for rehabilitating a house in New Orleans. The house was owned by a related party; namely, a company formed by the wife of the CEO of Seven Arts. Seven Arts guaranteed construction loans for the related party and, in exchange, the related party assigned to Seven Arts the proceeds of the tax credits. The company recognized revenue on this transaction in the amount of approximately $7.5 million.

17. Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate whether an earnings process had taken place such that revenue could be recognized on this transaction. Respondents failed to evaluate whether Seven Arts had substantially accomplished what the company must do to be entitled to the benefits represented by the proceeds of the tax credits. More specifically, Respondents failed to evaluate whether goods had been delivered, services rendered, or other activities that constituted the company's ongoing major or central operations had been performed, as required by U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP").[24]

18. Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate whether the proceeds of the tax credits were collectible.[25] Respondents ignored contrary audit evidence that called into question the collectability of these proceeds. Respondents were aware, at the time of the audit, of the following matters: (a) none of the proceeds had been received, either by the related party or by Seven Arts; (b) there was a lack of third-party evidence supporting that the applications for the tax credits had received final approval; (c) the FBI had subpoenaed Firm work papers in connection with an investigation involving the related party's applications for certain of the tax credits; (d) the U.S. Attorney in New Orleans was investigating a potential fraud in connection with the related party's application for certain of the tax credits; and (e) the Louisiana State Auditor was investigating the related party in connection with its application for certain of the tax credits.

19. Respondents were aware of these red flags; however, Respondents failed to perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address these matters.

Medient

20. At all relevant times, Medient Studios, Inc.[26] was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Los Angeles, California. Medient's public filings disclosed that it was a film production and distribution company. At all relevant times, its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTCQB marketplace.[27] At all relevant times, Medient was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

21. Hall was the engagement partner for the Firm's audit of the December 31, 2012 financial statements of Medient, and he supervised the work of the engagement team. On April 15, 2013, Hall authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report expressing an unqualified opinion, with a going concern explanatory paragraph, on Medient's financial statements. The audit report was included in the Form 10-K that Medient filed with the Commission on April 16, 2013.

Tax Credit Proceeds

22. In 2012, Medient recognized revenue in the amount of $1.4 million, or 43 percent of reported revenue, which consisted of Medient's right to the proceeds of certain United Kingdom film tax credits. Medient disclosed in its public filings that a United Kingdom taxing authority was expected to issue the tax credits to a related party of the company. Medient's CEO was a significant shareholder of that related party. At Medient Studios, Inc., TISO, Exchange Act Rel. No. 72462, 79 Fed. Reg. 36569 (June 25, 2014). After the expiration of the trading suspension, OTC Markets Group Inc. discontinued displaying quotes for Medient, and began identifying Medient as a Grey Market security. On March 12, 2015, the company filed with the Commission a Form 25, Notification of Removal from Listing and/or Registration, stating that the company had complied with the rules and requirements governing the voluntary withdrawal of the company's common stock from listing and registration on the OTC Markets.

the time of the audit, Respondents determined that there was a significant risk of material misstatement for this transaction because the proceeds of the tax credits were due from a related party.

23. Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate whether an earnings process had taken place. More specifically, Respondents failed to evaluate whether goods had been delivered, services rendered, or other activities that constituted the company's ongoing major or central operations had been performed.[28]

24. Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate whether the proceeds from the film tax credits were collectible.[29] Respondents ignored contrary audit evidence that called into question the collectability of these proceeds. Among other things, the Firm's work papers contained information related to the following matters: (a) the asset purchase agreement between the related party and the prior owner of the tax credits excluded "[a]ll refunds, credits, or overpayments with respect to Taxes" from the sale; (b) no tax credits had been received, either by Medient or by the related party, at the time of the audit; and (c) there was no evidence that the application for the tax credits had been filed with, or approved by, the taxing authority.

25. Respondents were aware of these red flags; however, Respondents failed to perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address these matters.

Advance from License Agreement

26. In 2012, Medient also recognized revenue in the amount of $1.3 million, or 41 percent of total reported revenue, arising out of an advance purportedly due from a motion picture studio. The agreement that entitled Medient to this advance was executed on September 4, 2012. The 2012 agreement was the second amendment to an earlier agreement between the parties. The earlier agreement was dated May 20, 2011. The 2012 agreement increased the original advance amount from approximately $1.1 million to approximately $1.3 million.

27. Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to evaluate whether it was appropriate for Medient to recognize the advance as revenue. Respondents ignored contrary audit evidence that called into question the collectability[30] of the purported revenue, including the following matters: (a) none of the original $1.1 million advance from May 2011 had been paid; and (b) none of the additional advance from September 2012 had been paid. Respondents were aware of these red flags; however, Respondents failed to perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address these matters.

Freestone

28. At all relevant times, Freestone Resources, Inc. was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Dallas, Texas. Freestone's public filings disclosed that it was an oil and gas technology development company. At all relevant times, its common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and was quoted on the OTCQB marketplace. At all relevant times, Freestone was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

29. Hall was the engagement partner for the Firm's audit of the June 30, 2012 financial statements of Freestone, and he supervised the work of the engagement team. On September 19, 2012, Hall authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report expressing an unqualified opinion, with a going concern explanatory paragraph, on Freestone's financial statements. The audit report was included in the Form 10-K that Freestone filed with the Commission on September 24, 2012.

Asset Retirement Obligation

30. Respondents failed to gather sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate whether Freestone's accounting for an asset retirement obligation ("ARO") complied with GAAP. During FY 2012, Freestone recognized an increase in the liability for the cost to plug and abandon oil and gas properties. The ARO liability equaled 43 percent of total reported liabilities. Freestone failed to capitalize this additional cost to the related oil and gas assets. Instead, Freestone applied this cost to current expenses. Respondents failed to evaluate whether this complied with GAAP.[31]

Financial Statement Disclosures

31. Freestone failed to make the supplemental financial statement disclosures required of oil and gas producing companies. Supplemental disclosures are required when a company's revenues from oil and gas production equal or exceed 10 percent of total revenues.[32] In FY 2012, 100 percent of Freestone's revenues resulted from oil or gas production. Respondents failed to gather sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate whether Freestone's omission of supplemental disclosures complied with GAAP.

D. Respondents Failed to Comply with PCAOB Auditing Standards in Connection with the Engagement Quality Reviews for the Audits.

32. AS7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[33] The EQR must possess the level of knowledge and competence related to accounting, auditing, and financial reporting required to serve as the engagement partner on the engagement under review.[34] An EQR of a firm must be a partner or another individual in an equivalent position.[35] An EQR should not make decisions on behalf of the engagement team, or assume any of the responsibilities of the engagement team.[36]

33. In connection with the FY 2012 audits of the financial statements of Seven Arts and Freestone, the Firm failed to comply with AS7. Hall assigned an auditor of the Firm to serve as the EQR for both audits. The auditor was not a partner or another individual in an equivalent position at the Firm. The highest level that the auditor had held on an engagement team was to serve as an audit senior. The auditor, as well, was not a licensed certified public accountant. This auditor did not possess the level of knowledge and competence required to serve as the engagement partner on the engagements under review.

34. In connection with the Firm's audit of the 2012 financial statements of Medient, Hall served as the EQR. At the same time that Hall served as the EQR, he also served as the engagement partner for this audit. Hall, therefore, made decisions and assumed responsibilities on behalf of the audit engagement team at the same time that he was serving as the EQR, in violation of AS7.

E. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rule 4006 and AS3.

35. PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons "shall cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[37] This cooperation obligation "includes an obligation not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[38] PCAOB auditing standards require auditors to make certain written disclosures when they add information to work papers after the documentation completion date for an audit.[39] As described below, Respondents violated PCAOB Rule 4006 and AS3.

36. October 14, 2012 was the report release date for the audit of the FY 2012 financial statements of Seven Arts.[40] The documentation completion date for the audit was November 28, 2012.[41]

37. On or before June 17, 2013, Respondents learned that the Board would inspect the Firm's audit of the FY 2012 financial statements of Seven Arts. After learning that this audit would be inspected, Hall, and others acting at his direction, improperly altered, added to, and backdated archived work papers without making the disclosures required by AS3. The altered work papers were made available to the Board's inspectors in connection with the inspection. At no time did Respondents advise the inspectors that these work papers were altered shortly before the inspection.

38. Hall, and others acting at his direction, added sign-offs to critical work papers that lacked such sign-offs at the time of the audit. The sign-offs were backdated to the time of the audit. Also, Hall added audit conclusions to existing work papers without indicating that the conclusions were added shortly before the Board's inspection. And an engagement team member, acting at Hall's direction, drafted and backdated certain work papers shortly before the inspection. These work papers did not exist, in any form, at the time of the audit. This conduct violated PCAOB Rule 4006.

39. Hall, and others acting at his direction, failed to indicate the dates that the alterations were made to the work papers, the names of the persons making the alterations, and the reason for making the alterations after the documentation completion date. This conduct failed to comply with AS3.

F. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules 2200 and 2202.

40. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200 provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report[.]" PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing of Annual Report, states that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 2200, the Firm failed to file an annual report for 2014.

41. Pursuant to Section 102(f) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2202 provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must pay an annual fee to the Board on or before July 31" of any year that the firm is required to file an annual report. In violation of PCAOB Rule 2202, the Firm failed to pay its annual fee for 2014.

G. Hall Substantially Contributed to the Firm's Violations of Relevant Laws, Rules, and Professional Standards.

42. PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that firm of the Act, the rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards.[42]

43. At all relevant times, Hall was the: (a) sole owner of the Firm; (b) partner in charge of the Firm's issuer audit practice; (c) engagement partner for each of the Audits; and (d) contact person with the Board. Hall had overall responsibility for assuring that the Firm complied with relevant laws, rules, and professional standards. Hall knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that his acts and omissions directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of relevant laws, rules, and professional standards in connection with the Firm's performance of engagement quality reviews, and the Firm's failure to file an annual report with the Board and to pay an annual fee to the Board, as described above. As a result, Hall violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), The Hall Group, CPAs and David S. Hall are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), David S. Hall is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[43]

C. After three (3) years from the date of this Order, David S. Hall may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of The Hall Group, CPAs is revoked;

[43] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Hall. Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

E. After three (3) years from the date of the Order, The Hall Group, CPAs may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101; and

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed upon The Hall Group, CPAs. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Hall Group, CPAs shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies The Hall Group, CPAs as a Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-016
In the Matter of AWC (CPA) Limited, WONG Chi Wai, CPA, and WONG Fei Cheung, CPA,	May 18, 2016
Respondents.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring AWC (CPA) Limited ("AWC" or the "Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration, and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 upon the Firm;[1] censuring WONG Chi Wai, CPA, also known as Albert Wong ("Albert Wong"), barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, imposing a civil money penalty of $10,000;[2] and censuring WONG Fei Cheung, CPA, also known as Martin Wong ("Martin Wong"), barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000.[3] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that in connection with the audits of one issuer client: (a) the Firm, Albert Wong, and Martin Wong violated PCAOB rules and standards and Section 10A(a)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"); (b) the Firm violated Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and standards; and (c) the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards and Albert Wong directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violation of PCAOB quality control standards.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Albert Wong may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

[3] Martin Wong may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against the Firm, Albert Wong, and Martin Wong (collectively "Respondents").

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions (the "Order") as set forth below.[4]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[5] that:

A. Respondents

1. AWC (CPA) Limited ("AWC" or the "Firm"), a public accounting firm incorporated in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China ("Hong Kong"), is registered with the Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("HKICPA") as a certified public accounting firm (License No. 1186). C. Summary

7. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the issuance of audit reports on the consolidated financial statements of Kandi Technologies Group, Inc. ("Kandi" or the "Company") for the years ended December 31, 2010, 2011, and 2012. As detailed below, Respondents, among other things, failed repeatedly to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to financial statement assertions, to include procedures designed to provide reasonable assurance of detecting fraud or illegal acts that would have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts, and to prepare and maintain adequate audit documentation.

8. As the auditor with final responsibility and the engagement partner on the Kandi Audits, Albert Wong also failed to supervise the engagement staff.

9. Throughout the Kandi Audits, the Firm repeatedly violated PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS No. 7"), by failing to have an engagement quality review performed with objectivity. As described below, the engagement quality reviewer in the Kandi Audits did not maintain objectivity because while serving in this capacity, he was an active member of the engagement team and performed audit procedures with respect to the audit of Kandi's deferred taxes and related disclosures.

10. In addition, the Firm and Albert Wong violated Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and standards that require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period. The Firm and Albert Wong were not independent of Kandi for the 2012 audit because a partner of AWC LLP, an affiliate and associated entity of the Firm, provided prohibited non-audit services to Kandi by accepting a Power-of-Attorney from Kandi and representing Kandi before a New York State regulatory agency.

11. Finally, the Firm failed to comply with PCAOB quality control standards in connection with the audits described herein, when it did not establish policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel maintained independence in all required circumstances;[9] the work performed by the engagement personnel met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality;[10] and the policies and procedures established by the firm for the elements of quality control were suitably designed and were being effectively applied.[11] Albert Wong, as the sole-proprietor and person ultimately responsible for the design, implementation and maintenance of the Firm's system of quality control took, or omitted to take, actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of PCAOB quality control standards, in contravention of PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

D. Respondents' Violations of PCAOB Rules and Standards and the Exchange Act

12. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[12] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[13]

13. For audits of fiscal years beginning before December 15, 2010, the standards require, among other things, that the auditor obtain sufficient competent evidential matter to provide a reasonable basis for forming an opinion regarding the financial statements.[14] For audits of fiscal years beginning on or after December 15, 2010, the standards require, among other things, that the auditor plan and perform the audit to obtain appropriate audit evidence that is sufficient to support the opinion expressed in the auditor's report.[15] Those standards also state that the engagement partner is responsible for proper supervision of engagement team members. Supervision includes, among other things, informing the engagement team of matters that could affect the procedures to be performed or the evaluation of the results of those procedures; and reviewing the engagement team's work to evaluate whether it was properly performed and documented, the objectives of the procedures were achieved, and the results of the work support the conclusion reached.[16]

14. PCAOB standards further require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, in the performance of the audit and preparation of the report.[17] PCAOB standards also require that auditors perform procedures to identify, assess, and respond to risks of material misstatement due to fraud.[18] The Exchange Act further requires a registered public accounting firm to include procedures designed to provide reasonable assurance of detecting illegal acts that would have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts in public company audits.[19]

15. In addition, PCAOB standards require audit documentation to contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement: (a) to understand the nature, timing, extent and results of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached; and (b) to determine who performed the work and the date the work was completed as well as the person who reviewed the work and the date of such review.[20]

16. An engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance are required for an audit conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards. The engagement quality reviewer must be independent of the company, perform the engagement quality review with integrity, and maintain objectivity in performing the review.[21]

17. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards during the Kandi Audits. In addition, Respondents failed to comply with applicable Exchange Act requirements in the audit of Kandi's 2010 financial statements.

i. Audit of Kandi's 2010 Financial Statements

18. Kandi Technologies Group, Inc. is, and at all relevant times was, a Delaware corporation with its headquarters and primary operations in Zhejiang Province, People's Republic of China ("PRC"). Kandi's public filings disclose that it is a manufacturer of electric vehicles, go-karts, all-terrain vehicles and other specialty vehicles for sale domestically and abroad. Its common stock is registered under Section 12(b) of the Exchange Act, and is quoted on the NASDAQ Stock Market. At all relevant times, Kandi was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

19. AWC issued an audit report, dated March 31, 2011, expressing an unqualified opinion on Kandi's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2010. The report was included in Kandi's Form 10-K, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on March 31, 2011. Albert Wong, as the auditor with final responsibility for the audit of Kandi's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2010 ("Kandi 2010 Audit"), authorized the issuance of the audit report.

ORDER

Cash Testing

20. In its consolidated financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2010, Kandi reported cash and restricted cash balances of $25.2 million representing approximately 34% of $74.3 million in total current assets. For $7.1 million[22] of cash and restricted cash accounts, representing 28% of the total cash and restricted cash balances, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care and skepticism and to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter in relying primarily on management representations that the funds held in the personal accounts of a staff person in Kandi's finance department ("Cashier") and Kandi's Chairman ("Chairman") met all of the relevant financial statement assertions to be presented as Kandi's cash or restricted cash as of December 31, 2010.

21. For example, $3.0 million of the cash reported by Kandi in the financial statements was held in a personal account of the Cashier at year end. To support the assertions for this balance, Respondents inappropriately relied on management's written representations that the Cashier was authorized to hold this amount on Kandi's behalf without obtaining any additional evidence to support that the cash existed at year end or that Kandi had the rights to it. Despite contradictory evidence in Kandi's records indicating that this amount might have been a loan to the Cashier, Respondents failed to investigate the circumstances or otherwise consider the reliability of management's representations.[23]

22. The Cashier also held $2.5 million of cash, reported as restricted cash in the financial statements, in two of her personal accounts at year end, for which Respondents failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter regarding the relevant financial statement assertions. Respondents relied on the Cashier's written representations, dated in September and October of 2010, that these amounts existed in these two personal accounts, and Kandi had the rights to them at year end.

23. With respect to $1.6 million of Kandi's cash reported as restricted and held in personal accounts of the Chairman, Respondents also placed inappropriate reliance on management representations and ignored contradictory audit evidence. For $0.8 million of cash reported as restricted in Kandi's financial statements as of December 31, 2010, Respondents placed improper reliance on the Chairman's written representation that he held this amount on behalf of Kandi as of May 5, 2010, without corroborating this representation. With regard to an additional $0.8 million of cash reported as restricted, Respondents obtained no corroborating audit evidence after management represented, in response to a discrepancy in a bank confirmation reply, that amount was instead held by the Chairman in a personal account. Respondents failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to resolve the confirmation exception and failed to perform sufficient tests to address the relevant financial statement assertions concerning the balances.

24. During the 2010 Audit, Respondents identified as a significant unusual transaction the aforementioned $3.0 million of cash held in the Cashier's personal account and reported this transaction to the audit committee as evidence of a key internal control weakness. However, for the remaining $4.1 million of restricted cash held in the Cashier and Chairman's personal accounts, Respondents failed to consider whether these amounts, which were similar in nature to the $3.0 million transaction reported to the audit committee as a key control weakness, were also significant unusual transactions and to report them to the audit committee.

25. Kandi management represented to Respondents that the $3.0 million temporarily held by the Cashier in her personal account was at the request of Kandi's bank. However, for all of the cash and restricted cash balances held in the personal accounts of the Cashier and Chairman, Respondents failed to consider management's rationale of having Company funds held in the personal bank accounts of the Cashier and Chairman, and whether the stated business rationale (or lack thereof) suggested that the transaction may have been entered into to engage in fraudulent financial reporting or conceal the misappropriation of assets.[24]

26. At no time during the Kandi 2010 Audit did Respondents consider whether the cash amounts reported as restricted and held in the Chairman's personal accounts represented personal loans from Kandi that might constitute illegal acts, or for which disclosure would have been required as related party transactions. As a result, Respondents violated Section 10A(a)(1) of the Exchange Act by failing to include in the audit procedures designed to provide reasonable assurance of detecting illegal acts that would have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts.[25]

ORDER

The Kandi USA Inc. Transactions

27. In its 2010 financial statements, Kandi reported accounts receivable of approximately $17 million, which represented 23% of total reported current assets. The Respondents knew that prior to the adjustment described below, Kandi's accounting records originally recorded total sales to Kandi USA Inc. ("Kandi USA") of $2.1 million at year end.[26] Further, Kandi USA was one of the top five largest outstanding accounts receivable balances at year end and was Kandi's fifth largest customer by revenue, representing 5% of Kandi's reported net revenue and 8% of the reported accounts receivable.

28. In planning the audit, Respondents had identified related party transactions and revenue as key audit risks. Additionally, in assessing control risks, Respondents identified an internal control deficiency, related to the identification, monitoring and review of related party transactions and conflicts of interests, as a key control weakness.

29. After learning that transactions involving Kandi USA had been recorded under a pseudonym, Respondents inquired several times of management whether Kandi USA was a related party of Kandi and, when management did not adequately respond to their inquiries, failed to take those responses into consideration in the audit. Five days before Kandi's Form 10-K filing deadline, Respondents ultimately received an email that included a suggestion from Kandi's Chairman that revenue from the Kandi USA sales had been incorrectly recorded, and should be changed to reflect the revenue as being from sales to Zhejiang Yongkang Top Import & Export Co. ("Dingji"). Respondents understood that, until 2008, Dingji had been Kandi's subsidiary. At the time of the Kandi 2010 Audit, they further understood that Dingji was Kandi's second largest customer, and was owned, in part, by the "legal representative" of Kandi's largest supplier, Zhejiang Mengdeli Electric Co. Ltd ("Mengdeli").[27] Respondents also knew that Kandi had pledged fixed assets of $11.5 million as collateral to guarantee Mengdeli's bank loans and that Mengdeli had also acted as the guarantor on a $15.1 million bank loan taken out by Kandi.

30. Attached to the emailed suggestion from Kandi's Chairman were a sample sales contract, which was between Kandi and Dingji, and its related official export invoices issued and filed by Kandi with the relevant governmental authorities. The export invoices, which were required to ship goods overseas, show the seller as Kandi and the buyer as Kandi USA, with Los Angeles USA as the shipping destination. Notwithstanding contradictory audit evidence and based primarily on a review of those sample documents, Respondents agreed with the Chairman's suggestion to adjust the revenue and related receivable from Kandi USA to Dingji. At the time Respondents agreed with the Chairman's suggestion to adjust all of Kandi USA transactions to Dingji, the engagement team had additional contradictory audit evidence, including: (i) a confirmation response from Kandi USA confirming its account receivable balance as of year-end; (ii) an initial confirmation response from Dingji, confirming an account receivable that did not include the amounts relating to the transactions with Kandi USA; and (iii) cash receipt transactions showing that Kandi USA had paid Kandi for a selection of these sales.

31. Respondents failed to perform sufficient procedures to corroborate management's last-minute assertions that revenue originally recorded as being from Kandi USA should have been from Dingji. And they failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism by ignoring red flags and failing to address the contradictory audit evidence that indicated Kandi USA was the actual purchaser of Kandi's vehicles.[28]

32. The auditor's assessment of the risks of material misstatement due to fraud should be ongoing throughout the audit and include conditions, such as last-minute adjustments, that significantly affect financial results.[29] When audit test results identify misstatements in the financial statements, the auditor should consider whether such misstatements may be indicative of fraud.[30] Despite the aforementioned red flags, Respondents failed to assess the risk of fraud related to these last-minute adjustments to reflect the Kandi USA revenue as being from Dingji, including whether these adjustments were motivated by management's desire to conceal Kandi's transactions with Kandi USA in order to avoid related party disclosures. Furthermore, despite their knowledge that Mengdeli's legal representative was one of Dingji's two owners and thus able to exert some control over both entities, Respondents failed to determine whether Dingji might be a related party.[31]

33. Significantly, Respondents failed to document their rationale for concluding that the sales transactions to Kandi USA be adjusted to Dingji.[32] Respondents, in preparing the final set of audit documentation, also eliminated all references to Kandi USA, in violation of audit documentation requirements.

Subsequent Discovery that Kandi USA was a Related Party

34. PCAOB standards require that when an auditor becomes aware of information related to financial statements previously reported on by him, but which was not known to him at the date of his report, and which is of such a nature and from such a source that he would have investigated it had it come to his attention during the course of his audit, he should, as soon as practicable, undertake to determine whether the information is reliable and whether the facts existed at the date of his report. The auditor should also discuss the matter with his client at whatever management levels he deems appropriate, including the board of directors, and request cooperation in whatever investigation may be necessary.[33]

35. In May 2011, less than six weeks after the Firm issued its report on Kandi's 2010 consolidated financial statements, Kandi filed a Form 8-K. The Form 8-K included a letter from Kandi's Chairman stating, among other things, that the son of Kandi's Chairman was the owner of Kandi USA. After becoming aware of this disclosure, Respondents failed to take appropriate steps to address this new information. Specifically, they failed to determine whether the nature and effect of that information were such that it would have affected AWC's previously released audit report, including whether management's evasive responses regarding Kandi USA during the audit and the Chairman's suggestion to adjust the revenue from Kandi USA, among other things, were fraud risks factors,[34] or otherwise cast doubt on management's integrity and the reliability of the representations made during the Kandi 2010 Audit.[35]

ii. Audit of Kandi's 2011 Financial Statements

36. The Firm issued an audit report, dated March 30, 2012, expressing an unqualified opinion on Kandi's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011. The report was included in Kandi's Form 10-K, filed with the Commission on March 30, 2012. Albert Wong authorized the issuance of the report.

37. As the engagement partner for the audit of Kandi's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011 ("Kandi 2011 Audit"), Albert Wong was responsible for supervision of the engagement team. Albert Wong failed to evaluate whether the work of engagement team was properly performed and documented, the objectives of the procedures were achieved, and the results of the work supported the conclusions reached. For example, Albert Wong failed to address instances in which the engagement team did not document procedures performed, evidence obtained and conclusions reached during the Kandi 2011 audit.

38. In the financial statements filed with its Form 10-K, Kandi reported a notes receivable balance of $37.9 million as of December 31, 2011, of which $33.1 million was a note due from Yongkang HuiFeng Guarantee Co., Ltd. ("Huifeng"). In planning the Kandi 2011 Audit, Respondents identified the collectability of notes receivable as a key audit risk. Respondents also noted as a "major issue" that the Huifeng note receivable balance had increased significantly, and that in 2011, Kandi had received no payments on interest accrued in that year. Notwithstanding these identified risks, the engagement team failed to gain an appropriate understanding of the terms of the note, and to perform procedures, including sufficient tests of details, that were specifically responsive to the assessed risks.

39. Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to support the valuation and disclosure assertion for notes receivable, in part, because the engagement team did not evaluate Huifeng's financial condition or credit worthiness, or adequately address audit evidence it obtained that contradicted management representations regarding the rationale for, and collectability of, the Huifeng note receivable.[36] Among other things, Respondents and the engagement team failed to demonstrate an understanding of the existence of any collateral and whether the loan was subject to any covenants, and that the subsequent settlements of the note disclosed in the financial statements were sufficiently supported by appropriate audit evidence.

iii. Audit of Kandi's 2012 Financial Statements

40. The Firm issued an audit report, dated April 1, 2013, expressing an unqualified opinion on Kandi's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012. The report was included in Kandi's Form 10-K, filed with Commission on April 1, 2013. Albert Wong authorized the issuance of the audit report. As the engagement partner for the audit of Kandi's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012 ("Kandi 2012 Audit"), Albert Wong was responsible for the supervision of the engagement team.

41. During the Kandi 2012 Audit, as in previous years, Respondents identified related party transactions as a key audit risk. However, Respondents and the engagement team failed to address red flags regarding related party transactions and failed to place emphasis on testing material transactions with a related party.[37]

42. Eliteway Motorsports ("Eliteway"), which was a trade name for Kandi USA, was Kandi's fifth largest customer for 2012, and its sales represented more than 8% of Kandi's 2012 net revenues. Although Respondents had known since May 2011 that Kandi USA was a related party to Kandi, Albert Wong failed to properly inform the other Kandi 2012 Audit engagement team members of this fact so that they could identify, and place appropriate emphasis on, testing material transactions with parties known to be related to Kandi.[38]

43. During the Kandi 2012 Audit, the engagement team traced subsequent settlements of the Eliteway receivable to documents showing that Kandi USA had paid such amounts to Kandi, and that, in fact, Kandi USA was doing business as Eliteway. The engagement team also saw invoices issued to Kandi USA for transactions Kandi recorded as Eliteway's. Yet, there is no evidence in the Kandi 2012 Audit that the engagement team appropriately identified these transactions as being with a related party. Consequently, Respondents failed to identify that the Eliteway transactions, which were material, were not properly disclosed as related party transactions in the financial statements in Kandi's 2012 Form 10-K filing.[39]

iv. Respondents Violated Audit Documentation Requirements during the Kandi Audits

44. PCAOB standards require that the "auditor must document the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached with respect to relevant financial statement assertions. Audit documentation must clearly demonstrate that the work was in fact performed…. Audit documentation must contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement… [t]o determine who performed the work and the date such work was completed as well as the person who reviewed the work and the date of such review."[40]

45. Throughout the Kandi Audits, Respondents failed to comply with these documentation requirements. Albert Wong and Martin Wong repeatedly failed to document their review of the work of the engagement team members, in order to evaluate whether the teams' work was performed and documented, and to ensure that the engagement team complied with audit documentation requirements, including indicating who performed the work and the date such work was completed.[41] In addition to the audit documentation failures noted above, Respondents failed to document the required details of the discussion amongst engagement team members in planning the audit regarding the susceptibility of Kandi's financial statements to material misstatement due to fraud.[42]

[39] In the course of the audit of Kandi's December 31, 2013 financial statements, Albert and Martin Wong learned that Kandi USA was doing business as Eliteway Motorsports. In Kandi's Form 10-K filed with the Commission for the year ended December 31, 2013, the disclosures for the 2012 transactions with Eliteway were then corrected as being with a related party.

v. Albert Wong and the Firm Failed to Comply with Engagement Quality Review Requirements during the Kandi Audits

46. PCAOB standards require an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance for each audit engagement, and that the engagement quality reviewer perform the review with integrity, and maintain objectivity in performing the review.[43] To maintain objectivity, the engagement quality reviewer should not make decisions on behalf of the engagement team or assume any of the responsibilities of the engagement team.[44]

47. Throughout the Kandi Audits, Chung served as the engagement quality reviewer. Yet, because he was also concurrently responsible in those same audits for performing audit procedures on the deferred tax balances and related tax disclosures in Kandi's financial statements, his objectivity as engagement quality reviewer was impaired. As a result, AWC failed to obtain concurring approvals of issuance from an engagement quality reviewer who had maintained objectivity during the Kandi Audits.

48. Albert Wong, despite being aware of Chung's dual roles, took, or omitted to take, actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's engagement quality review violation by failing to determine that Chung's performance of these procedures impaired Chung's objectivity, in contravention of PCAOB Rule 3502.

E. Albert Wong and the Firm Failed to Comply with Auditor Independence Requirements in the Kandi 2012 Audit

49. PCAOB rules and standards require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period. That requirement includes an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB and all other independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[45]

determined appropriate by the Commission) to provide to an issuer, contemporaneously with the audit, certain non-audit services, including those involving management functions.[46]

51. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 states that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the prohibited non-audit services of Commission Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X provides an accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides certain non-audit services for audit clients, including performing any decision-making, supervisory, or ongoing monitoring function for the audit client, or performing services that place the accountant in a position of being an advocate for the audit client.[47]

52. The independence requirements in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X, including those prohibiting certain non-audit services, apply to a registered public accounting firm performing services in connection with an engagement for which independence is required, and include any accounting firm with which the certified public accountant or public accountant is affiliated.[48] As the auditor of Kandi's 2012 financial statements, the Firm and its associated persons and entities were required to be independent of Kandi during the audit and professional engagement period. During the 2012 audit and professional engagement period, AWC LLP was an affiliate and associated entity of AWC, and Chung and Mui were partners and associated persons of AWC LLP. Thus, Mui, and Chung, who also served as the engagement quality reviewer during the Kandi 2012 Audit, were required to be independent of Kandi.

53. During the audit and professional engagement period of the Kandi 2012 Audit, Chung obtained from Kandi a Power-of-Attorney naming Mui as Kandi's attorney-in-fact for the purpose of representing Kandi in all matters with a New York State regulatory agency. Mui accepted the Power-of-Attorney from Kandi and proceeded to represent Kandi before that agency, which resulted in a reduction of a penalty from Kandi's failure to comply with certain state laws. In the fall of 2012, Mui resolved the matter and executed an offer of settlement with that agency on Kandi's behalf. These activities, in violation of applicable independence rules, impaired the independence of AWC and its associated persons, including Albert Wong, of Kandi, because AWC LLP and its associated persons, including Mui and Chung, were not independent during the audit and professional engagement period of the Kandi 2012 Audit.

54. As the engagement partner, Albert Wong was responsible for AWC's compliance with independence requirements. Although Albert Wong knew at the time of the Kandi 2012 Audit that Mui had accepted a Power-of-Attorney from Kandi in order to handle the New York State agency matter, he failed to evaluate whether Mui's activities on Kandi's behalf constituted prohibited non-audit services that would impair Mui's independence, as well as AWC's and its associated persons. Albert Wong took, or omitted to take, actions during the Kandi 2012 Audit, that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of independence requirements, in contravention of PCAOB Rule 3502.

F. Albert Wong and the Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards Related to Quality Control

55. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards.[49] PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[50] PCAOB quality control standards state that policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that "personnel maintain independence … in all required circumstances" and "that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[51] Additionally, PCAOB quality control standards provide that policies and procedures "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control ... are suitably designed and are being effectively applied," and that "its system of quality control is effective."[52]

56. Throughout the relevant time period, the Firm failed to have in place procedures providing reasonable assurance that the work performed by the engagement personnel met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[53] As described above, Firm personnel failed to perform procedures necessary to comply with PCAOB standards and regulatory requirements on multiple instances during the course of the audits described herein, including that Firm personnel failed to comply with PCAOB audit documentation requirements.

57. The Firm failed to adopt and implement appropriate quality control policies and procedures governing the Firm's independence with respect to its issuer audit clients. For example, the Firm failed to maintain its independence in at least one audit.

58. The Firm also failed to establish and implement quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that engagement quality reviews were obtained by reviewers who were independent and maintained objectivity in performing the review.

59. Further, the Firm's system of quality control also failed to provide reasonable assurance that engagement personnel complied with PCAOB audit documentation requirements.

60. Overall, the Firm's monitoring procedures, taken as a whole, did not enable the Firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was effective. The Firm did not take appropriate steps to monitor whether its associated persons were, in fact, complying with policies and procedures related to engagement performance.

61. Albert Wong, as the Firm's sole-proprietor, had responsibility for the development, maintenance, communication, and monitoring of the Firm's quality control policies and procedures. In connection with that role, Albert Wong took, or omitted to take, actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of PCAOB quality control standards, in contravention of PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of AWC LLP, Mun Leung CHUNG, CPA, and Lam Shan MUI, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-017 May 18, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring AWC LLP (the "Firm"), suspending AWC LLP's registration for a period of one year from the date of the issuance of this Order; censuring Mun Leung Chung, CPA ("Chung"), barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, imposing a civil money penalty of $5,000;[1] and censuring Lam Shan Mui, CPA ("Mui") and for a period of one year, limiting his activities in connection with any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), by prohibiting him from serving in the role of an engagement partner and requiring that he complete ten (10) additional hours of continuing professional education in subjects directly related to ethics with a minimum of six (6) hours related to PCAOB and U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") auditor independence requirements. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that in connection with the audits of an issuer: (a) the Firm violated Section 10A(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and auditing standards; (b) Mui directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations; (c) Chung violated PCAOB rules and standards; and (d) the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards and Chung directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violation of those standards.

I.

pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against AWC LLP, Chung and Mui (collectively, "Respondents").

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions (the "Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[3] that:

2. Mun Leung CHUNG, also known as Clive Chung ("Chung"), 55, of New York, New York and the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China ("Hong Kong"), is a certified public accountant licensed by New York State Education Department (License No. 076306) and is a certified public accountant (practising) registered with the Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("HKICPA") (License No. A37788). Chung is, and at all relevant times was, the managing partner of AWC LLP and responsible for AWC LLP's system of quality control. Chung was the engagement quality reviewer for each of the Kandi Audits. Chung is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

3. Lam Shan MUI ("Mui"), 67, of New York, New York, is a certified public accountant licensed by New York State Education Department (License No. 072623). Mui is, and at all relevant times was, a partner of AWC LLP and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Respondents' failure to comply with Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB rules and standards that require a registered public accounting firm, its associated entities, and their associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period. Specifically, with respect to AWC's audit of Kandi's December 31, 2012 financial statements ("Kandi 2012 Audit"), Respondents were not independent during the audit and professional engagement period because Mui performed prohibited non-audit services on Kandi's behalf by accepting a Power-of-Attorney from Kandi and representing Kandi in a matter before a New York State regulatory agency.

6. In addition, Chung failed to comply with PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS No. 7"). By providing his concurring approval of the issuance of AWC's audit reports for the Kandi audits while acting as an active member of the engagement team, he failed to maintain objectivity. In the Kandi 2012 Audit, Chung was not independent of Kandi because his partner, Mui, performed prohibited non-audit services for Kandi. Chung also failed to comply with documentation requirements for audit services he performed in the Kandi Audits.

7. This matter also concerns AWC LLP's violations of PCAOB quality control standards. Specifically, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence and failed to establish monitoring procedures sufficient to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its policies and procedures were suitably designed and were being effectively applied.[8] Chung, as the managing partner and person responsible for

D. Respondents' Violations of PCAOB Rules and Standards, the Exchange Act, and Independence Standards

8. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[9] PCAOB rules and standards also require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[10] A registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws.[11]

9. Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act provides that it shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm (and any associated person of that firm, to the extent determined appropriate by the Commission) to provide to an issuer, contemporaneously with the audit, certain non-audit services, including those involving management functions.[12]

ORDER

10. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 states that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the prohibited non-audit services of Commission Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X provides an accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides certain non-audit services for audit clients, including performing any decision-making, supervisory, or ongoing monitoring function for the audit client, or performing services that place the accountant in a position of being an advocate for the audit client.[13]

11. The independence requirements in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X apply to a registered public accounting firm performing services in connection with an engagement for which independence is required, including its associated entities, and any accounting firm with which the certified public accountant or public accountant performing services is affiliated.[14]

12. PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards.[15]

13. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards, as well as applicable independence requirements, during the audit and professional engagement period of the Kandi 2012 Audit. In addition, Chung failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards during the Kandi Audits.

Independence Violations

14. During the audit and professional engagement period of the Kandi 2012 Audit, AWC LLP, as an affiliate and associated entity of AWC, was required to be independent of Kandi. AWC LLP's partners and associated persons were also required to be independent of Kandi.

15. During the audit and professional engagement period of the Kandi 2012 Audit, Chung obtained from Kandi a Power-of-Attorney naming Mui as Kandi's attorney-in-fact for the purpose of representing Kandi in all matters with a New York State regulatory agency. Mui accepted the Power-of-Attorney from Kandi and proceeded to represent Kandi before that agency, which resulted in a reduction of a penalty from Kandi's failure to comply with certain state laws. In the fall of 2012, Mui resolved the matter and executed an offer of settlement with that agency on Kandi's behalf.

16. Because of these actions, Mui was not independent of Kandi during the 2012 audit and professional engagement period. Furthermore, as a result of these actions, AWC LLP and Chung were not independent of Kandi during the 2012 audit and professional engagement period, in violation of PCAOB rules and standards, the Exchange Act, and Exchange Act rules.[16]

17. Mui took, or omitted to take, actions during the Kandi 2012 Audit, that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to AWC LLP's violations of PCAOB rules and standards, in contravention of PCAOB Rule 3502.

Chung Failed to Comply with Engagement Quality Review and Documentation Requirements during the Kandi Audits

18. AS No. 7, Engagement Quality Review, provides that an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance are required for each engagement, and the engagement quality reviewer must be independent of the company and perform the review with integrity, and maintain objectivity in performing the review.[17] To maintain objectivity, the engagement quality reviewer should not make decisions on behalf of the engagement team or assume any of the responsibilities of the engagement team.[18] In addition, the engagement quality reviewer must comply with PCAOB audit documentation requirements.[19]

19. Throughout the Kandi Audits, Chung served as the engagement quality reviewer. While serving in this role, Chung also was concurrently responsible in those same audits for performing audit procedures on the deferred tax balances and related tax disclosures in Kandi's financial statements which impaired his objectivity as the engagement quality reviewer in violation of AS No. 7.

20. In addition, as the engagement quality reviewer of the Kandi 2012 Audit, Chung knew that he and AWC LLP were required to be independent of Kandi. Yet, as previously described, Chung obtained the Power-of-Attorney from Kandi for Mui and failed to evaluate whether Mui's activities on Kandi's behalf constituted prohibited non-audit services that would impair the independence of AWC LLP and himself. Nevertheless, Chung provided concurring approval of issuance of AWC's audit report on the Kandi 2012 financial statements even though he and AWC LLP were not independent of Kandi during the audit and professional engagement period.

21. AS No. 7 states that documentation of an engagement quality review should contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the procedures performed by the engagement quality reviewer, the documents reviewed, and the date concurring approval of issuance was given.[20] While serving as the engagement quality reviewer during the Kandi Audits, Chung failed to document certain of the procedures he performed and, on numerous occasions, Chung reviewed the engagement team's documentation without evidencing his review in the audit documentation, in violation of AS No. 7.

22. In addition, when Chung was assuming certain responsibilities of the engagement team, he failed to comply with audit documentation requirements. Specifically, Chung failed to document audit procedures he performed on the deferred tax balances and related tax disclosures.[21]

E. Chung and the Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards Related to Quality Control

23. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards.[22] PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[23] PCAOB quality control standards state that policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that "personnel maintain independence in all required circumstances" and "that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[24] PCAOB quality control standards also provide that policies and procedures "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control … are suitably designed and are being effectively applied," and that "its system of quality control is effective."[25]

24. Throughout the relevant time period, AWC LLP failed to have policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that its personnel maintain independence. For example, AWC LLP's quality control policies and procedures failed to address prohibited non-audit services and made no reference whatsoever to Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X or the provisions therein. Further, AWC LLP policies and procedures failed to provide any guidance to its personnel with respect to independence requirements as an affiliate and associated entity of AWC.

25. AWC LLP also failed to establish monitoring procedures sufficient to enable it to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was effective.[26] Indeed, the Firm had no monitoring procedures at the time and relied on its partners to monitor whether its associated persons, including themselves, were complying with firm policies and procedures.

ORDER

26. Chung, as AWC LLP's managing partner, was responsible for the design, development, implementation, maintenance and monitoring of AWC LLP's quality control policies and procedures. Yet Chung took, or omitted to take, actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to AWC LLP's violation of PCAOB quality control standards, in contravention of PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), AWC LLP, Mun Leung CHUNG, CPA, and Lam Shan MUI, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of AWC LLP is suspended for a period of one (1) year;

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Mun Leung CHUNG, CPA, is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[27]

[27] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Mun Leung CHUNG. Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act provides that "[i]t shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

ORDER

D. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Mun Leung CHUNG, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000 is imposed upon Mun Leung CHUNG. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Mun Leung CHUNG shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (d) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (e) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Mun Leung CHUNG, as a Respondent in this proceeding, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release Number of this proceeding, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006;

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for a period of one (1) year from the date of the issuance of this Order, Lam Shan MUI, CPA's role in an "audit" as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act, shall be restricted as follows: MUI shall not serve as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in the Board's Auditing Standard No. 10, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; or (2) exercise authority either to sign a registered public accounting firm's name to an audit report, or to consent to the use of a previously issued audit report, for any issuer, broker or dealer; and

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Lam Shan MUI, CPA, is required to complete, within one (1) year from the date of the issuance of this Order, ten (10) hours of continuing professional education ("CPE") in subjects directly related to ethics with a minimum of six (6) hours related to PCAOB and Commission auditor independence requirements (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the CPE that he is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Michael F. Albanese, CPA and Michael F. Albanese, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-018 June 14, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Michael F. Albanese, CPA (the "Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 upon the Firm;[1] and censuring Michael F. Albanese ("Albanese") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Albanese (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with two audits of one issuer client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the facts contained in paragraphs 15 through 18 and the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

III.

On the basis of this Order and Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Michael F. Albanese, CPA is, and at all relevant times was, a proprietorship organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey, with an office in Parsippany, New Jersey. The Firm registered with the Board on August 3, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is licensed to practice public accountancy by the New Jersey Department of Business & Professional Regulation (License No. 20CB00418800). At all relevant times the Firm was the external auditor for the issuer identified below.

2. Michael F. Albanese, CPA, 62, of Parsippany, New Jersey, is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New Jersey (License No. 20CC01888000). At all relevant times, Albanese was the managing partner and sole owner of the Firm, and served as the engagement partner on the audit discussed below. Albanese is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the issuance of audit reports on the financial statements of ColorStars Group ("ColorStars") over a two year period. As detailed below, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence and exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in connection with the audits of the December 31, 2012 and December 31, 2013 financial statements of ColorStars (the "2012 audit" and "2013 audit"), respectively.

4. This matter also concerns the Firm's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"). In the Firm's audits of ColorStars' 2012 and 2013 year-end financial statements, the Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review of the audits even though an engagement quality review was required under AS 7.

5. Additionally, Albanese took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of AS 7.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

6. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[6] Those standards require among other things, that an auditor plan and perform the audit to obtain appropriate audit evidence that is sufficient to support the opinion expressed in the auditor's report.[7] PCAOB standards further require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in performing the audit.[8] In addition, PCAOB standards require the auditor's evaluation of audit results to include an evaluation of conditions identified during the audit that relate to the assessment of the risk of material misstatement due to fraud.[9]

7. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audits of ColorStars' 2012 and 2013 financial statements.

Audits of ColorStars' 2012 and 2013 Financial Statements

8. ColorStars Group ("ColorStars") is a Nevada corporation headquartered in Irvine, California. ColorStars' public filings disclose that, at all relevant times, it was in the light-emitting diode ("LED") lighting industry, and that its LED lighting application development activity ranged from lighting fixture design to special packaging methods designed for general lighting applications. At all relevant times, ColorStars' common stock was quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, ColorStars was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. Albanese, as engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of audit reports, dated March 25, 2013, and March 28, 2014, respectively, expressing an unqualified audit opinion on ColorStars' financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2012 and December 31, 2013. The audit reports were included in ColorStars' Forms 10-K filed with the Commission on April 1, 2013 and April 11, 2014, respectively.

10. For the audits of ColorStars' financial statements for 2012 and 2013, a Taiwanese subsidiary's revenue and assets constituted approximately 92 percent and 80 percent of ColorStars' consolidated revenue and assets in 2012, and 93 percent and 84 percent of ColorStars' consolidated revenue and assets in 2013.

11. Respondents failed to comply with applicable professional standards in connection with the ColorStars' audits. They failed to establish an audit strategy and to develop an audit plan.[10] In addition, they failed to identify and assess the risks of material misstatements. For example, Respondents failed to identify revenue recognition as a fraud risk.[11]

12. In its 2012 and 2013 financial statements, ColorStars reported net sales from a subsidiary located in Taiwan of approximately $2,512,000 and $1,575,000, respectively. These amounts represented 92% and 93% of the total net sales for ColorStars through the end of each of the respective years. Respondents failed to perform sufficient appropriate procedures over net sales of the Taiwanese subsidiary. Other than obtaining management representations, inspecting a limited number of sales invoices, recalculating net sales schedules and tracing the net sales to the consolidated trial balance, Respondents failed to perform any other procedures regarding net sales of the Taiwanese subsidiary during the 2012 and 2013 audits. As a result, Respondents failed to sufficiently test whether net sales transactions actually took place and were recorded during the proper period, and whether amounts included in the financial statements were appropriately valued.[12]

13. In its 2012 and 2013 financial statements, ColorStars reported inventory from its Taiwanese subsidiary of approximately $591,000 and $596,000, respectively. These asset balances represented 26% and 39% of the total assets for ColorStars at the end of each of the respective years. Respondents failed to perform sufficient appropriate procedures over inventory balances of the Taiwanese. Other than obtaining management representations, visiting ColorStars' inventory facilities in Taiwan during the 2012 audit, inspecting a limited number of inventory purchase invoices, recalculating inventory schedules and tracing the inventory balance to the consolidated trial balance, Respondents failed to perform any other procedures over the inventory of the Taiwanese subsidiary during the 2012 and 2013 audits. As a result, Respondents failed to sufficiently test whether inventory existed, was owned by ColorStars, and was appropriately valued.[13]

14. In its 2012 and 2013 financial statements, ColorStars reported cash and equivalents from its Taiwanese subsidiary of approximately $289,000 and $112,000, respectively. These asset balances represented 13% and 7% of the total assets for

ColorStars at the end of each of the respective years. Respondents failed to perform sufficient appropriate procedures over cash and cash equivalents balances of the Taiwanese subsidiary. Other than obtaining management representations, inspecting certain bank statements, recalculating cash and cash equivalent schedules and tracing the total cash balances from those schedules to the consolidated trial balance, Respondents failed to perform any other procedures related to cash and cash equivalents during the 2012 and 2013 audits. As a result, Respondents failed to sufficiently test whether cash and cash equivalents existed, were owned by ColorStars, and were appropriately valued.[14]

D. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards Relating to Engagement Quality Reviews

15. For audits of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[15] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance.[16] In connection with the audits of ColorStars' financial statements for 2012 and 2013, the Firm failed to comply with these requirements.

