7. During Marcum's 2021 busy season, Partner A's utilization from January through March 2021 was 189%, 184%, and 204%, for each month, respectively. In fact, over that time period, there were multiple weeks when Partner A worked approximately 100 hours over a five-day (Monday – Friday) period. Similarly, Partner B had utilization numbers over the January through March 2021 period of 117%, 161%, and 175% for each month, respectively.

8. Marcum also experienced staffing capacity issues below the partner level. For example, utilization for Marcum's senior managers and managers in the New York City office during busy season from January 2021 to March 2021 was 112%, 148%, and 154%. Further, in March 2021, Marcum did not have sufficient managers to staff all of its SPAC engagements. This resulted in the engagement partner taking on the role of both engagement manager and engagement partner for certain SPAC engagements.

D. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

9. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[4] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[5] A firm's system of quality control provides a critical foundation and infrastructure for a firm's audit quality as it should "ensure that services are competently delivered and adequately supervised."[6] "A system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality."[7]

10. As described below, Marcum failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

[7] QC § 20.03.

i. Marcum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Acceptance of Issuer Clients and Partner Workload

11. PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm establish quality control policies and procedures for deciding whether to accept or continue a client relationship and whether to perform a specific engagement for that client.[8] Such policies and procedures should provide reasonable assurance that the firm undertakes only those engagements that the firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence and appropriately considers the risks associated with providing professional services in the particular circumstances.[9] In addition, policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that work is assigned to personnel having the degree of proficiency required under the circumstances.[10]

12. In accepting hundreds of new SPAC issuer clients, Marcum failed to properly consider whether it could complete the new engagements with professional competence, given the competing time demands on the Firm's partners assigned to lead and execute the audits and perform the engagement quality reviews for all of its issuer clients. In fact, during the relevant time period, the Firm only rejected a new SPAC issuer client if the client acceptance process identified an independence issue. Marcum also failed to timely implement sufficient policies and procedures as to client acceptance to manage the large influx of new SPAC audit clients.

13. The Firm was aware of the large increase in issuer clients, the demands on partner and staff workloads, and the resulting impact it had on the Firm's ability to comply with certain PCAOB rules and standards, such as audit documentation requirements. Yet, Marcum continued to accept new SPAC issuer clients without sufficiently addressing whether the Firm could reasonably expect to complete these engagements with professional competence, given the competing time demands on its partners assigned to lead audits and perform the engagement quality reviews for its issuer clients, or appropriately considering the risks associated with providing professional services in the circumstances.

14. The Firm, therefore, violated QC § 20 by failing to have adequate policies and procedures related to: (a) client acceptance and continuance sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that it undertook only those engagements that it could reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence; (b) appropriately considering the risks associated with providing professional services in particular circumstances; and (c) assigning work to personnel having the requisite proficiency required in the circumstances. These failures resulted in, or contributed to, the Firm's acceptance of hundreds of new issuer audit clients without appropriate processes in place for determining whether it had sufficient capacity to accept such clients and ensuring that partner workloads were manageable so that engagement partners and engagement quality reviewers could discharge their responsibilities with professional competence.[11]

ii. Marcum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Assembly of Audit Documentation for Retention

15. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the firm complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[12] AS 1215, Audit Documentation, establishes requirements for documentation the auditor should prepare and retain in connection with issuer engagements. Among other things, "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[13]

16. Throughout 2021, Marcum failed to timely assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation within 45 days of the report release date in connection with hundreds of issuer audit engagements, due to engagement teams' heavy workloads caused by the increase in issuer clients. Further, numerous audit documentation binders failed to include certain required work papers and required signoffs.

17. For example, throughout 2020 and 2021, the Firm tracked, on a weekly basis by office location, issuer audit engagements where a complete and final set of audit documentation had not, to date, been assembled for retention. The Firm identified on this list delinquent issuer audit engagements (i.e., audit engagements where a complete and final set of work papers had not been assembled for retention and more than 45 days had passed since the audit report had been released). For the Firm's New York City office in the first half of 2020, based on weekly tracking, delinquent issuer audit engagements were in the single digits. However, after the significant increase in SPAC clients, the number of delinquent issuer audit engagements identified by the Firm in the New York City office spiked dramatically during the last week of January 2021, February 2021, and March 2021 from 40, to 107, to 459, respectively, as shown in the below chart.

18. During the peak delinquency period, Marcum reported hundreds of issuer audit engagements with work papers more than one month past due, meaning that Marcum continually failed to address most of the delinquent issuer audit engagements that had appeared on the tracking report as delinquent in the prior month. For example, during the last week of March 2021, April 2021, May 2021, and June 2021, Marcum reported 145, 293, 344, and 269 delinquent issuer audit engagements more than one month past due, respectively. In fact, as of June 30, 2021, Marcum reported 143 delinquent issuer audit engagements more than three months past due, meaning these issuer audit engagements had been identified as delinquent in March 2021 and had still not been addressed.

19. Despite being aware of the increasing number of audit engagements for which the Firm had failed to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation within 45 days of the report release date, the Firm continued to accept new issuer clients and did not sufficiently address the issue of its noncompliance with AS 1215.15.

20. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20 by failing to have policies and procedures related to audit documentation sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with the requirements of AS 1215.15.

iii. Marcum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants

21. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[14] PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, requires registered public accounting firms to report information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participated in the audits of issuers by filing a Form AP for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"),[15] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement under the Securities Act filed with the Commission.[16]

22. Due to the enormous increase in issuer clients in late 2020 and early 2021, and the expected increase in the number of audit reports that would be issued in that period, Marcum's policies and procedures related to Form AP were insufficient to manage the increased volume of Form AP reporting obligations.

23. From January 1, 2021 through October 15, 2021, the Firm failed to timely file Form APs with respect to 63 audit reports for 59 issuers and filed inaccurate Form APs with respect to at least two issuer audits.

24. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20 by failing to maintain effective policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with the requirements of PCAOB Rule 3211.

iv. Marcum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Risk Assessment

Material Misstatement, requires an auditor to "identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level."[18]

26. For each SPAC audit engagement, the engagement team included a chart in its planning memorandum assessing risk by audit area and/or financial statement line item (e.g., cash, prepaid expenses), but not at the assertion level (e.g., valuation, existence). Standard language in the planning memoranda stated: "We [or Marcum] assessed risk by audit area. We [or Marcum] deemed no audit area to be of significant risk and therefore deemed it appropriate to assess the inherent risk by audit area."

27. In SPAC audits from January 2020 through approximately September 2021, the Firm failed to perform risk assessment procedures to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the assertion level.

28. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that the work performed by Firm personnel with respect to assessing risks on SPAC audits met the requirements of AS 2110.59.

v. Marcum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance that Personnel Would Consult When Dealing with Complex Issues

29. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the firm complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[19]

30. A registered public accounting firm should also establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that personnel refer to authoritative literature or other sources and consult, on a timely basis, with individuals within or outside the firm, when appropriate (for example, when dealing with complex, unusual, or unfamiliar issues).[20]

31. During the relevant time period, 164 of Marcum's SPAC and former SPAC audit clients restated their financial statements for incorrect accounting related to the classification of warrants in accordance with ASC Topic 815, Derivatives and Hedging, and the classification of redeemable shares in accordance with ASC 480, Distinguishing Liabilities from Equity. Marcum's engagement teams did not consult with individuals within or outside the Firm in connection with the audits of most SPAC restatements.

32. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20.

vi. Marcum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Determining Critical Audit Matters

33. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the firm would comply with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[21] AS 3101, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion, "establishes requirements regarding the content of the auditor's written report when the auditor expresses an unqualified opinion on the financial statements."[22] Among other things, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any critical audit matters in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[23] A critical audit matter is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[24] The requirement to evaluate CAMs took effect for audits of large accelerated filers for fiscal years ending on or after June 30, 2019, and on or after December 15, 2020, for all other required companies.

34. In developing its audit programs for the evaluation of CAMs, Marcum failed to develop sufficient guidance to reasonably assure that engagement teams properly evaluated the complete population of potential CAMs. As a result, Marcum failed to properly evaluate in certain issuer audits whether one or more matters were CAMs. Although such matters were required to be communicated to audit committees under AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees, and related to accounts or disclosures that were material to the financial statements, Marcum failed to properly evaluate whether the matters involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment.

35. As a result, Marcum violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 3101.11.

vii. Marcum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Audit Committee Communications

36. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the firm complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[25] AS 1301 requires the auditor to communicate certain matters related to the conduct of an audit to an issuer's audit committee. These matters include, among other things, the terms of the audit arrangement; the audit strategy; significant and critical accounting policies and practices; critical accounting estimates; the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms or other persons, who are not employed by the auditor, that perform audit procedures in the current period audit; the auditor's evaluation of the company's ability to continue as a going concern; and a schedule of any uncorrected misstatements related to accounts and disclosures that the auditor presented to management.[26]

37. AS 1301 also requires the auditor to communicate to the audit committee significant changes to the planned audit strategy or the significant risks initially identified and the reasons for such changes.[27]

38. In several instances across multiple issuer audits in 2021, Marcum failed to make certain required audit committee communications in accordance with AS 1301. In certain audits, Marcum failed to communicate some or all of the issuer's critical accounting policies and practices and/or critical accounting estimates.[28] For certain SPAC audits that had equity restatements, Marcum elevated equity to a significant risk area in connection with the restatement audit, but failed to communicate the change to the audit committee.[29] In other audits, Marcum identified uncorrected misstatements during the audit, but failed to communicate the misstatements to the audit committee.[30]

39. In addition, in audits where Marcum used a third-party firm to assist with audit procedures, for example, in approximately 483 SPAC audits in 2021, Marcum failed to communicate the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of the third-party firm to the audit committee.[31]

40. As a result, Marcum violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 1301.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. In ordering sanctions, the Board took into consideration certain remedial steps Marcum has undertaken, including revisions to certain quality control policies and procedures.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Marcum is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), the Board imposes a civil money penalty in the amount of $3 million on Marcum.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board,

31 AS 1301.10(d).

(ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(C) and 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(3) and (9), the Board orders Marcum to make functional changes to its supervisory structure by requiring the Firm to create a new role and hire an individual, not unacceptable to the PCAOB staff, to serve as head of the Firm's quality control system ("Chief Quality Officer"), who will, among other things, be tasked with implementing and overseeing the Firm's compliance with the independent consultant's recommendations pursuant to this Order. Within ninety (90) days after entry of this Order, Marcum shall submit to the PCAOB staff a proposal setting forth the identity and qualifications of one or more possible Chief Quality Officer candidates. Marcum may not hire as the Chief Quality Officer any individual who has provided legal, auditing, or other services to, or has had any affiliation with, Marcum during the two years prior to entry of this Order. The Chief Quality Officer should have the experience, competence, authority, and capacity to carry out the assigned responsibilities. The Chief Quality Officer's duties and responsibilities shall include supervising the design, implementation, and operation of Marcum's quality control system in accordance with applicable professional and regulatory requirements and the Firm's policies and procedures. The PCAOB Staff shall have ten (10) business days to communicate whether the Chief Quality Officer candidate(s) is/are not unacceptable to the PCAOB Staff.

D. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(C) and 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(3) and (9), Marcum is required to incorporate in its governance structure a committee responsible for the oversight function for the audit practice (the "Audit Oversight Committee") that includes at least one person who is not a partner, shareholder, member, other principal, or employee of the Firm and who does not otherwise have a commercial, familial, or other relationship with the Firm that would interfere with the person's exercise of independent judgment with regard to matters related to the quality control system. The Chief Quality Officer shall report to the Audit Oversight Committee.

E. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(C) and 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), (8):

1. Marcum shall retain, within sixty (60) days after the entry of this Order, an independent consultant ("Independent Consultant"), not unacceptable to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff in the Division of Enforcement. Marcum shall provide the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff with notice of possible Independent Consultant candidates no later than thirty (30) days following the entry of this Order. The PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff shall have ten (10) business days to communicate whether the Independent Consultant candidates are not unacceptable to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff. Marcum shall, upon request by the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff, provide information about the Independent Consultant's work plan to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff including the Independent Consultant's experience, ability to staff the engagement, and expertise in auditing and audit firm quality controls. Marcum shall provide to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff a copy of the engagement letter detailing the scope of the Independent Consultant's responsibilities within three (3) months after the entry of this Order. If requested by PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff, Marcum shall make the Independent Consultant available to PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff to make presentations, provide updates, and explain the work, progress, and conclusions. The Independent Consultant's compensation and reasonable expenses shall be borne exclusively by Marcum.

Independence

2. To ensure the independence of the Independent Consultant, Marcum shall not have the authority to terminate the Independent Consultant or substitute another independent consultant for the initial Independent Consultant, without the prior written approval of the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff; and shall compensate the Independent Consultant and persons engaged to assist the Independent Consultant for services rendered pursuant to this Order at their reasonable and customary rates.

3. Marcum will require the Independent Consultant to enter into an agreement that provides that, for the period of engagement and for a period of two (2) years after the issuance of the Independent Consultant's final report (as defined in Paragraph IV.E.11), the Independent Consultant shall not enter into any employment, consultant, attorney-client, auditing, or other professional relationship with Marcum, or any of its present or former affiliates, directors, officers, partners, employees, or agents acting in their capacity as such. The agreement will also provide that the Independent Consultant will require that any firm with which he/she is affiliated or of which he/she is a member, and any person engaged to assist the Independent Consultant in the performance of his/her duties under this Order shall not, without prior written consent of the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff, enter into any employment, consultant, attorney-client, auditing, or other professional relationship with Marcum, or any of its present or former affiliates, directors, officers, partners, employees, or agents acting in their capacity as such for the period of the engagement and for a period of two (2) years after the issuance of the Independent Consultant's final report (as defined by Paragraph IV.E.11).

4. With respect to PCAOB Staff, Marcum will not assert any legal privilege over communications with or work product prepared by the Independent Consultant.

Scope of Independent Consultant's Review

5. Within the time periods specified below, the Independent Consultant will review and evaluate Marcum's audit, review, and quality control policies and procedures as to, among other aspects, their sufficiency, adequacy, design, implementation, operation, and effectiveness, applicable to an Audit of an Issuer, as that term is defined in PCAOB Rule 1001, regarding the subjects set forth below. The Independent Consultant's purpose for this review and evaluation will be to make recommendations for improvements to policies and procedures that:

    a. Provide reasonable assurance that personnel comply with applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality (see QC § 20.03, QC § 20.17, and QC § 20.20) including:

        i. That due professional care is exercised in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report. See AS 1015.

        ii. That auditors are documenting the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached with respect to relevant financial statement assertions, and that audit documentation contains sufficient information for an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement to (a) understand the nature, timing, extent, and results of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached, and (b) determine who performed the work and the date such work was completed as well as the person who reviewed the work and the date of such review. See AS 1215.06.

iii. That audit documentation and other documents, including emails that contain audit documentation, are being retained for the length of time required by PCAOB standards and Commission rules or SEC regulations, unless a longer period of time is otherwise required by law. See AS 1215.14.

iv. That prior to the audit report release date, the auditor completed all necessary auditing procedures and obtained sufficient evidence to support the representations in the auditor's report. See AS 1215.15.

v. That a complete and final set of audit documentation is assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date ("documentation completion date") and that documentation requirements are also met for unfinished or incomplete engagements. See AS 1215.15.

vi. That audit documentation is not deleted or discarded after the documentation completion date and that any information and documentation added after the documentation completion date must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it. See AS 1215.16.

vii. That the auditor is communicating to the audit committee significant risks identified and any changes throughout the course of the engagement. See AS 1301.09 and .11.

viii. That the auditor is communicating to the audit committee the matters required to be communicated by AS 1301, either orally or in writing, unless otherwise specified in AS 1301, and is documenting those communications in the work papers, including whether such communications took place orally or in writing. See AS 1301.25.

ix. That all audit committee communications required by AS 1301 are made in a timely manner and prior to the issuance of the auditor's report. See AS 1301.26.

x. That the auditor is identifying and assessing the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level. See AS 2110.59.

xi. That the auditor is identifying and assessing significant risks consistent with AS 2110.69, 70, and .71.

xii. That the auditor performs and documents procedures to determine whether matters which were communicated, or required to be communicated, to the audit committee and related to accounts or disclosures that were material to the financial statements, were critical audit matters. See AS 3101.11, 12, and 17.

xiii. That, with respect to each audit report that Marcum issues for an issuer and that is included in a document filed with the Commission, Marcum files a timely and accurate report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission or in the case of a registration statement under the Securities Act, 10 days after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. See PCAOB Rule 3211.

b. Provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the Firm for each of the elements of quality control described in QC § 20 are suitably designed and are being effectively applied, as applicable to the audit standards and PCAOB rules cited in this Order. See QC §20.20.

c. Provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that work is assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances and that personnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned. See QC §§ 20.13(b) and (c).

d. Provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the likelihood of association with a client whose management lacks integrity is minimized. See QC § 20.14.

e. Provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the Firm undertakes only those engagements that the Firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence, including, but not limited to, policies and procedures related to the client acceptance process and staffing capacity as related to client acceptance. See QC §§ 20.15(a) and (b).

f. Provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that personnel refer to authoritative literature or other sources and consult, on a timely basis, with individuals within or outside the Firm, when appropriate and that the individuals consulted should have appropriate levels of knowledge, competence, judgment, and authority. See QC § 20.19.

g. Provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that quality control policies and procedures are being communicated to personnel and that they are understood and complied with, and that the Firm has established a means of communicating its established quality control policies and procedures, and the changes thereto, to appropriate personnel on a timely basis. See QC § 20.23.

6. Marcum shall cooperate fully with the Independent Consultant and shall provide reasonable and timely access to any Firm personnel, information, and records (including audit and consultation documents) as the Independent Consultant may reasonably request for the Independent Consultant's review and evaluation described in Paragraph IV.E.5 and the reports specified in Paragraphs IV.E.7 through IV.E.13 below.

Independent Consultant Reports and Certifications

7. Within eight (8) months after the entry of this Order, Marcum shall require the Independent Consultant to issue a detailed written report ("Initial Report") to Marcum: (i) summarizing the Independent Consultant's review and evaluation of the areas identified in Paragraph IV.E.5 and its subsections above; and (ii) making recommendations, where appropriate, reasonably designed to ensure that audits conducted by Marcum comply with PCAOB standards and rules and any applicable federal securities laws. Marcum shall require the Independent Consultant to provide a copy of the Initial Report to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff when the Initial Report is issued. Marcum shall also make the Independent Consultant available to PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff to discuss its work both periodically and after issuance of the report.

8. Marcum will adopt and implement, as soon as practicably possible, but in any event no later than two (2) years after the entry of this Order, and in compliance with the requirements set forth in Paragraphs IV.E.9-15 below, all recommendations of the Independent Consultant in the Initial Report. However, within thirty (30) days of issuance of the Initial Report, Marcum may advise the Independent Consultant in writing of any recommendation that it considers to be unnecessary, unjust, outside the scope of this Order, unduly burdensome, or impractical. Marcum need not adopt any such unnecessary, unjust, outside the scope of this Order, unduly burdensome, or impractical recommendation at that time, but instead may propose in writing to the Independent Consultant an alternative recommendation (an "Alternative Recommendation") designed to achieve the same objective or purpose. Marcum will provide any such Alternative Recommendation(s) to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff at the same time that Marcum submits such Alternative Recommendation(s) to the Independent Consultant. Marcum and the Independent Consultant shall engage in good faith negotiations in an effort to reach agreement on any recommendations objected to by Marcum.

9. In the event that the Independent Consultant and Marcum are unable to agree on any Alternative Recommendation(s) within sixty (60) days of the issuance of the Initial Report, Marcum shall abide by the determinations of the Independent Consultant.

10. Within sixty (60) days of issuance of the Initial Report, Marcum will certify to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff in writing that (i) Marcum has adopted and has implemented or will implement all recommendations of the Independent Consultant; and (ii) the Independent Consultant agrees that Marcum has adopted, implemented, and/or has a plan for implementation (the "Certification of Agreement to Adopt Recommendations"). Marcum will provide a copy of the Certification of Agreement to Adopt Recommendations to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff. To the extent that Marcum has not implemented all recommendations contained in the Initial Report by that time, Marcum will certify to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff in writing, no later than thirty (30) days after their implementation, that (i) Marcum has adopted and has implemented all recommendations contained in the Initial Report; and (ii) the Independent Consultant agrees that the recommendations have been adequately adopted and implemented by Marcum ("Implementation Certification").

11. Within six (6) months of the issuance of the Initial Report or the Implementation Certification, whichever is later, Marcum shall require the Independent Consultant to complete testing to assess (i) whether Marcum has implemented the written policies and procedures concerning the areas specified in Paragraph IV.E.5 and its subsections above and (ii) the effectiveness of the design and implementation of those policies and procedures. At least thirty (30) days prior to beginning the testing, Marcum shall provide to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff a copy of the scope and parameters for testing. The PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff shall have ten (10) days to provide comments. Within thirty (30) days of the completion of this testing, Marcum shall require the Independent Consultant to issue a written report summarizing the results of the Independent Consultant's testing and assessment, and if applicable, any recommendations ("Final Report") and to provide a copy of the Final Report to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff. At this time, if the Independent Consultant determines that Marcum has adopted and implemented all recommendations set forth in the Initial Report and that Marcum's quality control policies addressing those recommendations and the policies specified in paragraph IV.E.5 and its subsections are functioning effectively, Marcum shall require the Independent Consultant to certify in writing that Marcum has satisfied such undertakings ("Independent Consultant Certification") and provide a copy of this certification to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff. In all events, Marcum must complete all undertakings concerning the implementation of the recommendations set forth in the Independent Consultant's Initial Report, and any amended recommendations, and provide the Independent Consultant Certification to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff no later than two (2) years after the entry of this Order.

12. To the extent that the Final Report has additional recommendations that Marcum has not implemented, within thirty (30) days of issuance of the Final Report, Marcum will certify to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff in writing that it has adopted and has implemented or will implement all additional recommendations of the Independent Consultant ("Final Certification of Agreement to Adopt Recommendations"). Marcum will provide a copy of the Final Certification of Agreement to Adopt Recommendations to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff. To the extent that Marcum has not implemented all additional recommendations contained in the Final Report by that time, Marcum will certify to the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff in writing, by thirty (30) days after their implementation, that Marcum has adopted and has implemented all recommendations contained in the Final Report ("Final Implementation Certification"). In all events, Marcum must complete all undertakings concerning the implementation of the recommendations set forth in the Independent Consultant's Final Report no later than four (4) months after the issuance of the Final Report.

13. The Initial Report, Final Report, Certification of Agreement to Adopt Recommendations, Implementation Certification, Independent Consultant Certification, Final Certification of Agreement to Adopt Recommendations, and Final Implementation Certification, and any related correspondence or other documents shall be submitted to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, DC, 20006, with a copy to Laura B. Josephs, Assistant Director, Division of Enforcement, Securities and Exchange Commission, 100 F Street, N.E., Washington, DC, 20549.

14. The Initial Report and Final Report by the Independent Consultant will likely include confidential financial, proprietary, competitive business or commercial information. Public disclosure of these reports could discourage cooperation, impede pending or potential government investigations, or undermine the objectives of the reporting requirement. For these reasons, among others, these reports and the contents thereof are intended to remain and shall remain non-public, except (1) pursuant to court order, (2) as agreed to by the parties in writing, (3) to the extent that the PCAOB determines in its sole discretion that disclosure would be in furtherance of the PCAOB's discharge of its duties and responsibilities and in compliance with Section 105(b)(5) of the Act, or (4) if such disclosure is otherwise required by law.

15. No later than sixty (60) days from the date that Marcum signs the Final Implementation Certification, Marcum's CEO and Marcum's Chief Quality Officer shall both certify, in writing, compliance with the undertakings set forth above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff may make reasonable requests for further evidence of compliance, and Marcum agrees to provide such evidence. This certification and supporting material shall be submitted to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, DC, 20006, with a copy to Laura B. Josephs, Assistant Director, Division of Enforcement, Securities and Exchange Commission, 100 F Street, N.E., Washington, DC, 20549, no later than sixty (60) days from the date of the completion of the undertakings.

16. For good cause shown, and solely at the discretion of the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff, the PCAOB Staff and Commission Staff may extend any of the procedural dates relating to the undertakings. Deadlines for procedural dates shall be counted in calendar days, except that if the last day falls on a weekend or federal holiday, the next business day shall be considered to be the last day.

17. If the PCAOB Staff believes that Marcum has not satisfied these undertakings, the PCAOB Staff may petition the Board to reopen the matter to determine whether additional sanctions are appropriate.

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F), (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), (9), Marcum is required:

1. As of the date of the Final Implementation Certification, to have conducted training related to changes to the Firm's policies and procedures that resulted from the Independent Consultant's Initial Report and Final Report in, among other areas:

a. Audit Documentation;

b. PCAOB reporting requirements (including Forms AP);

c. Risk Assessments;

d. Critical Audit Matters; and

e. Audit Committee Communications.

G. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Eddie Wong, CPA, and Neil W. Ehrenkrantz, CPA,

Respondents.

June 22, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) Barring Eddie Wong, CPA ("Wong") from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm[1] and imposing a $100,000 civil money penalty upon Wong; and

(2) Barring Neil W. Ehrenkrantz, CPA ("Ehrenkrantz") from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm[2] and imposing a $25,000 civil money penalty upon Ehrenkrantz.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Wong and Ehrenkrantz, (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of an issuer.

I.

[1] Wong may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

[2] Ehrenkrantz may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one year from the date of this Order.

reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Eddie Wong, CPA, was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the State of New York (License No. 052907). Wong was, at all relevant times, a partner of Friedman LLP ("Friedman"). Wong served as the engagement partner for Friedman's audits of the consolidated financial statements of Kingold Jewelry, Inc. ("Kingold" or the "Company") for the years ended December 31, 2016, 2017 and 2018 and Kingold's internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") as of December 31, 2017 and 2018 (collectively, "the Audits"). Wong was, at all relevant times, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

2. Neil W. Ehrenkrantz, CPA, was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the States of New York (License No. 097426) and New Jersey (License No. 20CC01176000). Ehrenkrantz was, at all relevant times, a partner of Friedman. Ehrenkrantz performed the engagement quality review ("EQR") for the Audits. Ehrenkrantz was, at all relevant times, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Relevant Entities

3. Friedman LLP is a limited liability partnership organized under the laws of the State of New York and headquartered in New York, New York.[5] Friedman is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Friedman issued audit reports containing unqualified opinions on Kingold's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2016, 2017, and 2018 and adverse opinions on the effectiveness of Kingold's ICFR as of December 31, 2017 and 2018.

4. Kingold Jewelry, Inc. was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in the People's Republic of China ("PRC"). Kingold's public filings disclose it was a designer and manufacturer of gold jewelry and Chinese ornaments. Kingold sold its products directly to distributors, retailers, and other wholesalers, which then sold these products to consumers through retail counters located in department stores and jewelry stores in the PRC. Kingold was, at all relevant times, an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).[6]

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with Friedman's audits of Kingold's financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2016, 2017, and 2018 and Kingold's ICFR as of December 31, 2017 and 2018. Wong authorized Friedman's issuance of audit reports containing unqualified opinions on Kingold's financial statements for 2016, 2017, and 2018 and adverse opinions on Kingold's ICFR for 2017 and 2018. Ehrenkrantz provided concurring approval of issuance of Friedman's audit reports for the Audits.

6. In conducting the Audits, Wong failed to exercise due professional care and skepticism by, among other things, failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning gold inventories pledged as collateral to secure loans from banks and financial institutions ("Pledged Gold"), and failing to identify or evaluate certain significant unusual transactions.

7. Wong failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to address management's assertions as to the existence of Pledged Gold inventory shown on Kingold's balance sheets at the relevant year-ends. He did not obtain confirmation from the custodians of the Pledged Gold, as would ordinarily be expected for inventories housed by outside custodians. Furthermore, Wong did not perform sufficient additional procedures under the circumstances, such as observing physical inventories of Pledged Gold, and thus failed to obtain reasonable assurance with respect to Pledged Gold's existence. Wong also failed to perform sufficient appropriate audit procedures in the 2016 and 2017 audits to identify significant unusual transactions, which were unusual due to their timing, size and nature, or to evaluate whether the business purpose (or lack thereof) of identified significant unusual transactions indicated that they may have been entered into to engage in fraudulent financial reporting or asset misappropriation, including the 2016 and 2017 significant unusual Pledged Gold loan transactions, and the other significant unusual transactions Wong had identified in 2016 and 2017.

8. In addition, Ehrenkrantz violated AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review, by providing his concurring approval for the issuance of the Firm's audit reports for the Audits without appropriately evaluating the engagement team's assessment of and responses to significant risks with due professional care.

D. Background

9. Starting in 2016, and continuing throughout 2017 and 2018, Kingold reported certain gold inventory, not available for use in production, as "Investments in gold" on its balance sheets ("Investments in Gold").[7] The Investments in Gold represented the value of the significant quantities of Pledged Gold inventory collateralizing Kingold's loan transactions with various lenders. From $186 million at year-end 2015 (representing 40% of total assets), the value of Pledged Gold increased more than eight-fold, to $1.8 billion at year-end 2016, which represented 78% of total assets.

10. From December 31, 2015 to December 31, 2016, Kingold's total assets also grew by $1.8 billion, representing an over 350% increase, which was principally driven by the increases in Pledged Gold and related loans. This growth in gold inventory arose from the Company repeatedly using proceeds from earlier Pledged Gold loans to purchase more gold, which in turn was pledged to obtain more loans, the proceeds of which were used to purchase more gold. As of 2016 year-end, Kingold reported outstanding Pledged Gold loan balances of $1.5 billion, or 74% of total liabilities.

11. During 2017, the amount of Kingold's Pledged Gold increased by $0.7 billion, or 42%, resulting in Investments in Gold of $2.5 billion, or 83% as a percent of total assets at 2017 year-end. Pledged Gold loan balances also increased to $1.8 billion, or 66% of total liabilities at 2017 year-end. During 2018, Investments in Gold slightly decreased to $2.3 billion or 85% of total assets and Pledged Gold loans similarly decreased to $1.5 billion or 73% of total liabilities at year-end. During 2017 and 2018, Kingold repaid some of its Pledged Gold loan transactions, but also entered into multiple new Pledged Gold loan transactions with new lenders.

12. On July 6, 2020, Kingold disclosed that it had received notices of default between November 2019 and June 2020 on a number of its Pledged Gold loans, for which the adequacy and integrity of certain Pledged Gold was under dispute.[8] Shortly thereafter, Kingold disclosed a government investigation had been launched regarding the adequacy and integrity of gold in the control of the lenders.[9]

13. On August 15, 2020, Friedman resigned as the auditor of Kingold, and the Firm requested that Kingold take immediate steps to notice that reliance should no longer be placed on the Firm's previously issued audit reports on the Company's 2016, 2017 and 2018 financial statements. The non-reliance was based on Friedman's conclusion that it was unable to obtain Kingold's support to conduct a satisfactory investigation of information, of which it had become aware, about Kingold's financial statements.[10]

E. Wong Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with the Audits

14. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[11] Among other things, PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care, exercise professional skepticism, and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[12] As described below, Wong violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Audits.[13]

i. Wong Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Evidence Concerning the Pledged Gold Inventory During the Audits

15. PCAOB standards state that "[t]he auditor must plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for his or her opinion."[14] "To be appropriate, audit evidence must be both relevant and reliable in providing support for the conclusions on which the auditor's opinion is based."[15] "Observation of inventories is a generally accepted auditing procedure. The independent auditor who issues an opinion when he has not employed them must bear in mind that he has the burden of justifying the opinion expressed."[16]

16. Under AS 2510, "[i]f inventories are in the hands of public warehouses or other outside custodians, the auditor ordinarily would obtain direct confirmation in writing from the custodian."[17] If such inventories represent a significant proportion of current or total assets, the auditor should apply one or more of the following procedures as considered necessary in the circumstances: (a) test the issuer's procedures for investigating the warehouse and evaluating its performance; (b) obtain an independent accountant's report on the warehouse's control procedures relevant to the custody of goods, or apply alternative procedures to gain reasonable assurance that the information received from the warehouse is reliable; (c) observe physical counts of the goods, if practicable and reasonable; (d) if warehouse receipts have been pledged as collateral, confirm with lenders pertinent details of the pledged receipts (on a test basis, if appropriate).[18]

17. In each of the 2016, 2017 and 2018 audits, Kingold management represented that the Pledged Gold was stored with third-party custodians designated by lenders and could not be accessed for on-site inventory observation. In the 2016 and 2017 audits, Wong and the engagement team assessed a "high risk," and in the 2018 audit a "significant risk," of material misstatements for inventory, including Pledged Gold.

18. After the 2016 eight-fold increase in Pledged Gold, Wong, Ehrenkrantz and the engagement team discussed and considered AS 2510 in their 2016 audit planning meeting. Although they initially planned to obtain direct confirmation from custodians of the Pledged Gold, Wong later improperly decided that solely obtaining confirmation from lenders of their year-end records of the Pledged Gold's recorded quantity, purity, and storage location would be sufficient to address the risks of existence for the Pledged Gold. Wong and the engagement team continued this approach in the 2017 and 2018 audits, notwithstanding the fact that Pledged Gold remained the most significant asset on Kingold's balance sheets.[19]

19. Despite the magnitude of, and higher identified audit risks for, the Pledged Gold in the 2016, 2017 and 2018 audits, Wong and the engagement team did not obtain any confirmation of the Pledged Gold from the third-party custodians. Furthermore, Wong and the engagement team did not perform sufficient additional procedures under the circumstances, such as observing physical counts of the Pledged Gold, or obtaining an independent accountant's report on the custodians' control procedures relevant to the custody of Pledged Gold, to obtain reasonable assurance of the existence of the Pledged Gold.

20. As a result of Friedman's failure to obtain confirmation of Kingold's Pledged Gold inventory from its custodians or perform other sufficient additional procedures, Wong and the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to support the existence of the Investments in Gold for Friedman's 2016, 2017 and 2018 audits. Accordingly, Wong violated AS 1015, AS 1105 and AS 2510.

ii. Wong Failed to Identify or Evaluate Significant Unusual Transactions in the 2016 and 2017 Audits

21. PCAOB standards state that "[s]ignificant transactions that are outside the normal course of business for the company or that otherwise appear to be unusual due to their timing, size, or nature ('significant unusual transactions') may be used to engage in fraudulent financial reporting or conceal misappropriation of assets."[20] To address the fraud risk of management override of controls, PCAOB standards require auditors to take into account information obtained from procedures performed during the audit to identify significant unusual transactions and then to evaluate whether the business purposes for significant unusual transactions indicate that the transactions may have been entered into to engage in fraud.[21]

a. Significant Unusual Transactions in the 2016 Audit

22. In the 2016 audit of Kingold, Wong failed to identify the 2016 transactions entered into to borrow significant funds secured by Pledged Gold as significant unusual transactions, because he did not properly take into account information he obtained in the audit indicating that they were unusual due to their timing, size, and nature.[22] At the time of the 2016 audit, Wong knew that these type of transactions had not been entered into by Kingold at any significant scale prior to 2016, and that to meet the pledge requirements for certain of these transactions, Kingold had to lease gold from a related party. Wong also understood that, in every month during 2016, Kingold executed new Pledged Gold loan transactions that resulted in multiple, successive layers of leverage—the cumulative nature of these transactions caused Kingold's assets to grow in 2016 by over 350%, with a corresponding increase in liabilities. Furthermore, these transactions were only approved retroactively by Kingold's Board of Directors, at Wong's specific request, during the 2016 audit. Wong accepted oral representations from management that the Company was buying such significant quantities of gold to avoid further price increases in materials for future production, and to speculate on the price of gold.

23. Prior to the start of the 2016 audit, Wong and the engagement team had obtained and reviewed a report that had been posted on an investor stock research website, which contained allegations of, among other things, certain undisclosed related party transactions and undisclosed debt guarantees to financial institutions provided by Kingold with respect to loans obtained by a specified related party and another specified third-party. During the 2016 audit, Wong learned that the Company had failed to include material transactions in the interim financial statements and disclosures in its Form 10-Q filings for each of the three quarters of 2016. Specifically, these transactions included a significant, material loan Kingold had received from a related party and two transactions involving Kingold's guarantees of the debt of a related party and a third-party, which matched with some of the allegations specified in the previously received report. Kingold subsequently filed an amended Form 10-Q for each of the three quarters in 2016 to report and disclose these previously undisclosed transactions.

24. Wong identified these previously undisclosed related party and debt guarantee transactions as significant unusual transactions in the 2016 audit.[23] Similar to the Pledged Gold loan transactions, these transactions had not been contemporaneously approved by Kingold's Board of Directors.[24]

25. Although Wong specifically raised these previously undisclosed transactions as significant unusual transactions in the 2016 audit written communications to the audit committee, he did not design and perform sufficient appropriate procedures to obtain an understanding of their business purpose to evaluate whether the business purpose (or lack thereof) indicated they may have been entered into to engage in fraudulent financial reporting or to conceal misappropriation of assets. Wong improperly relied on uncorroborated management representations that such transactions enhanced Kingold's credit position with

[23] The previously undisclosed debt guarantee transactions consisted of an unrelated third party and a related party borrowing funds from financial institutions, with Kingold providing guarantees to the financial institutions for repayment of those loans. These parties, in turn, lent the proceeds of those borrowings to Kingold, on an interest-free basis, the equivalent amount of which was used by Kingold to collateralize its related guarantees to the financial institutions.

the lenders, without understanding why such credit enhancements were needed, or why the related and third-parties were involved.[25]

b. Significant Unusual Transactions in the 2017 Audit

26. Kingold's transactions borrowing significant funds secured by Pledged Gold continued to grow in 2017, in a similar pattern as in 2016. In contrast to his failure to identify such transactions as significant unusual transactions during the previous year's audit, Wong identified these newly executed 2017 Pledged Gold loan transactions as significant unusual transactions. Despite identifying these 2017 transactions as significant unusual transactions, Wong improperly relied on uncorroborated representations from management similar to those he accepted in the previous year's audit.[26]

27. The sale by Kingold of gold with significant value to a related party in 2017 was also identified as a significant unusual transaction in the 2017 audit. Like the Pledged Gold loan transactions, these transactions had not been contemporaneously approved by Kingold's Board of Directors.[27] Wong accepted management representations that these gold sales transactions were meant to provide access to sell gold to additional sources for sales not accessible to Kingold.

28. Although Wong raised all these transactions as significant unusual transactions in the 2017 audit written communications to the audit committee, he did not design and perform sufficient appropriate procedures to obtain an understanding of their business purpose to evaluate whether the business purpose (or lack thereof) indicated they may have been entered into to engage in fraudulent financial reporting or to conceal misappropriation of assets, as required to address the fraud risk of management override.[28] As in the previous year, Wong improperly relied on management representations about these transactions.[29]

[25] See AS 1015 and AS 2805.02, Management Representations.

[26] As in the prior year, the Pledged Gold loan transactions also were only approved by Kingold's Board of Directors retroactively, at Wong's specific request during the 2017 audit.

[28] See AS 2401.66A and .67.

[29] See AS 1015 and AS 2805.02.

29. Because he improperly relied on uncorroborated management representations and failed to perform sufficient appropriate procedures to identify or evaluate the significant unusual transactions in both the 2016 and 2017 audits, Wong violated AS 1015, AS 2401, and AS 2805.

F. Ehrenkrantz Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with His EQR of the Audits

30. An EQR is required for all audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[30] The EQR is intended to "serve as a meaningful check on the work performed by the engagement team."[31] The EQR reviewer is responsible for evaluating the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[32] Among other things, the EQR reviewer should evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, significant risks identified by the engagement team or the EQR reviewer.[33] An EQR reviewer should further evaluate whether the audit documentation indicates the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[34] The EQR reviewer may provide concurring approval of issuance of an audit report only if, after performing the EQR with due professional care, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[35]

31. Ehrenkrantz served as the EQR reviewer on the 2016, 2017 and 2018 Kingold audits and provided his concurring approval for the issuance of the Firm's audit reports for those years.

32. Ehrenkrantz knew that during the 2016 and 2017 audits, the engagement team had identified a high risk of material misstatements for inventory, including Pledged Gold. He also knew that for the 2018 audit, the Firm assessed a significant risk of material misstatement for inventory, including Pledged Gold. Ehrenkrantz also learned through discussions with the engagement teams that they planned only to obtain confirmation of the lenders' records of the Pledged Gold and not to obtain confirmations from the custodians or to perform other procedures, such as observing the Pledged Gold in the 2016 audit. Ehrenkrantz was aware of, and did not object to, continuing this approach in the 2017 and 2018 audits. In concurring with the engagement team's audit approach to exclude confirmation with the custodians, Ehrenkranz failed to properly evaluate the engagement teams' significant engagement planning judgments with respect to the Pledged Gold inventory.[36]

33. During the 2016 audit, Ehrenkrantz also understood the Pledged Gold loan transactions in 2016 were a significant risk. He was aware these transactions were new and understood the impact they had on Kingold's financial statements. However, Ehrenkrantz, in concurring with the engagement team's overall approach to the audit that excluded procedures to identify significant unusual transactions in its key risk areas, further failed to properly evaluate the engagement teams' significant engagement planning judgments.[37]

34. Ehrenkrantz also failed, during the 2016 and 2017 audits, to properly evaluate the engagement team's audit responses to the fraud risks posed by the Pledged Gold loan transactions and other significant unusual transactions.[38] He understood that the engagement team undertook no specific steps to identify significant unusual transactions in the Audits, improperly believing that transactions could not be considered significant unusual transactions if they could be understood to relate to the company's line of business. In the 2016 and 2017 audits, he failed to address the engagement team's failures to respond to fraud risks by properly evaluating the business purpose (or lack thereof) of transactions identified to Kingold's audit committee as significant unusual transactions.

