Operational Performance Improvement

Our team delivers operational and financial performance improvements (“PI”) while maintaining and improving quality of care. Our approach is based on the practical experience of our healthcare subject matter experts who understand the pressures on operational and clinical staff.

Our comprehensive approach includes advanced analytics and assessment of operational processes and systems to identify improvement opportunities spanning labor productivity, revenue cycle, supply chain/non-labor cost and patient access/throughput, as well as physician practice enhancements, strategy and planning.

Context Setting: The first step to performance improvement is to understand the current state and the context driving the improvement goals (e.g., capital funding requirements).

Baselining and Benchmarking: This step is aimed at evaluating current performance compared with historical and peer performance levels. Benchmarking and comparison with industry-leading practices allow for a deeper analysis of potential areas for improvement.

Identified Opportunities for Improvement: Having identified specific performance opportunities, our team works with key stakeholders to review operational changes (people, process, technology) and resources needed to achieve higher performance.

Plan for Delivery: As part of the PI work effort, detailed implementation plans with milestones, owners and time frames are developed and jointly executed through implementation teams.

Delivery Support: A key part of performance improvement efforts involves developing strong governance and oversight through steering committees, with support from the finance functions to measure and monitor progress against a plan.

Stakeholder and Clinical Engagement: Our approach includes staff at various levels (e.g., clinicians, support staff, physicians, management) and focuses on training to create sustainable improvements to enable the client to meet future challenges.

CLIENT SUCCESS STORY

Situation/Our Approach

On a recent engagement, our client had developed a multi-year projection of the impact of healthcare reforms on its business.

Based on the findings (a five-year, $100 million cash flow shortfall), FTI Consulting was asked to complete a PI assessment and was engaged to assist in implementation activities over a two-year work effort. During the process, FTI Consulting and the client implemented new technology and governance along with process changes in revenue cycle, physician governance, supply chain and productivity.

Our Impact

At the end of year two, the client was able to achieve improvements of approximately $90 million (8% of revenues) and was well on its way to meeting the five-year improvement goal.

Strategy and Planning

Creating and demonstrating value is a top priority for every healthcare provider. Unfortunately, the immediacy of day-to-day operations can quickly marginalize other issues critical to an organization's future. Your success ultimately depends on aligning mission, resources and optimized performance.

At FTI Consulting, strategic thinking is more than a fuzzy vision of the future or a long-term plan disconnected from the realities of the present. Our Strategy and Planning practice, led by a former hospital executive, addresses the pressing demands of the current marketplace and the discovery of long-term opportunities for sustainability. We involve and align stakeholders as appropriate — medical staff, patients, board members, management, employees and the community. Our process combines the vital components of your organization into a unified, tactical plan of action. Strategy, finance and operations are inherently linked, and success is achieved at their intersection.

Transition: Now more than ever, smart strategic thinking means concrete planning. Healthcare reform is a reality. Reimbursement is being squeezed again, while transition from the fee-for-service model to value-based payments is changing business strategies.

Innovation: Successful organizations are developing new tactics to improve care coordination and population health management through creative affiliations and partnership arrangements.

Collaboration: FTI Consulting's team approach of clinicians, business management and finance staff is focused on delivering immediate results. Whether through developing a comprehensive service line or geographic (market) study, we can help you define the market, quantify demand, evaluate competitors, assess medical staff relations, link programming to facility planning and project future financial performance.

Confidence: Our focused strategic planning approach builds a more confident organization that addresses both short-term and long-term business needs (e.g., capital financing, ambulatory services, service rationalization and medical staff planning).

CLIENT SUCCESS STORY

Situation/Our Approach

On a recent engagement, our client (a multi-hospital system) needed to reassess individual business unit performance, market position and service profile, including private and employed physicians.

The project included a comprehensive study of the market, current service offerings by location, anticipated healthcare reform and technology impacts and opportunities to enhance alignments with affiliated businesses (such as an ambulance company).

Our Impact

The results from the study assisted the client in determining the appropriate clinical services to be offered by each facility and the related medical staff planning. The recommendations also were used to position the entire organization as a strong strategic partner in a subsequent merger with a national health system.

Business Intelligence and Data Analytics

Market pressure from numerous sources is driving healthcare organizations to seek new, innovative and cost-effective solutions that refine quality of services and hone a competitive edge. Healthcare Business Intelligence (“BI”) provides the ability to mine vast data sets, or big data, initiated from internal clinical and financial systems and integrate external data such as population health statistics or benchmark information.

To leverage the new technology and business needs, FTI Consulting professionals have been leading business process analysis and design for many years, working with various types and sizes of healthcare organizations. This experience has enabled the FTI Consulting BI team to accelerate our clients’ capabilities and tools to internally develop integrated management systems, analysis and visualization to gain useful insights on key business processes and organizational performance.

Leadership: FTI Consulting is a recognized leader in performance management/BI transformation efforts, streamlining operations, improving oversight/governance and enhancing reporting capabilities.