16. For each of these audit engagements, the Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its audit reports which were included in ColorStars' 2012 and 2013 Forms 10-K filings with the Commission, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance as required by AS 7. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

E. Albanese Contributed to the Firm's Violations of PCAOB Rules and Standards relating to Engagement Quality Reviews

17. PCAOB Rule 3502 prohibits an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."

18. Albanese, the sole owner of the Firm, was the engagement partner for the audits conducted by the Firm and was responsible for them. Accordingly, he had overall responsibility for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. Albanese knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of AS 7, described above. As a result, Albanese violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Michael F. Albanese, CPA, and Michael F. Albanese are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Michael F. Albanese is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[17]

C. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Michael F. Albanese may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Michael F. Albanese, CPA is revoked;

[17] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Albanese. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

E. After two (2) years from the date of the Order, Michael F. Albanese, CPA may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101; and

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed upon Michael F. Albanese, CPA. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Michael F. Albanese, CPA shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Michael F. Albanese, CPA as a Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Donahue Associates LLC and Brian D. Donahue, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-020 June 14, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Donahue Associates LLC ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, revoking the Firm's registration and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000 upon the Firm;[1] and censuring Brian D. Donahue, CPA ("Donahue"), and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Donahue (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with audits of three issuer clients and Section 10A(b)(2) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") in connection with the Firm's audit of one issuer client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

[2] Donahue may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the facts contained in paragraphs 9 through 17 below and the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Donahue Associates LLC is, and at all relevant times was, a limited liability corporation organized under the laws of New Jersey, and headquartered in Monmouth Beach, New Jersey. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is licensed to practice public accountancy in New Jersey (Lic. No. 20CB00407600). At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

2. Brian D. Donahue, CPA, age 58, is, and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the State of New Jersey (Lic. No. 20CC01355000). At all relevant times, Donahue was the sole partner and President of the Firm. Donahue is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to three issuer audit clients, by failing to obtain an engagement quality review of each audit, even though it was required, and despite being on notice from PCAOB inspectors.

4. Additionally, in connection with the Firm's audit report for one of the above audits, the Firm failed to take the steps required by Section 10A(b)(2) of the Exchange Act after becoming aware that an apparent illegal act had occurred.

5. With respect to each of the three audits in which the Firm failed to have an engagement quality review and with respect to the discovery of an illegal act, Donahue took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of AS 7 and Exchange Act Section 10A(b)(2) in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502.

C. Respondents Violated Section 10A(b)(2) of the Exchange Act and PCAOB Rules and Standards

6. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5]

The Firm Failed to Obtain Engagement Quality Reviews

7. For audits of financial statements for fiscal years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits, interim reviews, and certain attestation engagements conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[6] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance of the report.[7]

ORDER

8. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the [Securities and Exchange] Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[8]

9. As described below, the Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review for each of the audits described below even though an engagement quality review was required to be performed and Donahue directly and substantially contributed to those violations.

The Firm Failed to Obtain Engagement Quality Reviews Even After the PCAOB's Inspection Staff Put the Firm on Notice of the Standard

10. In connection with an October 2012 inspection of the Firm, the PCAOB's Inspections staff reminded the Firm that it needed to comply with AS 7 for all audits and interim reviews performed by the Firm for fiscal years beginning on or after December 15, 2009. Despite being on notice, the Firm failed to comply with AS 7 regarding the performance of engagement quality reviews in connection with the audits described below.

Audit of Universal Resources' FY 2013

11. At all relevant times, Universal Resources (f/k/a Global Immune Technologies, Inc.) ("Universal") was a Wyoming corporation headquartered in Burlington, Vermont. Universal's public filings disclosed that it was a development stage company that intended to be a holding company of an American-based food distribution company serving direct delivery to customers in their homes. At all relevant times, Universal was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

12. The Firm was engaged as Universal's external auditor for fiscal year ended March 31, 2013. On June 19, 2013, Universal filed a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended March 31, 2013 with the Commission. The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its audit report dated June 11, 2013, which was included in Universal's

Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[9]

Audit of CryoStem's FY 2013

13. At all relevant times, American CryoStem Corporation ("CryoStem") was a Nevada corporation headquartered in Eatontown, New Jersey. CryoStem's public filings disclosed that it was a developer, marketer, and global licensor of patented adipose (fat) tissue-based cellular technologies, bio-materials, and related proprietary services, with a focus on clinical processing, commercial bio-banking, and application development for adipose tissue and adipose-derived stem cells. At all relevant times, CryoStem was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

14. The Firm was engaged as CryoStem's external auditor for fiscal year ended September 30, 2013. On January 14, 2014, CryoStem filed with the Commission a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended September 30, 2013. The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its audit report dated December 10, 2013, which was included in CryoStem's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[10]

Audit of The Everest Fund, L.P.'s FY 2014

15. At all relevant times, The Everest Fund, L.P. ("Everest") was an Iowa limited partnership headquartered in Fairfield, Iowa. Everest's public filings disclose that it is in the business of speculative trading of commodity futures, options, and forward contracts. According to Everest's disclosures, the company's units of limited partnership interest are registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act, and trade on recognized global futures exchanges and over the counter contracts, in the form of forward foreign currency transactions. At all relevant times, Everest was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

16. The Firm was engaged as Everest's external auditor for fiscal year ended December 31, 2014. On March 30, 2015, Everest filed with the Commission a Form 10-K for fiscal year ended December 31, 2014. The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its audit report dated March 16, 2015, which was included in Everest's Form 10-K filing, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.[11]

Donahue Contributed to the Firm's Violations of AS 7

17. Donahue, the sole partner and President of the Firm, was solely responsible for the audits conducted by the Firm. Accordingly, Donahue had overall responsibility for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. Donahue knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7, described above. As a result, he violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

Respondents Failed to Comply with Exchange Act Section 10A(b)(2)

18. When conducting an audit of issuer financial statements required pursuant to the Exchange Act, registered firms must comply with the requirements of Section 10A of the Exchange Act. Section 10A(b) requires a firm to take certain defined actions if, in the course of an audit, the auditor detects or otherwise becomes aware of information indicating that an illegal act has occurred.[12]

19. Unless the illegal act is clearly inconsequential, Section 10A(b)(1) requires that the firm inform the appropriate level of management about the illegal act and assure itself that the issuer's audit committee, or board of directors in the absence of an audit committee, is adequately informed with respect to the illegal act.

20. In addition, under Section 10A(b)(1), if a firm concludes that it is likely that an illegal act occurred, the firm must consider the effect of the illegal act on the issuer's financial statements.[13] If the auditor concludes that the illegal act has a material effect on the financial statements, that senior management has not taken (and the board of directors has not caused them to take) timely and appropriate remedial actions, and that the absence of remedial action is reasonably expected to warrant departure from a standard report of the firm, when made, or warrant resignation from the engagement, then Section 10A(b)(2) requires the firm to report those conclusions to the board of directors as soon as practicable. If the board of directors fails to take certain required actions in response to such a report, Section 10A(b)(3) requires the firm to resign from the engagement or report its Section 10A(b)(2) conclusions to the Commission.[14]

21. In August 2013, Respondents discovered that incorrect financial statements understating Universal's net loss and assets had accompanied its Universal audit report dated June 11, 2013. Respondents became aware at the time of the discovery that Universal had or may have violated federal securities laws and regulations, in particular, the requirement that periodic reports contain all information necessary to ensure that statements made in such reports are not materially misleading.[15]

22. Respondents knew that the apparently illegal act had a material effect on Universal's financial statements, and requested that the issuer file corrected financial statements. The Firm contacted Universal's management and counsel, but when the financial statements were not promptly re-filed after discussions with management and issuer counsel, Respondents failed to directly report its conclusions to the board of directors and failed to resign from the engagement or report its Section 10A(b)(2) conclusions to the Commission.

23. On January 1, 2014, the Firm was terminated by Universal as its external auditor. On January 6, 2014, Universal filed a Form 8-K with the Commission indicating that it had changed auditors. Respondents submitted a letter to Commission staff accompanying Universal's Form 8-K filing stating that it agreed with Universal's contention that were no disagreements between it and the Firm and that there were no reportable events. At the time the letter was submitted, Respondents failed to ascertain whether corrected financial statements had been re-filed by Universal, and failed to evaluate whether Universal's failure to re-file corrected financial statements constituted a disagreement or a reportable event under Item 304 of Commission Regulation S-K.

24. On March 17, 2014, Universal filed a Form 8-K stating that there were accounting errors in its financial statements from fiscal year ended March 31, 2013, as well as its first, second, and third quarters of fiscal year ended March 31, 2013, and its first and second quarters of fiscal year ended March 31, 2014. The Form 8-K stated that

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Donahue Associates LLC, and Brian D. Donahue, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Brian D. Donahue, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[16]

C. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, Brian D. Donahue, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-022
In the Matter of Li and Company, P.C.,	June 14, 2016
Respondent.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring the registered public accounting firm Li and Company, P.C. (hereinafter, "Respondent" or "the Firm") and revoking the Firm's registration. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's noncooperation with a Board investigation, by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand ("ABD") requiring the Firm to produce certain documents and information.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(3) against the Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Respondent admits the facts, findings, and violations set forth below, and consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer, and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer in this matter, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondent

1. Li and Company, P.C. is, and at all relevant times was, a professional corporation organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey, and headquartered in Skillman, New Jersey. The Firm is licensed to practice public accountancy by the New Jersey State Board of Public Accountancy (License no. 20CB00354300), by the Connecticut State Board of Public Accountancy (License no. CPAP.0005196), and by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy (License no. C09120). The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for the issuers identified below.

B. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with a PCAOB Investigation.

2. Pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB Rules, the Board conducts investigations into acts or practices of registered public accounting firms and their associated persons that may violate any provision of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction a registered public accounting firm for refusing to cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation. Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[3] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes failing to comply with an ABD.[4]

3. As described below, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation by failing to comply with an ABD issued to Respondent pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5103, requiring the Firm to produce certain documents and information.

[2] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order are imposed pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3), and PCAOB Rule 5300(b).

[3] See PCAOB Rules 5110 and 5200(a)(3).

[4] See PCAOB Rule 5110(a)(1).

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Background

4. Respondent audited the financial statements of Issuers A, B, and C (collectively, the "Issuers"). At all relevant times, the Issuers were each an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

5. In December 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation ("OFI") regarding Respondent's audits and reviews of the financial statements of the Issuers.

Respondent's Failure to Produce Documents and Information

6. Subsequent to the issuance of the Board's OFI, the Board's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") sent Respondent an ABD requiring it to produce certain information concerning, among other things, the Firm's complete and final set of audit documentation of the Issuers.

7. On December 18, 2015, the Division issued a second ABD to the Firm based, in part, on information it obtained in conjunction with sworn testimony given to the Division by an associated person of the Firm in early November 2015. This ABD required the Firm, among other things, to identify the circumstances surrounding the documentation of the Firm's Issuer audits.

8. In early January 2016, Respondent, through counsel, informed the Division that the Firm would not comply with the December 18, 2015 ABD or otherwise cooperate with the Division's ongoing investigation.

9. In response, the Division notified Respondent, through counsel, that refusal to comply with the December 18, 2015 ABD was not valid and that, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5110, the Division intended to recommend a disciplinary proceeding in the event it continued to refuse to comply. Respondent continued to assert, however, that the Firm would not comply with the December 18, 2015 ABD or otherwise cooperate with the Division's ongoing investigation.

10. Respondent's failure to provide the required documents and information impeded the Board's ability to determine if Respondent's audit work was performed in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards, and whether violations occurred which justified sanctions.

11. As a result of the foregoing conduct, Respondent failed to cooperate with a Board investigation.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Li and Company, P.C., is hereby censured; and

B. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), the registration of Li and Company, P.C., is revoked.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-025
In the Matter of Chunmin Liu, CPA,	June 14, 2016
Respondent.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Chunmin Liu, CPA, also known as Laura Liu ("Respondent"), and barring her from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's noncooperation with a Board investigation, by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand ("ABD") which required her to appear for sworn testimony and produce documents and information.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(3) against the Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Respondent admits the facts, findings, and violations set forth below, and consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

[1] Respondent may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after five (5) years from the date of this Order.

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer, and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer in this matter, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. Chunmin Liu, CPA, also known as Laura Liu ("Respondent"), age 47, is, and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Utah (License no. 7176707-2601). At all relevant times, Respondent was a non-equity partner with the registered public accounting firm of Li and Company, P.C. ("LICO"), a professional corporation headquartered in Skillman, New Jersey. Respondent was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with a PCAOB Investigation.

2. Pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB Rules, the Board conducts investigations into acts or practices of registered public accounting firms and their associated persons that may violate any provision of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for refusing to testify, produce documents, or otherwise cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation. Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[4] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes failing to comply with an ABD.[5]

3. As described below, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation by failing to comply with an ABD issued to Respondent pursuant to PCAOB Rules 5102(b) and 5103, which, among other things, required her to appear for sworn testimony and provide certain documents and information.

---

[3] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order are imposed pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3), and PCAOB Rule 5300(b).

[4] See PCAOB Rules 5110 and 5200(a)(3).

[5] See PCAOB Rule 5110(a)(1).

ORDER

Background

4. LICO audited the financial statements of Issuers A, B, and C (collectively, the "Issuers"). At all relevant times, the Issuers were each an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

5. Respondent served as the manager on LICO's audits and reviews of the financial statements of Issuer A for fiscal years ending December 31, 2012 and 2013.

6. In December 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation regarding LICO's audits and reviews of the financial statements of the Issuers.

Respondent's Failure to Produce Documents and Information and to Appear for Testimony

7. Pursuant to the Board's OFI, on February 2, 2016, the Board's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") issued an ABD requiring Respondent to produce certain documents and information and to appear for sworn testimony before the Division. The ABD further required Respondent, among other things, to identify the circumstances surrounding the documentation of the Firm's Issuer audits.

8. The Division anticipated taking testimony from the Respondent concerning, among other things, her role in the Firm's audits of Issuer A's financial statements.

9. In late February 2016, Respondent, through counsel, informed the Division in writing that, like LICO and its two principals who also received related ABDs on the same date, she would not comply with the ABD issued to her. Shortly thereafter, on March 15, 2016, Respondent resigned from LICO.

10. Respondent's failures to provide the required testimony and documents impeded the Board's ability to determine if Respondent's audit work was performed in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards, and whether violations occurred which justified sanctions.

11. As a result of the foregoing conduct, Respondent failed to cooperate with a Board investigation.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Chunmin Liu is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Chunmin Liu is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[6] and

C. After five (5) years from the date of this Order, Chunmin Liu may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Maillie LLP and Laurie Harvey, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-021 June 14, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Maillie LLP ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 upon the Firm, and requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with the Board's engagement quality review requirements; and censuring Laurie Harvey, CPA ("Harvey"). The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Harvey (collectively "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audits of two issuer audit clients.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order").[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:

A. Respondents

1. Maillie LLP is, and at all relevant times was, an accounting firm organized under Pennsylvania law, and headquartered in Mont Clare, Pennsylvania. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and is licensed by the Pennsylvania State Board of Accountancy (license no. AF000423L). At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for the issuers identified below.

2. Laurie Harvey, CPA, age 52, is, and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the Pennsylvania State Board of Accountancy (license no. CA033148L). At all relevant times, Harvey was the head of the assurance practice at the Firm. Harvey is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to two issuer audit clients. In the case of the Firm's audits of the issuers' 2012 and 2013 year-end financial statements, the Firm failed to have an engagement quality review performed by a partner or another individual in an equivalent position.

4. This matter also concerns Harvey's direct and substantial contribution to the Firm's violation of PCAOB rules and standards concerning the requirement for engagement quality reviews. With respect to the Firm's audits of two issuer clients, Harvey took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that her acts or omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

ORDER

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Auditing Standards

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[2]

6. For audits of financial statements for fiscal years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[3] AS 7 also provides that an engagement quality reviewer from the firm that issues the engagement report must be a partner or another individual in an equivalent position.[4]

7. In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the [Securities and Exchange] Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[5]

8. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards.

Audit of Teleflex's Financial Statements

9. At all relevant times, Teleflex 401(k) Plan ("Teleflex") was a Delaware corporation headquartered in Wayne, Pennsylvania. The company's public filings disclose that it is a defined contribution plan. At all relevant times, Teleflex was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

ORDER

10. The Firm was engaged as Teleflex's external auditor in 2012 and 2013. The Firm was engaged to audit the financial statements of Teleflex for the year ended December 31, 2012. The Firm issued an audit report, dated June 26, 2013, which was included in Teleflex's Form 11-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") on June 28, 2013.

11. The Firm issued its audit report after obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance from another individual at the Firm. That individual who performed the engagement quality review was a manager and was not a partner or another individual in an equivalent position. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

12. The Firm was also engaged to audit the financial statements of Teleflex for the year ended December 31, 2013. The Firm issued an audit report, dated June 23, 2014, which was included in Teleflex's Form 11-K filed with the Commission on June 27, 2014.

13. The Firm issued its audit report after obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance from another individual at the Firm. That individual who performed the engagement quality review was a manager and was not a partner or another individual in an equivalent position. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

Audit of Penn Virginia's Financial Statements

14. At all relevant times, Penn Virginia Corporation and Affiliated Companies Employees' 401(k) Plan ("Penn Virginia") was a Virginia corporation headquartered in Radnor, Pennsylvania. The company's public filings disclose that it is a defined contribution plan. At all relevant times, Penn Virginia was an "issuer" as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

15. The Firm was engaged as Penn Virginia's external auditor in 2012 and 2013. The Firm was engaged to audit the financial statements of Penn Virginia for the year ended December 31, 2012. The Firm issued an audit report, dated June 24, 2013, which was included in Penn Virginia's Form 11-K filed with the Commission on June 26, 2013.

16. The Firm issued its audit report after obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance from another individual at the Firm. That individual who performed the engagement quality review was a manager and was not a partner or another individual in an equivalent position. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

ORDER

17. The Firm was also engaged to audit the financial statements of Penn Virginia for the year ended December 31, 2013. The Firm issued an audit report, dated June 26, 2014, which was included in Penn Virginia's Form 11-K filed with the Commission on June 30, 2014.

18. The Firm issued its audit report after obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance from another individual at the Firm. That individual who performed the engagement quality review was a manager and was not a partner or another individual in an equivalent position. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

Harvey Contributed to the Firm's Violations of PCAOB Rules and Standards

19. Harvey served as the head of the assurance practice at the Firm. She determined who served as the engagement quality reviewers on the 2012 and 2013 audits of Teleflex and Penn Virginia.

20. Harvey knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that she was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations when she improperly allowed individuals at the Firm who were not partners or in equivalent positions to perform the engagement quality reviews. As a result, Harvey violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondents' Offers.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Maillie LLP and Laurie Harvey, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon Maillie LLP. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Maillie LLP shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified

c. before the commencement of any audit services, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such audit services; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-024
In the Matter of Gary L. Singer, CPA,	June 14, 2016
Respondent.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Gary L. Singer, CPA ("Respondent") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's noncooperation with a Board investigation, by failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand ("ABD") which required him to appear for sworn testimony and produce certain documents and information.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(3) against the Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Respondent admits the facts, findings, and violations set forth below, and consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer, and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer in this matter, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondent

1. Gary L. Singer, CPA, age 61, of Hawthorne, New Jersey, is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (License no. 045987). At all relevant times, Respondent was a partner and fifty-percent (50%) owner of the registered public accounting firm of Li and Company, P.C. ("LICO"), a professional corporation headquartered in Skillman, New Jersey, and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with a PCAOB Investigation.

2. Pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB Rules, the Board conducts investigations into acts or practices of registered public accounting firms and their associated persons that may violate any provision of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for refusing to testify, produce documents, or otherwise cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation. Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[3] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes failing to comply with an ABD.[4]

3. As described below, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation by failing to comply with an ABD issued to Respondent pursuant to PCAOB Rules 5102(b) and 5103 that required him to appear for sworn testimony and produce certain documents and information.

---

[2] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order are imposed pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3), and PCAOB Rule 5300(b).

[3] See PCAOB Rules 5110 and 5200(a)(3).

[4] See PCAOB Rule 5110(a)(1).

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Background

4. LICO audited the financial statements of Issuers A, B, and C (collectively, the "Issuers"). At all relevant times, the Issuers were each an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

5. Respondent served as the engagement partner on LICO's audits and reviews of the financial statements of Issuer B for fiscal year ending December 31, 2013, and Issuer C for fiscal year ending June 30, 2013, and as the engagement quality reviewer on Issuer A's financial statements for fiscal years ending December 31, 2012 and 2013.

6. In December 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation ("OFI") regarding LICO's audits and reviews of the financial statements of the Issuers.

Respondent's Failure to Produce Documents and Information and to Appear for Testimony

7. Pursuant to the Board's OFI, on February 2, 2016, the Board's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") issued an ABD requiring Respondent to produce certain original documents and information and to appear for sworn testimony before the Division. The ABD further required Respondent, among other things, to identify the circumstances surrounding the documentation of the Firm's Issuer audits.

8. The Division anticipated taking testimony from the Respondent concerning, among other things, his role in the Firm's audits of the Issuers' financial statements.

9. In late February 2016, Respondent, through counsel, informed the Division that he would not comply with the ABD issued to him.

10. Respondent's failures to provide the required testimony and documents impeded the Board's ability to determine if Respondent's audit work was performed in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards, and whether violations occurred which justified sanctions.

11. As a result of the foregoing conduct, Respondent failed to cooperate with a Board investigation.

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Gary L. Singer is hereby censured; and

B. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Gary L. Singer is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[5]

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Jerry L Stanford, CPA and Jerry L. Stanford, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-019 June 14, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Jerry L Stanford, CPA (the "Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration;[1] and censuring Jerry L. Stanford, CPA ("Stanford") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Stanford (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit of an issuer client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party,

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Stanford may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

ORDER

and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the facts contained in paragraphs 13 and 14 and the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Jerry L Stanford, CPA is, and at all relevant times was, a sole proprietorship organized under the laws of Florida, with an office in Maitland, Florida. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. At all relevant times the Firm was the external auditor for the issuer identified below.

2. Jerry L. Stanford, CPA, 74, of Maitland, Florida, is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Florida (License No. AC0002414). At all relevant times, Stanford was the managing partner and sole owner of the Firm, and served as the engagement partner on the audit discussed below. Stanford is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the issuance of an audit report on the financial statements

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

of BridgeWell Income Trust Inc. ("BridgeWell"). As detailed below, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence and exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in connection with the audit of the financial statements of BridgeWell for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2012 and for the nine-month interim period ending September 30, 2013 ("the audit"). The Firm also failed to comply with Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7"), with respect to the audit by failing to obtain an engagement quality review even though it was required.

4. Additionally, Stanford took or omitted to take actions knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and standards concerning the requirement for engagement quality reviews.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[6] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in the performance of the audit and preparation of the report.[7] PCAOB standards also require that an auditor plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for his or her opinion.[8] If the auditor is unable to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to have a reasonable basis to conclude about whether the financial statements as a whole are free of material misstatement, the auditor should express a qualified opinion or a disclaimer of opinion.[9]

[5] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards; PCAOB Rule 3200T, Interim Auditing Standards.

[6] See AU § 508.07, Reports on Audited Financial Statements.

[7] See AU § 150, Generally Accepted Auditing Standards; AU § 230, Due Professional Care in the Performance of Work.

[8] See Auditing Standard No. 15, Audit Evidence ("AS 15").

[9] See Auditing Standard No. 14 ("AS 14"), Evaluating Audit Results, ¶ 35 ("AS 14").

ORDER

6. For audits and interim reviews of financial statements for fiscal years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits, interim reviews, and certain attestation engagements conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[10] AS 7 also provides that a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance of the report.[11]

7. PCAOB Rule 3502 prohibits an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from "tak[ing] or omit[ting] to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."

8. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audit of BridgeWell's financial statements.

Audit of BridgeWell's Financial Statements

9. BridgeWell is a Florida corporation located in Orlando, Florida. BridgeWell's public filings disclose that, at all relevant times, it was intending to invest exclusively in whole mortgage notes on both commercial and residential real estate to hold for sale or until maturity. BridgeWell filed its Securities Act registration statement, Form S-11, on December 19, 2012, and subsequently filed a Form S-11/A on October 25, 2013. At all relevant times, it was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

10. Stanford, as engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report, dated October 16, 2013, expressing an unqualified audit opinion on BridgeWell's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012 and for the nine-month interim period ending September 30, 2013. The audit report was included in BridgeWell's Form S-11/A filed with the Commission on October 25, 2013.

11. In connection with the audit of BridgeWell's financial statements, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and [11] See AS 7, ¶ 13.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

failed to plan and perform the audit in accordance with PCAOB standards. Specifically, Respondents failed to establish an overall audit strategy for the engagement or to develop an audit plan.[12] Additionally, Respondents failed to perform any risk assessment procedures to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement, and to design and implement overall responses to address the assessed risks of material misstatement.[13]

12. Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning significant balances and transactions in BridgeWell's financial statements.[14] Other than obtaining representations from management and certain supporting schedules, Stanford and the Firm failed to perform any audit procedures relating to BridgeWell's reported assets, liabilities, stockholders' equity and expenses.

13. The Firm also failed to obtain an engagement quality review for the audit even though it was required to be performed. The Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its audit report, which was included in BridgeWell's Form S-11/A filed with the Commission, without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance as required by AS 7. As a result, the Firm violated AS 7.

14. Stanford, the sole owner of the Firm, was the engagement partner for the audit conducted by the Firm and was responsible for that audit. Accordingly, he had overall responsibility for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. Stanford knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that when he caused the Firm to grant permission to BridgeWell to use the audit report without the Firm having obtained the required engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance, he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7. As a result, Stanford violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-023
In the Matter of Tony Zhicong Li, CPA,	June 14, 2016
Respondent.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Tony Zhicong Li, CPA ("Respondent") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings concerning Respondent's noncooperation with a Board investigation, by failing to comply with Accounting Board Demands ("ABDs") which required him to appear for sworn testimony and produce certain documents and information.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 ("Act") and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(3) against the Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Respondent admits the facts, findings, and violations set forth below, and consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer, and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer in this matter, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondent

1. Tony Zhicong Li, CPA, age 53, is and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New Jersey (license no. 20CC02774700). At all relevant times, Respondent was president, a partner, and fifty-percent (50%) owner of the registered public accounting firm of Li and Company, P.C. ("LICO"), a professional corporation headquartered in Skillman, New Jersey, and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with a PCAOB Investigation.

2. Pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB Rules, the Board conducts investigations into acts or practices of registered public accounting firms and their associated persons that may violate any provision of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for refusing to testify, produce documents, or otherwise cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation. Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[3] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes failing to comply with an ABD.[4]

3. As described below, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation by failing to comply with ABDs issued to Respondent pursuant to PCAOB Rules 5102(b) and 5103 that required him to appear for sworn testimony and produce certain documents and information.

---

[2] The sanctions that the Board is imposing on Respondent in this Order are imposed pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3), and PCAOB Rule 5300(b).

[3] See PCAOB Rules 5110 and 5200(a)(3).

ORDER

Background

4. LICO audited the financial statements of Issuers A, B, and C (collectively, the "Issuers"). At all relevant times, the Issuers were each an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

5. Respondent served as the engagement partner on LICO's audits and reviews of Issuer A's financial statements for fiscal years ending December 31, 2012 and 2013, and as the engagement quality reviewer for the Firm's audits and reviews of the financial statements of Issuer B for fiscal year ending December 31, 2013, and Issuer C for fiscal year ending June 30, 2013.

6. In December 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation ("OFI") regarding LICO's audits and reviews of the financial statements of the Issuers.

Respondent's Failure to Appear for Testimony and to Produce Documents and Information

7. Pursuant to the Board's OFI, on July 10, 2015, the Board's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") sent Respondent an ABD requiring him to, among other things, appear for sworn testimony before the Division on August 19, 2015.

8. The Division anticipated taking testimony from the Respondent concerning, among other things, his role in the Firm's audits of the Issuers' financial statements.

9. After several delays, Respondent appeared before the Division on November 11, 2015, and completed the first of three scheduled days of sworn testimony. At the conclusion of the first day of testimony, Respondent's counsel informed the Division that Respondent would not be appearing for the remaining two days of his scheduled testimony.

10. On November 12, 2015, the Division sent Respondent, through counsel, a letter informing him that he had an obligation to cooperate with the Board investigation and, unless Respondent resumed his testimony, the Division intended to recommend a disciplinary proceeding against him for noncooperation with an investigation.

11. In December 2015, Respondent agreed to resume his sworn testimony before the Division in February 2016. However, on January 28, 2016, Respondent, through counsel, informed the Division that he would not appear to resume his testimony.

ORDER

12. On January 29, 2016, the Division sent Respondent's counsel a letter informing him that Respondent's refusal to appear for testimony constituted noncooperation with a Board investigation and the Division intended to recommend a disciplinary proceeding against him for noncooperation with an investigation.

13. On February 2, 2016, the Division issued a second ABD to Respondent that, among other things, required him to identify the circumstances surrounding the documentation of the Firm's Issuer audits. In late February 2016, Respondent, through counsel, informed the Division that he would not produce the information or comply with the February 2, 2016 ABD.

14. Respondent's failures to provide the required testimony and documents impeded the Board's ability to determine if Respondent's audit work was performed in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards, and whether violations occurred which justified sanctions.

15. As a result of the foregoing conduct, Respondent failed to cooperate with a Board investigation.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Tony Zhicong Li is hereby censured; and

B. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b)(1), Tony Zhicong Li is barred from being an associated person of

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Chun Cho Kwok, CPA, and KCC & Associates (a/k/a Chun C. Kwok, a/k/a Kwok & Company), Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-026 June 30, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring KCC & Associates (a/k/a Chun C. Kwok, a/k/a Kwok & Company, hereinafter "KCC" or the "Firm"), and revoking the Firm's registration;[1] and censuring Chun Cho Kwok ("Kwok") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Kwok (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with two audits of one issuer client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[4] that:

A. Respondents

1. KCC & Associates (a/k/a Chun C. Kwok, a/k/a Kwok & Company) is, and at all relevant times was, a sole proprietorship under the laws of the state of California and located in Los Angeles, California. KCC operates pursuant to Fictitious Name Permits issued to Kwok (FNP no. 2714 and FNP no. 2585). KCC is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. At all relevant times KCC was the external auditor for the issuer identified below.

2. Chun Cho Kwok, 54, of Los Angeles, California is a certified public accountant licensed by the California Board of Accountancy (License No. 115816). At all relevant times, Kwok was the sole proprietor of KCC and served as the engagement partner on the audits discussed below. Kwok is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the issuance of audit reports on the financial statements of San Lotus Holding, Inc. ("San Lotus") for the years ended December 31, 2013 and 2014. As detailed below, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence, in connection with the audit of the December 31, 2013 financial statements of San Lotus ("2013 audit"), and the audit of the December 31, 2013 (restated) and December 31, 2014 financial statements of San Lotus ("2014 audit").

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

4. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[6] Those standards require among other things, that an auditor plan and perform the audit to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[7] PCAOB standards further require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in performing the audit.[8]

5. PCAOB standards require that the audit report state whether the financial statements are presented in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP").[9] "Generally accepted accounting principles recognize the importance of reporting transactions and events in accordance with their substance. The auditor should consider whether the substance of transactions or events differs materially from their form."[10]

6. In the case of significant transactions that are outside the normal course of business for the entity, or that otherwise appear to be unusual given the auditor's understanding of the entity and its environment, PCAOB standards require the auditor to gain an understanding of the business rationale for such transactions and whether that rationale (or the lack thereof) suggests that the transactions may have been entered into to engage in fraudulent financial reporting or conceal misappropriation of assets.[11] In addition, where a risk of fraud is identified, the auditor is required by PCAOB standards to "perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that are specifically responsive to the assessed fraud risks."[12]

7. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the 2013 and 2014 audits of San Lotus.

Audit of San Lotus's 2013 Financial Statements

8. Kwok, as engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report, dated March 21, 2014, expressing an unqualified audit opinion on San Lotus's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013. The report was included in San Lotus's Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on April 7, 2014.

9. San Lotus reported in its 2013 Form 10-K that it had entered into three transactions to acquire land in Taiwan during 2013. As disclosed in the Forms 8-K and 8-K/A announcing each of the transactions, the sellers included San Lotus directors and officers, and/or business entities in which San Lotus shareholders held an ownership interest. San Lotus issued shares to the land sellers to pay for the transactions.[13]

10. In the first transaction, San Lotus acquired a land holding company, Da Ren International Development Inc. Da Ren's primary asset was a "qualified ownership" interest in land.[14] After acquiring Da Ren in September 2013, San Lotus recorded that land on its year-end 2013 balance sheet as a fixed asset with a value of more than $3.1 million. San Lotus's valuation of the land was based on a third-party appraisal conducted as of April 29, 2013.

11. In two other transactions, San Lotus agreed to purchase land in Xinpi Township and Miaoli County. Although San Lotus issued shares to the sellers in 2013 as consideration for the land, San Lotus disclosed that title for the underlying land parcels did not transfer to San Lotus in 2013. On its year-end 2013 financial statements, San Lotus recorded prepaid assets of $8.6 million as a result of the Xinpi and Miaoli land transactions, based on appraised values of $1.8 million for the land in Xinpi and $6.8 million for the land in Miaoli.

12. The assets recorded from the three land transactions ($11.7 million) represented 94% of total assets at year-end 2013. The appraisals on which the valuations of those assets were based—described in paragraphs 10 and 11 above—contained language indicating that they were only to be used as a reference for certain Taiwanese urban renewal-related purposes and could not be used as a reference for other appraisal purposes.

13. When planning the 2013 audit, Respondents identified the land transactions as significant, equity-based transactions, outside of the normal course of business with related parties. Respondents also identified a risk of material misstatement due to fraud related to the valuation of the land assets acquired. Respondents, however, failed to perform sufficient appropriate procedures to evaluate [13] On the date that each contract was signed: (1) San Lotus's Taiwanese subsidiary delivered a promissory note to the sellers for a cash purchase price that was based on an appraisal of the land asset; (2) San Lotus assumed the subsidiary's obligations under the promissory note; and (3) the sellers agreed to accept shares of San Lotus in satisfaction of the promissory note.

the business rationale of the land transactions,[15] or to plan and perform audit procedures that were specifically responsive to the assessed fraud risks of the land transaction.[16] For example, Respondents failed to consider whether management may have been placing more emphasis on the need for a particular accounting treatment for the land transactions than on the underlying economics of the transactions.[17] Respondents also failed to perform any procedures to evaluate whether it was appropriate under U.S. GAAP to record assets from the land transactions at appraised values and proceeded on the basis of a view that the use of the appraised values was appropriate.[18]

14. As a result, Respondents, failed to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism,[19] during the audit, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to support the audit opinion they issued in connection with San Lotus's 2013 financial statements.[20]

March 6, 2015 Form 8-K

15. Between October 2014 and January 2015, the staff of the Commission's Division of Corporation Finance sent a series of comment letters to San Lotus. The comment letters, among other things, raised questions concerning whether the recorded land assets should be valued at historical cost. Respondents reviewed those letters, as well as San Lotus's responses to those letters.

---

[15] See AU § 316.66.

[16] See AS 13 ¶ 13.

[17] See AU § 316.67.

[18] To audit the valuation of the land transactions, Respondents performed certain procedures prescribed by AU § 336, Using the Work of a Specialist. However, Respondents still failed to adequately perform the procedures required under AU § 336 to make use of the appraisals. In particular, Respondents failed to consider the appropriateness of using the appraisals as evidence of the value of the land assets for U.S. GAAP purposes, given the language limiting the use of the appraisals. See AU § 336.09(e).

[19] See AU § 230; AS 13 ¶ 7.

[20] See AS 15 ¶¶ 4-6.

ORDER

16. On March 6, 2015, San Lotus disclosed in a Form 8-K that its previously filed 2013 financial statements should no longer be relied upon. Among other things, San Lotus stated in the Form 8-K that the 2013 financial statements "fail[ed] to properly reflect the value of each land purchased in 2013 . . . at its historical carrying value." San Lotus further announced that it intended to file restated financial statements as soon as practicable, and that it had discussed the matters in the Form 8-K with KCC.

Audit of San Lotus's 2013 (Restated) and 2014 Financial Statements

17. On March 30, 2015, San Lotus filed a Form 10-K with the Commission, containing San Lotus's 2013 (restated) financial statements and 2014 financial statements. Kwok, as engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report, dated March 25, 2015, expressing an unqualified audit opinion on the financial statements, which was also included in the Form 10-K filed with the Commission.

18. In the 2013 (restated) financial statements, San Lotus reported $4.9 million in assets related to the aforementioned land transactions (comprising 87% of total assets). This included $1.8 million from the Xinpi land and $3.1 from the Da Ren land transaction.[21] In the 2014 financial statements, San Lotus reported $2.9 million in assets relating to the Da Ren land transaction (comprising 79% of total assets).[22] San Lotus continued to record the value of those assets based on the third-party appraisals conducted in 2013.[23]

19. When planning the audit of the 2013 (restated) financial statements and the 2014 financial statements, Respondents again identified the land transactions as

[21] No assets were reported from the Miaoli land transaction in either the 2013 (restated) or 2014 financial statements. San Lotus disclosed in the 2014 Form 10-K that those transactions had been "cancelled" in early 2015 because the "entire title to the [Miaoli land] has not been transferred."

[22] No asset was reported for the Xinpi land transaction in the 2014 financial statements. In 2014, San Lotus returned the Xinpi land to one of the original sellers in exchange for the return of an equivalent number of San Lotus shares to the number of shares issued in the original transaction.

[23] The difference in the reported amount of the Da Ren land, from $3.1 million on the 2013 (restated) financial statements to $2.9 million on the 2014 financial statements, was due to the application of a different exchange rate for each balance sheet date.

significant, equity-based transactions, outside of the normal course of business, with related parties. Respondents also again identified a risk of material misstatement due to fraud related to the valuation of the land assets acquired in the foregoing land transactions. Nevertheless, Respondents again failed to plan and to perform appropriate procedures to evaluate the business rationale of the land transactions, or to plan and perform audit procedures that were specifically responsive to the risks of fraud associated with those transactions.[24]

20. Despite being aware of San Lotus's correspondence with the Commission's Division of Corporation Finance concerning the value of the land acquisitions, Respondents again failed to perform appropriate procedures to determine whether the assets from the Da Ren and Xinpi land transactions were properly recorded. Respondents failed to appropriately consider the disclosure in the March 6, 2015 Form 8-K, that previously filed financial statements should no longer be relied upon because San Lotus had failed to record the land it had purchased at historical carrying values. Respondents also failed to perform any procedures to evaluate whether it was appropriate under U.S. GAAP for San Lotus to continue to record assets from the Da Ren and Xinpi land transactions at appraised values.[25]

21. Instead, Respondents continued to accept management's valuations of the land assets based on the appraisals, and failed to perform sufficient appropriate procedures to test those values. In particular, Respondents continued to use the appraisals as audit evidence supporting the value of the land assets.[26]

22. As a result, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism,[27] during the audit, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to support the audit opinion they issued in connection with San Lotus's 2013 (restated) and 2014 financial statements.[28]

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondents' Offers. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Chun Cho Kwok, CPA, and KCC & Associates (a/k/a Chun C. Kwok, a/k/a Kwok & Company) are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Chun Cho Kwok, CPA, is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[29]

C. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Chun Cho Kwok, CPA, may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of KCC & Associates (a/k/a Chun C. Kwok, a/k/a Kwok & Company) is revoked; and

---

[29] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Kwok. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-027
In the Matter of Goldman Kurland and Mohidin, LLP and Ahmed Mohidin, CPA,	September 13, 2016
Respondents.

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Goldman Kurland and Mohidin, LLP ("GKM" or the "Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration,[1] and imposing a $15,000 civil money penalty on the Firm; and censuring Ahmed Mohidin, CPA ("Mohidin"), barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm,[2] and imposing a $15,000 civil money penalty on him. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that (1) the Firm and Mohidin (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards, and federal securities laws and rules, governing auditor independence in connection with an audit for one issuer and reviews for two issuers; (2) the Firm violated, in connection with an audit for one issuer, PCAOB rules and standards that require engagement quality reviewers to maintain objectivity, and Mohidin violated a PCAOB rule because he directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violation; and (3) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with audits for two issuers.

I.

---

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

[2] Mohidin may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, the Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Goldman Kurland and Mohidin, LLP is a limited liability partnership organized under the laws of the State of California with an office in Encino, California. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. GKM is licensed to practice public accountancy under the laws of California (License No. 6552) and, at all relevant times, was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

2. Ahmed Mohidin, age 60, of Moorpark, California is a certified public accountant licensed under the laws of California (License No. 50267). At all relevant times, Mohidin was a partner of the Firm and had primary responsibility for GKM's issuer audit practice. He was the engagement partner on all but one of the audits and reviews at issue herein. Mohidin is no longer a partner with the Firm and is currently a partner with another registered public accounting firm in California. Mohidin is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' violation of PCAOB rules and standards, and federal securities laws and rules, governing auditor independence. In connection with concurrent audits of the financial statements of issuer Home System Group ("HSG") for 2010 and 2011 (the "HSG Audits"), Respondents provided HSG with prohibited bookkeeping services and audited their own work in violation of PCAOB Rule 3520, Auditor Independence, Section 10A(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and PCAOB Interim Auditing Standard ("AU") § 220, Independence.[5]

4. In connection with reviews of the interim financial statements of issuers U.S. China Mining Group, Inc. ("CMG") and China Recycling Energy Corporation ("CREG") for the first three quarters of 2012 (the "CMG and CREG Reviews"), Respondents violated PCAOB Rule 3520 and AU § 220, and the Firm violated Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, because Mohidin and another accountant associated with the Firm served as the lead and concurring partners for the CMG and CREG Reviews after having served in these positions for the Firm's audits of CMG and CREG's financial statements for the previous five consecutive years. In addition, Mohidin violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations, because he took actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2.

5. In addition, this matter concerns the Firm's violation of PCAOB Auditing Standard No. ("AS") 7, Engagement Quality Review, in connection with the audit of CMG's 2012 financial statements (the "CMG Audit"). An accountant who served as the Firm's senior manager for the CMG Audit also served as the Firm's engagement quality reviewer for that audit and, thereby, lacked objectivity in performing his review. Mohidin, who assigned the accountant to the CMG Audit, violated PCAOB Rule 3502 because he took actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation.

6. Finally, this matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the HSG Audits and the audit of the financial statements of issuer China United Insurance Service, Inc. ("CUIS") for fiscal year 2012 (the "CUIS Audit"). During both the HSG Audits and the CUIS Audit, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism. During the HSG Audits, Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient audit evidence to support financial statement assertions related to sales, cost of sales, and deferred product costs, among other violations of PCAOB rules and standards. During the CUIS Audit, Respondents also failed to adequately accumulate and/or evaluate uncorrected misstatements and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the presentation and disclosure assertion related to revenue and cost of revenue, among other violations of PCAOB rules and standards.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards, and Federal Securities Laws and Rules, Governing Auditor Independence and Objectivity

7. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] PCAOB rules and standards also require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[7]

8. A registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") under the federal securities laws.[8]

9. Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act provides that it shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm that performs an audit for an issuer, and the firm's associated persons (to the extent determined appropriate by the Commission), "to provide to that issuer, contemporaneously with the audit, any non-audit service,

10. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 provides that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent under certain rules contained in Commission Regulation S-X, including Rule 2-01(c)(4).[10] Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X provides that an "accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period," the accountant provides certain "[b]ookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client".[11] Such bookkeeping services include "[m]aintaining or preparing the audit client's accounting records" and "[p]reparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission".[12]

11. Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act provides that it shall be unlawful for a registered public accounting firm to provide audit services to an issuer if the firm's lead or concurring audit partner performed audit services for the issuer in each of the issuer's five previous fiscal years.[13] Rule 2-01(c)(6)(i) of Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client when any audit partner performs the services of a lead or concurring partner for that audit client for more than five consecutive years or at any time within the five consecutive years following the performance of such services for the maximum period permitted.[14]

12. AS 7 provides that an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance are required for all audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[15] An engagement quality reviewer must have and maintain objectivity in performing an engagement quality review.[16] "To maintain objectivity, the engagement

In addition, PCAOB rules prohibit an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards.[18]

14. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and certain PCAOB rules and standards. Also, the Firm failed to comply with Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act and Mohidin failed to comply with PCAOB Rule 3502.

Respondents Were Not Independent During the HSG Audits

15. HSG's public filings disclose that, at all relevant times, HSG was a Nevada corporation with principal executive offices in the People's Republic of China ("PRC"). HSG earned revenue by manufacturing household products in the PRC for sale predominantly to distributors who in turn sold the products to retailers. HSG's common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board ("OTCBB") under the symbol "HSYT".[19] At all relevant times, HSG was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

16. HSG engaged GKM in March 2012 as its external auditor for the years ending December 31, 2010 and December 31, 2011. GKM issued an unqualified audit report on HSG's financial statements for those two years (the "HSG Financial Statements"). The HSG Financial Statements and GKM's audit report were included in a Form 10-K that HSG filed with the Commission on March 6, 2013. Mohidin was the engagement partner for the HSG Audits, which were conducted concurrently, and signed and authorized the issuance of GKM's audit report. Mohidin was also the partner in charge of GKM's issuer audit practice ("SEC Audit Partner") and responsible for designing, maintaining, and administering the Firm's independence policies and procedures.

17. After GKM began testing revenue as part of the HSG Audits, HSG revised its revenue recognition policy for its 2010 and 2011 product sales to one of its distributors (the "Distributor"). Under the original revenue recognition policy ("Original HSG Policy"), HSG recognized revenue from product sales to all distributors when it shipped products to the distributors. Under the revised recognition policy ("Revised HSG Policy"), HSG recognized revenue from product sales to the Distributor when the Distributor received payment from its customers. HSG reported in the HSG Financial Statements that revenue derived from sales to the Distributor represented 50 percent of HSG's $104 million of net sales in 2010, and 35 percent of its $94 million of net sales in 2011.[20]

18. As a result of the Revised HSG Policy, HSG reported the costs attributed to products shipped to the Distributor for which the Distributor had not yet been paid by its customers in a new asset account called "Deferred product costs." The Firm calculated for HSG the amount of deferred product costs reported for 2010 and 2011 under the Revised HSG Policy. Members of the Firm's engagement team did this by estimating the cost of sales attributable to products purportedly shipped to the Distributor for which the Distributor had not yet received payment. This estimate was based on the quantity of products sold to the Distributor divided by the quantity of products sold to all distributors. The resulting percentage was then applied to the cost of sales attributable to products shipped to all distributors. The engagement team also calculated for HSG the amount of sales and cost of sales reported for 2010 and 2011 under the Revised HSG Policy. These deferred product costs, sales, and cost of sales amounts were included in or formed the basis for the HSG Financial Statements, which GKM audited.

