CASE STUDIES

Economic Impact of a Casino

Our team conducted an assessment of the economic impact of a casino operation to the South Australian economy. This involved an assessment of the market/s for gaming services, including demand across domestic and international markets and the competition within each market.

We also assessed the capacity of the business to compete for gaming clients in the wider Australian and Regional markets.

Racing Club Economic Impact

Our team managed and directed a study to measure the economic contribution of a large-scale racing club based in Queensland. A compelling narrative was prepared to explain transparently and credibly the contribution of the clients' businesses, including racing, property and licensed clubs, as well as wagering revenue derived as a result of their activities.

The study also provided a scenario-based model of the broader economic impacts of planned investments within the clubs' property business over the next 10 years. The study was well received by the firm's CEO.

QLD Market Analysis

Our team prepared a detailed analysis of machine gaming and gambling markets in Queensland (that is, its future growth prospects) and the likelihood of local patrons switching their gaming from clubs to the new casinos. This included market definition based on supply, demand and regional factors. Three sub-markets were defined, including Brisbane, Gold Coast and Cairns. An analysis of the financial impact on clubs was undertaken using a spatial model and player switching assumptions based on detailed interviews with a sample of clubs in the three regions.

The model predicted non-uniform impacts on the Club sector and identified clubs with the highest risk of closure as a result of proposed Integrated Resort Developments.