35. During the Audits, Ehrenkrantz failed to evaluate, with due professional care, the significant judgments made, and the related conclusions reached, by the engagement teams in forming their overall conclusions on the Audits.[39] Specifically, Ehrenkrantz failed to properly evaluate the engagement teams' significant planning judgments; and the engagement teams' assessments of, and audit responses to, significant risks they had identified, including the risks associated with the Pledged Gold inventory and significant unusual transactions. Ehrenkrantz also failed to properly evaluate whether the audit documentation supported the engagement team's conclusions with respect to significant unusual transactions and Pledged Gold inventory, in violation of PCAOB rules and auditing standards.[40]

36. As a result of the significant engagement deficiencies described above, Ehrenkrantz provided his concurring approvals of issuance in the 2016, 2017 and 2018 audits without performing his engagement quality reviews with due professional care.[41] Accordingly, Ehrenkrantz violated AS 1220 and AS 1015.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Eddie Wong is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i); [42]

B. After two years from the date of this Order, Eddie Wong may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Neil W. Ehrenkrantz is barred from being an associated person of a registered public

42 As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Wong. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

D. After one year from the date of this Order, Neil W. Ehrenkrantz may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4): (i) a civil money penalty in the amount of $100,000 is imposed on Eddie Wong; and (ii) a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed on Neil W. Ehrenkrantz.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Each Respondent shall pay his civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the person as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalties pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondents based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

4. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

5. By consenting to this Order, each Respondent understands that failing to pay his civil money penalty, described above, may alone be grounds to deny any petition pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b) for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Total Asia Associates PLT,

Respondent.

June 23, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Total Asia Associates PLT ("TAA," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) revoking the registration of TAA, a registered public accounting firm;[1] and

(3) imposing a civil money penalty of $80,000 on TAA.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards by failing to implement and maintain quality control policies and procedures to ensure that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order, as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Total Asia Associates PLT is a partnership organized under the laws of Malaysia and headquartered in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. At all relevant times, the Firm was licensed by the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (License No. AF002128). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and quality control standards. The Firm failed to establish engagement performance and monitoring policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that its policies and procedures were suitably designed and effectively applied. During the period related to its year-end audits subject to PCAOB rules and standards from 2017 through 2020, the Firm's system of quality control failed to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by its engagement personnel met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

3. Additionally, the Firm's system of quality control failed to provide reasonable assurance that appropriate and effective monitoring took place.

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

C. The Firm Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

i. TAA's Quality Control Policies and Procedures Failed to Provide the Firm with Reasonable Assurance that the Work Performed by Engagement Personnel Met Professional Standards and that Personnel Participated in Relevant Training

4. PCAOB rules require registered public accounting firms to comply with the Board's quality control standards.[4] PCAOB quality control standards, in turn, require each registered firm to effectively design, implement, and maintain a system of quality control in the firm's accounting and auditing practice.[5] A firm's system of quality control should, among other things, include policies and procedures for engagement performance. A firm should establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[6] Quality control policies and procedures for engagement performance should encompass all phases of the design and execution of an engagement.[7] To the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, including SEC and PCAOB rules and/or standards, these policies and procedures should also cover planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement. These policies and procedures also should address engagement quality reviews ("EQRs").[8]

5. At all relevant times, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm used audit methodology, guidance materials, and practice aids ("Audit Methodology") designed to comply with PCAOB auditing standards and other regulatory requirements. For year-end audits subject to PCAOB rules and standards from 2017 through 2020, the Firm's partners, personnel, and engagement quality reviewers used commercially available guidance materials from 2015 for the Firm's Audit Methodology, but the Firm failed to update its Audit Methodology. For example, the Firm's Audit Methodology failed to address the requirements for critical audit matters ("CAMs"), including the required disclosure in the audit opinion and related communications to the audit committee.[9] These CAMs requirements were effective for the Firm for fiscal years ending on or after December 15, 2020.[10] As a result, for multiple 2020 audits, the Firm used outdated audit methodology and failed to comply with the requirements under PCAOB standards relating to CAMs.

6. Policies and procedures should also be established to provide a firm with reasonable assurance that personnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill their assigned responsibilities.[11] During the period related to its 2017-2020 year-end audits, the Firm failed to have effective policies and procedures that provided it with reasonable assurance that personnel assigned to engagements participated in continuing professional education and other professional development activities related to U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("U.S. GAAP"), PCAOB standards, and SEC reporting requirements, rules, and regulations. In addition, from 2019 through 2020, Firm partners and engagement quality reviewers failed to receive any training in U.S. GAAP, PCAOB standards, and SEC reporting requirements, rules, and regulations. The Firm also failed to ensure that its personnel received training related to the requirements for EQRs and to the requirements under PCAOB standards related to CAMs for audits of fiscal years ending on or after December 15, 2020.

ii. TAA Was Aware of Significant Audit Deficiencies in its EQRs, Yet Failed to Improve its Policies and Procedures

7. A firm should also establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its quality control policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied. Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of the (a) relevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedure; (b) appropriateness of the 10 Generally, CAM requirements were effective for audits for fiscal years ending on or after June 30, 2019, for large accelerated filers and for fiscal years ending on or after December 15, 2020, for all other companies to which CAM requirements apply. Total Asia's audits required CAMs for fiscal years ending on or after December 15, 2020.

firm's guidance materials and any practice aid; (c) effectiveness of professional development activities; and (d) compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[12]

8. Monitoring involves a firm considering and evaluating compliance with its policies and procedures on an ongoing basis.[13] Monitoring procedures, taken as a whole, should enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective.[14] Procedures that provide the firm with a means of identifying and communicating circumstances that may necessitate changes to or the need to improve compliance with the firm's policies and procedures contribute to the monitoring element. Among other things, a firm's monitoring procedures may include inspection procedures, preissuance or postissuance review of selected engagements, determination of any corrective actions to be taken and improvements to be made in the quality control system, communication to appropriate firm personnel of any weaknesses identified, and follow up to ensure that any necessary modifications are made to the quality control policies and procedures on a timely basis.[15]

9. As part of the Firm's quality control process, TAA performed postissuance reviews of select audits, or "cold file reviews," beginning in November 2018. TAA's "cold file reviews" generated reports that identified deficiencies related to the Firm's EQRs that indicated noncompliance with the Firm's policies and procedures on EQR documentation and violations of PCAOB standards. Specifically, the Firm's reports noted that in multiple audits for 2016, 2017, and 2018, the Firm's engagement quality reviewer left the review procedures checklist blank and gave no indication that an EQR had been performed, in violation of PCAOB standards.[16] Despite the Firm's awareness of these deficiencies, the Firm's monitoring process did not consider and evaluate the relevance and adequacy of its policies and procedures.[17] The Firm failed to make changes to, or improve, its policies and procedures to address their prior failures to have identified EQR deficiencies.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), TAA is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Total Asia Associates PLT is revoked.

C. After two years from the date of this Order, Total Asia Associates PLT may reapply for registration by filing an application for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $80,000 is imposed upon TAA. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act. Respondent shall pay the civil money penalties within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the entity or person as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006. By consenting to this Order, Total Asia Associates PLT acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any reapplication for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

2. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

E. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(9), should TAA submit any future application for registration, the Firm is required:

1. prior to the Board's consideration of any such application by the Board, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable PCAOB rules and standards;

2. prior to the Board's consideration of any such application by the Board, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable PCAOB rules and standards, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any audit or interim review of an issuer or any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement (defined to mean an engagement to provide a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 Rule 17a-5, 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5, as amended);

3. within ninety days from the date the Board grants any future application of the Firm for registration ("Future Registration Date") and before the Firm's commencement of any audit or interim review of an issuer or commencement of any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, to ensure training pursuant to the policy described in paragraph IV.E.2 above on at least one occasion; and

4. within 120 days from the Future Registration Date, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs IV.E.1-3 above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of CohnReznick LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-008

July 11, 2023

(1) censuring CohnReznick LLP ("CohnReznick" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $20,000 civil money penalty on CohnReznick; and

(3) requiring CohnReznick to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that CohnReznick failed to disclose certain reportable events to the Board on PCAOB Form 3, Special Report, on a timely basis.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. CohnReznick is a partnership organized under the laws of New Jersey. CohnReznick has offices in multiple locations and is licensed to practice public accounting by the state of New Jersey (License No. 20CB00324300), as well as other states where it has offices. CohnReznick is a member of the Nexia International network of firms and is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns CohnReznick's failure to timely disclose to the Board on Form 3 four reportable events regarding two disciplinary proceedings brought by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") against CohnReznick and certain of its personnel. PCAOB rules require registered firms, including CohnReznick, to complete and file with the PCAOB a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence. Among the events that CohnReznick is required to report on Form 3 are its becoming aware that the firm and/or certain of its personnel have become respondents in certain disciplinary proceedings, and the conclusion of such proceedings.

3. On June 8, 2022, the Commission issued an order sanctioning CohnReznick for deficiencies in its system of quality controls that led to audit failures in connection with a quarterly review and year-end audit of one client, and a year-end audit of another client.[2] The initiation and conclusion of the Commission's proceeding against CohnReznick constituted reportable events under Form 3, but CohnReznick failed to file a Form 3 reporting either event until December 12, 2022.

[2] CohnReznick LLP, Exchange Act Rel. No. 95066 (June 8, 2022).

4. The Commission issued another order on June 8, 2022 sanctioning three CohnReznick partners who were involved in one of the year-end audits serving as the basis for the Commission's concurrent order against CohnReznick.[3] The initiation and conclusion of the Commission's proceeding against the three partners constituted reportable events under Form 3, but CohnReznick failed to file a Form 3 reporting either event until December 12, 2022.

C. Respondent Failed to Timely Disclose Certain Reportable Events to the Board, in Violation of PCAOB Rules

5. PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[4] One such specified event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[5]

6. Registered firms must also report when they become aware that "in a matter arising out of his or her conduct in the course of providing audit services or other accounting services to an issuer, broker, or dealer, a partner, shareholder, principal, owner, member, or audit manager of the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[6]

7. Another reportable event occurs when a firm has become aware that a reportable proceeding (i.e., a reportable event under Items 2.4 – 2.9 of Form 3) has been concluded as to the firm or certain of its associated persons.[7]

[4] See PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports. As the Board noted when adopting its rules on special reporting, "reportable events will sometimes occur, and the public interest, as well as the ability to consider whether prompt action is warranted by the Board's inspection staff or enforcement staff, will be served by contemporaneous reporting of the event." 8. No later than June 8, 2022, CohnReznick became aware that the Commission had initiated and concluded a disciplinary proceeding against the firm concerning weaknesses in the firm's system of quality controls that resulted in deficiencies in the audits of two issuer clients.[8]

9. CohnReznick was also aware no later than June 8, 2022, that the Commission had initiated and concluded a related disciplinary proceeding against three firm partners who participated in one of the deficient issuer audits that was the subject of the Commission's concurrent order against the firm.

10. The initiation and conclusion of the Commission proceedings constituted reportable events under Form 3. Accordingly, the firm was required to report those events to the Board on Form 3 within thirty days of their occurrence.[9] However, CohnReznick reported the initiation and conclusion of the two Commission proceedings approximately five months after the deadline for doing so.

11. CohnReznick's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the initiation and conclusion of the Commission proceedings against CohnReznick and the firm's partners as being reportable to the PCAOB on Form 3 on a timely basis. As a result, CohnReznick inappropriately notified the PCAOB of the initiation and conclusion of relevant disciplinary proceedings after the deadline for doing so.

IV.

12. CohnReznick has represented to the Board that, since the events described in this order, it has enhanced documentation of existing policies and implemented changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing CohnReznick with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements:

a. CohnReznick has revised and supplemented its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing CohnReznick with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by CohnReznick personnel who participate in CohnReznick's

PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

b. CohnReznick has established policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any CohnReznick personnel who participate in CohnReznick's PCAOB reporting process; and

c. CohnReznick has assigned the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to a team of individuals within CohnReznick who possess adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority within CohnReznick to fulfill those requirements on behalf of CohnReznick.

V.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), CohnReznick is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 is imposed upon CohnReznick.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. CohnReznick shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies CohnReznick as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K. Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that CohnReznick shall pay pursuant to this Order, CohnReznick shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of CohnReznick's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against CohnReznick based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. CohnReznick understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of CohnReznick's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to CohnReznick at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), CohnReznick is required to comply with its PCAOB reporting policies and procedures, including:

1. those intended to provide reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by CohnReznick personnel who participate in CohnReznick's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. those ensuring training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any CohnReznick personnel who participate in CohnReznick's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. those assigning the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to a team of individuals within CohnReznick who possess adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority within CohnReznick to fulfill those requirements on behalf of CohnReznick.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Edward Turner, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-009

July 18, 2023

(1) censuring Edward Turner, CPA ("Turner" or "Respondent");

(2) barring Turner from being associated with a registered public accounting firm; and

(3) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 on Turner.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Turner failed to cooperate with the Board's 2022 inspection of a broker-dealer audit and review by improperly altering audit documentation and providing the altered documentation, and other misleading information, to PCAOB inspectors.

I.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Respondent admits to the facts, findings, and violations set forth below, and consents to the entry of this Order.[1] Respondent also admits to the Board's jurisdiction over him and the subject matter of these proceedings.

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Edward Turner, CPA is, and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy (license no. 018002). Turner is a founding partner of Turner, Stone & Company, L.L.P. ("Turner Stone" or the "Firm"), which is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Turner was the engagement partner for Turner Stone's audit of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and review of the exemption report, for Broker-Dealer A for the fiscal year ("FY") ended May 31, 2021 (the "Audit and Review"). Turner was, at all relevant times, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Broker-Dealer

2. Broker-Dealer A, at all relevant times, was a Florida corporation headquartered in Fort Myers, Florida. At all relevant times, Broker-Dealer A was registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a broker and dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Broker-Dealer A was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Section 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii). At all relevant times,

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

Broker-Dealer A was a "non-carrying" broker-dealer (i.e., a broker-dealer that does not maintain custody of customer funds or securities).[3]

C. Summary

3. This matter concerns Respondent's failure to cooperate with the Board's 2022 inspection of Turner Stone's Audit and Review of Broker-Dealer A, and Respondent's violations of PCAOB audit documentation standards in connection with the Audit and Review.

4. After the completion of the Firm's Audit and Review of Broker-Dealer A, and over six months after the documentation completion date,[4] Respondent learned that the PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections ("DRI") would be inspecting the Audit and Review. In the days that followed leading up to the inspection, Respondent obtained a document from Broker-Dealer A that the engagement team had not obtained previously, used it to create a new work paper, added the new work paper to the audit file, and deleted from the audit file a work paper that had been prepared and signed off on during the Audit and Review. Respondent then backdated the new work paper to create the impression that it had been prepared, and signed off on by both Respondent and the engagement quality reviewer ("EQR Reviewer"), during the Audit and Review.

5. Respondent provided the altered audit file to DRI without identifying the improper alterations and deletion. When DRI asked about the new work paper during the inspection, Respondent acknowledged the conduct described above only in part, and made additional misrepresentations to DRI.

6. As a result, and as further described below, Respondent violated PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate with Inspectors, and AS 1215.

[3] Broker-Dealer A claimed an exemption pursuant to paragraph (k)(1) of Rule 15c3-3 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), 17 C.F.R. § 240.15c3-3(k)(1).

[4] See AS 1215.15, Audit Documentation (defining "documentation completion date" as a date not more than 45 days after an auditor releases an audit report).

D. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the Board's 2022 Inspection of the Audit and Review of Broker-Dealer A

i. Relevant Rules and Standards

7. Exchange Act Rule 17a-5[5] ("Rule 17a-5") generally requires a broker-dealer that claims it was exempt from Exchange Act Rule 15c3-3[6] throughout the most recent fiscal year to file annually with the Commission: (a) a financial report containing certain financial statements and supporting schedules (i.e., supplemental information);[7] (b) an exemption report;[8] (c) a report prepared by an independent public accountant based on an examination of the financial report;[9] and (d) a report prepared by an independent public accountant based on a review of the statements made by the broker-dealer in the exemption report.[10] Rule 17a-5 also requires that audits and reviews of broker-dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[11]

8. PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[12]

9. PCAOB Rule 4006 requires registered public accounting firms and their associated persons to "cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[13] Implicit in that cooperation requirement is a requirement that auditors provide accurate and truthful information to DRI.[14]

The Board's audit documentation standard states, in part: "A complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[15] The Board's documentation standard also states that "[a]udit documentation must not be deleted or discarded after the documentation completion date," and with respect to any documentation added the auditor must "indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[16]

ii. Respondent Failed to Cooperate with the Board's 2022 Inspection of the Audit and Review and Violated PCAOB Audit Documentation Standards

11. Broker-Dealer A filed its annual report on Form X-17A-5 Part III for the 2021 FY with the Commission on July 29, 2021. Included in that annual report were (a) Broker-Dealer A's financial report, including financial statements and supplemental information; (b) Broker-Dealer A's exemption report; (c) Turner Stone's audit report dated July 16, 2021, which expressed an unqualified opinion on Broker-Dealer A's financial statements and supplemental information; and (d) Turner Stone's review report dated July 16, 2021, which stated that the Firm was not aware of any material modifications that should be made to the statements made by Broker-Dealer A in its exemption report for them to be fairly stated, in all material respects.

12. Turner was the engagement partner for Turner Stone's FY 2021 Audit and Review of Broker-Dealer A, and authorized the Firm's issuance of Turner Stone's audit and review reports dated July 16, 2021 (the "Audit and Review Reports"), which stated that the Audit and Review were conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards.

13. The documentation completion date for the Audit and Review was August 30, 2021 (45 days after the July 16, 2021 release date for the Firm's Audit and Review Reports).

14. On March 17, 2022, DRI informed the Firm and Turner that it would inspect the FY 2021 Audit and Review of Broker-Dealer A beginning on April 11, 2022.

15. On March 21, 2022, after learning that DRI would inspect the Audit and Review, Turner obtained from Broker-Dealer A's management a statement of fees ("Fee Statement"), which Turner and the engagement team had not obtained during the Audit and Review. Turner added notations to the Fee Statement to prepare a new work paper addressing fees earned by Broker-Dealer A, but not yet paid, as of year-end. Turner added the new work paper to the audit file, and deleted from the audit file a less detailed work paper related to the same issue that the engagement team had prepared and signed off on during the Audit and Review.

16. Turner failed to document the date he added the new work paper to the audit file, the name of the person who prepared it, or the reason for adding it. To the contrary, also on March 21, 2022, Turner backdated his sign-off on the new work paper, and the sign-off of the EQR Reviewer, to July 8, 2021 and July 13, 2021, respectively—prior to the July 16, 2021 report release date. Turner added the EQR Reviewer's sign-off by using the EQR Reviewer's password to log in to the engagement software.

17. On April 6, 2022, Turner provided DRI with a copy of the altered audit file for the Audit and Review, including the new work paper and backdated sign-offs. Turner failed to disclose that he had obtained the Fee Statement, prepared and added the new work paper, deleted a work paper, and backdated the sign-offs after the documentation completion date.

18. During the inspection, DRI identified that the new work paper appeared to have been created or altered after the documentation completion date, and raised the issue with Turner. Turner acknowledged adding and backdating the new work paper after learning that DRI would inspect the Audit and Review, but falsely stated that the engagement team had obtained the Fee Statement during the Audit and Review, and had accidentally left the work paper out of the audit file. Turner failed to disclose to DRI that he had obtained the Fee Statement and prepared the new work paper only after learning the Audit and Review would be inspected, or that he had deleted a work paper from the audit file.

19. Turner's conduct described above violated PCAOB Rule 4006 and AS 1215.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Edward Turner, CPA is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Edward Turner, CPA, is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[17]

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 is imposed upon Edward Turner, CPA.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Edward Turner, CPA as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. Respondent understands that his failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any request for leave to petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(c).

[17] As a consequence of the bar imposed in this Order, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Turner. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of MSPC, Certified Public Accountants and Advisors, A Professional Corporation,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-010

July 28, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring MSPC Certified Public Accountants and Advisors, A Professional Corporation ("MSPC," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of an issuer client under AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees, and failed to appropriately document other communications with the issuer's audit committee.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, MSPC has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. MSPC, Certified Public Accountants and Advisors, A Professional Corporation ("MSPC," the "Firm," or "Respondent") is a professional corporation headquartered in Cranford, NJ. At all relevant times, MSPC was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for three issuer clients.

B. Issuer

2. SFL Corporation LTD ("SFL"), formerly Ship Finance International Limited, is a corporation headquartered in Hamilton, Bermuda. Its public filings disclose that it is engaged primarily in the ownership and operation of vessels and offshore related assets, and involved in the charter, purchase, and sale of assets. At all relevant times, SFL was an issuer as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). MSPC issued an audit report that SFL included in its Form 20-F Annual Report filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission for fiscal year 2020 (the "2020 Audit").

C. Other Relevant Entities

3. BDO LLP (United Kingdom) ("BDO UK") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in London, United Kingdom. At all relevant times, BDO UK was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Employees from BDO UK performed certain audit procedures under the supervision of MSPC in connection with the 2020 Audit.[2]

D. Respondent Failed to Disclose Significant Risks to SFL's Audit Committee in Violation of AS 1301.09

4. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor must communicate with a client's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[3] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[4]

5. PCAOB auditing standards require each auditor to determine whether identified and assessed risks are significant risks.[5] A significant risk is defined as a risk of material misstatement that requires special audit consideration.[6] To determine whether an identified and assessed risk is significant, the auditor should evaluate whether the risk requires special audit consideration because of the nature of the risk, or the likelihood and potential magnitude of misstatement related to the risk.[7]

[3] AS 1301.01, Communications with Audit Committees.

[4] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (August 15, 2012).

[7] AS 2110.70.

6. PCAOB auditing standards also require each auditor to determine whether information gathered from risk assessment procedures indicates that one or more fraud risk factors are present. Fraud risk factors are events or conditions that indicate "(1) an incentive or pressure to perpetrate fraud, (2) an opportunity to carry out the fraud, or (3) an attitude or rationalization that justifies fraudulent action."[8] Under PCAOB standards, a fraud risk is a significant risk.[9]

7. In connection with the 2020 Audit, MSPC identified improper revenue recognition and management override of controls as fraud risks and significant risks in its risk assessment procedures. MSPC sent a letter to SFL's audit committee dated November 30, 2020, that contained certain required communications concerning audit planning matters. While certain significant risks were communicated in the audit committee letter, the Firm failed to communicate the significant risks associated with improper revenue recognition and management override of controls.

8. Accordingly, MSPC violated AS 1301.09 in connection with the 2020 Audit.

E. Respondent Failed to Document the Communication of the Names, Locations, and Planned Responsibilities of Other Persons Who Performed Audit Procedures for the 2020 Audit, in Violation of AS 1301.25

9. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[10] The auditor must document those communications in the work papers, whether they took place orally or in writing.[11]

10. In connection with the 2020 Audit, MSPC failed to document in the work papers communications to SFL's audit committee about the name, location, and planned responsibilities of employees from BDO UK, who were not employed by MSPC and performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit. Accordingly, MSPC violated AS 1301.25 in connection with the 2020 Audit.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by AS 1301; and violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Mancera, S.C.,

Respondent.

July 28, 2023

(1) censuring Mancera, S.C. ("EY Mexico," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of an issuer audit client under AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, EY Mexico has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Mancera, S.C. is a civil partnership headquartered in Mexico City, Mexico, and is a member of Ernst & Young Global Limited ("EY Global"). At all relevant times, EY Mexico was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for four issuer clients.

B. Issuer

2. Fomento Economico Mexicano, S.A.B. de C.V. ("FEMSA") is a corporation headquartered in Monterrey, Mexico. Its website discloses that it is a soft drink bottler and convenience store operator in Latin America. At all relevant times, FEMSA was an issuer as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). EY Mexico issued an audit opinion on the FEMSA's consolidated financial statements on April 14, 2021, as of and for the year ended December 31, 2020 (the "2020 Audit").

C. Other Relevant Entities

3. Pistrelli, Henry Martin y Asociados S.R.L. ("EY Argentina") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Argentina was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and was also registered with the Professional Counsel in Economic

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Firm's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

Science of the Province of Buenos Aires (File 196 Vol. I Folio 196). EY Argentina performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit.

4. Ernst & Young Auditores Independentes S.S. ("EY Brazil") is a professional company headquartered in Sao Paulo, Brazil. It is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Brazil was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and was licensed by the Regional Accounting Counsel Sao Paulo State-Conselho Regional de Contabilidade (license no. CRC2SP 015.199/O-6). EY Brazil performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit.

5. EY Servicios Profesionales de Auditoria y Asesorias SpA. ("EY Chile") is a simplified corporation headquartered in Santiago, Chile. It is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Chile was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and was licensed by Superintendencia de Valores y Seguros (license no. 511). EY Chile performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit.

6. Ernst & Young Audit S.A.S. ("EY Colombia") is a simplified joint stock company headquartered in Bogota, Colombia. It is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Colombia was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and was licensed by the Education Minister – Central Accountants Board (license no. TR-530). EY Colombia performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit.

7. Ernst & Young, S.A. ("EY Costa Rica") is a corporation headquartered in San Jose, Costa Rica. It is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Costa Rica was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and was licensed by Colegio de Contadores Publicos de Costa Rica (license no. 500.114). EY Costa Rica performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit.

8. Ernst & Young Ecuador E&Y Cia. Ltda. ("EY Ecuador") is a limited liability company headquartered in Quito, Ecuador. It is a member firm of EY Global. EY Ecuador is not, and never has been, registered with the Board. EY Ecuador performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit.

9. Ernst & Young Nicaragua, S.A. ("EY Nicaragua") is a corporation headquartered in Managua, Nicaragua. It is a member firm of EY Global. EY Nicaragua is not, and never has been, registered with the Board. EY Nicaragua performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit.

10. Ernst & Young Limited Corporation ("EY Panama") is a limited corporation headquartered in Panama City, Panama. It is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Panama was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and was licensed by the Junta Tecnica de Contabilidad (license no. CPA P.J. 188).

EY Panama performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit.

11. Ernst & Young UY S.R.L. ("EY Uruguay") is a limited liability company headquartered in Montevideo, Uruguay. It is a member firm of EY Global. It is not, and never has been, registered with the Board. EY Uruguay performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit.

12. The entities described in paragraphs 3 through 11 are public accounting firms, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii).

D. Respondent Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301

13. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor must communicate with a client's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[3]

14. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[4] or other persons,

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (August 15, 2012).

[4] The term "other independent public accounting firms" includes "firms that perform audit procedures in the current period audit regardless of whether they otherwise have any relationship with the auditor." AS 1301.10d, Note.

who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[5]

15. In connection with the 2020 Audit, EY Mexico failed to inform FEMSA's audit committee of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of the following independent public accounting firms that were not employed by EY Mexico that performed audit procedures in the 2020 Audit: EY Argentina, EY Brazil, EY Chile, EY Colombia, EY Costa Rica, EY Ecuador, EY Nicaragua, EY Panama, and EY Uruguay.

16. Accordingly, EY Mexico violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the 2020 Audit.

IV.

17. EY Mexico has represented to the Board that, since this deficiency was identified by the PCAOB during its 2021 inspection, it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing EY Mexico with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees:

a. EY Mexico has implemented updated audit planning and results guidance for communicating the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms performing audit procedures in an audit; and

b. EY Mexico has communicated this updated guidance to relevant personnel, and has provided relevant training to manager and above assurance personnel.

[5] Id. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

V.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), EY Mexico is required to comply with its audit committee communications policies and procedures, including those intended to provide reasonable assurance that, as part of communicating its overall audit strategy, EY Mexico communicates with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the audit.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of BPM LLP,

Respondent.

July 28, 2023

(1) censuring BPM LLP ("BPM," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules relating to independence in connection with the audit of GigCapital2, Inc. ("GigCapital2").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, BPM has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. BPM LLP is a limited liability partnership formed under California law and headquartered in San Francisco, California. It is licensed with the California Board of Accountancy (license no. 7836). At all relevant times, BPM was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuer

2. GigCapital2, Inc., now known as UpHealth, Inc., was, at all relevant times, an entity incorporated in Delaware and headquartered in Palo Alto, California. It was created for the purpose of effecting a merger, share exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, reorganization, recapitalization or other similar business combination with one or more businesses.[2] At all relevant times, GigCapital2 was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).BPM issued audit reports that GigCapital2 included in its Form 10-Ks filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the years ended December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2020.

C. BPM Failed to Obtain Audit Committee Pre-Approval of Tax Compliance Services, in Violation of Rule 3520 and Rule 3524

3. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[3] That requirement includes an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB and all other independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[4]

4. Rule 3524, Audit Committee Pre-approval of Certain Tax Services, provides that, in connection with seeking audit committee pre-approval to perform for an issuer audit client any permissible tax service, a registered public accounting firm describe, in writing, to the audit committee of the issuer, among other things, the scope of the service, the fee structure of the engagement, and any side letter or other amendment to the engagement letter, or any other agreement between the firm and the audit client relating to the service.

5. Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer…to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's…audit committee."[5]

6. BPM performed audit services for GigCapital2 in connection with that issuer's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2020.

7. At the same time that BPM performed these audits, BPM also performed tax compliance services for GigCapital2.

8. BPM failed to obtain pre-approval from GigCapital2's audit committee to provide tax compliance services.

9. Accordingly, BPM violated Rule 3520 and Rule 3524 by not fulfilling the requirements of Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, and thus was not independent of GigCapital2.

IV.

[5] 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(c)(7).

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006;

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order; and

5. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by PCAOB Rules 3520 and 3524 and Rule 2-01(c)(7) of Commission Regulation S-X; and

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Plante & Moran, PLLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-013

July 28, 2023

(1) censuring Plante & Moran, PLLC ("Plante Moran," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules relating to independence in connection with the audits of GrowGeneration Corp. ("GrowGeneration") and Startek, Inc. ("Startek").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Plante Moran has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Plante & Moran, PLLC is a professional limited liability company formed under Michigan law and headquartered in Southfield, Michigan. It is licensed with the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs (license no. 1102003462). At all relevant times, Plante Moran was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuers

2. GrowGeneration Corp., was, at all relevant times, an entity incorporated in Colorado and headquartered in Denver, Colorado. It operates a chain of hydroponic garden centers and markets products and systems used in hydroponic gardening. At all relevant times, GrowGeneration was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Plante Moran issued an audit report that GrowGeneration included in its Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the year ended December 31, 2020.

3. Startek, Inc., was, at all relevant times, a global business process outsourcing company incorporated in Delaware and headquartered in Greenwood Village, Colorado. At all relevant times, Startek was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Plante Moran issued an audit report that Startek included in its Form 10-KT filed with the Commission for the year ended December 31, 2018.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Plante Moran's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

C. Plante Moran Failed to Obtain Audit Committee Pre-Approval of Services in Violation of Rule 3520 and Rule 3524

4. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons must be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[2] That requirement includes an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB and all other independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[3]

5. Rule 3524, Audit Committee Pre-approval of Certain Tax Services, provides that, in connection with seeking audit committee pre-approval to perform for an issuer audit client any permissible tax service, a registered public accounting firm describe, in writing, to the audit committee of the issuer, among other things, the scope of the service, the fee structure of the engagement, and any side letter or other amendment to the engagement letter, or any other agreement between the firm and the audit client relating to the service.

6. Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer…to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's…audit committee."[4]

i. GrowGeneration

7. Plante Moran audited GrowGeneration's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2020, issuing an audit opinion that the issuer included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission in March 2021.

8. During the time that Plante Moran performed that audit, it also performed additional audit-related services in connection with a Form S-1 filing comfort letter and a Form S-3 filing comfort letter.

9. Plante Moran failed to obtain pre-approval from GrowGeneration's audit committee to provide these additional services.

[4] 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(c)(7).

10. Accordingly, Plante Moran violated Rule 3520 by not fulfilling the requirements of Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, and thus was not independent of GrowGeneration.

ii. Startek

11. Plante Moran audited Startek's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2018, issuing an audit opinion that Startek included in its Form 10-KT filed with the Commission in March 2019.

12. During the time that Plante Moran performed that audit, it also provided tax return preparation services for two Startek employees who were not in a financial reporting oversight role. Startek paid for these services.

13. Plante Moran failed to obtain pre-approval from Startek's audit committee to provide these tax return preparation services.

14. Accordingly, Plante Moran violated Rule 3520 and Rule 3524 by not fulfilling the requirements of Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, and thus was not independent of Startek.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006;

3. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest;

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order; and

5. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by PCAOB Rule 3520, PCAOB Rule 3524, and Rule 2-01(c)(7) of Commission Regulation S-X; and

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its Managing Partner, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

In the Matter of S. R. Snodgrass, P.C.,

Respondent.

July 28, 2023

(1) censuring S. R. Snodgrass, P.C. ("S. R. Snodgrass," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $35,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB independence rules in obtaining pre-approval from issuers' audit committees for audit and non-audit services.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules relating to independence in connection with the audit of Penns Woods Bancorp, Inc. ("Penns Woods").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, S. R. Snodgrass has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. S. R. Snodgrass, P.C. is a corporation formed under Pennsylvania law and headquartered in Cranberry Township, Pennsylvania. It is licensed to practice public accounting in multiple jurisdictions, including with the Pennsylvania Bureau of Professional and Occupational Affairs (license no. AF001478L) and the West Virginia Board of Accountancy (license no. F00728). At all relevant times, S. R. Snodgrass was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuer

2. Penns Woods Bancorp, Inc., was, at all relevant times, a bank holding corporation incorporated under Pennsylvania law and headquartered in Williamsport, Pennsylvania. At all relevant times, Penns Woods was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). S. R. Snodgrass issued an audit report that Penns Woods included in its Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the year ended December 31, 2019.

C. S. R. Snodgrass Failed to Obtain Audit Committee Pre-Approval of Information Technology Consulting Services, in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3520

3. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons must be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[2] That requirement includes an obligation to satisfy the

independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB and all other independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[3]

4. Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer…to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's…audit committee."[4]

5. S.R. Snodgrass issued an audit opinion for Penns Woods concerning the issuer's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2019, which Penns Woods included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission on March 11, 2020.

6. During the time that S. R. Snodgrass performed this audit, the Firm also performed information technology consulting services for Penns Woods.

7. S. R. Snodgrass failed to obtain pre-approval from Penns Woods's audit committee to provide these information technology consulting services.

8. Accordingly, S. R. Snodgrass violated Rule 3520 by not fulfilling the requirements of Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, and thus was not independent of Penns Woods.

IV.

9. S. R. Snodgrass has represented to the Board that, since the events described in this Order, it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB independence rules in obtaining pre-approval from issuers' audit committees for audit and non-audit services:

a. S. R. Snodgrass has revised its policies and procedures to restrict the Firm's ability to create accounts for issuer clients in its billing system until the Firm receives, and Firm personnel log that it has received, an engagement letter approved by the issuer's audit committee;

[4] 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(c)(7).

b. S. R. Snodgrass has revised its policies and procedures to require that any engagement letter for a service, prior to issuance to an issuer client, is signed by the lead audit engagement partner; and

c. S. R. Snodgrass required all Firm assurance partners to attend a training about the requirements of PCAOB Rule 3520 and the above-referenced revised policies and procedures.

V.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $35,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006;

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order; and

5. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required to comply with its revised policies and procedures concerning independence, including those intended to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel comply with PCAOB independence rules in obtaining pre-approval from issuers' audit committees for audit and non-audit services.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of BDO Taiwan,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-015

August 8, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring BDO Taiwan, a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $35,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm filed an Annual Report on Form 2 with the PCAOB that contained inaccurate information, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report.

I.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. BDO Taiwan is a firm located in Taiwan R.O.C. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Filed a Form 2 with the PCAOB Containing Inaccurate Information in Violation of PCAOB Rule 2200

2. PCAOB Rule 2200 requires that registered public accounting firms file annual reports with the Board on Form 2 "following the instructions to that form." The instructions to the Form 2 require firms to identify and provide certain information relating to any issuer audit reports with respect to which the firm played a substantial role during the reporting period. They also require that a firm representative certify that the information contained on the Form 2 is accurate and complete.

3. On June 30, 2021, the Firm filed an Annual Report on Form 2 with the PCAOB for the reporting period April 1, 2020 through March 31, 2021. On that Form 2, the Firm indicated that it had not played a substantial role in the audit of any issuers during the reporting period. However, a Form AP filed by another registered firm indicated that the Firm had, in fact, played a substantial role in the audit of an issuer, China United Insurance Service, Inc., during the reporting period. The Form 2 contained a certification that it did not "contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state a material fact necessary to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which such statements were made, not misleading."

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

The Form 2 also contained a certification that the Firm has not "failed to include in this Form any information or affirmation that is required by the instructions to this form."

4. The Firm's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the Firm's substantial role in the audit of China United Insurance Service, Inc. as being reportable to the PCAOB. As a result, the Firm inappropriately failed to notify the PCAOB of its role in that audit.

5. By filing a Form 2 with the Board that inaccurately stated the Firm had not played a substantial role in the audit of an issuer during the reporting period, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 2200.

6. The PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections notified the Firm of the inaccurate information on the Form 2 on four occasions between August 2021 and October 2021, but the Firm failed to file an amended Form 2 correcting the inaccuracy.

7. On June 7, 2023, after receiving notice of the deficiency from the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations, the Firm filed an amended Form 2 indicating that it played a substantial role with respect to an issuer during the reporting period.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $35,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W.,

Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a).

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 2200, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the actions taken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Jendrach Accounting and Professional Services,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-016

August 8, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Jendrach Accounting and Professional Services, a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm filed an Annual Report on Form 2 with the PCAOB that contained inaccurate information, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report.

I.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Jendrach Accounting and Professional Services is a limited liability corporation located in Greenfield, Wisconsin. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Filed a Form 2 with the PCAOB Containing Inaccurate Information in Violation of PCAOB Rule 2200

2. PCAOB Rule 2200 requires that a registered public accounting firm file annual reports with the Board on a Form 2 "following the instructions to that form." The instructions to the Form 2 require firms to identify and provide certain information relating to any issuer or broker or dealer audit reports issued during the reporting period. They also require that a firm representative certify that the information contained on the Form 2 is accurate and complete.

3. In its 2021 Annual Report, the Firm indicated that it had not issued any audit reports for any broker or dealer during the reporting period. However, SEC filings indicate that the Firm had, in fact, issued an audit report for a broker-dealer, GM Securities, LLC ("GM Securities"), during the reporting period. The Form 2 contained a certification that it "did not contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state a material fact necessary to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which such statements were made, not misleading." The Form 2 also contained a certification that the Firm has not "failed to include in this Form any information or affirmation that is required by the instructions to this form."

4. The PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections emailed the Firm on four occasions between February 2022 and April 2022 in an attempt to resolve this issue but the Firm failed to file an amended Form 2.

5. The Firm's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the Firm's audit of GM Securities as being reportable to the PCAOB. As a result, the Firm inappropriately failed to notify the PCAOB that it issued an audit report for that entity.

6. By filing a Form 2 with the Board that inaccurately stated the Firm had not issued an audit report for a broker or dealer during the reporting period, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 2200.

7. On March 23, 2023, after receiving notices of the deficiencies from the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, the Firm belatedly filed an amended Form 2 indicating that the Firm issued an audit report for the broker-dealer, GM Securities, during the reporting period.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance,

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a).

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 2200, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the actions taken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Moore MSLL Lima Lucchesi Auditores e Contadores Ltda.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-017

August 8, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Moore MSLL Lima Lucchesi Auditores e Contadores Ltda., a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to file a required Form 3 reporting a change in the Firm's legal name, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports.

I.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Moore MSLL Lima Lucchesi Auditores e Contadores Ltda. is a firm located in São Paulo, Brazil. At all relevant times, the Firm remained the same legal entity and was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Failed to File Form 3 in Violation of PCAOB Rule 2203

2. PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, requires that registered public accounting firms file annual reports with the Board on a Form 2 "following the instructions to that form." The instructions to the Form 2 require firms to identify their current legal names and any other names used in audit reports.

3. PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence. One such specified event is if the firm has changed its legal name while otherwise remaining the same legal entity that it was before the name change.[2]

---

[2] Under the PCAOB's reporting framework, a registered firm's name change may be reported on Form 3 only if the firm remains the same legal entity that it was before the name change. If the name change occurs in connection with a more significant change in which the firm, as previously constituted, ceases to exist, the new entity does not automatically succeed to the registration status of the former entity and may not report the event on Form 3 as a name change. Instead, the new legal entity, if it wishes to register with the PCAOB, must file a PCAOB Form 1 or PCAOB Form 4.

4. The Firm's Application for Registration on Form 1 filed with the PCAOB on November 14, 2013, lists the Firm's legal name as Moore Stephens Lima Lucchesi Auditores e Contadores. However, on August 20, 2021, the Firm filed an Annual Report on Form 2 with the PCAOB for the reporting period April 1, 2020 through March 31, 2021 ("2021 Annual Report"), which listed the Firm's legal name as "Moore MSLL Lima Lucchesi Auditores e Contadores." The Firm also filed an Annual Report on Form 2 with the PCAOB on June 27, 2022, for the reporting period April 1, 2021 through March 31, 2022 ("2022 Annual Report"), which listed the Firm's legal name as "Moore MSLL Lima Lucchesi Auditores e Contadores." At no point prior to filing the 2021 Annual Report or 2022 Annual Report did the Firm file a Form 3 with the PCAOB indicating that the Firm's legal name had changed.

5. The PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections ("DRI") emailed the Firm on four occasions between November 2021 and January 2022 in an attempt to resolve this issue but the Firm failed to respond to any of DRI's messages or to file a Form 3 reporting the Firm's change in legal name. Instead, the Firm filed the 2022 Annual Report that included a different legal name than the one specified in the Firm's Application for Registration on Form 1.

6. The Firm belatedly filed a Form 3 on December 21, 2022, reporting the change in its legal name, after receiving notice of the deficiency from the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations. The Firm subsequently filed another Form 3 on January 19, 2023, further updating its legal name to include the suffix, "Ltda." following the previously reported updated legal name of "Moore MSLL Lima Lucchesi Auditores e Contadores."

7. The Firm's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the name change as being reportable to the PCAOB. As a result, the Firm inappropriately failed to notify the PCAOB of the name change.

8. In violation of PCAOB Rule 2203, the Firm failed to file a Form 3 reporting a change in its legal name.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a).

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 2203, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the actions taken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Blue & Co., LLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-018

August 8, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Blue & Co., LLC ("Blue" or "Respondent"), a registered public accounting firm;

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $75,000 on Blue; and

(3) requiring Blue to review and certify its auditor independence policies and procedures.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis that, in connection with six audits of three issuer employee benefit plans over the course of two years, Blue violated applicable auditor independence requirements by failing to comply with partner rotation requirements.