19. During the HSG Audits, Mohidin reviewed the engagement team's calculations of the amount of deferred product costs, sales, and cost of sales recorded for HSG in 2010 and 2011. He discussed the calculations with members of the Firm's engagement team and approved them before he signed and authorized the release of the Firm's audit report. During the HSG Audits, Mohidin considered the independence implications of this work and knew that it placed him in the position of auditing his own work.

20. As a result of the conduct described above, Respondents were not independent of HSG during the HSG Audits in violation of PCAOB Rule 3520, Section 10A(g) of the Exchange Act, Exchange Act Rule 10A-2, and AU § 220.

Respondents Were Not Independent During the CMG and CREG Reviews

21. CMG's public filings disclose that, at all relevant times, CMG was a Nevada corporation with principal executive offices in Tampa, Florida or City of Industry, California. CMG earned revenue by producing and selling coal in the PRC. CMG's common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act and quoted on the OTCBB under the symbol "SGZH". At all relevant times, CMG was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

22. CREG's public filings disclose that, at all relevant times, CREG was a Nevada corporation with principal executive offices in the PRC. CREG earned revenue by developing waste energy recycling programs for industrial application in the PRC. CREG's common stock was registered under Section 12(b) of the Exchange Act and quoted on NASDAQ markets under the symbol "CREG". At all relevant times, CREG was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

23. GKM was engaged as CMG and CREG's external auditor for the year ended December 31, 2012. GKM reviewed CMG and CREG's interim financial statements for the first three quarters of 2012, which were included in Form 10-Qs CMG and CREG filed with the Commission. Also, GKM issued unqualified audit reports on CMG and CREG's 2012 financial statements. These 2012 financial statements and audit reports were included in Form 10-Ks that were filed with the Commission.

24. For the Firm's reviews of the interim financial statements of CMG and CREG for the first three quarters of 2012, Mohidin and another accountant associated with the Firm served as lead and concurring partners after they had each served as the lead and concurring partners for the Firm's audits of CMG's and CREG's financial statements for the previous five consecutive years.

25. As a result of the conduct described above, Respondents were not independent of CMG and CREG in violation of PCAOB Rule 3520 and AU § 220, and the Firm was not independent of CMG and CREG in violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2. In addition, Mohidin violated PCAOB Rule 3502 because he took actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of Section 10A(j) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10A-2.

The Firm's Engagement Quality Reviewer Lacked Objectivity During the CMG Audit

26. In connection with the CMG Audit, an accountant associated with the Firm who had recently been promoted to partner served as both the Firm's senior manager for the audit and the Firm's engagement quality reviewer for the audit. As senior manager, the accountant performed much of the Firm's audit work and prepared many of the Firm's audit work papers, which the accountant then reviewed and approved as engagement quality reviewer. Mohidin, who was the Firm's SEC Audit Partner, was responsible for assigning, and did assign, the accountant to the CMG Audit.

27. As a result of the conduct described above, the Firm violated AS 7 because the Firm's engagement quality reviewer for the CMG Audit lacked objectivity. In addition, Mohidin violated PCAOB Rule 3502 because he took actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of AS 7.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

28. An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB auditing standards.[21] Among other things, those standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in performing an audit.[22]

29. For audits of fiscal years beginning before December 15, 2010, PCAOB standards require an auditor to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter to provide a reasonable basis for his or her opinion regarding an issuer's financial statements.[23] For audits of fiscal years beginning on or after December 15, 2010, the standards require an auditor to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for such an opinion.[24] In addition, an auditor is responsible for obtaining and evaluating sufficient appropriate evidential matter to support significant accounting estimates in a financial statement audit.[25]

30. PCAOB standards require an auditor to design and implement appropriate responses to assessed risks of material misstatement of financial statements.[26] The responses should involve the application of professional skepticism in gathering and evaluating audit evidence.[27] For significant risks, the responses should involve the performance of substantive procedures, including tests of details, that are specifically responsive to the assessed risks.[28] As the assessed risk of material misstatement increases, the audit evidence the auditor should obtain also increases.[29]

31. An auditor should accumulate and evaluate misstatements identified during an audit, including, in particular, uncorrected misstatements.[30] Among other things, this should include an evaluation of whether uncorrected misstatements are material, individually or in combination with other misstatements, taking into account relevant quantitative and qualitative factors.[31] Also, an auditor should communicate with management and the issuer's audit committee about certain misstatements.[32]

32. PCAOB standards further require an auditor to evaluate financial statement disclosures[33] and whether disclosures related to a change in accounting principle are adequate.[34] An auditor should determine that an issuer's audit committee has been informed about changes in significant accounting policies or their application.[35] If a change in an issuer's method of applying an accounting principle has a material effect on the financial statements, then an auditor should recognize this in the audit report by adding an explanatory paragraph or issuing a qualified or adverse opinion.[36]

33. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with these and other PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the HSG Audits and CUIS Audit.

The HSG Audits

34. Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB auditing standards in connection with auditing net sales, cost of sales, and deferred product costs reported in the HSG Financial Statements.

35. Respondents identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk during the HSG Audits. For the occurrence and valuation assertions related to sales, they assessed inherent risk, control risk, and risk of material misstatement as high, and for the completeness assertion they assessed inherent risk as moderate, control risk as high, and the risk of material misstatement as moderate. For the occurrence assertion related to cost of sales, they assessed inherent risk, control risk, and risk of material misstatement as high, and for the valuation and completeness assertions they assessed inherent risk as moderate, control risk as high, and the risk of material misstatement as moderate.

36. During the HSG Audits, Respondents knew that PCAOB Staff Audit Practice Alert No. 8, Audit Risks in Certain Emerging Markets ("PCAOB Practice Alert 8"), alerted them to the need for heightened risk awareness when auditing revenue for HSG and similarly situated issuers with operations in the PRC and other emerging markets. In planning the HSG Audits, Respondents calculated planning materiality as $750,000 for the audit of HSG's 2010 financial statements, and $820,000 for the audit of HSG's 2011 financial statements.

37. The HSG Financial Statements reported that HSG earned revenue of $53 million in 2010 and $33 million in 2011 from sales to the Distributor. Respondents' procedures to test these sales included tracing a selection of sales transactions recorded in HSG's sales journal to invoices and shipping documents prepared by HSG. Respondents' testing identified numerous discrepancies between sales journal dates and shipping dates. In addition, Respondents evaluated two sales reconciliations prepared by HSG. The reconciliations listed HSG's sales to the Distributor that were purportedly recorded based on shipping dates, and the dates on which the Distributor purportedly received payments from its customers with respect to such sales. The reconciliations did not list the amount of the payments the Distributor purportedly received from its customers on each listed sale date. Respondents failed to test the accuracy and completeness of the HSG-prepared shipping documents and reconciliations that they relied on to test HSG's sales transactions with the Distributor. In addition, Respondents failed to evaluate the abovementioned discrepancies to determine whether products were actually shipped to the Distributor.

38. As a result of the conduct described above, Respondents violated PCAOB auditing standards because they failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism,[37] and failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter or sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the occurrence, valuation, and completeness assertions related to HSG's reported revenue derived from sales to the Distributor.[38] In addition, Respondents failed to evaluate whether HSG satisfied all the requisite criteria for recognizing revenue derived from sales to the Distributor under U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP"),[39] and failed to evaluate whether the nature, timing, and extent of their audit procedures should have been modified to address an increased risk of material misstatement of revenue derived from such sales.[40]

39. The HSG Financial Statements also reported deferred product costs of $10 million for 2010 and $11 million for 2011. As discussed above, the Firm estimated for HSG the reported value of these deferred product costs. During the HSG Audits, Mohidin reviewed the Firm's estimates and related audit procedures, and discussed them with members of the Firm's engagement team.

40. Respondents failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter or sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate the reasonableness of these deferred product costs, including obtaining and evaluating audit evidence concerning the actual cost of sales for products shipped to the Distributor. In addition, they did not obtain and evaluate audit evidence that the corresponding products were in fact shipped to the Distributor and the reported deferred product costs asset existed and was appropriately valued.

41. As a result of the conduct described above, Respondents violated PCAOB auditing standards because they failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism,[41] and failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter or sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the existence and valuation assertions related to the deferred product costs reported in the HSG Financial Statements.[42]

The CUIS Audit

42. Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB standards in auditing revenue and related disclosures reported in CUIS's financial statements for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2012 (the "CUIS Financial Statements").

43. CUIS's public filings disclose that, at all relevant times, CUIS was a Delaware corporation with principal executive offices in the PRC. CUIS earned revenue by selling insurance policies and related services in the PRC. CUIS's common stock was quoted on the OTCBB under the symbol "CUII". At all relevant times, CUIS was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

44. CUIS engaged GKM as its external auditor for fiscal year 2012. GKM issued an unqualified audit report on the CUIS Financial Statements. The CUIS Financial Statements and GKM's audit report were included in a Form 10-K that CUIS filed with the Commission on September 28, 2012. Mohidin was the engagement partner for the CUIS Audit and authorized the issuance of GKM's audit report.

45. During the CUIS Audit, Respondents identified improper revenue recognition and improper cost allocation as significant risks and fraud risks. For the occurrence, valuation, and completeness assertions related to revenue and cost of revenue, they assessed inherent risk, control risk, and risk of material misstatement as high. In addition, Respondents knew during the CUIS Audit that PCAOB Practice Alert 8 alerted them to the need for heightened risk awareness when auditing revenue for CUIS.

46. CUIS revised its revenue recognition policy during the CUIS Audit for the year under audit. Under the original revenue recognition policy ("Original CUIS Policy"), CUIS recognized revenue when an insurance policy became effective and a related premium was collected. Under CUIS's revised revenue recognition policy ("Revised CUIS Policy"), revenue was recognized when an insurance policy became effective. The practical result of the change was that CUIS recorded revenue from the sale of insurance policies one month earlier under the Revised CUIS Policy than under the Original CUIS Policy. Respondents believed during the CUIS Audit that the Revised CUIS Policy conformed to GAAP.

47. As a result of a misapplication of the Revised CUIS Policy, thirteen months of revenue and cost of revenue were incorrectly reported in the CUIS Financial Statements. In addition, one month of revenue for an entity whose financial statements were consolidated into CUIS's financial statements was incorrectly not recorded in the CUIS Financial Statements. Each of these uncorrected misstatements was greater than the Firm's planning materiality. The net effect of the misstatements on the CUIS Financial Statements was an overstatement of reported loss before income taxes of 16 percent and an understatement of reported gross profit of 8 percent.

48. Respondents knew or should have known about these uncorrected misstatements. During the CUIS Audit, Mohidin reviewed Firm work papers identifying the two misstatements and discussed the work papers and the Firm's revenue testing with members of the Firm's engagement team. Nonetheless, Respondents did not sufficiently evaluate the effects of these uncorrected misstatements, did not sufficiently communicate with management or CUIS's board of directors (which functioned as CUIS's audit committee) about the misstatements, and incorrectly told CUIS that the application of its existing accounting policies had not changed during the year under audit.

49. As a result of the conduct described above, Respondents violated PCAOB auditing standards because they failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism,[43] and failed to adequately accumulate and/or evaluate uncorrected misstatements.[44] In particular, they failed to evaluate the effects of the misstatements, including by evaluating whether the misstatements were material individually or in combination with other misstatements, in relation to the specific accounts and disclosures involved, and to the financial statements as a whole, taking into account relevant quantitative and qualitative factors.[45]

50. In addition, Respondents failed to communicate the misstatements to management and/or evaluate whether management properly corrected the misstatements;[46] failed to provide management with a summary of uncorrected misstatements;[47] failed to obtain a written representation from management that the effects of the uncorrected misstatements were immaterial;[48] and failed to inform CUIS's board of directors about the misstatements and the Revised CUIS Policy.[49]

51. In connection with related disclosures, the CUIS Financial Statements stated in accompanying notes that CUIS's revenue recognition policy was a significant accounting policy. The notes incorrectly disclosed, however, that the policy provided for revenue to be recognized when an insurance policy became effective and a related premium was collected, without disclosing that CUIS had revised this policy during the year under audit to no longer require premium collection as a prerequisite for revenue recognition.

52. During the CUIS Audit, Respondents were aware of these disclosures. Nonetheless, Respondents failed to perform sufficient procedures to evaluate whether the disclosures were correct, were materially affected by changes in CUIS's method of applying accounting principles, and conformed to GAAP.[50] Respondents also failed to determine whether CUIS's board of directors was properly informed of the change in CUIS's revenue recognition policy.

53. As a result of the conduct described above, Respondents violated PCAOB auditing standards because they failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism,[51] and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the presentation and disclosure assertion related to revenue and cost of revenue in the CUIS Financial Statements.[52] Respondents also failed to evaluate whether the disclosures in the CUIS Financial Statements were adequate and

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Berkow, Schechter & Company LLP and Neil H. Berkow, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-028 September 15, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Berkow, Schechter & Company LLP ("Berkow Schechter" or "Firm"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $15,000; (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers; (4) prohibiting the Firm from accepting any new broker-dealer engagement clients for a period of one year from the date of this Order; (5) censuring Neil H. Berkow, CPA ("Berkow"); (6) barring Berkow from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and (7) imposing upon Berkow a civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings (a) that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") in connection with an audit of a broker-dealer client as a result of maintaining and preparing accounting records of the broker-dealer, and preparing financial statements that the broker-dealer filed with the Commission, which impaired the Firm's independence, (b) that Berkow took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of that Commission rule, and (c) that Berkow and the Firm violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with a second audit of the same broker-dealer client as a result of similar conduct a year later.

[1] Berkow may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against the Firm and Berkow ("Respondents").

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Respondents admit the facts, findings, and violations set forth below, admit the Board's jurisdiction over each of them and the subject matter of this proceeding, and consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order").[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondents

1. Berkow Schechter, formed in 1981, is a registered public accounting firm located in Stamford, Connecticut. The Firm holds a permit issued by the Connecticut State Board of Accountancy (permit no. CPAP.0003667). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

---

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

2. Neil H. Berkow, 65, of Stamford, Connecticut, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Connecticut State Board of Accountancy (license no. CPAL.0003168). He is the founder of, and a partner at, Berkow Schechter. Berkow served as the engagement partner for the Firm's audits of the 2013 and 2014 financial statements of a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer"). At all relevant times, Berkow is and was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. Firm staff maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 for the Broker-Dealer. As a result, Berkow Schechter was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria in effect at the time as established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5 to audits of brokers and dealers.[4] The Firm performed an audit of those financial statements ("2013 Audit") and issued a report on that audit ("2013 Audit Report"), which the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements when it filed them with the Commission. The Firm represented in the 2013 Audit Report that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS").[5] Because GAAS requires independence, however, this representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which at the time required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

4. Berkow took or omitted to take actions in connection with the 2013 Audit, the Firm's maintenance and preparation of client accounting records, and the Firm's preparation of client financial statements that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of Rule 17a-5(i). Berkow thereby violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

[4] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5.

[5] Under the rule provisions in effect during, and applicable to, the 2013 Audit, Rule 17a-5(g) required that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with GAAS. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5 ("Rule 17a-5 amendments"). See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Under the Rule 17a-5 amendments, Rule 17a-5(g) now sets forth that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014.

ORDER

5. Board inspection staff reviewed aspects of the Firm's December 31, 2013 audit of the Broker-Dealer. The staff communicated to the Firm that the Firm's preparation of financial statements had impaired the Firm's independence. Notwithstanding that communication, Firm staff, for the year ended December 31, 2014, again prepared financial statements for the Broker-Dealer. Firm staff took substantially the same steps to do so as they had the previous year, again impairing the Firm's independence. Firm staff also maintained and prepared accounting records in connection with the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2014 financial statements. The Firm performed an audit of those financial statements ("2014 Audit") and issued a report on that audit ("2014 Audit Report"), which the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements when it filed them with the Commission. As a result, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3520 by failing to satisfy the independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the criteria set out in Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, and violated AU § 220, Independence, and Berkow violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violation of PCAOB Rule 3520.[6]

C. Respondents Violated a Commission Rule and Board Rules and Auditing Standards

6. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that every broker or dealer registered under section 15 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 file annually a financial report audited by an independent public accountant. Rule 17a-5(d)(2) requires that the financial report filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, contain a Statement of Financial Condition, a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and a Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors.

7. Rule 17a-5 also requires that an independent public accountant give an opinion with respect to the statements filed pursuant to paragraph 17a-5(d).[7] Rule 17a-

The 2013 Audit

8. During the 2013 Audit,[9] Rule 17a-5(g) required that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) required that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

9. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[10] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[11]

10. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[12] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[13] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

[8] Before the amendment of Rule 17a-5 and during the 2013 Audit, this requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). After the amendment, including during the 2014 Audit, the requirement that the public accountant be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X is set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

11. Berkow Schechter served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements. At all times relevant to the 2013 Audit, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

12. In March 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was the 2013 Audit Report, signed by Berkow Schechter and dated February 25, 2014. The 2013 Audit Report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States."

13. Firm staff completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the 2013 Audit. That form included a pre-printed item reading, "What services does the entity desire from our firm?" Firm staff added a checkmark under "Yes" alongside the pre-printed sub-item reading, "Preparation of financial statements?" The form also included a pre-printed item reading, "Other?," next to which Firm staff handwrote a notation reading, "Data entry bookkeeping."

See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

14. During 2013 and early 2014, Firm staff maintained and prepared certain accounting records of the Broker-Dealer. Specifically, Firm staff engaged a bookkeeper ("Bookkeeper") to prepare and record the Broker-Dealer's journal entries. Firm staff provided direction to the Bookkeeper in connection with her preparation and recording of the Broker-Dealer's journal entries. Firm staff included charges for the Bookkeeper's services as a line item on the Firm's invoices to the Broker-Dealer. The Firm paid the Bookkeeper a portion of the fees it collected from the Broker-Dealer in connection with the Bookkeeper's services.

15. Firm staff also prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements. Firm staff prepared and included in the Firm's audit documentation a work paper titled "Audit Program." That work paper included a typed item reading, "Prepare financial statements," next to which Firm staff added a handwritten checkmark.

16. Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a balance sheet as of December 31, 2013 and an income statement for the year ended December 31, 2013.

17. Firm staff used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2013, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2014.

18. In preparing those financial statements, Firm staff aggregated and disaggregated line items and changed line item descriptions and amounts as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

19. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2014.

20. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements in February 2014 for management approval.

21. As a result of Firm staff's conduct in maintaining and preparing accounting records and in preparing the December 31, 2013 financial statements, Berkow Schechter was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[14]

22. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its 2013 Audit Report that it had performed the 2013 Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the 2013 Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

23. Firm staff under Berkow's supervision maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements for the Broker-Dealer for the year ended December 31, 2013, and Berkow authorized the issuance of the 2013 Audit Report. In connection with the 2013 Audit, therefore, Berkow took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of Rule 17a-5(i).

The 2014 Audit

24. Following the 2013 Audit, Board inspection staff conducted a review of certain aspects of that audit. On August 15, 2014, Berkow Schechter received a comment form issued by Board inspection staff in connection with that review. The comment form set out the staff's observation that the Firm had failed to maintain auditor independence under Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X because it had prepared financial statements of the Broker-Dealer.

25. Under the current version of Rule 17a-5, applicable to the 2014 Audit, Rule 17a-5(g) requires that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.

26. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[15] PCAOB rules and auditing standards also require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[16]

> [A] registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria applicable to the engagement set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws.[17]

27. As noted above, pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f), Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X applies to broker and dealer audits and provides that an accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant prepares the audit client's accounting records or the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission.

28. Berkow Schechter served as the auditor for the Broker-Dealer's 2014 Audit. At all times relevant to the 2014 Audit, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

29. In March 2015, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2014. Included in that filing was the 2014 Audit Report signed by the Firm and dated February 25, 2015.[18] prepared and recorded the Broker-Dealer's journal entries. The Firm again charged the Broker-Dealer for the Bookkeeper's services and paid the Bookkeeper a portion of this fee.

31. Firm staff also prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2014 financial statements. In February 2015, Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer substantially the same types of documents obtained the previous year, including a balance sheet as of December 31, 2014 and an income statement for the year ended December 31, 2014.

32. In February 2015, Firm staff used the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2014, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2014, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2015.

33. In preparing the Statement of Financial Condition, Statement of Income, and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission, Firm staff aggregated and disaggregated line items and changed line item descriptions and amounts as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

34. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2014, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2015.

35. Firm staff provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements in February 2015 for management approval.

36. Notwithstanding the Firm's receipt on August 15, 2014 of the Board inspection staff's comment form noting that preparation of financial statements impair an auditor's independence, the Firm thereafter prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2014 financial statements and, respectively, authorized the issuance of and issued the 2014 Audit Report.

37. As a result of maintaining and preparing accounting records and preparing the December 31, 2014 financial statements, Berkow Schechter was not independent of the Broker-Dealer in connection with the 2014 Audit and violated PCAOB Rule 3520 and AU § 220.

38. Firm staff maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements for the Broker-Dealer for the year ended December 31, 2014, and Berkow authorized the issuance of the 2014 Audit Report notwithstanding his knowledge that Firm staff had done so. In connection with the 2014 Audit, therefore, Berkow took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of PCAOB Rule 3520.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondents' Offers.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $15,000 is imposed upon the Firm, and a separate and additional civil money penalty in the amount of $5,000 is imposed upon Neil H. Berkow, CPA. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm and Neil H. Berkow, CPA shall each pay the civil money penalty imposed within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter that identifies, as applicable, the Firm or Neil H. Berkow, CPA as one of the Respondents in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of said cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

b. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

ORDER

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), the Firm is prohibited from accepting any new SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement clients for a period of one year from the date of this Order.

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Neil H. Berkow, CPA, is censured.

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Neil H. Berkow, CPA, is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[19] and [19] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Berkow. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Jackson, Howell & Associates, PLLC, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-029 September 15, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Jackson, Howell & Associates, PLLC ("Jackson Howell," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500; and (3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures, including to establish policies and procedures, directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") in connection with an audit of a broker-dealer client as a result of having maintained and prepared accounting records, and having prepared financial statements that were filed with the Commission, for a registered broker-dealer audit client, which impaired the Firm's independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Jackson Howell is a registered public accounting firm located in Cordova, Tennessee. Jackson Howell is licensed by the Tennessee State Board of Accountancy (license no. 625). The Firm, formed in 1976, is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

B. Summary

2. The Firm maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 for a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer"). As a result, Jackson Howell was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5(f)(3) to audits of brokers and dealers.[2] The Firm nevertheless audited the financial statements and issued an audit report that the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements it filed with the Commission. In the audit report, the Firm represented that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS"). Because GAAS requires independence, however, that representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Exchange Act Rule 17a-5, referenced throughout this Order as "Rule 17a-5," is found at 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5. The rule provisions set out herein are those in effect during, and applicable to, the relevant conduct. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5. See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Among other things, the amendments to Rule 17a-5 require that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014. In addition, Rule 17a-5 provides that the auditor must be independent in accordance with Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X. At the time of the relevant conduct, that requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). It is now set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(1).

ORDER

C. Respondent Violated a Commission Rule

3. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that "[e]very broker or dealer registered pursuant to section 15 of the [Securities Exchange] Act [of 1934] shall file annually, on a calendar or fiscal year basis, a report which shall be audited by an independent public accountant." Rule 17a-5(d)(2) states that "[t]he annual audited report" filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, "shall contain a Statement of Financial Condition . . . , a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and [a] Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors."

4. Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i) states: "An audit shall be conducted by a public accountant who shall be in fact independent as defined in paragraph (f)(3) of this section herein, and he shall give an opinion covering the statements filed pursuant to paragraph (d) . . . ." Rule 17a-5(f)(3) states: "An accountant shall be independent in accordance with the provisions of § 210.2-01(b) and (c) of this chapter."

5. Rule 17a-5(g) requires that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) requires that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

6. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[3] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[4]

7. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(3), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[5] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[6] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
>
> (i) Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client. Any service, unless it is reasonable to conclude that the results of these services will not be subject to audit procedures during an audit of the audit client's financial statements, including:
>
> (A) Maintaining or preparing the audit client's accounting records;
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

8. Jackson Howell served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements ("Audit"). At all relevant times, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. In February 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was an audit report signed by Jackson Howell and dated February 24, 2014. That report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

---

[6] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

10. During 2013, Firm staff prepared certain accounting records of the Broker-Dealer. Specifically, Firm staff calculated the Broker-Dealer's income tax provision and prepared the income tax journal entry.

11. In addition, Firm staff prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements. Firm staff prepared and included in the Firm's audit documentation a form titled "FSR Financial Statement Preparation." That form included pre-printed text stating that "[a]uditors of financial statements subject to SEC independence are prohibited from performing certain prohibited services, including bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services" and that the form was "used to document the engagement team's compliance with this prohibition." Firm staff noted on the form a list of items obtained in February 2014 from the Broker-Dealer, such as a trial balance and schedules concerning cash flow; the Broker-Dealer's review of financial statement account groupings generated by Firm staff using Firm software, as well as its review of a cash flow worksheet prepared by Firm staff; the use by Firm staff of the information obtained from the Broker-Dealer "to populate the financial statements"; and the engagement team's conclusion that these activities constituted a "word processing function" that "does not impair our independence."

12. Firm staff used the trial balance obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2013, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in February 2014.

13. In preparing those financial statements, Firm staff input line items and amounts from the trial balance into Firm software. Firm staff then used that software to arrange those line items into account groupings; asked the Broker-Dealer to review those groupings; and converted the trial balance into financial statements that incorporated those groupings as well as pre-set formats contained in the Firm's software. Those financial statements aggregated line items, changed line item descriptions and amounts, and added captions as compared to corresponding information in the trial balance.

14. Firm staff also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013, and prepared the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements by updating the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements for the prior year as well as incorporating material provided by the Broker-Dealer.

15. As a result of Jackson Howell's conduct in maintaining and preparing accounting records and in preparing the financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the Audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[7]

16. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its audit report that it had performed the Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,500 is imposed upon the Firm. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Rule 17a-5, as amended);

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable independence requirements, including those requirements of Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X applicable to an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement;

3. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order and before the Firm's commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (or, where the Firm by the date of this Order has already commenced but not completed such an engagement, before the Firm's release of its report), to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph C(2) above on at least one occasion;

4. to provide a copy of this Order—

a. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to all audit personnel employed by, or associated with (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i)), the Firm as of the date of this Order,

b. within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order, to any client of the Firm as of the date of this Order for which the Firm has performed or has been engaged to perform an SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement,

c. before the commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to any future client for which the Firm is engaged within three (3) years of the date of this Order to perform such an engagement; and

5. to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) through C(4)(b) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall submit such certification within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Roth & Company, P.C. and Jerome A. Carlson, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-030 September 15, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring the registered public accounting firm Roth & Company, P.C. ("Roth & Company" or "Firm"); (2) imposing upon the Firm a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000; (3) in the event the Board grants any future registration application by the Firm,[1] (a) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures directed toward satisfying independence criteria applicable to audits of brokers and dealers, and (b) prohibiting the Firm from accepting any new broker-dealer engagement clients for a period of one year from the date of this Order; (4) censuring Jerome A. Carlson, CPA ("Carlson"); (5) barring Carlson from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[2] and (6) imposing upon Carlson a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings (a) that the Firm violated a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC") in connection with an audit of a broker-dealer client as a result of maintaining and preparing accounting records of the broker-dealer, and preparing financial statements that the broker-dealer filed with the Commission, which impaired the Firm's independence, (b) that Carlson took or omitted to take actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of that Commission rule, and (c) that Carlson and the Firm violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with a second audit of the same broker-dealer client as a result of similar conduct a year later.

[1] The Firm has filed a Form 1-WD seeking leave to withdraw from registration with the Board, which the Board has determined to grant as of the date of this Order.

[2] Carlson may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one (1) year from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against the Firm and Carlson ("Respondents").

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Respondents admit the facts, findings, and violations set forth below, admit the Board's jurisdiction over each of them and the subject matter of this proceeding, and consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order").[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Roth & Company, formed in 1990, is a registered public accounting firm located in Des Moines, Iowa. The Firm is licensed by the Iowa Accountancy Examining Board (license no. 2009-373). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and Board rules.

---

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

2. Jerome A. Carlson, CPA, 64, of Clives, Iowa, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Iowa Accountancy Examining Board (license no. O02998). He is a shareholder of Roth & Company. Carlson served as the engagement partner for the Firm's audits of the 2013 and 2014 financial statements of a broker-dealer audit client ("Broker-Dealer"). At all relevant times, Carlson is and was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. Carlson and the Firm maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 for a Broker-Dealer. As a result, Roth & Company was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under auditor independence criteria in effect at the time as established by the Commission and made applicable by Exchange Act Rule 17a-5 to audits of brokers and dealers.[5] The Firm audited those financial statements ("2013 Audit") and issued an audit report ("2013 Audit Report"), which the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements when it filed them with the Commission. The Firm represented in the 2013 Audit Report that the audit had been performed in accordance with Generally Accepted Auditing Standards ("GAAS").[6] Because GAAS requires independence, however, this representation violated Rule 17a-5(i), which at the time required the audit report to state whether the audit was made in accordance with GAAS.

4. Through his actions, Carlson directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violation of Rule 17a-5(i) and thereby violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

5. Board inspection staff reviewed aspects of the Firm's December 31, 2013 audit of the Broker-Dealer. The staff communicated to the Firm that the Firm's

[6] Under the rule provisions in effect during, and applicable to, the 2013 Audit, Rule 17a-5(g) required that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with GAAS. On July 30, 2013, the Commission adopted certain amendments to Rule 17a-5 ("Rule 17a-5 amendments"). See Broker-Dealer Reports, SEC Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 (July 30, 2013), 78 Fed. Reg. 51910 (Aug. 21, 2013). Under the Rule 17a-5 amendments, Rule 17a-5(g) now sets forth that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards, effective for audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014.

ORDER

maintenance and preparation of accounting records and preparation of financial statements for the Broker-Dealer had impaired the Firm's independence. Notwithstanding that communication, Carlson and the Firm again maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2014 for the Broker-Dealer. Carlson and the Firm took substantially the same steps to do so as they had the previous year, again impairing the Firm's independence. The Firm performed an audit of those financial statements ("2014 Audit") and issued a report on that audit ("2014 Audit Report"), which the Broker-Dealer included with the financial statements when it filed them with the Commission. As a result, Carlson and the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3520 by failing to satisfy the independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the criteria set out in Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, and violated AU § 220, Independence.[7]

C. Respondents Violated a Commission Rule and Board Rules and Auditing Standards

6. Rule 17a-5(d)(1) requires, among other things, that every broker or dealer registered under section 15 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 file annually a financial report audited by an independent public accountant. Rule 17a-5(d)(2) requires that the financial report filed by a registered broker or dealer, among other things, contain a Statement of Financial Condition, a Statement of Income, a Statement of Cash Flows, a Statement of Changes in Stockholders' or Partners' or Sole Proprietor's Equity, and a Statement of Changes in Liabilities Subordinated to Claims of General Creditors.

7. Rule 17a-5 also requires that an independent public accountant give an opinion with respect to the statements filed pursuant to paragraph 17a-5(d).[8] Rule 17a-5(f) requires that the public accountant be independent in accordance with the provisions of Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X.[9]

[7] Pursuant to amendments to Rule 17a-5 and PCAOB Rule 3520 that took effect before the 2014 Audit, both Rule 3520 and PCAOB auditing standards applied to the 2014 Audit.

[8] Before the amendment of Rule 17a-5 and during the 2013 Audit, this requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(e)(1)(i). After the amendment, including during the 2014 Audit, it is set out in Rule 17a-5(g).

[9] Before the amendment of Rule 17a-5 and during the 2013 Audit, this requirement was set out in Rule 17a-5(f)(3). After the amendment, including during the

8. During the 2013 Audit,[10] Rule 17a-5(g) required that "[t]he audit shall be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." Rule 17a-5(i) required that "[t]he accountant's report shall . . . [s]tate whether the audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards."

9. GAAS requires auditors to maintain strict independence from their audit clients.[11] "[I]f an auditor's report states that its audit was in accordance with GAAS when the auditor was not independent, then it has violated Rule 17a-5(i)."[12]

10. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f), certain of the Commission's auditor independence criteria described in Rules 2-01(b) and (c) of Regulation S-X[13] apply to audits of brokers and dealers.[14] The applicable provisions include Rule 2-01(c)(4), which states in part:

[14] Not all independence criteria described in Rule 2-01(c) apply to audits of brokers and dealers. As the Commission has explained, those audits "are not subject to the partner rotation requirements or the compensation requirements of the Commission's independence rules [Rules 2-01(c)(6) and (c)(8)] because the statute mandating those requirements is limited to issuers," and they "are not subject to the audit committee pre-approval requirements or the cooling-off period requirements for employment [Rules 2-01(c)(7) and (c)(2)(iii)(B)] because those requirements only reference issuers." See Exchange Act Release No. 34-70073 at II.E.

ORDER

> An accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides the following non-audit services to an audit client:
> (i) Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client. Any service, unless it is reasonable to conclude that the results of these services will not be subject to audit procedures during an audit of the audit client's financial statements, including:
>
> (A) Maintaining or preparing the audit client's accounting records;
> (B) Preparing the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission or that form the basis of financial statements filed with the Commission . . . .

11. Roth & Company served as the auditor of the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements. At all times relevant to the 2013 Audit, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

12. In March 2014, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2013. Included in that filing was the 2013 Audit Report, signed by Roth & Company and dated February 14, 2014. The 2013 Audit Report stated, among other things, that the Firm audited the Broker-Dealer's financial statements "in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America."

13. Carlson completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form" in connection with the 2013 Audit. That form included pre-printed text reading:

> The SEC expects auditors of broker-dealers to comply with the independence requirements established by the accounting profession (the AICPA), as well as the requirements promulgated by the Commission and its staff. The SEC's independence rules are set forth in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X. Rule 2-01's general standard of independence requires both the fact and the appearance of independence.

14. During 2013 and early 2014, Carlson and the Firm maintained and prepared certain accounting records of the Broker-Dealer. Specifically, Carlson and the Firm maintained the Broker-Dealer's fixed asset subledger and calculated the Broker-

ORDER

Dealer's annual depreciation expense. Moreover, Carlson and the Firm calculated the Broker-Dealer's income tax provision.

15. Carlson and the Firm also prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2013 financial statements. Carlson obtained from the Broker-Dealer various documents including a balance sheet as of December 31, 2013 and an income statement for the year ended December 31, 2013.

16. Carlson used the above documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2013, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2013, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2014.

17. In preparing those financial statements, Carlson aggregated and disaggregated line items and changed line item descriptions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

18. Carlson also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2013, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2014.

19. Carlson provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements in February 2014 for management approval.

20. As a result of Roth & Company's conduct in maintaining and preparing accounting records and in preparing the December 31, 2013 financial statements, the Firm was not independent of the Broker-Dealer under the independence criteria established by the Commission in Rule 2-01(c)(4) of Regulation S-X, which Rule 17a-5 made applicable to the audit. As the Commission explained in adopting Rule 2-01(c)(4), providing such services for an audit client "impairs the auditor's independence because the auditor will be placed in the position of auditing the firm's work when auditing the client's financial statements. . . . In addition, keeping the books is a management function, the performance of which leads to an inappropriate mutuality of interests between the auditor and the audit client."[15]

ORDER

21. The Firm violated Rule 17a-5(i) by representing in its 2013 Audit Report that it had performed the 2013 Audit in accordance with GAAS when in fact, because of the independence impairment described above, the 2013 Audit had not been performed in accordance with GAAS. That violation constituted a violation of the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto.

22. Carlson maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements for the Broker-Dealer for the year ended December 31, 2013, and authorized the issuance of the 2013 Audit Report. In connection with the 2013 Audit, therefore, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502, Carlson took actions that he knew, or was reckless in not knowing, would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violation of Rule 17a-5(i).

The 2014 Audit

23. Following the 2013 Audit, Board inspection staff conducted a review of certain aspects of that audit. On October 31, 2014, Board inspection staff provided Roth & Company with a comment form in connection with that review. The comment form set out the staff's observation that the Firm had failed to maintain auditor independence under Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X because it had maintained and prepared accounting records and prepared financial statements of the Broker-Dealer. Carlson reviewed the comment form at the time the Firm received it.

24. Under the current version of Rule 17a-5, applicable to the 2014 Audit, Rule 17a-5(g) requires that audits of brokers and dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.

25. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[16] PCAOB rules and auditing standards also require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[17]

ORDER

> [A] registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria applicable to the engagement set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws.[18]

26. As noted above, pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f), Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X applies to broker and dealer audits and provides that an accountant is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant prepares the audit client's accounting records or the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission.

27. Roth & Company served as the auditor for the Broker-Dealer's 2014 Audit. At all times relevant to the 2014 Audit, the Broker-Dealer was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110 of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and was not an "issuer," as defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

28. In March 2015, the Broker-Dealer filed with the Commission a Form X-17A-5 Part III for the year ended December 31, 2014. Included in that filing was the 2014 Audit Report signed by the Firm and dated February 13, 2015.[19]

29. In connection with the 2014 Audit, Carlson again completed an "Engagement Acceptance and Continuance Form." That form contained pre-printed text referencing applicable independence requirements including "the independence requirements established by the PCAOB" and "[t]he SEC's independence rules . . . set forth in Rule 2-01 of Regulation S-X."

30. Carlson also completed a work paper summarizing a November 2014 planning meeting with the Broker-Dealer. That work paper contained text under the header "Maintain Independence under SEC rules" reading, "Auditor cannot prepare any workpapers or reports that would be subject to auditing procedures," with a list of items underneath including "Reports," "Footnote disclosures," and "Determining adjustments/account balances."

31. Carlson also completed a work paper titled "Discussion Items" which included the following text under a header reading "Independence":

- Auditor cannot provide any professional services that they would need to audit
    - o Drafting financial statements
    - o Determining account balances (depreciation, income tax accrual, prepaid expenses)

32. During 2014 and early 2015, Carlson and the Firm again maintained and prepared accounting records of the Broker-Dealer by maintaining its fixed asset subledger and by calculating its annual depreciation expense.

33. Carlson and the Firm also prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2014 financial statements. In January and February 2015, Carlson and Firm staff obtained from the Broker-Dealer substantially the same types of documents obtained the previous year, including a balance sheet as of December 31, 2014 and an income statement for the year ended December 31, 2014.

34. In February 2015, Carlson used the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer to prepare the Statement of Financial Condition as of December 31, 2014, as well as the Statement of Income and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity for the year ended December 31, 2014, filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2015.

35. In preparing the Statement of Financial Condition, Statement of Income, and Statement of Changes in Stockholders' Equity filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission, Carlson aggregated and disaggregated line items and changed line item descriptions as compared to corresponding information in the documents obtained from the Broker-Dealer.

36. Carlson also prepared the Statement of Cash Flows for the year ended December 31, 2014, as well as drafted the notes to the Broker-Dealer's financial statements, all of which were filed by the Broker-Dealer with the Commission in March 2015.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

37. Carlson provided the Broker-Dealer with a set of draft financial statements in February 2015 for management approval.

38. Notwithstanding the Firm's receipt on October 31, 2014 of the Board inspection staff's comment form noting that maintenance and preparation of accounting records and preparation of financial statements impair an auditor's independence, Carlson and the Firm thereafter continued maintaining and preparing the Broker-Dealer's accounting records in late 2014 and early 2015, prepared the Broker-Dealer's December 31, 2014 financial statements and, respectively, authorized the issuance of and issued the 2014 Audit Report.

39. As a result of maintaining and preparing accounting records and preparing the December 31, 2014 financial statements, Roth & Company was not independent of the Broker-Dealer in connection with the 2014 Audit and violated PCAOB Rule 3520 and AU § 220.

40. As a result of his participation in maintaining and preparing accounting records and in preparing the December 31, 2014 financial statements, Carlson also was not independent of the Broker-Dealer in connection with the 2014 Audit and violated PCAOB Rule 3520 and AU § 220.

V.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondents' Offers.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 is imposed upon the Firm, and a separate and additional civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed upon Jerome A. Carlson, CPA. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. The Firm and Jerome A. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-031 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) limiting the activities, functions, and operations of Deloitte Brazil, including by prohibiting the Firm from accepting new engagements to prepare or issue audit reports for new clients who are issuers, brokers, or dealers, as those terms are defined by U.S. securities laws and PCAOB rules, until the Firm completes certain quality control remediation measures; (3) requiring Deloitte Brazil to engage an independent monitor for the period specified in this Order; (4) requiring Deloitte Brazil to adopt and implement certain policies and procedures related to the Firm's system of quality control; (5) requiring Deloitte Brazil to provide additional professional education and training to its associated persons; and (6) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $8,000,000 on Deloitte Brazil.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Deloitte Brazil: (a) violated securities laws and PCAOB rules and standards in issuing unqualified audit reports concerning the 2010 financial statements and internal control of an issuer client; (b) improperly altered the work papers for its audits of two issuer clients in connection with a Board inspection in 2012; and (c) obstructed and otherwise failed to cooperate with a Board investigation concerning those two audits.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) and (3) against Respondent.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings (which are admitted) and the facts, findings, and violations set forth in paragraphs 63-65, 69-70, 72, 74, 76-78, 81-82, 85-86, and 90 (which are admitted), Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order").[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[2] as follows:

A. Introduction

1. This matter concerns the failure by Deloitte Brazil to fulfill its public watchdog role as an independent and ethical auditor. Specifically, the Firm violated Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended ("Exchange Act"), and PCAOB rules and standards in 2011 when it knowingly issued false audit reports concerning the 2010 financial statements and internal control of an issuer client. In violation of PCAOB rules and standards, the Firm then attempted to cover up its violations by improperly altering documents in connection with a 2012 PCAOB inspection and by obstructing a subsequent PCAOB investigation. Deloitte Brazil committed these violations through several personnel who were at the time some of its most senior partners, and who were entrusted with leadership and governance roles in the Firm during various stages of the misconduct, as well as through other partners and staff on two audit engagement teams. The leaders who supervised and directed this misconduct not only set a tone of disregard for compliance with PCAOB rules and standards and PCAOB oversight, but also actively thwarted that oversight, to the detriment of investors.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

B. Respondent

2. Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes is a partnership organized under the laws of Brazil, and is headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil. The Firm registered with the Board on June 2, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm currently performs audits of approximately seven issuers as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Additionally, as to approximately 60 other issuers, the Firm participates in audits led by other accounting firms, including by other member firms of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited global network ("Deloitte Global"). Those other accounting firms request the Firm to perform audit work that those other firms use or rely on in issuing their audit reports ("referred work"), including certain audits in which the Firm plays a substantial role.[3] In conjunction with five other Deloitte entities in Brazil ("Deloitte Brazil Entities"), the Firm has approximately 170 partners and 5,000 employees, and is governed by a board known as the Policy Committee, which is responsible for overseeing the Firm's operations.[4]

C. Issuers

3. Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., also known as Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. ("Gol" or "Company"), is a Brazil corporation headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil. Its common stock is listed on the BM&F Bovespa exchange in Brazil and its American Depositary Shares are listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "GOL." At all relevant times, Gol was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Deloitte Brazil served as the external auditor for Gol for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2009 through December 31, 2013, after which the Firm rotated off the Gol engagement pursuant to Brazilian audit firm rotation requirements.

4. "Issuer 2" is an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Deloitte Brazil served as the external auditor for Issuer 2 for fiscal year 2010, among other years.

[3] See PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(ii) (containing definition of "play a substantial role in the preparation or furnishing of an audit report").

[4] On June 1, 2016, Deloitte Brazil installed new leadership, which has taken the steps described in paragraph 23.

D. Other Relevant Persons and Entities

5. The "Gol Engagement Partner"[5] is a former partner of Deloitte Brazil. The Gol Engagement Partner was the engagement partner for the Firm's audits of Gol's financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") for the years ended December 31, 2009 through December 31, 2011. The Gol Engagement Partner held a leadership position in the Firm's Audit function from February 23, 2011 through August 7, 2014, and served on the Firm's Policy Committee from February 23, 2010 through March 24, 2011. The Gol Engagement Partner also served as the engagement quality reviewer for Deloitte Brazil's audit of Issuer 2's fiscal year 2010 financial statements. The Firm placed the Gol Engagement Partner on administrative leave in October 2015, and he separated from the Firm in March 2016.

6. The "Gol Senior Manager"[6] is a former partner of Deloitte Brazil. The Gol Senior Manager was a senior manager for the Firm's audit of Gol's financial statements and ICFR for the year ended December 31, 2010. The Firm placed the Gol Senior Manager on administrative leave in November 2015, and he separated from the Firm in November 2016.

7. "Senior Partner 2"[7] is a former partner of Deloitte Brazil. At all relevant times, Senior Partner 2 held a leadership position in the Firm's Audit function. The Firm placed Senior Partner 2 on administrative leave in July 2016, and he separated from the Firm in November 2016.

8. "Senior Partner 3"[8] is a former partner of Deloitte Brazil. At all relevant times, Senior Partner 3 held senior leadership positions at the Firm, including at certain relevant times a position on the Policy Committee. By virtue of his specific leadership positions, Senior Partner 3 was one of the Firm partners most responsible for ensuring the compliance by Firm personnel with ethical and regulatory requirements. The Firm placed Senior Partner 3 on administrative leave in July 2016, and he separated from the Firm in November 2016.

9. The "Two Senior Managers"[9] are former partners of Deloitte Brazil. At all times relevant to this Order, the two senior managers worked in the Global IFRS and Offering Services ("GIOS") group within the Deloitte Brazil Entities. The Two Senior Managers became partners in the Firm in 2013. The Firm placed the Two Senior Managers on administrative leave in December 2015 and January 2016, respectively, and they separated from the Firm in November 2016.

10. The Enterprise Risk Services ("ERS") group is a business unit within the Deloitte Brazil Entities. Personnel from the ERS group provide services to audit teams and external clients concerning, among other things, information technology ("IT") systems, including by testing the design, implementation, and operating effectiveness of controls contained in client IT system environments in connection with audits by Firm engagement teams.

11. The "ERS Partner"[10] is a retired partner of one of the Deloitte Brazil Entities and was the partner in charge of ERS procedures for the 2010 GoI audit engagement. The Firm placed the ERS Partner on administrative leave in July 2016, and he retired from the Firm in November 2016.

12. The "ERS Manager"[11] is a former employee of one of the Deloitte Brazil Entities. She performed work in connection with Deloitte Brazil audits and was the manager for ERS procedures for the 2010 GoI audit engagement. The Firm terminated the ERS Manager in July 2016.

13. The "Issuer 2 Partner"[12] is a former partner of Deloitte Brazil, and was a second partner on the Firm's audit of Issuer 2's financial statements and ICFR for fiscal year 2010 ("Issuer 2 Audit"). The Issuer 2 Partner was promoted to a leadership position in the Firm's Rio de Janeiro office in July 2015. The Firm placed the Issuer 2 Partner on administrative leave in March 2016, and he separated from the Firm in November 2016.