Methodologies: Our development of BI tools and reporting on labor management encompassing hospital staff and physician practices are two examples of systems that have been implemented and continue to provide timely management information to a number of leading healthcare organizations.

Insights: FTI Consulting has developed flexible, standard management analytics directly linked to client data warehouse systems that enable unique and customized insights along with drill-down capabilities. Our analytics solutions leverage internal and large external data (best practices) to provide meaningful patient care and healthcare performance improvement.

Analytics: Our analytics and BI information are constructed to provide meaningful information that can be easily understood and used to improve healthcare performance.

Integrity: As part of the BI services, FTI Consulting’s capabilities expand beyond the simple development of reports and are grounded on the basic principles of data integrity, auditability and linkage of the information back to the overall business needs and results.

Situation/Our Approach

On a recent engagement with a major academic specialty hospital, FTI Consulting reviewed 544 standard reports coming out of core systems and streamlined the reporting process, replacing one-way reporting with interactive dashboards that hospital executives and clinicians can use to identify opportunities to improve care and lower costs.

Our Impact

FTI Consulting leveraged its healthcare experience to work with the client’s analytics staff to help staff members identify the data most valuable to their end users — the clinical staff — and learn how to extract and display the data to stakeholders in an easily accessible and comprehensible manner through a secured analytics portal.

Clinical Research and Grants

Advancements in clinical research in the United States and abroad have significantly changed the way healthcare services are delivered. It is possible that in the next 20-30 years, many of the diseases that we face today will be eradicated as a result of the efforts of scientists and research institutions such as academic medical centers. As these advances continue to proliferate, federal dollars for discoveries in science and medicine will dwindle, but the U.S. government's enforcement agenda will grow dramatically.

Some of the areas in which the government has been most active include research billing, conflicts of interest, research misconduct, federal grants compliance, effort reporting and compliance with human research protections regulations. FTI Consulting's Clinical Research and Compliance practice — which includes some of the nation's foremost authorities on research compliance and human research protections — is well-positioned to assist research organizations in navigating and/or avoiding issues with research, enforcement and regulatory agencies.

Discipline: Business management has become a critical aspect of overseeing and developing strong research programs. New and increasing regulations on Medicare and other clinical billing requirements along with grant accounting require discipline and structure.

Differentiation: At the same time, many organizations are positioning their research activities to differentiate themselves as a leading clinical provider and/or to attract external funding (e.g., fundraising) to support their services.

Robust Processing: With all the complexities associated with managing research leaders and administrative requirements, it is important to develop a robust business management process, including the necessary systems to handle research and payor billing, patient tracking and staff time and effort reporting.

Financial Support: For the average teaching hospital (40-80 residents), research-related activities could account for more than $5 million in financial support and offer opportunities to build a more effective program.

CLIENT SUCCESS STORY

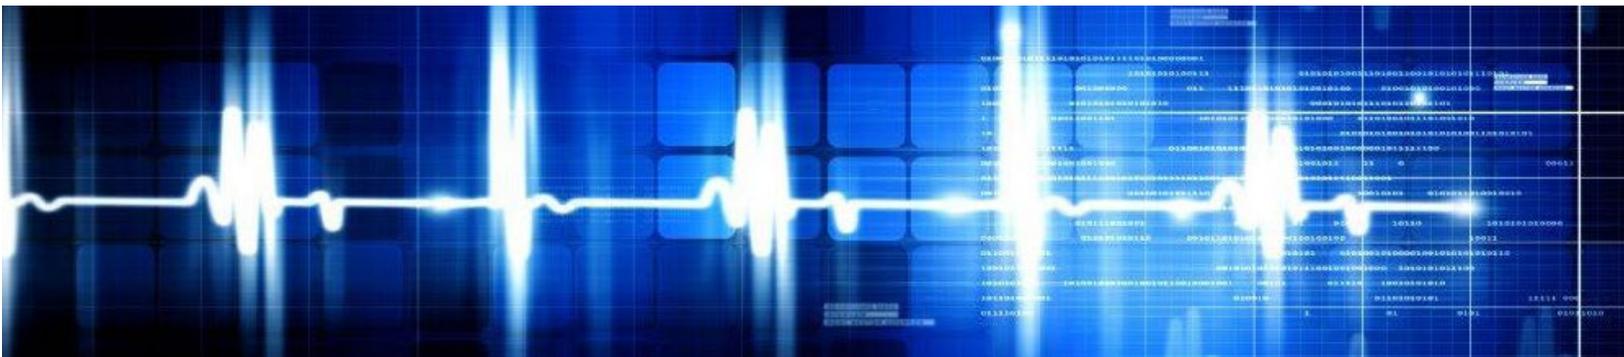

Situation/Our Approach

On a recent assignment, FTI Consulting was engaged to redesign the clinical trial billing process for a large academic medical center in order to enhance operational efficiency and reduce billing errors for clinical trials. Our team helped to better integrate the clinical trials office, hospital registration department operations, patient financial services and revenue cycle.