In ordering these sanctions, the Board took into account Blue's extraordinary cooperation in this matter, including self-reporting and remedial actions, as described in more detail below.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Blue & Co., LLC is a limited liability company organized under the laws of Indiana and headquartered in Carmel, Indiana. Blue is licensed to practice public accounting by the Indiana Accountancy Board (License No. FP59400100), among other state boards. Blue is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board, and is a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuers

2. Ashland Employee Savings Plan ("Ashland ESP") is, according to its public filings, a defined contribution plan for certain employees of Ashland Inc., ("Ashland"), a Delaware corporation headquartered in Wilmington, Delaware. At all relevant times, Ashland ESP was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

3. Ashland Union Employee Savings Plan ("Ashland UESP") is, according to its public filings, a defined contribution plan for certain employees of Ashland. At all relevant times, Ashland UESP was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

4. International Specialty Products Inc. 401(k) Plan ("ISP Plan" and, together with Ashland ESP and Ashland UESP, the "Benefit Plans") is, according to its public filings, a defined contribution plan for certain employees of International Specialty Products Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Ashland. At all relevant times, ISP Plan was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Blue's violations of partner rotation requirements. Specifically, Blue allowed the same individual ("Partner A") to serve as the engagement partner during the 2018 and 2019 Ashland ESP, Ashland UESP, and ISP Plan audits immediately after Partner A had served as the engagement quality reviewer or engagement partner during the 2013 through 2017 audits of those same three issuers.

6. After the 2017 audits of the Benefit Plans, Partner A had served in the engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer role for five consecutive years. Accordingly, Partner A's service as engagement partner on the 2018 and 2019 audits of the Benefit Plans impaired Blue's independence under the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's ("Commission") partner rotation rules, which provide that an auditor is not independent if an individual serves as engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer for more than five consecutive years.

7. In addition, Blue violated PCAOB quality control standards by failing to implement and monitor adequate policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that firm personnel would comply with applicable auditor independence requirements.

D. Blue Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

8. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[2] PCAOB rules further require registered public accounting firms to comply with the Board's quality control standards.[3]

i. Blue Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards by Failing to Comply With Partner Rotation Requirements

9. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit clients throughout the audit and

professional engagement period.[4] A registered public accounting firm's or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an issuer audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in Commission rules and regulations.[5]

10. Rule 2-01(c)(6) of the Commission's Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client if any audit partner performs the services of a lead partner (i.e., engagement partner) or engagement quality reviewer for more than five consecutive years.[6]

11. Blue served as each Benefit Plan's auditor for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2013, through December 31, 2019. Following each of its 2013 through 2019 audits of the Benefit Plans, Blue issued an unqualified audit report on each Benefit Plan's financial statements that was included in a Form 11-K filed with the Commission.

12. Partner A served as the engagement quality reviewer for the 2013 and 2014 audits of the Benefit Plans. Partner A then served as the engagement partner for the 2015 through 2019 audits of the Benefit Plans. Thus, the 2018 and 2019 audits of the Benefit Plans represented the sixth and seventh consecutive years, respectively, that Partner A served as the engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer.

13. Because Partner A performed the services of a lead partner or engagement quality reviewer for more than five consecutive years, Blue failed to maintain its independence during the 2018 and 2019 audits of the Benefit Plans in violation of PCAOB Rule 3520 and AS 1005.

ii. Blue Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

14. PCAOB quality control standards provide that each registered public accounting firm should establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that "personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances" and "that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[7]

15. PCAOB quality control standards also provide that policies and procedures for monitoring "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control . . . are suitably designed and are being effectively applied,"[8] and that "its system of quality control is effective."[9]

16. As evidenced by Blue's violations of auditor independence requirements, Blue failed to implement, effectively apply, and appropriately monitor quality control policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would maintain independence in fact and in appearance.

17. Specifically, Blue lacked independence policies or procedures to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would comply with partner rotation requirements. Similarly, Blue lacked monitoring procedures sufficient to identify the failure of its independence policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that firm personnel would comply with partner rotation requirements.

18. These quality control failures contributed to Blue's violations of PCAOB rules and standards related to auditor independence. As a result, Blue violated QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

In ordering sanctions, the Board took into account Respondent's extraordinary cooperation in this matter.[10] First, Blue voluntarily self-reported the matter to PCAOB staff near the beginning of the Board's 2021 inspection of the firm. Second, Blue promptly instituted remedial measures, including: reviewing the staffing on in-progress audits to ensure there were no additional partner rotation violations; creating a new partner rotation tracking sheet that is maintained by the firm's quality control department and used in the partner assignment process; instituting a process to monitor partner rotation and other PCAOB deadlines in a central log maintained by the firm's quality control department; instituting annual meetings with all staff who work on PCAOB audits to discuss rule changes, policy updates, training opportunities, and audit practices; and instituting an annual Advanced Employee Benefit Plan Training for employee benefit plan auditors. Absent Blue's extraordinary cooperation, the civil money penalty imposed would have been significantly larger, and the Board may have imposed additional sanctions.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Blue is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $75,000 is imposed on Blue.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Blue shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the entity or person as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Blue shall pay pursuant to this Order, Blue shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Blue's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Blue based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Blue understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to it at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by Blue. Within 90 days of the date of this Order, Blue shall review and evaluate its quality control or other policies and procedures intended to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with auditor independence requirements applicable to audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.

2. Reporting. Within 120 days of the date of this Order, Blue shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the area specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by Blue or, if Blue concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, Blue shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and Blue's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within 150 days of the date of this Order, Blue's head of quality assurance shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that Blue has implemented all of the modifications and additions to its policies and procedures, if any, that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of Blue's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. Blue shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. Blue understands that a failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Ciro E. Adams, CPA, LLC, and Ciro E. Adams, CPA,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-019

August 8, 2023

(1) censuring Ciro E. Adams, CPA, LLC ("Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, and Ciro E. Adams, CPA ("Adams") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) revoking the Firm's registration;[1]

(3) barring Adams from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[2]

(4) imposing a $40,000 civil money penalty jointly and severally upon the Firm and Adams (collectively, "Respondents"); and

(5) requiring Adams to complete 40 hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license, before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondents violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with four audits of two issuers.

[2] Adams may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Ciro E. Adams, CPA, LLC is a limited liability corporation organized under the laws of the state of Delaware and headquartered in Wilmington, Delaware. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is licensed to practice by the Delaware Board of Accountancy (license no. CF-0000758).

2. Ciro E. Adams, CPA is the Firm's sole partner and owner, and is a certified public accountant licensed by the Delaware Board of Accountancy (license no. CA-0001890). At all relevant times, Adams was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

B. Issuers

3. Professional Diversity Network, Inc. ("PDN") is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Chicago, Illinois. PDN is, and at all relevant times was, an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). According to its public filings, PDN's business focuses on operating professional networks targeting diverse affinity groups.

4. Alpha Investment Inc. ("Alpha") is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Columbus, Ohio. Alpha is, and at all relevant times was, an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). According to its public filings, Alpha's business focuses on issuing loans to borrowers seeking funding to acquire or refinance commercial real estate properties.

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards by the Firm and Adams during the Firm's audits of PDN's financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2019, 2020, and 2021 (the "2019 PDN Audit," "2020 PDN Audit," and "2021 PDN Audit," respectively and, collectively, the "PDN Audits") and its audit of Alpha's financial statements for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020 ("2020 Alpha Audit").

6. The Firm issued audit reports for the PDN Audits and the 2020 Alpha Audit that contained unqualified audit opinions on the companies' financial statements for the relevant periods. Adams served as engagement partner on the 2020 Alpha Audit and each of the PDN Audits, and authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit reports for each of those audits.

7. As detailed below, in performing the PDN Audits and the 2020 Alpha Audit, Respondents failed to (1) exercise due professional care and professional skepticism; (2) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence supporting significant accounts, including accounts designated as a fraud risk or significant risk; and (3) comply with multiple other PCAOB auditing standards.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5] Among other things, PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, and to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[6] While an auditor may use inquiry to obtain information, inquiry alone does not provide sufficient appropriate evidence to support a conclusion about a relevant assertion.[7] When using information produced by the company as audit evidence, the auditor should evaluate whether the information is sufficient and appropriate for purposes of the audit by performing procedures to test the accuracy and completeness of the information, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness of that information.[8] An auditor should also design and implement responses to address any assessed risks of material misstatement.[9]

9. PCAOB standards further require that auditors evaluate whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[10] When evaluating audit results, the auditor is required to conclude on whether sufficient appropriate audit evidence has been obtained to support his or her opinion on the financial statements.[11]

10. As described below, the Firm and Adams violated these and other PCAOB standards in connection with the PDN Audits and the 2020 Alpha Audit.

i. The PDN Audits

a. Revenue Testing

11. The engagement team for each of the PDN Audits identified revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

12. PDN derived a portion of its revenue from annual and monthly membership fees which it processed using a company-developed application.[12] Revenue from monthly memberships was recognized in the same month PDN collected the fees. For annual memberships, PDN recorded deferred revenue when the contract was entered into and subsequently recognized revenue ratably over the contract period. PDN tracked the revenue to be deferred from new and renewed annual contracts, and calculated the amounts to be recognized as revenue each month, in spreadsheets prepared by PDN using reports from the company-developed membership application.

13. During each of the PDN Audits, Respondents performed certain procedures to test monthly and annual membership revenue, which all relied on reports from PDN's membership application and/or the company-prepared spreadsheets. However, Respondents failed to perform procedures to test the accuracy and completeness, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness, of those reports and spreadsheets.[13]

14. PDN derived another portion of its revenue from direct sales related to recruitment services, for which PDN recognized revenue ratably over the lifetime of the applicable contracts and used spreadsheets to track deferred revenue amounts.[14] PDN often entered into contracts to provide multiple recruiting services to the same customer, resulting in multiple revenue streams.

15. For both the 2019 and 2020 PDN Audits, Respondents selected certain direct sales transactions entered into during the year and tested the selected transactions by (1) obtaining the issuer-prepared deferred revenue spreadsheet and recalculating the monthly revenue amounts, and (2) examining the relevant sales orders, invoices, and payments received. For both audits, Respondents failed to evaluate whether PDN's accounting for direct [12] Membership fees constituted 49%, 32%, and 16.5% of PDN's total reported revenue in 2019, 2020, and 2021, respectively.

[14] Direct sales constituted 29% and 40% of PDN's total reported revenue in 2019 and 2020, respectively.

sales revenue was in accordance with U.S. GAAP.[15] For example, Respondents failed to consider PDN's identification of performance obligations, the allocation of the transaction price to each performance obligation, and when PDN satisfied its performance obligations in order to determine that PDN recognized revenue in the proper period.[16]

16. During the 2019 PDN Audit, Respondents selected only direct sales transactions entered into between January 2019 and April 2019 for substantive testing. As a result, Respondents failed to test revenue recognized from any transactions entered into prior to 2019 for which revenue was recognized in the current year or from any transactions that occurred during the last eight months of the year, which totaled 82% of direct sales revenue recognized during the year.[17]

17. During the 2020 PDN Audit, Respondents selected 15 contracts entered into during the year from the deferred revenue schedule for substantive testing. The revenue recognized in 2020 relating to those 15 contracts, however, equaled only 7% of direct sales revenue reported during the year. The sample size was not determined using any reasoned or informed basis. In determining the sample size, Respondents failed to appropriately take into account the factors identified in AS 2315.23.[18] Furthermore, Respondents once again did not test any contracts entered into prior to 2020 for which revenue was recognized during the fiscal year, despite such contracts comprising 51% of the direct sales revenue reported in 2020.[19]

18. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 1105, AS 2810, AS 2315, and AS 2301 by failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence, failing to evaluate whether the financial statements were presented fairly and in conformity with U.S. GAAP, and failing to adequately respond to risks of material misstatement when testing revenue as part of the PDN Audits. As a result, Respondents also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

b. Acquisition Accounting

19. PDN disclosed that, in September 2021, it had acquired a roughly 46% interest in a company called RemoteMore USA, Inc. ("RM") for $1,363,333. PDN also disclosed that it included the results of operations for RM in its consolidated 2021 financial statements at gross amounts on the basis that it had significant influence over RM's operations.

20. PDN accounted for the acquisition as a purchase transaction and, as such, was required to record the identifiable assets acquired and liabilities assumed at fair value.[20] On the date of acquisition, PDN recorded intangible assets of $938,183, goodwill of $935,683, and noncontrolling interest of $510,184. At year-end 2021, the goodwill and intangible assets associated with RM constituted approximately 18% of PDN's total assets. RM's net loss for the period post-acquisition constituted 13% of PDN's net loss from continuing operations for 2021.

21. During the 2021 PDN Audit, Respondents failed to evaluate whether PDN's accounting for the acquisition of RM shares was in accordance with U.S. GAAP.[21] For example, Respondents failed to consider whether it was appropriate for PDN to account for the transaction as a purchase transaction and consolidate RM in its financial statements given PDN's minority ownership interest in RM. Specifically, Respondents failed to test PDN's assertion—on which it based the consolidation of RM—that PDN had significant influence over RM's operations.

22. Respondents also failed to test the valuation and existence of the intangible assets acquired during the RM acquisition, which consisted primarily of amounts recorded for the future value of contracts RM had with six customers. Respondents obtained a schedule prepared by PDN reflecting management's calculation of the fair value of the contracts. However, other than performing inquiries of PDN's management, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to determine whether the intangible assets existed and were properly valued.[22]

[20] See FASB ASC 805, Business Combinations. Purchase transactions are accounted for using the acquisition method of accounting. Under this method, a company must, among other things, recognize and measure the assets acquired and the liabilities assumed, and recognize and measure goodwill.

[22] See AS 1105.17, Note.

23. Finally, PDN disclosed in its 2021 Form 10-K that it tested goodwill for impairment on an annual basis at December 31.[23] PDN also disclosed that RM did not begin operations until just a few months prior to PDN's acquisition of RM's shares, that between the date of the acquisition and year-end 2021 RM incurred a loss before taxes of over $350,000, and that there was substantial doubt about PDN's own ability to continue as a going concern. Despite these factors indicating that the goodwill associated with RM might be impaired, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to test whether that goodwill was properly valued at year-end 2021.

24. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 2810 and AS 1105 by failing to evaluate whether the transaction was recorded in accordance with U.S. GAAP and failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence when testing PDN's accounting associated with the RM acquisition as part of the 2021 PDN Audit. As a result, Respondents also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

ii. The 2020 Alpha Audit

a. Valuation of Notes Receivable

25. At year-end 2020, two notes receivable—with counterparties Partners South Holdings LLC ("Partners South") and Paris Lakes Medical Assets ("Paris Lakes")—along with related accrued interest constituted approximately 99% of Alpha's total assets. Both loans had been originated and funded in prior years. Alpha disclosed that both loans were secured by assets purportedly obtained by the counterparties with the loan proceeds.

26. Respondents tested the existence and valuation of the notes by obtaining copies of the loan agreements, agreeing amounts disbursed in prior years relating to the loans to bank statements, and confirming the outstanding principal and interest as of year-end.

27. However, the procedures performed by Respondents were insufficient to determine whether the notes receivable balances were properly valued at year-end. Although Respondents confirmed the amounts outstanding with the counterparties at year-end, they failed to perform any procedures concerning whether the notes receivable balances were collectible. For example, Respondents failed to assess the counterparties' financial health and their ability to pay the outstanding amounts. Likewise, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to test the existence or valuation of any collateral securing either note. Respondents also failed to obtain or test any impairment analysis performed by Alpha and, to the contrary, concluded a material weakness existed in Alpha's internal controls due to the fact that a supporting analysis was not prepared for estimating the allowance for loan losses and bad debts with respect to loans receivable.

28. The failure to perform sufficient procedures regarding any potential impairment on the Partners South note receivable was particularly acute because (1) Alpha identified Partners South as a related party[24] owned by a former officer and director of Alpha, and (2) Partners South had not made quarterly interest payments or provided its financial statements to Alpha, both of which were required by the agreement between Alpha and Partners South.[25]

29. Similarly, Respondents failed to perform sufficient appropriate audit procedures relating to the valuation of the Paris Lakes note. Respondents included information in the work papers that recognized that the most recent financial statements Alpha received from Paris Lakes were from 2018 and thus were not relevant for the 2020 Alpha Audit. However, Respondents failed to obtain more recent financial information concerning Paris Lakes.

30. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 1105 and AS 2410 by failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence when testing the Partners South and Paris Lakes notes receivable as part of the 2020 Alpha Audit. As a result, Respondents also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

b. Related Party Transactions

31. PCAOB standards require auditors to perform sufficient appropriate audit procedures to determine whether transactions with related parties have been properly identified, accounted for, and disclosed in the financial statements.[26] Respondents were required to obtain an understanding of Alpha management's process for: identifying related parties and relationships and transactions with related parties; authorizing and approving

[24] See FASB ASC 850-50-5, Related Party Disclosures ("Transactions involving related parties cannot be presumed to be carried out on an arm's-length basis, as the requisite conditions of competitive, free-market dealings may not exist.").

[25] See AS 2410.12, Related Parties ("For each related party transaction that is either required to be disclosed in the financial statements or determined to be a significant risk, the auditor should . . . transactions with related parties; and accounting for and disclosing relationships and transactions with related parties in its financial statements.[27]

32. During the 2020 Alpha Audit, Respondents identified related party transactions as a significant risk. Respondents also identified a material weakness relating to segregation of duties to support the identification, authorization, approval, accounting for, and disclosure of related party transactions and significant unusual transactions.

33. Other than performing inquiries of Alpha's CEO about related party transactions—to which he responded there were none, despite Alpha's financial statements disclosing related party transactions—Respondents failed to perform any procedures to obtain an understanding of the company's relationships and transactions with its related parties that might reasonably be expected to affect the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements.[28]

34. Further, during the 2020 Alpha Audit, Respondents became aware of certain information indicating that management did not disclose all related party relationships in its financial statements. While performing substantive procedures, Respondents identified a series of payments recorded as consulting fees made to an entity that Respondents identified in the work papers as Alpha's parent company.[29] These payments, totaling 13.6% of Alpha's reported loss for the year, were not disclosed as related party transactions. Respondents failed to perform any procedures to resolve the inconsistencies in the audit evidence concerning related parties and relationships and transactions with related parties, or to evaluate whether the consulting fee payments were properly disclosed.[30] Respondents also failed to perform procedures to test the accuracy and completeness of the related parties and relationships and transactions with related parties identified by the company, taking into account the information gathered during the audit.[31]

35. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 2410, AS 2805, and AS 1105 by failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence and failing to perform sufficient procedures concerning related party transactions and relationships during the 2020 Alpha Audit. As a result, Respondents also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Ciro E. Adams, CPA, LLC and Ciro E. Adams, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Ciro E. Adams, CPA, LLC is revoked;

C. After two years from the date of this Order, Ciro E. Adams, CPA, LLC may reapply for registration by filing an application pursuant to PCAOB Rules 2101 and 5302(a);

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Ciro E. Adams, CPA is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[32]

E. After two years from the date of this Order, Ciro E. Adams, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 is imposed jointly and severally upon Ciro E. Adams, CPA, LLC and Ciro E. Adams, CPA.

[32] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Adams. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

2. Respondents shall pay the civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Ciro E. Adams, CPA, LLC and Ciro E. Adams, CPA as respondents in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. Respondents understand that their failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon them may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b) or a reapplication for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rules 2101 and 5302(a).

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondents based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Ciro E. Adams, CPA is required to complete, prior to filing any petition to terminate his bar and for Board consent to reassociate with a registered public accounting firm, 40 hours of continuing professional education and training relating to PCAOB auditing standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the continuing professional education he is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of K G Somani & Co. LLP and Anuj Somani,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-020

August 8, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring K G Somani & Co. LLP ("KGS" or the "Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, and Anuj Somani ("Somani" and, together with KGS, "Respondents");

(2) imposing civil money penalties in the amounts of $125,000 on KGS and $50,000 on Somani;

(3) suspending Somani from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm for a period of one year from the date of this Order;

(4) limiting Somani's activities for an additional period of one year following the termination of his suspension; and

(5) requiring KGS to engage an independent consultant to review and make recommendations concerning its system of quality control.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the bases that (1) in connection with an issuer audit, Somani violated PCAOB rules and standards; and (2) KGS violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards.

I.

reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted against Respondents pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1).

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (together, the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents each consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondents

1. K G Somani & Co. LLP is a partnership organized under the laws of India and headquartered in New Delhi, India. The Firm has been registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules since July 23, 2009.

2. Anuj Somani was, at all relevant times, a partner of KGS and an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). He served as the engagement partner for KGS's integrated audit of the financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") of Ebix, Inc. ("Ebix") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

B. Issuer

3. Ebix, Inc. is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Johns Creek, Georgia. According to its public filings, Ebix is a supplier of on-demand infrastructure exchanges to the insurance, financial services, travel, and healthcare industries. At all relevant times, Ebix was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns Somani's violations of PCAOB standards during the 2020 Ebix audit. Specifically, Somani and the KGS engagement team failed to perform all necessary audit procedures prior to releasing KGS's audit opinion on Ebix's ICFR.

5. Instead, after the issuance of the audit opinion, Somani and the engagement team continued to perform audit procedures, ultimately creating dozens of work papers after the audit opinion had been issued and included in a Form 10-K that Ebix filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"). Indeed, the engagement team continued to modify work papers even after the documentation completion date.[3]

6. Based on this conduct, Somani violated PCAOB standards concerning the performance, supervision, and documentation of the audit.

7. In addition, this matter also concerns KGS's violation of PCAOB quality control standards by failing to implement and monitor adequate policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would comply with applicable professional standards with respect to audit performance, supervision, and documentation.

D. Background

8. Ebix engaged KGS as its auditor on March 5, 2021. The 2020 Ebix audit was KGS's first audit under PCAOB standards, and Somani was assigned to serve as the engagement partner.

9. On April 27, 2021, less than two months after being engaged, KGS issued audit reports expressing unqualified opinions on Ebix's 2020 financial statements and ICFR. Those audit reports were included in a Form 10-K that Ebix filed with the Commission on April 27, 2021.

[3] See AS 1215.15, Audit Documentation (defining "documentation completion date" as a date not more than 45 days after an auditor releases an audit report).

10. In the days and weeks following the April 27, 2021 release of KGS's audit reports, the engagement team continued to perform audit procedures, such as obtaining audit evidence from Ebix management, following up on what the team referred to as "pending open items," and completing reviews of the work papers. Much of the engagement team's post-report audit work concerned incomplete ICFR testing.

11. On May 9, 2021, for example, an engagement team member drafted an email listing "pending open items" with respect to controls concerning, among other things, "Year End [Tax] Provision," "[Tax] Reconciliation" and "Fin 48."[4] Five days later, an engagement team member sent KGS's engagement quality reviewer an email with the subject "Data pending . . . for tax," listing various categories of audit evidence that remained outstanding with respect to management's review of controls over tax. At least 11 work papers related to the testing of tax controls were modified after KGS released its ICFR audit report.

12. Similarly, on May 11, 2021, an Ebix employee emailed KGS personnel that "I know that you are awaiting some follow up from Ebix related to [controls] EL#9, EL#11 and EL#12, as well as BA#2."

13. On June 9, 2021, an engagement team member circulated a "SOX [ICFR] Testing Summary" with fields for the "Data Available or not" for various Ebix entities and processes. For several entries, the "Data Available or not" field indicated that data was "Pending."

14. Indeed, as late as June 11, 2021—the documentation completion date—an engagement team member emailed other KGS personnel follow up points with respect to ICFR testing work papers and instructed: "Please ensure the following and confirm once it is complete. Will start my review post that." The engagement team member was told later that day, "You can start your review now."

15. In all, KGS's work paper files for the 2020 Ebix audit include more than 60 work papers for which the metadata indicates they were created after the report release date of April 27, 2021. These work papers related to, inter alia, testing of controls over revenue, accounts receivable, and payroll.

16. Moreover, KGS's work paper files for the 2020 Ebix audit include more than 100 additional work papers that were created or modified after the June 11, 2021 documentation completion date.

17. Even after all of the engagement team's post-audit report and post-documentation completion date modifications to the work papers, numerous work papers were missing preparer and/or reviewer signoffs. And other work papers that contained such signoffs failed to indicate the signoff date.[5]

E. Somani Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

18. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6]

i. Somani Failed to Perform All Necessary Audit Procedures Prior to the Report Release Date

19. PCAOB standards require that "[p]rior to the report release date, the auditor must have completed all necessary auditing procedures and obtained sufficient evidence to support the representations in the auditor's report."[7]

20. As discussed above, following the issuance of KGS's audit reports, Somani and the KGS engagement team continued to create and modify work papers, complete audit procedures, and perform reviews, particularly with respect to audit work concerning Ebix's ICFR.

21. As reflected by the volume of audit work that the engagement team performed after issuing KGS's ICFR opinion, Somani failed to ensure that all necessary audit procedures were completed prior to the release of KGS's ICFR audit report. Accordingly, Somani violated AS 1215.

ii. Somani Failed to Appropriately Document the Audit Work

22. PCAOB standards require that "[a]udit documentation must contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement . . . [t]o determine who performed the work and the date such work was completed as well as the person who reviewed the work and the date of such review."[8] PCAOB standards further require an auditor to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation "as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[9] Any documentation added after the documentation completion date "must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[10]

23. Somani and his engagement team repeatedly failed to document who prepared and reviewed work papers or when they did so; failed to assemble a complete set of audit documentation by the documentation completion date; and, with respect to dozens of work papers modified after the documentation completion date, failed to note the date of and reason for the modifications, or the individuals who made the modifications. Accordingly, Somani violated AS 1215.

iii. Somani Failed to Properly Supervise the Engagement Team

24. PCAOB standards provide that "the engagement partner is responsible for the proper supervision of the work of the engagement team members and for compliance with PCAOB standards."[11] As part of his supervisory responsibilities, the engagement partner should "[r]eview the work of engagement team members to evaluate whether: (1) The work was performed and documented; (2) The objectives of the procedures were achieved; and (3) The results of the work support the conclusions reached."[12]

25. Somani failed to properly review the engagement team's work to ensure that all necessary procedures were performed and documented prior to releasing KGS's audit reports. Accordingly, Somani violated AS 1201.

iv. Somani Failed to Exercise Due Professional Care

26. PCAOB standards provide that "[d]ue professional care is to be exercised in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report."[13]

27. Somani failed to exercise due professional care in violating PCAOB standards by failing to perform all necessary audit procedures prior to the release of KGS's ICFR opinion, failing to appropriately document the Ebix audit work, and failing to adequately supervise the KGS engagement team. Accordingly, Somani also violated AS 1015.

F. KGS Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

28. PCAOB rules require registered public accounting firms to comply with the Board's quality control standards.[14] PCAOB quality control standards, in turn, require each registered firm to effectively design, implement, and maintain a system of quality control to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards.[15] As part of this requirement, the firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[16] Among other areas, a firm's policies and procedures should address the documentation of each engagement in accordance with applicable professional standards.[17]

29. As evidenced by Somani's violations of PCAOB standards concerning the performance and supervision of audit work, KGS lacked adequate policies and procedures to ensure that all necessary audit procedures would be completed prior to the release of its audit report. The Firm also lacked adequate policies and procedures to ensure that its personnel would comply with PCAOB supervision and documentation standards.

30. PCAOB quality control standards also provide that policies and procedures for monitoring "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control . . . are suitably designed and are being effectively applied,"[18] and that "its system of quality control is effective."[19] "Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of the . . . [r]elevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures."[20]

31. KGS failed to establish monitoring procedures that would have identified that its quality control policies and procedures relating to engagement performance were not sufficiently relevant or adequate to ensure compliance with PCAOB standards. For example, KGS's monitoring procedures were not sufficient to alert the firm that its policies and procedures failed to prevent the performance of audit procedures and creation of work papers after the report release date, a lack of documentation showing who prepared or reviewed work papers and when they did so, or work paper modifications after the documentation completion date.

32. Accordingly, KGS violated QC § 20 and QC § 30 by failing to implement and monitor adequate policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel would comply with PCAOB standards concerning the performance, supervision, and documentation of audit work.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), K G Somani & Co. LLP and Anuj Somani are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Anuj Somani is suspended, for one year from the date of this Order, from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[21]

21 As a consequence of the suspension, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Somani. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for a period of one year following the suspension ordered in Paragraph IV.B above, Anuj Somani's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Anuj Somani shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "lead partner," "practitioner-in-charge," or "concurring partner"); (4) exercise authority, or supervise the work of another person exercising authority, either to sign a registered public accounting firm's name to an audit report, or to consent to the use of a previously issued audit report, for any issuer, broker, or dealer; or (5) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as the "other auditor," or "another auditor," as those terms are used in AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $125,000 is imposed on K G Somani & Co. LLP, and a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 is imposed on Anuj Somani.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Each Respondent shall pay the respective civil money penalty as follows: K G Somani & Co. LLP shall pay $75,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order and an additional $50,000 within 365 days of the issuance of this Order; and Anuj Somani shall pay $25,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order and an additional $25,000 within 365 days of the issuance of this Order. Respondents shall make each payment by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting

Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondents based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. K G Somani & Co. LLP understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to it at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

E. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(C), (F), and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(3), (6), (8), and (9), the Board orders that:

1. Independent Consultant.

a. K G Somani & Co. LLP shall retain and pay for an independent consultant not unacceptable to the PCAOB staff who has experience with, and is knowledgeable concerning, PCAOB auditing and quality control standards ("Independent Consultant"). Within 60 days after the entry of this Order, K G Somani & Co. LLP shall submit to the PCAOB staff a proposal setting forth the identity, qualifications, and proposed terms of retention of the Independent Consultant. K G Somani & Co. LLP may not retain as the Independent Consultant any individual or entity that has provided legal, auditing, or other services to, or has had any affiliation with, K G Somani & Co. LLP during the two years prior to the date of this Order.

b. To ensure the independence of the Independent Consultant, K G Somani & Co. LLP: (i) shall not have the authority to terminate the Independent Consultant or substitute another independent consultant for the initial Independent Consultant, without the prior written approval of the PCAOB staff; and (ii) shall compensate the Independent Consultant and persons engaged to assist the Independent Consultant for services rendered pursuant to this Order at their reasonable and customary rates.

c. K G Somani & Co. LLP will enter into an agreement with the Independent Consultant that provides that, for the period of the engagement and for a period of two years from completion of the engagement, the Independent Consultant shall not enter into any employment, consultant, attorney-client, auditing, or other professional relationship with K G Somani & Co. LLP or any of its present or former affiliates, directors, officers, employees, or agents acting in their capacity as such. The agreement also will provide that the Independent Consultant will require that any firm with which the Independent Consultant is affiliated or of which the Independent Consultant is a member, and any person engaged to assist the Independent Consultant in performance of the Independent Consultant's duties under this Order, shall not, without prior written consent of the PCAOB staff, enter into any employment, consultant, attorney-client, auditing, or other professional relationship with K G Somani & Co. LLP or any of its present or former affiliates, directors, officers, employees, or agents acting in their capacity as such, for the period of the engagement and for a period of two years after the engagement.

d. K G Somani & Co. LLP shall cooperate fully with the Independent Consultant and shall provide reasonable access to its personnel, information, and records as the Independent Consultant may reasonably request for the Independent Consultant's review,

e. If K G Somani & Co. LLP, despite its best, good-faith efforts, is unable to identify an Independent Consultant candidate that meets all of the above-listed criteria, K G Somani & Co. LLP may seek approval from the PCAOB staff of alternative candidates or alternative terms that K G Somani & Co. LLP believes to be otherwise suitable.

2. Areas Independent Consultant Is To Review. Within the periods specified in Paragraph IV.E.3 below, the Independent Consultant will review and evaluate the following:

a. K G Somani & Co. LLP's quality control policies and procedures as they relate to assurance that its personnel comply with applicable PCAOB standards;

b. The resources K G Somani & Co. LLP is devoting to provide reasonable assurance of its personnel's compliance with PCAOB standards, including the expertise, experience, and staffing of K G Somani & Co. LLP's quality control personnel; and

c. K G Somani & Co. LLP's professional education and training policies and materials relating to compliance with PCAOB standards.

3. Independent Consultant Reports and Certifications.

a. Within 90 days of the Independent Consultant being retained, K G Somani & Co. LLP shall require the Independent Consultant to issue a detailed written report ("Report") to K G Somani & Co. LLP: (i) summarizing the Independent Consultant's review and evaluation of the areas identified in Paragraph IV.E.2 above, and (ii) making recommendations, where appropriate, reasonably designed to ensure that K G Somani & Co. LLP's system of quality control provides reasonable assurance of its personnel's compliance with applicable PCAOB standards. K G Somani & Co. LLP shall require the Independent Consultant to provide a copy of the Report to the PCAOB staff when the Report is issued.

b. K G Somani & Co. LLP will adopt, as soon as practicable, all recommendations of the Independent Consultant in the Report; provided, however, that within 30 days of the issuance of the Report, K G Somani & Co. LLP may advise the Independent Consultant and the PCAOB staff in writing of any recommendation that it considers to be unnecessary, unduly burdensome, or impractical. K G Somani & Co. LLP need not adopt any such recommendation at that time, but instead may propose in writing to the Independent Consultant and the PCAOB staff an alternative proposal designed to achieve the same objective or purpose. K G Somani & Co. LLP and the Independent Consultant will engage in good faith negotiations in an effort to reach agreement on any recommendations objected to by K G Somani & Co. LLP.

c. In the event that the Independent Consultant and K G Somani & Co. LLP are unable to agree on an alternative proposal within forty-five days, K G Somani & Co. LLP either will abide by the determinations of the Independent Consultant or will seek approval from the PCAOB staff to engage, at K G Somani & Co. LLP's expense, a qualified third party not unacceptable to the PCAOB staff to promptly resolve the issue(s).

d. Within 60 days of the issuance of the Report and the resolution of any issues that are the subject of disagreement between K G Somani & Co. LLP and the Independent Consultant, K G Somani & Co. LLP will certify to the PCAOB staff in writing that it has adopted and has implemented or will implement all recommendations of the Independent Consultant ("Certification of Compliance"). K G Somani & Co. LLP will provide a copy of the Certification of Compliance to the PCAOB staff.

e. Within 120 days of the issuance of the Report, K G Somani & Co. LLP shall require the Independent Consultant to test whether K G Somani & Co. LLP has implemented and enforced the Independent Consultant's recommendations and to assess the effectiveness of those implemented recommendations. K G Somani & Co. LLP shall require the Independent Consultant to issue a written final report summarizing the results of the Independent Consultant's test and assessment ("Final Report") and to provide a copy of the Final Report to the PCAOB staff. At this time, if the Independent Consultant determines that the undertakings discussed herein have been completed to the satisfaction of the Independent Consultant, K G Somani & Co. LLP shall require the Independent Consultant to certify in writing that the undertakings have been so completed ("Independent Consultant Certification") and to provide a copy of this certification to the PCAOB staff.

f. The Report, Final Report, Certification of Compliance, and Independent Consultant Certification shall be submitted to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations.

g. For good cause shown, the PCAOB staff may extend any of the procedural dates relating to these undertakings. Deadlines for procedural dates shall be counted in calendar days, except that if the last day falls on a weekend or federal holiday, the next business day shall be considered to be the last day.

h. K G Somani & Co. LLP agrees that the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may petition the Board to reopen this matter to determine whether additional sanctions or findings are appropriate if it believes that K G Somani & Co. LLP has not satisfied any provision in Section IV of this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of RAM Associates & Company LLC and Parameswara K. Ramachandran,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-021

August 8, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring RAM Associates & Company LLC ("RAM" or "Firm") and Parameswara K. Ramachandran ("Ramachandran") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) revoking the Firm's registration;[1]

(3) barring Ramachandran from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[2]

(4) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $150,000, jointly and severally, on the Firm and Ramachandran; and

(5) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions concerning quality control directed toward satisfying requirements applicable to audits and reviews of issuers before filing, and to provide evidence of such measures with, any future registration application.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of the financial statements of an issuer client; (b) the Firm violated PCAOB standards concerning engagement quality reviews in connection with two audits of an issuer; (c) the Firm failed to timely file required Form APs, in [1] RAM may reapply for registration after two years from the date of this Order.

[2] Ramachandran may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; (d) the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards; and (e) Ramachandran substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and quality control standards.[3]

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted Offers of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[4]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[5]

---

[3] All references to PCAOB rules and standards in this Order are to the versions of those rules and standards, and to their organization and numbering, in effect at the time of the audits and reviews discussed herein.

[4] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[5] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

A. Respondents

1. RAM Associates & Company LLC is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey and headquartered in Hamilton, New Jersey. The Firm is licensed by the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs (license no. 20CB00489700). The Firm was, at all relevant times, registered with the PCAOB pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

2. Parameswara K. Ramachandran is the owner and managing partner of the Firm and a certified public accountant licensed by the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs (license no. 20CC01148500). At all relevant times, he was the sole partner of the Firm and served as the engagement partner on issuer audits. Ramachandran is, and at all relevant times was, an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). He was the engagement partner for each of the relevant audits discussed below.

B. Issuers

3. Ameri Holdings Inc. (n/k/a Enveric Biosciences, Inc.) ("Ameri") was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in Suwanee, Georgia. Ameri's public filings disclose that it was engaged in delivering cloud, digital, and enterprise services. Ameri was an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), at the time the Firm audited its financial statements for fiscal years 2018 through 2019.

4. TripBorn, Inc. ("TripBorn") was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in Gujarat, India. TripBorn's public filings disclose that it was an online travel agency. TripBorn was an issuer, as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), at the time the Firm audited its financial statements for fiscal year 2018.

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of Ameri for the years ended December 31, 2018, and December 31, 2019. Respondents failed to: (1) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in auditing the valuation of Ameri's goodwill and using the work of a specialist retained by Ameri; (2) timely assemble for retention a complete and final set of audit documentation; (3) communicate all required matters to Ameri's audit committee; and (4) obtain audit committee preapproval for tax services.

6. In addition, the Firm violated PCAOB standards related to engagement quality reviews and, with regard to audits of both TripBorn and Ameri, PCAOB rules concerning filing Form APs.

7. The Firm also violated quality control standards because the Firm failed to establish an appropriate system of quality control to provide it with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality. The Firm also failed to establish policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide it with reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was suitably designed and being effectively applied.

8. Finally, Ramachandran violated PCAOB rules by directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules, auditing standards, and quality control standards.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Performing the 2018 and 2019 Ameri Audits

9. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[7] Among other things, PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report, exercise professional skepticism, and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[8]

10. As relevant here, the Firm issued three audit reports containing an unqualified audit opinion on Ameri's financial statements: (1) an audit report dated March 25, 2019 concerning financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2018 ("2018 Ameri Audit"); (2) an audit report dated March 25, 2020 concerning financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2019 ("2019 Ameri Audit"); and (3) an audit report concerning Ameri's restated 2019 financial statements with a dual date of August 11, 2020 ("2019 Ameri Restatement Audit"), filed in an amended Form 10-K/A filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"). Ramachandran served as the engagement partner and authorized the issuance of these audit reports.

11. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards.

i. Respondents Failed to Perform Goodwill Valuation Testing in the 2018 and 2019 Ameri Audits

12. Ameri reported total assets of $29.6 million and $25.3 million as of December 31, 2018 and 2019, respectively, of which approximately $13.7 million consisted of goodwill in both years. Ameri's goodwill arose from business combinations in prior years.

13. Ameri recorded a goodwill impairment charge of $8.2 million or approximately 78% of the pre-tax loss for the year ended December 31, 2018. Ameri concluded that its goodwill was not impaired as of and for the year ended December 31, 2019.

14. Respondents identified the valuation of goodwill as a significant risk and a critical accounting estimate in the 2018 and 2019 Ameri Audits.

15. PCAOB standards require the auditor to evaluate the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management in the context of the financial statements taken as a whole.[9] The auditor's objective when evaluating accounting estimates is to obtain sufficient appropriate evidential matter to provide reasonable assurance that all accounting estimates that could be material to the financial statements have been developed, those estimates are reasonable in the circumstances, and the accounting estimates are presented in conformity with applicable accounting principles and are properly disclosed.[10]

16. To determine whether goodwill is properly valued, it should be tested for impairment at least annually, and whenever there is an indication that it may be impaired.[11]

11 See ASC 350, Intangibles – Goodwill and Other.

Impairment is the condition that exists when the carrying amount of goodwill on a company's books exceeds its fair value. If the testing results in an impairment, the carrying amount of the goodwill must be reduced by the amount of the impairment.

17. Respondents understood that Ameri relied on a valuation report prepared by a third-party specialist to determine whether goodwill was impaired and to estimate the impairment loss, if any, in 2018 and 2019. The valuation analysis prepared by the specialist relied on data and assumptions provided by Ameri, namely future income statement projections, without the specialist performing any procedures to evaluate the reasonableness of this information.

18. In evaluating the reasonableness of an accounting estimate, PCAOB standards require the auditor to obtain an understanding of how management developed the estimate. Based on that understanding, the auditor should use one or a combination of the following approaches: (a) review and test the process used by management to develop the estimate; (b) develop an independent expectation of the estimate to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate; and (c) review subsequent events or transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report.[12]

19. PCAOB standards further require that when using the work of a specialist, auditors should evaluate the professional qualifications of the specialist and obtain an understanding of the nature of the work performed or to be performed.[13] Additionally, auditors should: "(a) obtain an understanding of the methods and assumptions used by the specialist; (b) make appropriate tests of data provided to the specialist; and (c) evaluate whether the specialist's findings support the related assertions in the financial statements."[14]

20. Respondents used the valuation report of the specialist engaged by Ameri as evidential matter to evaluate whether goodwill was properly valued in both the 2018 and 2019 audits, but failed to perform procedures required by PCAOB standards. They understood that Ameri used certain projected amounts—such as projected revenue growth rate and projected growth margins—as key assumptions in formulating the income statement projections on which it based its impairment analysis. Respondents, however, failed to perform procedures to evaluate those assumptions or otherwise test the process for generating those projected amounts. Nor did they develop an independent expectation of the projected income statements or review subsequent events or transactions to evaluate their reasonableness.

21. Moreover, Respondents failed to evaluate the professional qualifications of the third-party specialist or to perform any procedures to understand the work performed or the methods and assumptions used by the third-party specialist in determining the fair value of Ameri's goodwill, and failed to test the data provided by management, including five years of income statement projections.