14. The "Issuer 2 Senior Manager"[13] is a former employee of Deloitte Brazil and was a senior manager on the Issuer 2 Audit. The Firm terminated the Issuer 2 Senior Manager in July 2016.

15. The "Issuer 2 Manager"[14] is a former employee of Deloitte Brazil and was a manager on the Issuer 2 Audit. The Issuer 2 Manager left the Firm in June 2013.

E. Summary

16. Deloitte Brazil serves as the external auditor for certain issuer clients who file Forms 20-F with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC"). For 2010, one of these issuer clients was Gol.[15]

17. Deloitte Brazil's audit of Gol's 2010 financial statements and ICFR ("2010 Gol Audit") violated PCAOB rules and standards in a number of ways. For example: (a) the Firm's engagement team failed to obtain sufficient competent evidence that Gol was accurately accounting for its "maintenance deposit" assets, and in fact senior members of the Firm's engagement team understood that Gol lacked the necessary support for a potentially material amount of the maintenance deposits it was reporting; (b) the Firm's engagement team failed to obtain sufficient competent evidence that Gol's reported revenue and deferred revenue were materially accurate, and in fact senior members of the Firm's engagement team understood that a potentially material misstatement affecting both accounts was still being analyzed when it released its audit reports; and (c) the Firm's engagement team failed to address red flags indicating that Gol's ICFR was not operating effectively at year-end 2010.

18. The Gol Engagement Partner (who was responsible for authorizing the issuance of the Firm's audit reports on Gol and who was named to a leadership position in the Audit function during the audit) knew, and therefore the Firm knew, that significant violations of PCAOB rules and standards had occurred during the audit, and therefore that the statements in the Firm's audit reports that the 2010 Gol Audit had been performed in accordance with PCAOB standards were materially false. Nevertheless, the Firm, with the Gol Engagement Partner's authorization, issued unqualified audit reports concerning GoI's 2010 financial statements and ICFR, in violation of Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10b-5.

19. In 2012, the Board conducted an inspection of Deloitte Brazil, including an inspection of the 2010 GoI Audit. In anticipation of that inspection, the GoI Engagement Partner directed the GoI Senior Manager, who had participated in the 2010 GoI Audit, and the Two Senior Managers to improperly alter the work papers for the audit. The Firm provided the improperly altered work papers, as well as other misleading documents and information, to the Board in connection with the inspection. Additionally, the GoI Engagement Partner, who served as the engagement quality reviewer for the Issuer 2 Audit, authorized the Issuer 2 Partner, who had served on the Issuer 2 Audit team, to improperly alter the archived documentation for the Issuer 2 Audit, another audit that the Board inspected in 2012. The Issuer 2 Partner carried out those improper alterations with the assistance of the Issuer 2 Senior Manager and Issuer 2 Manager, and the Firm provided those improperly altered work papers to Board inspectors.

20. In October 2013, the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") opened an informal inquiry into the 2010 GoI Audit. Deloitte Brazil obstructed that inquiry by, among other things, producing the improperly altered versions of the 2010 GoI Audit work papers and withholding the original versions. The Firm also provided false information to the Division and withheld other documents to cover up the Firm's wrongdoing. By the end of February 2014, certain members of the Firm's senior leadership at the time—including Senior Partner 2 and Senior Partner 3, who held a senior compliance position at the Firm—became aware of the misconduct during the 2012 inspection and either joined or failed to prevent the effort to conceal both the violations in connection with the 2010 GoI Audit and the improper alteration of work papers for that audit.

21. The efforts of certain senior Firm leaders to conceal the misconduct continued, and continued to expand, after the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation in June 2014. During the Board's formal investigation, those leaders: (a) caused the Firm to continue to represent that the improperly altered 2010 GoI work papers previously produced to the Division were the original work papers, and to continue to withhold the actual original work papers from the audit; and (b) caused the Firm to make numerous false statements to the Division that were consistent with the improperly altered, but not with the original, GoI work papers. Additionally, certain Firm personnel, including some of those senior leaders, provided false testimony under oath, including by falsely representing that the improperly altered work papers they were shown were the original work papers for the 2010 GoI Audit.

22. In October 2015, the Division presented evidence to Deloitte Brazil that the GoI Audit Committee presentations for the third quarter of 2010 and year-end 2010 had been improperly altered and raised concerns that other work papers had also been improperly altered. In response, the Firm commenced an internal investigation and reported to the Division in October and November 2015 that 56 work papers from the 2010 GoI Audit and fourteen work papers from the GoI quarterly reviews had been improperly altered. The Firm also placed the GoI Engagement Partner and GoI Senior Manager on leave. Other members of leadership, however, continued the effort to prevent the PCAOB from learning the full extent of the wrongdoing. To that end, they caused the Firm to deny that work papers had been improperly altered for the Issuer 2 Audit, and to make other false representations to the Division. After the Division identified specific evidence of the improper alteration of certain Issuer 2 Audit work papers in February 2016, however, the Firm expanded its investigation and reported to the Division concerning other Issuer 2 Audit work papers that had also been improperly altered. Nevertheless, the culpable members of Firm leadership continued to conceal the true extent of their involvement in the provision of false documents, information, and testimony to the Division.

23. In January 2016, the GoI Senior Manager provided the Division with evidence that certain senior Deloitte Brazil personnel had participated in a joint effort to obstruct the Division's investigation. The Division presented some of that evidence to the Firm in July 2016. The new leadership of the Firm, which had taken office on June 1, 2016, subsequently removed Senior Partner 2 and Senior Partner 3 from their positions. Deloitte Brazil has terminated or separated all partners and employees identified as having participated in the wrongdoing described herein (or they have otherwise left the Firm). The Firm also implemented remedial measures to improve its work paper archiving process, audit quality, ethical culture, and regulatory compliance.

24. As evidenced by the failures during the 2010 GoI Audit, the non-cooperation with the 2012 Board inspection, and the obstruction of the Division's investigation, Deloitte Brazil failed to maintain an effective system of quality control providing reasonable assurance that its personnel would act with integrity and in compliance with professional standards.

F. Deloitte Brazil Violated Federal Securities Laws and PCAOB Rules and Standards in Issuing Unqualified 2010 GoI Audit Reports

Applicable Securities Laws and PCAOB Rules and Standards

25. Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act prohibits the use of "any manipulative or deceptive device or contrivance in contravention of such rules and regulations as the Commission may prescribe as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors."[16] In implementing that section, the Commission has prohibited the making of "any untrue statement of a material fact" or the omission of "a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading."[17]

26. To violate Exchange Act Section 10(b) or Exchange Act Rule 10b-5, a respondent must act with scienter,[18] which the Supreme Court has defined as "a mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud."[19] Scienter encompasses knowing or intentional conduct, or recklessness.[20] An auditor violates Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 thereunder by issuing an audit report stating that the audit has been performed in accordance with PCAOB standards when he or she knows, or is reckless in not knowing, that the statement is false.[21]

27. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[22] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor express an opinion concerning an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has performed the audit in compliance with PCAOB standards.[23]

28. PCAOB standards also require that auditors exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter to provide a reasonable basis for the audit report.[24] While that evidential matter can include management representations, such representations "are not a substitute for the application of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[25]

29. PCAOB standards also establish requirements for auditors who audit, and express an opinion regarding, an issuer's ICFR.[26] Among other things, "the auditor must plan and perform the audit to obtain competent evidence that is sufficient to obtain reasonable assurance about whether material weaknesses exist" in the issuer's internal control as of the date specified in management's internal control assessment.[27] PCAOB standards provide that "a company's internal control cannot be considered effective if one or more material weaknesses exist."[28] In order to obtain reasonable assurance about whether a material weakness exists, the auditor must evaluate the severity of each control deficiency that is identified during the audit "to determine whether the deficiencies, individually or in combination, are material weaknesses."[29]

30. PCAOB standards state that an auditor needs to consider audit risk, including control risk, to assist in determining the scope of auditing procedures.[30] Assessment of control risk at below the maximum level may support the auditor's decision to reduce the scope of substantive audit procedures.[31] If a control deficiency is identified, however, an auditor "should determine the effect of the deficiency, if any, on the nature, timing, and extent of substantive procedures to be performed."[32]

31. PCAOB standards provide that "[t]he auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud."[33] The possibility of a material misstatement due to fraud requires the auditor to exercise professional skepticism when gathering and evaluating audit evidence, and to engage in "an ongoing questioning of whether the information and evidence obtained suggests that a material misstatement due to fraud has occurred."[34]

32. PCAOB standards direct that identified fraud risks be taken into account when conducting an audit, including (a) in the auditor's consideration of management's selection and application of significant accounting principles, and (b) in assessing the nature, timing, and extent of the procedures to be performed, including whether controls over revenue recognition are required to be tested.[35] Those standards also state that, when planning the audit, an auditor "should ordinarily presume that there is a risk of material misstatement due to fraud relating to revenue recognition."[36]

33. PCAOB standards also state that an auditor's "assessment of the risks of material misstatement due to fraud should be ongoing throughout the audit."[37] Among the indications of potential fraud that may arise during an audit are "[t]ransactions that are not recorded in a complete or timely manner or are improperly recorded as to amount, accounting period, classification, or entity policy"; "unsupported or unauthorized balances or transactions"; and "significant unexplained items on reconciliations."[38]

34. Additionally, under PCAOB standards, if an auditor identifies misstatements in the financial statements, the auditor should consider whether those misstatements are indicative of fraud; if fraud may be present, the auditor should perform certain additional procedures, even if the misstatements do not appear to be material to the financial statements.[39]

Overview of the 2010 Gol Audit

35. During the relevant time period, Gol operated an airline that offered service primarily in Brazil but also to certain other countries in the Americas. Deloitte Brazil became the external auditor for Gol during the second quarter of 2009. The Firm issued audit reports expressing unqualified opinions on Gol's financial statements and ICFR for both 2009 and 2010, and Gol included those audit reports in Forms 20-F that it filed with the Commission for each of those years.

36. The 2010 Gol Audit was conducted as an integrated audit of Gol's financial statements and its ICFR. Deloitte Brazil set planning materiality for the 2010 Gol Audit at 54.6 million Brazilian reais ("R$") (US$32.8 million).[40]

Certain Deloitte Brazil Personnel Improperly Acquiesced in Gol's Accounting for its Maintenance Deposit Assets

37. During the 2010 Gol Audit, Deloitte Brazil violated PCAOB standards in connection with its audit work on Gol's maintenance deposit assets. Among other violations, the Firm failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient competent audit evidence to support Gol's accounting for its maintenance deposits. The Firm issued unqualified opinions concerning Gol's 2010 financial statements and ICFR while the Gol Engagement Partner knew, and therefore the Firm knew, that these material failures had occurred.

38. As part of its operations, Gol leased aircraft and engines. In connection with these leases, Gol deposited monies with the lessor to be used in future aircraft and engine maintenance work. Gol reported these monies as maintenance deposit assets. For the years ended December 31, 2009 and 2010, Gol reported maintenance deposits of R$522.7 million and R$456.7 million, respectively, which amounted to 6 percent and 5 percent of Gol's total reported assets for those respective years.[41]

[39] See id. §§ 316.75 - .78.

[40] Amounts provided in U.S. dollars relating to the 2010 Gol Audit are based on the exchange rate at December 31, 2010 of approximately R$1 = US$0.60. As of November 30, 2016, the exchange rate was approximately R$1 = US$0.30.

[41] Certain amounts in this Order are rounded, which may affect the outcome of described calculations.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

39. During the 2009 audit of GoI, the Deloitte Brazil engagement team concluded that GoI had failed to appropriately track its use of maintenance deposits on a contract-by-contract basis, thereby preventing the team from obtaining sufficient competent evidence to support the large majority of GoI's reported 2009 maintenance deposits. The Firm's engagement team was also on notice that GoI's reported maintenance deposit assets may have been overstated and that its ICFR may not have been operating effectively at year-end 2009. Based on GoI's representation that it intended to hire a consultant to analyze its maintenance deposit records during 2010, however, the GoI Engagement Partner acquiesced in the Company's accounting and caused the Firm to issue audit reports expressing unqualified opinions on GoI's financial statements and ICFR for 2009.

40. During the reviews of GoI's quarterly financial statements during 2010, the Firm's engagement team monitored GoI's progress in both quantifying the amount of maintenance deposits that were unsupported and writing down those deposits. The GoI Engagement Partner understood, however, that GoI was treating those write-downs as current period expenses despite the fact that most of the unsupported deposits related to prior periods.

41. During the 2010 GoI Audit, the GoI Engagement Partner understood that GoI still planned to report R$52.6 million (US$31.6 million) of unsupported maintenance deposits as assets on its 2010 balance sheet. The GoI Engagement Partner further understood that GoI planned to improperly spread its write-off of that remaining R$52.6 million of unsupported maintenance deposits over its quarterly financial statements in 2011.

42. During the 2010 GoI Audit, the Firm's engagement team failed to obtain sufficient competent audit evidence concerning either the R$52.6 of remaining unsupported maintenance deposits (which represented 14 percent of reported pre-tax income) or the amounts written off during 2010 as current year expenses (which totaled R$116.5 million, or 30 percent of reported pre-tax income). The engagement team also: (a) failed to consider whether the misstatements in GoI's accounting for its maintenance deposits were indicative of fraud; (b) failed to assess the materiality to GoI's 2010 financial statements of either the R$52.6 million in unsupported deposits or the amounts written off in 2010 that the team understood to represent prior-year expenses; and (c) failed to evaluate controls over GoI's accounting for its maintenance deposits, including whether there was a deficiency in its ICFR, and whether that deficiency, individually or in combination with other deficiencies, represented a material weakness. Instead, as discussed below, the GoI Engagement Partner knowingly acquiesced in GoI's unsupported reporting of both expenses and a potentially material amount of assets, and the Firm issued audit reports concerning GoI's 2010 financial statements and ICFR that falsely stated that its audit work had conformed to PCAOB standards.

ORDER

Deloitte Brazil Failed to Obtain Sufficient Evidence Concerning Gol's Reported Advance Ticket Sales and Passenger Revenue

43. During the 2010 Gol Audit, Deloitte Brazil also violated PCAOB standards in connection with its engagement team's audit work on Gol's reported passenger revenue and its advance ticket sales liability. Among other violations, the Firm's engagement team failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient competent evidence concerning Gol's accounting for and controls over passenger revenue and advance ticket sales.

44. Gol's financial statements included two related accounts, passenger revenue and advance ticket sales. Advance ticket sales was a deferred revenue liability account that represented passenger tickets sold for future travel dates. Gol reduced the advance ticket sales liability and recorded passenger revenue either when transportation was provided or when an unused ticket expired. In its 2010 Form 20-F, Gol reported passenger revenue of R$6.3 billion (US$3.8 billion) and an advance ticket sales liability of R$517 million (US$310 million).

45. In planning its audit procedures for passenger revenue and advance ticket sales for the 2010 Gol Audit, the Firm's engagement team identified both accounts as significant accounts, and concluded that a control reliance approach was appropriate as to each account, meaning that the team would reduce its level of substantive testing based on a belief that the controls over those accounts were operating effectively. Additionally, the team identified significant risks of material misstatement relating to those accounts, including: (a) for passenger revenue, the risk that revenue would not effectively correspond to embarkations made; and (b) for advance ticket sales, the risk that the estimates used by management would be incorrect. The team planned that each risk would be addressed by both control procedures and substantive procedures.

46. Despite the instruction in PCAOB standards that an "auditor should ordinarily presume that there is a risk of material misstatement due to fraud relating to revenue recognition,"[42] the Firm's engagement team failed during its planning for the 2010 Gol Audit to identify improper revenue recognition as presenting a risk of material misstatement due to fraud. The team also did not document any basis for overcoming the presumption that improper revenue recognition presented a risk of material misstatement due to fraud.

47. During the 2010 Gol Audit, one of the engagement team's procedures to audit the advance ticket sales liability balance was to review a reconciliation between the advance ticket sales balance reported in Gol's accounting system and the balance reported by its separate reservation system. The team failed, however, to obtain sufficient competent evidence to support the nature or appropriateness of material adjustments and reconciling items included in that reconciliation.

[42] AU § 316.41.

ORDER

48. For example, the reconciliation included an adjustment that reduced the liability balance by R$74.8 million, or 15 percent, based only on Gol management's representation that a certain subset of advance ticket sales—"interline" tickets booked by partner airlines rather than customers—were being properly excluded from the reported advance ticket sales liability. The Firm's engagement team failed to obtain evidence to corroborate either: (a) how the adjustment was reflected in Gol's accounting system; or (b) whether management's accounting treatment was appropriate, especially given that Gol had not made a similar adjustment for interline tickets in the prior year.

49. Even after the adjustments and reconciling items, including the "interline" adjustment described above, the reconciliation still identified a significant difference between the reservation and accounting system balances of R$38.3 million (US$23.0 million). That difference represented ten percent of Gol's reported pre-tax income, seven percent of its reported advance ticket sales liability, and 70 percent of planning materiality, which the engagement team had calculated as a percentage of Gol's revenue. In its work papers, the Firm's engagement team described this difference, which indicated that passenger revenue was overstated and advance ticket sales understated, as an unexplained misstatement ("Potential Misstatement"). The team, including the Gol Engagement Partner, was aware that the R$38.3 million Potential Misstatement amount was still only a preliminary figure, however; at the time it filed its Form 20-F, Gol had not completed its analysis of the Potential Misstatement.

50. The Firm's engagement team proposed to Gol management that it reduce its reported 2010 revenue by the preliminary R$38.3 million figure, and increase the advance ticket sales liability by the same amount, to reflect the Potential Misstatement. Management declined, however, stating, according to Deloitte Brazil's work papers, that it preferred to complete the analysis of the Potential Misstatement before making any adjustment. Although the engagement team included that R$38.3 million amount as a known misstatement in its Summary of Uncorrected Misstatements (the work paper in which the team listed and evaluated the materiality of uncorrected misstatements), it did not otherwise address its inability to obtain sufficient competent evidence concerning Gol's passenger revenue and advance ticket sales liability while Gol's analysis was pending.

51. The Gol Engagement Partner (who was appointed to a leadership position in the Audit function during the audit) was aware that he was causing the Firm to issue unqualified audit reports concerning Gol's 2010 financial statements and ICFR while he knew, and therefore the Firm knew, that the analysis of the Potential Misstatement was still pending. In fact, even using the preliminary amount of R$38.3 million, the engagement team's analysis of the identified misstatements indicated that it should consider performing additional procedures before issuing the audit reports. The GOL Engagement Partner determined, however, that the team should not perform any additional procedures.

52. During the 2010 GOL Audit, the audit work that the Firm's engagement team performed concerning GOL's reported passenger revenue was deficient in other ways as well. For example, in addition to failing to identify improper revenue recognition as presenting a fraud risk (as it should have), the team abandoned procedures it planned to perform that might have addressed, at least in part, that risk. For example, the team planned to test, but did not test, the electronic interface by which the reservation system reported to the accounting system what tickets had been used and what revenue should be recognized. The team also relied to an inappropriate extent on analytical procedures to test passenger revenue, for example by relying solely on substantive analytical procedures to test revenue from credit card sales, which represented a significant portion of its passenger revenue. Moreover, even the substantive analytical procedures that it did perform indicated a potential overstatement of passenger revenue by as much as R$76.4 million. The team failed to take steps to respond to the results of that procedure, including evaluating whether the nature, timing, and extent of its procedures needed to be modified.

53. The results of the GOL engagement team's substantive procedures, including the identification of the Potential Misstatement, made the team aware that a significant deficiency existed in GOL's controls over passenger revenue and advance ticket sales. Additionally, an ERS team, which was engaged by the audit team to test the IT general controls and automated business process controls applicable to GOL's accounting system and reservation system, identified other deficiencies. The Firm's engagement team failed, however, to appropriately evaluate the severity of the identified deficiencies, both individually and in the aggregate. Further, the team failed to consider whether the results of its audit procedures, and the deficiencies that those procedures had identified, called into question the appropriateness of its control reliance approach to the passenger revenue and advance ticket sales accounts.

Deloitte Brazil Improperly Issued Unqualified Reports on GOL's 2010 Financial Statements and ICFR, in Violation of Securities Laws and PCAOB Standards

54. On April 8, 2011, Deloitte Brazil issued audit reports containing unqualified opinions on GOL's 2010 financial statements and ICFR, and GOL included those reports in a Form 20-F that it filed with the Commission the same day. The audit reports stated that the 2010 GOL Audit had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards. The

ORDER

GoI Engagement Partner knew, and therefore the Firm knew, that those statements were materially false, given the audit deficiencies described above concerning maintenance deposits, advance ticket sales, passenger revenue, and ICFR. Specifically: (a) the Firm, through the GoI Engagement Partner, knew that the engagement team had not obtained sufficient competent evidence concerning GoI's reported maintenance deposits; (b) the Firm, through the GoI Engagement Partner, knew that the team had not obtained sufficient competent evidence concerning GoI's passenger revenue and advance ticket sales; and (c) the Firm, through the GoI Engagement Partner, knew that the team had not adequately evaluated the severity of all identified control deficiencies, and had not re-evaluated its reliance on controls, or the nature and scope of its audit procedures, in light of those identified deficiencies.[43]

55. Deloitte Brazil's issuance of two unqualified audit reports concerning GoI's 2010 financial statements and ICFR in the face of this knowledge violated Exchange Act Section 10(b) and Exchange Act Rule 10b-5. During the 2010 GoI Audit, the Firm also violated numerous PCAOB standards, specifically by: (a) failing to act with due professional care, including professional skepticism, and failing to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter in its procedures concerning GoI's maintenance deposits, passenger revenue, advance ticket sales, and ICFR;[44] (b) failing to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether one or more material weaknesses existed in GoI's ICFR;[45] (c) failing to adequately evaluate the severity of identified control deficiencies and to adequately determine the effect of those deficiencies on the nature, timing, and extent of its procedures;[46] and (d) failing to perform adequate procedures relating to fraud risks, including by failing to respond adequately to indications of fraud and failing to treat GoI's revenue recognition as presenting a risk of material misstatement due to fraud.[47]

[43] This Order's description of audit deficiencies and other violations by Deloitte Brazil in connection with the 2010 GoI Audit should not be understood as an indication that either the Board or the Commission has considered or made any determination concerning GoI's compliance with applicable accounting requirements and securities laws.

ORDER

G. After the 2010 GoI Audit, Certain Deloitte Brazil Personnel Identified a New Accounting Treatment for the Potential Misstatement

56. Months after issuing its unqualified audit reports concerning GoI's 2010 financial statements and ICFR, certain Deloitte Brazil personnel belatedly identified a provision in the accounting literature that they believed would have applied to the Potential Misstatement. As discussed below, some of those personnel later participated in the improper alteration of work papers from the 2010 GoI Audit to create the appearance that the accounting provision had in fact been considered at the time of the audit.

57. During the first quarter of 2011, GoI completed its analysis of the Potential Misstatement. Its quantification of that misstatement rose from R$38.3 million to R$56.8 million. On May 10, 2011, GoI announced that it would reduce its reported first-quarter 2011 revenue by R$56.8 million to account for the misstatement.

58. On December 2, 2011, the Commission's Division of Corporation Finance ("Corporation Finance") issued a comment letter to GoI concerning certain aspects of its 2010 Form 20-F and 2011 quarterly filings. Among the issues raised by the comment letter was the R$56.8 million write-down of revenue for the first quarter of 2011. The comment letter requested an explanation concerning how International Accounting Standard 8, Accounting Policies, Changes in Accounting Estimates and Errors ("IAS 8"), under International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") applied to the write-down.

59. During December 2011 and early 2012, Deloitte Brazil personnel met to discuss how to provide assistance to GoI in responding to the comment letter and follow-up correspondence. Those personnel noted that a particular provision of IAS 8, Paragraph 44, might have applied to the Potential Misstatement. IAS 8 Paragraph 44 directs that, if it is "impracticable" for an entity "to determine the period-specific effects of an error on comparative information for one or more prior periods presented, the entity shall restate" the opening balance sheet "for the earliest period for which retrospective restatement is practicable (which may be the current period)."[48] Although the Firm's engagement team had not considered IAS 8 Paragraph 44 at the time of the 2010 GoI Audit and the Firm did not document any analysis of that provision at the time of the SEC comment letter process, certain Firm personnel, including the GoI Engagement Partner, adopted the view that IAS 8 Paragraph 44 would have been the correct way to account for the Potential Misstatement at year-end 2010. Specifically, those Firm personnel concluded that IAS 8 Paragraph 44 would have directed GoI to book the Potential Misstatement as a reduction to shareholders' equity in the Company's opening 2011 balance sheet, rather than as a reduction in revenue and increase in advance ticket sales in 2010. Gol subsequently cited IAS 8 Paragraph 44 to Corporation Finance in arguing that its 2010 accounting had been materially correct.

60. As explained below, in connection with the 2012 PCAOB inspection, Deloitte Brazil provided misleading documents and information to PCAOB inspectors. Among other things, the misleading documents and information falsely indicated that, during the 2010 Gol Audit, the Firm's engagement team had considered IAS 8 Paragraph 44 and had concluded that the Potential Misstatement was a multi-period error whose allocation was impracticable, thereby purportedly necessitating its treatment under IAS 8 Paragraph 44 exclusively as a balance-sheet error (with no income statement impact).

H. Deloitte Brazil Improperly Altered Work Papers in Connection with the Board's 2012 Inspection

Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

61. Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS3"), requires that the complete and final set of documentation for an audit be assembled for retention by the "documentation completion date," a date no later than 45 days from the date on which the auditor grants permission to use its report.[49] After the documentation completion date, audit documentation must not be deleted or discarded from the audit file, but it may be added as long as the auditor documents the date of the addition, the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation.[50]

62. PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors, requires registered firms and their associated persons to cooperate with inspections conducted by the Board. The cooperation requirement of Rule 4006 includes an obligation "not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[51]

Certain Deloitte Brazil Personnel Concealed the Firm's Audit Violations from Board Inspectors

63. The Board conducted an inspection of Deloitte Brazil in 2012. On or about March 8, 2012, the Board's Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") informed the Firm that the 2010 GoI Audit and the Issuer 2 Audit for 2010 would be two of the audits inspected, and that the focus areas for GoI would be revenue, deferred revenue, accounts receivable, and property, plant, and equipment. Primary field work procedures for the inspection commenced on March 26, 2012.

64. In response to Inspections' March 8, 2012 notification, the GoI Engagement Partner initiated an effort to thwart the Board's oversight of Deloitte Brazil's audit work by improperly altering the work papers for the 2010 GoI Audit. He instructed the GoI Senior Manager (who had become a Firm partner in June 2011) to carry out the improper alterations along with the Two Senior Managers.

65. After making numerous alterations to the 2010 GoI Audit work papers in conjunction with the Two Senior Managers, the GoI Senior Manager sent the improperly altered work papers to the GoI Engagement Partner, who made additional improper alterations on his own. In total, 56 work papers from the 2010 GoI Audit were improperly altered, as were fourteen work papers from the 2010 quarterly reviews. The altered documents included work papers relating to the Firm's auditing of GoI's maintenance deposits, passenger revenue, advance ticket sales, accounts receivable, and ICFR, as well as its Summary of Uncorrected Misstatements and its presentation to the GoI Audit Committee.

66. Among the improper alterations made were: (1) changes to multiple work papers that concealed the acquiescence in what Firm personnel, including the GoI Engagement Partner, understood to be GoI's plan to improperly manage the write-off of unsupported maintenance deposits over time; and (2) changes to other work papers that created the appearance that the Firm's engagement team had considered IAS 8 Paragraph 44 to apply to the Potential Misstatement at the time of the 2010 GoI Audit, when in fact that accounting provision had not been identified until months later.

67. After the improper alterations were complete, the Firm made the improperly altered work papers available to Inspections for use in the inspection.[52] The

[52] In advance of the primary procedures for the inspection, Deloitte Brazil represented to Inspections as to the 2010 GoI Audit and Issuer 2 Audit that no changes had been made to the documentation for those audits after the documentation completion date. The alterations of the 2010 GoI Audit documentation and the Issuer 2

Firm also provided other misleading documents and information during the inspection. For example, when Inspections asked for additional support for the Firm engagement team's treatment of the Potential Misstatement during the audit, the GoI Engagement Partner improperly altered a presentation that he had used with Senior Partner 2 during their consultation ("Technical Presentation") so that it cited IAS 8, thereby providing further false support for the claim that the Firm's engagement team had considered that provision at the time of the 2010 GoI Audit. The Firm then provided the improperly altered Technical Presentation to Inspections.

68. Additionally, after Inspections requested a meeting with the ERS Partner and ERS Manager for the 2010 GoI Audit concerning the IT procedures they had performed during the audit, certain GoI engagement team members informed the ERS Partner and ERS Manager that the ERS work papers had been improperly altered to change the findings that certain IT-based controls were ineffective. The ERS Partner and ERS Manager subsequently met with Inspections to discuss the IT procedures performed during the audit. The ERS Partner, ERS Manager, and one of the Two Senior Managers (who also attended the meeting) provided misleading information to Inspections by participating in those discussions without informing Inspections that the discussions were based on ERS work papers that had been improperly altered.

69. The Issuer 2 Partner and two managers under his direction—the Issuer 2 Senior Manager and the Issuer 2 Manager—also improperly altered the work papers for the Issuer 2 Audit in connection with the 2012 Board inspection. After Inspections informed Deloitte Brazil that it would inspect the Issuer 2 Audit, the Issuer 2 Partner (who had been a second partner on that audit) informed the GoI Engagement Partner (who had been the engagement quality reviewer on that audit) that certain work papers from the audit contained on CDs were missing. The Issuer 2 Partner proposed to alter non-final versions of multiple Issuer 2 Audit work papers, burn those altered work papers onto new CDs, and present those new CDs to PCAOB inspectors as documentation that had been prepared timely and in accordance with PCAOB standards. The GoI Engagement Partner approved the plan, which the Issuer 2 Partner then carried out. In furtherance of that plan, the Issuer 2 Partner instructed the Issuer 2 Manager, who had worked on the audit, to back-date his computer clock to create the appearance that the new CDs had been burned at the time of the Issuer 2 Audit. The Issuer 2 Partner also instructed the Issuer 2 Senior Manager to create and back-date certain other work papers, which the Issuer 2 Partner then added to the manual work paper binders after those binders had been provided to Inspections.

Audit documentation (described below) rendered those representations false and misleading.

ORDER

70. Based on the conduct described above, Deloitte Brazil failed to cooperate with the Board's 2012 inspection of the Firm, in violation of PCAOB Rule 4006.[53]

I. Deloitte Brazil Failed to Cooperate with the Board's Investigation

Applicable Statutory Provision and PCAOB Rule

71. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction a registered public accounting firm for "refus[ing] to…cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation."[54] Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[55] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes: (a) "fail[ing] to comply with an accounting board demand"; (b) "knowingly mak[ing] any false material declaration or mak[ing] or us[ing] any other information, including any book, paper, document, record, recording, or other material, knowing the same to contain any false material declaration"; (c) "abus[ing] the Board's processes for the purpose of obstructing an investigation"; and (d) "otherwise [failing] to cooperate in connection with an investigation."[56]

Certain Senior Deloitte Brazil Personnel Obstructed the PCAOB's Informal Inquiry and Formal Investigation

72. On October 15, 2013, the Division issued a request to Deloitte Brazil ("2013 Request") for, among other things, "the complete and final set of audit documentation assembled for retention" concerning the 2010 GoI Audit. The 2013 Request also asked the Firm to preserve all documents relating to the 2010 GoI Audit.

73. After receiving the 2013 Request, the GoI Engagement Partner continued the effort to thwart the PCAOB's oversight, which expanded to concealing both the GoI audit violations and the improper alteration of documents in connection with the 2012 PCAOB inspection. In furtherance of this effort, the GoI Engagement Partner caused the Firm to produce the improperly altered 2010 GoI Audit work papers to the Division, and to withhold the original versions, along with inculpatory emails.

[53] The improper alteration of the GoI and Issuer 2 work papers was also inconsistent with Firm policy.

[54] 15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3)(A).

[55] See PCAOB Rules 5110, 5200(a)(3).

[56] PCAOB Rule 5110(a).

ORDER

74. By no later than February 2014, Senior Partner 2 and Senior Partner 3 learned of the alteration of 2010 GoI Audit work papers. Those partners subsequently either joined or failed to prevent the GoI Engagement Partner's efforts to conceal the wrongdoing. Other Firm partners were also aware of or participated in the concealment, including the GoI Senior Manager. Certain Firm partners discussed the concealment of documents and information from the Division in various meetings and conversations during the inquiry, and those partners crafted a false story of the 2010 GoI Audit to present to the Board to reflect the improperly altered work papers that had been produced.

75. For example, on March 10, 2014, Senior Partner 3, who was one of the Deloitte Brazil leaders most responsible for ensuring regulatory compliance at the Firm, discussed with the GoI Senior Manager that several senior Firm partners had determined to minimize the risk to the Firm by withholding the fact of the improper alteration of the 2010 GoI Audit work papers from both Deloitte Global and the Firm's external counsel. Unbeknownst to Senior Partner 3, however, the GoI Senior Manager was recording the conversation on his mobile phone. In that conversation, Senior Partner 3 also instructed the GoI Senior Manager to remove inculpatory documents from his computer and office to prevent their being produced to the PCAOB:[57]

Senior Partner 3:	Any evidence that you have of this, remove it from your machine. Keep it in a—if you have that, keep it somewhere else, but not in your machine, not in the office. Okay?
GoI Senior Manager:	No. Okay.
Senior Partner 3:	Okay? Another thing, considering that he [the GoI Engagement Partner] will take the responsibility for all this, everything you told me, everything we discussed, never happened.[58]
GoI Senior Manager:	Okay.

[57] The conversation, which was held in Portuguese, has been translated into English.

[58] Certain senior Deloitte Brazil partners who were aware of the improper alteration of the GoI work papers had previously discussed that, if the alterations were ever discovered, the GoI Engagement Partner would assume all responsibility and would protect the other culpable members of Firm leadership.

ORDER

> Senior Partner 3: Never! Whatever happens—I, if somebody says, "No, [GoI Senior Manager] said to you—," I will say, "No, there must be a mistake!" I will never admit that it was said.

76. In June 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation, and the Division issued a document demand covering the 2010 GoI Audit work papers. In response, the Firm continued to withhold the original versions of those work papers and made false material statements to the Division. Among the false material statements were representations contained in a July 2014 presentation that Deloitte Brazil made to the Division, which cited and relied on the improperly altered GoI work papers. The GoI Engagement Partner, Senior Partner 2, and Senior Partner 3 reviewed the presentation in advance and knew it to contain statements consistent with the improperly altered work papers.

77. On September 29, 2014, Senior Partner 3 signed a written certification, which was provided to the Division and stated that, "to the best of [the Firm's] knowledge, information, and belief formed after a reasonable search," the Firm had produced all documents responsive to the Division's demands. This certification, which the Firm provided to the Division on October 3, 2014, was false and misleading, because Senior Partner 3 was aware that the Firm had withheld the original, unaltered 2010 GoI Audit work papers as well as other inculpatory documents.

78. In April 2015, the Division informed Deloitte Brazil that it believed a presentation may have been used by the GoI Engagement Partner to consult with Senior Partner 2 about the Potential Misstatement during the 2010 GoI Audit. Despite knowing that the Firm possessed the Technical Presentation and that it had produced it to Inspections (in altered form) in 2012, certain senior partners caused the Firm to deny that the presentation existed. In July 2015, during testimony by Senior Partner 2, the Division introduced a copy of the Technical Presentation that Inspections had retained in its files, the same version that the GoI Engagement Partner had improperly altered during the Inspection to add a reference to IAS 8. In September 2015, the Firm produced the same altered version to the Division. The Firm falsely stated, when it made that production, that it had just located the Technical Presentation and that it believed all responsive documents had been produced, when in fact the GoI Engagement Partner and certain other Firm partners knew that the original 2010 GoI Audit work papers were still being withheld.

79. From May 2015 through October 2015, certain Deloitte Brazil personnel provided testimony to the PCAOB under oath and on the record. These included several Firm partners who were aware of the improper alteration of work papers, including the GoI Senior Manager and the GoI Engagement Partner. Those witnesses provided testimony that was consistent with the false story that the GoI engagement team had identified IAS 8 Paragraph 44 as an applicable accounting standard at the time of the 2010 GoI Audit. The GoI Engagement Partner also concealed the nature of the Firm's conduct relating to GoI's accounting for its unsupported maintenance deposits. Additionally, the Division presented several improperly altered work papers from the 2010 GoI Audit and quarterly reviews to the GoI Engagement Partner and GoI Senior Manager without being aware of their altered nature. The GoI Engagement Partner and GoI Senior Manager falsely affirmed that those altered work papers were the original work papers from the 2010 GoI Audit.

Certain Deloitte Brazil Personnel Attempted to Conceal the Scope of the Misconduct After the Improper Alterations Were Exposed

80. On October 8 and 9, 2015, the Division confronted the GoI Engagement Partner during his testimony with evidence that the GoI Audit Committee presentations for the third quarter of 2010 and year-end 2010 had been improperly altered. The GoI Engagement Partner falsely denied that any alteration had occurred. Deloitte Brazil, however, commenced an internal investigation, in which it retained forensic personnel employed by a Deloitte entity in the United States and assigned an independent Firm team to analyze the differences between the original 2010 GoI Audit work papers and the work papers that the Firm had made available to Inspections and had produced to the Division. Based on that work, in October and November 2015 the Firm reported to the Division that 56 work papers from the 2010 GoI Audit and fourteen work papers from the 2010 quarterly reviews had in fact been altered after the relevant documentation completion dates, and provided the Division with redlines showing the changes. The original work papers showed that the GoI Engagement Partner had acquiesced in GoI's accounting for its unsupported maintenance deposits and that the engagement team had not considered IAS 8 Paragraph 44 at the time of the audit. The Firm also placed the GoI Engagement Partner, the GoI Senior Manager, and the Two Senior Managers who had altered GoI work papers on leave, and took steps to improve its quality controls relating to the archiving of audit work papers.

81. Other Deloitte Brazil partners continued their efforts, however, to conceal the scope of the wrongdoing. Additionally, they caused the Firm to represent to the Division that the GoI-related alterations were an isolated incident and that the work papers for the other audits inspected in 2012, including the Issuer 2 Audit, did not appear to have been improperly altered.

82. In January 2016, Deloitte Brazil produced a set of Issuer 2 Audit work papers to the PCAOB. On February 3, 2016, the Division notified the Firm that certain of the Issuer 2 work papers had electronic metadata showing last-modified dates well after the documentation completion date for the Issuer 2 Audit. In response, the Firm expanded its internal investigation, and subsequently disclosed that a large number of the work papers for the Issuer 2 Audit had not been properly archived in the electronic archive, and that certain of those work papers had been improperly added to or modified in the Issuer 2 Audit file in advance of the 2012 inspection. The Firm also placed the Issuer 2 Partner on leave and took steps to adopt additional remedial measures concerning audit documentation.

83. Certain Firm personnel, however, continued in 2016 to fail to cooperate with the Division's investigation. These included Senior Partner 3, who during his testimony falsely denied having any knowledge of obstruction or work paper alteration. Additionally, the ERS Manager, who was still associated with the Firm, refused to appear for additional testimony.

84. In January 2016, the GoI Senior Manager alerted the Division to the efforts by certain senior personnel to obstruct its investigation and to the fact that he had recorded conversations with some of those personnel concerning the obstruction. Certain Deloitte Brazil personnel subsequently took steps to dissuade the GoI Senior Manager from cooperating with the Division or asked the GoI Senior Manager not to reveal their participation in the obstruction.

85. In July 2016, the Division confronted Senior Partner 3 in his testimony with evidence of his obstruction obtained from the GoI Senior Manager. After that testimony, Deloitte Brazil's new leadership, which had taken office on June 1, 2016, removed Senior Partner 2 and Senior Partner 3 from their leadership positions, and terminated or placed on administrative leave personnel who had been identified as participating in the wrongdoing. Additionally, the Firm implemented remedial measures to improve the Firm's audit quality and regulatory compliance.

* * * * *

86. Through the conduct described above, Deloitte Brazil failed to cooperate with a Board investigation, warranting the imposition of sanctions against the Firm pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b).

J. Deloitte Brazil Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

87. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards.[59] PCAOB quality control standards, in turn, require

[59] PCAOB Rule 3100; PCAOB Rule 3400T, Interim Quality Control Standards.

that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[60]

88. Pursuant to PCAOB quality control standards, firms should establish policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that: (a) "personnel … perform all professional responsibilities with integrity, and maintain objectivity in discharging professional responsibilities";[61] (b) "the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality,"[62] including with respect to "performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement";[63] and (c) the firm's quality control policies and procedures "are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[64]

89. In light of the knowing issuance of false audit reports concerning Gol's 2010 financial statements and ICFR and the acquiescence in accounting that was understood to be improper, Deloitte Brazil failed to maintain a system of quality control during the period of wrongdoing that provided reasonable assurance that its personnel would meet applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements concerning the performance, supervision, review, and documentation of audit engagements.

90. Additionally, in light of the improper alteration of work papers for two audits and the provision of misleading documents and information to the Board, which involved several members of the Firm's senior leadership, Deloitte Brazil failed to maintain a system of quality control during the period of wrongdoing that provided reasonable assurance that its personnel would act with integrity.

IV.

ORDER

A. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A) and 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(5) and 5300(b)(1), Deloitte Brazil is censured;

B. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A) and 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(4) and 5300(b)(1), a civil money penalty in the amount of $8,000,000 is imposed upon Deloitte Brazil. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Deloitte Brazil shall pay $4,000,000 of this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006. Deloitte Brazil shall pay an additional $2,000,000 of the penalty by March 31, 2017, pursuant to the same procedures; and shall pay the remaining $2,000,000 of the penalty prior to its issuance of the Interim Certificate of Compliance (discussed below), pursuant to the same procedures.

C. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(C), (F), and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(3), (6), (7), and (9), the Board orders that:

1. Definitions: The following definitions shall apply to the provisions of this section:

(a) Immediate Practice Limitations: The limitations imposed on Deloitte Brazil's audit practice until the Interim Compliance Date pursuant to subsection C.2.

(b) Interim Certificate of Compliance: A certificate submitted by Deloitte Brazil to the PCAOB, after review and approval by the Independent Monitor, certifying that certain requirements of this Order have been fulfilled pursuant to subsection C.6.

ORDER

(c) Interim Compliance Date: The date on which Deloitte Brazil submits the Interim Certificate of Compliance.

(d) Pre-Issuance Reviews: Reviews of audits performed by Deloitte Brazil pursuant to subsection C.2(b).

(e) Final Certificate of Compliance: A certificate submitted by Deloitte Brazil to the PCAOB, after review and approval by the Independent Monitor, certifying that all requirements of this Order have been fulfilled pursuant to subsection C.7.

(f) Final Compliance Date: The date on which Deloitte Brazil submits the Final Certificate of Compliance.

(g) Independent Monitor: An independent monitor retained by Deloitte Brazil to monitor, evaluate, and report on the Firm's compliance with the requirements of this Order pursuant to subsection C.4.

(h) Monitor Period: The period of the Independent Monitor's required retention by Deloitte Brazil, ending on the Final Compliance Date.

(i) Undertakings: Actions required by subsection C.3.

(j) Enhanced Reporting Procedures: Procedures for the reporting of suspected wrongdoing required by subsection C.3(c).

2. Immediate Practice Limitations: From the date of this Order until the Interim Compliance Date, Deloitte Brazil shall be subject to the following Immediate Practice Limitations:

(a) Prohibition on New Engagements to Prepare or Issue Audit Reports for Certain New Clients. The Firm shall be prohibited from accepting new engagements to prepare or issue audit reports for new clients who are issuers, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), as well as for new clients who are brokers or dealers, as those terms are defined by PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii); provided, however, that this prohibition does not preclude the Firm from accepting new engagements with respect to proposals it had submitted prior to October 1, 2016 to three issuers, which the Firm has identified to the Board.

(b) Pre-Issuance Reviews. As to any existing clients who are issuers, brokers, or dealers (as defined in subsection C.2(a)) for which the Firm prepares or issues an audit report or plays a substantial role in the preparation or furnishing of an audit report,[65] the Firm must retain or arrange for one or more auditors from Deloitte Global member or affiliate firms, experienced in the conduct of audits pursuant to PCAOB standards, to conduct a Pre-Issuance Review of the Firm's work on the engagement. The purpose of each Pre-Issuance Review shall be to support the Firm in identifying deficiencies, if any, in the application of PCAOB rules or standards, and remediating those deficiencies prior to the issuance of the audit report; and propose to the Firm actions it could take to prevent or timely detect such deficiencies in the future.

3. Undertakings: Deloitte Brazil shall carry out the following Undertakings:

(a) Initial Certification. Within 45 days of the date of this Order, Deloitte Brazil shall provide a certification, signed by its Managing Partner, stating that: (i) the Firm has adopted systems reasonably designed to ensure that electronically and manually stored work papers for audits conducted pursuant to PCAOB rules and standards are preserved and are modified only in compliance with those standards; and (ii) personnel in the Firm's PCAOB Engagements Group[66] have received 24 hours of additional training concerning work paper preparation and archiving, ethics, and professional skepticism.

(b) Policies and Procedures. Deloitte Brazil shall conduct a review of its quality control policies and procedures and determine whether modifications should be made or additional policies and procedures should be adopted concerning: (i) ethics and integrity; (ii) due professional care and professional skepticism; (iii) audit procedures relating to planning, materiality, risk assessment, fraud, analytical procedures, illegal acts by clients, and ICFR; (iv) sufficient appropriate audit evidence; (v) management representations; (vi) consultations with the Firm's Technical Area; (vii) engagement quality reviews; and (viii) participation in reviews conducted pursuant to SEC Practice Section § 1000.45, Appendix K, SECPS Member Firms With Foreign

Associated Firms That Audit SEC Registrants. No later than 90 days from the date of this Order, the Firm shall submit a written report to the PCAOB staff and Independent Monitor ("QC Report") summarizing its review, attaching any new or modified policies and procedures in the areas enumerated above, and, with respect to any of the areas enumerated above in which modifications will not be made and additional policies and procedures will not be adopted, providing an explanation concerning why new or modified policies and procedures are not required.

(c) Enhanced Reporting Procedures. No later than 90 days after the date of this Order, Deloitte Brazil shall adopt Enhanced Reporting Procedures for the reporting and investigation of suspected wrongdoing by Firm personnel. The Enhanced Reporting Procedures shall include processes for Firm personnel to report misconduct anonymously, and to report misconduct via telephone, email, website, or mail. The Enhanced Reporting Procedures shall include a prohibition on retaliation against Firm personnel making good faith reports of suspected wrongdoing, to the same extent as the protections established by Section 806(a), (d), and (e) of the Act, as amended. During the Monitor Period, the Firm shall promptly notify the Independent Monitor of all reports received and shall allow the Monitor to oversee and assess all actions taken in response to reports received. After the expiration of the Monitor Period, the Enhanced Reporting Procedures shall provide that every report received shall be directed to at least two persons at the Firm, including one member of the Policy Committee.

(d) Training. In addition to the training required in paragraph C.3(a), within one year after the date of this Order, Deloitte Brazil shall provide 40 hours of training to personnel in its PCAOB Engagements Group concerning: (i) ethics and integrity; (ii) PCAOB rules and standards, including those related to work paper preparation and archiving, due professional care and professional skepticism, planning, materiality, risk assessment, fraud, analytical procedures, illegal acts by clients, ICFR, sufficient appropriate audit evidence, and management representations; (iii) consultations with the Firm's Technical Area; (iv) engagement quality reviews; and (v) participation in reviews conducted pursuant to SEC Practice Section § 1000.45, Appendix K, SECPS Member Firms With Foreign Associated Firms That Audit SEC Registrants. During each year thereafter until the end of the Monitor Period, the Firm shall provide at least 25 hours of training to personnel in its PCAOB Engagements Group concerning the above topics.