Our Impact

The implementation led to increased revenue recognition, enhanced compliance with laws and regulations, upgraded internal controls and more effective operations.

Regulatory and Compliance

Our Regulatory and Compliance team is centered on assessing, auditing and investigating regulated activities within industry. We help our clients evaluate and mitigate risk, investigate and respond to allegations of regulatory non-compliance and analyze the related financial and business impacts.

Breadth of Experience: Our client base spans the entire healthcare spectrum, including hospital and post-acute care providers, home health agencies, physician group practices, pharmaceutical and medical device manufacturers, medical supply companies, durable medical equipment manufacturers and distributors, pharmacies and payors. Maintaining such a broad array of clients provides us with an in-depth understanding of the regulatory requirements affecting the entire industry and the impact those requirements can have on financial, operational, clinical and compliance performance at all points in the healthcare industry.

Understanding the Regulatory Framework: Notably, our work product is regularly scrutinized and relied upon by regulatory agencies and enforcement bodies including the Office of the Inspector General (“OIG”), the Department of Justice (“DOJ”), the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (“CMS”), state Attorneys General, state Medicaid agencies and various accreditation bodies such as the Joint Commission and the National Committee for Quality Assurance (“NCQA”).

Knowledge of Healthcare Data and Data Analysis: Our team includes healthcare data experts who have performed extensive data mining, benchmarking and analysis in many large-scale Medicare and Medicaid investigations. These include matters related to billing and claims submissions, reimbursement and coding, cost reports, physician relationships, outlier claims and pharmaceutical and medical supply pricing and promotion.

Support of Litigation: Whether providing expert testimony or serving as a privileged consultant, our team works to focus our expertise on the matters at hand by combining deep industry knowledge with our analytical capabilities in trials, arbitrations, mediations or legal other forums.

Monitoring: We have served as the Independent Review Organization (“IRO”) for many of the largest and most diverse healthcare organizations, and under some of the most groundbreaking, distinctive Corporate Integrity Agreements (“CIAs”) in recent history. We have helped negotiate and refine the CIAs; developed unique, first-of-a-kind work plans; created new testing templates and reporting approaches; and interacted regularly with boards, senior management and OIG representatives.

CLIENT SUCCESS STORY

Situation/Our Approach

On a recent engagement with a $1.1 billion specialty hospital, FTI Consulting evaluated the internal resources and processes to identify future risk levels related to CMS priority areas.

Our Impact

The study resulted in a detailed report identifying the systems, staffing and education/training needed to improve the overall compliance program and related work activities for the chief legal officer.

Critical Analysis: The FTI Consulting Creditor Advisory Group advises secured and unsecured creditors in distressed situations, leveraging our extensive knowledge and experience to provide critical analysis and advice to assist creditors with maximizing recoveries.

CLIENT SUCCESS STORY

Situation/Our Approach

FTI Consulting was retained by the senior secured lenders of a large-scale women's health pharmaceutical company to assess the company's short-term liquidity forecast and incremental financing needs, as well as provide advice through a potential restructuring.

FTI Consulting evaluated the feasibility of noncore asset sales to generate cash for secured debt paydown and to fund the launch of a new product. Furthermore, FTI Consulting assisted with the drafting of forbearance agreements and loan extensions in addition to new financing agreements with revised financial and non-financial covenants.

Our Impact

The senior secured lenders closed on an interim debt financing agreement, allowing the company to pursue capital markets transactions resulting in a full repayment with make-whole payments upon sale of senior secured notes.

Interim Management

When companies need skilled, experienced leadership to pursue planned or unexpected opportunities, contend with executive turnover or drive strategic transactions, FTI Consulting interim executives guide the process and assure stability through periods of transition.

Our interim executives bring deep leadership, financial management and operating experience, in addition to the highest level of functional and healthcare expertise to reinforce clients' executive teams in that critical moment. Our executives deliver the global array of FTI Consulting offerings and capabilities as needed.

C-Suite Support: Our experienced healthcare professionals can fill the full array of C-suite and departmental management support roles on an interim basis. These roles include chief executive officers ("CEOs"), chief financial officers ("CFOs"), chief operating officers ("COOs"), chief nursing officers, chief reimbursement officers and the senior positions that report to them.

Transitional Management: Our executive teams lead businesses in preparation for, execution of and transition through acquisitions, divestitures and other fundamental changes. We manage the business to improve operations, enhance value and realize its potential.

Carve-Out Services: Our executives manage carve-outs of businesses from larger enterprises and then serve in key leadership and financial roles of the new enterprise on behalf of its owners during the transition period.

Structural Reform: Our executives and specialists take the lead and execute on major initiatives and projects for our clients. Examples include launching or relaunching a line of business, implementing a major system, conducting a mission-critical negotiation, integrating an acquisition, driving significant cost realignment or a performance improvement initiative, implementing a new organization design or exiting a line of business.

CLIENT SUCCESS STORY

Situation/Our Approach

Furthermore, FTI Consulting was able to successfully negotiate a restructuring of the institution's $1 billion in bond debt.