22. Accordingly, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to test the goodwill estimate, in violation of AS 2501, and failed to determine whether the work of the specialist was suitable for the auditor's purposes and supported the auditor's conclusion in the goodwill valuation testing, in violation of AS 1210.

ii. Respondents Violated AS 1215 by Failing to Timely Assemble a Complete and Final Set of Audit Documentation for Two Audits

23. PCAOB standards require that "the auditor must prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB."[15] PCAOB standards further require that "a complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[16]

24. The Firm issued an initial audit report for the 2019 Ameri Audit financial statements on March 25, 2020. Therefore, its documentation completion date was on or about May 9, 2020. The Firm issued an audit report for the 2019 Ameri restated financial statements on March 25, 2020, except as to note 17 in the financial statements (related to operating lease assets and liabilities), which was dated as of August 11, 2020. Thus, the documentation completion date for the 2019 Ameri Restatement Audit was on or about September 25, 2020.

25. Respondents did not finish assembling for retention the audit documentation for the 2019 Ameri Audit and the 2019 Ameri Restatement Audit until March 2021, after the documentation completion dates for both audits. As a result, Respondents violated AS 1215.

iii. Respondents Failed to Communicate All Required Matters to Audit Committee

26. PCAOB standards require the auditor to communicate certain matters related to the conduct of an audit to the issuer's audit committee.[17] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment procedures.[18] The auditor should establish an understanding of the terms of the audit engagement with the audit committee.[19] The auditor should also communicate to the audit committee the results of the auditor's evaluation of whether the presentation of the financial statements and the related disclosures are in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[20]

27. In connection with the 2018 and 2019 Ameri Audits, Respondents issued letters to Ameri's audit committee dated March 25, 2019, January 28, 2020, and March 24, 2020. Despite issuing those letters, Respondents failed to address certain required communications.

28. In connection with the 2018 Ameri Audit, Respondents did not establish an understanding of the terms of the audit engagement with the audit committee, did not communicate with the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, or discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the engagement team's risk assessment procedures prior to the issuance of the audit report.

29. In connection with the 2019 Ameri Audit, Respondents communicated to the audit committee some, but not all, of the significant risks identified during the engagement team's risk assessment procedures. In addition, Respondents did not communicate to the audit committee the results of the audit of the restated financial statements.

30. As a result, Respondents violated AS 1301.

iv. Respondents Failed to Obtain Audit Committee Pre-Approval of Tax Compliance Services in Violation of Rules 3520, 3524, and 3526

31. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[21] That requirement includes an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB and all other independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[22]

32. Rule 3524, Audit Committee Pre-approval of Certain Tax Services, provides that, in connection with seeking audit committee pre-approval to perform any permissible tax service for an issuer audit client, a registered public accounting firm shall describe, in writing, to the audit committee of the issuer, among other things, the scope of the service, the fee structure of the engagement, and any side letter or other amendment to the engagement letter, or any other agreement between the firm and the audit client relating to the service.

33. Rule 3526, Communication with Audit Committees Concerning Independence, provides that a registered firm must, at least annually for each audit client, describe in writing to the audit committee of an audit client certain relationships that may reasonably be thought to bear on independence.

34. Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer . . . to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's . . . audit committee."[23]

35. At the same time that the Firm performed the 2018 Ameri Audit, it prepared federal and state tax returns for Ameri.

36. Respondents failed, however, to obtain pre-approval from Ameri's audit committee for the Firm to provide these tax compliance services while Respondents performed the 2018 Ameri Audit.

37. Accordingly, Respondents violated PCAOB Rules 3520 and 3524 by not fulfilling the requirements of Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, and thus was not independent of Ameri.

38. Moreover, with respect to the 2018 Ameri Audit, Respondents did not make any communication in writing to Ameri's audit committee about all relationships between the Firm and Ameri that may reasonably be thought to bear on independence.

39. Accordingly, Respondents violated PCAOB Rule 3526.

E. The Firm Violated PCAOB Standards Relating to Engagement Quality Reviews

40. PCAOB standards require that an engagement quality review be performed on all audits.[24] A firm may grant permission to a client to use an engagement report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance.[25] An engagement quality reviewer from the firm that issues the engagement report must be a partner or another individual in an equivalent position.[26]

41. Documentation of an engagement quality review should contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the procedures performed by the engagement quality reviewer, including information that identifies the date the engagement quality reviewer provided concurring approval of issuance, or if no concurring approval of issuance was provided, the reasons for not providing the approval.[27]

42. The Firm's work papers for the 2018 Ameri Audit neither identify, nor include a sign-off of, an individual serving as an engagement quality reviewer. The audit documentation failed to contain sufficient information to identify all the documents reviewed by, or otherwise to understand all the procedures performed by, any engagement quality reviewer.[28]

43. The Firm assigned a senior manager, not an individual who was a partner or an individual in an equivalent position, as the engagement quality reviewer for the 2019 Ameri Audit, in violation of AS 1220.03.

44. Moreover, the Firm failed to obtain an engagement quality review in relation to its audit of the 2019 restated financial statements of Ameri. As a result, the Firm improperly reissued its audit report for the 2019 restated financial statements without obtaining a concurring approval of issuance from an engagement quality reviewer.[29]

45. For these reasons, the Firm violated AS 1220 in connection with the 2018 Ameri Audit and 2019 Ameri Restatement Audit.

F. The Firm Violated the Form AP Filing Rule

46. PCAOB Rule 3211 requires registered public accounting firms to provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participated in the audits of issuers by filing a Form AP for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.

47. A Form AP is due to be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission or, in the case of a registration statement, 10 days after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission.[30] In the event of any change to an audit report, including any change in the dating of the report, the firm must file a new Form AP the first time the revised audit report is included in a document filed with the Commission.[31]

48. The Firm failed to timely file three Form APs related to the audits of TripBorn with the PCAOB. Ramachandran served as engagement partner and authorized the issuance of each of these audit reports.

28 See id.

29 See AS 1220.13.

31 PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Note 2.

49. The Firm issued an audit report dated June 29, 2018, containing an unqualified audit opinion on TripBorn's financial statements for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2018. The Firm belatedly filed the related Form AP on August 20, 2018.

50. The Firm reissued that audit report with a dual date of July 10, 2019 when TripBorn's 2018 financial statements were restated and filed in an amended Form 10-K/A with the Commission. The Firm again reissued that audit report with a dual date of September 9, 2019 when TripBorn's 2018 financial statements were restated yet again in September 2019. The Firm belatedly filed the Form APs on March 30, 2023 in connection with these two reissuances of its 2018 audit report, long after the 35-day deadline for each of those audit reports had passed and only after receiving notice of the deficiencies from the Division of Enforcement and Investigations.

51. The Firm also failed to timely file two Form APs related to audits of Ameri.

52. The Firm's audit report for the 2018 Ameri Audit was first included in a document filed with the Commission on March 26, 2019. Accordingly, the Firm was required to file a Form AP by April 30, 2019. However, the Firm did not file a Form AP until June 28, 2019.

53. The Firm's dual-dated audit report for the 2019 Ameri Restatement Audit was first included in a Form 10-K/A filed with the Commission on August 12, 2020. The Firm did not file the related Form AP until April 26, 2021, more than 7 months after the due date of September 16, 2020, and only after receiving notice of the deficiencies from the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections.

54. The Firm's repeated failures to timely file Form APs violated Rule 3211.

G. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

55. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[32] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[33] A firm's system of quality control provides a critical foundation and infrastructure for a firm's audit quality as it should "ensure that services are competently delivered and adequately supervised."[34] The quality control system should include policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[35]

56. As described below, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

i. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Engagement Quality Reviews

57. PCAOB quality control standards require that a firm's system of quality control include policies and procedures that address engagement quality reviews pursuant to AS 1220.[36]

58. Throughout the relevant period, the Firm lacked sufficient policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards with regard to its engagement quality reviews. Specifically, the Firm's policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that each issuer audit would be subject to an engagement quality review, that such a review would be documented, that the engagement quality reviewer would document his or her concurring approval of issuance, and that the engagement quality reviewer, if from the Firm, would be a partner or another individual in an equivalent position, as required by AS 1220.

59. Indeed, the Firm was aware that it had not complied with AS 1220 with respect to the 2018 Ameri Audit, but later failed to have an engagement quality review of the 2019 Ameri Restatement Audit.

60. Accordingly, the Firm violated QC §§ 20.17. and .18.

34 QC § 20.02.

35 QC § 20.17.

36 QC § 20.18.

ii. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Assembly of Audit Documentation for Retention

61. A firm's quality control policies and procedures should also address the documentation of each engagement in accordance with applicable professional standards.[37] As noted above, AS 1215 requires that auditors assemble for retention a complete and final set of audit documentation not more than 45 days after the report release.[38]

62. At all relevant times, the Firm failed to maintain effective policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 1215's requirements regarding audit documentation. Rather, the Firm had a policy requiring that audit documentation be assembled for retention not more than 60 days after the report release date, which was inconsistent with AS 1215.

63. Accordingly, the Firm violated QC §§ 20.17 and .18.

iii. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Monitoring

64. PCAOB quality control standards also provide that policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was suitably designed and being effectively applied.[39]

65. PCAOB quality control standards further provide that one required element of a quality control system is monitoring.[40] Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of: (a) the relevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures; (b) the appropriateness of the firm's guidance materials and any practice aids; (c) the effectiveness of professional development activities; and (d) compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[41] Monitoring procedures taken as a whole should enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective.[42]

66. To satisfy its monitoring obligations, the Firm's policies required that the Firm perform internal inspections. However, as of April 15, 2021, the Firm had not performed an inspection of completed audit files since it had completed one for engagements for the year ended December 31, 2015. In fact, despite being on notice of the failure to have monitoring procedures in place from the PCAOB Division of Registration and Inspections, the Firm did not perform any inspections of issuer audit engagements in the subsequent two years, and a peer review conducted in 2019 excluded the Firm's issuer audit practice.

67. As a result, over the course of at least six years, the Firm failed to perform an internal inspection to assess whether the work performed by its engagement personnel on issuer audits met the applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality.

68. Despite its knowledge of these quality control and engagement-level deficiencies, the Firm repeatedly failed to follow the monitoring requirements set forth in its policies in violation of QC § 30.02. Therefore, the Firm did not undertake monitoring procedures to enable the Firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was effective in violation of QC §§ 20 and 30.

H. Ramachandran Directly and Substantially Contributed to the Firm's Violations

69. PCAOB Rule 3502 states that "[a] person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."

70. Ramachandran was the Firm's owner, sole partner, and managing partner for all relevant periods. Accordingly, Ramachandran was responsible for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. He was also principally responsible for developing and maintaining quality control policies and procedures applicable to the Firm's auditing practice. He was on notice of the deficiencies in the Firm's system of quality control discussed above, and was in a position to remediate those deficiencies. In addition, Ramachandran served as the engagement partner for the audits of Ameri and TripBorn discussed above.

42 QC § 30.03.

71. Ramachandran knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations described above. As a result, Ramachandran violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), RAM and Ramachandran are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of RAM is revoked;

C. After two years from the date of this Order, RAM may reapply for registration by filing an application for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Ramachandran is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[43]

[43] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Ramachandran. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

E. After two years from the date of this Order, Ramachandran may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b);

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), the Board imposes a civil money penalty in the amount of $150,000, jointly and severally, on RAM and Ramachandran;

2. Respondents shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Respondents as respondents in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against either Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. By consenting to this Order, RAM acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any reapplication for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

6. By consenting to this Order, Ramachandran acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(c).

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Before filing with the Board any future registration application, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that: (a) Firm personnel will document each engagement, including documentation of the engagement quality reviewer's concurring approval of issuance, in accordance with applicable professional standards; (b) the Firm will properly archive audits in accordance with professional standards, and properly document any changes to the audit documentation after the documentation completion date; (c) the Firm will timely comply with PCAOB rules concerning the reporting of certain audit participants; and (d) the Firm has established monitoring procedures sufficient to enable it to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is suitably designed and being effectively applied.

2. To provide with any future registration application a written certification of compliance with the above requirements, in the form of a narrative, exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance, and such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Registration and Inspections may reasonably request.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Warren Averett, LLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-022

August 29, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Warren Averett, LLC ("Warren Averett" or "Respondent"), a registered public accounting firm;

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $200,000 on Warren Averett;

(3) requiring Warren Averett to review and certify its auditor independence policies and procedures.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis that, in connection with two audits of an issuer audit client, Warren Averett violated applicable auditor independence requirements when it audited work performed for the issuer by another accounting firm that sponsored an accounting alliance of which Warren Averett was a member.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Warren Averett, LLC is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the state of Alabama and headquartered in Birmingham, Alabama. Warren Averett is licensed to practice public accounting by the Alabama State Board of Public Accountancy (Firm No. F2171), among other state boards. Warren Averett is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board, and is a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuer

2. CytoDyn Inc. ("CytoDyn") is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Vancouver, Washington. According to its public filings, CytoDyn is a clinical-stage biotechnology company focused on developing medical treatments. At all relevant times, CytoDyn was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

3. This matter concerns Warren Averett's violations of auditor independence requirements during the fiscal year 2019 and 2020 CytoDyn audits.

4. Warren Averett is a member of BDO Alliance USA (the "BDO Alliance"), an association of accounting firms that is a wholly-owned subsidiary of BDO USA, LLP ("BDO"). As a member of the BDO Alliance, Warren Averett touted its association with BDO and the quality denoted by the BDO brand name.

5. During the 2019 fiscal year, BDO performed certain purchase price allocation valuation services for CytoDyn with respect to acquired intangible assets. During the 2020 fiscal year, BDO performed certain derivative valuation services for CytoDyn. Warren Averett audited the BDO valuation work as part of its 2019 and 2020 audits of CytoDyn.

6. CytoDyn had an interest in the accuracy of its financial statements, including with respect to the valuation work performed by BDO. Warren Averett likewise had an interest in the quality of BDO's valuation work because Warren Averett marketed itself based on its association with the BDO Alliance and the quality denoted by the BDO brand name. Based on this mutual interest, a reasonable, knowledgeable investor would conclude that Warren Averett was not capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment in auditing BDO's valuation work.

7. Accordingly, Warren Averett violated PCAOB rules and standards requiring an auditor to maintain independence from its audit client. In addition, Warren Averett violated PCAOB quality control standards by failing to implement quality control policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that the independence implications of its BDO Alliance membership would be given appropriate consideration.

D. Background

i. Warren Averett's Membership in the BDO Alliance

8. Warren Averett became a member of the BDO Alliance in 2015. The terms of Warren Averett's BDO Alliance membership were governed by a written agreement (the "Alliance Agreement") and the BDO Alliance USA Policies and Procedures Manual ("Alliance Manual").

9. In return for paying an annual "license fee," Warren Averett received a number of BDO Alliance membership benefits, including the right to use the BDO Alliance brand name and logo "[s]o that [member] firms may fully benefit from BDO USA's domestic presence" and so that "clients and business contacts . . . know that they have access to these resources." Warren Averett also received the right to distribute and co-brand BDO marketing materials, and access to certain other BDO resources.

10. In accordance with these provisions, Warren Averett used its connection to BDO and the BDO Alliance to market itself. For example, a Warren Averett brochure touted: "As an independent member of the BDO Alliance USA, we are able to further enhance our client services and broaden capabilities overall . . . . BDO Alliance USA membership offers Warren Averett access to the resources of BDO USA, LLP, one of the nation's leading professional services firms."

11. Another marketing brochure advertised that Warren Averett "offers clients the unique resources of both an international and regional firm by utilizing the combined, vast resources made possible by our membership in the BDO Alliance USA."

12. In addition, Warren Averett re-branded certain BDO marketing publications under Warren Averett's own name and published other BDO marketing materials with both BDO and Warren Averett branding.

13. For example, Warren Averett posted on its website numerous articles authored by BDO personnel. At the conclusion of each such article, Warren Averett included a note that "Warren Averett is an independent member of the BDO Alliance USA. This article was borrowed with permission from BDO USA, LLP."

14. Warren Averett also included the BDO Alliance logo on its business cards.

ii. The 2019 and 2020 CytoDyn Audits

15. In November 2018, during CytoDyn's 2019 fiscal year, CytoDyn acquired certain assets, including an algorithm and other intangible assets, from another biotechnology company. CytoDyn engaged BDO to perform a valuation of the acquired intangible assets. As part of its 2019 audit of CytoDyn, Warren Averett performed audit procedures over BDO's valuation by evaluating the methods and assumptions used and concluding that the valuation was reasonable.

16. On August 14, 2019, Warren Averett issued unqualified audit reports on CytoDyn's fiscal year 2019 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting, with an explanatory paragraph describing substantial doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern.

17. During CytoDyn's 2020 fiscal year, BDO provided non-audit services to CytoDyn concerning the accounting for and valuation of a derivative. Warren Averett performed audit procedures over the derivative accounting and valuation work during its 2020 audit of CytoDyn.

18. On August 14, 2020, Warren Averett issued an unqualified audit report on CytoDyn's fiscal year 2020 financial statements, with an explanatory paragraph describing substantial doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern.

E. Warren Averett Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

19. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[2] PCAOB rules further require registered public accounting firms to comply with the Board's quality control standards.[3]

i. Warren Averett Failed to Maintain Its Independence

20. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit clients throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[4] A registered public accounting firm's or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an issuer audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") rules and regulations.[5]

21. Rule 2-01(b) of the Commission's Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, "the accountant is not, or a reasonable investor with knowledge of all relevant facts and circumstances would conclude that the accountant is not, capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment on all issues encompassed within the accountant's engagement."[6] In applying this standard, it is appropriate to "look[] in the first instance to whether a relationship or the provision of a service: [c]reates a mutual or conflicting interest between the accountant and the audit client."[7]

22. A reasonable investor would conclude that Warren Averett was not capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment because there was a mutual interest "between the accountant [Warren Averett] and the audit client [CytoDyn]" with respect to the reasonableness of BDO's valuation services during the 2019 and 2020 CytoDyn audits.

23. CytoDyn had an interest in the reasonableness of its financial statements, including with respect to the valuation work performed by BDO. Based on its extensive marketing efforts tying itself to the quality denoted by the BDO brand name, Warren Averett also had an interest in the reasonableness of BDO's valuation work.

24. As discussed above, Warren Averett used its membership in the BDO Alliance—and the quality denoted by the BDO brand—to market itself, including by specifically touting its "access to the resources of BDO USA, LLP, one of the nation's leading professional services firms." If Warren Averett had uncovered deficiencies in the quality of BDO's valuation services, that could have raised questions about the quality of BDO's work and undermined the value Warren Averett sought to derive from tying itself to the BDO brand name.

25. Because the mutual interest that CytoDyn and Warren Averett shared with respect to the reasonableness of BDO's valuation services impaired Warren Averett's independence, Warren Averett violated PCAOB Rule 3520 and AS 1005 during the 2019 and 2020 CytoDyn audits.

ii. Warren Averett Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

26. PCAOB quality control standards provide that each registered public accounting firm should establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that "personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances" and "that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[8]

27. PCAOB quality control standards also provide that policies and procedures for monitoring "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control . . . are suitably designed and are being effectively applied,"[9] and that "its system of

quality control is effective."[10] "Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of the . . . [r]elevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures."[11]

28. As demonstrated by Warren Averett's violations of auditor independence requirements, Warren Averett failed to implement, effectively apply, and appropriately monitor quality control policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would maintain independence in fact and in appearance where non-audit services performed by BDO would be subject to audit procedures by Warren Averett.

29. Indeed, Warren Averett lacked any policies or procedures designed to detect or prevent auditor independence violations that might arise in connection with its membership in the BDO Alliance or any similar alliance of public accounting firms. Nor did Warren Averett perform any analysis of the independence implications of auditing work performed by BDO for an issuer audit client given Warren Averett's membership in the BDO Alliance.

30. Warren Averett likewise failed to establish monitoring procedures that would have identified that its auditor independence policies and procedures were not sufficiently relevant or adequate to ensure compliance with applicable independence requirements where non-audit services performed by BDO would be subject to audit procedures by Warren Averett.

31. These quality control failures contributed to Warren Averett's violations of PCAOB rules and standards related to auditor independence. As a result, Warren Averett violated QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Warren Averett is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $200,000 is imposed on Warren Averett.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Warren Averett shall pay this civil money penalty withing ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the entity or person as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Warren Averett shall pay pursuant to this Order, Warren Averett shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Warren Averett's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Warren Averett based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Warren Averett understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to it at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by Warren Averett. Within 90 days of the date of this Order, Warren Averett shall review and evaluate its quality control or other policies and procedures intended to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with auditor independence requirements applicable to audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.

2. Reporting. Within 120 days of the date of this Order, Warren Averett shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the area specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by Warren Averett or, if Warren Averett concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, Warren Averett shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and Warren Averett's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within 150 days of the date of this Order, Warren Averett's head of quality assurance shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that Warren Averett has implemented all of the modifications and additions to its policies and procedures, if any, that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of Warren Averett's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation.

Warren Averett shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. Warren Averett understands that a failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of K.R. Margetson Ltd. and Keith R. Margetson,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-023

September 12, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring K.R. Margetson Ltd. ("KRM" or the "Firm") and Keith R. Margetson ("Margetson") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) imposing a $30,000 civil money penalty jointly and severally upon Respondents;

(3) revoking the registration of KRM;[1]

(4) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures prior to submitting any future registration application; and

(5) barring Margetson from being associated with a registered public accounting firm[2] and limiting Margetson's activities for an additional period of one year following the termination of the bar.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) the Firm and Margetson violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit of an issuer; (b) the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards; and (c) Margetson violated PCAOB rules by directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of PCAOB quality control standards.

1 KRM may reapply for registration after one year from the date of this Order.

2 Margetson may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one year from the date of this Order.

I.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted Offers of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings, and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. K.R. Margetson Ltd. is a public accounting firm in North Vancouver, British Columbia. The Firm is licensed by the Chartered Professional Accountants of British Columbia. KRM registered with the Board on April 6, 2004, and has been subject to PCAOB inspection five times. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that the Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

2. Keith R. Margetson is the sole partner and president of the Firm. He is a Chartered Professional Accountant (CA, CPA) licensed by the Chartered Professional Accountants of British Columbia. At all relevant times, Margetson was an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). He was the engagement partner for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020 audit of Madison Technologies Inc. ("2020 Madison Audit") and was responsible for KRM's quality control policies and procedures.

B. Issuer

3. Madison Technologies Inc. ("Madison") is incorporated under the laws of the state of Nevada. Madison's public filings disclose that during the relevant times, Madison was engaged in the deployment of women's shaving products. KRM issued an audit report on Madison's 2020 financial statements on April 15, 2021. At all relevant times, Madison was an issuer as defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

4. Over the course of several PCAOB inspections prior to the 2020 Madison Audit, Respondents were put on notice of deficiencies in the Firm's system of quality control and audit work around complex transactions. Notwithstanding their knowledge of these issues, Respondents failed to make adequate changes to improve the Firm's system of quality control so that it would provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with professional standards in connection with conducting PCAOB audits.

5. When confronted with a complex transaction during the 2020 Madison Audit—Madison's acquisition of a license in exchange for certain convertible preferred stock—Respondents failed to perform adequate audit procedures to obtain sufficient audit evidence. In particular, Respondents failed to appropriately evaluate the reasonableness of a discount rate used in developing the valuation estimate, in violation of PCAOB standards.

6. As evidenced by Respondents' audit violations even after being put on notice of similar issues as a result of prior PCAOB inspection results, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards by failing to properly design and implement adequate quality control policies and procedures. Margetson directly and substantially contributed to those quality control violations.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

7. From 2010 through 2019, the PCAOB performed four inspections of the Firm, identifying and communicating to KRM after each inspection both deficiencies in the Firm's performance of issuer audits and deficiencies in the Firm's system of quality control. Among other things, PCAOB inspectors repeatedly identified quality control defects related to the Firm's testing of complex transactions. For example, in Part II of the Board's 2010 inspection report, the Board found that the Firm's system of quality control did not provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would possess technical competence or appropriately exercise due care and professional skepticism. In Part II of the Board's 2013 inspection report, the Board found that significant deficiencies relating to the Firm's failure to appropriately test the valuation of assets acquired in a business combination provided cause for concern regarding the Firm's quality control policies and procedures relating to the Firm's testing of business combinations. In Part II of the Board's 2016 inspection report, the Board found that the Firm's audit deficiencies were attributable to engagement personnel failing to perform issuer audits with due professional care and professional skepticism. And in Part II of the Board's 2019 inspection report, the Board found that the Firm's system of quality control did not provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by Firm personnel with respect to testing related party transactions would comply with PCAOB standards.

8. The Board's 2010, 2013, 2016, and 2019 inspection reports contained criticisms of KRM's system of quality control that were, in each instance, made public after KRM failed to address the criticisms to the Board's satisfaction within twelve months of the date of the respective report.

9. Despite KRM's awareness of these issues identified during PCAOB inspections, KRM did not implement any meaningful corrective action to improve the Firm's system of quality control, as evidenced by the Firm's recurring inspection criticisms. The Firm's quality control defects contributed to the violations of auditing standards during the 2020 Madison Audit.

i. KRM and Margetson Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in the 2020 Madison Audit

10. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[6]

11. PCAOB standards require the auditor to "plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis" for the auditor's opinion.[7] To be appropriate, audit evidence must be both relevant and reliable.[8]

12. In addition, AS 1015, Due Professional Care in the Performance of Work, requires "[d]ue professional care . . . to be exercised in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report."[9] Due professional care "requires the auditor to exercise professional skepticism[,]" which is an "attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence."[10] "Gathering and objectively evaluating audit evidence requires the auditor to consider the competency and sufficiency of the evidence."[11]

13. AS 2501, Auditing Accounting Estimates, Including Fair Value Measurements, establishes requirements for auditing accounting estimates in significant accounts and disclosures in financial statements, including that an auditor "identify which of the assumptions used by the company are significant assumptions to the accounting estimate, that is, the assumptions that are important to the recognition or measurement of the accounting estimate in the financial statements."[12] AS 2501 further states that an "auditor should evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by the company to develop the [accounting] estimate, both individually and in combination." That includes evaluating whether "[t]he company has a reasonable basis for the significant assumptions used and, when applicable, for its selection of assumptions from a range of potential assumptions;" and that the significant assumptions are consistent with relevant factors.[13]

14. Madison disclosed an agreement it entered into, on July 17, 2020, to acquire a license to manufacture, promote, and sell branded women's lifestyle products. Under the terms of the transaction, Madison agreed to issue preferred stock that was convertible into 95 percent of the common stock of Madison.

15. Madison recorded the acquisition of the license in its financial statements as an intangible asset at a value that mainly consisted of the estimated value of the convertible preferred stock issued in exchange. The value attributed to the convertible preferred stock represented more than 80 percent of Madison's total assets.

16. In valuing the convertible preferred stock, and thus the license, Madison applied a 50 percent discount to the value of 95 percent of Madison's common stock into which the preferred stock could be converted. Madison's management attributed the discount to the lightly traded history of Madison's shares.

17. In performing the 2020 Madison Audit, KRM and Margetson did not perform adequate procedures to determine whether the license was properly valued or obtain sufficient evidence to support the conclusion that Madison's valuation was reasonable. In particular, KRM and Margetson did not appropriately evaluate whether Madison had a reasonable basis for its assumption that a 50 percent discount should be applied to the value of its common stock.

18. As a result, Respondents violated AS 2501, AS 1105, and AS 1015 because they (a) failed to perform appropriate procedures to evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by the issuer to develop the valuation estimate; (b) failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to the valuation of the Madison license; and (c) failed to exercise due care and professional skepticism.

ii. KRM Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

19. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's quality control standards.[14] These standards require that a registered firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[15] "A marketing information; historical or recent experience, taking into account changes in conditions and events affecting the company; and other significant assumptions used by the company in other estimates tested).

system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality."[16]

20. PCAOB quality control standards require firms to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with "reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[17] PCAOB quality control standards further require firms to establish policies and procedures that provide reasonable assurance that the firm "[u]ndertakes only those engagements that the firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence."[18]

21. KRM was repeatedly put on notice by PCAOB inspections of deficiencies in the Firm's system of quality control and audit procedures as to its testing around acquired intangible assets and other complex transactions. Nevertheless, the Firm failed to take steps to ensure that its personnel would comply with PCAOB standards in this area. As a result, and as evidenced by Respondents' violations in connection with the 2020 Madison Audit, the Firm's policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's public audit work would comply with PCAOB standards.

22. As a result of this conduct, KRM violated QC § 20.

iii. Margetson Directly and Substantially Contributed to KRM's Quality Control Violations

23. A person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action "knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[19]

16 Id. at .03.

17 Id. at .17.

18 Id. at .15.

19 PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

24. As described above, Margetson directly and substantially contributed to KRM's violations of PCAOB rules and quality control standards. As a sole practitioner and KRM's sole partner, Margetson was responsible for developing and maintaining quality control policies and procedures applicable to KRM's public auditing practice.

25. At the time of the 2020 Madison Audit, Margetson knew or was reckless in not knowing that the Firm's system of quality control was inadequate. His failure to adequately address these deficiencies directly and substantially contributed to KRM's violations of QC § 20. As a result, Margetson violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KRM and Margetson are censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of KRM is revoked.

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101, after one year from the date of this Order, KRM may reapply for registration.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), KRM is required

1. before filing with the Board any future registration application, to (a) establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing KRM with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality; (b) establish policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that KRM will only accept audit engagements, particularly those involving auditing of complex transactions, that it has the ability to conduct with professional competence and in accordance with professional standards; and (c) establish monitoring procedures that determine corrective actions to be taken and improvements to be made in KRM's quality control system.

2. within ninety days from the date the Board grants any future application of KRM for registration, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, KRM's compliance with paragraph IV.D.1 above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. KRM shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Margetson is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[20]

F. After one year from the date of this Order, Margetson may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for one year following the termination of the bar ordered in paragraph IV.E above, Margetson's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Margetson shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in the Board's AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in the Board's AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "lead

[20] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Margetson. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

H. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 is imposed jointly and severally upon KRM and Margetson.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondents shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the entity or person as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. By consenting to this Order, KRM and Margetson acknowledge that their failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon them may alone be grounds to deny any application, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2106, for registration with the Board.

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that KRM and Margetson shall pay pursuant to this Order, KRM and Margetson shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of KRM and Margetson's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against KRM and Margetson based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of BDO USA, P.C., Kevin Olvera, CPA, and Michael Musick, CPA,

Respondents.

September 26, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) Censuring BDO USA, P.C. ("BDO" or the "Firm"), Kevin Olvera, CPA ("Olvera"), and Michael Musick, CPA ("Musick");

(2) Imposing civil money penalties in the amounts of $2,000,000 upon BDO, $35,000 on Olvera, and $25,000 on Musick;

(3) Limiting Olvera's activities in connection with any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), for a period of one year following the date of this Order, as described in Section IV hereto; and

(4) Requiring that Olvera and Musick complete twenty hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that BDO, Olvera, and Musick (collectively, "Respondents") violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with BDO's audit of the fiscal year 2017 financial statements of AAC Holdings, Inc. (the "Audit").

I.

reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondents

1. BDO USA, P.C., a Virginia professional corporation, is a public accounting firm headquartered in Chicago, Illinois, and registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm has offices throughout the U.S. and is licensed in multiple jurisdictions, including under the name BDO USA LLP in Illinois (license no. 066003607). BDO served as the auditor of AAC Holdings, Inc. ("AAC") from 2011 until at least June 2019.[3] On February 23, 2018, BDO issued an audit report in connection with the Audit that contained the

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[3] At all times relevant to this matter, BDO USA, LLP served as the auditor of AAC. However, effective July 1, 2023, the Firm converted from BDO USA, LLP, a limited liability partnership organized under the laws of the state of Delaware, to BDO USA, P.A., a professional service corporation organized under the laws of the state of Delaware. Subsequently, on August 30, 2023, the Firm converted from BDO USA, P.A. to BDO USA, P.C., a professional corporation organized under the laws of the state of Virginia.

Firm's unqualified opinion that AAC's 2017 financial statements presented fairly, in all material respects, AAC's financial position, results of operations, and cash flows in conformity with U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles. Many of the BDO auditors working on the 2017 Audit of AAC worked out of BDO's Nashville, Tennessee office.

2. Kevin Olvera is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Texas (license no. 111136). He is a partner in BDO's Dallas, Texas office, and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Olvera served as an assisting partner for BDO's audit of AAC's 2016 financial statements. BDO then assigned him to serve as a Focused Consulting Reviewer ("FCR") on the 2017 Audit and on BDO's audit of AAC's 2018 financial statements. As the FCR on the Audit, Olvera was assigned to provide technical expertise to the engagement team on areas related to revenue and accounts receivable, and to review the engagement team's Audit work to determine whether certain risks relating to those audit areas (which are the subject of this Order) were adequately addressed.

3. Michael Musick is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Tennessee (license no. 19300). He is a partner in BDO's Nashville, Tennessee office, and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Musick was the Engagement Quality Review ("EQR") partner on the 2017 Audit.

B. Relevant Entity

4. AAC was, at all relevant times, a Nevada corporation headquartered in Brentwood, Tennessee. The company provided healthcare services to clients with drug and alcohol addiction, including testing, diagnostic, behavioral and treatment services. At all relevant times, AAC's common stock was registered under Section 12(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. At all relevant times, AAC was an issuer as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). AAC was delisted from the New York Stock Exchange and filed for bankruptcy protection by June 2020.

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with BDO's Audit of the financial statements of AAC for fiscal year ended December 31, 2017. Respondents failed to fulfill their respective roles in evaluating significant accounting estimates that AAC used to value substantially all of its client-related revenue and related accounts receivable ("AR") for 2017. In April 2019, AAC restated its 2017 annual financial statements and its prior-year annual financial statements (the "Restatement"), reducing reported AR by 32% and 47%, respectively. AAC filed for bankruptcy 14 months later.

6. At all times relevant to this matter, AAC provided healthcare services to clients suffering from substance addiction and behavioral health problems. AAC derived over 90% of its 2017 client-related revenue based on claims it billed to insurance companies and other third-party payors ("insurers") for reimbursement of services that AAC had provided to clients.

7. In its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2017, AAC publicly disclosed that it recognized its client service revenue and AR by estimating the amounts it expected to realize for the services it provided. Specifically, AAC management estimated: (a) the amounts that insurers would pay for covered services at "out-of-network" rates (which AAC referred to as the Estimated Insurance Value ("EIV")); (b) additional amounts insurers would pay as a result of AAC's appeals of claims where the payment received from the insurer was abnormally low (claims that AAC referred to as "Short Pay" claims); and (c) an allowance for doubtful accounts for AR that could become uncollectible in the future (the "AR Allowance"). Despite identifying each of those three estimates as a "significant accounting estimate" during the 2017 Audit, the BDO engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence for any of them, and Olvera, in his role as FCR, failed to identify these deficiencies. As described below, those failures occurred despite Respondents encountering several red flags calling into question the reasonableness of the estimates.

8. With respect to the EIV, for example, AAC publicly disclosed that this estimate was "based on [AAC's] historical collection experience," which included considering the type of services provided and collection histories on a per facility basis. During the Audit, however, Respondents knew that AAC was excluding its collection experience for Short Pay claims from the calculation of the EIV for six-to-twelve months, or more. Despite that knowledge, the engagement team failed to adequately evaluate the effect of those exclusions on the reasonableness of the EIV.

9. With respect to Short Pay claims, Respondents were aware that the relevant estimate had arisen out of a recent policy change AAC management had adopted. Prior to the second half of 2016, AAC's practice was to close Short Pay claims when any partial reimbursement was received, writing off the disallowed portion. However, under the new policy, AAC began keeping Short Pay claims open and estimating that it would recover through an appeals process approximately 50% of the disallowed portion of the insurance reimbursement it had initially expected (the "50% success rate"). During the 2017 Audit, the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient audit evidence supporting AAC's 50% success rate estimate, despite knowing of certain data indicating that AAC may be falling significantly short of achieving that projection.

10. With respect to AAC's AR Allowance, Respondents were aware that PCAOB inspectors had identified the Firm's failure to sufficiently test the AR Allowance during BDO's audit of AAC's 2015 financial statements. Nevertheless, when the engagement team conducted the Audit for 2017, it also failed to perform sufficient procedures to evaluate AAC's AR Allowance. The engagement team and Olvera, as the FCR, failed to obtain a sufficient understanding of how AAC management developed the AR Allowance estimate and its key assumptions – e.g., loss rates. The engagement team also failed to adequately test AAC's process for developing the estimate and related assumptions, despite having planned to do so. Instead, the engagement team and Olvera concluded that the 2017 AR Allowance was a reasonable estimate based primarily on their reliance on a flawed "hindsight analysis" that had been developed by AAC and which inappropriately compared gross and net numbers.

11. In sum, the engagement team and Olvera failed to appropriately evaluate three separate significant accounting estimates. As a result, BDO and Olvera violated numerous PCAOB standards, as described below.

12. In addition, in the 2017 Audit, Musick failed to perform his EQR with due professional care in violation of AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review.

D. Background

13. AAC was primarily an "out-of-network" healthcare provider, which is a provider that does not have contractual agreements dictating agreed rates to be paid by insurers. As such, AAC assumed some risk by providing services to clients and then billing insurers without having agreed-upon contractual reimbursement rates for services. For 2017, more than 92% of AAC's reported client-related revenues were from insurers, and approximately 79% were paid by insurers at out-of-network rates.

14. For 2017, AAC disclosed in its Form 10-K that it accounted for its client service revenue and AR by estimating net realizable value.[4] Specifically, AAC disclosed that it recorded client service revenue at its established billing rates less an adjustment to reflect the amount it expected to be reimbursed by an insurer based on historic adjustments for out-of-network services not under contract. AAC referred to that adjusted amount as the Estimated Insurance Value, EIV. AAC updated its EIV percentage as of the end of each reporting period. AAC's average EIV rate was 45% at year-end 2016 and 36% at year-end 2017.

[4] See Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") 954-310-30-1, -35-1, -45-1; ASC 954-605-25-4, -605-45-2, -605-45-4.

15. A portion of AAC's AR related to Short Pay claims, those for which insurers had determined an allowable charge that was less than half of AAC's gross charges for services provided at its facilities.[5] For each Short Pay claim, AAC applied a 50% success rate against the portion of the claim's current-period EIV that the insurer had not paid, thus continuing to recognize half of the unpaid current-period EIV as AR ("Short Pay AR"). AAC disclosed in its 2017 Form 10-K that it was continuing to pursue collection of the Short Pay AR.

16. AAC also disclosed that it recorded AR for amounts due from insurers net of the EIV and net of the AR Allowance. The AR Allowance for doubtful accounts reflected management's estimate of AR that could become uncollectible in the future. The recorded value of a particular receivable, however, could vary from period to period because AAC applied its updated EIV rate to outstanding AR at the end of each period.

E. BDO and Olvera Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards During the 2017 Audit

i. Relevant PCAOB Auditing Standards

17. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the PCAOB's auditing and related professional standards.[6] An auditor is in a position to express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements when the auditor has conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[7]

[5] For services provided at AAC's labs, the company generally defined a Short Pay claim as one reimbursed at less than 10% of gross charges for services provided.

[6] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards; PCAOB Rule 3200, Auditing Standards. All references to PCAOB rules and standards in this Order are to the versions of those rules and standards, and to their organization and numbering, in effect at the time of the 2017 Audit.

[7] See AS 3101.02, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion; see also AS 2810.30-.31, Evaluating Audit Results (requiring auditors to evaluate whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework, including whether the financial statements contain the information essential for a fair presentation).

18. PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit and in the preparation of the report.[8] Due professional care requires that the auditor exercise professional skepticism, which is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence.[9] Professional skepticism requires "an ongoing questioning of whether the information and evidence obtained suggests that a material misstatement due to fraud has occurred."[10]

19. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed in the auditor's report, including obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud.[11] PCAOB standards provide that management representations "are part of the evidential matter the independent auditor obtains, but they are not a substitute for the application of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[12] Inquiry of company personnel, by itself, does not provide sufficient audit evidence to reduce audit risk to an appropriately low level for a relevant assertion.[13]

20. PCAOB standards provide that an auditor should identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and assertion level; in doing so, the auditor should identify significant accounts and disclosures and their relevant assertions.[14] PCAOB standards also require an auditor to design and implement audit responses that address the identified and assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[15] PCAOB standards require an auditor to design and perform audit procedures, including substantive procedures and tests of details, that are specifically responsive to the assessed significant risks and fraud risks.[16]

21. PCAOB standards require an auditor to document "the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached with respect to relevant financial statement assertions."[17] "Audit documentation must clearly demonstrate that the work was in fact performed."[18]

22. The auditor is responsible for evaluating the reasonableness of management's accounting estimates in the context of the financial statements taken as a whole.[19] The auditor's objective when evaluating accounting estimates includes obtaining sufficient appropriate evidential matter to provide reasonable assurance that all accounting estimates that could be material to the financial statements are reasonable in the circumstances, are presented in conformity with applicable accounting principles, and are properly disclosed.[20] In evaluating the reasonableness of an estimate, the auditor normally concentrates on key factors and assumptions that are significant to the estimate.[21]

23. When evaluating the reasonableness of an estimate, the auditor should obtain an understanding of how management developed the estimate, and should use one or a combination of three approaches: (1) reviewing and testing the company's process to develop the accounting estimate; (2) developing an independent expectation of the estimate to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate; and (3) reviewing subsequent events and transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report.[22]

24. As described below, the Firm and Olvera violated these and other standards in performing the 2017 Audit.

ii. The Materiality and Risk Assessments for the 2017 Audit

25. For 2017, AAC reported total revenue of $318 million, $309 million of which was client-related, and a net loss of $25.1 million. AAC also reported, as of year-end 2017, AR net of the AR Allowance of $94 million, which represented approximately 22% of AAC's total reported assets. For the Audit, the engagement team set a materiality level of $3 million. Musick, the EQR partner, concurred with that materiality level.

26. During the Audit, the engagement team identified AAC's EIV, Short Pay claims, and the AR Allowance as significant accounting estimates. The team also assessed there to be a significant risk of material misstatement related to revenue recognition, Short Pay claims, and the AR Allowance.

27. The engagement team identified revenue recognition as posing a significant risk of material misstatement and a fraud risk because it was "an area of judgment / estimates." In particular, the engagement team identified a risk that management would "manipulate" the raw data utilized in recording the quarterly EIV adjustments. Part of the reason for the engagement team's identification of the fraud risk was due to the complexity of AAC's process to organize its data to record revenue and the fact that much of the process was manual.

28. The engagement team also identified a significant risk of material misstatement related to Short Pay claims because those claims involved estimates and "the application of subsequent collection information."