(e) Certifications. No less than annually until the Final Compliance Date, Deloitte Brazil shall obtain from every member of its PCAOB Engagements Group a signed certification stating that the member, during the prior year, (i) has complied with all applicable Firm policies and procedures; (ii) has cooperated with the Independent Monitor and all internal and external reviews and inspections of audit work governed by PCAOB standards; and (iii) is not aware of, or has reported to Firm management, all violations of PCAOB rules and standards of which the member has become aware.

4. Independent Monitor: (a) Retention and Term. Deloitte Brazil shall retain and pay the fees and reasonable expenses for a third-party Independent Monitor, not unacceptable to the PCAOB staff, who has experience with public company reporting in the United States and is knowledgeable concerning PCAOB rules and standards. Within 60 days of the date of this Order, the Firm shall submit the name, qualifications, and proposed terms of engagement of the Independent Monitor to the PCAOB staff. The Firm may not retain as Independent Monitor any person who has been employed by or had a professional relationship with the Firm, any other Deloitte Global member or affiliate firm, or any audit client of the Firm in the previous two years; and the Firm shall require the Independent Monitor to agree not to enter into any employment or other professional relationship with the Firm, any other Deloitte Global member or affiliate firm, or any audit client of the Firm for two years following the expiration of the monitorship. The Monitor Period shall end as of the Final Compliance Date, or before the Final Compliance Date with the written pre-approval of the PCAOB staff.

   (b) Monitor QC Report. The Independent Monitor shall review the QC Report and determine whether, as supplemented and modified, Deloitte Brazil's policies and procedures appear reasonably designed to ensure compliance with PCAOB rules and standards. No later than 60 days after receiving the QC Report, the Independent Monitor shall provide a report ("Monitor QC Report") to the Firm and the PCAOB staff setting out the Independent Monitor's recommendations concerning any additional policies or procedures or modifications to policies or procedures that should be made to reasonably assure compliance with PCAOB rules and standards. The Firm shall adopt the Independent Monitor's recommendations as soon as practicable, except that the Firm may notify the Independent Monitor within 30 days of receiving the Monitor QC Report of any recommendations contained therein that the Firm believes to be unnecessary, impractical, unduly burdensome, or outside the scope of this Order, and the bases of the Firm's objection(s). In connection with that notification, the Firm may propose alternative policies and procedures that it believes will achieve the objectives of the recommendations contained in the Monitor QC Report. The Firm and the Independent Monitor shall engage in good-faith negotiations concerning any objection raised by the Firm, but if the Firm and the Independent Monitor are unable to come to agreement within 45 days, the Firm shall be required to adopt the Independent Monitor's recommendations to which it objects.

(c) Additional Responsibilities. The Independent Monitor shall have, and the engagement agreement between Deloitte Brazil and the Independent Monitor shall provide for the Independent Monitor to have, the following additional powers and responsibilities: (i) to review and assess the Firm's quality control system, including but not limited to its policies, procedures, and practices relating to audit documentation (including archiving) and ethics and integrity; (ii) to monitor the Firm's compliance with the Immediate Practice Limitations; (iii) to monitor the performance and results of the Pre-Issuance Reviews that are performed pursuant to subsection C.2(b); (iv) to review and assess the Firm's process for training its PCAOB Engagements Group, including the training materials used and the conduct of the training sessions; (v) to monitor the Firm's implementation of the other Undertakings described above, including the Firm's processes for investigating and addressing reports made pursuant to the Enhanced Reporting Procedures; (vi) to review and assess the results of any review or inspection that occurs during the Monitor Period of audit or review work governed by PCAOB standards that Firm personnel have performed (including reviewing and assessing any inspection comments and responses to comments); and (vii) to make recommendations to the Firm concerning improvements to its policies, procedures, or practices in light of any of the Independent Monitor's activities.

(d) Cooperation with Independent Monitor. Deloitte Brazil shall cooperate fully with the Independent Monitor and shall provide reasonable access to any Firm personnel, information, and records that the Independent Monitor may reasonably request to fulfill his or her responsibilities, subject to the Firm's right to withhold or redact any information based on attorney-client privilege or other applicable privileges. During the Monitor Period, the Firm shall preserve all communications, electronic or otherwise, concerning its quality control system and its audit work under PCAOB standards.

5. Documentation and Reporting:

(a) Documentation Requirements. During the Monitor Period, Deloitte Brazil shall maintain documentation sufficient to describe in reasonable detail all steps that it has taken to comply with Section C of this Order. Deloitte Brazil shall make such documentation available at any time to the Independent Monitor or the PCAOB staff, upon reasonable request, and shall retain such documentation for two years after the Final Compliance Date.

ORDER

(b) Reporting Requirements. No later than six months from the date of this Order, Deloitte Brazil shall submit to the Independent Monitor and the PCAOB staff a report: (i) detailing its progress in implementing and complying with the Undertakings and other requirements of this Order; (ii) identifying any recommendations that the Independent Monitor has made to the Firm and the Firm's response to those recommendations; and (iii) identifying any non-compliance by the Firm with this Order or any material non-compliance by the Firm with PCAOB rules and standards it has identified in its audit and review work. The Independent Monitor shall review and evaluate the report and, within 60 days of the receipt of the report, provide a separate report to the PCAOB staff, with a copy to the Firm: (i) describing the Independent Monitor's work during the previous six months; and (ii) concurring with the Firm's report or listing the points of non-concurrence. Deloitte Brazil shall make subsequent reports of an identical nature no later than one year from the date of this Order and every six months thereafter until the end of the Monitor Period, all of which shall be subject to the Independent Monitor's review, evaluation, and report as described above.

(c) PCAOB Staff Access. Throughout the Monitor Period, the PCAOB staff shall have reasonable access to the Independent Monitor and to the content and results of the Independent Monitor's work. The Independent Monitor shall be required to provide prompt responses to all PCAOB staff requests for documents and information concerning the content and results of the Independent Monitor's work, and neither the Independent Monitor nor the Firm shall assert any basis on which to fail to comply with such requests. The engagement agreement between Deloitte Brazil and the Independent Monitor shall require the Independent Monitor to comply with the terms of this subsection.

6. Interim Certificate of Compliance: After the Firm has issued all audit reports for which Pre-Issuance Reviews are required by subsection C.2(b), Deloitte Brazil may submit to the Independent Monitor (with a copy to the PCAOB staff) a report ("Interim Firm Report") stating its intention to submit an Interim Certificate of Compliance to the PCAOB staff, and containing a summary of its compliance with this Order and any other supporting material the Firm believes appropriate. Within 45 days of receiving the Interim Firm Report, the Independent Monitor shall submit a report ("Interim Monitor Report") to the Firm and the PCAOB staff setting out the Independent Monitor's conclusion concerning whether: (a) the Firm has complied with the Immediate Practice Limitations; (b) the Firm has made substantial progress in implementing the recommendations in the Monitor QC Report; (c) the Firm has taken appropriate steps to ensure compliance by Firm personnel with its policies and procedures, as supplemented and modified; (d) the Firm has made substantial progress in addressing the Independent Monitor's other recommendations; (e) the Firm has made substantial progress in implementing and complying with the Undertakings, including by conducting all required training sessions and implementing the Enhanced Reporting Procedures and responding appropriately to reports made pursuant to those procedures; (f) the Firm has made substantial progress implementing policies, procedures, and practices to establish and maintain a quality control system that provides reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards, including with regard to audit documentation (including archiving) and ethics and integrity; and (g) the performance and results of the Pre-Issuance Reviews required by subsection C.2(b) indicate that the Firm is conducting its audit work for issuers substantially in compliance with PCAOB standards. The PCAOB staff shall have the right to request documentation and other evidence supporting any original or supplementary Interim Firm Report or Interim Monitor Report, and the Firm and/or the Independent Monitor shall promptly comply with any such requests. Additionally, the Independent Monitor shall inform the PCAOB staff with fourteen days' advance notice of the Independent Monitor's intention to issue the Interim Monitor Report and shall provide the Division with a summary of the Independent Monitor's intended findings, the basis for those findings, and any draft of the intended report. If the Interim Monitor Report concludes that each of the above conditions has been met, the Firm may submit an Interim Certificate of Compliance to the PCAOB staff. If the Interim Monitor Report does not conclude that each of the above conditions has been met, the Firm shall have an opportunity to remediate any deficiencies and submit supplementary Interim Firm Reports every 30 days thereafter, as necessary. The Independent Monitor shall consider any supplementary Interim Firm Reports promptly, and shall issue a new Interim Monitor Report when he or she has concluded that each of the above conditions has been met, at which time the procedures above relating to an Interim Certificate of Compliance shall apply. The date on which the Firm submits the Interim Certificate of Compliance to the PCAOB staff shall be the Interim Compliance Date.

7. Final Certificate of Compliance: No less than one year from the Interim Compliance Date, Deloitte Brazil may submit to the Independent Monitor (with a copy to the PCAOB staff) a report ("Final Firm Report") stating its intention to submit a Final Certificate of Compliance to the PCAOB staff, and containing a summary of its compliance with this Order since the Interim Compliance Date and any other supporting material the Firm believes appropriate. Within 60 days of receiving the Final Firm Report, the Independent Monitor shall submit a report ("Final Monitor Report") to the Firm and the PCAOB staff setting out the Independent Monitor's conclusion concerning whether: (a) the Firm has adequately implemented the recommendations in the Monitor QC Report; (b) the Firm has taken appropriate steps to ensure compliance by Firm personnel with its policies and procedures, as supplemented and modified; (c) the Firm has adequately addressed the Independent Monitor's other recommendations; (d) the Firm has implemented and complied with the Undertakings, including by conducting all required training sessions and implementing the Enhanced Reporting Procedures and responding appropriately to reports made pursuant to those procedures; and (e) the Firm has made adequate progress implementing policies, procedures, and practices to establish and maintain a quality control system that provides reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards, including with regard to audit documentation (including archiving) and ethics and integrity. The PCAOB staff shall have the right to request documentation and other evidence supporting any original or supplementary Final Firm Report or Final Monitor Report, and the Firm and/or the Independent Monitor shall promptly comply with any such requests. Additionally, the Independent Monitor shall inform the PCAOB staff with fourteen days' advance notice of the Independent Monitor's intention to issue the Final Monitor Report and shall provide the Division with a summary of the Independent Monitor's intended findings, the basis for those findings, and any draft of the intended report. If the Final Monitor Report concludes that each of the above conditions has been met, the Firm may submit a Final Certificate of Compliance to the PCAOB staff. If the Final Monitor Report does not conclude that each of the above conditions has been met, the Firm shall have an opportunity to remediate any deficiencies and submit supplementary Final Firm Reports every 30 days thereafter, as necessary. The Independent Monitor shall consider any supplementary Final Firm Reports promptly, and shall issue a new Final Monitor Report when he or she has concluded that each of the above conditions has been met, at which time the procedures above relating to a Final Certificate of Compliance shall apply. The date on which the Firm submits the Final Certificate of Compliance to the PCAOB staff shall be the Final Compliance Date.

8. Provision of Order: No later than 30 days after the date of this Order, Deloitte Brazil shall provide a copy of this Order to all of its associated persons who are employees or partners of the Firm.

9. Extension of Deadlines: For good cause shown, the PCAOB staff may provide Deloitte Brazil or the Independent Monitor with a reasonable extension of any of the deadlines contained in this Order. Both the request for an extension and the provision of an extension must occur in writing.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of José Domingos do Prado, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-032 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring José Domingos do Prado ("Prado" or "Respondent"); and (2) barring Prado from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Prado: (a) directly and substantially contributed to a registered public accounting firm's violation of securities laws, including Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended ("Exchange Act"), in connection with the audit of an issuer client; (b) violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit of an issuer client; (c) violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with a Board inspection; and (d) obstructed and otherwise failed to cooperate with a Board investigation.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) and (3) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent

ORDER

consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondent

1. José Domingos do Prado, 53, is a former partner at Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil" or "Firm"). Prado was the lead engagement partner on Deloitte Brazil's audits and reviews of Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., also known as Gol Intelligent Airlines, Inc. ("Gol" or "Company"), for 2009 through 2011, and was a partner on the Gol engagement for 2012 and 2013. He was also the engagement quality reviewer for certain audits and reviews of another Firm issuer client ("Issuer 2"). Prado served as a member of the Policy Committee, the governing board of the Firm, from February 23, 2010 through March 24, 2011. From February 23, 2011 through August 7, 2014, Prado was Audit Practice Leader of the Firm, and in that capacity also served on the Executive Committee. Prado stepped down as Audit Practice Leader on August 8, 2014 due to the pendency of the PCAOB investigation but continued to serve as Regions Leader and a member of the Executive Committee through October 31, 2015. On or about October 31, 2015, Prado was removed from the Executive Committee and placed on administrative leave due to his participation in the improper alteration of Gol work papers described herein, and on March 28, 2016, he separated from the Firm. At all relevant times, Prado was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Prado is currently affiliated with another PCAOB-registered public accounting firm in Brazil.

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

B. Other Relevant Persons and Entities

2. Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes is a partnership organized under the laws of Brazil, and is headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil. The Firm registered with the Board on June 2, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.[3]

3. Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., a/k/a Gol Intelligent Airlines, Inc., is a Brazil corporation headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil. Its common stock is listed on the BM&F Bovespa exchange in Brazil and its American Depositary Shares are listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "GOL." At all relevant times, Gol was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Deloitte Brazil served as the external auditor for Gol for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2009 through December 31, 2013, after which the Firm rotated off the Gol engagement pursuant to Brazilian audit firm rotation requirements.

4. "Senior Partner 2" is a partner of Deloitte Brazil. At all relevant times, Senior Partner 2 held a leadership position in the Firm's Audit function.[4]

5. "Senior Partner 3" is a partner of Deloitte Brazil. At all relevant times, Senior Partner 3 held multiple senior leadership positions at the Firm, including at certain relevant times a position on the Policy Committee. By virtue of his specific leadership positions, Senior Partner 3 was one of the Firm partners most responsible for ensuring the compliance by Firm personnel with ethical and regulatory requirements.[5]

6. The "Gol Senior Manager" is a partner of Deloitte Brazil. The Gol Senior Manager was a senior manager for the Firm's audit of Gol's financial statements and ICFR for the year ended December 31, 2010.[6]

7. The "GIOS Managers" were at all relevant times two senior managers in the Global IFRS and Offering Services ("GIOS") group within the Deloitte entities in

8. "Issuer 2" is an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Deloitte Brazil served as the external auditor for Issuer 2 for fiscal year 2010, among others.

9. The "Issuer 2 Partner" is a partner of Deloitte Brazil, and was a partner on the Firm's audit of Issuer 2's financial statements and ICFR for fiscal year 2010.[8]

C. Summary

10. This matter concerns Prado's abdication of his responsibilities as a partner and leader of Deloitte Brazil. By engaging in intentional and reckless wrongdoing, Prado himself violated a number of PCAOB rules and standards, and he also directly and substantially contributed to Deloitte Brazil's violation of federal securities laws as well as PCAOB rules and standards.

11. For fiscal years 2009 through 2011, Prado served as the engagement partner for Deloitte Brazil's audits and reviews of GOL. In that capacity, Prado authorized the issuance of unqualified audit reports concerning GOL's 2010 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR"). As Prado knew, those reports falsely stated that Deloitte Brazil had conducted the audit of GOL's 2010 financial statements and ICFR ("2010 GOL Audit") in accordance with PCAOB standards. Prado's violations of PCAOB standards during that audit included the failure to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and the failure to obtain sufficient competent audit evidence concerning GOL's "maintenance deposit" assets, passenger revenue, and advance ticket sales. In light of his knowledge of significant unresolved problems with those accounts, Prado's authorization to issue the unqualified reports directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's commission of securities fraud.

12. In March and April 2012, the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") performed primary field work procedures for an inspection of Deloitte Brazil. The audits inspected included the 2010 GOL Audit and the 2010 audit of Issuer 2, an issuer client for which Prado had served as engagement quality reviewer ("Issuer 2 Audit"). In advance of the inspection, Prado directed the GOL Senior Manager that he and certain other Firm personnel should improperly alter numerous 2010 GOL

Audit work papers to conceal the nature of the engagement team's audit work on GOL's maintenance deposits, passenger revenue, advance ticket sales, and ICFR. Prado also made certain improper alterations to the GOL work papers himself. Additionally, in connection with the inspection, Prado approved the improper addition of documentation for the Issuer 2 Audit. Prado thereby failed to cooperate with a Board inspection and directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's failure to cooperate with the inspection.

13. After the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") opened an investigation into the 2010 GOL Audit, Prado continued his efforts to prevent detection of the Firm's wrongdoing. Prado also provided false testimony under oath to the Division on October 5 through 9, 2015.

14. Finally, in November 2015, after the Division learned of the improper alteration of the 2010 GOL Audit work papers, it issued an Accounting Board Demand to Prado requiring him to appear again for testimony. Prado did not appear.

D. Respondent Violated Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the 2010 GOL Audit, and Caused the Firm to Commit Securities Fraud

Applicable Securities Laws and PCAOB Rules and Standards

15. Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act prohibits the use of "any manipulative or deceptive device or contrivance in contravention of such rules and regulations as the [U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission" or "SEC")] may prescribe as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors."[9] In implementing that section, the Commission has prohibited the making of "any untrue statement of a material fact" or the omission of "a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.[10]

16. To violate Exchange Act Section 10(b) or Exchange Act Rule 10b-5, a respondent must act with scienter,[11] which the Supreme Court has defined as "a mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud."[12] Scienter encompasses knowing or intentional conduct, or recklessness.[13] An auditor violates Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 thereunder by issuing an audit report stating that the audit has been performed in accordance with PCAOB standards when he or she knows, or is reckless in not knowing, that the statement is false.[14]

17. PCAOB rules prohibit associated persons of registered public accounting firms from taking or omitting to take any action "knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of," among other things, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the Board's rules and standards.[15]

18. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[16] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor express an opinion concerning an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has performed the audit in compliance with PCAOB standards.[17]

19. PCAOB standards also require that auditors exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter to provide a reasonable basis for the audit report.[18] While that evidential matter can include management representations, such representations "are not a substitute for the application of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[19]

20. PCAOB standards also establish requirements for auditors who audit, and express an opinion regarding, an issuer's ICFR.[20] Among other things, "the auditor must plan and perform the audit to obtain competent evidence that is sufficient to obtain reasonable assurance about whether material weaknesses exist" in the issuer's internal control as of the date specified in management's internal control assessment.[21] PCAOB standards provide that "a company's internal control cannot be considered effective if one or more material weaknesses exist."[22] In order to obtain reasonable assurance about whether a material weakness exists, the auditor must evaluate the severity of each control deficiency that is identified during the audit "to determine whether the deficiencies, individually or in combination, are material weaknesses."[23]

21. PCAOB standards state that an auditor needs to consider audit risk, including control risk, to assist in determining the scope of auditing procedures.[24] Assessment of control risk at below the maximum level may support the auditor's decision to reduce the scope of substantive audit procedures.[25] If a control deficiency is identified, however, an auditor "should determine the effect of the deficiency, if any, on the nature, timing, and extent of substantive procedures to be performed."[26]

ORDER

22. PCAOB standards provide that "[t]he auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud."[27] The possibility of a material misstatement due to fraud requires the auditor to exercise professional skepticism when gathering and evaluating audit evidence, and to engage in "an ongoing questioning of whether the information and evidence obtained suggests that a material misstatement due to fraud has occurred."[28]

23. PCAOB standards direct that identified fraud risks be taken into account when conducting an audit, including (a) in the auditor's consideration of management's selection and application of significant accounting principles, and (b) in assessing the nature, timing, and extent of the procedures to be performed, including whether controls over revenue recognition are required to be tested.[29] Those standards also state that, when planning the audit, an auditor "should ordinarily presume that there is a risk of material misstatement due to fraud relating to revenue recognition."[30]

24. PCAOB standards also state that an auditor's "assessment of the risks of material misstatement due to fraud should be ongoing throughout the audit."[31] Among the indications of potential fraud that may arise during an audit are "[t]ransactions that are not recorded in a complete or timely manner or are improperly recorded as to amount, accounting period, classification, or entity policy"; "unsupported or unauthorized balances or transactions"; and "significant unexplained items on reconciliations."[32]

25. Additionally, under PCAOB standards, if an auditor identifies misstatements in the financial statements, the auditor should consider whether those misstatements are indicative of fraud; if fraud may be present, the auditor should perform certain additional procedures, even if the misstatements do not appear to be material to the financial statements.[33]

ORDER

Overview of the 2010 Gol Audit

26. During the relevant time period, Gol operated an airline that offered service primarily in Brazil but also to certain other countries in the Americas. Deloitte Brazil became the external auditor for Gol during the second quarter of 2009. The Firm issued audit reports expressing unqualified opinions on Gol's financial statements and ICFR for both 2009 and 2010, and Gol included those audit reports in Forms 20-F that it filed with the Commission for each of those years. Prado was the engagement partner for the Firm's audits in each of those years.

27. The 2010 Gol Audit was conducted as an integrated audit of Gol's financial statements and its ICFR. Prado set planning materiality for the 2010 Gol Audit at 54.6 million Brazilian reais ("R$") (US$32.8 million).[34]

Prado Improperly Acquiesced in Gol's Accounting for its Maintenance Deposit Assets

28. During the 2010 Gol Audit, Prado violated numerous PCAOB standards in connection with his audit work on Gol's maintenance deposit assets. Among other violations, Prado failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient competent audit evidence to support Gol's accounting for its maintenance deposits. Prado then caused the Firm to issue unqualified opinions concerning Gol's 2010 financial statements and ICFR while knowing that these material failures had occurred.

29. As part of its operations, Gol leased aircraft and engines. In connection with these leases, Gol deposited monies with the lessor to be used in future aircraft and engine maintenance work. Gol reported these monies as maintenance deposit assets. For the years ended December 31, 2009 and 2010, Gol reported maintenance deposits of R$522.7 million and R$456.7 million, respectively, which amounted to 6 percent and 5 percent of Gol's total reported assets for those respective years.[35]

30. During the 2009 audit of Gol, Prado concluded that Gol had failed to appropriately track its use of maintenance deposits on a contract-by-contract basis, thereby preventing the Firm from obtaining sufficient competent evidence to support

GoI's reported 2009 maintenance deposits. Prado was also on notice that GoI's reported maintenance deposit assets may have been overstated and that its ICFR may not have been operating effectively at year-end 2009. Based on GoI's representation that it intended to hire a consultant to analyze its maintenance deposit records during 2010, however, Prado acquiesced in the Company's accounting and caused Deloitte Brazil to issue audit reports expressing unqualified opinions on GoI's financial statements and ICFR for 2009.

31. During the reviews of GoI's quarterly financial statements for 2010, Prado monitored GoI's progress in both quantifying the amount of maintenance deposits that were unsupported and writing down those deposits. Prado understood, however, that GoI was treating those write-downs as current period expenses despite the fact that most of the unsupported deposits related to prior periods.

32. During the 2010 GoI Audit, Prado understood that GoI still planned to report R$52.6 million (US$31.6 million) of unsupported maintenance deposits related to aircraft and equipment already returned to lessors as assets on its 2010 balance sheet. Prado further understood that GoI planned to improperly spread its write-off of that remaining R$52.6 million of unsupported maintenance deposits over its quarterly financial statements in 2011.

33. During the 2010 GoI Audit, Prado failed to obtain sufficient competent audit evidence concerning either the R$52.6 of remaining unsupported maintenance deposits (which represented 14 percent of reported pre-tax income) or the amounts written off during 2010 as current year expenses (which totaled R$116.5 million, or 30 percent of reported pre-tax income). Prado also: (a) failed to consider whether the misstatements in GoI's accounting for its maintenance deposits were indicative of fraud; (b) failed to assess the materiality to GoI's 2010 financial statements of either the R$52.6 million in unsupported deposits or the amounts written off in 2010 that he understood to represent prior-year expenses; and (c) failed to evaluate controls over GoI's accounting for its maintenance deposits, including whether there was a deficiency in its ICFR, and whether that deficiency, individually or in combination with other deficiencies, represented a material weakness. Instead, Prado knowingly acquiesced in GoI's unsupported reporting of both expenses and a potentially material amount of assets.

Prado Failed to Obtain Sufficient Evidence Concerning GoI's Reported Advance Ticket Sales and Passenger Revenue

34. During the 2010 GoI Audit, Prado also violated numerous PCAOB standards in connection with GoI's reported passenger revenue and its advance ticket sales liability. Among other violations, Prado failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to obtain sufficient competent evidence concerning GOL's accounting for and controls over passenger revenue and advance ticket sales.

35. GOL's financial statements included two related accounts, passenger revenue and advance ticket sales. Advance ticket sales was a deferred revenue liability account that represented passenger tickets sold for future travel dates. GOL reduced the advance ticket sales liability and recorded passenger revenue either when transportation was provided or when an unused ticket expired. In its 2010 Form 20-F, GOL reported passenger revenue of R$6.3 billion (US$3.8 billion) and an advance ticket sales liability of R$517 million (US$310 million).

36. In planning the engagement team's audit procedures for passenger revenue and advance ticket sales for the 2010 GOL Audit, Prado identified both accounts as significant accounts, and concluded that a control reliance approach was appropriate as to each account, meaning that the engagement team would reduce its level of substantive testing based on a belief that the controls over those accounts were operating effectively. Additionally, Prado identified significant risks of material misstatement relating to those accounts, including: (a) for passenger revenue, the risk that revenue would not effectively correspond to embarkations made; and (b) for advance ticket sales, the risk that the estimates used by management would be incorrect. Prado planned that each risk would be addressed by both control procedures and substantive procedures.

37. Despite the instruction in PCAOB standards that an "auditor should ordinarily presume that there is a risk of material misstatement due to fraud relating to revenue recognition,"[36] Prado did not, during his planning of the 2010 GOL Audit, identify improper revenue recognition as presenting a risk of material misstatement due to fraud. Prado also did not document any basis for overcoming the presumption that improper revenue recognition presented a risk of material misstatement due to fraud.

38. During the 2010 GOL Audit, one of the engagement team's procedures to audit the advance ticket sales liability balance was to review a reconciliation between the advance ticket sales balance reported in GOL's accounting system and the balance reported by its separate reservation system. Prado did not, however, obtain sufficient competent evidence to support the nature or appropriateness of material adjustments and reconciling items included in that reconciliation.

[36] AU § 316.41.

39. For example, the reconciliation included an adjustment that reduced the liability balance by R$74.8 million, or 15 percent, based only on GOL management's representation that a certain subset of advance ticket sales—"interline" tickets booked by partner airlines rather than customers—were being properly excluded from the reported advance ticket sales liability. Prado failed to obtain any evidence to corroborate either (a) how the adjustment was reflected in GOL's accounting system; or (b) whether management's accounting treatment was appropriate, especially given that GOL had not made a similar adjustment for interline tickets in the prior year.

40. Even after the adjustments and reconciling items, including the "interline" adjustment described above, the reconciliation still identified a significant difference between the reservation and accounting system balances of R$38.3 million (US$23.0 million). That difference represented ten percent of GOL's reported pre-tax income, seven percent of its reported advance ticket sales liability, and 70 percent of the engagement team's planning materiality. Prado directed his engagement team to describe the difference in the work papers as an unexplained misstatement ("Potential Misstatement") and to document that the difference caused GOL's passenger revenue to be overstated and its advance ticket sales to be understated. Prado was aware, however, that the R$38.3 million Potential Misstatement amount was still only a preliminary figure, and that at the time it filed its Form 20-F, GOL had not completed its analysis of the Potential Misstatement.

41. Prado proposed to GOL management that it reduce its reported 2010 revenue by the preliminary R$38.3 million figure, and increase the advance ticket sales liability by the same amount, to reflect the Potential Misstatement. Management declined, however, stating, according to the engagement team's work papers, that it preferred to complete the analysis of the Potential Misstatement before making any adjustment. Although the team included that R$38.3 million amount as a known misstatement in its Summary of Uncorrected Misstatements (the work paper in which the team listed and evaluated the materiality of uncorrected misstatements), Prado did not otherwise address his inability to obtain sufficient competent evidence concerning GOL's passenger revenue and advance ticket sales liability while GOL's analysis was pending.

42. Prado was aware that he was causing the Firm to issue unqualified audit reports while the analysis of the Potential Misstatement was still pending. In fact, even using the preliminary amount of R$38.3 million, the engagement team's analysis of the identified misstatements indicated that it should consider performing additional procedures before issuing the audit reports. Prado determined, however, that the team should not perform any additional procedures.

ORDER

43. Prado's conduct of the 2010 Gol Audit was deficient in other ways related to its reported passenger revenue as well. For example, in addition to failing to identify improper revenue recognition as presenting a fraud risk (as he should have), Prado and the engagement team abandoned procedures they planned to perform that might have addressed, at least in part, that risk. For example, Prado planned that the team would test the electronic interface by which the reservation system reported to the accounting system what tickets had been used and what revenue should be recognized, yet neither he nor the team ever carried out such a test. Prado also relied to an inappropriate extent on analytical procedures to test passenger revenue, for example by relying solely on substantive analytical procedures to test revenue from credit card sales, which represented a significant portion of Gol's passenger revenue. Moreover, even the substantive analytical procedures that the team did perform indicated a potential overstatement of passenger revenue by as much as R$76.4 million. Prado failed to take any steps to respond to the results of that procedure, including failing to evaluate whether the nature, timing, and extent of audit procedures needed to be modified.

44. The results of the engagement team's substantive procedures, including the identification of the Potential Misstatement, put Prado on notice that a significant deficiency existed in Gol's controls over passenger revenue and advance ticket sales. Additionally, a team of specialists that was engaged by the audit team to test the IT general controls and automated business process controls applicable to Gol's accounting system and reservation system identified other deficiencies. Prado failed, however, to appropriately evaluate the severity of the identified deficiencies, both individually and in the aggregate. Further, Prado failed to consider whether the results of the team's audit procedures, and the deficiencies that those procedures had identified, called into question the appropriateness of his control reliance approach to the passenger revenue and advance ticket sales accounts.

Prado Improperly Caused Deloitte Brazil to Issue Unqualified Reports on Gol's Financial Statements and ICFR, in Violation of Securities Laws and PCAOB Rules and Standards

45. On February 23, 2011, while the 2010 Gol Audit was ongoing, Prado was promoted to Audit Practice Leader of Deloitte Brazil, placing on him substantial responsibility for the culture and the tone at the top within the Firm's audit practice.

46. On April 8, 2011, Prado authorized Deloitte Brazil's issuance of two audit reports containing unqualified opinions on Gol's 2010 financial statements and ICFR. Gol included those reports in a Form 20-F that it filed with the Commission the same day. The audit reports stated that the 2010 Gol Audit had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards. Prado knew that those statements were materially false, given the audit deficiencies described above concerning maintenance deposits, advance ticket sales, passenger revenue, and ICFR. Specifically: (a) Prado knew that he had not obtained sufficient competent evidence concerning Gol's reported maintenance deposits; (b) Prado knew that he had not obtained sufficient competent evidence concerning Gol's passenger revenue and advance ticket sales; and (c) Prado knew that he had not adequately evaluated the severity of all identified control deficiencies, and had not re-evaluated his reliance on controls, or the nature and scope of his audit procedures, in light of those identified deficiencies.

47. In the face of this knowledge, Deloitte Brazil's issuance of two unqualified audit reports, which falsely stated that the 2010 Gol Audit had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards, violated Exchange Act Section 10(b), Exchange Act Rule 10b-5, and AU Section 508. In authorizing the issuance of those two reports, Prado knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's commission of securities fraud and its violation of PCAOB standards. As a result, Prado violated PCAOB rule 3502.

48. During the 2010 Gol Audit, Prado also violated numerous PCAOB standards, specifically by: (a) failing to act with due professional care, including professional skepticism, and failing to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter in the procedures concerning Gol's maintenance deposits, passenger revenue, advance ticket sales, and ICFR;[37] (b) failing to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether one or more material weaknesses existed in Gol's ICFR;[38] (c) failing to adequately evaluate the severity of identified control deficiencies and to adequately determine the effect of those deficiencies on the nature, timing, and extent of the procedures to be performed;[39] and (d) failing to perform adequate procedures relating to fraud risks, including by failing to respond adequately to indications of fraud and failing to treat Gol's revenue recognition as presenting a risk of material misstatement due to fraud.[40]

E. After the 2010 Gol Audit, Prado Became Aware of a New Accounting Treatment for the Potential Misstatement

49. Months after issuing Deloitte Brazil's unqualified audit reports concerning Gol's 2010 financial statements and ICFR, members of the Firm, including Prado, belatedly became aware of a provision in the accounting literature that they believed would have applied to the Potential Misstatement. As discussed below, Prado later directed and participated in the improper alteration of the 2010 GoI Audit work papers to suggest that the accounting provision had in fact been considered at the time of the audit.

50. During the first quarter of 2011, GoI completed its analysis of the Potential Misstatement. Its quantification of that misstatement rose from R$38.3 million to R$56.8 million. On May 10, 2011, GoI announced that it would reduce its reported first-quarter 2011 revenue by R$56.8 million to account for the misstatement.

51. On December 2, 2011, the Commission's Division of Corporation Finance ("Corporation Finance") issued a comment letter to GoI concerning certain aspects of its 2010 Form 20-F and 2011 quarterly filings. Among the issues raised by the comment letter was the R$56.8 million write-down of revenue for the first quarter of 2011. The comment letter requested an explanation concerning how International Accounting Standard 8, Accounting Policies, Changes in Accounting Estimates and Errors ("IAS 8"), under International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") applied to the write-down.

52. During December 2011 and early 2012, Prado participated in meetings to discuss how to provide assistance to GoI in responding to the comment letter and follow-up correspondence. In connection with those meetings, Prado became aware that a particular provision of IAS 8, Paragraph 44, might have applied to the Potential Misstatement. IAS 8 Paragraph 44 directs that, if it is "impracticable" for an entity "to determine the period-specific effects of an error on comparative information for one or more prior periods presented, the entity shall restate" the opening balance sheet "for the earliest period for which retrospective restatement is practicable (which may be the current period)."[41] Although Prado had not considered IAS 8 Paragraph 44 at the time of the 2010 GoI Audit, he adopted the view that IAS 8 Paragraph 44 would have been the correct way to account for the Potential Misstatement at year-end 2010. Specifically, he concluded that IAS 8 Paragraph 44 would have directed GoI to book the Potential Misstatement as a reduction to shareholders' equity in the Company's opening 2011 balance sheet, rather than as a reduction in revenue and increase in advance ticket sales in 2010. After Prado communicated this conclusion to GoI, GoI cited IAS 8 Paragraph 44 to Corporation Finance in arguing that its 2010 accounting had been materially correct.

53. As explained below, in connection with the 2012 PCAOB inspection, Prado participated in providing misleading documents and information to PCAOB inspectors. Among other things, the misleading documents and information falsely indicated that, during the 2010 GoI Audit, the engagement team had considered IAS 8 Paragraph 44 and had concluded that the Potential Misstatement was a multi-period error whose allocation was impracticable, thereby purportedly necessitating its treatment exclusively as a balance-sheet error (with no income statement impact).

F. Prado Approved and Participated in a Widespread Effort to Improperly Alter Work Papers in Connection with the Board's 2012 Inspection

Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

54. Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS3"), requires that the complete and final set of documentation for an audit be assembled for retention by the "documentation completion date," a date no later than 45 days from the date on which the auditor grants permission to use its report.[42] After the documentation completion date, audit documentation must not be deleted or discarded from the audit file, but it may be added as long as the auditor documents the date of the addition, the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation.[43]

55. PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors, requires registered firms and their associated persons to cooperate with inspections conducted by the Board. The cooperation requirement of Rule 4006 includes an obligation "not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[44]

Prado Approved and Participated in the Concealment of the Firm's Audit Violations from Board Inspectors

56. The Board conducted an inspection of Deloitte Brazil in 2012. On or about March 8, 2012, Inspections notified the Firm that the 2010 GoI Audit and the Issuer 2 Audit would be two of the audits inspected, and that the focus areas for GoI would be revenue, deferred revenue, accounts receivable, and property, plant, and equipment. On or about the same day, Prado learned of Inspections' notification. Primary field work procedures for the inspection commenced on March 26, 2012.

ORDER

57. In response to Inspections' notification, Prado initiated an effort to thwart the Board's oversight of Deloitte Brazil's audit work by improperly altering the work papers for the 2010 Gol Audit. He instructed the Gol Senior Manager to carry out the improper alterations and also determined that the GIOS Managers, two senior managers from the GIOS group, would also participate.

58. After receiving from the Gol Senior Manager a set of the 2010 Gol Audit work papers with the improper alterations that he had ordered, Prado made even more improper alterations on his own. In total, 56 work papers from the 2010 Gol Audit were improperly altered, as were fourteen work papers from the 2010 quarterly reviews. The altered documents included work papers relating to the engagement team's auditing of Gol's maintenance deposits, passenger revenue, advance ticket sales, accounts receivable, and ICFR, as well as its Summary of Uncorrected Misstatements and its presentation to the Gol Audit Committee.

59. Among the improper alterations were (1) changes to multiple work papers that concealed Prado's acquiescence in what he understood to be Gol's plan to improperly manage the write-off of unsupported maintenance deposits over time; and (2) changes to other work papers that created the appearance that Prado and his team had considered IAS 8 Paragraph 44 to apply to the Potential Misstatement at the time of the 2010 Gol Audit, when in fact he had not become aware of the potential applicability of that accounting provision until months later.

60. After the improper alterations of the 2010 Gol Audit work papers were complete, Prado participated in the Firm's making the altered work papers available to Inspections for use in the inspection. Prado also provided other misleading documents and information during the inspection. For example, when Inspections asked for additional support for the engagement team's treatment of the Potential Misstatement during the audit, Prado improperly altered a presentation that he had used during a consultation with Senior Partner 2 during the 2010 Gol Audit ("Technical Presentation") so that it cited IAS 8, thereby providing further false support for his claim that he had considered that provision at the time of the audit. Prado then caused the Firm to provide the improperly altered Technical Presentation to Inspections.

61. Prado also approved the improper alteration of the work papers for the Issuer 2 Audit in connection with the 2012 Board inspection. In advance of the inspection, the Issuer 2 Partner informed Prado (who was still the Firm's Audit Practice Leader and had been the engagement quality reviewer on the Issuer 2 audit) that certain work papers from the audit contained on CDs were missing. The Issuer 2 Partner proposed to improperly alter non-final versions of numerous Issuer 2 Audit work papers, save those work papers onto new CDs, and present those new CDs to PCAOB inspectors as documentation that had been prepared in a timely manner and in accordance with PCAOB standards. Prado approved the plan, which the Issuer 2 Partner then carried out.

62. Through the conduct described above, Prado both failed to cooperate with the Board's 2012 inspection of the Firm, in violation of PCAOB Rule 4006, and directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's repeated failures to cooperate with the inspection, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502.

G. Prado Failed to Cooperate with the Board's Investigation

Applicable Statutory Provision and PCAOB Rules

63. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction a registered public accounting firm for "refus[ing] to…cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation."[45] Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[46] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes: (a) "fail[ing] to comply with an accounting board demand"; (b) "knowingly mak[ing] any false material declaration or mak[ing] or us[ing] any other information, including any book, paper, document, record, recording, or other material, knowing the same to contain any false material declaration"; (c) "abus[ing] the Board's processes for the purpose of obstructing an investigation"; and (d) "otherwise [failing] to cooperate in connection with an investigation."[47]

Prado Failed to Cooperate with the PCAOB's Formal Investigation

64. On October 15, 2013, the Division issued a request to Deloitte Brazil ("2013 Request") for, among other things, "the complete and final set of audit documentation assembled for retention" concerning the 2010 Gol Audit.

65. After the Firm received the 2013 Request, Prado continued the effort to thwart the PCAOB's oversight, an effort that expanded to concealing both his Gol audit violations and the improper alteration of documents in connection with the 2012 PCAOB inspection. In furtherance of this effort, Prado participated in causing the Firm to produce the improperly altered 2010 Gol Audit work papers to the Division, and to withhold the original versions.

ORDER

66. In addition, by no later than February 2014, Prado discussed the improper alteration of the GoI work papers with other senior partners at Deloitte Brazil, including Senior Partner 2 and Senior Partner 3. Prado subsequently engaged in various meetings and conversations with senior partners at which they discussed the Firm's concealment of the GoI work paper alteration and crafted a false story of the 2010 GoI Audit to present to the Division to reflect the improperly altered work papers that had been produced.

67. In June 2014, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation, and the Division issued a document demand covering the 2010 GoI Audit work papers. In response, Prado continued to participate in the Firm's obstruction, including by causing the Firm to continue to withhold the original versions of the GoI work papers and to make repeated false material statements to the Division. Among the false material statements were representations contained in a July 2014 presentation that Deloitte Brazil made to the Division. For example, the presentation provided a false explanation for Prado's treatment of the Potential Misstatement during the 2010 GoI Audit that was consistent with the improperly altered, but not with the original, work papers. Prado reviewed the presentation in advance and knew that it contained false material statements.

68. In April 2015, the Division informed Deloitte Brazil that it believed Prado may have used a presentation when consulting with Senior Partner 2 about the Potential Misstatement during the 2010 GoI Audit. Prado knew that the Firm possessed the Technical Presentation, and that he had altered it during the 2012 inspection, yet he allowed the Firm to deny that the presentation existed.

69. Prado provided testimony to the Division under oath from October 5 through 9, 2015. During that testimony, he falsely stated that the improperly altered work papers he was shown were the original work papers from the 2010 GoI Audit. He also made other false statements, which included a description of the engagement team's treatment of the Potential Misstatement during the 2010 GoI Audit that was consistent with the altered, but not with the original, work papers.

70. On November 12, 2015, the Division issued an Accounting Board Demand to Prado requiring him to appear for additional testimony. Prado did not appear.

71. Through the conduct described above, Prado failed to cooperate with a Board investigation, warranting the imposition of sanctions against him pursuant to Section 105(b)(3) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(b), and he directly and substantially contributed to Deloitte Brazil's failure to cooperate with a Board investigation, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) and 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5) and (b)(1), José Domingos do Prado is censured; and

B. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A)(i) and 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2) and (b)(1), José Domingos do Prado is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[48]

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Maurício Pires de Andrade Resende, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-033 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Maurício Pires de Andrade Resende ("Resende" or "Respondent"); and (2) barring Resende from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Resende failed to cooperate with a Board investigation.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) and (3) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent

[1] Resende may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after five (5) years from the date of this Order.

ORDER

consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. Maurício Pires de Andrade Resende, 51, is a former partner of the PCAOB registered firm Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil" or "Firm"). From June 2010 until July 2016, Resende was the Risk and Reputation Leader for the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited ("Deloitte Global") entities in Brazil, including Deloitte Brazil. Resende was also a member of the Executive Committee and Chairman of the Deloitte Brazil Attest Committee from June 2010 until July 2016, and was a member of the Policy Committee, the governing board of the Firm, from June 1, 2012 until May 31, 2016. Resende was also the Firm's Ethics Partner from 2010 to 2014. In or about July 2016, the Firm removed Resende from his leadership positions and placed him on administrative leave. At all relevant times, Resende was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Resende separated from the Firm in November 2016.

3. PCAOB rules also prohibit associated persons of registered public accounting firms from taking or omitting to take any action "knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of," among other things, the Rules of the Board.[7]

Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules in Connection with a Board Investigation

4. On October 15, 2013, the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations (the "Division") issued a document request to Deloitte Brazil as part of an informal inquiry, requesting that the Firm produce, among other things, the work papers from the Firm's audit of Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., also known as Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. ("Gol"), for fiscal year 2010 ("2010 Gol Audit"). In response to that request, the Firm produced a set of 2010 Gol Audit work papers that had been improperly altered in connection with a 2012 Board inspection of the audit. At the time the Firm produced the work papers to the Division in 2013, it did not disclose the improper alterations, which it had made to conceal deficiencies in the 2010 Gol Audit.

5. On Saturday, February 22, 2014, Resende and another senior Firm partner[8] met with a Deloitte Brazil colleague who had been the senior manager on the 2010 Gol Audit ("Gol Senior Manger").[9] At that meeting, the Gol Senior Manager disclosed the improper alteration of the 2010 Gol Audit work papers to Resende and the other senior partner. Resende subsequently discussed the Firm's production of improperly altered work papers to the Division with other senior Firm partners, including the engagement partner for the 2010 Gol Audit ("Gol Engagement Partner").[10] By no later than February 2014, therefore, Resende was aware that the Firm had provided the Division with improperly altered versions of the 2010 GoI Audit work papers.

6. After February 2014, Resende participated in the effort to obstruct the Division's inquiry. For example, on March 10, 2014, Resende told the GoI Senior Manager to remove documents that would reveal the improper alteration of the 2010 GoI Audit work papers from his computer or office. That instruction, which was recorded by the GoI Senior Manager, included the following exchange:[11]

Resende:	Any evidence that you have of this, remove it from your machine. Keep it in a—if you have that, keep it somewhere else, but not in your machine, not in the office. Okay?
GoI Senior Manager:	No. Okay.
Resende:	Okay? Another thing, considering that he [the GoI Engagement Partner] will take the responsibility for all this, everything you told me, everything we discussed, never happened.[12]
GoI Senior Manager:	Okay.
Resende:	Never! Whatever happens—I, if somebody says, "No, [GoI Senior Manager] said to you—," I will say, "No, there must be a mistake!" I will never admit that it was said.

7. In June 2014, after the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation, the Division issued an ABD to Deloitte Brazil requiring it to produce relevant documents, including the 2010 GoI Audit work papers. In response, Resende continued to participate in the obstruction of the investigation. For example, in July 2014 Deloitte Brazil made a presentation to the Division. Resende reviewed the presentation in advance and knew it to contain false statements, yet he concurred in the Firm's making the presentation.[13]

8. On September 29, 2014, Resende signed a certification on behalf of the Firm (which he knew the Firm would provide to the Division) stating that the Firm had produced all documents responsive to the Division's ABD. Resende knew that this certification was false because the Firm was continuing to withhold the original work papers for the 2010 GoI Audit as well as other inculpatory documents.[14]

9. On July 13 and 14, 2016, Resende provided investigative testimony to the Division under oath and on the record. During this testimony, Resende made false statements, including that he had not been aware of the improper alteration of GoI audit documentation before October 2015 and that he had not instructed any Firm personnel to remove documents from their computers or offices.[15]

10. Based on the conduct described above, Resende failed to cooperate with a Board investigation and directly and substantially contributed to Deloitte Brazil's failure to cooperate with that investigation.[16]

11. During September and October 2016, Resende provided substantial assistance to the Division's investigation by offering material information concerning the actions of the Firm and its personnel in this matter.[17] The Board took that substantial assistance into account in ordering the sanctions under Section IV of this Order.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Wanderley Olivetti, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-034 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Wanderley Olivetti ("Olivetti" or "Respondent"); and (2) barring Olivetti from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Olivetti failed to cooperate with a Board investigation.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) and (3) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. Wanderley Olivetti, 51, is a former partner of the PCAOB registered firm Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil" or "Firm"). From June 2006 until July 2016, Olivetti was the National Professional Practice Director ("NPPD") of Deloitte Brazil. Olivetti was also a member of the Policy Committee, the governing board of the Firm, from June 1, 2005 through May 31, 2012; was a member of the Firm Attest Committee from June 2008 through July 2016; and was a member of the Firm's Technical Area from 2006 until July 2016. In or about July 2016, the Firm removed Olivetti from his leadership positions and placed him on administrative leave. At all relevant times, Olivetti was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Olivetti separated from the Firm in November 2016.

B. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with a Board Investigation

Applicable PCAOB Rules

2. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for "refus[ing] to…cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation[.]"[4] Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[5] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes: (a) "fail[ing] to comply with an accounting board demand ['ABD']"; (b) "knowingly mak[ing] any false material declaration or mak[ing] or us[ing] any other information, including any book, paper, document, record, recording, or other material, knowing the same to contain any false material declaration"; (c) "abus[ing] the Board's processes for the purpose of obstructing an investigation"; and (d) "otherwise [failing] to cooperate in connection with an investigation."[6]

3. PCAOB rules also prohibit associated persons of registered public accounting firms from taking or omitting to take any action "knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of," among other things, the rules of the Board.[7]

Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules in Connection with a Board Investigation

4. On October 15, 2013, the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations (the "Division") issued a document request to Deloitte Brazil as part of an informal inquiry, requesting that the Firm produce, among other things, the work papers from the Firm's audit of Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., also known as Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. In response to that request, the Firm produced a set of 2010 Gol Audit work papers that had been improperly altered in connection with a 2012 Board inspection of the audit. At the time the Firm produced the work papers to the Division in 2013, it did not disclose the improper alterations, which it had made to conceal deficiencies in the 2010 Gol Audit.

5. On Saturday, February 22, 2014, Olivetti and another senior Firm partner ("Other Senior Partner")[8] met with a Deloitte Brazil colleague who had been the senior manager on the 2010 Gol Audit ("Gol Senior Manger").[9] At that meeting, the Gol Senior Manager disclosed the improper alteration of the 2010 Gol Audit work papers to Olivetti and the Other Senior Partner. Olivetti and the Other Senior Partner subsequently met with the engagement partner for the 2010 Gol Audit ("Gol Engagement Partner"),[10] who confirmed that the 2010 Gol Audit work papers had been improperly altered in connection with the 2012 Board inspection, and that those improperly altered work papers had subsequently been produced to the Division in connection with its inquiry. By no later than February 2014, therefore, Olivetti was aware that the Firm had provided the Division with improperly altered versions of the 2010 GoI Audit work papers.

6. As Olivetti was aware, Deloitte Brazil continued its obstruction after the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation in June 2014 and the Division issued an ABD to the Firm requiring that it produce responsive documents and information. For example, Olivetti knew that the Firm was continuing to withhold the original 2010 GoI Audit work papers from the Division.

7. In his position as NPPD of Deloitte Brazil, Olivetti directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's failure to cooperate with the Division's investigation. For example, the Firm made a presentation to the Division on July 31, 2014 concerning the 2010 GoI Audit. Olivetti reviewed the presentation in advance and knew it to contain statements that were consistent with the improperly altered work papers. Olivetti acceded, however, to the Firm's presentation of false material information to the Division.[11]

8. Olivetti also failed to cooperate with the Division's investigation. For example, on July 13 and 14, 2015, and on December 11, 2015, Olivetti provided investigative testimony to the Division under oath and on the record. Despite his position as NPPD of Deloitte Brazil and his obligation to cooperate with the Division's investigation, Olivetti failed in that testimony to disclose his knowledge concerning the Firm's improper alteration of work papers, even when asked about that alteration.[12]

9. Based on the conduct described above, Olivetti repeatedly failed to cooperate with a Board investigation and directly and substantially contributed to Deloitte Brazil's failure to cooperate with that investigation.[13]

10. During September and October 2016, Olivetti provided information concerning others at Deloitte Brazil that was of substantial assistance to the Division's investigation.[14] The Board took that substantial assistance into account in ordering the sanctions under Section IV of this Order.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) and 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5) and (b)(1), Wanderley Olivetti is censured;

B. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A)(i) and 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2) and (b)(1), Wanderley Olivetti is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[15] and

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of André Ricardo Aguillar Paulon, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-035 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring André Ricardo Aguillar Paulon ("Paulon" or "Respondent"); and (2) limiting Paulon's activities in connection with any audit of an issuer for a period of one year. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Paulon failed to cooperate with a Board inspection and a Board investigation.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) and (3) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondent

1. André Ricardo Aguillar Paulon, 40, is a former partner of the registered public accounting firm Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil" or "Firm"). For fiscal years 2009 and 2010, Paulon served as a senior manager on Deloitte Brazil's audits and reviews of Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., also known as Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. ("Gol"). In 2011, Paulon was promoted to Associate Partner. In 2013, Paulon was promoted to Equity Partner. On or about November 10, 2015, Deloitte Brazil placed Paulon on administrative leave. At all relevant times, Paulon was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Paulon separated from the Firm in November 2016.

B. Respondent Violated Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with a Board Inspection and Board Investigation

Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

2. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[3] Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS3"), requires that the complete and final set of documentation for an audit be assembled for retention by the "documentation completion date," a date no later than 45 days from the date on which the auditor grants permission to use its report.[4] After the documentation completion date, audit

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[3] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards; PCAOB Rule 3200T, Interim Auditing Standards. All references to PCAOB rules and standards are to the versions of those rules and standards in effect at the time of the relevant conduct.

documentation must not be deleted or discarded from the audit file, but it may be added as long as the auditor documents the date of the addition, the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation.[5]

3. PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors, requires registered firms and their associated persons to cooperate with inspections conducted by the Board. The cooperation requirement of Rule 4006 includes an obligation "not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[6]

4. Section 105(b)(3)(A) of the Act authorizes the Board to sanction an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for "refus[ing] to…cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation."[7] Board rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[8] Noncooperation includes "knowingly mak[ing] any false material declaration or mak[ing] or us[ing] any other information, including any book, paper, document, record, recording, or other material, knowing the same to contain any false material declaration."[9]

Background

5. During the relevant time period, Gol was one of Deloitte Brazil's issuer audit clients. As stated above, Paulon acted as a senior manager on Deloitte Brazil's audit of Gol's 2010 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("2010 Gol Audit").

6. During the 2010 Gol Audit, Paulon became aware that the engagement partner for the audit ("Gol Engagement Partner")[10] intended to acquiesce in what Paulon understood to be Gol's improper reporting of a potentially material amount of unsupported "maintenance deposit" assets. Paulon also became aware of a potential misstatement of Gol's passenger revenue and advance ticket sales liability, initially estimated at 38.3 million Brazilian reais ("Potential Misstatement"). Based on this understanding, Paulon believed that it might be inappropriate for Deloitte Brazil to issue unqualified audit reports concerning GoI's 2010 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR"). Paulon understood, however, that the GoI Engagement Partner nevertheless authorized the Firm's issuance of the unqualified reports. GoI included those reports in a Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on April 8, 2011.

Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the 2012 Board Inspection

7. The Board conducted an inspection of Deloitte Brazil in 2012. On or about March 8, 2012, the Board's Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") informed the Firm that the 2010 GoI Audit would be one of the audits inspected, and that the focus areas for the inspection would be revenue, deferred revenue, accounts receivable, and property, plant, and equipment. Primary field work procedures for the inspection commenced on March 26, 2012.

8. After being informed that the 2010 GoI Audit would be inspected, the GoI Engagement Partner instructed Paulon that the 2010 GoI Audit work papers must be improperly altered. The GoI Engagement Partner informed Paulon that the two principal objectives of the alterations would be: (a) to conceal Deloitte Brazil's acquiescence in what it understood to be GoI's incorrect accounting for its maintenance deposits; and (b) changes to work papers relating to passenger revenue and advance ticket sales to alter the Firm's documented conclusions concerning the Potential Misstatement. Specifically, the GoI Engagement Partner directed Paulon to create the appearance that the Firm engagement team had considered a particular paragraph in the International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") literature, International Accounting Standard 8 ("IAS 8") Paragraph 44, to apply to the Potential Misstatement at the time of the 2010 GoI Audit. In fact, Deloitte Brazil had not identified IAS 8 Paragraph 44 as potentially applicable to the Potential Misstatement until well after the completion of the 2010 GoI Audit.

9. At the GoI Engagement Partner's direction, Paulon, along with two Firm senior managers,[11] made improper alterations to the 2010 GoI Audit work papers in compliance with the GoI Engagement Partner's instructions described above, including alterations concerning the Firm's procedures relating to GoI's ICFR and to certain of the areas identified by Inspections as focus areas for the inspection. Paulon made certain of the alterations himself, and in doing so failed to document the date on which the alterations were being made, the person making them, or the reason for the alterations.

10. Paulon then sent the improperly altered work papers to the GoI Engagement Partner, who made even more improper alterations on his own. After the GoI Engagement Partner sent the additional alterations to Paulon, Paulon added all of the improperly altered work papers to the audit file, which was made available to Inspections for use in the GoI inspection.

11. Paulon's actions violated PCAOB audit documentation standards and his duty to cooperate with Inspections.[12]

Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules in Connection with the 2014-16 Board Investigation

12. On October 15, 2013, the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") issued a request to Deloitte Brazil ('2013 Request") for, among other things, "the complete and final set of audit documentation assembled for retention" concerning the 2010 GoI Audit. The 2013 Request also asked the Firm to preserve all documents relating to the 2010 GoI Audit.

13. Paulon became aware that, after the Firm received the 2013 Request, the Firm produced the improperly altered versions of the 2010 GoI Audit work papers (the same versions that had been produced to Inspections) to the Division, and withheld the original, unaltered versions. Additionally, Paulon was instructed to withhold inculpatory documents in his possession. For example, on March 10, 2014, a senior partner of the Firm who held an important compliance position ("Senior Partner")[13] instructed Paulon to remove from his computer and office any documents that would reveal the improper alteration of the 2010 GoI Audit work papers, to prevent their being produced to the Division. Paulon recorded the conversation:[14]

> Senior Partner: Any evidence that you have of this, remove it from your machine. Keep it in a—if you have that, keep it somewhere else, but not in your machine, not in the office. Okay?

Senior Partner:	Okay? Another thing, considering that he [the GoI Engagement Partner] will take the responsibility for all this, everything you told me, everything we discussed, never happened.[15]
Paulon:	Okay.
Senior Partner:	Never! Whatever happens—I, if somebody says, "No, Paulon said to you—," I will say, "No, there must be a mistake!" I will never admit that it was said.

14. In response to the Senior Partner's instruction, Paulon deleted relevant documents from his computer. Paulon participated in other meetings and consultations at which he became aware of the Firm's efforts to provide false information to the Division.

15. After the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation in June 2014, Paulon provided testimony under oath to the Division from September 14 through 19, 2015. During that testimony, Paulon made false declarations, including by (a) falsely representing that improperly altered versions of 2010 GoI Audit work papers were the actual work papers from the audit; and (b) falsely testifying that the GoI engagement team had considered IAS 8 Paragraph 44 to apply to the Potential Misstatement during the audit, when in fact he knew that the team had not considered IAS 8 Paragraph 44 during the audit.

16. Through his actions, Paulon failed to cooperate with a Board investigation.[16]

[15] The GoI Engagement Partner had previously informed Paulon that, if the improper alteration of GoI work papers were ever discovered, the GoI Engagement Partner would assume all responsibility for the work paper alterations and would protect other Firm personnel from being implicated in the misconduct.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

17. After the PCAOB discovered in October 2015 that the 2010 Gol Audit work papers had been improperly altered, Deloitte Brazil placed Paulon on administrative leave. In January 2016, Paulon reported the Firm's obstruction of the investigation to the Division, and Paulon subsequently provided substantial assistance to the investigation by, among other things: (a) making himself available for extensive interviews and other consultations, during which he provided detailed information concerning events relating to the 2010 Gol Audit, the 2012 inspection, and the Firm's obstruction of the Division's inquiry and investigation; and (b) providing the Division with multiple audio recordings that he had made of conversations with senior Firm partners concerning the obstruction of the investigation, including the conversation set out above, and assisting the Division in understanding the context and import of the recordings.[17] The Board took that reporting and substantial assistance into account in ordering the sanctions under Section IV of this Order.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) and 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5) and (b)(1), André Ricardo Aguillar Paulon is censured; and

B. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) and 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3) and (b)(1), for a period of one year from the date of this Order, André Ricardo Aguillar Paulon's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Paulon shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in the Board's Auditing Standard No. 10 or AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in the Board's Auditing Standard No. 7 or AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to, but differently denominated from, engagement partner (such as "lead partner" or "practitioner-in-charge") or engagement

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of James Roderick Talbot Oram, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-036 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring James Roderick Talbot Oram ("Oram" or "Respondent"); and (2) suspending Oram from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for a period of one year from the date of this Order. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Oram violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit of an issuer.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondent

1. James Roderick Talbot Oram, 64, is a retired partner of the PCAOB registered firm Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil" or "Firm"). From 2009 through 2013, Oram acted as the engagement quality reviewer for Deloitte Brazil's audits and reviews of the financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") of Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., also known as Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. ("Gol" or "Company"), including as engagement quality reviewer for the Firm's audit of Gol for the year ended December 31, 2010 ("2010 Gol Audit"). At all relevant times, Oram was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Respondent Violated Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

2. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[3] During Mr. Oram's service as engagement quality reviewer for the 2010 Gol Audit, those standards included PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS7").[4]

---

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[3] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards; PCAOB Rule 3200T, Interim Auditing Standards. All references to PCAOB rules and standards are to the versions of those rules and standards in effect at the time of the relevant conduct.

[4] As the Board stated in its release adopting AS7, "A well-performed engagement quality review ('EQR') can serve as an important safeguard against erroneous or insufficiently supported audit opinions and, accordingly, can contribute to audit quality." PCAOB Release No. 2009-004, at 1 (July 28, 2009).

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Among other things, AS7 states that an engagement quality reviewer should perform the following procedures:

- "[E]valuate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report," including, "to the extent necessary," by "hold[ing] discussions with the engagement partner and other members of the engagement team," and "review[ing] documentation";[5]

- "Evaluate the significant judgments made about (1) the materiality and disposition of corrected and uncorrected identified misstatements and (2) the severity and disposition of identified control deficiencies";[6]

- "Review the engagement completion document and confirm with the engagement partner that there are no significant unresolved matters";[7]

- "Based on the procedures required by this standard, evaluate whether appropriate consultations have taken place on difficult or contentious matters" and "[r]eview the documentation, including conclusions, of such consultations";[8] and

- Evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed "[s]upports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed."[9]

7 Id. ¶ 10(e).

8 Id. ¶ 10(h).

ORDER

3. PCAOB standards state that "the engagement quality reviewer may provide concurring approval of issuance [for an audit report] only if, after performing with due professional care the review required" by AS 7 (including the procedures described above), "he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency."[10]

Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the 2010 GoI Audit

4. During the 2010 GoI Audit, Oram became aware through his review of the GoI audit team's engagement completion documentation that the team had identified a potential misstatement in GoI's accounting for revenue and deferred revenue ("Potential Misstatement"). The documentation that Oram reviewed indicated the size of the Potential Misstatement to be 38.3 million Brazilian reais ("R$") (US$23.0 million).[11] Additionally, the documentation stated that, in light of the Potential Misstatement, a significant deficiency existed in GoI's ICFR.

5. The documentation Oram reviewed stated that the Potential Misstatement was caused by a reconciliation failure in GoI's systems, but did not otherwise explain how the difference had been calculated. Oram did not request, and the documentation he reviewed did not contain, any further explanation concerning the Potential Misstatement. Oram assumed that the R$38.3 million figure represented the engagement team's best estimate of the Potential Misstatement amount. He was unaware that the R$38.3 million amount was a preliminary calculation and that, according to other work papers prepared by the engagement team, the Company was still analyzing the Potential Misstatement at the time it issued its financial statements.

6. The documentation Oram reviewed stated that the GoI engagement team did not consider the misstatements identified during the 2010 GoI Audit, individually or in the aggregate, to be material, but did not provide any further explanation of the team's analysis. Oram did not request any additional analysis from the engagement team. Instead, Oram made an independent materiality assessment, from which he concluded that the Potential Misstatement, even when combined with the other

A "significant engagement deficiency" includes, among other things, (a) the engagement team's failure to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence in accordance with PCAOB standards; and (b) the engagement team's reaching an inappropriate overall conclusion concerning the engagement. identified misstatements, was not material to GoI's 2010 financial statements. As a result, Oram was unaware that the engagement team's own analysis, documented elsewhere, indicated that it should consider expanding the scope of its procedures before issuing an unqualified opinion on GoI's financial statements.

7. Oram also failed to take any steps to evaluate the engagement team's judgment concerning the effect of the identified misstatements, including the Potential Misstatement, on GoI's ICFR. Instead, he simply concluded that, because the misstatements did not appear to be material in the aggregate, they could not represent a material weakness in GoI's ICFR.[12]

8. Oram communicated with the engagement partner on the 2010 GoI Audit during the planning procedures for the audit, but did not directly communicate with him during the remainder of the audit. Accordingly, Oram was unaware of: (a) the results of a consultation that the engagement partner had held with a senior Firm partner concerning the implications of the Potential Misstatement for the audit; and (b) whether there were any other significant unresolved matters at the close of the audit.

9. In performing his EQR in the manner described above, Oram violated AS7 in several respects, including by: (a) failing to adequately evaluate the engagement team's significant judgments and related conclusions;[13] (b) failing to adequately evaluate the engagement team's significant judgments with regard to the materiality and disposition of the Potential Misstatement, the materiality and disposition of the identified misstatements in the aggregate, and the severity and disposition of identified control deficiencies;[14] (c) failing to confirm with the engagement partner that there were no

[12] Oram's analysis concerning GoI's ICFR was inconsistent with PCAOB auditing standards. PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 5, An Audit of Internal Control Over Financial Reporting That Is Integrated with an Audit of Financial Statements ("AS5"), defines a material weakness as a deficiency or combination of deficiencies in ICFR that create "a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the company's annual or interim financial statements will not be prevented or detected on a timely basis." AS5 ¶ A7. AS5 also states that "[t]he severity of a deficiency does not depend on whether a misstatement actually has occurred but rather on whether there is a reasonable possibility that the company's controls will fail to prevent or detect a misstatement." significant unresolved matters;[15] (d) failing to adequately evaluate whether appropriate consultations had taken place on a difficult or contentious matter, and to review the documentation and conclusions of the engagement partner's consultation;[16] and (e) failing to adequately review the engagement team's documentation concerning the Potential Misstatement and to adequately evaluate whether that documentation supported the team's conclusions.[17]

10. Oram provided concurring approval of issuance of the Firm's unqualified audit reports concerning GoI's 2010 financial statements and ICFR without having performed an EQR with due professional care and as required by PCAOB standards. When he provided that concurring approval, Oram was not in a position to know whether there was a significant engagement deficiency with respect to the 2010 GoI Audit.[18]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), James Roderick Talbot Oram is censured; and

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Joao Rafael Belo de Araujo Filho, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-037 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Joao Rafael Belo de Araujo Filho ("Respondent" or "Araujo"); (2) barring Araujo from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and (3) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 on Araujo. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Araujo violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with a Board inspection.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. Joao Rafael Belo de Araujo Filho, 39, is a former partner of the PCAOB registered firm Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil" or Firm"). From August 2010 through June 2013, Araujo was a member of the Firm's Global IFRS and Offering Services group. In June 2013, Araujo was promoted to Associate Partner, and in June 2015 he was promoted to Equity Partner. On or about December 2, 2015, Araujo was placed on administrative leave due to his participation in the improper alteration of work papers described herein. At all relevant times, Araujo was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Araujo separated from the Firm in November 2016.

B. Respondent Violated Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

2. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[4] Auditing Standard No.

---

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

3, Audit Documentation ("AS3"), requires that the complete and final set of documentation for an audit be assembled for retention by the "documentation completion date," a date no later than 45 days from the date on which the auditor grants permission to use its audit report.[5] After the documentation completion date, audit documentation must not be deleted or discarded from the audit file, but it may be added as long as the auditor documents the date of the addition, the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation.[6]

3. PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors, requires registered firms and their associated persons to cooperate with inspections conducted by the Board. The cooperation requirement of Rule 4006 includes an obligation "not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[7]

Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with a PCAOB Inspection

4. During the relevant time period, one of Deloitte Brazil's audit clients was Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., also known as Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. ("Gol"). On April 8, 2011, the Firm issued two unqualified audit reports concerning Gol's 2010 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR"). Gol included those reports in a Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on April 8, 2011. Araujo did not perform procedures in connection with those reports.

5. The Board conducted an inspection of Deloitte Brazil in 2012. In early March 2012, the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") informed Deloitte Brazil that primary field work procedures for the inspection would begin on March 26, 2012. Inspections identified the Firm's audit of Gol's 2010 financial statements and ICFR ("2010 Gol Audit") as one of the audits to be inspected, and identified the focus areas for the inspection, which included revenue, deferred revenue, and accounts receivable.

6. On or about March 16, 2012, Araujo was informed by a colleague who had served as senior manager for the 2010 Gol Audit and had since become a partner ("Gol

Senior Manager")[8] that the engagement partner for the 2010 Gol Audit, who also served as the Firm's Audit Practice Leader ("Gol Engagement Partner"),[9] had directed the Gol Senior Manager to improperly alter the 2010 Gol Audit work papers to attempt to conceal certain matters from Inspections. The Gol Senior Manager stated that the Gol Engagement Partner had determined that Araujo should also participate in the alteration effort, and Araujo agreed to do so.

7. During the week of March 12, 2012, Araujo reviewed the work papers for the 2010 Gol Audit and identified audit areas and work papers for which the PCAOB inspectors might have questions. Araujo reported the findings of his review to the Senior Manager.

8. On Saturday, March 17, 2012, Araujo, the Gol Senior Manager, and another Deloitte Brazil colleague[10] met in a Deloitte Brazil conference room where alterations were discussed and then made to numerous 2010 Gol Audit work papers, including work papers that addressed the audit areas that Inspections had previously identified as focus areas for the inspection. Araujo himself assisted with certain of the alterations. Araujo did not document when those alterations were made, why they were made, or who made them. Araujo knew that the improperly altered work papers would be made available to Inspections as the original work papers from the 2010 Gol Audit. Araujo's actions violated PCAOB audit documentation standards and his duty to cooperate with Inspections.[11]

9. While Inspections personnel were conducting their primary procedures for the inspection at Deloitte Brazil's offices, Araujo attended a meeting on or about April 3, 2012 in which the PCAOB inspectors interviewed two information-technology ("IT") specialists at the Firm[12] who had performed or supervised IT-related procedures during the 2010 Gol Audit. Araujo was asked to serve as a translator for the meeting. In advance of the PCAOB interview, Araujo attended two internal pre-meetings, each involving one or both of the IT specialists and one or more members of the audit engagement team, to prepare for the interview. During one of the pre-meetings, the audit team made the IT specialists aware that IT-related work papers for the 2010 Gol Audit had been improperly altered before being made available to Inspections. Araujo subsequently attended the PCAOB interview and assisted the IT specialists in answering the inspectors' questions. Araujo did not inform Inspections that the IT-related work papers had been improperly altered and thus that the interview was based on misleading information. Araujo also did not inform Inspections that the IT specialists were aware that the work papers had been improperly altered and were thus aware that the interview was based on misleading information. Under the circumstances, Araujo's participation in the interview while failing to disclose these facts violated his duty to cooperate with Inspections.[13]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Joao Rafael Belo de Araujo Filho is censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Joao Rafael Belo de Araujo Filho is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[14]

[13] See PCAOB Rule 4006.

[14] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Araujo. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

C. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, Joao Rafael Belo de Araujo Filho may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;[15] and

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed upon Joao Rafael Belo de Araujo Filho. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Araujo shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Araujo as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Leonardo Fonseca de Freitas Maia, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-038 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Leonardo Fonseca de Freitas Maia ("Respondent"); (2) barring Maia from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and (3) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 on Maia. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Maia violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with a Board inspection.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. Leonardo Fonseca de Freitas Maia, 42, is a former partner of the PCAOB registered firm Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil" or "Firm"). From June 2008 through May 2012, Maia served as a member of the Firm's Global IFRS and Offering Services group. Maia became a partner of Deloitte Brazil in 2013. On or about January 11, 2016, the Firm placed Maia on administrative leave. At all relevant times, Maia was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Maia separated from the Firm in November 2016.

B. Respondent Violated Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

2. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[4] Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS3"), requires that the complete and final set of documentation for an audit be assembled for retention by the "documentation completion date," a date no later than 45 days from the date on which the auditor grants permission to use its audit report.[5] After the documentation completion date, audit documentation must not be deleted or discarded from the audit file, but it may be added as long as the auditor documents the date of the addition, the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation.[6]

3. PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors, requires registered firms and their associated persons to cooperate with inspections conducted by the Board. The cooperation requirement of Rule 4006 includes an obligation "not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[7]

Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with a PCAOB Inspection

4. During the relevant time period, one of Deloitte Brazil's audit clients was Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., also known as Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. ("Gol"). On April 8, 2011, the Firm issued two unqualified audit reports concerning Gol's 2010 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR"). Gol included those reports in a Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on April 8, 2011. Maia did not perform procedures in connection with those reports.

5. The Board conducted an inspection of Deloitte Brazil in 2012. In early March 2012, the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") informed Deloitte Brazil that primary field work procedures for the inspection would begin on March 26, 2012. Inspections identified the Firm's audit of Gol's 2010 financial statements and ICFR ("2010 Gol Audit") as one of the audits to be inspected, and identified the focus areas for the inspection, which included revenue, deferred revenue, and accounts receivable.

ORDER

6. On or about March 12, 2012, Maia was informed by a colleague who had served as senior manager for the 2010 Gol Audit and had since become a partner ("Gol Senior Manager")[8] that the engagement partner[9] for the 2010 Gol Audit, a senior partner of Deloitte Brazil, had directed the Gol Senior Manager to improperly alter the 2010 Gol Audit work papers to attempt to conceal certain matters from Inspections. The Gol Senior Manager stated that the engagement partner had determined that Maia should also participate in the alteration effort.

7. As a result, on Saturday, March 17, 2012, Maia, the Gol Senior Manager, and another colleague[10] met in a Deloitte Brazil conference room and both discussed and made alterations to numerous 2010 Gol Audit work papers, including work papers that addressed the audit areas that Inspections had identified as focus areas for the inspection. Maia himself made certain of the alterations. Maia did not document when those alterations were made, why they were made, or who made them. Maia knew that others would make the improperly altered work papers available to Inspections as the original work papers from the 2010 Gol Audit. Maia's actions violated PCAOB audit documentation standards and his duty to cooperate with Inspections.[11]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Leonardo Fonseca de Freitas Maia is censured;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed upon Leonardo Fonseca de Freitas Maia. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Maia shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Maia as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary,

[12] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Maia. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

[13] In considering such a petition, the Board will address all of the factors described in PCAOB Rule 5302(b) and, among other things, will give weight to whether Maia has, in the period after the date of this Order, completed at least 20 hours of continuing professional education directly related to ethics.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of José Fernando Alves, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-039 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring José Fernando Alves ("Alves" or "Respondent"); (2) barring Alves from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and (3) imposing a civil money penalty of $20,000 on Alves. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Alves failed to cooperate with a Board inspection.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. José Fernando Alves, 57, is a retired partner in the Enterprise Risk Services ("ERS") group of a Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited member firm in Brazil. In that role, Alves provided services in connection with audits conducted by Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil" or "Firm"), a registered public accounting firm. Those audit-related services included supervising and performing testing of audit clients' information technology general controls, business process automated controls, and journal entries. At all relevant times, Alves was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). For fiscal year 2010, Alves was the partner in charge of ERS procedures for the Firm's audit of the financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") of Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., also known as Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. ("Gol"). Alves retired in November 2016.

B. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rule 4006

3. For Deloitte Brazil's audit of Gol's financial statements and ICFR for fiscal year 2010 ("2010 Gol Audit"), Alves oversaw the work of a team of specialists performing information technology-related and journal entry-related audit procedures to support the 2010 Gol Audit. During the 2010 Gol Audit, those ERS procedures identified a number of ineffective controls in Gol's computer systems.

4. In March and April 2012, the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") performed primary field work procedures for an inspection of the Firm, including an inspection of the 2010 Gol Audit. In anticipation of that inspection, certain Deloitte Brazil personnel improperly altered certain work papers for the 2010 Gol Audit before making those work papers available to Inspections. Among the improper alterations were changes to numerous of the ERS work papers for which the conclusions that certain controls were "ineffective" were changed to "effective." Alves did not participate in the alterations.

5. On or about April 3, 2012, Alves, along with other Deloitte Brazil associated persons, met with Inspections personnel concerning the ERS audit procedures for the 2010 Gol Audit. In advance of that meeting with Inspections, Alves attended a pre-meeting with certain members of the 2010 Gol Audit engagement team, including the engagement partner for that audit.[5] At that pre-meeting, the engagement partner informed Alves that certain of the ERS work papers for the 2010 Gol Audit had been improperly altered and that those work papers had been made available to Inspections. Alves provided misleading information to Inspections by participating in the subsequent meeting without informing Inspections that the discussion was based on documents that had been improperly altered.[6]

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), José Fernando Alves is censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), José Fernando Alves is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[7]

C. After one (1) year from the date of this Order, José Fernando Alves may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;[8] and

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 is imposed upon José Fernando Alves. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Alves shall pay this civil money penalty within thirty (30) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Renata Coelho de Sousa Castelli, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-040 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Renata Coelho de Sousa Castelli ("Coelho" or "Respondent"); and (2) barring Coelho from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Coelho failed to cooperate with both a Board inspection and a Board investigation.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) and (3) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules in Connection with a PCAOB Inspection and Investigation

4. For Deloitte Brazil's audit of GoI's financial statements and ICFR for fiscal year 2010 ("2010 GoI Audit"), Coelho led a team of specialists performing information technology-related and journal entry-related audit procedures to support the 2010 GoI Audit. During the 2010 GoI Audit, those ERS procedures identified a number of ineffective controls in GoI's computer systems.

5. In March and April 2012, the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") performed primary field work procedures for an inspection of the Firm, including an inspection of the 2010 GoI Audit. Coelho provided misleading information to Inspections by participating in the meeting without informing Inspections that the discussion was based on documents that had been improperly altered.[8]

7. On January 13, 2016, the Division issued an ABD to Coelho requiring her to appear for testimony. Although Coelho initially agreed to appear for testimony on March 30 and 31, 2016, she informed the Division on March 29, 2016 that she refused to appear for testimony, thereby failing to comply with the ABD.[9]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) and 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5) and (b)(1), Renata Coelho de Sousa Castelli is censured;

B. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A)(i) and 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2) and (b)(1), Renata Coelho de Sousa Castelli is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[10] and

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Marco Aurelio Paulino Neves, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-041 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Marco Aurelio Paulino Neves ("Neves" or "Respondent"); (2) barring Neves from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and (3) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 on Neves. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Neves violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with a Board inspection.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent

4. During the relevant time period, one of Deloitte Brazil's audit clients was a company ("Issuer") that was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). In early 2011, the Firm issued two unqualified audit reports concerning the Issuer's 2010 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR"). The Issuer included those reports in a Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") during the first half of 2011. Both the "report release date"[8] and the documentation completion date for the Firm's audit of the Issuer's 2010 financial statements and ICFR ("2010 Issuer Audit") occurred prior to the end of 2011.

5. In March and April 2012, staff of the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") performed primary field work procedures for an inspection of Deloitte Brazil, including an inspection of the 2010 Issuer Audit. Neves had served as a second partner on the 2010 Issuer Audit. Inspections informed the Firm that the 2010 Issuer Audit had been selected for inspection on or about March 8, 2012.

6. Prior to and during the inspection, Neves improperly added information, and directed others to improperly add information, to the 2010 Issuer Audit documentation. Specifically, after Inspections informed Deloitte Brazil that it would inspect the 2010 Issuer Audit, Neves informed the engagement quality reviewer for the audit[9] that certain compact discs ("CDs") that purportedly contained final audit work papers were missing. Neves proposed to alter non-final versions of certain 2010 Issuer Audit work papers, burn those altered work papers onto new CDs, and present those new CDs to Inspections as documentation that had been prepared timely and in accordance with PCAOB standards. The engagement quality reviewer approved the plan, which Neves then carried out. In furtherance of that plan, Neves instructed a manager from the audit[10] to back-date his computer clock to create the appearance that the new CDs had been burned at the time of the 2010 Issuer Audit.

7. Neves also caused other, newly created documentation to be included in the 2010 Issuer Audit work papers provided to the PCAOB inspectors. For example, after causing the creation of three new work papers during the inspection to respond to questions raised by the inspectors about the audit, Neves then inserted the three newly created work papers into the binders of manual work papers that had previously been provided to Inspections. Neves then directed the inspectors to the three new work papers as documenting answers to their questions about the audit, without disclosing that he had recently caused the work papers to be created, and had inserted them into the manual work paper binders when the inspectors were absent from the conference room.

8. Through his actions, Neves violated PCAOB audit documentation standards and his duty to cooperate with Inspections.[11]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Marco Aurelio Paulino Neves is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Marco Aurelio Paulino Neves is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[12]

C. After three (3) years from the date of this Order, Marco Aurelio Paulino Neves may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.[13]

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 is imposed upon Marco Aurelio Paulino Neves. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Neves shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Neves as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Simone Pacheco Lemos do Amaral, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-042 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Simone Pacheco Lemos do Amaral ("Amaral" or "Respondent"); and (2) barring Amaral from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Amaral violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with a Board inspection.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over her and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. Simone Pacheco Lemos do Amaral, 38, was, at all relevant times, a senior manager at the PCAOB registered firm Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Auditores Independentes ("Deloitte Brazil" or "Firm"). Amaral was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). The Firm terminated Amaral in July 2016.

B. Respondent Violated Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

2. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[4] Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS3"), requires that the complete and final set of documentation for an audit be assembled for retention by the "documentation completion date," a date no later than 45 days from the date on which the auditor grants permission to use its report.[5] After the documentation completion date, audit

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Walter Vinicius Barreto Brito Silva, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-043 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring Walter Vinicius Barreto Brito Silva ("Silva" or "Respondent"); and (2) barring Silva from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[1] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Silva violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with a Board inspection.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent documentation must not be deleted or discarded from the audit file, but it may be added as long as the auditor documents the date of the addition, the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation.[6]

3. PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors, requires registered firms and their associated persons to cooperate with inspections conducted by the Board. The cooperation requirement of Rule 4006 includes an obligation "not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[7]

Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with a PCAOB Inspection

4. During the relevant time period, one of Deloitte Brazil's audit clients was a company ("Issuer") that was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). In early 2011, the Firm issued two unqualified audit reports concerning the Issuer's 2010 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR"). The Issuer included those reports in a Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") during the first half of 2011. Both the "report release date"[8] and the documentation completion date for the Firm's audit of the Issuer's 2010 financial statements and ICFR ("2010 Issuer Audit") occurred prior to the end of 2011.

In March and April 2012, staff of the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") performed primary field work procedures for an inspection of Deloitte Brazil, including an inspection of the 2010 Issuer Audit. Silva had served as a manager on the 2010 Issuer Audit. Inspections staff informed the Firm that the 2010 Issuer Audit had been selected for inspection on or about March 8, 2012.

6. Just prior to the commencement of primary field work procedures for the inspection, Silva and a partner on the 2010 Issuer Audit ("Partner")[9] determined that certain 2010 Issuer Audit work papers that purportedly had been stored on compact discs ("CDs") and archived with the complete and final set of documentation for the 2010 Issuer Audit were missing from the manual work paper binders in which they had been kept. After determining that the work papers were missing, the Partner provided Silva with draft versions of those work papers, which Silva, at the Partner's direction, then reviewed and assisted the Partner in preparing in final form. In preparing these work papers, Silva failed to appropriately document the date on which they were being prepared or the reason for preparing them.[10]

7. After the work papers had been prepared, Silva and the Partner burned the new documents onto new CDs. In order to conceal the date on which the new CDs had been burned, Silva, at the Partner's direction, changed the system date of his computer so that the metadata of the CDs would indicate that they had been burned during the 2010 Issuer Audit. The work papers on the new CDs were subsequently provided to the PCAOB inspectors for their use, without disclosure that certain of the work papers had just been placed in final form shortly before the inspection began.

8. Silva subsequently attended meetings with the PCAOB inspectors at which areas of the 2010 Issuer Audit for which he had prepared new work papers were discussed. Silva provided misleading information to the inspectors by participating in these meetings and discussing the work papers pertaining to those audit areas without disclosing that certain of the work papers had only recently been prepared.

9. Through his actions, Silva violated PCAOB audit documentation standards and his duty to cooperate with Inspections.[11]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Walter Vinicius Barreto Brito Silva is censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Walter Vinicius Barreto Brito Silva is barred from being an associated

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Galaz, Yamazaki, Ruiz Urquiza, S.C. Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-044 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring Galaz, Yamazaki, Ruiz Urquiza, S.C. ("Deloitte Mexico," "Firm," or "Respondent"); (2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $750,000 on Deloitte Mexico; (3) requiring the Firm to certify that it has remediated the quality control deficiencies identified in this Order; (4) requiring the Firm to report quarterly for one year from the date of this Order to the Board any noncompliance with its quality control policies and procedures related to timely assembly for retention of audit documentation ("archiving") in compliance with PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation, ("AS3"); and (5) requiring the Firm to provide additional professional education and training to its associated persons related to AS3.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards from 2011 to 2015: (1) by repeatedly archiving audit documentation late in connection with issuer audits, in violation of AS3; (2) by failing to effectively implement policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that its engagement personnel were timely archiving issuer audit documentation in compliance with AS3; and (3) by failing to take timely and necessary corrective action, including making improvements to its quality control system, upon becoming aware of repeated failures by engagement personnel to archive issuer audit documentation in compliance with AS3.

ORDER

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

B. Summary

2. The Firm serves as an external auditor for certain issuer clients who file Forms 20-F and Forms 10-K with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. The PCAOB standard concerning audit documentation, AS3, provides that "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[4] In connection with numerous issuer audits ("PCAOB Audits") from 2011 to 2015, the Firm failed to archive a complete and final set of audit documentation by the relevant documentation completion date, thereby violating AS3.

3. As a registered firm, Deloitte Mexico has a responsibility to have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[5] That system of quality control should include policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, including with respect to documenting the results of each engagement.[6] During the period 2011 to 2015, the Firm also violated PCAOB quality control standards by failing to effectively implement policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that its engagement teams would timely archive audit documentation for PCAOB Audits.

4. A Firm's system of quality control also should include a monitoring element to provide the Firm with a means of identifying and communicating circumstances that may necessitate changes to or the need to improve compliance with the Firm's policies and procedures.[7] As a result of its monitoring procedures, the Firm became aware, as early as 2011 and continuing to 2015, that Firm personnel had failed to comply with the Firm's policies and procedures, and with PCAOB standards, regarding timely archiving of audit documentation in numerous PCAOB Audits. Despite identifying late archiving of audit documentation as a significant problem each year from 2011 to 2015, the Firm failed to timely determine corrective actions to be taken and improvements to be made in its quality control system. That failure constituted a further violation of PCAOB quality control standards.[8]

C. The Firm Violated PCAOB Standards in Connection with its Repeated Failures to Timely Archive Audit Documentation from 2011 to 2015

5. PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[9] PCAOB standards provide, among other things, that the auditor must prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB.[10] The auditor must document the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached with respect to relevant financial statement assertions.[11] This documentation requirement applies to the work of all those who participate in the engagement.[12] As noted above, "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[13]

The Firm Failed to Implement Policies and Procedures to Provide It with Reasonable Assurance That Its Engagement Teams Were Timely Archiving Audit Work Papers in Compliance with PCAOB Standards

7. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards.[14] PCAOB quality control standards, in turn, require that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[15]

8. Pursuant to PCAOB quality control standards, firms should establish policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that: (a) "personnel … perform all professional responsibilities with integrity, and maintain objectivity in discharging professional responsibilities;"[16] (b) "the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality,"[17] including with respect to "planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement;"[18] and (c) the firm's quality control policies and procedures "are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[19]

9. PCAOB quality control standards provide that one required element of a quality control system is monitoring.[20] Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of the: (a) relevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures; (b) appropriateness of the firm's guidance materials and any practice aids; (c) effectiveness of professional development activities; and d) compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[21] Monitoring procedures taken as a whole should enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective.[22]

10. Internal inspection procedures contribute to the monitoring function because findings are evaluated and changes in or clarifications of quality control policies and procedures are considered.[23] The adequacy of and compliance with a firm's quality control system are evaluated by performing such inspection procedures as: (a) summarization of the findings from the inspection procedures, at least annually, and consideration of the systemic causes of findings that indicate improvements are needed, and (b) consideration of inspection findings by appropriate firm management personnel who should also determine that any actions necessary, including necessary modifications to the quality control system, are taken on a timely basis.[24]

11. Review of work papers after the issuance of the audit report may constitute inspection procedures provided: (a) the review is sufficiently comprehensive to enable the firm to assess compliance with all applicable professional standards and the firm's quality control policies and procedures, (b) findings of such reviews that may indicate the need to improve compliance with or modify the firm's quality control policies and procedures are periodically summarized, documented, and communicated to the firm's management personnel having the responsibility and authority to make changes in those policies and procedures; (c) the firm's management personnel consider on a timely basis the systemic causes of findings that indicate improvements are needed and determine appropriate actions to be taken; and (d) the firm implements on a timely basis such planned actions, communicates changes to personnel who might be affected, and follows up to determine that the planned actions were taken.[25]

The Firm Was Aware for Years That Audit Engagement Teams Were Not Timely Archiving Audit Documentation in Compliance with Professional Standards

12. At all relevant times, the Firm's quality control personnel performed annual internal practice reviews of the Firm's audit practice. The annual internal practice reviews were intended to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's policies and procedures were relevant, adequate, operating effectively and were being complied with in practice.

13. As part of annual internal practice reviews, the Firm's quality control personnel evaluated, among other things, whether audit engagement teams archived audit work papers in accordance with the Firm's policies and the requirements of AS3 regarding the archiving of audit documentation. The annual internal practice reviews included reviews of PCAOB Audits. Quality control personnel reported the findings of these practice reviews to the Managing Partner of the Firm each year.

14. During its annual practice reviews from 2011 to 2015, the Firm identified numerous problems with timely archiving of audit work papers in connection with PCAOB Audits. After each of those annual practice reviews from 2011 to 2015, the Firm's Practice Review Director informed the Firm's Managing Partner at the time about the archiving problems that had been identified.

15. Notwithstanding the repeated identification of the problems concerning the timely archiving of work papers and the communication of those problems to the Firm's Managing Partner, the Firm's archiving problems persisted.[26]

provide it with reasonable assurance that its engagement personnel were timely archiving audit documentation in connection with PCAOB Audits.[27]

The Firm Failed to Take Timely and Necessary Corrective Action Upon Becoming Aware of Repeated Instances of Late Archiving

17. Despite identifying late archiving of audit work papers as a significant problem each year from 2011 to 2015, the Firm failed to timely implement necessary corrective actions to address this problem. As a result, the Firm failed to adequately monitor compliance with its quality control policies and procedures regarding archiving of audit work papers and timely determine corrective actions to be taken and improvements to be made to its quality control system.[28]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Galaz, Yamazaki, Ruiz Urquiza, S.C. is censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $750,000 is imposed upon Galaz, Yamazaki, Ruiz Urquiza, S.C. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Galaz, Yamazaki, Ruiz Urquiza, S.C. shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Galaz, Yamazaki, Ruiz Urquiza, S.C. as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB Release number of

C. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(F) and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(6) and (9), the Board orders that:

1. Undertakings: The Firm shall carry out the following Undertakings:

(a) Initial Certification.

Within ten (10) days of the entry of this Order, the Firm shall provide a certification, signed by its Managing Partner, stating that the Firm has adopted systems designed to provide reasonable assurance that, for any audit, review or specified procedures conducted pursuant to PCAOB rules and standards, a complete and final set of audit documentation is archived by the documentation completion date for that audit or review, and that any additions to that documentation after the documentation completion date are made only in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards.

(b) Subsequent Certifications.

(1) Within ninety (90) days of the entry of this Order, the Firm shall provide a certification, signed by its Managing Partner, stating that all audit professionals involved in the performance of PCAOB Audits have received 4 hours of additional training concerning AS3, including archiving of audit documentation in accordance with AS3.

(2) No less than quarterly for one (1) year after the date of this Order, the Firm shall provide a certification, signed by its Managing Partner, stating that: (i) the Firm has examined whether, with respect to all audits, reviews, and specified procedures conducted by the Firm pursuant to PCAOB rules and standards and for which the documentation completion date has occurred within the prior three months, a complete and final set of audit documentation has been timely archived in accordance with PCAOB standards and in accordance with the Firm's audit policies and procedures; and (ii) with respect to those audits, reviews, and specified procedures the Firm is not aware of, or has reported to the PCAOB's staff, any noncompliance with PCAOB rules and

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Arturo Vargas Arellano, CPC, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-045 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring Arturo Vargas Arellano, CPC ("Vargas" or "Respondent"); (2) barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and (3) imposing on him a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Vargas: (1) violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with an audit of the financial statements of an issuer audit client; and (2) failed to cooperate with a Board inspection and Board investigation by providing improperly altered documents and misleading information to the Board's inspections and enforcement staff.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) and (3) against Respondent.

[1] Respondent may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after five (5) years from the date of this Order.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Arturo Vargas Arellano, age 61, of Mexico City, Mexico, is a registered public accountant who is licensed under the laws of Mexico (license no. 7455). At all relevant times, Vargas was a partner in the Mexico City, Mexico office of Galaz, Yamazaki, Ruiz Urquiza, S.C. ("Deloitte Mexico" or "Firm") and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). The Firm is a member of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited global network ("Deloitte Global"). Vargas served as the engagement partner for the audits of Southern Copper Corporation ("SCC" or "Company") for the years ending December 31, 2009 through December 31, 2012. In the second quarter of 2013, Deloitte Mexico removed Vargas from the SCC audit engagement team, and Vargas

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

retired from Deloitte Mexico on May 31, 2016, after the discovery of his improper alteration of 2010 SCC audit work papers.

B. Issuer

2. SCC is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Phoenix, Arizona. SCC's public filings disclose that SCC is a large integrated copper producer with mining, smelting and refining facilities located in Peru and Mexico. Its common stock is listed on both the New York and Lima Stock Exchanges under the symbol "SCCO." At all relevant times, SCC was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondent's violations of PCAOB rules and standards during the course of the Firm's audits of the Company's December 31, 2010 financial statements and the Company's internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") as of December 31, 2010 (the "Audit"), as well as his misconduct in connection with a subsequent PCAOB inspection and investigation. During the Audit, Respondent failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to: (1) gather sufficient competent evidential matter to support the appropriateness of the Company's tax treatment of unremitted earnings of a foreign subsidiary; (2) perform sufficient procedures to test journal entries for the existence of fraud; (3) sufficiently evaluate the qualifications, work, relationship to the audit client, and findings of the Company's employed and engaged specialists used for mineral reserves, labor obligations and employee benefits, and fixed asset lives; (4) sufficiently evaluate significant accounting estimates, including estimates related to mineral reserves and useful lives of fixed assets; and (5) timely assemble for retention all audit documentation required by PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS3").[4]

4. After the documentation completion date for the Audit, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team improperly altered the documentation for the Audit.[5] Specifically, in advance of a post-audit practice review, performed by the Firm, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team violated AS3 by deleting work papers from and making other alterations to documentation that had previously been assembled for retention for the Audit. In addition, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team made additions to the previously assembled documentation, without identifying when the additions were made, who made them, and why they were made, as required by AS3.