29. Finally, the engagement team identified AAC's AR Allowance as having a significant risk of material misstatement because the AR Allowance was judgmental in nature and required use of estimates by management.

30. During the 2017 Audit, the engagement team and Olvera were each aware of these significant risks associated with AAC's EIV, Short Pay claims, and AR Allowance. They were also aware that the estimates had a significant effect on AAC's revenue and AR. In response, the engagement team planned to assess the reasonableness of the EIV, Short Pay, and AR Allowance estimates primarily through substantively testing the process used by management to develop the estimates.[23]

31. However, the engagement team failed to design and perform sufficient substantive procedures that (a) specifically responded to the above risks, and (b) adequately tested management's process for developing the above estimates. Similarly, Olvera failed to identify these deficiencies when performing his focused consulting review.

iii. BDO and Olvera Failed to Appropriately Evaluate the EIV

32. As noted above, AAC recorded the majority of its client service revenue and AR by estimating, through the EIV, the amount insurers would pay for AAC's services at out-of-network rates. During the 2017 Audit, the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence for AAC's EIV, and thus for AAC's reported revenue and AR, and Olvera failed to identify these deficiencies in his focused consulting review. They failed to do so, despite being aware of information indicating that revenue and AR may have been overstated due to an inappropriately high EIV.

33. Each quarter, AAC determined the EIV by analyzing, on a facility-by-facility basis, claims that it had (a) billed to insurers, (b) received some payment for, and (c) closed in either the prior six or twelve months. Using that information, AAC calculated an EIV rate for each facility and applied that rate to all unsettled/open client service claims from the related facility. AAC then used the current EIV rate to adjust its recorded revenue and AR.

34. For the 2017 Audit, the BDO engagement team performed certain testing on AAC's EIV estimate, but that testing did not address an issue that the team and Olvera knew affected the EIV: AAC's change in approach to Short Pay claims, which created a risk that the EIV, and thus AAC's revenue and AR, could be materially inflated.

35. Specifically, the engagement team and Olvera knew that, prior to late 2016, AAC's policy was to close a short-paid claim when the company received any reimbursement from the insurer. In late 2016, however, AAC changed that policy, retroactive to mid-2016, and began to keep Short Pay claims open. AAC kept those claims open while it appealed to the insurers for reimbursement of the disallowed amounts. The engagement team and Olvera were aware that the appeal process could take six-to-twelve months from the payment date, or longer.

36. Because AAC calculated its EIV rate based only on closed claims, the policy change to keep open Short Pay claims, which by definition involved initially low reimbursement by insurers, had a material effect on AAC's revenue and AR. Indeed, in a BDO work paper that Olvera reviewed, AAC management calculated that the exclusion of open Short Pay claims from the EIV rate calculation for the last two quarters in 2016 resulted in a $15 million increase to 2016 revenue, and an $11 million increase to year-end 2016 AR, net of the AR Allowance, and before applying a success rate reduction.

37. The engagement team and Olvera also knew that AAC identified approximately 65% more gross AR for Short Pay claims[24] in 2017 than in 2016, and thus the impact of excluding open Short Pay claim histories in the EIV rate calculation had an even greater impact on revenue and AR in 2017 than in 2016. Yet, during the 2017 Audit, the engagement team and Olvera, in his role as FCR, failed to appropriately consider the effects of AAC's continuing to exclude open Short Pay claims when evaluating the reasonableness of AAC's EIV.

38. First, the engagement team failed to obtain an understanding of the magnitude of the effect that AAC's new Short Pay approach had on the 2017 EIV rate and thus on AAC's 2017 revenue and AR.

39. Second, despite planning to do so, the engagement team also failed to adequately test whether AAC had been successful in obtaining additional reimbursements on Short Pay claims since the change in policy at the end of 2016. For example, during Audit planning, to address the significant risks presented by the Short Pay estimate, the engagement team documented that "[a]s this issue only arose in the 4th quarter of the prior year, the Company has not had significant collection data available. BDO will begin to evaluate [Short Pay historical collection data] in the 3rd quarter of 2017 and will continue to analyze the collection information as it becomes available to evaluate management's estimate of short pays." During the Audit, though, the engagement team concluded that there was still not sufficient collection data on the 2016 Short Pay claims to reliably indicate AAC's future success in seeking additional reimbursements on Short Pay claims. But the engagement team relied on management representations about the sufficiency of the collection data; it failed to perform adequate procedures to evaluate whether AAC was succeeding or failing in collecting additional reimbursements on Short Pay claims.

40. Third, as discussed further below, the engagement team and Olvera failed to address the fact that one of the assumptions that management made in adopting its new approach to Short Pay claims—that AAC would have a 50% success rate in pursuing additional reimbursement on those claims—itself demonstrated that AAC's EIV was improperly inflated. That 50% success rate reflected management's assumption that, when resubmitting or appealing a Short Pay claim, the expected reimbursement would be at a much lower level than on an original claim. That expectation of lower reimbursements on certain claims, however, was not captured in the EIV until AAC closed the claim after engaging in the lengthy resubmission/appeals process.

[24] Gross AR for a Short Pay claim reflected AAC's original billing reduced by the initial payment by the insurer, but not reduced by the EIV, the 50% success rate, or the AR Allowance.

41. Because the engagement team and Olvera, as the FCR, did not identify or address the material effects that AAC's revised approach to Short Pay claims had on the EIV for 2017, they failed to appropriately evaluate the reasonableness of that significant estimate. Accordingly, BDO and Olvera violated PCAOB standards.[25]

iv. BDO and Olvera Failed to Appropriately Evaluate AAC's 50% Success Rate Estimate on Short Pay Claims

42. AAC's change in approach to Short Pay claims not only affected the EIV rate applied to value revenue and AR, the change also directly increased AAC's AR balance by including an entire category of AR previously excluded from the balance—Short Pay AR. Specifically, because AAC started delaying its closing of Short Pay claims, it also delayed writing off the portion of the claim's EIV that the insurer had not paid.

43. As noted above, however, AAC recognized that it was unlikely to receive reimbursement on Short Pay claims at the same rate as on original claims. For each Short Pay claim, therefore, AAC calculated the difference between what it had initially expected to receive from the insurer and what it actually received; then it applied an estimated success rate of around 50% to that difference (i.e., Short Pay AR). In its 2017 Form 10-K, AAC reported Short Pay AR of $14.6 million, net of the AR Allowance, which was more than four times the materiality level BDO's engagement team had established for the Audit. Despite the significance of the 50% success rate estimate, the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient evidence to support it.

44. AAC first adopted the 50% success rate estimate in late 2016 in consultation with its external legal counsel ("External Counsel"), who stated that he had significant experience representing out-of-network providers in appeals of underpayments of healthcare receivables. In an email exchange during the 2016 audit among the External Counsel, AAC management, and BDO's 2016 engagement partner, the External Counsel stated that a success rate of 50% to 65% was reasonable. During the 2016 audit, members of the BDO engagement team held a telephone call with the External Counsel about Short Pay claims, but they did not obtain any data or other evidence from him supporting the 50% success rate estimate, nor did they obtain a reasonable understanding of any data, methods, or assumptions used by the External Counsel. In fact, when the 2016 engagement partner consulted internally at BDO about "industry statistics related to success by providers in resubmissions/reconsiderations/appeals," he was informed that "such data is not published and is often difficult to correlate from one entity to another entity." These communications with the External Counsel, and the internal consultation, were documented in BDO's work papers for the 2016 audit of AAC. Going into the 2017 Audit, Olvera had reviewed the 2016 work papers relating to Short Pay claims.

45. As noted above, during the 2017 Audit, the Audit engagement team planned to analyze AAC's success in seeking further collections on Short Pay claims. In fact, doing so was required under PCAOB standards because the engagement team had specifically identified "the application of subsequent collection information" as creating a significant risk of material misstatement for Short Pay claims. Having identified that risk as significant, the team needed to perform tests of details responsive to it.[26]

46. Yet the engagement team performed no such tests during the 2017 Audit, nor did Olvera, in his role as FCR, question the lack of such testing. The engagement team did not test how much Short Pay AR AAC had collected during 2017, how many Short Pay claims AAC had closed, or how many re-bills/appeals of Short Pay claims AAC was pursuing.

47. Moreover, although Olvera had a follow-up call with the External Counsel during the 2017 Audit, the External Counsel merely stated that he still maintained the positions he had advanced during the 2016 audit, without providing any further support.

48. The engagement team and Olvera continued to point to the discussions with the External Counsel to support the 50% success rate estimate during the 2017 Audit, using that information as audit evidence. Notably, the engagement team did not follow the requirements under PCAOB standards for using the External Counsel's work as that of a specialist's.[27] To do so, the team would have had to obtain an understanding of the methods or assumptions the External Counsel had used in arriving at his 50% success rate conclusion and make appropriate tests of data that AAC provided him.[28] The engagement team and Olvera, as the FCR, did not take any of those steps. Indeed, as reflected in the Audit work papers, the engagement team obtained only a general understanding of the External Counsel's qualifications and experience in pursuing additional reimbursement on Short Pay claims.

49. The evidence that the engagement team and Olvera reviewed during the 2017 Audit concerning AAC's success in pursuing Short Pay claims actually contradicted the 50% success rate assumption. Specifically, during the 2017 Audit, management represented to the engagement team and Olvera that AAC had obtained only about $2.1 million in additional reimbursements on Short Pay AR as of year-end 2017, well below the $10.4 million in Short Pay AR (net of the AR Allowance) that AAC had reported at the end of 2016. During the Audit, the engagement team did not test management's representation about the $2.1 million in additional reimbursements, but even assuming the accuracy of the representation, it raised questions as to whether AAC had significantly overestimated expected reimbursements of Short Pay AR. Olvera, in his role as FCR, did not identify these issues.

50. In short, despite identifying a significant risk associated with collections on Short Pay claims, the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient evidence to support the reasonableness of AAC's 50% success rate estimate during the 2017 Audit, and Olvera failed to identify this deficiency when performing his focused consulting review. Therefore, BDO and Olvera violated PCAOB standards.

v. BDO and Olvera Failed to Appropriately Evaluate AAC's AR Allowance

51. The engagement team also failed to appropriately evaluate the reasonableness of AAC's AR Allowance during the 2017 Audit. That failure occurred despite the PCAOB identifying deficiencies in BDO's work in evaluating AAC's 2015 AR Allowance less than two years earlier.

52. In 2017 and earlier years, AAC calculated its AR Allowance by applying pre-determined loss rates against its AR. The loss rates increased as the age of the AR increased and made collection more doubtful. For AR aged 0-180 days, the loss rates typically were under 1%; for AR aged 181-240 days, the loss rate was 25%; for AR aged 241-300 days, the loss rate was 50%; for AR aged 301-360 days, the loss rate was 75%; and for AR aged more than 360 days, the loss rate was approximately 98%. AAC applied the reserve loss rates against all AR, regardless of the type of claim.

53. During the PCAOB's 2016 inspection of BDO, PCAOB inspectors reviewed the Firm's work on the 2015 AAC audit. In September 2016, the Firm received a PCAOB inspection comment form explaining that the Firm "failed to perform sufficient procedures to test the valuation of AR in accordance with AU Section 342, Auditing Accounting Estimates." In its response to the comment form, the Firm accepted the PCAOB inspectors' conclusion.

54. Thereafter, BDO's engagement teams performed additional procedures to attempt to address the deficiencies the PCAOB inspectors had identified in the Firm's evaluation of AAC's loss rates. In developing those remediation procedures, the engagement partner for BDO's 2015 and 2016 audits of AAC consulted with a partner in BDO's national office. The Firm's national office approved the remediation procedures on February 28, 2017, approximately a week before AAC's 2016 Form 10-K was filed in March 2017.

55. In the 2017 Audit, the engagement team and Olvera continued to use a version of one of the remediation procedures developed in response to the PCAOB's 2016 inspection when they evaluated the loss rates that AAC used to establish its AR Allowance for 2017. As explained below, that procedure, which consisted of analyzing a "hindsight analysis" developed by AAC, was insufficient under PCAOB standards and did not support the reasonableness of AAC's AR Allowance.

a. BDO's and Olvera's Evaluation of AAC's AR Allowance

56. As required by PCAOB standards, the 2017 engagement team planned to obtain an understanding of how AAC developed its 2017 AR Allowance.[29] The team also planned to perform procedures to test the process used by management to develop that estimate, which is one of the three approaches that PCAOB standards provide for evaluating the reasonableness of an accounting estimate.[30] However, the engagement team failed to obtain a sufficient understanding of how management developed the 2017 AR Allowance, and failed to appropriately test management's process. Olvera, in his role as FCR, did not identify those failures.

57. The engagement team identified the above-described loss rates as key assumptions management used in developing the 2017 AR Allowance. But the engagement team's and Olvera's evaluation of the reasonableness of the AR Allowance did not concentrate on those assumptions.[31] In fact, other than documenting that the loss rates used in 2017 were determined by AAC in 2014 based on a "qualitative" "lookback analyses [sic] of collection trends," and that BDO last "audited" management's analysis in 2014, the engagement team and Olvera, in his role as FCR, failed to obtain any understanding of AAC's process for developing the loss rates. They also failed to obtain an understanding of what method AAC used for the 2014 qualitative analysis, the type and range of collection experience used in that analysis, and any testing that BDO personnel may have performed on those loss rates in 2014. They also

30 See id. During the 2017 Audit, the engagement team did not plan to use or, in fact, use either of the other two approaches PCAOB standards identify for evaluating the reasonableness of an estimate: developing an independent expectation of the estimate to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate, or reviewing subsequent events or transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report.

31 As noted above, PCAOB standards provide that, in evaluating the reasonableness of an accounting estimate, the auditor "normally concentrates on key factors and assumptions" that are significant to the accounting estimate. See AS 2501.09.

failed to obtain an adequate understanding of any testing that BDO personnel may have performed on those loss rates after 2014.

58. Moreover, any reliance that the engagement team and Olvera placed in the 2017 Audit on management's 2014 qualitative lookback analysis was particularly inappropriate given their awareness that the composition of, and collectability risks surrounding, AAC's AR had changed since 2014.

59. For example, setting aside Short Pay AR, AAC's gross AR aged over one year grew from about $42 million to $100 million during 2017, and grew from 20% of total gross AR to 30% of total gross AR during 2017.[32] Such significant growth in highly aged AR was a red flag that AAC's AR population was becoming less collectable. Despite these circumstances, the engagement team concluded that there were no significant or unusual items indicating that a change in the loss rates was warranted, but that conclusion was unsupportable.

60. In sum, because the engagement team and Olvera, in his role as FCR, failed to obtain an understanding of how AAC developed its 2017 AR Allowance estimate and failed to appropriately use any of the three authorized approaches for evaluating the reasonableness of that estimate, BDO and Olvera violated PCAOB standards.[33] Those failures were aggravated by the engagement team's and Olvera's awareness that the same deficiency had been identified during the PCAOB's 2016 inspection.

b. The "Hindsight Analysis" Was Not a Proper Means for Evaluating the Reasonableness of the AR Allowance

61. Instead of appropriately performing any of the three approaches that PCAOB standards provide for evaluating the reasonableness of an accounting estimate,[34] the engagement team purported to assess the reasonableness of AAC's 2017 AR Allowance by relying on a modified version of the hindsight analysis that AAC had developed and BDO had analyzed as part of its remediation of deficiencies identified during the 2016 PCAOB inspection.

62. Under PCAOB standards, however, a hindsight analysis or retrospective review is not one of the methods that PCAOB standards recognize for evaluating the reasonableness of, 32 Because Short Pay AR was not recognized by AAC from 2014 through the second quarter of 2016, and AAC did not recognize in 2016 any Short Pay AR aged over one year, this comparison excludes Short Pay AR from the analysis.

and obtaining sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support, significant accounting estimates.[35] Rather, a hindsight analysis or retrospective review is a procedure that is designed to provide the auditor "additional information about whether there may be a possible bias on the part of management in making the current-year estimates."[36]

63. In fact, with a hindsight analysis or retrospective review, an auditor does not directly evaluate a company's current-year estimates. Instead, the auditor assesses "significant accounting estimates reflected in the financial statements of the prior year to determine whether management judgments and assumptions relating to the estimates indicate a possible bias on the part of management."[37]

64. As described in detail below, that was precisely the nature of the hindsight analysis on which the engagement team relied when evaluating the reasonableness of AAC's 2017 AR Allowance, and on which Olvera relied when performing his focused consulting review. Specifically, the hindsight analysis developed by AAC assessed, in retrospect, whether AAC's AR allowance as of year-end 2016 still appeared to provide adequate loss coverage. The analysis then assumed similar coverage in 2017 to draw conclusions about the sufficiency of AAC's 2017 AR Allowance. Under PCAOB standards, the engagement team and Olvera could not satisfy their obligation to evaluate the reasonableness of AAC's AR Allowance by reviewing the company-developed hindsight analysis.

c. The Hindsight Analysis Was Flawed

65. BDO's and Olvera's reliance on the particular hindsight analysis used in the 2017 Audit was also inappropriate because the analysis was fatally flawed.

66. In general, the 2017 hindsight analysis began by considering the adequacy of AAC's AR Allowance at year-end 2016 ("2016 AR Allowance"). Specifically, the analysis compared the 2016 AR Allowance to the sum of (a) the 2016 AR that AAC had actually written off as uncollectible bad debt during 2017 ("2016 AR Actual Write-Offs") and (b) "assumed bad debt write offs" on AR from year-end 2016 that still remained on AAC's books at year-end 2017. The hindsight analysis then rolled certain aspects of the calculations forward to 2017. Ultimately, AAC concluded that the AR Allowance coverage of AR was sufficiently similar between the two years, and because of that, the 2017 "hindsight analysis . . . supported management's estimation process of establishing the allowance for doubtful accounts at December 31, 2017."

67. During the 2017 Audit, the engagement team and Olvera reviewed AAC's 2017 hindsight analysis and agreed with management's conclusion that the analysis supported the 2017 AR Allowance estimate. As they should have recognized, however, the company's analysis used a mixture of gross and net numbers that rendered it unreliable.

68. As reflected in BDO's 2017 work papers, AAC determined that it should perform the hindsight analysis on a "gross" basis. That is, although AAC reported its revenue and AR net of EIV adjustments—to reflect the estimated reimbursements from insurers at out-of-network rates—it concluded that, in the hindsight analysis, it should remove the effect of those adjustments because they varied from period to period.

69. Accordingly, in the 2017 hindsight analysis, AAC began by taking the 2016 AR Allowance that it reported in its Form 10-K and grossed that amount up to $61.9 million, to remove the effects of the EIV adjustment. It also grossed up the AR from year-end 2016 that still remained on AAC's books at year-end 2017 ("Remaining 2016 AR") and the 2016 AR Actual Write-Offs. As grossed up to remove the effects of the EIV, 2016 AR Actual Write-Offs totaled $13.1 million and the Remaining 2016 AR (which under AAC's AR Allowance loss rates had been reserved for at about 98%) totaled $141 million. A comparison of these figures shows that AAC's grossed-up $61.9 million 2016 AR Allowance was clearly insufficient to absorb the $154.1 million sum of the 2016 AR Actual Write-Offs plus the Remaining 2016 AR.[38]

70. The engagement team and Olvera reviewed all of those grossed-up figures that appeared in AAC's hindsight analysis, yet ignored their obvious implications. Instead, they accepted AAC's position that a further adjustment was required in the hindsight analysis. Specifically, AAC took one of the figures that had been grossed up to remove the effects of the EIV—the $141 million in Remaining 2016 AR—and then re-applied the most current EIV rate to it (i.e., adjusting the $141 million to be net of EIV). Doing so reduced the figure for Remaining 2016 AR to a net amount of $51 million. Having made that inappropriate adjustment, AAC decided that the 2016 AR Allowance was sufficient.

[38] As noted above, AAC had recently changed its policy and began pursuing appeals of Short Pay claims. Of the $141 million in Remaining 2016 AR, $41 million was related to Short Pay AR. Even if this $41 million were deducted from the $141 million, the $61.9 million 2016 AR Allowance would not have come close to covering the $113 million of 2016 AR Actual Write-Offs plus non-Short Pay Remaining 2016 AR.

71. The hindsight analysis's mixture of gross and net numbers actually raised red flags about the reasonableness of AAC's AR Allowance, rather than supporting it. Having grossed up all of the relevant balances in the hindsight analysis to remove the effects of the EIV, there was no basis for AAC to net one of the balances back down to selectively reintroduce the effects of the EIV. Nonetheless, the engagement team and Olvera accepted the analysis as support for the reasonableness of AAC's 2017 AR Allowance.

72. BDO's work papers contained the following explanation for the use of two gross figures and one net figure in the hindsight analysis:

> Note that all [Remaining 2016 AR] . . . will not result in write-offs to bad debt. A portion of these will be written off as revenue adjustments which is factored into the EIV and thus is reserved for within net revenue. Company policy for writeoffs is that only those associated with paid to patient receivables and denial of service are included in bad debt (other writeoffs are to revenue and are contemplated in the EIV % calculation). As such, it is necessary to allocate the balance between portions to be recognized in revenue and those to be recognized in bad debt. Management applied the EIV % to the gross accounts > 360 in order to properly recalculate the expected writeoffs against the allowance for doubtful accounts.[39]

But that explanation—that AAC's AR Allowance was designed to cover only a portion of uncollectible receivables—was inconsistent with both AAC's practice when calculating the AR Allowance, and AAC's public disclosures about the nature of its AR Allowance.

73. Specifically, AAC's 2017 Form 10-K disclosed that its AR Allowance was the company's best estimate of "accounts receivable that could become uncollectible in the future" (i.e., future write-offs). That disclosure made no mention of being limited to a particular type of write-off of AR, such as write-offs to bad debt versus write-offs via revenue adjustment. Similarly, AAC's practice in calculating its AR Allowance was consistent with this disclosure, in that it did not distinguish between purportedly different types of write-offs. The engagement team and Olvera failed to identify these inconsistencies between the hindsight analysis and AAC's practice and public disclosures concerning the AR Allowance.

39 A paid-to-patient claim was one where an insurer would send payment to the patient, for forwarding to AAC, rather than paying AAC directly. A denial-of-service claim was one where the insurer denied reimbursement of the claim for lack of insurance coverage or other reasons.

74. Moreover, even if AAC had a basis for concluding that less than the full amount of the Remaining 2016 AR would result in bad debt write-offs, BDO's work papers provided no logical basis for why AAC should have used the EIV rate to estimate what that lesser amount would be.

75. Notably, had AAC performed the hindsight analysis on a purely net basis with respect to the AR, AR Allowance, and write-off figures, the analysis would have shown that AAC was under-reserved by roughly $42 million as of December 31, 2016, about the same amount by which AAC wrote down its 2017 AR in the 2018 Restatement.

vi. BDO and Olvera Failed to Respond to Red Flags

76. As described above, BDO and Olvera, as the FCR, violated PCAOB standards during the 2017 Audit by failing to appropriately evaluate three separate significant accounting estimates that they had identified as presenting significant risks of material misstatement.[40] In each instance, those violations were exacerbated by BDO's and Olvera's failure to respond to red flags indicating the need to obtain additional evidence or perform further evaluation. In assessing the EIV estimate, for example, they failed to address the material effects that AAC's revised approach to Short Pay claims had on that estimate. With respect to Short Pay claims and AAC's 50% success rate estimate, they relied on the anecdotal statements of external counsel and failed to consider indications that AAC was not achieving its projected success rate. Finally, for the AR Allowance, despite having been put on notice by PCAOB inspectors of the need to evaluate the reasonableness of the particular loss rates AAC used to derive its AR Allowance, the engagement team failed to obtain direct evidence supporting the reasonableness of AAC's loss rates and instead elected to rely on a company-prepared hindsight analysis that was inconsistent with AAC's calculation of, and public disclosures about, the AR Allowance. Olvera failed to identify these deficiencies when performing his focused consulting review.

77. Given those and other red flags they encountered, PCAOB standards called for the engagement team to obtain more persuasive evidence commensurate with the higher risk of material misstatement.[41] The team repeatedly failed to do so, however, and Olvera repeatedly failed to identify the deficiencies in the engagement team's Audit work. Accordingly, BDO and Olvera violated multiple PCAOB standards.[42]

vii. 2018 Restatement

78. During the third quarter of 2018, AAC identified that it had collected far less on AR than expected and determined that it needed to restate its 2016 and 2017 financial statements. In the 2018 Restatement, audited by BDO with Olvera serving as the FCR, AAC corrected errors related to its estimate of AR, net of the allowance for doubtful accounts. The Restatement reduced AAC's reported AR by $41.3 million (or 47%) and $30.3 million (or 32%) as of year-end 2016 and 2017. These adjustments in AR reduced reported assets by 11% and 7% as of the same dates. The Restatement also resulted in an increase to net loss of $20.6 million for 2016, and a reduction to net loss of $7.7 million for 2017 (due primarily to a reduction in the provision for doubtful accounts).

79. After the Restatement, the New York Stock Exchange delisted AAC's stock in October 2019, when the company failed to maintain adequate market capitalization over a consecutive 30-day trading period. In June 2020, AAC filed for bankruptcy protection under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

F. Musick Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards During the 2017 Audit

80. Musick violated applicable PCAOB rules and standards as a result of failures in his role as the engagement quality reviewer for the 2017 Audit.

81. Those failures relate to his review of the three estimates described above: AAC's EIV; Short Pay claims and AAC's associated 50% success rate assumption; and AAC's AR Allowance.

82. As noted above, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the PCAOB's auditing and related professional standards.[43]

83. In an audit, the engagement quality reviewer is responsible for evaluating the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[44] Among other things, the engagement quality reviewer should evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, significant risks identified by the engagement team,

44 See AS 1220.09.

including fraud risks.[45] The engagement quality reviewer should also evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed when performing the review indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[46]

84. In an audit, the engagement quality reviewer may provide concurring approval of issuance of the audit opinion only if, after performing the EQR with due care, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[47] Among other things, a significant engagement deficiency in an audit exists when the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB.[48]

85. During his EQR of the 2017 Audit, Musick knew that the engagement team identified valuation of AR, Short Pay AR, and the AR Allowance as significant accounting estimates and significant risks of material misstatement. He reviewed the team's work papers relating to the reasonableness of the 50% success rate and the amount of collections on Short Pay AR during 2017 that was inconsistent with that 50% reimbursement assumption. He also reviewed the work papers on the AR Allowance hindsight analysis, was aware of the PCAOB inspection finding that BDO had failed to appropriately evaluate the reasonableness of the AR Allowance during the 2015 audit, and was aware that there had been no direct audit testing of the loss rates AAC used for the AR Allowance since 2014.

86. As described in connection with the Firm's and Olvera's failures above, the red flags and deficiencies relating to the EIV, 50% success rate, and AR Allowance were reflected on the face of the work papers relating to those significant risk areas. An EQR performed with due care, in compliance with AS 1220, should have detected, and resulted in the engagement team addressing, those deficiencies. Nevertheless, Musick improperly accepted the team's significant judgments and approved the issuance of the 2017 Audit report.

87. As a result, Musick (a) failed to adequately evaluate the engagement team's audit responses to significant risks;[49] (b) failed to properly evaluate whether the engagement team's documentation indicated that the team responded appropriately to significant risks and supported the team's conclusions;[50] and (c) failed to perform his review with due professional care.[51] Because of his failure to exercise due professional care, he did not identify significant engagement deficiencies, such as the team failing to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence under PCAOB standards, and inappropriately provided his concurring approval of issuance of the Audit opinion, in violation of PCAOB rules and standards.[52]

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), BDO USA, P.C., Kevin Olvera, and Michael Musick are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for a period of one year from the date of this Order, Kevin Olvera's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Olvera shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "lead partner," "practitioner-in-charge," or "concurring partner"); (4) exercise authority, or supervise the work of another person exercising authority, to either sign a registered public accounting firm's name to an audit report, or to consent to the use of a previously issued audit report, for any issuer, broker, or dealer; (5) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as the "other auditor," or "another auditor," as those terms are used in AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors; or (6) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as a "Focused Consulting Reviewer," as that term is used in BDO's policies and procedures, or in any role that is equivalent to a Focused Consulting Reviewer, but differently denominated.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Kevin Olvera and Michael Musick are each required to complete, within one year from the date of this Order, twenty hours of continuing professional education and training pertinent to accounting for, and auditing of, issuers operating in the healthcare industry (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the CPE they are required to obtain in connection with any professional license); and

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4): (i) a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,000,000 is imposed on BDO USA, P.C.; (ii) a civil money penalty in the amount of $35,000 is imposed on Kevin Olvera; and (iii) a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed on Michael Musick.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Each Respondent shall pay their respective civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the person as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalties pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondents based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Each of the Respondents understands that, with respect to each Respondent, failure to pay the applicable civil money penalty described above may result in (a) in the case of BDO USA, P.C., a summary suspension of the Firm's PCAOB registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to BDO at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order; or (b) in the case of Olvera and Musick, respectively, a summary suspension or bar of the respondent pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(b), following written notice to him at the address he last provided to the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations in writing as of the time of the issuance of this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Deloitte & Touche S.A.S.,

Respondent.

September 26, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Deloitte & Touche S.A.S. ("DT Colombia," the "Firm," or "Respondent"), a registered public accounting firm;

(2) imposing a $900,000 civil money penalty on the Firm; and

(3) requiring DT Colombia to undertake and certify the completion of certain improvements to its system of quality control.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that DT Colombia violated PCAOB rules and standards, including quality control standards, in connection with the audit of the December 31, 2016 financial statements of Bancolombia S.A. ("Bancolombia" or the "Bank").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Deloitte & Touche S.A.S. is, and at all relevant times was, a limited liability corporation organized under Colombian law and headquartered in Bogotá, Colombia.[2] The Firm is licensed in Colombia by the Junta Central de Contadores, part of the Colombian Ministry of Commerce, Industry and Tourism, and a member of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited global network. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuer and Other Relevant Individual

2. Bancolombia S.A. is a financial institution based in Medellín, Colombia. According to its public filings, Bancolombia provides a wide range of financial products and services to a diversified individual, corporate, and government customer base throughout Colombia, Latin America, and the Caribbean region. At all relevant times, Bancolombia was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

3. The "Lead Partner" was a DT Colombia partner who retired from the Firm in 2021. The Lead Partner served as the engagement partner on the Firm's integrated audit of Bancolombia for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2016 ("2016 Audit"). On May 1, 2017, the Lead Partner authorized the issuance of the Firm's unqualified opinions on Bancolombia's 2016 consolidated financial statements and internal control over financial reporting (the "Audit Reports").

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] On January 31, 2023, the Firm filed a Form 4, Succeeding to the Registration Status of Predecessor, with the Board, disclosing that the Firm's form of organization had changed to a simplified joint stock corporation, and that Deloitte & Touche S.A.S. had succeeded to the registration of Deloitte & Touche Ltda.

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns DT Colombia's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and standards, including quality control standards.

5. DT Colombia's system of quality control failed to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and the Firm's standards of quality. In connection with the 2016 Audit, the Lead Partner and the engagement team failed to complete and appropriately document all necessary procedures prior to issuance of the Audit Reports. Instead, the Lead Partner and the engagement team continued to perform certain audit procedures and obtain additional audit evidence after the issuance of the Audit Reports, and, with certain exceptions, failed to appropriately document who performed the post-issuance work and the date such work was completed, as well as who reviewed the work and the date of such review, in violation of AS 1215, Audit Documentation.

6. These violations evidenced the failure of the Firm's policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the audit work would be performed and documented in accordance with PCAOB standards. DT Colombia's monitoring procedures were also not sufficient to identify the failure of the Lead Partner and the engagement team to timely perform and appropriately document their audit work.

7. Further, DT Colombia's system of quality control did not provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel would maintain independence (in fact or appearance) in all circumstances. Specifically, the Firm's 2016 Audit engagement letter incorporated language that, contrary to the independence criteria of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission" or "SEC"), indemnified the Firm against certain types of damages. In addition, the Firm failed to timely remove individuals with known impermissible financial relationships from the 2016 Audit engagement team.

D. DT Colombia Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

8. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[3] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[4] As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[5] Those policies and procedures should cover "planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, [and] documenting . . . the results of each engagement."[6]

9. PCAOB quality control standards also require that firms establish policies and procedures "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances . . . ."[7] PCAOB rules require that "[a] registered public accounting firm and its associated persons must be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period."[8] This requirement includes an obligation to satisfy "the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws."[9] Under relevant independence criteria, entering into an indemnity agreement with a client impairs an auditor's independence.[10]

10. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[11] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[12] Under

Further, including in engagement letters a clause that a registrant would release, indemnify or hold harmless from any liability and costs resulting from knowing misrepresentations by management would also impair the firm's independence.").

PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[13]

11. As set out below, DT Colombia failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards.

i. Failures Related to Compliance with Professional Standards

12. DT Colombia's system of quality control failed to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and the Firm's standards of quality. Specifically, DT Colombia's policies did not provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would comply with PCAOB standards related to the performance and documentation of audits.

13. These failures were evidenced by the fact that, after issuance of the Audit Reports, the Lead Partner and the engagement team revised certain audit documentation, and performed audit procedures or obtained supporting audit evidence. This post-issuance work prior to the documentation completion date[14] included performing certain audit procedures and obtaining additional evidence from the client related to revenue, interest expenses, derivatives, fair value testing, and control testing.

14. The Lead Partner and the engagement team tracked changes to the work papers after issuance in a log, referred to as the "Bitácora," that was maintained outside of the 2016 Audit file. Although the number of entries in the Bitácora exceeded 1,000, the version of the Bitácora included in the archived work papers listed just 10 entries that the Lead Partner had classified as "omitted procedures" performed after issuance. Other than for these "omitted procedures," the Lead Partner and the engagement team failed to appropriately document in the 2016 Audit file who performed the post-issuance work and the date such work was completed, as well as who reviewed the work and the date of such review, as required by AS 1215.

15. As a result of this conduct, the 2016 Audit file did not accurately reflect the timing "of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached," nor allow an experienced auditor to determine "the date such work was completed" or reviewed.[15] The modifications and additional work prior to the documentation completion date involved a large number of work papers and engagement personnel, and evidenced that the Firm's system of quality control did not provide it with reasonable assurance that its personnel would comply with PCAOB standards.

ii. Failures in Monitoring Compliance with Professional Standards

16. DT Colombia's monitoring procedures did not provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the Firm's policies and procedures concerning engagement performance were suitably designed and were being effectively applied.[16]

17. DT Colombia relied on internal inspections to monitor ongoing compliance with its policies and procedures regarding engagement performance, and the 2016 Audit was selected for internal inspection. The Firm's monitoring procedures, however, failed to comply with PCAOB quality controls standards, and, therefore, did not identify the conduct described above with respect to the 2016 Audit.

18. For example, DT Colombia's then National Professional Practice Director ("NPPD"), a senior member of the Firm with significant quality control responsibilities, inappropriately informed the Lead Partner that the 2016 Audit had been selected for internal inspection immediately after the Audit Reports had been issued. The Lead Partner then told members of the engagement team about the internal inspection prior to their assembling a complete and final set of audit documentation for the 2016 Audit, which led to some engagement team members making certain changes to the work papers prior to the internal inspection. The actions of the NPPD, a member of the Firm's quality control apparatus, frustrated the performance of an appropriate internal inspection.

19. As a result, DT Colombia's monitoring procedures did not provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's policies and procedures concerning engagement performance were suitably designed and being effectively applied, in violation of PCAOB quality control standards.[17]

iii. Failures in the Firm's Independence Policies and Procedures

20. DT Colombia's system of quality control also failed to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that it and its personnel maintained independence (in fact and appearance), as evidenced by the 2016 Audit engagement.

17 See QC § 20.17-.18, .20; QC § 30.02.

21. First, for example, the Firm signed a June 30, 2016 audit engagement letter incorporating an agreement with Bancolombia that, at variance with relevant independence criteria, indemnified the Firm against certain types of damages.[18] After the internal inspection identified that problematic language during its inspection of the 2016 Audit, the Firm immediately sent a letter to Bancolombia retroactively amending the 2016 engagement agreement to exclude any "indemnity granted in favor of Deloitte & Touche Ltda."

22. Second, although DT Colombia performed procedures during the 2016 Audit to assess whether assigned personnel were independent of Bancolombia, the Firm failed to timely remove personnel from the 2016 Audit engagement while they had impermissible financial relationships with the Bank.

23. For example, a senior manager on the 2016 Audit alerted the Lead Partner and the Firm in June 2016 that he had a mortgage loan on a second home through Bancolombia, which was an impermissible financial relationship under SEC Rule 2-01(c)(1)(ii)(A).[19] Despite knowing of this independence issue, the Firm failed to timely remove the senior manager, who continued working on the engagement for over six months and recorded 216 hours to the 2016 Audit. The Firm eventually removed the senior manager from the engagement team in January 2017.

24. In another example, an individual from the Firm's risk advisory practice, who was a member of the 2016 Audit engagement team, reported that she had an uninsured brokerage account with Bancolombia on January 4, 2017,[20] yet the Firm did not remove her from the 2016 Audit until sometime in February 2017, by which point she had recorded over 440 hours to the engagement.

[19] Rule 2-01(c)(1)(ii)(A) of SEC Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent when a member of the engagement team or his or her immediate family has any loan to or from an audit client, subject to certain exceptions. While Rule 2-01(c)(1)(ii)(A) contains an exception for mortgage loans from a financial institution made under its normal lending procedures, terms, and requirements, the exception only applies to a mortgage loan collateralized by a primary residence and not a secondary residence.

[20] Rule 2-01(c)(1)(ii)(C) of SEC Regulation S-X provides that an accountant is not independent when a member of the engagement team has a brokerage account that includes assets other than cash or securities, or the value of the account exceeds SIPC insurance coverage or its non-U.S. equivalent.

25. As evidenced by this conduct, DT Colombia's system of quality control failed to provide it with reasonable assurance that it and its personnel maintained independence (in fact and appearance) in all required circumstances.[21]

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Deloitte & Touche S.A.S. is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty of $900,000 is imposed on Deloitte & Touche S.A.S.

2. Respondent shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Deloitte & Touche S.A.S. as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

[21] See QC § 20.09.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy (except Respondent may seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification of any civil money penalty amounts from self-insurance provided through a captive insurer owned by Respondent and/or other firms within the network of which Respondent is a member that provides insurance solely to Respondent and other firms within that network); (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(F), (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(6), (9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by Deloitte & Touche S.A.S.: Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, Deloitte & Touche S.A.S. shall establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, quality control policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons (a) comply with PCAOB standards concerning audit documentation, audit evidence, and evaluating audit results; and (b) maintain independence in all required circumstances.

2. Training: Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, the Firm shall ensure that all Firm audit professionals involved in the performance of PCAOB audits who are considered audit seniors, audit team leaders, managers, directors, or partners have received 20 hours of training concerning U.S. GAAP, PCAOB rules and standards, and SEC reporting requirements, rules, and regulations since January 1, 2023.

3. Certification: Within 150 days of the entry of this Order, the Firm shall provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1-2 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

D. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Smythe LLP,

Respondent.

October 24, 2023

(1) censuring Smythe LLP ("Smythe," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $175,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Smythe violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with four audits of issuer clients. Smythe also violated the Board's quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Smythe LLP is a limited liability partnership located in British Columbia, Canada, and is registered to provide accounting services by the Chartered Professional Accountants of British Columbia. It is a member of Allinial Global, an association of independent firms specializing in accounting and advisory services. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuers

2. Scully Royalty, Ltd. ("Scully") is a corporation incorporated under the laws of the Cayman Islands, with its principal office at all relevant times in Hong Kong. Scully's public filings disclose that it is a merchant bank that provides financial services and has a royalty interest in the Scully iron ore mine in Newfoundland and Labrador, Canada. Smythe issued audit reports that Scully included in Forms 20-F filed with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for Scully's consolidated financial statements for fiscal year ended ("FYE") December 31, 2020 and FYE December 31, 2021. At all relevant times, Scully was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

3. Tower One Wireless Corp. ("Tower One") is a corporation incorporated under the laws of British Columbia, Canada, with its principal place of business at all relevant times in Vancouver, Canada. Tower One's public filings disclose that it is a build-to-suit tower owner, operator, and developer of multitenant communications structures. Smythe issued audit reports that Tower One included in Forms 20-F filed with the Commission for Tower One's consolidated financial statements for FYE December 31, 2020 and December 31, 2021. At all relevant times, Tower One was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Smythe's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

C. Other Relevant Entities

4. PKF Audisur SRL ("PKF Audisur") is a limited liability company headquartered in Buenos Aires, Argentina. At all relevant times, PKF Audisur was a public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii), and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). PKF Audisur is part of PKF International, a global network of accountancy firms. PKF Audisur is not now, and never has been, registered with the Board.

5. PricewaterhouseCoopers Malta Ltd. ("PwC Malta") is a limited liability company headquartered in Qormi, Malta. At all relevant times, PwC Malta was a public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii), and an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). PwC Malta is part of PwC, a global network of accountancy firms. PwC Malta is not now, and never has been, registered with the Board.

D. Summary

6. This matter concerns Smythe's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with four audits of issuer clients. In particular, Smythe used the work of two public accounting firms not registered with the PCAOB—PKF Audisur and PwC Malta (each, an "Unregistered Firm")—in a substantial role capacity in four issuer audits,[2] and repeatedly violated PCAOB rules and professional standards in connection with those audits. The Firm also violated the Board's quality control standards.

7. In particular, Smythe used the work of PKF Audisur on the audits of the FYE 2020 and 2021 consolidated financial statements of Tower One (the "Tower One Audits") and the work of PwC Malta on the audits of the FYE 2020 and 2021 consolidated financial statements of Scully (the "Scully Audits") (collectively, the "Audits").

8. In connection with each of the Audits, Smythe issued an audit report as principal auditor. During the Audits, PKF Audisur audited Tower One subsidiaries constituting between 88% and 97% of Tower One's assets and between 80% and 90% of its revenues, and PwC Malta audited Scully subsidiaries constituting between 21% and 23% of Scully's assets and between 17% and 24% of its revenues. Both PKF Audisur and PwC Malta thus audited significant assets and revenues of the issuers' subsidiaries, which were important to the issuers' financial statements as a whole, and each of the Unregistered Firms performed services that Smythe used or relied on in issuing its audit reports.

9. When Smythe's audit reports were issued, the Unregistered Firms' portion of the total audit hours ranged from 40% to 73%, and the Unregistered Firms' portion of the total audit fees ranged from 27% to 32%, each above the 20% level constituting substantial role participation by the Unregistered Firms.