5. Beginning in March 2012, the staff of the Board's Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") inspected the Audit. In connection with the inspection, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team made available to the PCAOB inspectors the Audit work papers they had previously improperly altered, as well as other misleading information, in violation of PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors. Finally, when the Board's enforcement staff later investigated the Audit, Respondent made available to the PCAOB investigators the same improperly altered Audit work papers and other misleading information, thereby failing to cooperate with the Board's investigation.

D. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards During the Course of the Audit

6. The Firm has been the external auditor for SCC since 2009. On February 25, 2011, the Firm issued unqualified opinions in the Audit reports that were included in the Company's Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on February 28, 2011. The Audit reports stated that, in the Firm's opinion, the Company's financial statements presented fairly, in all material respects, the Company's financial position, and the results of its operations and cash flows in conformity with U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP"), and that the Company maintained, in all material respects, effective ICFR as of December 31, 2010. The Audit reports also stated that the Audit was conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards. Respondent was the engagement partner for the Audit and had served as the engagement partner for the Company's audits since 2009. Respondent had overall responsibility for the Audit, including overall responsibility for supervising the members of the Audit engagement team.

7. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor express an opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has performed the audit in compliance with PCAOB standards.[7]

8. PCAOB standards require that auditors exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter to provide a reasonable basis for the audit opinion.[8] While that evidential matter can include management representations, such representations "are not a substitute for the application of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[9]

9. PCAOB standards also provide that the "auditor should consider relevant evidential matter regardless of whether it appears to corroborate or to contradict the assertions in the financial statements. To the extent the auditor remains in substantial doubt about any assertion of material significance, he or she must refrain from forming an opinion until he or she has obtained sufficient competent evidential matter to remove such substantial doubt, or the auditor must express a qualified opinion or a disclaimer of opinion."[10]

10. PCAOB standards provide that the auditor with final responsibility for the audit is responsible for adequately planning and properly supervising the work to be performed in the audit.[11] They also provide that "[t]he work performed by each assistant should be reviewed to determine whether it was adequately performed and to evaluate whether the results are consistent with the conclusions to be presented in the auditor's report."[12]

ORDER

11. PCAOB standards also provide that "[t]he auditor is responsible for evaluating the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management in the context of the financial statements taken as a whole."[13]

Respondent Failed to Obtain Sufficient Competent Evidential Matter to Support the Appropriateness of the Company's Tax Treatment of Unremitted Earnings of a Foreign Subsidiary

12. SCC had a Mexican subsidiary that generated significant earnings in 2010. In 2010, and for at least the three years prior, this Mexican subsidiary paid significant dividends to SCC. SCC recorded a deferred tax liability in its 2010 consolidated financial statements for the tax consequences related to a portion of the Mexican subsidiary's earnings expected to be distributed to SCC in future years. Under U.S. GAAP there is a presumption "that all undistributed earnings of a subsidiary will be transferred to the parent entity."[14] SCC could overcome the presumption "if sufficient evidence show[ed] that the subsidiary ha[d] invested or [would] invest the undistributed earnings indefinitely ...."[15] In 2010, SCC did not record a deferred tax liability related to undistributed earnings from the Mexican subsidiary due to its assertion that those undistributed earnings were or would be indefinitely invested in the Mexican subsidiary.

13. During the Audit, Respondent and the engagement team determined that deferred taxes and income tax expense were significant risk areas and engaged U.S. tax specialists[16] to examine U.S. tax issues related to amounts recorded in SCC's 2010 consolidated financial statements. Respondent requested the assistance of the U.S. tax specialists to review SCC's indefinite investment assertion during the Audit. SCC primarily supported its indefinite investment assertion with management representations regarding its intent to indefinitely invest the earnings and its plans for the use of some undistributed earnings within its Mexican subsidiary. Respondent conveyed the management representations and other evidence to the U.S. tax specialists.

[16] The U.S. tax specialists were employed by Deloitte & Touche Tax LLP.

ORDER

14. The U.S. tax specialists informed Respondent on February 1, 2011 that they could not conclude that the evidence the Company had provided at that time supported SCC's indefinite investment assertion. In fact, the U.S. tax specialists stated, among other things, that SCC's projected future earnings would be sufficient to cover expected future reinvestments and therefore that current accumulated Mexican earnings were not needed for reinvestment in the Mexican subsidiary. Thus, the U.S. tax specialists informed Respondent that they could not conclude as to the appropriateness of SCC's evidence concerning its determination not to record a deferred tax liability on those undistributed earnings. The U.S. tax specialists later drafted a memorandum ("2010 Tax Memorandum"), which stated their position that they could not conclude on the appropriateness of SCC's indefinite investment assertion because it was insufficiently supported.

15. After the U.S. tax specialists informed Respondent that they could not conclude that the evidence SCC had provided was sufficient to support the Company's indefinite investment assertion, neither Respondent nor anyone else on his engagement team performed any additional procedures or obtained any additional evidence regarding that assertion. Respondent also did not document that he believed the U.S. tax specialists were incorrect or unreasonable in determining that SCC's indefinite investment assertion was insufficiently supported. Given his failure to gather additional evidence, or direct others to gather additional evidence, after being informed by the U.S. tax specialists that they were unable to conclude as to the appropriateness of SCC's indefinite investment assertion, Respondent violated AU §§ 230,[17] 333,[18] and 326[19] by failing to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, placing undue reliance on management representations, and failing to gather sufficient competent evidential matter to support his audit opinion.

Respondent Failed to Perform Sufficient Procedures to Test Journal Entries for the Existence of Fraud

16. PCAOB standards provide that "[t]he auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud."[20] The auditor should identify and address the risks of material misstatement due to fraud, including the risk of management override of controls.[21] Specifically, the auditor should examine journal entries and other adjustments for evidence of possible material misstatement due to fraud.[22]

17. During the Audit, Respondent and the engagement team identified the recording of journal entries as a fraud risk factor related to potential management override of controls. Respondent and the engagement team planned to respond to this risk by, among other things, testing journal entries.

18. The engagement team planned to use a journal entry testing tool ("JET Tool") to select and analyze journal entries for testing in response to the requirements of AU § 316.[23] During the Audit, however, the engagement team was unable to run the JET Tool due to an inability to reconcile the extracted journal entry data to the Company's general ledger. Respondent and the engagement team did not adjust their audit approach in response. And although Respondent and the engagement team selected journal entries for testing in various parts of the Audit, those journal entries were neither selected for purposes of identifying, nor examined for evidence of, possible material misstatements due to fraud. Respondent accordingly violated AU § 316,[24] as well as AU §§ 230,[25] 311,[26] and 326,[27] by failing to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, failing to obtain reasonable assurance that SCC's 2010 financial statements were free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud, and failing to adequately supervise the members of the engagement team responsible for testing journal entries for possible misstatements due to fraud.

Respondent Failed to Perform Necessary Procedures Regarding the Specialists Used on the Audit

19. During the course of the Audit, the Company used the services of three sets of specialists. One set of specialists was comprised of SCC employees who estimated the quantities of proven and probable mineral reserves.[28] The remaining two sets of specialists were engaged by the Company, one to determine labor obligations and employee benefits related to calculating the net pension assets, and one to determine the useful lives of certain equipment for purposes of calculating depreciation expense. In violation of PCAOB standards, Respondent and his engagement team used the work of those specialists in conducting the Audit without adequately reviewing their qualifications, the nature of the work they performed, their relationships with the Company, and other information necessary to determine whether to use their findings.

20. When using the work of a specialist on an audit, PCAOB standards provide that the auditor should evaluate the professional qualifications of the specialist in determining that the specialist possesses the necessary skill or knowledge in the particular field.[29] PCAOB standards also provide that the auditor should obtain an understanding of the nature of the work performed or to be performed by the specialist.[30]

21. PCAOB standards further provide that the auditor should evaluate the relationship of the specialist to the client, including circumstances that might impair the specialist's objectivity. Such circumstances include situations in which the client has the ability through employment to directly or indirectly control or significantly influence the specialist.[31]

ORDER

22. When using the work of a specialist, the auditor should (a) obtain an understanding of the methods and assumptions used by the specialist, (b) make appropriate tests of data provided to the specialist, taking into account the auditor's assessment of control risk, and (c) evaluate whether the specialist's findings support the related assertions in the financial statements.[32]

23. Respondent and the engagement team documented that mineral reserves and depreciation and depletion expense were significant risk areas for the Audit. Labor obligations were a significant risk area as to a material subsidiary in the Audit. Thus, some or all of each set of specialists' work arose in an area of the Audit considered a significant risk.

24. For two sets of specialists -- labor obligations and employee benefits, and mineral reserves -- Respondent and the engagement team failed to perform procedures regarding the qualifications of the specialists, the nature of the work performed by the specialists, the specialists' relationships with the Company, and information necessary to determine whether to use the findings of the specialists. As a result, with respect to these two sets of specialists, Respondent failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, failed to gather sufficient competent evidential matter, and violated AU § 336.08, .09, .10, and .12.

25. For the remaining set of specialists working on useful lives of certain equipment, during the Audit, Respondent and the engagement team failed to perform procedures regarding the qualifications of the specialists, the specialists' relationships with the Company, and information necessary to determine whether to use the findings of the specialists. As a result, with respect to this set of specialists, Respondent failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, failed to gather sufficient competent evidential matter, and violated AU § 336.08, .10, and .12.

26. In addition, with respect to all three sets of specialists, because Respondent did not adequately review the qualifications of the specialists, the specialists' relationships with the Company, and information necessary to determine whether to use the findings of the specialists, he did not sufficiently evaluate the reasonableness of estimates for which the specialists were responsible, including estimates related to mineral reserves and useful lives of certain equipment. As a result, Respondent failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, and failed to sufficiently evaluate the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates in violation of AU § 342.04.

ORDER

E. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards After the Issuance of the Audit Reports

Respondent Violated the PCAOB Audit Documentation Standard in Connection with an Internal Inspection of the Audit

27. On April 11, 2011, the engagement team assembled for retention the complete and final set of documentation for the Audit (the "April Archive"). On or before July 20, 2011, Respondent was notified that the Audit had been selected for an internal practice review ("Practice Review"). The Practice Review, which was part of the Firm's system of quality control, was scheduled to take place in early August 2011. In connection with the Practice Review, Respondent violated PCAOB standards by improperly altering audit work papers.

28. PCAOB audit documentation standards require that the complete and final set of documentation for an audit be assembled for retention by the "documentation completion date," a date no later than 45 days from the date on which the auditor grants permission to use its report.[33] After the documentation completion date, audit documentation must not be deleted, modified, or discarded from the audit file, but it may be added as long as the auditor documents the date of the addition, the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation.[34]

29. When Respondent and the engagement team created the April Archive, the work papers did not include certain audit documentation required to support the Audit reports Respondent had authorized. For example, the April Archive did not contain an engagement completion document, work papers related to the tax treatment of unremitted earnings of a foreign subsidiary, and other work papers that were necessary to support the Audit reports but were not timely assembled for retention.

30. Upon learning of the impending Practice Review, in late July 2011, Respondent directed certain other members of the engagement team to review the April Archive. Through that process, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team became aware that the April Archive did not contain numerous work papers that were necessary to support the Audit reports and, in fact, contained work papers that did not even relate to the Audit.

[33] See AS3 ¶ 15.

[34] See AS3 ¶ 16.

ORDER

31. In response, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team reopened the April Archive in late July 2011 ("July Reopening"). The July Reopening of the April Archive was approved by Respondent and the Audit Engagement Quality Reviewer ("EQR"), in accordance with the Firm's internal policies. The form completed by the Respondent and other engagement team members stated that the July Reopening was necessary to make limited administrative corrections to a single work paper, and no other changes would be made to the April Archive. The EQR approved the July Reopening based on the information provided in this form. During the July Reopening, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team violated AS3 by improperly deleting 21 work papers from the April Archive, improperly altering 36 existing work papers, and improperly adding 41 work papers.

32. Among the work papers added was a memorandum that Respondent directed other engagement team members to create in order to describe procedures purportedly performed during the Audit to address the journal entry testing requirements of PCAOB standards ("July JET Memorandum").[35] During the July Reopening, engagement team members created the July JET Memorandum, as Vargas directed, improperly backdated it to make it appear that it had been created during the Audit, backdated all electronic sign-offs, including Respondent's, and placed the memorandum in the Firm's documentation archiving system. During the July Reopening, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team also added other significant work papers to the Audit documentation, including an engagement completion document, without indicating that those work papers were being added after the documentation completion date for the Audit. When Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team documented the reason for opening the Audit archive on July 29, 2011, they falsely stated the reason for reopening the archive, and failed to disclose the addition of necessary audit documentation, such as the July JET Memorandum and an engagement completion document.

33. During the July Reopening, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team also backdated multiple review sign-offs on other work papers to make it appear that all of the reviews of work papers had taken place prior to the release date of the Audit reports. Once the Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team completed the improper alterations to the April Archive, they closed it, thus creating a new Audit archive ("July Archive").

34. The Practice Review team thereafter conducted its review of the Audit based on the July Archive, and not based on the audit work the team documented in the original April Archive. After reviewing the documentation contained in the July Archive, the Practice Review team made multiple negative observations concerning the work documented. In response, Respondent arranged for the July Archive to be reopened in December 2011 for the stated reason of adding work papers that existed prior to the documentation completion date but were not previously included in the Audit archive ("December Reopening").

35. On or about November 22, 2011, Respondent and others on the engagement team prepared a memorandum ("November Memorandum"), for inclusion in the Audit archive, which stated that seven work papers were modified and 39 work papers were added to the July Archive during the December Reopening. The November Memorandum, however, contained multiple errors and did not satisfy the requirements of AS3. Contrary to the text of the November Memorandum, during the December Reopening, four work papers were modified and 43 work papers were added to the July Archive. Among the work papers added during the December Reopening were the 2010 Tax Memorandum and other tax-related work papers. Once Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team completed the alterations to the July Archive, they closed the Audit archive, thus creating a new Audit archive ("December Archive").

36. As a result of his improper alteration of audit documentation, including the improper alteration of the work paper that was identified as the justification for the July Reopening, Respondent violated AS3.[36]

Respondent Failed to Cooperate with the Board's Inspection by Making Available to Inspections Improperly Altered Documents and Other Misleading Information

37. On February 6, 2012, the Board notified the Firm that Inspections would inspect the Audit ("Board's Inspection"). The Act "requires the Board to conduct a 'continuing program of inspections to assess the degree of compliance of each registered public accounting firm and associated persons . . . with [the Act], the rules of the Board, the rules of the Commission, or professional standards.'"[37]

38. PCAOB rules require an associated person of a registered public accounting firm to "cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[38] This cooperation obligation "includes an obligation not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[39]

Respondent Completed a Misleading Engagement Profile

39. Field work for the Board's Inspection took place during the weeks of March 26 and April 2, 2012. On or before February 23, 2012, Respondent was notified that the Audit would be inspected. Before field work began, Inspections asked the Firm to complete a document entitled Public Company Accounting Oversight Board 2011 Inspection Period International Engagement Profile ("Engagement Profile"). Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team drafted responses to relevant portions of the Engagement Profile, and Respondent reviewed and revised the document prior to its submission to Inspections. One of the sections in the Engagement Profile was entitled "Documentation completion date." In responding to this section, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team made reference to the April Archive and the December Archive but failed to reveal the existence of the July Archive.

40. The next section in the Engagement Profile asked: "Have there been any changes made to the audit documentation subsequent to the documentation completion date [?] If yes, please explain the nature of the changes below, and provide a summary log of when the changes were made." In reply to this question, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team checked the box signifying that changes had been made and attached the November Memorandum which described, in part, the alterations made during the December Reopening. Respondent did not, however, reveal any of the numerous alterations made to the April Archive during the July Reopening.

41. At no point in time did Respondent disclose to Inspections that Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team had, in fact, improperly created, added, backdated, modified, and deleted numerous work papers during the July Reopening, months after the documentation completion date, and shortly before the Practice Review. By providing misleading information to Inspections in the Engagement Profile, Respondent violated PCAOB Rule 4006.

Respondent Made Misleading Work Papers and Other Documents Available to Inspections

42. During field work for the Board's Inspection, the Firm made the work papers from the December Archive available to Inspections in electronic form. The December Archive included the documents improperly created, added, backdated, and modified from the April Archive, and excluded the documents improperly deleted from the April Archive. During the inspection process, Respondent had numerous conversations with PCAOB inspectors concerning the work he and others had performed during the Audit. At no time, however, did Respondent advise the PCAOB inspectors that any of these documents were improperly altered during the July Reopening even though he understood that Inspections was relying upon the December Archive to perform the inspection.

43. Respondent understood that Inspections could request and receive copies of individual work papers from the Audit. During inspection field work, PCAOB inspectors requested copies of certain work papers, including certain of the improperly created, backdated, and added documents. In response to such a request, on April 5, 2012, Respondent emailed a PCAOB inspector copies of the engagement completion document and the audit planning memorandum.

44. At no time did Respondent disclose to Inspections that the engagement completion document was improperly added and the audit planning memorandum was improperly modified during the July Reopening.

45. On June 6, 2012, Inspections issued a Comment Form to the Firm describing audit work related to journal entry testing and specifically referencing the improperly created and backdated July JET Memorandum. On June 18, 2012, Respondent signed off as agreeing with the factual recitation within the Comment Form, including the recitation of certain facts pulled directly from the improperly created and backdated July JET Memorandum.

46. At no time did Respondent disclose to Inspections that the July JET Memorandum was improperly created, backdated, and added to the April Archive during the July Reopening.

47. As a result of the conduct described above, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's Inspection, in violation of Rule 4006.

ORDER

Respondent Failed to Cooperate with the Board's Investigation

48. On January 22, 2015, the Board's Division of Enforcement and Investigations staff (the "Division") began conducting a formal investigation of the Audit. Section 105(b)(3) of the Act authorizes the Board to impose disciplinary sanctions if a registered public accounting firm or associated person refuses to testify, produce documents, or otherwise cooperate with a Board investigation. PCAOB rules include procedures for implementing that authority.[40] Noncooperation with a Board investigation includes (a) knowingly making false material declarations; (b) using documents while knowing that such documents contain false material declarations; (c) failing to comply with an accounting board demand; (d) abusing the Board's processes to obstruct an investigation; and (e) otherwise failing to cooperate in connection with an investigation.[41]

49. On February 4, 2015, the Division issued an Accounting Board Demand ("ABD") to the Firm requiring the Firm to produce, among other things, all work papers and other documents concerning the Audit ("February 4 ABD").

50. On September 25, 2015, the Division issued an ABD to Respondent ("September 25 ABD") requiring him to appear for testimony and produce, among other things, the same SCC work papers sought from the Firm in the February 4 ABD.

51. Respondent took part in the production of work papers by the Firm in response to the February 4 ABD and the September 25 ABD. Respondent and the Firm failed to produce the work papers from the April Archive, as required by those ABDs, and instead, as Respondent was aware, the Firm produced work papers that had been improperly altered during the July Reopening. Production of those improperly altered work papers constituted use of documents that Respondent knew to contain false material declarations.

52. Pursuant to the September 25 ABD, Respondent testified under oath on January 18 through 21, 2016. Despite being questioned in testimony regarding work papers that were improperly added to the April Archive, Respondent failed to disclose the Board's enforcement staff that those work papers were improperly altered during the July Reopening.

ORDER

53. As described above, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation by failing to comply with an ABD, using documents knowing them to contain false material declarations, and otherwise failing to cooperate in connection with the Board's investigation.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(E) and 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(5) and (b)(1), Arturo Vargas Arellano, CPC is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(B) and 105(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2) and (b)(1), Arturo Vargas Arellano, CPC is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[42]

C. After five (5) years from the date of this Order, Arturo Vargas Arellano, CPC may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm; and

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4) and (b)(1), a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 is imposed. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Miguel Angel Asencio Asencio, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-046 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is (1) censuring Miguel Angel Asencio Asencio ("Asencio" or "Respondent"); (2) barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and (3) imposing on him a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Asencio: (1) violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with an audit of the financial statements of an issuer audit client; and (2) failed to cooperate with a Board inspection by providing misleading information to the Board's inspections staff.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted,

[1] Respondent may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Miguel Angel Asencio Asencio, age 46, of Mexico City, Mexico, is a certified public accountant licensed by the State of New Hampshire (license no. 35019) and under the laws of Mexico (license no. 10795). At all relevant times and beginning in 2006, Asencio was a partner in the Mexico City, Mexico office of Galaz, Yamazaki, Ruiz Urquiza, S.C. ("Deloitte Mexico" or "Firm") and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). The Firm is a member of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited global network. Asencio served as a partner supervising the audit procedures performed for certain Mexican subsidiaries of Southern Copper Corporation ("SCC" or "Company") for the years ending December 31, 2009 through December 31, 2013. In the second quarter of 2014, Deloitte Mexico removed Asencio from the SCC audit engagement team, and in May, 2016 removed Asencio from the Firm's audit practice, after the discovery of his improper alteration of certain 2010 SCC audit work papers.

B. Issuer

2. SCC is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Phoenix, Arizona. SCC's public filings disclose that SCC is a large integrated copper producer with mining, smelting and refining facilities located in Peru and Mexico. Its common stock is listed on both the New York and Lima Stock Exchanges under the symbol "SCCO." At all relevant times, SCC was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

C. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondent's violations of PCAOB rules and standards during the course of the Firm's audits of the Company's December 31, 2010 financial statements and the Company's internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") as of December 31, 2010 (the "Audit"), as well as his misconduct in connection with a subsequent PCAOB inspection. During the Audit, Respondent and other members of the engagement team failed to timely assemble for retention all audit documentation required by PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS3").[4]

4. After the documentation completion date for the Audit, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team improperly altered the documentation for the Audit.[5] Specifically, in advance of a post-audit internal practice review performed by the Firm ("Practice Review"),[6] Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team violated AS3 by deleting work papers from and making other alterations to the documentation that had previously been assembled for retention for the Audit. In addition, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team made additions and other alterations to the previously assembled documentation, without identifying when the changes were made, who made them, and why they were made, in violation of AS3.

5. Beginning in March 2012, the staff of the Board's Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections") inspected the Audit. In connection with the inspection, the Firm made available to Inspections the Audit work papers Respondent and other members of the engagement team had previously improperly altered, as well as other misleading information. At no time did Respondent inform Inspections of the improper alterations and other misleading information. As a result, Respondent violated PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors.

According to the Firm's policies, audit practice reviews serve to provide reasonable assurance that the firm's system of quality control is appropriately designed, relevant, adequate, operating effectively and complied with in practice.

ORDER

D. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards During the Course of the Audit

6. The Firm has been the external auditor for SCC since 2009. On February 25, 2011, the Firm issued unqualified opinions in the Audit reports that were included in the Company's Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on February 28, 2011. The Audit reports stated that, in the Firm's opinion, the Company's financial statements presented fairly, in all material respects, the Company's financial position, and the results of its operations and cash flows in conformity with U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles, and that the Company maintained, in all material respects, effective ICFR as of December 31, 2010. The Audit reports also stated that the Audit was conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards.

7. Respondent served as a second partner on the Audit and was supervised by the engagement partner. In his role as a second partner for the Audit, Respondent was responsible for supervising certain other members of the Audit engagement team that worked on the part of the Audit relating to SCC's Mexican subsidiary, Industrial Minera Mexico, S.A. de CV ("IMMSA").

8. PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[7]

9. The auditor must prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB.[8] That documentation should be prepared in sufficient detail to provide a clear understanding of its purpose, source, and the conclusions reached.[9]

10. PCAOB audit documentation standards require that the complete and final set of documentation for an audit be assembled for retention by the documentation completion date, a date no later than 45 days after the date on which the auditor grants permission to use its report.[10] After the documentation completion date, audit

documentation must not be deleted or discarded from the audit file, but it may be added as long as the auditor documents the date of the addition, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation.[11]

11. As the partner supervising the IMMSA audit work, Respondent was responsible for documentation of the audit procedures performed on the IMMSA subsidiary. It was the responsibility of Respondent and the engagement partner to ensure that the IMMSA audit work papers were assembled for retention by the documentation completion date for the Audit in accordance with PCAOB standards.

12. The Audit engagement team assembled the SCC audit documentation for retention on April 11, 2011, the documentation completion date ("April Archive"). Within the April Archive was a work paper stating that the IMMSA work papers supporting the Audit reports were contained in a separate file. However, Respondent and the engagement partner failed to assemble those IMMSA-related work papers for retention by April 11, 2011. In fact, Respondent and the engagement partner did not assemble any IMMSA work papers for retention until June 8, 2011. As a result of this conduct, Respondent violated AS3.

E. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards After the Issuance of the Audit Reports

Respondent Violated PCAOB Audit Documentation Standards in Connection with an Internal Inspection of the Audit

13. On or before July 20, 2011, Respondent was notified that the Audit had been selected for an internal Practice Review. The Practice Review, which was part of the Firm's system of quality control, was scheduled to take place in early August 2011. In connection with the Practice Review, Respondent violated PCAOB standards by improperly altering Audit work papers.

14. Upon learning of the impending Practice Review, in late July 2011, Respondent directed certain other members of the engagement team to review the IMMSA-related work papers that had been assembled for retention in June for completeness and to identify work papers that had been omitted.[12] Through that process, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team became aware of deficiencies in the IMMSA-related work papers for the Audit.

15. In response, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team accessed the IMMSA-related work papers that had been assembled for retention ("IMMSA Reopening"). The form completed by the Respondent and other engagement team members stated that the IMMSA Reopening was necessary to make limited administrative corrections to add a single work paper, and no other changes would be made to the separate IMMSA file. The senior manager on the engagement thereafter signed and entered into the Firm's archiving system a declaration stating that, during the IMMSA Reopening, only one IMMSA-related work paper would be added to the previously-assembled work papers and no IMMSA-related work papers would be deleted or altered. Respondent signed and entered into the Firm's archiving system a similar declaration and approved the IMMSA Reopening. The Engagement Quality Reviewer for the part of the Audit related to IMMSA approved the IMMSA Reopening based on the information in these declarations.

16. Contrary to Respondent's declaration, during the IMMSA Reopening, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team violated AS3 by improperly deleting from the separate IMMSA file 26 IMMSA-related work papers that had previously been assembled for retention, improperly altering 90 existing IMMSA-related work papers, and improperly adding 17 IMMSA-related work papers to the separate IMMSA file.

17. As a result of his improper alteration of IMMSA-related audit documentation, Respondent violated AS3.

Respondent Failed to Cooperate with the Board's Inspection by Providing Misleading Information to Inspections

18. On February 6, 2012, Inspections notified the Firm that it would inspect the Audit ("Board's Inspection"). The Act "requires the Board to conduct a 'continuing program of inspections to assess the degree of compliance of each registered public accounting firm and associated persons . . . with [the Act], the rules of the Board, the rules of the Commission, or professional standards.'"[13]

19. PCAOB rules require an associated person of a registered public accounting firm to "cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[14] This cooperation obligation "includes an obligation not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[15]

20. Field work for the Board's Inspection took place during the weeks of March 26 and April 2, 2012. By that time, Respondent was aware that, in addition to the IMMSA-related work papers, other work papers for the Audit had been improperly altered in July 2011 in advance of the Practice Review. Those improperly altered work papers were then made available to Inspections in connection with the Board's Inspection of the Audit. During the inspection process, Respondent was interviewed by, and had discussions with, PCAOB inspectors based on the improperly altered work papers. Respondent provided misleading information to Inspections by participating in that interview and those discussions without informing Inspections that the interview and discussions were based on documents that had been improperly altered.

21. As a result of this conduct, Respondent failed to cooperate with the Board's Inspection, in violation of Rule 4006.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Miguel Angel Asencio Asencio, is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Miguel Angel Asencio Asencio, is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[16]

C. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Miguel Angel Asencio Asencio, may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm; and

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Miguel Angel Asencio Asencio shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Miguel Angel Asencio Asencio as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Aldo Hidalgo de la Rosa, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-047 December 5, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Aldo Hidalgo de la Rosa ("Hidalgo" or "Respondent"). The Board is imposing this sanction on the basis of its findings that Hidalgo violated PCAOB rules and standards by improperly altering audit documentation for an issuer audit in violation of PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation ("AS3").

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Aldo Hidalgo de la Rosa, age 36, of Del Venustiano Carranza, Mexico, is a registered public accountant who is licensed under the laws of Mexico (license no. 4258172). At all relevant times and beginning in 2009, Hidalgo was an audit senior in the Mexico City, Mexico office of Galaz, Yamazaki, Ruiz Urquiza, S.C. ("Deloitte Mexico" or "Firm") and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). The Firm is a member of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited global network. Hidalgo served as an audit senior for the audits of Southern Copper Corporation ("SCC" or "Company") for the years ended December 31, 2009 through December 31, 2010. In the fourth quarter of 2011, Hidalgo took employment elsewhere and left Deloitte Mexico.

B. Issuer

2. SCC is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Phoenix, Arizona. SCC's public filings disclose that SCC is a large integrated copper producer with mining, smelting and refining facilities located in Peru and Mexico. Its common stock is listed on both the New York and Lima Stock Exchanges under the symbol "SCCO." At all relevant times, SCC was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondent's violations of PCAOB rules and standards following the Firm's audits of the Company's December 31, 2010 financial statements and the Company's internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") as of December 31, 2010 (the "Audit").[2] Respondent was the audit senior for the Audit and had served as the audit senior for the Company's audits since 2009. Respondent was supervised by the engagement partner and a senior manager on the Audit.[3]

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

4. After the issuance of the Audit reports, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team improperly altered the documentation for the Audit after the documentation completion date. Specifically, in advance of a post-audit internal practice review performed by the Firm ("Practice Review"),[4] Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team violated AS3 by deleting work papers and making other alterations to documentation that had previously been assembled for retention for the Audit. In addition, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team made additions to the previously assembled documentation without identifying when the additions were made, who made them, and why they were made, as required by AS3.

D. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards After the Audit

5. The Firm has been the external auditor for SCC since 2009. On February 25, 2011, the Firm issued unqualified opinions in the Audit reports that were included in the Company's Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on February 28, 2011. The Audit reports stated that, in the Firm's opinion, the Company's December 31, 2010 financial statements presented fairly, in all material respects, the Company's financial position, and the results of its operations and cash flows in conformity with U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles, and that the Company maintained, in all material respects, effective ICFR as of December 31, 2010. The Audit reports also stated that the Audit was conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards.

6. PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[5]

7. The PCAOB audit documentation standard requires that the complete and final set of documentation for an audit be assembled for retention by the documentation completion date, a date no later than 45 days after the date on which the auditor grants permission to use its audit reports.[6] After the documentation completion date, audit

[4] During the relevant period, the Firm performed annual audit practice reviews. According to the Firm's policies, audit practice reviews serve to provide reasonable assurance that the firm's system of quality control is appropriately designed, relevant, adequate, operating effectively and complied with in practice.

documentation must not be deleted, modified, or discarded from the audit file, but it may be added as long as the auditor documents the date of the addition, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation.[7]

Respondent Violated the PCAOB Audit Documentation Standard in Anticipation of an Internal Practice Review of the Audit

8. On April 11, 2011, the engagement team assembled for retention the complete and final set of documentation for the Audit (the "April Archive"). During July 2011, Respondent was informed by his supervisors on the engagement team that the Audit had been selected for a Practice Review. The Practice Review, which was part of the Firm's system of quality control, was scheduled to take place in early August 2011. In anticipation of the Practice Review, Respondent and other members of the engagement team violated PCAOB standards as a result of the improper creation, addition, modification, deletion, and backdating of audit work papers.

9. When Respondent and the engagement team created the April Archive, the work papers did not include certain audit documentation required to support the Audit reports pursuant to PCAOB standards. For example, the April Archive did not contain an engagement completion document, certain tax work papers, and other work papers that were necessary to support the Audit reports but were not timely assembled for retention.

10. Upon learning of the impending Practice Review, in late July 2011, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team, at the direction of the SCC engagement partner, reviewed the April Archive for completeness and to identify work papers that were omitted from the April Archive. Through that process, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team became aware that the April Archive did not contain numerous work papers that were necessary to support the Audit reports and, in fact, contained work papers that did not even relate to the Audit.

11. In response, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team reopened the April Archive in late July 2011 ("July Reopening"). The request for the July Reopening was submitted by the senior manager and approved by the engagement partner and one other Firm audit partner, as required by the Firm's internal policies.

ORDER

12. During the July Reopening, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team violated AS3 by improperly deleting 21 work papers from the April Archive, improperly altering 36 existing work papers, and improperly adding 41 work papers.

13. Among the work papers added in the July Reopening was a memorandum that the engagement partner directed the Respondent and other engagement team members to create in order to describe procedures purportedly performed during the Audit to address the journal entry testing requirements of PCAOB standards ("July JET Memorandum"). During the July Reopening, engagement team members, including Respondent, created the July JET Memorandum, as the engagement partner directed, improperly backdated it to make it appear that it had been created during the Audit, backdated all electronic sign-offs, including Respondent's, and placed the July JET Memorandum in the Firm's documentation archiving system. During the July Reopening, Respondent and certain other engagement team members also added other significant work papers to the audit documentation, including an engagement completion document. Other engagement team members submitted a request to close the file which did not indicate the dates the documents were added to the work papers, the names of the persons preparing the additional documentation, and the reason for adding the documentation months after the documentation completion date.

14. During the July Reopening, Respondent and certain other members of the engagement team backdated multiple preparation and review sign offs on other work papers as well to make it appear that preparation and review of the work papers had taken place prior to the release date of the Audit reports.

15. As a result of his improper alteration of audit documentation, Respondent violated AS3.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that, pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Aldo Hidalgo de la Rosa is hereby censured.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Bojan Stokic, CPA, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-048 December 13, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Bojan Stokic ("Respondent" or "Stokic") and suspending him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for a period of one year from the date of this Order. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, in connection with his role as the engagement quality reviewer for the audit of Capstone Financial Group, Inc.'s ("Capstone") financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013, and review of Capstone's financial statements for the quarter ended March 31, 2014, Stokic violated PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7, Engagement Quality Review ("AS 7").

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondent

1. Bojan Stokic, CPA, age 38, of Las Vegas, Nevada, is a certified public accountant licensed by the Nevada State Board of Accountancy (License # CPA-5331). At all relevant times, Stokic was an audit partner with Seale and Beers, CPAs, LLC ("S&B" or "Firm"), a limited liability company headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada. Stokic was, at all relevant times, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Stokic served as the engagement quality reviewer for S&B's audit and reviews of Capstone.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Stokic's violations of AS 7 while serving as the engagement quality reviewer for S&B's audit of Capstone's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 ("FY 2013 Audit") and review of Capstone's financial statements for the quarter ended March 31, 2014 ("Q1 2014 Review").

3. During his engagement quality review ("EQR") for the FY 2013 Audit, Stokic failed to properly evaluate the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement team. Stokic also failed to properly evaluate the engagement documentation he reviewed, which did not contain an appropriate risk assessment or sufficient appropriate audit evidence for significant items in Capstone's

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

financial statements. As a consequence, Stokic provided his concurring approval of issuance without performing his review for the Firm's FY 2013 Audit with due professional care.

4. In connection with his EQR for the Q1 2014 Review, Stokic again failed to properly evaluate the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement team, failed to properly evaluate the engagement documentation he reviewed, and provided his concurring approval of issuance without performing his review with due professional care.

C. Requirements of PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[3]

6. AS 7 provides that an EQR and concurring approval of issuance are required for all audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[4]

7. The engagement quality reviewer may provide concurring approval of issuance for an audit report only if, after performing with due professional care the review required by AS 7, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[5]

8. In an audit engagement, an engagement quality reviewer should evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[6] The engagement quality reviewer should, among other things, evaluate the significant judgments that relate to engagement planning, including, but not limited to, the consideration of the company's business, recent significant activities, and related financial reporting issues and risks.[7] The engagement quality reviewer should also evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, significant risks, including fraud risks, identified by the engagement team or other significant risks identified by the engagement quality reviewer through performance of the procedures required by AS 7.[8]

9. In an audit engagement, the engagement quality reviewer should review the engagement completion document and confirm with the engagement partner that there are no significant unresolved matters.[9] The engagement quality reviewer should also evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[10]

10. In a review of interim financial information, the engagement quality reviewer may provide concurring approval of issuance only if, after performing with due professional care the review required by AS 7, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[11]

11. In performing an EQR for a review of interim financial information, the engagement quality reviewer should evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement.[12] The engagement quality reviewer should also, among other things, evaluate the significant judgments that relate to engagement planning, including, but not limited to, the consideration of the company's business, recent significant activities, and related financial reporting issues and risks.[13]

12. As part of the EQR for a review of interim financial information, the engagement quality reviewer should also evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[14]

13. Finally, documentation of an EQR for both audits and interim reviews should contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the procedures performed by the engagement quality reviewer, including, but not limited to, the documents reviewed by the engagement quality reviewer.[15]

D. Background

14. Capstone was incorporated in Nevada on July 10, 2012, under the name Creative App Solutions, Inc., as a development stage company engaged in the design and sale of mobile applications. On August 26, 2013, the name of the company was changed from Creative App Solutions, Inc. to Capstone Financial Group, Inc. and a new chief executive officer was appointed. Capstone underwent a change of control on September 6, 2013, when nearly 80 percent of the then issued and outstanding common stock was acquired by the newly-appointed chief executive officer.

15. Capstone entered into a revolving line of credit payable with Capstone Affluent Strategies, Inc. ("Affluent"), an entity owned and controlled by Capstone's new chief executive officer on August 8, 2013, according to documents contained in the Firm's FY 2013 Audit work papers. The work papers for the FY 2013 Audit also contain documents indicating that Capstone entered into a revolving line of credit receivable with Affluent on September 13, 2013. Both lines of credit initially had similar terms, including $500,000 in available credit, an interest rate of two percent per annum, and the principal and interest due two years from the date of execution. On October 7, 2013, Capstone and Affluent amended the line of credit receivable to increase, from $500,000 to $2,000,000, the amount of credit available to Affluent and to extend the maturity to two years from the date of the amendment.

ORDER

16. Capstone retained the Firm as its independent public accounting firm on November 15, 2013. Stokic performed the EQR for the Firm's review of Capstone's financial statements for the quarter ended September 30, 2013 ("Q3 2013"), while another Firm partner served as the engagement partner. Capstone filed its Form 10-Q for Q3 2013 with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") on November 19, 2013.

17. On December 13, 2013, Capstone filed a Form 8-K announcing that it had entered into an Acquisition Agreement and Plan of Merger ("Merger Agreement") by and among itself, a wholly owned subsidiary of Capstone, and Affluent. As a condition of the merger, Affluent was required to provide Capstone with audited financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2012 and 2013 within 74 days of the merger closing. The merger was set to close on January 15, 2014.

18. In early 2014, the Firm was engaged to perform an audit of Capstone's 2013 financial statements. Stokic again served as the engagement quality reviewer for the FY 2013 Audit, and the same partner who performed the Firm's review for Q3 2013 again served as the engagement partner. The engagement team for the FY 2013 Audit also included an audit senior who had joined the Firm in January 2014. On April 15, 2014, Capstone filed its 2013 Form 10-K with the Commission in which it disclosed, among other things, that it had completed the merger with Affluent on January 15, 2014. The Firm issued an audit report, dated April 15, 2014, that was included in Capstone's Form 10-K. The Firm's audit report opined that Capstone's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 were presented fairly and in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles and included a going concern explanatory paragraph. The report also stated that the FY 2013 Audit had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards.

19. The Firm served as the auditor for the Q1 2014 Review, and the engagement team consisted of the Firm partner and audit senior who performed the FY 2013 Audit, with Stokic again serving as the engagement quality reviewer. On May 20, 2014, Capstone filed its Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2014. As part of this filing, Capstone disclosed that the January 2014 merger with Affluent had been rescinded due to the failure of Affluent to provide audited financial statements in accordance with the Merger Agreement.

20. The Firm resigned as Capstone's auditors on July 31, 2014. Capstone failed to obtain new auditors by the time it filed its Form 10-Q for the quarter ended June 30, 2014, and the company's filing on August 19, 2014, noted that the financial statements had not been reviewed. Capstone subsequently engaged new independent auditors on September 5, 2014.

ORDER

21. On November 13, 2014, Capstone filed a Form 8-K announcing non-reliance on its financial statements for 2013 and the first two quarters of 2014. After receiving questions from the Commission, Capstone filed a Form 8-K/A on November 24, 2014, announcing further non-reliance on its financial statements for the second and third quarters of 2013. Ultimately, Capstone filed a Form 10-K/A on February 18, 2015, which restated its 2013 financial statements to reflect an additional $581,826 in operating expenses, a 188% increase from what was originally reported. Almost all of the increase in operating expenses was reflected in the restated financial statements as owed to Affluent under the revolving lines of credit.

22. Capstone's 2013 Form 10-K/A also disclosed that Affluent had been dissolved in April 2014, and that, in a series of transactions that transpired in October 2014 (the "October 2014 Transactions"), Capstone had undertaken liability for promissory notes with an original aggregate principal amount of $3.8 million issued by Affluent in favor of Capstone's chief executive officer. The 2013 Form 10-K/A also noted that, in connection with the October 2014 Transactions, the cross lines of credit between Capstone and Affluent were cancelled, but the filing did not include the financial statement impact of this cancellation. Capstone's 2014 Form 10-K, filed on April 30, 2015, disclosed that, in connection with the October 2014 Transactions, Capstone recorded a loss of $1,089,617 from the forgiveness of debt related to the lines of credit.

E. Stokic Violated PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7 in Connection With the FY 2013 Audit

23. Stokic served as the engagement quality reviewer for the FY 2013 Audit. As detailed below, Stokic violated AS 7 by providing his concurring approval of issuance without performing an EQR for the FY 2013 Audit with due professional care.

Risk Assessment

24. Stokic failed to properly evaluate the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement team with respect to audit planning and risk assessment during the FY 2013 Audit.[16]

25. During the FY 2013 Audit, the risk assessment reviewed by Stokic did not assess or document risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level. Further, the financial statement items were aggregated in the risk assessment. As a result, the risk assessment did not identify significant accounts and disclosures and their relevant assertions, and failed to evaluate the risk of material misstatement for such items, as required by PCAOB standards.[17] In addition, because the risk assessment did not properly assess the risks of material misstatement and failed to identify significant risks at the financial statement level and the assertion level, the overall strategy for the engagement failed to establish, and the audit plan failed to include, planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risks of material misstatement.[18]

26. Although Stokic reviewed the planning memorandum containing the risk assessment, he provided his concurring approval of issuance without performing his review with due professional care.[19]

Related Party Transactions

27. During the third quarter of 2013, Capstone entered into both a revolving line of credit receivable and a revolving line of credit payable with Affluent, an entity owned and controlled by Capstone's chief executive officer and majority shareholder. As the engagement quality reviewer for the Firm's review of Capstone's Q3 2013 financial statements, Stokic was aware that these two entities were related and had entered into these transactions.

28. Capstone's bank activity statements included in the work papers for the FY 2013 Audit reflect that during the third and fourth quarter of 2013 Capstone repeatedly made cash withdrawals from its bank accounts shortly after receiving funds from either stock sales or revenue transactions. Each of these cash withdrawals were recorded by Capstone as advances to Affluent under the line of credit receivable. During the same time period, Capstone recorded numerous increases to the line of credit payable with Affluent, purportedly to reflect payment of expenses by Affluent that were made on Capstone's behalf.

29. As of December 31, 2013, Capstone's revolving line of credit receivable from Affluent was $1,472,136, which accounted for 92.6 percent of Capstone's total reported assets of $1,589,042. Capstone's revolving line of credit payable to Affluent was $320,240 as of December 31, 2013, which accounted for 96.9 percent of Capstone's total reported liabilities of $330,359.

30. Stokic failed to properly evaluate the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement team with respect to related party transactions during the FY 2013 Audit.[20] Although Stokic reviewed the 2013 Form 10-K and engagement documentation regarding the lines of credit, Stokic failed to properly evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he reviewed supported the conclusions reached by the engagement team.[21] Specifically, the engagement documentation reviewed by Stokic did not document an understanding of the business purpose for having both a line of credit receivable and a line of credit payable with similar terms between the same counterparties. Further, the engagement documentation Stokic reviewed did not address several red flags around the related party transactions, including audit evidence suggesting that the money purportedly borrowed by Affluent may have been an illegal personal loan to Capstone's chief executive officer, and audit evidence that called into question whether documentation underlying the line of credit payable to Affluent had been backdated. Finally, the engagement documentation Stokic reviewed did not contain sufficient appropriate audit evidence as to the valuation of the lines of credit, including the collectibility of the line of credit receivable with Affluent.

31. As a result of the failures described above, Stokic provided his concurring approval of issuance without performing his review with due professional care.[22]

Review of the Engagement Completion Document

32. Under AS 7, an engagement quality reviewer is required to review the engagement completion document as part of the EQR.[23] The engagement completion document for the FY 2013 Audit was not in the work papers at the time that Stokic performed his EQR, and Stokic's signature is not on the engagement completion document in the audit documentation retained by S&B. Stokic violated AS 7 by failing to review the engagement completion document for the FY 2013 Audit.

F. Stokic Violated PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 7 in Connection With the Q1 2014 Review

33. Stokic served as the engagement quality reviewer for the Q1 2014 Review.

34. Capstone announced on December 13, 2013, that it was entering into the Merger Agreement with Affluent, whereby Affluent would become a wholly-owned subsidiary of the company, and subsequently disclosed in its FY 2013 Form 10-K, filed in April 2014, that the merger had closed in January 2014. Capstone's Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2014, however, indicated that its merger with Affluent had been rescinded because Affluent was unable to provide audited financial statements as required by the Merger Agreement. The Form 10-Q also provided that the line of credit receivable with Affluent had increased by over $430,000 to $1,902,670 during the quarter, which represented 92.9 percent of Capstone's total reported assets.

35. Stokic failed to properly evaluate the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement team with respect to the line of credit receivable during the Q1 2014 Review.[24] Although Stokic reviewed Capstone's Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2014 and the engagement team's Q1 2014 Review work papers related to the line of credit receivable, Stokic failed to properly evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he reviewed supported the conclusions reached by the engagement team.[25] Despite the red flags raised by the rescinded merger and Affluent's inability to provide audited financial statements, there was no evidence in the engagement documentation reviewed by Stokic of any procedures performed regarding the collectibility of the line of credit receivable from Affluent. As a result, Stokic provided his concurring approval without performing his review with due professional care.[26]

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Stokic's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Bojan Stokic, CPA is hereby censured; and

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Bojan Stokic, CPA is suspended for one (1) year from the date of this Order from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[27]

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of David Lee Hillary, Jr. and David Lee Hillary, Jr., CPA Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-049 December 13, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring David Lee Hillary, Jr. ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, and revoking the Firm's registration; and censuring David Lee Hillary, Jr., CPA ("Hillary"), and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) Hillary and the Firm (collectively "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audit of an issuer audit client's financial statements; (b) the Firm repeatedly violated Auditing Standard No. 7*, Engagement Quality Review* ("AS 7") in connection with 24 audits of issuer clients; and (c) Hillary directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of AS 7.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the facts contained in paragraphs 15 through 20 and the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order

ORDER

Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order").[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[2] that:

A. Respondents

1. David Lee Hillary, Jr.[3] is a Domestic Limited Liability Company organized under the laws of the state of Indiana as Hillary CPA Group LLC, and headquartered in Noblesville, Indiana. The Firm has been registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules since April 5, 2012. The Firm does not have an active license to practice as a CPA firm in Indiana. At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for each of the issuers identified below.