10. Smythe knew from inquiries it made concerning the professional reputation of both firms that PKF Audisur and PwC Malta were not registered with the PCAOB, and also knew that the Unregistered Firms were required to register with the Board before the firms played a substantial role in any issuer audits. Smythe's quality control policies and procedures did not address, however, the use of the work of other auditors, or the participation of other accounting firms in a substantial role capacity. During each of the Audits, Smythe failed to evaluate the professional reputation of the Unregistered Firms with due professional care insofar as the firms were not PCAOB-registered, yet they audited significant assets and revenues of the issuers' subsidiaries that were important to the issuers' financial statements as a whole.

11. Smythe also did not adequately plan the Audits and failed, in establishing the overall audit strategy for the Audits, to adequately consider the violations of PCAOB rules and standards that would result if the Unregistered Firms played a substantial role in the Audits, as well as the nature, timing, and extent of the resources necessary to perform the Audits given the involvement of the Unregistered Firms.

12. Smythe also failed to appropriately coordinate its activities with the Unregistered Firms. In particular, Smythe asked the Unregistered Firms to perform their work in accordance with International Standards on Auditing ("ISA"), not PCAOB standards, concluding, without adequate analysis, that the Unregistered Firms' audit work relied on by Smythe was compliant with PCAOB standards.

13. Despite concluding that the Unregistered Firms would be playing a substantial role in the Audits, Smythe also concluded, incorrectly and without adequate basis, that performing additional audit procedures would somehow serve to "overcome" the Unregistered Firms' substantial role participation. Among other things, the Firm failed to consider that even after Smythe's performance of additional audit procedures, an Unregistered Firm exceeded 20% of the total audit hours and total audit fees in each of the Audits.

14. In addition, Smythe failed during the Tower One Audits to perform an adequate analysis to determine whether it could serve as principal auditor and issue its audit reports without reference to the work performed by or reports of PKF Audisur, and whether it could use the work of PKF Audisur, given that PKF Audisur had performed the majority of audit procedures with respect to between 88% and 97% of Tower One's assets and between 80% and 90% of its revenues.

15. Smythe thus failed, as described in more detail below, to comply with PCAOB rules and standards during the Audits.

16. Moreover, the repeated violations during the Audits described above demonstrate Smythe's failure to establish and implement adequate quality control policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, concerning the use of the work of other accounting firms, in violation of PCAOB quality control standards.

E. Smythe Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the Audits

17. Smythe served as the principal auditor during each of the Audits. In each independent auditor's report issued by Smythe in connection with the Audits, Smythe stated that it had conducted its audits in accordance with PCAOB standards. The audit reports did not make reference to using the work of another auditor.[3]

18. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[4] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[5] In addition, AS 1015, Due Professional Care in the Performance of Work, requires "[d]ue

[4] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards; PCAOB Rule 3200, Auditing Standards.

[5] See AS 3101.02, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion ("The auditor is in a position to express an unqualified opinion on the financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ('PCAOB') and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.").

professional care . . . to be exercised in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report."[6]

19. AS 1205 establishes requirements that apply when an auditor of an issuer's financial statements uses the work and reports of other independent auditors who have audited the financial statements of one or more subsidiaries, divisions, branches, components, or investments included in that issuer's financial statements.[7]

20. In circumstances when a significant part of the audit is performed by another auditor, a firm, in considering whether it can serve as principal auditor, must decide whether its own participation in the audit is sufficient to enable it to serve as the principal auditor and to report as such on the financial statements.[8]

21. In deciding this question, the auditor should consider, among other things, the materiality of the portion of the financial statements the firm audited in comparison with the portion audited by other auditors, the extent of the auditor's knowledge of the overall financial statements, and the importance of the components the firm audited in relation to the enterprise as a whole.[9]

22. Whether or not the principal auditor decides to make reference to the audit of the other auditor, it should make inquiries concerning the professional reputation and independence of the other auditor.[10] In addition, the principal auditor should adopt appropriate measures to assure the coordination of its activities with those of the other auditor in order to achieve a proper review of the matters affecting the consolidating or combining of accounts in the financial statements.[11]

23. A public accounting firm that plays a substantial role in the preparation or furnishing of an audit report with respect to any issuer, broker, or dealer must be registered with the Board.[12] A public accounting firm plays a substantial role in the preparation or furnishing of an audit report and is thus required to register when it: (1) performs material services that a public accounting firm uses or relies on in issuing all or part of its audit report; or (2) performs the majority of the audit procedures with respect to a subsidiary or component of any issuer, broker, or dealer, the assets or revenues of which constitute 20% or more of the consolidated assets or revenues of such issuer, broker, or dealer, necessary for the principal auditor to issue an audit report.[13]

24. The term "material services" means "services, for which the engagement hours or fees constitute 20% or more of the total engagement hours or fees, respectively, provided by the principal auditor in connection with the issuance of all or part of its audit report."[14]

F. Smythe's Use of the Unregistered Firms' Work in the Audits

25. During the Tower One Audits, Smythe understood that for the relevant fiscal periods, PKF Audisur would be auditing Tower One's three subsidiaries, located in Argentina and Mexico. Smythe knew that the three subsidiaries constituted between 88% and 97% of Tower One's assets and between 80% and 90% of its revenues and, as such, that the subsidiaries' audits were important to Tower One's financial statements as a whole. During audit planning for each of the Tower One Audits, Smythe inquired as to PKF Audisur's professional reputation and independence, and understood from its inquiries that PKF Audisur was not registered with the PCAOB.

26. During the Scully Audits, Smythe understood that Scully had historically selected PwC Malta to complete statutory audits of three Scully subsidiaries located predominantly in Malta and Germany. Smythe knew that the three Scully subsidiaries constituted between 21% and 23% of Scully's assets and between 17% and 24% of its revenues, and as such, that the subsidiaries' audits were important to Scully's financial statements as a whole. During audit planning for each of the Scully Audits, Smythe inquired as to PwC Malta's professional reputation and independence, and understood from its inquiries that PwC Malta was not registered with the PCAOB.

27. Smythe concluded and documented its expectation that an Unregistered Firm would be playing a substantial role in each of the Audits and its understanding that a component auditor—such as PKF Audisur or PwC Malta—that plays a substantial role in the preparation or furnishing of an audit report by Smythe was required to be registered with the PCAOB.

28. Smythe reasoned, however, without adequate basis, that Smythe's performance of additional audit procedures would somehow serve to "overcome" the Unregistered Firms' substantial role participation.

29. Smythe did not consider during the Audits that its performance of additional audit procedures did not: reduce the percentages of issuer assets and revenues that the Unregistered Firms audited; reduce the importance of the component audits performed by the Unregistered Firms in relation to the issuers' enterprises as a whole; subtract from the total audit hours performed by the Unregistered Firms or the total audit fees incurred by the Unregistered Firms; or ultimately reduce the Unregistered Firms' participation percentages to levels below substantial role participation.

30. In each of the Audits, an Unregistered Firm played a substantial role—a level of participation that Smythe knew required PCAOB registration.[15] PKF Audisur performed the majority of the audit procedures with respect to the assets and revenues held by Tower One's three subsidiaries, which constituted between 88% and 97% of Tower One's assets and between 80% and 90% of its revenues—substantially above the "20% or more" substantial role participation threshold.[16] In addition, PwC Malta performed the majority of the audit procedures with respect to the assets and revenues held by Scully's three subsidiaries. The assets audited by PwC Malta during the Scully Audits constituted between 21% and 23% of Scully's total assets—also over the substantial role participation threshold.[17] PwC Malta also exceeded the 20% or more threshold with respect to revenues during the FYE Scully 2020 audit, at 24%.[18]

31. The Unregistered Firms' engagement hours and fees also amounted to "material services" that Smythe relied upon in issuing its reports, and further constituted substantial role participation in the Audits.[19] Indeed, at the time of the issuance of Smythe's audit reports for the Audits, the percentage participation by the Unregistered Firms exceeded the 20% substantial role threshold in both total audit hours and total audit fees. As shown in the table below, the Unregistered Firms' portion of the total audit hours on the Audits ranged from 40% to 73%, and the Unregistered Firms' portion of the total audit fees ranged from 27% to 32%.

Issuer	FYE	Unregistered Firm Total Audit Hours	Unregistered Firm Total Audit Fees
Tower One	Dec. 31, 2020	69%	27%
Tower One	Dec. 31, 2021	73%	28%
Scully	Dec. 31, 2020	40%	29%
Scully	Dec. 31, 2021	53%	32%

32. In its Form APs filed with the Board in connection with the Audits, Smythe confirmed the Unregistered Firms' substantial role participation. On May 14, 2021, Smythe reported on Form AP that PKF Audisur performed 68% of the total audit hours for the FYE 2020 Tower One Audit, and revised that percentage on March 7, 2022, on an amended Form AP/A, to 69%. On May 31, 2022, Smythe reported on Form AP that PKF Audisur performed 73% of the total audit hours for the FYE 2021 Tower One Audit. On June 4, 2021, Smythe reported on Form AP that PwC Malta performed 38% of the total audit hours for the FYE 2020 Scully Audit. On March 7, 2022, Smythe revised that amount on an amended Form AP/A, to 40%. On June 3, 2022, Smythe reported on Form AP that PwC Malta performed 53% of the total audit hours for the FYE 2021 Scully Audit.

i. Smythe Failed to Adequately Assess the Unregistered Firms' Professional Reputation

33. During the Audits, Smythe made inquiries concerning the professional reputation of the Unregistered Firms. Smythe's inquiries, however, lacked due professional care. An adequate inquiry and analysis performed with due professional care concerning the Unregistered Firms' professional reputation should have revealed that Smythe should not have used their audit work, given the significance of the assets and revenues that Smythe was requesting the Unregistered Firms to audit, the hours and fees the Unregistered Firms reasonably could be expected to incur, and Smythe's expectation that the Unregistered Firms would not be not registered with the PCAOB yet would play a substantial role in the Audits.[20]

ii. Smythe Failed to Appropriately Plan the Audits

34. PCAOB standards provide that, as part of audit planning, "the auditor should establish an overall audit strategy."[21] The auditor should take into account, among other points, "[t]he nature, timing, and extent of resources necessary to perform the engagement."[22] "The auditor should modify the overall audit strategy and the audit plan as necessary if circumstances change significantly during the course of the audit."[23] PCAOB standards also require that "[d]ue professional care . . . be exercised in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report."[24]

35. Smythe conducted all audit planning and designed all audit programs and audit procedures during the Audits.

36. In establishing the overall audit strategy for the Audits, Smythe did not adequately plan the Audits and failed to adequately take into account: (1) the fact that the Unregistered Firms' participation in the Audits would constitute a violation of PCAOB rules if they played a substantial role, as Smythe expected; and (2) the nature, timing, and extent of the resources necessary to perform the Audits, insofar as those resources included the involvement of the Unregistered Firms.[25] As a result of these failures, Smythe did not engage in adequate planning to ensure that the Unregistered Firms would not violate PCAOB registration requirements.

37. Moreover, as the Audits were being performed, Smythe failed to modify the Firm's audit strategies and audit plans to ensure compliance with the relevant regulatory requirements. Instead, the Firm throughout the Audits continued to believe, incorrectly, that the Unregistered Firms could play a substantial role in the Audits but not violate PCAOB rules and standards.

25 See AS 2101.05 ("Planning is not a discrete phase of an audit but, rather, a continual and iterative process that . . . continues until the completion of the current audit.").

38. Accordingly, in violation of PCAOB Rules 3100 and 3200, Smythe violated AS 2101. Smythe also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care in planning the Audits.

iii. Smythe Failed to Appropriately Coordinate its Activities with the Unregistered Firms

39. Smythe failed during the Audits to adopt appropriate measures to assure the coordination of its activities with the Unregistered Firms in order to achieve a proper review of the matters affecting the consolidating or combining of accounts in Tower One and Scully's financial statements.[26]

40. At the outset of each of the Tower One Audits, Smythe sent PKF Audisur a group audit instructions letter. For each of the Tower One Audits, the letter detailed the procedures Smythe, as principal auditor, was directing PKF Audisur to perform in connection with the audits. The letter addressed, among other things, Smythe's expectations of the engagement timeline, Smythe's assessed materiality at the group level and materiality assigned to the relevant Tower One subsidiaries, significant risks of the audit assessed by Smythe during the planning process for the audit, and specific instructions regarding the nature, timing, and extent of the audit work Smythe expected to see performed by PKF Audisur. In connection with each of the Scully Audits, Smythe sent a similar instructions letter to PwC Malta.

41. The instructions given by Smythe to the Unregistered Firms during each of the Audits instructed the Unregistered Firms to perform the component audits in accordance with ISA.[27] Smythe did not provide the Unregistered Firms with any comparison or analysis of relevant ISA or PCAOB standards.

42. During each of the Audits, in response to the instructions letter, PKF Audisur and PwC Malta sent Smythe an executed acknowledgement letter and agreed, among other things, to perform the requested procedures pursuant to ISA, with the explicit understanding that the work performed by the Unregistered Firms would be relied upon by Smythe in issuing the audit reports for the Audits. Smythe did not provide the Unregistered Firms with any guidance regarding PCAOB standards.

[26] See AS 1205.10.

[27] The instructions in each of the Audits contemplated Smythe's use of PKF Audisur and PwC Malta pursuant to AS 1205.

43. Smythe did not adequately evaluate whether ISA differed from PCAOB standards and did not perform any procedures to address the Unregistered Firms' work having been performed under ISA rather than PCAOB standards.

44. Smythe thus failed, during the Audits, to perform adequate procedures to determine whether the work the Unregistered Firms performed complied with the PCAOB standards referenced in its audit reports.[28]

iv. Smythe's Consideration of Whether to Serve as Tower One's Principal Auditor Lacked Sufficient Basis

45. Although Smythe documented its consideration of the materiality of the portion of the financial statements the Firm audited in comparison with the portion audited by PKF Audisur and the importance of the components PKF Audisur audited in relation to Tower One's enterprises as a whole, Smythe's consideration lacked a sufficient basis under these circumstances to conclude that its own participation was sufficient to enable it to serve as the principal auditor for the Tower One Audits and to report as such on the relevant financial statements.[29] In particular, Smythe failed to perform an adequate analysis to determine whether it could, given the performance by PKF Audisur of the majority of audit procedures with respect to between 88% and 97% of Tower One's assets and between 80% and 90% of its revenues, use the work of PKF Audisur during the Tower One Audits and issue its audit reports without reference to the work performed by or reports of PKF Audisur.[30] Smythe thus violated AS 1205. Smythe also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care in its consideration of whether to serve as principal auditor during the Tower One Audits.

v. Smythe's Opinions Were Not Formed on the Basis of Audits Performed Pursuant to PCAOB Standards

46. In addition, because Smythe issued audit reports containing unqualified opinions on Tower One's and Scully's financial statements when the Firm had in fact failed during those audits to exercise due professional care and to adhere to PCAOB standards relating to the use of the work of other auditors and audit planning, as described above, Smythe violated AS 3101 during the Audits.[31]

G. Smythe Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

47. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[32] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[33] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[34]

48. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[35] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, the "[r]elevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures."[36]

49. Smythe failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements related to using the work of other accounting firms.

50. During the Audits, Smythe's quality control policies and procedures did not address the use of other auditors or substantial role participation by other accounting firms, and the Firm failed to implement such policies and procedures and failed to monitor the relevance and adequacy of its existing policies and procedures with respect to using the work of other accounting firms. As a result, Smythe repeatedly used the Unregistered Firms to play a substantial role in the Audits.

51. Accordingly, Smythe failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(5), Smythe is censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), the Board imposes a civil money penalty of $175,000 on Smythe.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by Smythe. Within three months of the date of this Order, Smythe shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements when the Firm uses audit work performed or supervised by other accounting firms.

2. Reporting. Within three months of the date of this Order, Smythe shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by Smythe or, if Smythe concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, provide a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, Smythe shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and Smythe's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within six months of the date of this Order, Smythe's managing partner shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that Smythe has implemented all of the modifications and additions to its policies and procedures that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of Smythe's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. Smythe shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. Smythe understands that a failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-027

November 14, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA ("Respondent," "PwC Greece," or the "Firm");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $3,000,000 on Respondent; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with its audit of the December 31, 2016 financial statements of Aegean Marine Petroleum Network Inc. ("Aegean" or the "Company").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings contained herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of this proceeding, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA is a corporation organized under the laws of Greece. PwC Greece is a member of the PricewaterhouseCoopers International Limited network ("PwC Global"). The Firm registered with the Board on June 10, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. PwC Greece is, and at all relevant times was, a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i). PwC Greece was first appointed as Aegean's independent auditor in June 2016, and thereafter served as the principal auditor for the integrated audit of Aegean's 2016 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting (the "Audit").

B. Issuer

2. Aegean Marine Petroleum Network Inc. was, at all relevant times, a Marshall Islands corporation, headquartered in Greece, and traded on the New York Stock Exchange from 2006 to 2018. It was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). In its Form 20-F filing for the year ended December 31, 2016, Aegean described itself as an "international marine fuel logistics company that markets and physically supplies refined marine fuel and lubricants to vessels in port, at sea and on rivers."

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

C. Summary

3. This matter concerns PwC Greece's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Audit and specifically with its audit procedures concerning transactions between Aegean and four counterparties that management represented were located in Fujairah, United Arab Emirates (each a "Counterparty," together the "Four Counterparties"). Aegean's records indicated that it both purchased fuel from and sold fuel to the Four Counterparties, often on or about the same date and in similar quantities. However, Aegean recorded that it sold fuel to the Four Counterparties at a much higher price than the price it paid to the Four Counterparties for its purchases. The sales to the Four Counterparties accounted for $543 million of Aegean's 2016 revenue (13% of revenue), and the accounts receivable ("A/R") from those transactions at year-end 2016 totaled $172 million (11% of Aegean's total assets).

4. During its acceptance procedures for the 2016 Audit, PwC Greece had considered publicly available information indicating that a long-time member of Aegean's executive leadership team who had a significant degree of control over the company ("Aegean Executive") had been criminally convicted in 2014 for fuel smuggling, and accused of a variety of other criminal activity. That information indicated that the Aegean Executive's fuel smuggling conviction involved "virtual invoicing," which the Audit engagement partner[2] understood to mean the creation of false documents relating to fuel purchases/sales in the years 1993-1995. As a result, the Firm's engagement team for the Audit assessed during the Audit that there was significant risk of material misstatement due to fraud, related to concerns about the ethics of management.

5. During the Audit, the engagement team encountered evidence that raised concerns about the transactions and outstanding balances associated with the Four Counterparties, including concerns about the collectibility of revenue from the Four Counterparties. Those concerns, among other issues, contributed to the engagement partner delaying the completion of the Audit, which was originally scheduled for late April 2017, so that the engagement team could gather additional audit evidence.

6. In response to the delay, Aegean requested a meeting with members of PwC Greece's senior leadership so that the Aegean Executive could register his complaints about the delay. Prior to the meeting, the engagement partner briefed a member of PwC Greece leadership on the bases for the delay, including that Aegean had not provided audit evidence in several areas and that, as of the end of April 2017, there had been no cash collections or payments on any of the sales or purchases between Aegean and the Four Counterparties recorded in 2016. During the meeting, which occurred on May 3, 2017, the Aegean Executive discussed the Four Counterparties' transactions with the PwC Greece leaders and, more broadly, complained to them that PwC Greece was doing too much audit work.[3]

7. Over the next two weeks, the engagement team uncovered significant inconsistent audit evidence concerning the Four Counterparties, which the engagement team should have viewed as red flags that raised substantial doubt about management's assertions in Aegean's financial statements relating to the Four Counterparties' transactions and balances.

8. Most significantly, at the engagement team's instruction, staff from a PwC Global member firm in Dubai, United Arab Emirates ("PwC Dubai") attempted to visit the office addresses for the Four Counterparties that Aegean had provided to the engagement team, but found no evidence that the Four Counterparties were located there and reported that fact to the engagement team.[4] However, the engagement team failed to respond with due professional care and appropriate professional skepticism. Instead, the engagement team disregarded that, and other contradictory audit evidence concerning the Four Counterparties, without appropriately resolving the inconsistencies. As a result, the Firm violated PCAOB standards when, on May 16, 2017, the Firm issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on Aegean's financial statements, because it had not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support that opinion.

9. PwC Greece also violated PCAOB standards because the engagement team failed to document in its work papers various procedures performed during the Audit relating to the Four Counterparties, including PwC Dubai's visits to the Four Counterparties' asserted addresses. The engagement team further failed to identify the issues with the Four Counterparties' transactions in its engagement completion document for the Audit, a document in which PCAOB standards required the Firm to identify all significant findings or issues.

10. After the 2016 Audit, both the PwC Greece engagement team and Aegean's Audit Committee continued to raise questions about the collectibility of the A/R from the Four

[3] During the May 3, 2017 meeting, the PwC Greece leaders informed the Aegean Executive that the audit would be complete only when the engagement team had received the necessary requested material and had finished its audit testing.

[4] At the time PwC Dubai reported the results of its visits to the engagement team, only three of the visits had been attempted. The engagement team then instructed PwC Dubai to cancel the fourth visit.

Counterparties. In connection with the never-completed audit of Aegean's 2017 financial statements, the engagement team discovered that information it had received from Aegean during the 2016 Audit appeared to have been falsified. PwC Greece shared that information with Aegean's Audit Committee and Aegean later announced in 2018 that, based on an internal investigation, it believed that the Four Counterparties were shell companies, with no material assets or operations, owned or controlled by former employees or affiliates of the Company. Aegean's Audit Committee and Board of Directors further concluded that the transactions with the Four Counterparties recorded from 2015 to 2017 lacked economic substance, and that the resulting A/R were uncollectible.

D. Background

11. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms comply with the Board's auditing standards.[5] Under these standards, an auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[6] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care, exercise professional skepticism, and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to afford a reasonable basis to support the opinion expressed in the auditor's report.[7] The exercise of professional skepticism requires a "questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence."[8]

12. PCAOB standards provide that the auditor should properly plan the audit.[9] "Planning the audit includes establishing the overall audit strategy for the engagement and developing an audit plan, which includes, in particular, planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risks of material misstatement."[10] When developing the audit strategy and audit plan, the auditor should evaluate, among other things, whether risks identified in the client acceptance process are important to the company's financial statements and internal control over financial reporting and, if so, how they will affect the auditor's procedures.[11] The auditor must also design and implement audit responses that specifically address the identified and assessed risks of material misstatement, including assessed risks of material misstatement due to fraud ("fraud risks").[12]

13. Planning is not a discrete phase of an audit but, rather, a continual and iterative process that continues until the completion of the audit.[13] The auditor should modify the overall audit strategy and the audit plan as necessary if circumstances change significantly during the course of the audit.[14]

14. Ultimately, the auditor must plan and perform the audit to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to support the audit opinion.[15] Among other things, "[t]he auditor should obtain corroboration for management's explanations regarding significant unusual or unexpected transactions, events, amounts, or relationships. If management's responses to the auditor's inquiries appear to be implausible, inconsistent with other audit evidence, imprecise, or not at a sufficient level of detail to be useful, the auditor should perform procedures to address the matter."[16]

15. To be appropriate, evidence must be both relevant and reliable.[17] "If the auditor has not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence about a relevant assertion or has substantial doubt about a relevant assertion, the auditor should perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address the matter."[18] In forming an opinion, the auditor should take into account all relevant audit evidence, regardless of whether it appears to corroborate or to contradict the assertions in the financial statements.[19] "If audit evidence obtained from one source is inconsistent with that obtained from another, or if the auditor has doubts about the reliability of information to be used as audit evidence, the auditor should perform the audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter and should determine the effect, if any, on other aspects of the audit."[20]

16. As discussed in Sections III.E-F below, PwC Greece failed to comply with these and other PCAOB rules and standards during the Audit.

i. The Firm Identified a Fraud Risk for the Aegean Audit

17. The 2016 Audit was PwC Greece's first audit of Aegean. As a result, before beginning the Audit, the Firm first performed procedures regarding the acceptance of the client relationship.[21]

18. During the client acceptance procedures, the Firm considered the criminal allegations that had been made against the Aegean Executive over an extended period of years. On June 16, 2016, two members of PwC Greece's leadership and the three Firm partners who would be assigned to the Audit all met to discuss whether to accept Aegean as an audit client. During the meeting, the participants discussed the Aegean Executive's role at Aegean and his criminal history, including, specifically, a conviction for fuel smuggling accomplished through "virtual invoicing," which the Firm's engagement partner on the Audit understood meant the creation of false documents relating to purchases/sales of fuel.

19. During that June 16 acceptance meeting, the Firm also considered inquiries that it had made to Aegean's predecessor auditor, which had audited Aegean since 2006. The engagement team's documentation of those inquiries indicated that the predecessor auditor communicated to PwC Greece that: (1) there had been negative media and criminal matters relating to the Aegean Executive, but the PwC Greece engagement team did not understand the predecessor auditor to have identified any other matters for PwC Greece's consideration as bearing on the integrity of management; and (2) the predecessor auditor had communicated to management during the prior audit that there were significant deficiencies in Aegean's internal control over financial reporting, arising from information technology general controls.

[21] PCAOB quality control standards provide that firms should establish client acceptance and continuance policies and procedures that provide a firm with reasonable assurance that the likelihood of association with a client whose management lacks integrity is minimized. See QC § 20.14, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice. Such policies and procedures should also provide reasonable assurance that the firm appropriately considers the risks associated with providing services in the particular circumstances. See QC § 20.15.

20. The participants in the June 16 acceptance meeting concluded that PwC Greece could accept the audit, but they also determined that the audit client should be classified as "High Risk" for anti-money laundering purposes.

21. At the time PwC Greece accepted the Audit, the Firm understood that the Aegean Executive was a significant Aegean shareholder, occupied "a role adjacent to that of the Company's CEO/CODM," and was "heavily involved in a vast spectrum of the daily operations of the Company and makes decisions related with the Company's operations." After the Firm accepted the 2016 Audit, but prior to year-end 2016, Aegean entered into an agreement to purchase the Aegean Executive's shares in the Company. PwC Greece understood that, despite the share buy-out, the Aegean Executive still remained actively engaged in key aspects of Aegean's business.

22. In light of the Aegean Executive's criminal history and role at the Company, PwC Greece documented in the Audit work papers that it had identified a risk concerning the integrity and ethics of management, which it linked to the fraud risk of management override of controls.[22]

ii. Significant Deficiencies in Aegean's Accounting System Increased the Risks Around the Four Counterparties' Transactions and Outstanding Balances

23. At the time of the Audit, the PwC Greece engagement team was aware that there were significant internal control deficiencies in the accounting system for Aegean's principal operating subsidiary, Aegean Marine Petroleum S.A. ("AMP"), where Aegean recorded most of its revenues. About 70% of Aegean's year-end consolidated accounts receivable were attributable to AMP's transactions.

24. The engagement team understood, among other things, that: (1) there was only one Aegean employee with knowledge of the AMP accounting system's design, and that employee could edit files and reports in the system; (2) the accounting system had no audit log functionality; (3) Aegean's accounting staff all shared a single login to the accounting system, which provided them with unlimited system access (resulting in a lack of segregation of duties); and (4) there was no means to extract journal entries from the accounting system. These significant deficiencies increased the risk of material misstatement for the transactions and outstanding balances recorded in that system, which included all of Aegean's transactions and balances with the Four Counterparties.

[22] PCAOB standards provide that, in establishing an overall audit strategy, the auditor should take into account the results from risks evaluated as a part of client acceptance. See AS 2101.07-.08.

25. In response to these deficiencies, Aegean, at the urging of the engagement team, adopted and tested a manual matching control for revenue, and the engagement team then performed substantive tests of details on more than 10% of revenue transactions. However, the added matching control did not adequately compensate for the known deficiencies in the AMP accounting system. Nor did the matching control and the extent of substantive testing sufficiently address the increased risk of material misstatement through override of controls for transactions recorded in that system.

iii. The Four Counterparties' Transactions Were Material and Atypical

26. During the Audit, the engagement team understood that the revenues from the Four Counterparties were both significant in size and generated unusually high margins. The Four Counterparties' transactions were Aegean's largest transactions and accounted for $543 million (13%) of Aegean's 2016 revenue. The sales margins on the revenue transactions with the Four Counterparties—i.e., the difference between the revenue earned on an individual sale and the cost of sale for that transaction—as calculated by the PwC Greece engagement team—were sometimes more than four times Aegean's average sales margin for its 2016 sales.

27. Because of their size and high margins, the Four Counterparties' transactions had a material impact on Aegean's net income. For 2016, the Four Counterparties' transactions generated approximately 38% of Aegean's gross profit, and 240% of its pre-tax income (i.e., the transactions moved Aegean from a gross loss to a gross profit).

28. The engagement team also identified that there were substantial unpaid A/R from the Four Counterparties' transactions. Specifically, the team understood that Aegean had $172 million in A/R recorded from the Four Counterparties at year-end 2016. Those receivables amounted to 11% of Aegean's total assets as of year-end 2016. The engagement team also understood that, as of the end of April 2017, no cash had been received from the Four Counterparties for any revenues recorded in 2016.

29. Although Aegean had not collected cash for any of its 2016 sales to the Four Counterparties through the end of April 2017, the Firm understood that Aegean had nevertheless accounted for a significant portion of the A/R as having been satisfied in 2016. Specifically, the engagement team identified that Aegean had offset its accounts payable ("A/P") from its fuel purchases from the Four Counterparties against the A/R arising from its fuel sales to the Four Counterparties, which reduced Aegean's liabilities to the Four Counterparties to zero and reduced the outstanding A/R from the Four Counterparties by an equal amount.

30. The engagement team also identified that the transactions with the Four Counterparties, which the engagement team understood had been occurring since at least 2015, were unusual because they often involved Aegean simultaneously contracting with the same counterparty to both sell and purchase fuel in roughly the same quantities but at much different prices. The engagement team's analyses of the transactions revealed that Aegean sometimes sold fuel to the Four Counterparties at more than twice the price that Aegean had purchased fuel from the same Counterparty just days earlier. The engagement team further identified that the records Aegean initially provided to the team appeared to indicate that Aegean was selling and purchasing the same type of fuel from the Four Counterparties in these matched transactions, with no explanation for the much more favorable pricing given to Aegean.

31. When the engagement team asked for an explanation of the transactions with the Four Counterparties, the team was told that Aegean was engaged in "blending" transactions at its Fujairah facility whereby: (1) Aegean purchased fuel from the Four Counterparties at a low price because the fuel failed to meet the applicable fuel quality specification ("off-spec" fuel); (2) Aegean reprocessed that low-quality fuel at its Fujairah facility by "blending" it to bring it within the specification ("on-spec"); and (3) Aegean sold on-spec fuel back to the Four Counterparties, which commanded a higher price.[23]

32. The transactions with the Four Counterparties were atypical for Aegean. Aegean's Form 20-F indicated that Aegean's typical fuel sales involved loading fuel onto marine vessels. However, both the purchase and sale transactions with the Four Counterparties all involved onshore, inter-tank transfers. More specifically, the transactions with the Four Counterparties all involved Aegean delivering fuel to, or purchasing fuel from, third-party ground storage tanks located nearby Aegean's own tanks in Fujairah.

33. Additionally, the inter-tank transfers with the Four Counterparties did not generate the same types of transaction documents as Aegean's deliveries to and from marine vessels. Aegean's other fuel transactions were generally supported by delivery notes signed by purchasing parties. For the Four Counterparties' transactions, however, the engagement team only obtained from Aegean photocopies of Certificates of Quantity of a third-party surveyor (the "Surveyor"), which appeared to certify the volume of fuel transferred between tanks for each transaction, but, unlike Aegean's typical delivery notes, did not include the signature of the purchasing party.

iv. PwC Greece Encountered Difficulties in Getting Information About the Four Counterparties, Including from Aegean

34. The engagement team discussed the Four Counterparties' transactions and outstanding balances with a member of PwC Greece's senior leadership, and the Firm determined that those transactions and outstanding balances warranted significant audit testing. However, the engagement team encountered substantial difficulty in obtaining information from Aegean to complete that audit testing.

35. For example, the engagement team encountered substantial difficulties obtaining street addresses for the Four Counterparties from Aegean to be used for confirmation requests about the A/R balances. Initially, Aegean provided the engagement team with only PO Box addresses for each of the Four Counterparties and, for one Counterparty, a "hotmail.com" email address. Although the team initially sent confirmation requests to those addresses and later received responses, the team was unable to locate any publicly available information to corroborate that the PO Box addresses were correct or that the Four Counterparties even existed.[24]

36. The engagement team therefore insisted that Aegean provide the Firm with street addresses for the Four Counterparties so that it could send them new confirmation requests. The engagement team made repeated requests to Aegean for those street addresses from mid-March to late April, emphasizing that the requests were a high priority. However, Aegean did not provide the street addresses until early May, after the engagement partner had delayed the audit report and informed Aegean that it would not issue an unqualified audit report without additional audit evidence to support the collectibility of the Four Counterparties' outstanding A/R balances or, alternatively, an adjustment relating to the value of those balances.

[24] PCAOB standards provide that the auditor "should direct the confirmation request to a third party who the auditor believes is knowledgeable about the information to be confirmed." AS 2310.26, The Confirmation Process. "During the performance of confirmation procedures, the auditor should maintain control over the confirmation requests and responses. Maintaining control means establishing direct communication between the intended recipient and the auditor to minimize the possibility that the results will be biased because of interception and alteration of the confirmation requests or responses." Id. at .28 (footnote omitted).

37. The engagement team also requested ledger cards from Aegean's accounting system—i.e., system-generated records showing account details for each of the Four Counterparties that would help the engagement team understand how Aegean had calculated the accounts receivable balance for each of the Four Counterparties. However, Aegean explained that it was unable to provide ledger cards because of shortcomings in the AMP system. Instead, Aegean offered to help the engagement team manually re-create the debit and credit history that Aegean purportedly used to track and calculate the payable and receivable balances.

38. The engagement team also requested the Surveyor's Certificates of Quantity and Certificates of Quality for the Four Counterparties' transactions. The former purported to verify the quantity of fuel delivered in each transaction and identified both the receiving and sending tank. The latter purported to provide a chemical analysis of the fuel delivered in each transaction. The engagement team obtained from Aegean photocopies of those certificates, but did not obtain additional audit evidence addressing their reliability.

39. The engagement team also requested a copy of the contract between Aegean and the Surveyor. However, Aegean informed PwC Greece that no such contract existed.

v. In Late April, the Firm Delayed Its Audit Report Because It Lacked Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence

40. The Firm originally planned to issue its audit opinion for the 2016 Aegean Audit at the end of April 2017. However, as that deadline approached, the engagement team recognized that it did not have sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support an unqualified audit report because, among other things: (1) the engagement team did not have sufficient appropriate evidence concerning the collectibility of the A/R of the Four Counterparties, and (2) Aegean had not yet provided the engagement team with evidence that it had completed implementation and testing of the new manual internal control for revenue in response to the significant deficiencies in the AMP accounting system.

41. As of the end of April, the engagement team still had not received street addresses for the Four Counterparties so that the team could send out new A/R confirmation requests. There also had not been any cash collections for any of the 2016 revenue transactions involving the Four Counterparties, four full months after year-end. As a result, the engagement team had substantial doubts about the collectibility of the $172 million A/R balance for the Four Counterparties that remained after Aegean had netted off and eliminated all the A/P balances incurred through purchases from the Four Counterparties.

42. The engagement team informed Aegean in late April that the Firm would not issue an audit report at the end of April because the Firm did not have sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning certain audit areas, including the collectibility of the Four Counterparties' A/R. The Firm also notified Aegean that, in order to avoid an audit adjustment to the year-end 2016 A/R balances from the Four Counterparties, Aegean would need to collect those balances prior to the Firm issuing the audit report or offer other reliable evidence of those balances' collectibility.

vi. Firm Management Was Aware of the Engagement Team's Difficulties in the Audit Related to the Four Counterparties and Met with the Aegean Executive About the Audit

43. In early 2017, the engagement team notified a member of the Firm's leadership team ("Firm Leader A") about the Four Counterparties' transactions. The engagement team identified for Firm Leader A, among other things: (1) the fact that Aegean was both buying and selling fuel from the same parties; (2) that Aegean purported to be selling on-spec fuel and buying off-spec fuel in the Four Counterparties' transactions; and (3) that Aegean had not collected any cash payments on its 2016 sales to the Four Counterparties. The engagement team informed Firm Leader A in April 2017 that they were still waiting for Aegean to provide significant information, and that they did not yet have adequate evidence on the Four Counterparties' A/R to support an unqualified audit opinion.

44. Shortly after the audit report was delayed, an Aegean representative contacted another member of the Firm's leadership team ("Firm Leader B") to inform him that the Aegean Executive was frustrated with the delay of the audit report, and that the Aegean Executive wanted to meet with Firm Leader B to complain. In an email about setting up the meeting with the Aegean Executive, the Aegean representative suggested to Firm Leader B that the absence of cash settlements for the Four Counterparties' transactions had something to do with international sanctions.[25] In a follow-up telephone conversation, the Aegean representative indicated that the PwC Greece engagement partner was asking too many questions.

45. Firm Leader A and Firm Leader B met with the Aegean Executive, along with a member of Aegean's senior management. During that meeting Firm Leader A and Firm Leader B urged Aegean to provide the engagement team with the information that the engagement team had previously requested. They also encouraged Aegean to seek payment of the Four [25] Firm Leader B reached out to the engagement partner and confirmed that the engagement team had conducted sanctions-related audit procedures relating to the Four Counterparties and was informed by the engagement partner that those procedures had not found any of the Four Counterparties listed in any international sanctions resources.

Counterparties' A/R balances, since that would be the best evidence that the A/R was collectible and did not need to be written down or written off. Firm Leader A and Firm Leader B informed Aegean that the Audit would be complete only when the engagement team had received the requested material and had completed its audit procedures.

E. The Firm Violated PCAOB Standards by Issuing an Unqualified Audit Opinion Without Gathering Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence and Without Adequately Responding to Contradictory Audit Evidence

i. The Engagement Team Failed to Appropriately Design the A/R Confirmation Requests

46. The engagement team failed to appropriately design its A/R confirmation requests, because the team did not tailor them to account for the fact that Aegean had netted A/P from its purchases from the Four Counterparties against recorded A/R for its sales to those same counterparties.[26] Aegean's netting of the A/P from the A/R in 2016 eliminated a $408 million debt from the unpaid purchases Aegean made from the Four Counterparties in 2016. That netting likewise resulted in Aegean recording a reduced A/R balance for the Four Counterparties, totaling only $172 million, despite $543 million in unpaid revenue transactions in 2016.

47. The confirmation requests the engagement team made to the Four Counterparties failed to identify that the A/R balance in the confirmation request was net of A/P. As a result, the confirmation responses did not provide reliable audit evidence of whether the Four Counterparties were confirming the net or gross A/R amounts. The engagement team also failed to perform any other procedures to verify that the Four Counterparties had agreed to offset A/P against A/R, or that such offset by Aegean was otherwise legally enforceable. As a result, the team did not obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to conclude that no A/P balance existed for Aegean's purchases from the Four Counterparties.

[26] See AS 2310.16 ("Confirmation requests should be tailored to the specific audit objectives. Thus, when designing the confirmation requests, the auditor should consider the assertion(s) being addressed and the factors that are likely to affect the reliability of the confirmations."); id. at .25 ("The auditor's understanding of the client's arrangements and transactions with third parties is key to determining the information to be confirmed. The auditor should obtain an understanding of the substance of such arrangements and transactions to determine the appropriate information to include on the confirmation request. The auditor should consider requesting confirmation of the terms of unusual agreements or transactions . . . in addition to the amounts.").

ii. Visits to the Four Counterparties' Addresses Resulted in Significant Contradictory Audit Evidence that Raised a Red Flag of Potential Fraud Concerning the Revenue and A/R from the Four Counterparties

48. In early May, after Aegean provided the engagement team with street addresses for the Four Counterparties, the team promptly sent confirmation requests to those addresses but had no other information available to corroborate those addresses. As a result, at the same time that it sent the new confirmation requests, the engagement team engaged PwC Dubai to perform site visits at the Aegean-provided street addresses for the Four Counterparties.

49. In its instructions to PwC Dubai, the engagement team explained that it needed help verifying the existence of the Four Counterparties. The team instructed PwC Dubai to visit the Four Counterparties to confirm that the street addresses Aegean provided for them were valid, and to take photographs of each building and the enterprise door or sign with the name of the entity. The engagement team further instructed that, if entrance was not allowed to a building, PwC Dubai should "perform inquiries over the existence of the offices/entities" with the building's reception or doorman. The team stated in its instructions to PwC Dubai in underlined, bold, red, and all capital letter type: "PLEASE TREAT THIS REQUEST AS BEING OF HIGH URGENCY AS THE CLIENT NEEDS TO FILE THE ANNUAL REPORT BY MAY 8, 2017."

50. On May 7, 2017, PwC Dubai attempted to visit the addresses provided for the Four Counterparties. Those efforts resulted in audit evidence contradicting the existence of the Four Counterparties. Upon completing its visits to the first three addresses, PwC Dubai found that one address did not exist, and the other two were residential apartments. PwC Dubai informed the engagement team of its findings, including that the two apartments it located had unmarked doors with no indications that any business existed there, and that workers at those buildings confirmed that the buildings were residential and that they were unaware of any offices in the building.

51. PwC Dubai also emailed the engagement team a summary of its findings from the first three site visits, along with supporting photos. Members of the engagement team, including the engagement partner, reviewed that information from PwC Dubai, including the photos.

52. The results of PwC Dubai's visits should have increased the engagement team's doubt not only about the collectibility of the A/R but also about the existence of the Four Counterparties, and whether the significant unusual revenue and A/R recorded from those Four Counterparties may have been the result of fraud.

53. However, in violation of PCAOB standards, the engagement team did not take adequate steps to resolve the contradictory audit evidence uncovered by PwC Dubai.[27] Instead, the team instructed PwC Dubai to cancel its site-visit to the remaining Counterparty address. The engagement team then disregarded the results of the PwC Dubai procedures based on uncorroborated representations received from a member of Aegean's senior management that street addresses are not commonly used in Fujairah, and that business locations in Fujairah are often informal.

iii. Telephone Inquiries Concerning the A/R Were Inadequate and Did Not Resolve Doubts Raised by the Site Visits

54. Although the engagement team received written responses to the original confirmation requests that were sent to the PO Box addresses, prior to the Audit's conclusion the team did not receive written responses to the confirmation requests that it sent to the street addresses. And, as described above, the engagement team was unable to independently verify either the PO Box or the street addresses that Aegean provided for the Four Counterparties. Those circumstances, along with the other difficulties that the team encountered in obtaining documents and information relating to the Four Counterparties and the significant and unusual nature of the Four Counterparties' transactions, warranted the exercise of increased professional skepticism.[28]

55. In the final days of the audit, the engagement team determined to make telephone inquiries to the Four Counterparties concerning the A/R confirmation requests. Between May 11 and May 15, the team called Aegean-provided telephone numbers for the Four Counterparties to verbally verify the A/R balances, which the telephone respondents confirmed.

28 See AS 2310.27 (providing that an auditor may encounter circumstances in which it should exercise increased professional skepticism about the confirmation respondent's competence, knowledge, motivation, ability, or willingness to respond, or about the respondent's objectivity and freedom from bias with respect to the audited entity, and that, "[i]n these circumstances, the auditor should consider whether there is sufficient basis for concluding that the confirmation request is being sent to a respondent from whom the auditor can expect the response will provide meaningful and appropriate evidence."); see also AS 2401.13 Consideration of Fraud in a Financial Statement Audit (professional skepticism requires an ongoing questioning of whether the information and evidence obtained suggests that a material misstatement due to fraud has occurred); AS 2810.C1.c(1) & (4) (denial of access to records and unusual delays from management in providing information may affect assessment of fraud risk).

56. Despite the need for heightened professional skepticism, the engagement team failed to exercise due professional care and obtain information that would provide a sufficient basis for concluding that the individuals they called could provide meaningful and appropriate evidence about the Four Counterparties' transactions. For example, the engagement team did not solicit any information from the telephone respondents that would enable the team to resolve the doubts raised by PwC's unfruitful searches for public information on the Four Counterparties and PwC Dubai's problematic site visits to their purported street addresses. Nor did the engagement team solicit information that would cure the defective design of the written confirmation requests. Instead, the team sought and received the verbal agreement from the telephoned individuals that they had received the confirmation requests and agreed with the information in the original responses, including the outstanding A/R balance amounts.[29] The engagement team did not obtain any information that would allow the team to independently verify either the existence of the Four Counterparties or that the individuals with whom they spoke were the intended recipients at the Four Counterparties. Nor did the engagement team clarify that it had sought to confirm the A/R balance net of any A/P balances.

iv. Aegean-Provided Evidence of Cash Collections Included Additional Contradictory Audit Evidence that PwC Greece Did Not Resolve

57. As discussed above, at the time it delayed the audit report, PwC Greece informed Aegean that, to avoid an audit adjustment relating to the value of the Four Counterparties' year-end 2016 A/R balances, Aegean needed to make cash collections on those outstanding balances prior to the issuance of the audit report. Thus, PwC Greece had previously determined that evidence of cash collections would be critical to any conclusion that the Four Counterparties A/R balances were correctly stated.

58. On May 15 or 16, Aegean provided the engagement team with a document that Aegean claimed was an extract of May 7 to May 14 transaction information from one of its bank accounts, showing cash collections from two of the Counterparties. The extract was not a periodic bank statement generated by a bank in the ordinary course; the engagement team instead understood that it was an extract from an electronic bank account record. The engagement team members did not observe the bank information directly, because they understood the relevant bank information could be accessed only in Fujairah.

59. Despite the foregoing circumstances concerning the extract and the critical importance of the cash collections evidence to the Audit, the engagement team took no steps to assess the extract's reliability as audit evidence.[30] Instead, the team relied on the extract as evidence of the collectibility of the Four Counterparties' A/R balances and the Firm issued the audit report within a day of receiving the extract. However, as discussed below, the extract: (1) provided little to no evidence of collectibility for three of the Counterparties' A/R; (2) left substantial questions about the collectibility of more than half of the A/R balance for the fourth Counterparty; and (3) indicated that Aegean might have unrecorded liabilities to the Four Counterparties.[31]

60. The extract did not evidence any payments from two of the Counterparties. For another Counterparty, the extract indicated a single payment amounting to less than half of the year-end 2016 A/R balance that Aegean had recorded for that Counterparty in its year-end 2016 A/R balance.

61. For the remaining Counterparty, the extract appeared to show that, between May 7 and May 13, Aegean and the Counterparty made offsetting payments to one another. As a result, the payments reflected only a net cash flow to Aegean amounting to less than 6% of the year-end 2016 A/R balance that Aegean had calculated for that Counterparty.

62. The offsetting payments that Aegean had made to one of the Counterparties in May 2017 were, themselves, contradictory audit evidence that should have raised doubts for the engagement team about all of the Four Counterparties' A/R and A/P balances. As described above, prior to receiving the extract, PwC Greece understood that Aegean had no outstanding A/P balances with the Four Counterparties, because Aegean had offset all those A/P balances against the Four Counterparties' larger A/R balances. In 2016 alone, Aegean had purportedly incurred $408 million in A/P, all of which it had eliminated through offsets to A/R. Based on that offset, Aegean had no recorded A/P for the Four Counterparties as of year-end 2016, and Aegean reported a significantly reduced A/R balance than it would have absent the offset.

63. The engagement team specifically understood that the May 2017 payments to one of the Four Counterparties were payments on purchases from that Counterparty. The cash payments were therefore an indication that Aegean's offsets of the A/P against A/R may have been invalid, and that Aegean may have had substantial unrecorded liabilities to the Four Counterparties and substantially higher A/R balances for the Four Counterparties as of year-end

[30] See AS 1105.06 ("To be appropriate, audit evidence must be both relevant and reliable in providing support for the conclusions on which the auditor's opinion is based.").

[31] As PwC Greece would later learn when it began work on the audit of Aegean's 2017 financial statements, the extract also appears to have been a forgery.

2016. Nevertheless, in violation of AS 1105.29, the engagement team did not perform audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter.

v. PwC Greece Improperly Issued an Audit Report Containing an Unqualified Audit Opinion

64. PCAOB standards provide that, if the auditor has not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence about a relevant assertion or has substantial doubt about a relevant assertion, the auditor should perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address the matter.[32] If the auditor is unable to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to have a reasonable basis to conclude whether the financial statements as a whole are free of material misstatement, the auditor should express a qualified opinion or a disclaimer of opinion.[33] An unqualified audit opinion may be expressed only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB.[34]

65. PwC Greece violated these standards when, on May 16, 2017, it released an audit report containing an unqualified audit opinion on Aegean's financial statements. Despite the heightened risks associated with the significant and unusual Four Counterparties' transactions and outstanding balances, the engagement team did not plan and perform procedures with due professional care to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence concerning those transactions and outstanding balances. Most critically, PwC Greece violated PCAOB standards by failing to resolve significant contradictory audit evidence concerning the Four Counterparties and the revenue, A/R, and A/P that Aegean attributed to the Four Counterparties.[35] As a result, PwC Greece did not obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support an unqualified audit opinion, and it violated AS 1105, AS 2810, and AS 3101 when it issued its audit report.

F. The Firm Violated PCAOB Standards When the Engagement Team Failed to Document the Significant Audit Issues and Inconsistent Audit Evidence Concerning the Four Counterparties

66. PwC Greece also violated PCAOB standards because the engagement team: (1) did not document in its work papers the contradictory audit evidence resulting from the

PwC Dubai attempted site-visits to the Four Counterparties; (2) did not document other critical procedures that the engagement team performed concerning the Four Counterparties; and (3) did not include any discussion of the Four Counterparties in the engagement completion document, despite the fact that the transactions with the Four Counterparties raised significant issues for the Audit.

67. PCAOB standards provide that the auditor must document the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached with respect to relevant financial statement assertions.[36] Audit documentation must contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the nature, timing, extent, and results of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached.[37]

68. "The auditor must document significant findings or issues, actions taken to address them (including additional evidence obtained), and the basis for the conclusions reached in connection with each engagement."[38] "The auditor must identify all significant findings or issues in an engagement completion document. . . . This document, along with any documents cross-referenced, should collectively be as specific as necessary in the circumstances for a reviewer to gain a thorough understanding of the significant findings or issues."[39]

69. "In addition to the documentation necessary to support the auditor's final conclusions, audit documentation must include information the auditor has identified relating to significant findings or issues that is inconsistent with or contradicts the auditor's final conclusions."[40]

[38] Id. at .12. Significant findings or issues are substantive matters that are important to the procedures performed, evidence obtained, or conclusions reached, and include, but are not limited to: (i) results of auditing procedures that indicate a need for significant modification of planned auditing procedures; (ii) circumstances that cause significant difficulty in applying auditing procedures; (iii) significant changes in the auditor's risk assessments, including risks that were not identified previously, and the modifications to audit procedures or additional audit procedures performed in response to those changes; and (iv) risks of material misstatement that are determined to be significant risks and the results of the auditing procedures performed in response to those risks. See id.

70. Most significantly, PwC Greece violated AS 1215.08 because the engagement team failed to mention or reference in its audit documentation the procedures that PwC Dubai performed to attempt to visit the Aegean-provided addresses for the Four Counterparties, the results of those procedures, or why the engagement team later dismissed those results. Indeed, the audit documentation contains no mention at all of the concerns about the Four Counterparties' existence.

71. Additionally, in violation of AS 1215.06, the engagement team omitted any reference in the audit documentation to its examination of why Aegean was making both purchases and sales of fuel from the Four Counterparties, often at roughly the same time and in similar quantities, but at significantly different prices. The engagement team did not document its initial concerns about those transactions and the unusually high margins Aegean achieved on them. Nor did it document that Aegean explained those transactions as "blending" transactions, or that the team then attempted to verify management's blending explanation by examining Certificates of Quality for both the purchases and sales.

72. Finally, although the Four Counterparties' transactions were a significant issue for the audit, the engagement team failed to document them as such in the engagement completion document, in violation of AS 1215.12-13. In fact, the engagement completion document for the Audit makes no reference to the Four Counterparties' transactions at all.

73. The failure to adequately document the significant auditing issues, the related audit procedures and results, and the inconsistent audit evidence uncovered concerning the Four Counterparties deprived the engagement quality reviewer for the Audit of important information for his required evaluation of the significant judgments and related conclusions made by the engagement team in the Audit.[41]

[41] PCAOB standards provide that the engagement quality reviewer should review the engagement completion document as part of the required evaluation of the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report. See AS 1220.09, .10(e), Engagement Quality Review.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $3,000,000 is imposed on PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA.

2. Respondent shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy (except Respondent may seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification of any civil money penalty amounts from self-insurance provided through a captive insurer owned by Respondent and/or other firms within the network of which Respondent is a member that provides insurance solely to Respondent and other firms within that network); (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F)-(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6) & (9), the Board orders that:

1. Training. Within 120 days after entry of this Order, PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA shall ensure that it provides additional training to each of its associated persons who participates in the planning or performing of any audit services (as defined in PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(vii)) that are required to be performed under PCAOB standards, for a total of 20 additional hours for each associated person, covering the following topics:

    a. Requirements under PCAOB auditing standards relating to contradictory or inconsistent audit evidence, including requirements under AS 1105.29, Audit Evidence, AS 2805.04, Management Representations, and AS 2810.03, .08, Evaluating Audit Results.

b. Requirements under PCAOB auditing standards relating to the assessment of risks of material misstatement due to fraud, including requirements under AS 2110.52, .68, Identifying and Assessing Risks of Material Misstatement.

c. Requirements under PCAOB auditing standards relating to the consideration of fraud, including requirements under AS 2401, Consideration of Fraud in a Financial Statement Audit. Such training should include: (i) consideration of whether to confirm with customers certain relevant contract terms and the absence of side agreements (see AS 2401.54); (ii) evaluation of significant unusual transactions (see AS 2401.66-.67A); and (iii) identification of fraud risk factors (see AS 2401.85).

d. Requirements under PCAOB auditing standards relating to the confirmation process, including requirements under AS 2310.08, .15, .24-.29, .33, The Confirmation Process.

e. Requirements under PCAOB auditing standards for audit documentation, including requirements under AS 1215.06, .08, .12-.13, Audit Documentation.

2. Third-Party Review. For a period of two years from the date of this order, PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA shall arrange for one or more third parties to perform the following reviews for each issuer audit in which the Firm prepares or issues an audit report or plays a substantial role in the preparation or issuance of an audit report ("PCAOB engagement"):

   a. Risk Assessment and Planned Responses to Significant Risks. A third party shall review and evaluate the engagement team's identification and assessment of the significant risks, including fraud risks, for the PCAOB engagement, and the planned responses to those risks. In connection with the review described in this paragraph, the engagement partner and the senior-most engagement manager (or equivalent) for the PCAOB engagement must discuss the steps that they took to satisfy the requirements of AS 2110.52-.53, Identifying and Assessing Risks of Material Misstatement, including the substance and results of the brainstorming discussion required by AS 2110.52. The review described in this paragraph must occur sufficiently in advance of the completion of fieldwork for the audit to allow any feedback from the review to be taken into account during the performance of the audit procedures for the PCAOB engagement.

b. Pre-Issuance Review. A third party shall conduct a pre-issuance quality control monitoring review for the PCAOB engagement. The purpose of such pre-issuance review shall be to support the Firm in identifying deficiencies, if any, in the application of PCAOB rules or standards, and adequately addressing those deficiencies prior to the issuance of the audit report. The review described in this paragraph must be in addition to the Engagement Quality Review required by AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review.

The third parties performing the reviews must be experienced in and knowledgeable about the application of PCAOB standards, including experience in quality and risk management and/or forensic services, and may not be a current or former Firm partner or employee (or equivalent). The third party must also have a level of knowledge and competence as would be required to serve as the engagement quality reviewer for the PCAOB engagement.

3. Respondent shall certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs IV.C.1 and IV.C.2, within 30 days of completing those undertakings.

4. For good cause shown, the PCAOB staff may extend any of the procedural dates relating to these undertakings. Deadlines for procedural dates shall be counted in calendar days, except that if the last day falls on a weekend or federal holiday, the next business day shall be considered the last day.

5. Respondent understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Nicos George Komodromos, CPA

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-028

November 14, 2023

(1) censuring Nicos George Komodromos, CPA ("Respondent" or "Komodromos");

(2) barring Komodromos from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and

(3) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $80,000 on Respondent.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA's audit of the December 31, 2016 financial statements of Aegean Marine Petroleum Network Inc. ("Aegean" or the "Company").

I.

---

[1] Komodromos may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings contained herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of this proceeding, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Nicos George Komodromos is a former partner of PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA.[4] At all relevant times, he was a certified public accountant licensed in Greece and New York (New York license No. 071674). Komodromos was, at all relevant times, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). He was the engagement partner for the integrated audit of Aegean's 2016 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting (the "Audit").

B. Issuer

2. Aegean Marine Petroleum Network Inc. was, at all relevant times, a Marshall Islands corporation, headquartered in Greece, and traded on the New York Stock Exchange from 2006 to 2018. It was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined by

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). In its Form 20-F filing for the year ended December 31, 2016, Aegean described itself as an "international marine fuel logistics company that markets and physically supplies refined marine fuel and lubricants to vessels in port, at sea and on rivers."

C. Other Relevant Entity

3. PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditing Company SA ("PwC Greece") is a corporation organized under the laws of Greece. PwC Greece is a member of the PricewaterhouseCoopers International Limited network ("PwC Global"). The Firm registered with the Board on June 10, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. PwC Greece is, and at all relevant times was, a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i). PwC Greece was first appointed as Aegean's independent auditor in June 2016, and thereafter served as the principal auditor for the Audit.

D. Summary

4. This matter concerns Komodromos's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Audit and specifically with the audit procedures he performed and directed concerning transactions between Aegean and four counterparties that management represented were located in Fujairah, United Arab Emirates (each a "Counterparty," together the "Four Counterparties"). Aegean's records indicated that it both purchased fuel from and sold fuel to the Four Counterparties, often on or about the same date and in similar quantities. However, Aegean recorded that it sold fuel to the Four Counterparties at a much higher price than the price it paid to the Four Counterparties for its purchases. The sales to the Four Counterparties accounted for $543 million of Aegean's 2016 revenue (13% of revenue), and the accounts receivable ("A/R") from those transactions at year-end 2016 totaled $172 million (11% of Aegean's total assets).

5. During the acceptance procedures for the 2016 Audit, Komodromos considered publicly available information indicating that a long-time member of Aegean's executive leadership team who had a significant degree of control over the company ("Aegean Executive") had been criminally convicted in 2014 for fuel smuggling and accused of a variety of other criminal activity. That information indicated that the Aegean Executive's fuel smuggling conviction involved "virtual invoicing," which Komodromos understood to mean the creation of false documents relating to fuel purchases/sales in the years 1993-1995. As a result, Komodromos assessed during the Audit that there was significant risk of material misstatement due to fraud, related to concerns about the ethics of management.

6. During the Audit, Komodromos encountered evidence that raised concerns about the transactions and outstanding balances associated with the Four Counterparties, including concerns about the collectibility of revenue from the Four Counterparties. Those concerns, among other issues, contributed to Komodromos delaying the completion of the Audit, which was originally scheduled for late April 2017, so that he and the engagement team could gather additional audit evidence.

7. In response to the delay, Aegean requested a meeting with members of PwC Greece's senior leadership so that the Aegean Executive could register his complaints about the delay. Prior to the meeting, Komodromos briefed a member of PwC Greece leadership on the bases for the delay, including that Aegean had not provided audit evidence in several areas and that, as of the end of April 2017, there had been no cash collections or payments on any of the sales or purchases between Aegean and the Four Counterparties recorded in 2016. Komodromos understood that, during the meeting, which occurred on May 3, 2017, the Aegean Executive discussed the Four Counterparties' transactions with the PwC Greece leaders and, more broadly, complained to them that PwC Greece was doing too much audit work.[5]

8. Over the next two weeks, Komodromos and the engagement team working under his direction uncovered significant inconsistent audit evidence concerning the Four Counterparties, which he should have viewed as red flags that raised substantial doubt about management's assertions in Aegean's financial statements relating to the Four Counterparties' transactions and balances.

9. Most significantly, at Komodromos's instruction, staff from a PwC Global member firm in Dubai, United Arab Emirates ("PwC Dubai") attempted to visit the office addresses for the Four Counterparties that Aegean had provided to the engagement team, but found no evidence that the Four Counterparties were located there and reported that fact to the Firm.[6] However, Komodromos failed to respond with due professional care and appropriate professional skepticism. Instead, Komodromos disregarded that, and other contradictory audit evidence concerning the Four Counterparties, without appropriately resolving the inconsistencies. As a result, Komodromos violated PCAOB standards when, on May 16, 2017, he authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit report containing an unqualified opinion on [5] Komodromos also understood that, during the May 3, 2017 meeting, the PwC Greece leaders reaffirmed that the audit would be complete only when the engagement team had received the necessary requested material and had finished its audit testing.

[6] At the time PwC Dubai reported the results of its visits to PwC Greece, only three of the visits had been attempted. Komodromos then instructed the engagement team to cancel PwC Dubai's fourth visit.

Aegean's financial statements, because he had not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support that opinion.

10. Komodromos also violated PCAOB standards by failing to ensure the Audit work papers documented various procedures performed during the Audit relating to the Four Counterparties, including PwC Dubai's visits to the Four Counterparties' asserted addresses. Komodromos and the engagement team further failed to identify the issues with the Four Counterparties' transactions in the engagement completion document for the Audit, a document in which PCAOB standards required the Firm to identify all significant findings or issues.

11. After the 2016 Audit, both the PwC Greece engagement team and Aegean's Audit Committee continued to raise questions about the collectibility of the A/R from the Four Counterparties. In connection with the never-completed audit of Aegean's 2017 financial statements, the engagement team discovered that information it had received from Aegean during the 2016 Audit appeared to have been falsified. Komodromos shared that information with Aegean's Audit Committee and Aegean later announced in 2018 that, based on an internal investigation, it believed that the Four Counterparties were shell companies, with no material assets or operations, owned or controlled by former employees or affiliates of the Company. Aegean's Audit Committee and Board of Directors further concluded that the transactions with the Four Counterparties recorded from 2015 to 2017 lacked economic substance, and that the resulting A/R were uncollectible.

E. Background

12. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing standards.[7] Under these standards, an auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[8] Among other things, those standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care, exercise professional skepticism, and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to afford a reasonable basis to support the opinion expressed in the auditor's report.[9] The exercise of professional skepticism requires a "questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence."[10]

13. PCAOB standards provide that the auditor should properly plan the audit.[11] "Planning the audit includes establishing the overall audit strategy for the engagement and developing an audit plan, which includes, in particular, planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risks of material misstatement."[12] When developing the audit strategy and audit plan, the auditor should evaluate, among other things, whether risks identified in the client acceptance process are important to the company's financial statements and internal control over financial reporting and, if so, how they will affect the auditor's procedures.[13] The auditor must also design and implement audit responses that specifically address the identified and assessed risks of material misstatement, including assessed risks of material misstatement due to fraud ("fraud risks").[14]

14. Planning is not a discrete phase of an audit but, rather, a continual and iterative process that continues until the completion of the audit.[15] The auditor should modify the overall audit strategy and the audit plan as necessary if circumstances change significantly during the course of the audit.[16]

15. Ultimately, the auditor must plan and perform the audit to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to support the audit opinion.[17] Among other things, "[t]he auditor should obtain corroboration for management's explanations regarding significant unusual or unexpected transactions, events, amounts, or relationships. If management's responses to the auditor's inquiries appear to be implausible, inconsistent with other audit evidence, imprecise, or not at a sufficient level of detail to be useful, the auditor should perform procedures to address the matter."[18]

16. To be appropriate, evidence must be both relevant and reliable.[19] "If the auditor has not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence about a relevant assertion or has substantial doubt about a relevant assertion, the auditor should perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address the matter."[20] In forming an opinion, the auditor should take into account all relevant audit evidence, regardless of whether it appears to corroborate or to contradict the assertions in the financial statements.[21] "If audit evidence obtained from one source is inconsistent with that obtained from another, or if the auditor has doubts about the reliability of information to be used as audit evidence, the auditor should perform the audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter and should determine the effect, if any, on other aspects of the audit."[22]

17. The engagement partner is responsible for the engagement and its performance.[23] Accordingly, the engagement partner is responsible for, among other things, proper supervision of the work of engagement team members and for compliance with PCAOB standards.[24] Appropriate supervision of an audit includes reviewing the work of engagement team members to evaluate whether: (1) the work was performed and documented; (2) the objectives of the procedures were achieved; and (3) the results of the work support the conclusions reached.[25]

18. As discussed in Sections III.F-G below, Komodromos failed to comply with these and other PCAOB rules and standards during the Audit.

i. Komodromos Identified a Fraud Risk for the Aegean Audit

19. The 2016 Audit was PwC Greece's first audit of Aegean. As a result, before beginning the Audit, the Firm first performed procedures regarding the acceptance of the client relationship.[26]

20. During the client acceptance procedures, Komodromos considered the criminal allegations that had been made against the Aegean Executive over an extended period of years. On June 16, 2016, Komodromos, two members of PwC Greece's leadership, and two other Firm partners who would be assigned to the Audit, all met to discuss whether to accept Aegean as an audit client. During the meeting, the participants discussed the Aegean Executive's role at Aegean and his criminal history, including, specifically, a conviction for fuel smuggling accomplished through "virtual invoicing," which Komodromos understood meant the creation of false documents relating to purchases/sales of fuel.

21. During that June 16 acceptance meeting, the Firm also considered inquiries that it had made to Aegean's predecessor auditor, which had audited Aegean since 2006. The engagement team's documentation of those inquiries indicated that the predecessor auditor communicated to PwC Greece that: (1) there had been negative media and criminal matters relating to the Aegean Executive, but the PwC Greece engagement team did not understand the predecessor auditor to have identified any other matters for PwC Greece's consideration as bearing on the integrity of management; and (2) the predecessor auditor had communicated to management during the prior audit that there were significant deficiencies in Aegean's internal control over financial reporting, arising from information technology general controls.

22. The participants in the June 16 acceptance meeting, including Komodromos, concluded that PwC Greece could accept the audit, but they also determined that the audit client should be classified as "High Risk" for anti-money laundering purposes.

23. At the time PwC Greece accepted the Audit, Komodromos understood that the Aegean Executive was a significant Aegean shareholder, occupied "a role adjacent to that of the Company's CEO/CODM," and was "heavily involved in a vast spectrum of the daily operations of the Company and makes decisions related with the Company's operations." After the Firm accepted the 2016 Audit, but prior to year-end 2016, Aegean entered into an agreement to purchase the Aegean Executive's shares in the Company. Komodromos understood that, despite the share buy-out, the Aegean Executive still remained actively engaged in key aspects of Aegean's business.

[26] PCAOB quality control standards provide that firms should establish client acceptance and continuance policies and procedures that provide a firm with reasonable assurance that the likelihood of association with a client whose management lacks integrity is minimized. See QC § 20.14, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice. Such policies and procedures should also provide reasonable assurance that the firm appropriately considers the risks associated with providing services in the particular circumstances. See QC § 20.15.

24. In light of the Aegean Executive's criminal history and role at the Company, Komodromos and the engagement team documented in the Audit work papers that they had identified a risk concerning the integrity and ethics of management, which they linked to the fraud risk of management override of controls.[27]

ii. Significant Deficiencies in Aegean's Accounting System Increased the Risks Around the Four Counterparties' Transactions and Outstanding Balances

25. At the time of the Audit, Komodromos was aware that there were significant internal control deficiencies in the accounting system for Aegean's principal operating subsidiary, Aegean Marine Petroleum S.A. ("AMP"), where Aegean recorded most of its revenues. About 70% of Aegean's year-end consolidated accounts receivable were attributable to AMP's transactions.

26. Komodromos understood, among other things, that: (1) there was only one Aegean employee with knowledge of the AMP accounting system's design, and that employee could edit files and reports in the system; (2) the accounting system had no audit log functionality; (3) Aegean's accounting staff all shared a single login to the accounting system, which provided them with unlimited system access (resulting in a lack of segregation of duties); and (4) there was no means to extract journal entries from the accounting system. These significant deficiencies increased the risk of material misstatement for the transactions and outstanding balances recorded in that system, which included all of Aegean's transactions and balances with the Four Counterparties.

27. In response to the above deficiencies, Aegean, at the urging of Komodromos and the engagement team, adopted and tested a manual matching control for revenue, and the engagement team then performed substantive tests of details on more than 10% of revenue transactions. However, the added matching control did not adequately compensate for the known deficiencies in the AMP accounting system. Nor did the matching control and the extent of substantive testing sufficiently address the increased risk of material misstatement through override of controls for transactions recorded in that system.

iii. The Four Counterparties' Transactions Were Material and Atypical

28. During the Audit, Komodromos understood that the revenues from the Four Counterparties were both significant in size and generated unusually high margins. The Four Counterparties' transactions were Aegean's largest transactions and accounted for $543 million (13%) of Aegean's 2016 revenue. The sales margins on the revenue transactions with the Four Counterparties—i.e., the difference between the revenue earned on an individual sale and the cost of sale for that transaction—as calculated by the engagement team—were sometimes more than four times Aegean's average sales margin for its 2016 sales.

29. Because of their size and high margins, the Four Counterparties' transactions had a material impact on Aegean's net income. For 2016, the Four Counterparties' transactions generated approximately 38% of Aegean's gross profit, and 240% of its pre-tax income (i.e., the transactions moved Aegean from a gross loss to a gross profit).

30. Komodromos also understood that there were substantial unpaid A/R from the Four Counterparties' transactions. Specifically, Komodromos understood that Aegean had $172 million in A/R recorded from the Four Counterparties at year-end 2016. Those receivables amounted to 11% of Aegean's total assets as of year-end 2016. Komodromos also understood that, as of the end of April 2017, no cash had been received from the Four Counterparties for any revenues recorded in 2016.

31. Although Aegean had not collected cash for any of its 2016 sales to the Four Counterparties through the end of April 2017, Komodromos understood that Aegean had nevertheless accounted for a significant portion of the A/R as having been satisfied in 2016. Specifically, the engagement team identified that Aegean had offset its accounts payable ("A/P") from its fuel purchases from the Four Counterparties against the A/R arising from its fuel sales to the Four Counterparties, which reduced Aegean's liabilities to the Four Counterparties to zero and reduced the outstanding A/R from the Four Counterparties by an equal amount.

32. The engagement team also identified that the transactions with the Four Counterparties, which Komodromos understood had been occurring since at least 2015, were unusual because they often involved Aegean simultaneously contracting with the same counterparty to both sell and purchase fuel in roughly the same quantities but at much different prices. The engagement team's analyses of the transactions revealed that Aegean sometimes sold fuel to the Four Counterparties at more than twice the price that Aegean had purchased fuel from the same Counterparty just days earlier. The engagement team further identified that the records Aegean initially provided to the team appeared to indicate that Aegean was selling and purchasing the same type of fuel from the Four Counterparties in these matched transactions, with no explanation for the much more favorable pricing given to Aegean.

33. When Komodromos and the engagement team asked for an explanation of the transactions with the Four Counterparties, they were told that Aegean was engaged in "blending" transactions at its Fujairah facility, whereby: (1) Aegean purchased fuel from the Four Counterparties at a low price because the fuel failed to meet the applicable fuel quality specification ("off-spec" fuel); (2) Aegean reprocessed that low-quality fuel at its Fujairah facility by "blending" it to bring it within the specification ("on-spec"); and (3) Aegean sold on-spec fuel back to the Four Counterparties, which commanded a higher price.[28]

34. The transactions with the Four Counterparties were atypical for Aegean. Aegean's Form 20-F indicated that Aegean's typical fuel sales involved loading fuel onto marine vessels. However, both the purchase and sale transactions with the Four Counterparties all involved onshore, inter-tank transfers. More specifically, the transactions with the Four Counterparties all involved Aegean delivering fuel to, or purchasing fuel from, third-party ground storage tanks located nearby Aegean's own tanks in Fujairah.

35. Additionally, the inter-tank transfers with the Four Counterparties did not generate the same types of transaction documents as Aegean's deliveries to and from marine vessels. Aegean's other fuel transactions were generally supported by delivery notes signed by purchasing parties. For the Four Counterparties' transactions, however, the engagement team only obtained from Aegean photocopies of Certificates of Quantity of a third-party surveyor (the "Surveyor"), which appeared to certify the volume of fuel transferred between tanks for each transaction, but, unlike Aegean's typical delivery notes, did not include the signature of the purchasing party.

iv. Komodromos Encountered Difficulties in Getting Information About the Four Counterparties, Including from Aegean

36. Komodromos discussed the Four Counterparties' transactions and outstanding balances with a member of PwC Greece's senior leadership, and Komodromos and the Firm determined that those transactions and outstanding balances warranted significant audit testing. However, the engagement team encountered substantial difficulty in obtaining information from Aegean to complete that audit testing.

[28] Although Aegean's 2016 Form 20-F described that it had such blending capability at another facility in the Canary Islands, the Form 20-F did not disclose any such capability or activity at the Fujairah facility.

37. For example, the engagement team encountered substantial difficulties obtaining street addresses for the Four Counterparties from Aegean to be used for confirmation requests about the A/R balances. Initially, Aegean provided the engagement team with only PO Box addresses for each of the Four Counterparties and, for one Counterparty, a "hotmail.com" email address. Although the team initially sent confirmation requests to those addresses and later received responses, the team was unable to locate any publicly available information to corroborate that the PO Box addresses were correct or that the Four Counterparties even existed.[29]

38. Komodromos therefore insisted that Aegean provide the Firm with street addresses for the Four Counterparties so that the engagement team could send them new confirmation requests. Komodromos and the engagement team made repeated requests to Aegean for those street addresses from mid-March to late April, emphasizing that the requests were a high priority. However, Aegean did not provide the street addresses until early May, after Komodromos had delayed the audit report and informed Aegean that the Firm would not issue an unqualified audit report without additional audit evidence to support the collectibility of the Four Counterparties' outstanding A/R balances or, alternatively, an adjustment relating to the value of those balances.

39. The engagement team also requested ledger cards from Aegean's accounting system—i.e., system-generated records showing account details for each of the Four Counterparties that would help the engagement team understand how Aegean had calculated the accounts receivable balance for each of the Four Counterparties. However, Aegean explained that it was unable to provide ledger cards because of shortcomings in the AMP system. Instead, Aegean offered to help the engagement team manually re-create the debit and credit history that Aegean purportedly used to track and calculate the payable and receivable balances.

40. The engagement team also requested the Surveyor's Certificates of Quantity and Certificates of Quality for the Four Counterparties' transactions. The former purported to verify the quantity of fuel delivered in each transaction and identified both the receiving and sending tank. The latter purported to provide a chemical analysis of the fuel delivered in each

AS 2310.26, The Confirmation Process. "During the performance of confirmation procedures, the auditor should maintain control over the confirmation requests and responses. Maintaining control means establishing direct communication between the intended recipient and the auditor to minimize the possibility that the results will be biased because of interception and alteration of the confirmation requests or responses." Id. at .28 (footnote omitted).

transaction. The engagement team obtained from Aegean photocopies of those certificates, but did not obtain additional audit evidence addressing their reliability.

41. The engagement team also requested a copy of the contract between Aegean and the Surveyor. However, Aegean informed PwC Greece that no such contract existed.

v. In Late April, Komodromos Delayed the Firm's Audit Report Because He Lacked Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence

42. Komodromos originally planned for the Firm to issue its audit opinion for the 2016 Aegean Audit at the end of April 2017. However, as that deadline approached, Komodromos recognized that he did not have sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support an unqualified audit report because, among other things: (1) the engagement team did not have sufficient appropriate evidence concerning the collectibility of the A/R of the Four Counterparties, and (2) Aegean had not yet provided the engagement team with evidence that it had completed implementation and testing of the new manual internal control for revenue in response to the significant deficiencies in the AMP accounting system.

43. As of the end of April, the engagement team still had not received street addresses for the Four Counterparties so that the team could send out new A/R confirmation requests. There also had not been any cash collections for any of the 2016 revenue transactions involving the Four Counterparties, four full months after year-end. As a result, Komodromos had substantial doubts about the collectibility of the $172 million A/R balance for the Four Counterparties that remained after Aegean had netted off and eliminated all the A/P balances incurred through purchases from the Four Counterparties.

44. Komodromos informed Aegean in late April that the Firm would not issue an audit report at the end of April because the Firm did not have sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning certain audit areas, including the collectibility of the Four Counterparties' A/R. Komodromos also notified Aegean that, in order to avoid an audit adjustment to the year-end 2016 A/R balances from the Four Counterparties, Aegean would need to collect those balances prior to the Firm issuing the audit report or offer other reliable evidence of those balances' collectibility.

vi. Aegean Complained to Firm Management About the Audit

45. In early 2017, Komodromos notified a member of the Firm's leadership team ("Firm Leader A") about the Four Counterparties' transactions. Komodromos, along with other members of the engagement team, identified for Firm Leader A, among other things: (1) the fact that Aegean was both buying and selling fuel from the same parties; (2) that Aegean purported to be selling on-spec fuel and buying off-spec fuel in the Four Counterparties' transactions; and (3) that Aegean had not collected any cash payments on its 2016 sales to the Four Counterparties. Komodromos further informed Firm Leader A in April 2017 that they were still waiting for Aegean to provide significant information, and that they did not yet have adequate evidence on the Four Counterparties' A/R to support an unqualified audit opinion.

46. Shortly after Komodromos delayed the audit report, an Aegean representative contacted another member of the Firm's leadership team ("Firm Leader B") to inform him that the Aegean Executive was frustrated with the delay of the audit report, and that the Aegean Executive wanted to meet with Firm Leader B to complain.

47. Firm Leader A and Firm Leader B then met with the Aegean Executive, along with a member of Aegean's senior management. Komodromos understood that Aegean had complained to Firm Leader A and Firm Leader B about the extent of the procedures being performed and evidence being sought in the Audit, including with respect to the Four Counterparties.

F. Komodromos Violated PCAOB Standards by Issuing an Unqualified Audit Opinion Without Gathering Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence and Without Adequately Responding to Contradictory Audit Evidence

i. Komodromos Failed to Ensure the A/R Confirmation Requests Were Appropriately Designed

48. Although Komodromos believed that the A/R confirmation responses from the Four Counterparties would be a critical piece of audit evidence, he failed to ensure that the confirmation requests to the Four Counterparties were appropriately designed. The confirmation requests were not tailored to account for the fact that Aegean had netted A/P from its purchases from the Four Counterparties against recorded A/R for its sales to those same counterparties.[30] Aegean's netting of the A/P from the A/R in 2016 eliminated a $408 million debt from the unpaid purchases Aegean made from the Four Counterparties in 2016. That netting likewise resulted in Aegean recording a reduced A/R balance for the Four

[30] See AS 2310.16 ("Confirmation requests should be tailored to the specific audit objectives. Thus, when designing the confirmation requests, the auditor should consider the assertion(s) being addressed and the factors that are likely to affect the reliability of the confirmations."); id. at .25 ("The auditor's understanding of the client's arrangements and transactions with third parties is key to determining the information to be confirmed. The auditor should obtain an understanding of the substance of such arrangements and transactions to determine the appropriate information to include on the confirmation request. The auditor should consider requesting confirmation of the terms of unusual agreements or transactions . . . in addition to the amounts.").

Counterparties, totaling only $172 million, despite $543 million in unpaid revenue transactions in 2016.

49. The confirmation requests the engagement team made to the Four Counterparties failed to identify that the A/R balance in the confirmation request was net of A/P. As a result, the confirmation responses did not provide reliable audit evidence of whether the Four Counterparties were confirming the net or gross A/R amounts. Komodromos and the engagement team also failed to perform any other procedures to verify that the Four Counterparties had agreed to offset A/P against A/R, or that such offset by Aegean was otherwise legally enforceable. As a result, Komodromos did not obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to conclude that no A/P balance existed for Aegean's purchases from the Four Counterparties.

ii. Visits to the Four Counterparties' Addresses Resulted in Significant Contradictory Audit Evidence that Raised a Red Flag of Potential Fraud Concerning the Revenue and A/R from the Four Counterparties

50. In early May, after Aegean provided the engagement team with street addresses for the Four Counterparties, Komodromos had the team promptly send confirmation requests to those addresses. However, Komodromos and the engagement team still had no other information available to corroborate those addresses. As a result, at the same time that they sent the new confirmation requests, Komodromos engaged PwC Dubai to perform site visits at the Aegean-provided street addresses for the Four Counterparties.

51. In its instructions to PwC Dubai, the engagement team explained that it needed help verifying the existence of the Four Counterparties. The team instructed PwC Dubai to visit the Four Counterparties to confirm that the street addresses Aegean provided for them were valid, and to take photographs of each building and the enterprise door or sign with the name of the entity. The engagement team further instructed that, if entrance was not allowed to a building, PwC Dubai should "perform inquiries over the existence of the offices/entities" with the building's reception or doorman. The team stated in its instructions to PwC Dubai in underlined, bold, red, and all capital letter type: "PLEASE TREAT THIS REQUEST AS BEING OF HIGH URGENCY AS THE CLIENT NEEDS TO FILE THE ANNUAL REPORT BY MAY 8, 2017."

52. On May 7, 2017, PwC Dubai attempted to visit the addresses provided for the Four Counterparties. Those efforts resulted in audit evidence contradicting the existence of the Four Counterparties. Upon completing its visits to the first three addresses, PwC Dubai found that one address did not exist, and the other two were residential apartments. PwC Dubai informed the engagement team of its findings, including that the two apartments it located had unmarked doors with no indications that any business existed there, and that workers at those buildings confirmed that the buildings were residential and that they were unaware of any offices in the building.

53. PwC Dubai also emailed the engagement team a summary of its findings from the first three site visits, along with supporting photos. Komodromos and the engagement team reviewed that information from PwC Dubai, including the photos.

54. The results of PwC Dubai's visits should have increased Komodromos's doubt not only about the collectibility of the A/R but also about the existence of the Four Counterparties, and whether the significant unusual revenue and A/R recorded from those Four Counterparties may have been the result of fraud.

55. However, in violation of PCAOB standards, Komodromos did not take adequate steps to resolve the contradictory audit evidence uncovered by PwC Dubai.[31] Instead, Komodromos instructed the engagement team to cancel PwC Dubai's planned site visit to the remaining Counterparty address. Komodromos then disregarded the results of the PwC Dubai procedures based on uncorroborated representations received from a member of Aegean's senior management that street addresses are not commonly used in Fujairah, and that business locations in Fujairah are often informal.

iii. Telephone Inquiries Concerning the A/R Were Inadequate and Did Not Resolve Doubts Raised by the Site Visits

56. Although the engagement team received written responses to the original confirmation requests that were sent to the PO Box addresses, prior to the Audit's conclusion the team did not receive written responses to the confirmation requests that it sent to the street addresses. And, as described above, the engagement team was unable to independently verify either the PO Box or the street addresses that Aegean provided for the Four Counterparties. Those circumstances, along with the other difficulties that the team encountered in obtaining documents and information relating to the Four Counterparties and

the significant and unusual nature of the Four Counterparties' transactions, warranted the exercise of increased professional skepticism.[32]

57. In the final days of the audit, Komodromos determined to have the engagement team make telephone inquiries to the Four Counterparties concerning the A/R confirmation requests. Between May 11 and May 15, the team called Aegean-provided telephone numbers for the Four Counterparties to verbally verify the A/R balances, which the telephone respondents confirmed.

58. Despite the need for heightened professional skepticism, Komodromos failed to exercise due professional care and have the engagement team obtain information that would provide a sufficient basis for concluding that the individuals they called could provide meaningful and appropriate evidence about the Four Counterparties' transactions. For example, Komodromos did not instruct the engagement team to solicit any information from the telephone respondents that would enable the team to resolve the doubts raised by PwC's unfruitful searches for public information on the Four Counterparties and PwC Dubai's problematic site visits to their purported street addresses. Nor did he have the engagement team solicit information that would cure the defective design of the written confirmation requests. Instead, the team sought and received the verbal agreement from the telephoned individuals that they had received the confirmation requests and agreed with the information in the original responses, including the outstanding A/R balance amounts.[33] The engagement team did not obtain any information that would allow the team to independently verify either the existence of the Four Counterparties or that the individuals with whom they spoke were the intended recipients at the Four Counterparties. Nor did the engagement team clarify that it had sought to confirm the A/R balance net of any A/P balances.

iv. Aegean-Provided Evidence of Cash Collections Included Additional Contradictory Audit Evidence that Komodromos Did Not Resolve

59. At the time Komodromos delayed the audit report, he informed Aegean that, to avoid an audit adjustment relating to the value of the Four Counterparties' year-end 2016 A/R balances, Aegean needed to make cash collections on those outstanding balances prior to the issuance of the audit report. Thus, Komodromos had previously determined that evidence of cash collections would be critical to any conclusion that the Four Counterparties A/R balances were correctly stated.