2. David Lee Hillary, Jr., CPA, 57, of Noblesville, Indiana is the Managing Partner of David Lee Hillary, Jr., and a certified public accountant ("CPA") licensed by the Indiana Board of Accountancy (Lic. No. CP10500176). Hillary had final responsibility for, and authorized the issuance of reports on, the Firm's 24 audits of the financial statements of each of the issuers identified below. At all relevant times, Hillary was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that each Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (A) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (B) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[3] The Firm also uses the following names: David L. Hillary; David L. Hillary, Jr. CPA, CITP; David Lee Hillary, Jr. CPA, CITP; and Hillary CPA Group LLC.

ORDER

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns violations by Respondents of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audit of the December 31, 2014 financial statements of McorpCX, Inc. ("McorpCX").[4] As detailed below, Hillary and the Firm failed, among other things, to perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion;[5] to appropriately assess and respond to the risks of material misstatement;[6] and to carry out required communications with McorpCX's audit committee.[7]

4. The Firm also violated AS 7 in connection with 24 issuer audit engagements from 2012 through 2015 by failing to obtain engagement quality reviews before issuing its audit opinions even though such reviews were required to be performed. For three of these audits, the Firm failed to obtain engagement quality reviews despite being on notice of the requirement from inspectors from the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspections").

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the FYE December 31, 2014 McorpCX Audit

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[8] Among other things, PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism, and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements.[9] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[10]

6. PCAOB standards require that an audit be properly planned,[11] that auditors identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level,[12] and that auditors design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[13] The auditor should develop and document an audit plan that describes, among other things, the planned risk assessment procedures required to be performed so that the engagement complies with PCAOB standards.[14]

7. PCAOB standards require an auditor to communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and to obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[15] organizations improve customer experiences, increase customer loyalty, reduce costs and increase revenue. Its common stock is registered under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. At all relevant times, McorpCX was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

8. As detailed below, Respondents failed to comply with the aforementioned rules and standards, among others, in connection with the McorpCX audit.

10. In performing the 2014 McorpCX audit, other than setting materiality, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to plan the audit, to identify the risks of material misstatement at the assertion level, and to address those risks.[16] They also failed to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that were specifically responsive to the assessed fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition and to evaluate which types of revenue, revenue transactions, or assertions may have given rise to a fraud risk.[17] Nor did they perform procedures to identify the risks of material misstatement at the assertion level or perform procedures designed to address those risks, including test of details.[18]

11. Respondents also failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed in the auditor's report on McorpCX's financial statements.[19] McorpCX reported total revenue of $2,056,678 and deferred revenue of $91,319 (30% of liabilities) in 2014. Other than obtaining representations from management and tracing certain bank deposits to the general ledger, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to test the occurrence and allocation of revenue and the existence and valuation of deferred revenue reported by the company throughout the year.

12. Further, except for obtaining representations from management, Respondents also failed to perform any procedures to evaluate whether revenue recognition for the transactions was in conformity with U.S. GAAP.[20]

13. Additionally, McorpCX reported long term assets of $305,287 totaling 27% of total assets in 2014. Other than obtaining a representation from management with respect to intangible assets, Respondents failed to perform any audit procedures over McorpCX's long term assets. Respondents accordingly failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding McorpCX's 2014 property and equipment, capitalized software costs, website development costs, intangible assets, and other long term assets.

14. Respondents also failed to establish an understanding of the terms of the audit engagement with the McorpCX audit committee.[21] In addition, Respondents failed to communicate to the audit committee an overview of the audit strategy, the timing of the audit, any significant risks identified during the risk assessment procedures, and certain matters related to the conduct of the audit.[22]

D. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards Relating to Engagement Quality Reviews

15. For audits of issuer financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2009, AS 7 requires that an engagement quality review be performed on audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[23] AS 7 also provides that, in an audit, a firm may grant permission to a client to use the engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance of the report.[24]

16. The Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review for 24 audits even though an engagement quality review was required to be performed.[25] In each instance, the audit was of an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). And in each instance, the Firm improperly permitted the issuance of its unqualified audit report without obtaining an engagement quality review and concurring approval of issuance. As a result, the Firm repeatedly violated AS 7.

17. Further, in connection with a July 2015 inspection of the Firm, Inspections brought to the Firm's attention apparent failures by the Firm to comply with AS 7. The Firm agreed with Inspections' findings on July 10, 2015. Despite being aware of this, in October 2015, the Firm issued three more audit reports without performing engagement quality reviews under AS 7.

E. Hillary Contributed to the Firm's Violations of PCAOB Rules and Standards

18. PCAOB Rule 3502 prohibits an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that firm of the Act, the rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") issued under the Act, or professional standards.

19. Hillary, the sole owner and only member of the Firm, was principally responsible for the 24 audits conducted by the Firm, including the McorpCX audit set forth above. Accordingly, Hillary had overall responsibility for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards.

20. Hillary knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that he was directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 7 on all 24 audits described in Part D above. As a result, he violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), David Lee Hillary, Jr and David Lee Hillary, Jr. CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), David Lee Hillary, Jr. CPA is barred from being an associated person of a

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Tamas B. Revai, CPA and Tamas B. Revai, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-050 December 13, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Tamas B. Revai, CPA ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm and revoking the Firm's registration;[1] and censuring Tamas B. Revai, CPA ("Revai"), and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that (1) the Firm and Revai (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards concerning auditor independence; (2) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit of a broker-dealer; (3) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's review engagement regarding the examination of the broker-dealer's exemption report; (4) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Board's 2015 inspection of the Firm; and (5) the Firm violated PCAOB rules in connection with its failure, in 2016, to file an annual report, pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, and to pay an annual fee to the Board, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Revai may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three (3) years from the date of this Order.

ORDER

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents each submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the facts contained in paragraphs 7 through 15 and 31 through 38 below and the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order").[3]

2. Tamas B. Revai, CPA, age 80, of New York, New York is a certified public accountant licensed by the New York State Education Department (License No. 027854). At all relevant times, Revai was the sole owner of the Firm and was the Firm's sole accountant. Revai is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the Firm's audit of the financial statements of Federated Securities, Inc. ("Federated"), a broker-dealer, for the fiscal year ("FY") ended September 30, 2014. As detailed below, Respondents violated PCAOB Rule 3520, Auditor Independence, and AU § 220, Independence, by failing to remain independent of Federated throughout the audit and professional engagement period.

4. Respondents also violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the FY 2014 audit by failing, among other things, to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the Firm's audit opinion on Federated's 2014 financial statements. Additionally, Respondents violated PCAOB Attestation Standard No. 2, Review Engagements Regarding Exemption Reports of Brokers and Dealers ("AT 2") in performing the review of statements made by Federated in its exemption report prepared pursuant to the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") Rule 17a-5, 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5 ("Rule 17a-5").

5. This matter also concerns Respondents' violations of Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors, and Auditing Standard No. 3, Audit Documentation, ("AS 3"). In advance of the Board's 2015 inspection of the Firm, Respondents improperly created or altered audit documentation and added that documentation to the work papers in violation of Rule 4006.

6. Finally, this matter concerns the Firm's violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, as a result of the Firm's failure, in 2016, to file an annual report with the Board, and the Firm's violation of PCAOB Rule 2202, Annual Fee, as a result of the Firm's failure, in 2016, to pay an annual fee to the Board.

ORDER

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

7. For audits of fiscal years ending on or after June 1, 2014, including the Federated audit, Rule 17a-5(g) requires that audits of broker-dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.

8. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[5] The independence criteria are set forth in the rules and standards of the PCAOB and the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission").

> [A] registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria applicable to the engagement set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws.[6]

9. Pursuant to Rule 17a-5(f)(1), Commission Rule 2-01(c)(4)(i) of Regulation S-X applies to broker-dealer audits and provides that an accountant performing a broker-dealer audit is not independent if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant maintains or prepares the audit client's accounting records or prepares the audit client's financial statements that are filed with the Commission.

10. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with the applicable PCAOB rules and standards.

Independence Violations

11. At all relevant times, Federated was a broker-dealer incorporated in the state of New Jersey with its principal place of business in Huntington, New York. Federated's public filings disclose that it engages in selling stocks, mutual funds, annuities, and tax shelters. Federated is an introducing broker-dealer that clears all transactions with and for customers on a fully-disclosed basis with a third-party firm, a clearing broker-dealer, and claims an exemption from the Customer Protection Rule under paragraph (k)(2)(ii) of Exchange Act Rule 15c3-3 ("Rule 15c3-3").[7] At all relevant times, Federated was a "broker" and "dealer," as defined in Section 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii).

12. On November 26, 2014, Federated filed Form X-17A-5 Part III for FY 2014 with the Commission. Included in that filing was the Firm's FY 2014 audit report dated November 20, 2014 ("Audit Report").

13. During 2014, Respondents maintained and prepared certain accounting records and financial statements of Federated. Specifically, Respondents prepared certain adjusting journal entries for FY 2014, including receivables for mutual fund revenue, commissions' expense and other expense accruals, and a tax adjustment.

14. Respondents also assisted in the preparation of Federated's financial statements as of September 30, 2014 by organizing and classifying Federated's trial balance information and updating the disclosures in the notes to the financial statements.

15. As a result of maintaining and preparing accounting records and preparing Federated's financial statements, Respondents were not independent of Federated in connection with the audit and violated PCAOB Rule 3520 and AU § 220.

Audit Violations

16. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[8] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[9] Among other things, PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements.[10]

17. PCAOB standards also require that an audit be properly planned, including performing risk assessment procedures sufficient to provide a reasonable basis for identifying and assessing the risk of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud.[11] The auditor should identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level, and design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[12]

18. An auditor should also evaluate whether the information gathered from the risk assessment procedures indicates that one or more fraud risk factors are present and should be taken into account in identifying and assessing fraud risks.[13] If the auditor is unable to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to have a reasonable basis to conclude about whether the financial statements as a whole are free of material misstatement, the auditor should express a qualified opinion or a disclaimer of opinion.[14]

ORDER

19. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Federated audit.

Audit of 2014 Federated's Financial Statements

20. Revai was the engagement partner for the Firm's audit of Federated's financial statements for FY 2014. Revai authorized the Firm's issuance of Federated's Audit Report included in Federated's Form X-17A-5 Part III for FY 2014 filed with the Commission on November 26, 2014. The Audit Report expressed an unqualified opinion on Federated's financial statements, and stated, among other things, that the Firm's audit was conducted in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards.

21. The majority of Federated's revenue is derived from commissions. For the audit of Federated's FY 2014 financial statements, commission revenue totaled $315,069. Commission revenue included sales of securities and mutual funds, net of expenses, totaling $193,803 and mutual fund income of $121,266.

22. Respondents failed to comply with applicable PCAOB standards in connection with Federated's FY 2014 audit. Respondents failed to perform audit planning and risk assessment procedures to establish the overall audit strategy and develop and document an audit plan.[15] Respondents also failed to perform any procedures to identify, assess, and respond to the risks of material misstatement due to fraud, including the presumption that improper revenue recognition is a fraud risk.[16]

23. In performing the FY 2014 audit, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning revenue.[17] Respondents relied on a third-party clearing firm's month-end settlement statements for sales of securities and mutual funds without performing any procedures to test the accuracy and completeness of the information.[18] Additionally, Respondents failed to evaluate whether the information was sufficiently precise and detailed for purposes of the audit.[19] Respondents further failed to perform any procedures to test whether commissions earned from the purchase or sale of securities and mutual funds were properly valued.[20] Respondents also failed to perform any audit procedures to test whether revenue from mutual fund income occurred during the period and was properly valued.[21]

24. Additionally, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the presentation and disclosure of revenue for Federated's FY 2014 financial statements.[22] Specifically, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to test whether revenue was properly classified, described, and disclosed.[23] In fact, Federated's accompanying notes to the financial statements did not contain any disclosures concerning its revenue recognition policy.[24]

25. Lastly, Respondents failed to prepare an engagement completion document that identified all significant findings or issues for the FY 2014 audit.[25]

Violation of Attestation Standard No. 2

Rule 17a-5 requires broker-dealers that claim an exemption from Rule 15c3-3, or the Customer Protection Rule, to prepare an exemption report, in which the broker-dealer (1) identifies the exemption provision of paragraph (k) of Rule 15c3-3 under which the broker-dealer claimed an exemption; (2) states that the broker-dealer met the identified exemption provision throughout the most recent fiscal year without exception or met the identified exemption provisions throughout the most recent fiscal year except as described in the exemption report; and (3) if applicable, a statement that identifies, each exception during the most recent fiscal year in meeting the identified exemption provision and that briefly describes the nature of each exception and the

27. AT 2 establishes requirements for an auditor's review of the statements made by a broker-dealer in an exemption report.[28] When performing the review, the auditor must plan and perform the review engagement to obtain appropriate evidence that is sufficient to obtain moderate assurance about whether one or more conditions exist that would cause one or more of the broker-dealer's assertions not to be fairly stated, in all material respects.[29] The review engagement should be coordinated with the audit of the financial statements and take into account relevant evidence from the audit of the financial statements and the audit procedures performed on the supplemental information of the broker-dealer.[30] Prior to issuing a review report, the auditor is required to obtain written representations from management of the broker-dealer.[31]

28. As part of the FY 2014 audit, Respondents issued a review report dated November 20, 2014. As the engagement partner, Revai was responsible for planning and performing review procedures for the review engagement.[32]

29. Respondents failed to plan and perform the review engagement to obtain appropriate evidence sufficient to obtain moderate assurance about whether one or more conditions existed during the most recent fiscal year that would cause one or more of Federated's assertions not to be fairly stated, in all material respects.[33] Respondents failed to perform any procedures, including inquiries, to identify exceptions to the exemption provisions as required by AT 2.[34]

Respondents Violated PCAOB Rule 4006 and AS 3

31. PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons "shall cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[37] This cooperation obligation "includes an obligation not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with the Board's inspection processes."[38] When documentation is added after the documentation completion date,[39] PCAOB auditing standards require auditors to "indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[40] As described below, Respondents violated PCAOB Rule 4006 and AS 3.

ORDER

32. AS 3 requires, among other things, that prior to the report release date, the auditor must have completed all necessary auditing procedures and obtained sufficient evidence to support the representations in the auditor's report.[41] Respondents' report release date for the audit was November 20, 2014.

33. Additionally, AS 3 requires that a complete and final set of audit documentation be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date ("documentation completion date").[42] The documentation completion date for the audit was January 4, 2015.

34. On or before April 14, 2015, the Board notified Respondents that the Firm would be inspected. Inspection fieldwork was scheduled to start the week beginning June 22, 2015.

35. Respondents improperly created or altered documents and added them to the audit work papers after the documentation completion date and without making any disclosures required by AS 3. These documents did not exist, in any form, at the time of the audit. These misleading documents were made available to the Board's inspectors in connection with the Firm's inspection.

36. Specifically, the misleading documents consisted of several audit work papers including a final analytical review, a working trial balance, and numerous audit programs. Both the final analytical review and working trial balance work papers had print dates in April 2015, more than three months after the documentation completion date and just a few days after being notified of the Board's upcoming inspection. Similarly, the audit programs covering the entire audit were added after the documentation completion date in or about April 2015.

37. At no time did Respondents advise the Board's inspectors that the documents were created or altered shortly before, and in anticipation of, the Board's inspection. This conduct violated PCAOB Rule 4006.

38. As noted previously, when information is added to audit documentation after the report release date, AS 3 requires the auditor to indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional

This conduct failed to comply with AS 3.

The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules 2200 and 2202

39. Pursuant to Section 102(d) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2200 provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report[.]" PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing of Annual Report, states that the deadline for filing the annual report is June 30 of each year. In violation of Section 102(d) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 2200, the Firm failed to file an annual report for 2016.

40. Pursuant to Section 102(f) of the Act, PCAOB Rule 2202 provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must pay an annual fee to the Board on or before July 31" of any year that the firm is required to file an annual report. In violation of PCAOB Rule 2202, the Firm failed to pay its annual fee for 2016.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondents' Offers. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Tamas B. Revai, CPA, and Tamas B. Revai, CPA are hereby censured;

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Deloitte Accountants B.V., Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-051 December 13, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Deloitte Accountants B.V. (the "Firm" or "Respondent") and imposing a civil money penalty of $300,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards related to the Firm's system of quality control and independence.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions (the "Order") as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Deloitte Accountants B.V. is a limited liability corporation organized under the laws of the Kingdom of the Netherlands and headquartered in Rotterdam, the Netherlands. The Firm is licensed by the Netherlands Authority for the Financial Markets ("AFM") to practice public accountancy (License No. 13000015) and is a member firm in the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited network. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm was at all relevant times the external auditor of the consolidated financial statements of RBS Holdings N.V. ("RBS Holdings")[2] and Reed Elsevier NV ("Reed Elsevier")[3] addressed below.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[2] RBS Holdings N.V. is a limited liability company incorporated under the laws of the Netherlands. The company is affiliated with the Royal Bank of Scotland Group offering banking and financial services globally. The company is a foreign private issuer of a series of debt securities registered under Section 12(b) of the Exchange Act and is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and NYSE Arca. At all relevant times, RBS Holdings was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[3] Reed Elsevier NV was incorporated in the Netherlands and together with Reed Elsevier Plc formed the Reed Elsevier Group, which name was changed in 2015 into RELX Group. The company is a provider of professional information solutions to the scientific, medical, legal, business and government sectors. The company is a foreign private issuer of American Depositary Shares registered under Section 12(b) of the Exchange Act and is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. At all relevant times, Reed Elsevier was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

ORDER

B. Other Relevant Entities and Person

2. Deloitte Holding B.V. ("DHBV") is a limited liability company and the parent company of the Firm. It is headquartered in Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

3. Piet Hein Meeter ("Meeter") joined Deloitte Belastingadviseurs B.V. ("DBBV") in 2002 as a partner. DBBV is a wholly owned subsidiary of DHBV that provides tax services to clients. Meeter was the managing partner of DBBV until January 1, 2012, when he became the Chief Executive Officer ("CEO") of DHBV and all of its subsidiaries and affiliates, including the Firm.

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and standards requiring that a registered public accounting firm: (1) have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice that, among other things, provides the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances and that these policies and procedures were suitably designed and were being effectively applied;[4] and (2) be independent of the firm's audit clients throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[5] As described below, the Firm's system of quality control regarding independence failed to comply with PCAOB standards and the Firm violated the independence rules with respect to RBS Holdings and Reed Elsevier during the audit and professional engagement periods for the audits of their 2011 and 2012 financial statements because of financial interests that the Firm's CEO's spouse held in these two issuers through a Dutch family foundation trust.

D. The Firm Failed to Comply With Quality Control Standards and Auditor Independence Requirements

5. PCAOB Rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards.[6] PCAOB quality control standards require that a

6. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[11] PCAOB rules and standards also require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's audit clients throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[12]

7. A registered public accounting firm's or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an issuer audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of

During the period from 2009 through the first quarter of 2012 (the "relevant period"), the Firm lacked adequate policies and procedures designed to provide reasonable assurance that individuals who became "covered persons" by being appointed to leadership positions in the "chain of command"[14] were free of financial interests that may violate the Commission's independence requirements. The Firm's policies and procedures failed to evaluate whether those individuals who became "covered persons" held financial interests in the Firm's audit clients that impaired independence.[15]

9. For example, during the relevant period, five individuals were appointed to leadership roles and none of them were reviewed for independence purposes in connection with their appointment. The Firm failed to evaluate whether any of these individuals held financial interests in the Firm's audit clients which would impair independence once they became "covered persons".

10. During the relevant time period, the Firm's system of quality control regarding independence failed to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that personnel maintained independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances, and that the policies and procedures regarding independence were suitably designed and effectively applied, in violation of the PCAOB's quality control standards.

11. Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X states that an accountant is not independent of an audit client if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accounting firm, any covered person in the firm, or any of his or her immediate family members has any direct investment in an audit client,[16] which the rule defines to include, among other things, investments through a trust on which an

13. As Reed Elsevier's external auditor, the Firm also issued audit reports on the company's 2011 and 2012 financial statements, which were included in the Forms 20-F filed with the Commission, respectively, on March 12, 2012 and March 12, 2013.

14. From January 1, 2012 to March 26, 2012, Meeter held a leadership role as the CEO of the Firm's parent, DHBV, and was therefore in the "chain of command" for purposes of Regulation S-X.[18] Accordingly, Meeter was a "covered person" during that period with respect to the Firm's issuer audit clients, including RBS Holdings and Reed Elsevier.[19]

15. The Firm failed to undertake a review of Meeter's financial interests prior to Meeter becoming the CEO to evaluate the impact his new status as a covered person might have on his and the Firm's independence.

16. A Dutch family foundation trust ("Family Trust") established by Meeter's father-in-law for the benefit of Meeter's spouse ("Mrs. Meeter") and other family members included investments in RBS Holdings and Reed Elsevier. Mrs. Meeter was a member of the board of the Family Trust with the authority to make investment decisions for the trust.[20]

[19] 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(f)(11).

[20] 17 C.F.R. § 2.01(d) provides that, if certain conditions are satisfied, an accounting firm's independence will not be impaired solely because a covered person in the firm is not independent of an audit client. The Firm concluded that Meeter did not know that Mrs. Meeter was a member of the board with authority to make investment decisions for the trust. That lack of knowledge would satisfy one of the conditions described in 17 C.F.R. § 2.01(d). The Firm, however, did not satisfy a separate condition, set out in 17 C.F.R. § 2.01(d)(3), in that the Firm did not have a quality control

17. The Firm violated the independence rules in connection with the audits of the 2011 and 2012 financial statements of RBS Holdings and Reed Elsevier, including PCAOB Rule 3520 and AU § 220 because Mrs. Meeter was a member of the board of the Family Trust with the authority to make investment decisions regarding these issuer client holdings.[21]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in the Respondent's Offer. In considering appropriate sanctions, the Board considered remedial actions undertaken by the Firm prior to the issuance of this Order. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Deloitte Accountants B.V. is hereby censured; and

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $300,000 is imposed upon Deloitte Accountants B.V. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Deloitte Accountants B.V. shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Controller, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Deloitte Accountants B.V. as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention:

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the matter of David C. Lee, CPA, Respondent.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-052 December 20, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is: (1) censuring David C. Lee, CPA ("Lee" or "Respondent"); (2) barring Lee from being associated with a registered public accounting firm;[1] and (3) imposing upon him a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000. The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Lee violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with five audits for one issuer client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against the Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted,

[1] Lee may petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

Respondent consents to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds[3] that:

A. Respondent

1. David C. Lee, 59, of Issaquah, Washington, is a certified public accountant licensed by the State of Washington (License No. 12242). Lee is a partner in the Seattle office of the registered public accounting firm of Peterson Sullivan LLP ("Peterson Sullivan" or the "Firm") and served as engagement partner on the audits discussed below. At all relevant times, Lee was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Lee's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the issuance of audit reports on the financial statements of One Horizon Group, Inc. ("OHG" or "Company") for the years ended June 30, 2011 ("2011 Audit") and June 30, 2012 ("June 2012 Audit"); the six months ended December 31, 2012 ("December 2012 Audit"); and the years ended December 31, 2013 ("2013 Audit") and December 31, 2014 ("2014 Audit"). As detailed below, Lee failed to exercise due care and professional skepticism, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in connection with each of these audits.

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

C. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

3. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[4] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[5]

4. Those standards require, among other things, that an auditor plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion,[6] including sufficient appropriate evidential matter to provide reasonable assurance that the issuer's accounting estimates are reasonable, and presented in conformity with applicable accounting principles.[7] Although management representations "are part of the evidential matter the independent auditor obtains, . . . they are not a substitute for the application of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[8] Moreover, if a management representation "is contradicted by other audit evidence, the auditor should investigate the circumstances and consider the reliability of the representation made."[9]

ORDER

5. For significant risks, PCAOB standards require an auditor to "perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that are specifically responsive to the assessed risks."[10] PCAOB standards further require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in performing the audit.[11]

6. In the case of significant transactions that are outside the normal course of business for the entity, or that otherwise appear to be unusual given the auditor's understanding of the entity and its environment, PCAOB standards require the auditor to gain an understanding of the business rationale for such transactions and whether that rationale (or the lack thereof) suggests that the transactions may have been entered into to engage in fraudulent financial reporting or conceal misappropriation of assets.[12]

7. PCAOB standards require auditors to evaluate whether a company's selection and application of accounting principles are appropriate for its business and consistent with the applicable financial reporting framework and accounting principles used in the relevant industry, and to state in the audit report whether the audited financial statements are presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP").[13] PCAOB standards also require auditors to evaluate whether the company's financial statements present fairly its financial position, results of operations, and cash flows in conformity with GAAP.[14]

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

ORDER

8. As described below, Lee failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's 2011 through 2014 audits of OHG.

OHG's 2011 Audit, June 2012 Audit, and December 2012 Audit

9. OHG's predecessor entity, One Horizon Group, PLC ("OHG PLC") was incorporated in England and Wales. OHG PLC observed a June 30 fiscal year, and its 2011 and 2012 financial statements, prepared under the European Union's International Financial Reporting Standards, were subjected to statutory audits performed pursuant to UK law.

10. On November 30, 2012, OHG PLC was nominally acquired in a reverse merger by a U.S. public company with a December 31 fiscal year. Following the merger, the acquiring company changed its name to OHG. At all relevant times, OHG was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

11. After the reverse merger, OHG was required to file annual reports, audited in accordance with PCAOB standards, with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the current period and the two previous years. OHG engaged Peterson Sullivan to audit the current six month period which ended December 31, 2012, as well as the two prior fiscal years, which ended June 30, 2012 and June 30, 2011, respectively. The Firm audited these three periods concurrently (the "2011-12 Audits").

12. Lee, as engagement partner for the 2011-12 Audits, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report, dated May 9, 2013, expressing unqualified audit opinions on OHG's financial statements for the years ended June 30, 2011 and June 30, 2012, and the six months ended December 31, 2012. The report was included in OHG's 2012 Form 10-K filed with the Commission on May 13, 2013.

Revenue Recognition: Software Licensing

13. OHG's public filings disclosed that its business involved licensing software and providing related maintenance services to telecommunications companies.[15] OHG's typical software license required payments to be made over a five-year period; however, payment terms varied between customers. OHG required certain customers, known as "Tier One" customers, to make fixed payments on a straight-line basis over

PCAOB
Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

the five-year term. Other customers, which OHG referred to as "Tier Two" customers, were not required to make any license payments until they sold sub-licenses to third party end-users. For the years ended June 30, 2011 and June 30, 2012, and the six months ended December 31, 2012, OHG recognized revenue of $1.425 million, $0, and $3.0 million, respectively, for Tier One customers; and $400,000, $4.6 million, and $3.0 million, respectively, for Tier Two customers.

14. OHG's public filings disclosed its revenue recognition policy related to the Tier One and Tier Two customers. For Tier One customers, OHG recognized revenue at the time of delivery, based on its view of those customers' "commitment to pay, as demonstrated by [their] payment history and [their] ability to pay."[16] For Tier Two customers, OHG recognized revenue pro rata over the collection period, typically over five years.[17] OHG's revenue recognition policy resulted in its recognition of the entire contractual amount immediately upon delivery for its Tier One customers, and on a straight-line basis over the contract's terms for its Tier Two customers (regardless of whether or when those customers sold sub-licenses to end-users, making their payments due).

15. During the 2011-2012 Audits, Lee failed to sufficiently evaluate whether OHG was appropriately recognizing revenue from the Tier One and Tier Two customers under U.S. GAAP.[18] During the audits, Lee apprised management that OHG had a material weakness in its accounting due to management's lack of "sufficient in-house expertise in U.S. GAAP reporting."[19] Lee also planned to prepare a memorandum evaluating the appropriateness of OHG's revenue recognition policy under U.S. GAAP. Despite being aware of OHG's material weakness, Lee failed to [18] Accounting Standard Codification 985, Software ("ASC 985") ¶¶ 605-25-34 and 35 state that if "payment of a significant portion of the software licensing fee is not due until . . . more than 12 months after delivery," there is a presumption that revenue should be recognized "as payments from customers become due." This presumption can only be overcome if the company "has a standard business practice of using long-term or installment contracts and a history of successfully collecting under the original payment terms without making concessions." perform this planned procedure, and failed to prepare any analysis evaluating whether OHG's revenue recognition policy complied with U.S. GAAP.[20]

16. In addition, Lee specifically identified a significant risk of material misstatement regarding the overstatement of Tier Two revenue. In response to this risk, Lee planned to ask OHG for its analysis regarding the relationship between revenue recognition and collection to ensure that it considered potential overstatement. Lee, however, failed to obtain this analysis from OHG management and he failed to perform one.[21] In addition, other than obtaining management's representation regarding the use of a straight-line revenue recognition model for the Tier Two contracts, Lee and the engagement team failed to evaluate whether OHG's use of a straight-line revenue model was appropriate under U.S. GAAP.[22]

17. Furthermore, Lee was aware that OHG's software was a new product that was being sold to new customers. Lee also knew that OHG had no prior experience in licensing this software and did not have a track record to support the straight-line revenue model. At the time OHG filed its 2012 Form 10-K in May 2013, Lee was also aware that OHG had received no payments on accounts receivable balances outstanding at December 31, 2012 for at least six of its Tier Two customers. OHG management also informed Lee that it did not expect payments from certain of these customers due to delays in the sale of sub-licenses. This contradicted the straight-line revenue model's assumption that OHG's Tier Two customers would sell a constant number of sub-licenses and indicated that OHG may have overstated revenue. Despite the fact that this evidence was inconsistent with recognizing revenue on a straight line basis in conformity with U.S. GAAP, Lee failed to perform any procedures to resolve this inconsistency before he authorized the issuance of his audit report.[23]

SatCom Global

18. During the December 2012 Audit, Lee failed to perform sufficient procedures regarding $5 million in revenue, which represented 43% of OHG's reported revenue for that period, that OHG recognized from an unusual, one-time sale of billing software.

19. OHG sold its legacy satellite equipment business, SatCom Global ("SatCom") on October 25, 2012.[24] On that same day, in a non-cash transaction, OHG transferred all rights in the billing software SatCom used to SatCom's purchaser for $5 million.[25] The entire $5 million purchase price for the billing software was paid by means of an "offset" [26] against amounts OHG owed to SatCom.[27]

20. Because OHG accounted for the sale of the SatCom billing software as a separate transaction from its sale of the SatCom business, instead of including the software sale in the calculation of its "gain or loss on sale" of the SatCom business, OHG consequently reported the entire $5 million as revenue.

21. Even though the sale of the SatCom billing software was an unusual, one-time, non-cash transaction that occurred on the same day as and between the same parties to the sale of the SatCom business, and represented over 40% of OHG's reported revenue, Lee failed to gain a sufficient understanding of the business rationale for this transaction or to consider whether OHG management was placing more emphasis on the accounting treatment of that $5 million sale than on its underlying economics, as required under PCAOB standards.[28] In addition, Lee failed to perform any procedures to evaluate whether the accounting for the transaction complied with U.S. GAAP.[29] Lee also failed to perform any procedures to determine whether the billing software was properly valued.[30]

OHG's 2013 Audit

22. Lee, as engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report, dated April 15, 2014, expressing an unqualified audit opinion on OHG's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013, the restated six months ended December 31, 2012 and the restated year ended June 30, 2012. The report was included in OHG's 2013 Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 15, 2014.

23. Prior to the Firm's issuance of an audit report for the 2013 Audit, OHG management provided Lee and his engagement team with a schedule during each of the 2013 quarterly reviews that showed the total lifetime cumulative revenue OHG had recognized for each Tier Two customer and the actual payments it had received on those contracts ("Revenue Schedules").

24. The Revenue Schedules showed a large and increasing gap between the amount of revenue OHG recognized on its Tier Two customer contracts and the amount it had actually collected. For example, the first quarter Revenue Schedule showed that OHG had recognized $9.9 million in cumulative revenue for its Tier Two customers, even though it had only collected about $1.3 million from those customers, a difference of more than $8 million between revenue recognized and revenue collected. This gap increased to more than $10 million and $16 million by the end of the second and third quarters, respectively. Lee was aware of the increasing amount of uncollected revenue that OHG had recognized due to its use of the straight-line revenue recognition model for its Tier Two contracts. Indeed, the engagement completion document for the third quarter review states that Lee communicated to OHG management and its board of directors that revenue recognition was ahead of cash collections, and notes that "[t]he company will update their revenue recognition policy prior to the annual audit."

25. On April 8, 2014, OHG filed a Form 8-K with the SEC announcing that the company would restate its previously-issued financial statements[31] "to correctly record the timing of revenue recognition for certain license fees."[32] OHG stated that the

The restatements, filed on April 15, 2014 in OHG's 2013 Form 10-K, reduced OHG's previously reported revenue by approximately $1.825 million, $2.61 million, and $4.75 million for the years ended June 30, 2011 and June 30, 2012, and the six months ended December 31, 2012, respectively, representing revenue overstatements of approximately 203 percent, 100 percent, and 68 percent for those periods.

ORDER

original use of a straight-line revenue recognition model for its Tier Two customers "was not expected to vary materially from the customer usage."[33] After evaluating customer activity, however, OHG determined that the "straight-line method was not appropriate" and would instead recognize revenue on those contracts when payments became due.[34] OHG also stated that it had "re-evaluated" its revenue recognition policy for Tier One customers, and concluded that it would recognize revenue for these customers "to the extent that fixed payments become due," instead of at the time of delivery.[35]

26. As of December 31, 2013, however, OHG continued to have approximately $7.5 million in gross accounts receivable, for which it established a bad debt allowance of $212,000, or approximately 3% of its total accounts receivable.

27. Lee failed to perform sufficient procedures regarding the accounts receivable and bad debt allowance during the 2013 audit. During the audit, Lee was aware that OHG had recognized large amounts of uncollected revenue from Tier Two customers, for which it had restated its prior period financial statements. Lee was also aware at the time of the audit that receivables from Tier Two customers comprised approximately 79% of the total accounts receivable balance and that, as of April 2014, only one payment from a Tier Two customer of $125,000 had been received. Other than obtaining management representations that the Company "will be more aggressive in collections" once its customers had completed implementing the software, Lee failed to gain an understanding of how OHG management determined its bad debt allowance or to evaluate the reasonableness of the allowance.[36] Further, Lee failed to perform a retrospective review of OHG's bad debt allowance, or the Company's historical experience in collecting its accounts receivable.[37]

OHG's 2014 Audit

28. Lee, as engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of an audit report, dated March 31, 2015, expressing an unqualified audit opinion on OHG's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2014. The report was included in OHG's 2014 Form 10-K filed with the Commission on April 1, 2015.

29. OHG disclosed in its 2014 Form 10-K that effective October 1, 2014, it had amended certain customer contracts whereby all "future payments will be due from the customer when that customer has generated revenue from its customers who subscribe to use the Horizon products and services." OHG further stated that for customers with outstanding balances under the prior agreements, payments received after September 30, 2014 would not be recognized as revenue under these "Revenue Sharing" agreements, but instead would be applied to the customer's existing accounts receivable balances first.

30. As of December 31, 2014, OHG reported gross accounts receivable of approximately $9.6 million, offset by an allowance of $492,000, or about 5% of the accounts receivable balance. The majority of the receivable balance consisted of balances that were aged greater than one year as of December 31, 2014, and were due from customers now under the new Revenue Sharing arrangements.

31. Lee failed to perform sufficient procedures regarding the accounts receivable balance and bad debt allowance. At the time of the audit, Lee was aware that payments had not been made on the Revenue Sharing accounts in late March 2015, almost six months after the Revenue Sharing agreements became effective. Despite being aware of this fact, Lee relied on management's representation that its customers would generate sufficient future revenue under the new Revenue Sharing agreements to pay all outstanding balances. Other than obtaining that representation, which alone was insufficient audit evidence, Lee failed to perform any procedures to evaluate the reasonableness of OHG's bad debt allowance.[38]

32. Approximately one year later, OHG reported in its 2015 Form 10-K, filed with the Commission on March 31, 2016, that as of December 31, 2015, a significant portion of the Revenue Sharing customer's receivables remained uncollected. OHG increased its bad debt allowance by approximately $5.6 million (i.e., more than half of the 2014 year-end accounts receivable balance) with a corresponding charge to bad debt expense.[39] This charge constituted approximately 50% of the net loss reported by OHG for the year ended December 31, 2015.

[38] See AU §§ 316.64, 342.07, .09.

[39] Approximately five months later, OHG reported in a Form 10-Q filed with the Commission on August 9, 2016 that these balances had been fully written off.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Lee's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), David C. Lee is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), David C. Lee is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[40]

C. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, David C. Lee may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm; and

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 payable by David C. Lee is imposed. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. David C. Lee shall pay this civil money penalty within 10 days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (c) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (3) submitted under a cover letter which identifies David C. ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Arshak Davtyan, Inc. and Arshak Davtyan, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-053 December 20, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Arshak Davtyan, Inc. ("ADI" or the "Firm") and revoking the Firm's registration;[1] and censuring Arshak Davtyan, CPA, ("Davtyan") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Davtyan (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with two audits of one issuer client.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party,

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

[2] Davtyan may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two (2) years from the date of this Order.

ORDER

and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions (the "Order") as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds[4] that:

A. Respondents

1. Arshak Davtyan Inc. is a professional corporation organized under the laws of the state of Utah and located in Salt Lake City, Utah. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB Rules.[5] The Firm is licensed to practice public accountancy by the Utah Division of Occupational and Professional Licensing (License No. 9173806-2603). At all relevant times, ADI was the external auditor of the issuer identified below.

2. Arshak Davtyan, 38, is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Utah (License No. 5666700-2601). At all relevant times, Davtyan was the managing director and sole employee of the Firm, and served as the engagement partner on the audits discussed below. Davtyan is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[5] Initially, the Firm registered with the Board as Arshak Davtyan, a sole proprietorship. On October 14, 2014, the Firm filed a Form 4 indicating a change in its organization to a corporation under the laws of the state of Utah.

ORDER

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the issuance of audit reports on the consolidated financial statements of China Pharma Holdings, Inc. ("CPHI" or the "Company") for the years ended December 31, 2013 and 2014. As detailed below, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in connection with the audits of CPHI's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2013 and the December 31, 2014.

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

4. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with all applicable Board auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[7] Those standards require, among other things, that an auditor plan and perform the audit to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[8] PCAOB standards further require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in performing the audit.[9]

5. In addition, PCAOB standards require the auditor to design and implement audit responses that address the risks of material misstatement[10] and to evaluate whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("US GAAP") when evaluating audit results.[11]

6. The auditor is also responsible for evaluating the reasonableness of management's accounting estimates.[12] In evaluating reasonableness, the auditor should obtain an understanding of how management developed the estimate.[13] Based on that understanding the auditor should use one or a combination of the following approaches: (a) review and test the process used by management to develop the estimate; (b) develop an independent expectation of the estimate to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate and (c) review subsequent events or transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report.[14]

7. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of CPHI's 2013 and 2014 financial statements (collectively the "Audits").

Audits of CPHI's 2013 and 2014 Financial Statements

8. CPHI is a Nevada corporation with its headquarters and primary operations in Haikou, Hainan Province, People's Republic of China. CPHI's public filings disclose that it is engaged in the development, manufacture and marketing of pharmaceutical products for a variety of high-incidence and high-mortality diseases and medical conditions in China. Its common stock is registered under Section 12(b) of the Exchange Act, and is listed on the NYSE Market. At all relevant times, CPHI was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

9. Davtyan, as the engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of audit reports, dated March 20, 2014 and March 30, 2015, respectively, each expressing an unqualified opinion on CPHI's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2013 and December 31, 2014. The audit reports were included in CPHI's Forms 10-

K, filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on March 20, 2014 and March 30, 2015, respectively.

10. In its 2013 and 2014 Forms 10-K, CPHI disclosed that it earned revenue from the sale of pharmaceutical and biochemical products it manufactured to hospitals, distributors and private retailers in China. CPHI reported revenue of $32.8 million and $24.9 million in its 2013 and 2014 financial statements, respectively.

11. Respondents knew that CPHI's accounts receivable aged over a year had increased rapidly in 2013 and 2014. As of December 31, 2012, CPHI had $30.1 million of aged receivables or 43% of the total (gross) accounts receivable balance. By year-end 2013, aged receivables increased to $35.8 million or 61% of the total (gross) receivable balance. By year-end 2014, CPHI had $48.6 million of aged receivables representing 83% of its total (gross) accounts receivable, with $17.3 million aged one-to-two years and $31.3 million aged over two years.

12. As disclosed in its 2013 Form 10-K, in the fourth quarter of 2013, CPHI initiated a collection discount program to encourage its customers to pay long overdue balances by offering 15% to 37% discounts to those with receivables aged over one year. CPHI collected $5.85 million under this program after giving $2.1 million in discounts which was recorded as a bad debt expense. In addition, CPHI disclosed in its 2013 financial statements that its accounts receivable included $23 million of sales that occurred more than a year ago which management believed were still collectible.

13. CPHI also disclosed in its 2014 Form 10-K that, in the third quarter of 2014, the Company offered customers a 30% discount on payments for aged accounts receivable even though the Company initially created the collection discount program as a unique event.

14. In its 2013 and 2014 Forms 10-K, CPHI disclosed that the company recognized revenue when it has persuasive evidence of an arrangement with the customer, delivery of the product has occurred, the sales price is fixed or determinable, and collectability is reasonably assured.[15]

15. During the Audits, Respondents identified significant risks related to revenue and accounts receivable, including a fraud risk related to revenue recognition. Nevertheless, other than obtaining management's representations regarding the Company's recognition of revenue, Respondents failed to perform procedures that were

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board

specifically responsive to the assessed fraud risk,[16] and failed to evaluate whether the Company's revenue recognition was in conformity with US GAAP.[17] Specifically, Respondents failed to evaluate whether collectability was reasonably assured in light of the customers with significantly past due receivables and CPHI's repeated use of the collection discount program.

16. CPHI's allowance for doubtful accounts also increased markedly from 2012 through 2014. As of December 31, 2012, the Company reported $4.4 million in allowance for doubtful accounts or 6% of gross accounts receivable. By the end of the years 2013 and 2014, the allowance for doubtful accounts had grown to $13.3 million, and $33.3 million, representing 23% and 57% of gross accounts receivable, respectively.

17. CPHI disclosed in its 2013 and 2014 financial statements that its accounts receivable net of the allowance for doubtful accounts represented approximately 16% and 19% of total assets, respectively, at the end of each of those two years. In both 2013 and 2014, CPHI further disclosed that it reserved 3.5% of accounts receivable less than one year old, 10% for amounts past due between one and two years, and fully reserved for amounts past due over two years.

18. In both Audits, Respondents assessed the risk of material misstatement as high for the valuation assertion related to accounts receivable, net of allowance for doubtful accounts. During the 2013 Audit, to test the allowance for doubtful accounts, the Firm: (1) made inquiries of management about the Company's accounting policy regarding allowance for doubtful accounts; (2) for the accounts receivable aging balance, compared data used in the Company's allowance calculation to the Company's accounts receivable aging report and compared percentages for each aging category to prior year's amounts; (3) tested the mathematical accuracy of the Company's allowance calculation; and (4) tested amounts collected after year end which represented approximately 1% of accounts receivable. During the 2014 Audit, Respondents performed the same procedures as the previous year and inquired of management regarding the collectability of certain accounts aged over one year with no sales reported during the year under audit.

19. During the Audits, Respondents were also aware of the large increase in aged receivables, the Company's use of the collection discount program, and the significant increase in the Company's bad debt expense from $10.8 million in 2013 to

$20.6 million in 2014. However, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to evaluate the reasonableness of the allowance for doubtful accounts estimate and whether the allowance for doubtful accounts was properly valued. Specifically, Respondents, in testing the Company's allowance for doubtful accounts calculation, failed to perform any procedures to evaluate the reasonableness of reserve percentages used in the allowance calculation.[18] Respondents also failed to test the accuracy and completeness of the accounts receivable aging categories in the accounts receivable aging schedule provided by management.[19]

20. In addition, during the Audits, Respondents failed to perform a retrospective review of management's allowance for doubtful accounts estimate reflected in the financial statements of the prior years to determine whether management's judgments and assumptions relating to the allowance for doubtful accounts estimate indicated a possible bias on the part of management.[20]

CPHI Restated its 2014 Financial Statements

21. On December 11, 2015, CPHI disclosed in a Form 8-K that it was advised by the Respondents that during a PCAOB inspection of the Firm, the PCAOB issued comments that identified certain deficiencies in the audit of the financial statements filed in Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2014, and for the quarterly reports filed for the first three quarters of 2015. As a result of those comments, the Company concluded that its previously filed 2014 financial statements and 2015 quarterly filings should no longer be relied upon because the Company "had not properly evaluated whether collectability of revenue was reasonably assured for sales to customers with significantly aged receivable balances and, therefore, whether the revenue had been appropriately recognized; and the Company had not properly evaluated the reasonableness of the allowance for doubtful accounts."

22. On December 28, 2015, CPHI filed an amendment to its 2014 financial statements, restating its revenue, accounts receivable and bad debt expense. As restated, accounts receivable (net) decreased by 44%, revenue decreased by 11% and bad debt expenses increased by 52%, resulting in an increase in net loss of 52% or $13.5 million.

ORDER

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in the Respondents' Offers. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Arshak Davtyan Inc. and Arshak Davtyan, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Arshak Davtyan Inc. is revoked;

C. After two (2) years from the date of the Order, Arshak Davtyan Inc. may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Arshak Davtyan, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[21] and [21] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Arshak Davtyan, CPA. Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act provides that "[i]t shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

ORDER

E. After two (2) years from the date of this Order, Arshak Davtyan, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS In the Matter of Scrudato & Co. PA, and John Scrudato, CPA, Respondents.	PCAOB Release No. 105-2016-054 December 20, 2016

By this Order, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is censuring Scrudato & Co., PA (the "Firm"), revoking the Firm's registration, and imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $15,000 upon the Firm;[1] and censuring John Scrudato, CPA ("Scrudato") and barring him from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2] The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm and Scrudato (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of five issuer clients.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over them and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order") as set forth below.[3]

ORDER

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Scrudato & Co., PA is, and at all relevant times was, a sole proprietorship organized under the laws of New Jersey, with an office in Califon, New Jersey. The Firm is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. At all relevant times, the Firm was the external auditor for the issuers identified below.

2. John Scrudato, CPA, 54, is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New Jersey (License No. 20CC01509700). At all relevant times, Scrudato was the managing partner and sole owner of the Firm, and served as the engagement partner on the audits discussed below. Scrudato is an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with Respondents' issuance of unqualified audit reports on the March 31, 2015 financial statements of Grid Petroleum Corp. ("Grid"); the December 31, 2013 and 2014 financial statements of Baltia Air Lines, Inc. ("Baltia"); the May 31, 2013 and 2014 financial statements of American International Ventures, Inc. ("AIV"); the May 31, 2013 financial statements of U.S. Precious Metals, Inc. ("USPM"); and the December

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other persons or entities in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

ORDER

31, 2013 and 2014 financial statements of Green Parts International, Inc. ("Green Parts") (collectively, the "Issuer Audits").

4. As detailed below, Respondents repeatedly failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence and exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in connection with each of the Issuer Audits. Several of the Issuer Audits that resulted in Respondents' violations were new clients subject to reaudit by the Firm after the issuer's previous auditor was sanctioned by the Board.[5]

C. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

5. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[7] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in the performance of the audit and preparation of the report.[8] PCAOB standards also require that an auditor plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for his or her opinion.[9] If the auditor is unable to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to have a reasonable basis to conclude about whether the