60. On May 15 or 16, Aegean provided Komodromos with a document that Aegean claimed was an extract of May 7 to May 14 transaction information from one of its bank accounts, showing cash collections from two of the Counterparties. The extract was not a periodic bank statement generated by a bank in the ordinary course; Komodromos instead understood that it was an extract from an electronic bank account record. The engagement team did not observe the bank information directly, because they understood the relevant bank information could be accessed only in Fujairah.

61. Despite the foregoing circumstances concerning the extract and the critical importance of the cash collections evidence to the Audit, Komodromos did not have the engagement team take steps to assess the extract's reliability as audit evidence.[34] Instead, Komodromos relied on the extract as evidence of the collectibility of the Four Counterparties' A/R balances and he authorized issuance of the Firm's audit report within a day of receiving the extract. However, as discussed below, the extract: (1) provided little to no evidence of collectibility for three of the Counterparties' A/R; (2) left substantial questions about the collectibility of more than half of the A/R balance for the fourth Counterparty; and (3) indicated that Aegean might have unrecorded liabilities to the Four Counterparties.[35]

62. The extract did not evidence any payments from two of the Counterparties. For another Counterparty, the extract indicated a single payment amounting to less than half of the

[34] See AS 1105.06 ("To be appropriate, audit evidence must be both relevant and reliable in providing support for the conclusions on which the auditor's opinion is based.").

[35] As Komodromos would later learn when he began work on the audit of Aegean's 2017 financial statements, the extract also appears to have been a forgery.

year-end 2016 A/R balance that Aegean had recorded for that Counterparty in its year-end 2016 A/R balance.

63. For the remaining Counterparty, the extract appeared to show that, between May 7 and May 13, Aegean and the Counterparty made offsetting payments to one another. As a result, the payments reflected only a net cash flow to Aegean amounting to less than 6% of the year-end 2016 A/R balance that Aegean had calculated for that Counterparty.

64. The offsetting payments that Aegean had made to one of the Counterparties in May 2017 were, themselves, contradictory audit evidence that should have raised doubts for Komodromos about all of the Four Counterparties' A/R and A/P balances. As described above, prior to receiving the extract, Komodromos understood that Aegean had no outstanding A/P balances with the Four Counterparties, because Aegean had offset all those A/P balances against the Four Counterparties' larger A/R balances. In 2016 alone, Aegean had purportedly incurred $408 million in A/P, all of which it had eliminated through offsets to A/R. Based on that offset, Aegean had no recorded A/P for the Four Counterparties as of year-end 2016, and Aegean reported a significantly reduced A/R balance than it would have absent the offset.

65. Komodromos specifically understood that the May 2017 payments to one of the Four Counterparties were payments on purchases from that Counterparty. The cash payments were therefore an indication that Aegean's offsets of the A/P against A/R may have been invalid, and that Aegean may have had substantial unrecorded liabilities to the Four Counterparties and substantially higher A/R balances for the Four Counterparties as of year-end 2016. Nevertheless, in violation of AS 1105.29, Komodromos did not perform or have the engagement team perform audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter.

v. Komodromos Improperly Authorized the Firm's Issuance of an Audit Report Containing an Unqualified Audit Opinion

66. PCAOB standards provide that, if the auditor has not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence about a relevant assertion or has substantial doubt about a relevant assertion, the auditor should perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address the matter.[36] If the auditor is unable to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to have a reasonable basis to conclude whether the financial statements as a whole are free of material misstatement, the auditor should express a qualified opinion or a disclaimer of opinion.[37] An

unqualified audit opinion may be expressed only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB.[38]

67. Komodromos violated these standards when, on May 16, 2017, he authorized the Firm's release of an audit report containing an unqualified audit opinion on Aegean's financial statements. Despite the heightened risks associated with the significant and unusual Four Counterparties' transactions and outstanding balances, Komodromos did not plan and perform procedures with due professional care to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence concerning those transactions and outstanding balances. Most critically, Komodromos violated PCAOB standards by failing to resolve significant contradictory audit evidence concerning the Four Counterparties and the revenue, A/R, and A/P that Aegean attributed to the Four Counterparties.[39] As a result, Komodromos did not obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support an unqualified audit opinion, and he violated AS 1105, AS 2810, and AS 3101 when he authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit report.

G. Komodromos Violated PCAOB Standards by Failing to Document the Significant Audit Issues and Inconsistent Audit Evidence Concerning the Four Counterparties

68. Komodromos also violated PCAOB standards because he did not include in the audit documentation, or did not have the engagement team include in the audit documentation: (1) the contradictory audit evidence resulting from the PwC Dubai attempted site-visits to the Four Counterparties; (2) certain other critical procedures that the engagement team performed concerning the Four Counterparties; and (3) any discussion of the Four Counterparties in the engagement completion document, despite the fact that the transactions with the Four Counterparties raised significant issues for the Audit.

69. PCAOB standards provide that the auditor must document the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached with respect to relevant financial statement assertions.[40] Audit documentation must contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the nature, timing, extent, and results of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached.[41]

40 See AS 1215.06, Audit Documentation.

70. "The auditor must document significant findings or issues, actions taken to address them (including additional evidence obtained), and the basis for the conclusions reached in connection with each engagement."[42] "The auditor must identify all significant findings or issues in an engagement completion document. . . . This document, along with any documents cross-referenced, should collectively be as specific as necessary in the circumstances for a reviewer to gain a thorough understanding of the significant findings or issues."[43]

71. "In addition to the documentation necessary to support the auditor's final conclusions, audit documentation must include information the auditor has identified relating to significant findings or issues that is inconsistent with or contradicts the auditor's final conclusions."[44]

72. Most significantly, Komodromos violated AS 1215.08 because there is no mention or reference in the engagement team's audit documentation of the procedures that PwC Dubai performed to attempt to visit the Aegean-provided addresses for the Four Counterparties, the results of those procedures, or why the engagement team later dismissed those results. Indeed, the audit documentation contains no mention at all of the concerns about the Four Counterparties' existence.

73. Additionally, in violation of AS 1215.06, the audit documentation omitted any reference to Komodromos and the engagement team's examination of why Aegean was making both purchases and sales of fuel from the Four Counterparties, often at roughly the same time and in similar quantities, but at significantly different prices. Komodromos and the engagement team did not document their initial concerns about those transactions and the unusually high margins Aegean achieved on them. Nor did they document that Aegean explained those transactions as "blending" transactions, or that the team then attempted to verify management's blending explanation by examining Certificates of Quality for both the purchases and sales.

74. Finally, although the Four Counterparties' transactions were a significant issue for the audit, Komodromos and the engagement team failed to document them as such in the engagement completion document, in violation of AS 1215.12-13. In fact, the engagement completion document for the Audit makes no reference to the Four Counterparties' transactions at all.

75. The failure to adequately document the significant auditing issues, the related audit procedures and results, and the inconsistent audit evidence uncovered concerning the Four Counterparties deprived the engagement quality reviewer for the Audit of important information for his required evaluation of the significant judgments and related conclusions made by the engagement team in the Audit.[45]

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Nicos George Komodromos is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Nicos George Komodromos is barred from being an "associated person of a registered

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Nicos George Komodromos may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $80,000 is imposed on Nicos George Komodromos.

2. Respondent shall pay the civil money penalty as follows: Respondent shall pay $40,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order, an additional $20,000 within 6 months of the issuance of this Order, and the remaining $20,000 within 12 months of the issuance of this Order. Respondent shall make each payment by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Komodromos as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary,

[46] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Komodromos. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. Respondent understands that his failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon him may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Somerset CPAs, P.C., Douglas C. Fahrnow, CPA, Rebecca F. Quintana, CPA, and Edward M. McGuire, CPA,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-029

November 14, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Somerset CPAs, P.C. ("Somerset" or the "Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, Douglas C. Fahrnow, CPA ("Fahrnow"), Rebecca F. Quintana, CPA ("Quintana"), and Edward M. McGuire, CPA ("McGuire") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) barring Fahrnow from being associated with a registered public accounting firm and imposing a $60,000 civil money penalty on him;[1]

(3) barring Quintana from being associated with a registered public accounting firm and imposing a $40,000 civil money penalty on her;[2]

(4) barring McGuire from being associated with a registered public accounting firm and imposing a $30,000 civil money penalty on him;[3] and

(5) imposing a $100,000 civil money penalty on the Firm.

[1] Fahrnow may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

[2] Quintana may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

[3] McGuire may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one year from the date of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) Fahrnow violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with two audits of an issuer and the engagement quality reviews for the audits of two issuers, (b) Quintana violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of two issuers, (c) McGuire violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the engagement quality reviews for two audits of an issuer, and (d) Somerset violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[4]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[5]

[4] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[5] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (a) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (b) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

A. Respondents

1. Douglas C. Fahrnow is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Indiana (license no. CP19800524), among others. Fahrnow is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). At all relevant times, Fahrnow was the engagement partner in charge of the Firm's audits of Noble Roman's Inc. ("Noble Roman"), and the engagement quality review ("EQR") partner for the Firm's audits of Galaxy Next Generation, Inc. ("Galaxy") and Ameritrust Corp. ("Ameritrust").

2. Rebecca F. Quintana is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Indiana (license no. CP10300206), among others. Quintana is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). At all relevant times, Quintana was the engagement partner in charge of the Firm's audits of Galaxy and Ameritrust.

3. Edward M. McGuire is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Indiana (license no. CP10000071). McGuire is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). At all relevant times, McGuire was the EQR partner for the Firm's audits of Noble Roman.

4. Somerset CPAs, P.C. is a professional corporation organized under the laws of the state of Indiana and headquartered in Indianapolis, Indiana. At all relevant times, Somerset was licensed by the State of Indiana (license no. FP50400103), among others. Somerset was, at all relevant times, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.[6]

B. Issuers

5. Noble Roman's Inc. is an Indiana corporation headquartered in Indianapolis, Indiana. Noble Roman's public filings indicate that it is engaged in operating, franchising, and licensing restaurant operations. At all relevant times, Noble Roman was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

6. Galaxy Next Generation, Inc. is a Nevada corporation headquartered in Toccoa, Georgia. Galaxy's public filings disclose that it is a manufacturer and distributor of interactive learning technology hardware and software. At all relevant times, Galaxy was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

7. Ameritrust Corporation is a Wyoming corporation headquartered in Cheyenne, Wyoming. Ameritrust's public filings indicate that it is in the business of acquiring, holding, and developing commercial real estate. At all relevant times, Ameritrust was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

8. This matter concerns Fahrnow's violation of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audits of Noble Roman for the years ended December 31, 2019, and December 31, 2020 (the "Noble Roman Audits"). Specifically, Fahrnow, while serving as engagement partner on the Noble Roman Audits, violated PCAOB rules and standards by failing to perform sufficient procedures to evaluate whether the amounts recorded by Noble Roman as revenue based on terminated contracts were in conformity with GAAP and failing to perform sufficient procedures to test accounts receivable.

9. In addition, this matter concerns Quintana's violation of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with her role as engagement partner for Somerset's audit of Galaxy for the year ended June 30, 2020 (the "Galaxy Audit"), and the Firm's audit of Ameritrust for the year ended September 30, 2020 (the "Ameritrust Audit"). Quintana violated PCAOB rules and standards by failing to perform sufficient procedures during the Galaxy and Ameritrust Audits to test the issuers' goodwill impairment, which was identified as a significant risk in both audits.

10. Further, this matter concerns violations of AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review, by McGuire, while serving as the EQR partner for the Noble Roman Audits, and Fahrnow, while serving as the EQR partner for the Galaxy and Ameritrust Audits. Both McGuire and Fahrnow violated PCAOB rules and standards by failing to exercise due care and professional skepticism while performing their EQRs, and, as a result, lacked an appropriate basis to provide their concurring approval of issuance of the Firm's audit reports. In addition, McGuire failed to maintain his objectivity during the Noble Roman Audits by preparing substantive audit work papers on behalf of the engagement teams.

11. Finally, this matter also concerns the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and quality control standards, as evidenced by multiple violations during the Firm's audits of Noble Roman, Galaxy, and Ameritrust. These audit deficiencies across multiple audits involving multiple Firm personnel demonstrate that the Firm failed to maintain a system of quality control sufficient to give the Firm reasonable assurance that engagement teams performed issuer audits and reviews in accordance with applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and PCAOB auditing standards.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the Audits

12. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that the associated persons of a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[7]

13. PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit.[8] Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[9] To be appropriate, audit evidence must be both relevant and reliable in providing support for the conclusions on which the auditor's opinion is based.[10]

14. When an auditor uses information produced by a company as audit evidence, the auditor should evaluate whether the information was sufficient and appropriate for purposes of the audit by performing procedures to, among other things, test the accuracy and completeness of the information, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness of that information.[11]

15. An auditor should design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[12] The higher the risk of material misstatement, the more evidence the auditor should obtain,[13] and the more persuasive that evidence should be.[14] PCAOB standards further require an auditor to evaluate whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[15]

16. In addition, AS 1220 provides that an EQR and concurring approval of issuance are required for all audits and interim reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[16] The EQR partner must be independent of the company, perform the EQR with integrity, and maintain objectivity in performing the review.[17] To maintain objectivity, the EQR partner should not make decisions on behalf of the engagement team or assume any of the responsibilities of the engagement team.[18]

17. The EQR partner may provide concurring approval of issuance of an audit report only if, after performing a review with due professional care, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[19] To perform an EQR with due professional care, the EQR partner must exercise professional skepticism, which is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence.[20]

18. An EQR partner should evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[21] In performing an EQR for an audit, the EQR partner should evaluate, among other things, the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, significant risks identified by the engagement team.[22] The EQR partner should also evaluate whether the documentation that he or she reviewed indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[23]

i. The Noble Roman Audits

19. Somerset issued audit reports dated May 12, 2020, and March 22, 2021, containing unqualified audit opinions on Noble Roman's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2019, and December 31, 2020, respectively. Fahrnow, as the engagement partner, authorized the Firm's issuance of the audit reports, which were included in Noble Roman's Form 10-Ks filed with the Commission on May 12, 2020, and March 22, 2021, respectively. McGuire, as the EQR partner, authorized the concurring approval of issuance of both audit reports.

20. Noble Roman reported total assets of approximately $19.1 million and $18.4 million, revenue of approximately $11.7 million and $11.5 million, and a net loss of approximately $0.4 million and $5.4 million, as of and for the years ended December 31, 2019, and December 31, 2020, respectively. Fahrnow and the engagement team identified revenue as an area of significant risk for the Noble Roman Audits.

21. During 2019 and 2020, the company disclosed it was engaged in, among other things, franchising restaurant operations. Pursuant to its franchise agreements, Noble Roman could collect damages from franchisees whose franchises were terminated for breaching their franchise agreements. Accordingly, Noble Roman recognized revenue from these terminated franchisees amounting to approximately 10% and 6% of total revenue in 2019 and 2020, respectively. ASC 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, establishes the standard for when an entity may recognize revenue derived from contracts with customers.[24] Under ASC 606, a company may recognize the contractual damages as revenue only when, among other things, it is probable that the company will collect substantially all of the damages to which it would be entitled in exchange for the goods or services that would be transferred to the franchisee.[25]

22. During the Noble Roman Audits, Fahrnow failed to evaluate whether Noble Roman appropriately recognized revenue from terminated franchisees in conformity with GAAP. Specifically, he failed to evaluate the probability that Noble Roman would collect substantially all of the damages to which the company believed it was entitled. Fahrnow and the engagement team documented in the work papers that Noble Roman had a 46% and 20% historical collection rate for revenue from terminated franchisees for the 2019 audit and 2020 audit, respectively. Despite these low historical collection rates, Fahrnow failed to evaluate whether these collection rates supported the engagement team's conclusion that Noble Roman's revenues from terminated franchisees were recognized in accordance with GAAP during the Noble Roman Audits.[26]

23. Net accounts receivable comprised approximately 26% and 5% of Noble Roman's total assets as of December 31, 2019, and December 31, 2020, respectively. Fahrnow and the engagement team identified accounts receivable as an area of significant risk for the Noble Roman Audits, yet failed to perform sufficient procedures to test the existence of accounts receivable.

24. During both audits, Fahrnow and the engagement team determined that the use of confirmations would be ineffective "due to low response rate during the prior years' audits" and as such, did not confirm accounts receivable. Instead, their procedures were limited to inquiry of Noble Roman and inspecting documents prepared by Noble Roman regarding the amounts recorded for certain accounts receivable without obtaining sufficient appropriate evidence to corroborate the information received from Noble Roman.[27] For example, Fahrnow and the engagement team inquired of management regarding: (a) management's understanding of the reasons for the franchisee termination and (b) how management determined the amount of revenue and corresponding receivable to record. For the new additions to accounts receivable, Fahrnow and the engagement team inspected management's calculation and reviewed, on a sample basis, historical weekly sales reports Noble Roman received from the franchisees and the executed franchise agreements, assuming the franchisees would not breach the franchise agreements. These procedures, however, did not provide sufficient appropriate audit evidence to address the significant risk associated with the existence assertion of Noble Roman's accounts receivable.[28]

25. As a result of this conduct, Fahrnow failed to evaluate whether the amounts Noble Roman recorded as revenue from terminated franchisees were in conformity with GAAP and failed to perform sufficient appropriate procedures to test accounts receivable, in violation of PCAOB standards.[29]

a. McGuire's EQR of the Noble Roman Audits

26. In connection with the Noble Roman Audits, McGuire failed to properly evaluate the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to areas of significant risk during his EQRs and failed to maintain his objectivity by preparing several audit work papers on behalf of the engagement team.

27. During the Noble Roman Audits, the engagement team identified Noble Roman's revenue and accounts receivable as areas of significant risk. Consequently, McGuire was required by PCAOB standards to evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, those significant risks.[30] He was also required to evaluate whether the documentation he reviewed indicated that the engagement team had responded appropriately to those significant risks.[31]

28. McGuire, however, failed to perform his review with due professional care and professional skepticism, as he failed to identify that Fahrnow and the engagement team had not performed sufficient procedures to evaluate whether the amounts recorded by Noble Roman as revenue based on terminated franchisee contracts were in conformity with GAAP or to test the company's accounts receivable during the Noble Roman Audits.

29. PCAOB standards also provide that an EQR partner should not make decisions on behalf of the engagement team or assume any of the responsibilities of the engagement team.[32] For the Noble Roman Audits, McGuire prepared a number of audit work papers on behalf of the engagement team, including the analysis of Noble Roman's allowance for doubtful accounts and several audit planning work papers. As a result, McGuire failed to maintain his objectivity.

30. As a result of this conduct, McGuire provided his concurring approval of issuance for the Noble Roman Audit reports without performing his review with the requisite due professional care and professional skepticism in violation of AS 1220.[33]

ii. The Galaxy Audit

31. Somerset served as the external auditor for the Galaxy Audit, and the Firm's audit report, dated September 28, 2020, was included in Galaxy's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on the same date. Somerset's audit report included an unqualified opinion on Galaxy's financial statements, along with a going concern explanatory paragraph. Quintana, as engagement partner, authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit report. Fahrnow, as EQR partner, authorized the concurring approval of issuance of the Firm's audit report.

32. As of June 30, 2020, Galaxy reported that its goodwill balance was $834,220, which represented approximately 19% of Galaxy's total assets for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2020. Quintana identified goodwill as a significant risk for the Galaxy Audit. Galaxy also reported a negative working capital of $7 million, a net loss of $14 million, and a negative operating cash flow of $7 million for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2020. Between early July 2019 and September 2020, when the 2020 Form 10-K was filed, Galaxy's stock price declined from approximately $2.90 to approximately $0.03.

33. PCAOB standards require the auditor to evaluate the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management in the context of the financial statements taken as a whole.[34] The auditor's objective when evaluating accounting estimates is to obtain sufficient appropriate evidential matter to provide reasonable assurance that all accounting estimates that could be material to the financial statements have been developed, those estimates are reasonable in the circumstances, and the accounting estimates are presented in conformity with applicable accounting principles and are properly disclosed.[35]

34. To determine whether goodwill is properly valued, it should be tested for impairment at a reporting unit level at least annually, and whenever there is an indication that

33 Id. at .12; AS 1015.01.

34 AS 2501.04, Auditing Accounting Estimates.

35 Id. at .07.

it may be impaired.[36] Impairment is the condition that exists when the carrying amount of goodwill on a company's books exceeds its fair value. If the testing results in an impairment, the carrying amount of the goodwill must be reduced by the amount of the impairment.

35. In evaluating the reasonableness of an accounting estimate, PCAOB standards require the auditor to obtain an understanding of how management developed the estimate.[37] Based on that understanding, the auditor should use one or a combination of the following approaches: (a) review and test the process used by management to develop the estimate; (b) develop an independent expectation of the estimate to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate; and (c) review subsequent events or transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report.[38] Quintana and the engagement team intended to test goodwill impairment by reviewing and testing management's process. However, they failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to address the significant risk.

36. With respect to reviewing and testing management's process, Quintana and the engagement team understood that, during fiscal year 2020, management identified triggering events indicating that Galaxy's goodwill may be impaired. Quintana and the engagement team also noted that management separately assessed the impairment for the carrying amounts of goodwill resulting from two acquisitions made by Galaxy, including one in 2020. According to the work papers, as a result of these assessments, management determined that only the goodwill resulting from the 2020 acquisition was impaired and recorded a full impairment for that goodwill amount.

37. Quintana reviewed management's process for developing its goodwill impairment and determined that: (a) there was only one "technology" reporting unit for Galaxy, and (b) no "adverse conditions [were] present" for the reporting unit in the Firm's assessment of qualitative factors. While Quintana's determinations were contradicted by management's separate assessments of the carrying amounts of the goodwill resulting from the two acquisitions and the presence of triggering events identified by management, Quintana still concluded that the goodwill impairment was properly recorded by management without resolving the contradictions.

38. As a result, Quintana and the engagement team failed to adequately review and test the process used by management to develop the goodwill impairment amount by failing to adequately evaluate management's determination of reporting units and assess the triggering events identified by management or other qualitative factors related to Galaxy's goodwill. These triggering events and qualitative factors included the sustained decrease in share price, the reasons behind the going concern explanatory paragraph, and Galaxy's net loss, negative working capital, and negative cash flows from operating activities in fiscal year 2020 and their impact on the fair value of the company and goodwill.

39. In addition, as part of reviewing and testing management's process, Quintana and the engagement team attempted to obtain corroborating evidence by reviewing Galaxy's market capitalization. They derived a market capitalization using stock price information from a third party website and concluded that the market capitalization was the fair value of the company. Yet they failed to perform any procedures to evaluate whether Galaxy's stock was trading in orderly transactions in an active market during the period covered by the Galaxy Audit and, therefore, whether the stock price could be used to support that the market capitalization was representative of the fair value of the company as a whole. Further Quintana and the engagement team failed to assess the appropriate reporting unit in assessing goodwill impairment, and compared the market capitalization with the carrying value of goodwill instead of comparing the fair value of the reporting unit with the carrying amount of the reporting unit, which is the method required by GAAP.[39]

40. As a result of this conduct, Quintana failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to evaluate the goodwill estimate and failed to design and perform audit procedures to evaluate the valuation assertion of Galaxy's goodwill under ASC 350, in violation of PCAOB standards.[40]

a. Fahrnow's EQR of the Galaxy Audit

41. In connection with the Galaxy Audit, Fahrnow failed to properly evaluate the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to areas of significant risk during his EQR. Specifically, Fahrnow failed to properly evaluate whether Quintana and the engagement team had obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate Galaxy's goodwill estimate and had adequately designed and performed audit procedures to evaluate Galaxy's valuation of goodwill under ASC 350.

42. During the Galaxy Audit, the engagement team identified Galaxy's goodwill as an area of significant risk. Consequently, Fahrnow was required by PCAOB standards to evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, that significant risk.[41] He was also required to evaluate whether the documentation he reviewed indicated that the engagement team had responded appropriately to that significant risk.[42]

43. Fahrnow, however, failed to perform his review with due professional care and professional skepticism, as he failed to identify that Quintana and the engagement team had not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate the goodwill estimate or designed and performed audit procedures to evaluate the valuation assertion of Galaxy's goodwill.

44. As a result, Fahrnow provided his concurring approval of issuance for the Galaxy Audit report without performing his review with the requisite due professional care and professional skepticism in violation of AS 1220.[43]

iii. The Ameritrust Audit

45. Somerset served as the external auditor for the Ameritrust Audit, and the Firm's audit report, dated February 12, 2021, was included in Ameritrust's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on the same date. Somerset's audit report included an unqualified opinion on Ameritrust's financial statements, along with a going concern explanatory paragraph. Quintana, as engagement partner, authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit report. Fahrnow, as EQR partner, authorized the concurring approval of issuance of this audit report.

46. As of September 30, 2020, Ameritrust reported that its goodwill balance was $786,136, which represented approximately 19% of Ameritrust's total assets for the fiscal year ended September 30, 2020. Ameritrust also reported a net loss of $750,217, and a negative operating cash flow of $701,171 for the fiscal year ended September 30, 2020. Ameritrust's stock price declined approximately 64% between September 2020 and when the Form 10-K was filed in February 2021. Quintana identified "impairment of goodwill" as a significant risk for the Ameritrust Audit.

47. Quintana was required to evaluate the reasonableness of management's goodwill accounting estimate.[44] Further, she was required to obtain an understanding of how management developed that estimate and use one or a combination of the following approaches to evaluate Ameritrust's goodwill estimate: (a) review and test the process used by management to develop the estimate; (b) develop an independent expectation of the estimate to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate; and (c) review subsequent events or transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report.[45] Quintana and the engagement team intended to test goodwill impairment by reviewing and testing management's process, yet they failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to address the significant risk.

48. With respect to reviewing and testing management's process, Quintana and the engagement team noted in the Firm's audit documentation that management had identified certain triggering events when considering whether to assess goodwill for impairment while still concluding that there was no impairment of goodwill. Quintana, however, determined that there were no "adverse conditions" present as of year-end for Ameritrust that would necessitate a goodwill impairment analysis.

49. Quintana's determination was contradicted by the presence of the triggering events identified by management, and she concluded that management's conclusion was proper without resolving this contradiction. Thus, Quintana and the engagement team failed to evaluate the triggering events identified by management or other qualitative factors related to Ameritrust's goodwill. For example, they failed to consider the macroeconomic conditions during the Covid-19 pandemic, the sustained decrease in Ameritrust's share price, the issues giving rise to the Firm's going concern explanatory paragraph, and Ameritrust's net losses and negative cash flows from operations and their impact on the fair value of the company.

50. In addition, as part of reviewing and testing management's process, Quintana and the engagement team attempted to obtain corroborating evidence by reviewing Ameritrust's market capitalization. However, they failed to evaluate whether the market capitalization used was representative of the fair value of the Ameritrust reporting unit as a whole under ASC 350. During the period under audit, they failed to consider that Ameritrust stock was traded with very low volume, raising concerns that its stock price might not be deemed as the price that would be received to sell the reporting unit as a whole in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date.[46]

51. As a result of this conduct, Quintana failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to evaluate the goodwill estimate and failed to appropriately design and perform audit procedures to evaluate the valuation assertion of Ameritrust's goodwill under ASC 350, in violation of PCAOB standards.[47]

a. Fahrnow's EQR of the Ameritrust Audit

52. As the EQR partner for the Ameritrust Audit, Fahrnow failed to properly evaluate the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to goodwill. The Ameritrust engagement team identified goodwill as an area of significant risk, and Fahrnow was required by PCAOB standards to evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, that significant risk.[48] He was also required to evaluate whether the documentation he reviewed indicated that the engagement team had responded appropriately to that significant risk.[49]

53. Fahrnow, however, failed to perform his review with due professional care and professional skepticism, as he failed to identify that Quintana and the engagement team had not, as part of evaluating management's estimate, adequately assessed the qualitative factors of impairment and evaluated whether the company's stock price and the market capitalization used was representative of the company's fair value.

54. As a result, Fahrnow provided his concurring approval of issuance for the Ameritrust Audit report without performing his review with the requisite due professional care and professional skepticism in violation of AS 1220.[50]

E. Somerset Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

55. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered firm establish and maintain a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[51] A firm should establish policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[52]

56. Throughout the relevant period, Somerset failed to establish and maintain policies and procedures that provided the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

57. Although Somerset had quality control policies and procedures regarding engagement performance, its policies and procedures did not ensure that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards. Instead, on multiple issuer audits conducted by multiple engagement personnel over the course of two years, Somerset and its professionals failed to exercise due care or obtain sufficient appropriate evidence.

58. Further, although Somerset had quality control policies and procedures related to the performance of engagement quality reviews, its policies and procedures did not ensure that the work performed by EQR partners met applicable professional standards and the Firm's standards of quality with regard to its engagement quality reviews. Specifically, the Firm's policies and procedures did not ensure that its personnel performing such reviews would perform their reviews with the requisite due professional care and professional skepticism on multiple issuer audits. The Firm also failed to adequately implement policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that EQR partners would maintain their objectivity.[53] Instead, on the Noble Roman Audits, an EQR partner assumed the role of an engagement team member by directly performing certain audit procedures and preparing work papers.

59. Accordingly, Somerset violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards.[54]

IV.

54 QC § 20.17.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Somerset CPAs, P.C., Douglas C. Fahrnow, CPA, Rebecca F. Quintana, CPA, and Edward M. McGuire, CPA are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Douglas C. Fahrnow, CPA is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[55]

C. After two years from the date of this Order, Douglas C. Fahrnow, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Rebecca F. Quintana, CPA is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[56]

E. After two years from the date of this Order, Rebecca F. Quintana, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Edward M. McGuire, CPA is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[57]

[55] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Fahrnow. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

[56] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act, discussed supra, at n. 55, will apply with respect to Quintana.

[57] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act, discussed supra, at n. 55, will apply with respect to McGuire.

G. After one year from the date of this Order, Edward M. McGuire, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

H. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), the Board imposes the following civil money penalties:

1. Somerset CPAs, P.C., $100,000;

2. Douglas C. Fahrnow, CPA, $60,000;

3. Rebecca F. Quintana, CPA, $40,000; and

i. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

ii. Respondents shall pay these civil money penalties within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the firm or the person as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

iii. Respondents Douglas C. Fahrnow, CPA, Rebecca F. Quintana, CPA, and Edward M. McGuire, CPA understand that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

iv. Respondent Somerset CPAs, P.C. understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent Somerset CPAs, P.C. at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

v. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to interest.

vi. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondents based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG AZSA LLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-030

November 14, 2023

(1) censuring KPMG AZSA LLC ("KPMG Japan," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty of $500,000 on KPMG Japan; and

(3) requiring KPMG Japan to review and certify its quality control policies and procedures concerning journal entry testing.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that KPMG Japan violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards by failing to implement, maintain, and monitor quality control policies and procedures to ensure that its personnel complied with professional standards concerning journal entry testing.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order, as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG AZSA LLC is a limited liability corporation organized under the laws of Japan and headquartered in Tokyo, Japan. The Firm is licensed by the Japan Financial Services Agency (License No. 2085). The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns KPMG Japan's failure to comply with PCAOB quality control standards. From 2019 through 2021, the Firm's quality control policies and procedures governing engagement performance were insufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that the journal entry testing conducted by its engagement personnel in connection with audits subject to PCAOB rules and standards met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

3. Additionally, KPMG Japan's system of quality control failed to include adequate monitoring procedures that enabled the Firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control concerning journal entry testing was effective.

C. KPMG Japan Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

i. KPMG Japan's Quality Control Policies and Procedures Failed to Provide the Firm with Reasonable Assurance that Work Performed by Engagement Personnel Met Professional Standards and Regulatory Requirements

registered firm to effectively design, implement, and maintain a system of quality control in the firm's accounting and auditing practice.[3] A firm's system of quality control should, among other things, include policies and procedures for engagement performance. A firm should establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[4] Quality control policies and procedures for engagement performance should encompass all phases of the design and execution of an engagement.[5] To the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, these policies and procedures should also cover, among other things, planning, performing, and documenting the results of each engagement.[6]

5. PCAOB auditing standards specify that, "[m]aterial misstatements of financial statements due to fraud often involve the manipulation of the financial reporting process by (a) recording inappropriate or unauthorized journal entries throughout the year or at period end, or (b) making adjustments to amounts reported in the financial statements that are not reflected in formal journal entries[.]"[7] Accordingly, auditors are instructed to "[i]dentify and select journal entries and other adjustments for testing."[8] Among other things, "even though controls [over the preparation and posting of journal entries and adjustments] might be implemented and operating effectively, the auditor's substantive procedures for testing journal entries and other adjustments should include the identification and substantive testing of specific items."[9] "[T]he auditor's procedures should include selecting from the general ledger journal entries to be tested and examining support for those items."[10]

6. PCAOB auditing standards also specify that "management is in a unique position to perpetuate fraud because of its ability to directly or indirectly manipulate accounting records and prepare fraudulent financial statements by overriding established controls. . . ."[11]

Accordingly, auditors should perform procedures to specifically address the risk of management override of controls.[12]

7. During certain issuer audit work conducted by the Firm between 2019 and 2021,[13] Firm personnel identified management override of controls as a fraud risk and performed procedures to test certain subsets of journal entries they identified as high-risk ("High-Risk Journal Entries") as part of their response to this risk. The procedures performed included identifying manual journal entries of a certain magnitude that were submitted by employees at a given level of seniority and related to the recording of sales or reduction of expenses or losses, or involved reclassification of amounts within the profit and loss statement.

8. However, the Firm's journal entry testing work papers for the audits in question often reflected only cursory analysis of the High-Risk Journal Entries, typically referencing general observations and/or discussions with management. In many instances, the Firm's testing relied on an understanding of the High-Risk Journal Entries gleaned from other audit procedures, and generally failed to incorporate the substantive testing of supporting evidence required by PCAOB standards.[14]

9. The version of KPMG Japan's audit methodology and accompanying guidance in effect from 2019 through 2021 included a general instruction that audit teams should document procedures performed over journal entries selected for testing, but the guidance provided by the Firm was not specific enough to provide reasonable assurance that engagement teams would adequately test the High-Risk Journal Entries, which contributed to the deficiencies in journal entry testing.

10. Accordingly, KPMG Japan violated QC § 20.

ii. KPMG Japan's Monitoring Procedures Failed to Provide the Firm with Reasonable Assurance That its System of Quality Control Concerning Journal Entry Testing Was Operating Effectively

11. A firm should establish policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that its quality control policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.[15] Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of the (a) relevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures; (b) appropriateness of the firm's guidance materials and any practice aids; (c) effectiveness of professional development activities; and (d) compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[16]

12. Monitoring procedures, taken as a whole, should enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective.[17] "Procedures that provide the firm with a means of identifying and communicating circumstances that may necessitate changes to, or the need to improve compliance with, the firm's policies and procedures contribute to the monitoring element."[18] Among other things, a firm's monitoring procedures may include inspection procedures, preissuance or postissuance review of selected engagements, determination of any corrective actions to be taken and improvements to be made in the quality control system, communication to appropriate firm personnel of any weaknesses identified, and follow up to ensure that any necessary modifications are made to the quality control policies and procedures on a timely basis.[19]

13. As part of KPMG Japan's quality control monitoring, the Firm conducted periodic internal quality reviews designed to identify potential deficiencies in audit work, which could either be escalated as formal findings or communicated informally by reviewers to engagement team members. Only formal findings were documented and maintained in the inspection report for a quality review.

14. KPMG Japan conducted an internal quality review of an issuer audit performed in 2020, during which the reviewers evaluated testing of High-Risk Journal Entries. The internal quality review team identified certain deficiencies in the testing, and discussed those deficiencies with the engagement team, but concluded that the deficiencies did not warrant a formal finding. The failure of the Firm's internal review program to issue a formal finding concerning the deficient journal entry testing or otherwise escalate the issue within the Firm contributed to deficient testing of High-Risk Journal Entries in 2021.

15. Accordingly, KPMG Japan violated QC § 30.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. In ordering sanctions, the Board took into consideration certain remedial steps KPMG Japan has undertaken, including revisions to certain quality control policies and procedures. The Firm's revised procedures more explicitly instruct teams to examine underlying support for journal entries selected for testing, and provide a direct link to relevant PCAOB auditing standards governing such testing.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Japan is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $500,000 is imposed upon KPMG Japan.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. KPMG Japan shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that KPMG Japan shall pay pursuant to this Order, KPMG Japan shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of KPMG Japan's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against KPMG Japan based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. KPMG Japan understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to it at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG Japan. Within 90 days of the date of this Order, KPMG Japan shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures intended to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with professional standards and regulatory requirements for journal entry testing applicable to audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.

2. Reporting. Within 120 days of the date of this Order, KPMG Japan shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the area specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG Japan or, if KPMG Japan concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG Japan shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG Japan's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within 150 days of the date of this Order, KPMG Japan's head of quality assurance shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG Japan has implemented all of the modifications and additions to its policies and procedures, if any, that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG Japan's adoptions of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG Japan shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. KPMG Japan understands that a failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Cherry Bekaert LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-031

November 14, 2023

(1) censuring Cherry Bekaert LLP ("Cherry Bekaert," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $35,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make a required communication to the audit committee of Ipsidy Inc. dba authID.ai under AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Cherry Bekaert has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Cherry Bekaert LLP is a limited liability partnership headquartered in Raleigh, North Carolina and licensed to practice public accounting in multiple jurisdictions. It is licensed by, among others, the North Carolina Board of Certified Public Accountant Examiners (license no. 18220[2]), and the New York State Education Department Office of Professions (license no. 069944). At all relevant times, Cherry Bekaert was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for 28 issuer clients.

B. Issuer

2. Ipsidy Inc. dba authID.ai (n/k/a authID, Inc.) ("authID"), is a corporation headquartered in Denver, Colorado. Its public filings disclose that it is a provider of secure, authentication solutions that bind passwordless authentication with biometric identity. At all relevant times, authID was an issuer as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Cherry Bekaert issued an audit report on authID's consolidated financial statements on March 22, 2022, for the year ended December 31, 2021 (the "Audit"), which was included in authID's Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on March 22, 2022.

C. Other Relevant Entity

3. SA Professional Consulting ("SAPRO") is a consulting firm headquartered in New York, New York. Cherry Bekaert used a person affiliated with SAPRO to perform certain audit procedures in connection with the Audit.

D. Cherry Bekaert Failed to Make a Required Audit Committee Communication in Violation of AS 1301

4. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[3] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[4]

5. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[5] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[6]

[3] AS 1301.01, Communications with Audit Committees.

[4] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (August 15, 2012).

[6] Id. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

6. In connection with the Audit, Cherry Bekaert failed to inform the audit committee of authID of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of a person—the individual affiliated with SAPRO—who was not employed by Cherry Bekaert and performed audit procedures in the Audit.

7. Accordingly, Cherry Bekaert violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the Audit.

IV.

Cherry Bekaert has represented to the Board that, since this deficiency was identified by the PCAOB during its 2022 inspection, it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing Cherry Bekaert with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees.

a. Cherry Bekaert has implemented updated audit planning and results guidance for communicating the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms performing audit procedures in an audit; and

b. Cherry Bekaert has communicated this updated guidance to relevant personnel, and has provided relevant training to manager and above assurance personnel.

V.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $35,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), Cherry Bekaert is required to comply with its audit committee communications policies and procedures, including those intended to provide reasonable assurance that, as part of communicating its overall audit strategy, Cherry Bekaert communicates with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the audit.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Deloitte Audit,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-032

November 14, 2023

(1) censuring Deloitte Audit ("DT Luxembourg," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of ArcelorMittal S.A. under AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, DT Luxembourg has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Deloitte Audit is headquartered in Luxembourg, Luxembourg, and is a member of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited ("DTTL") global network. At all relevant times, DT Luxembourg was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for one issuer client.

B. Issuer

2. ArcelorMittal S.A. is a corporation headquartered in Luxembourg, Luxembourg. ArcelorMittal owns and operates steel manufacturing and mining facilities in Europe, North and South America, Asia, and Africa. At all relevant times, ArcelorMittal was an issuer as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). DT Luxembourg issued an audit opinion on ArcelorMittal's consolidated financial statements on March 11, 2022, for the year ended December 31, 2021 (the "Audit"), which was included in ArcelorMittal's Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on March 11, 2022.

C. Other Relevant Entities

3. AO Deloitte & Touche CIS ("DT Russia") was, at all relevant times, an independent public accounting firm headquartered in Moscow, Russian Federation and registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. DT Russia performed audit procedures in the Audit.

4. Deloitte LLP ("DT UK") is an independent public accounting firm headquartered in London, United Kingdom. At all relevant times, DT UK was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. DT UK performed audit procedures in the Audit.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Firm's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

5. Deloitte Haskins & Sells LLP ("DT India A") is an independent public accounting firm headquartered in Mumbai, India. At all relevant times, DT India A was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. DT India A performed audit procedures in the Audit.

6. Deloitte Haskins & Sells ("DT India B") is an independent public accounting firm headquartered in Ahmedabad, India. At all relevant times, DT India B was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. DT India B performed audit procedures in the Audit.

7. Deloitte S.A. ("DT Argentina") is an independent public accounting firm headquartered in Córdoba, Argentina. DT Argentina is not, and never has been, registered with the Board. DT Argentina performed audit procedures in the Audit.

8. Deloitte Auditing and Consulting Kft. ("DT Hungary") is an independent public accounting firm headquartered in Budapest, Hungary. DT Hungary is not registered with the Board. DT Hungary's registration with the Board was withdrawn in 2010. DT Hungary performed audit procedures in the Audit.

9. Deloitte & Touche - Qatar Branch ("DT Qatar") is an independent public accounting firm headquartered in Doha, Qatar. DT Qatar is not, and never has been, registered with the Board. DT Qatar performed audit procedures in the Audit.

10. The entities described in paragraphs 3 through 9 are public accounting firms, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii), and each was a member of the DTTL global network at all relevant times.[2]

D. DT Luxembourg Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301

11. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[3] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the

[2] On May 26, 2022, DT Russia filed with the Board a Special Report on Form 3 stating that, as of May 20, 2022, it had changed its legal name to AO "Business Solutions and Technologies" ("AO"). In its most recent Annual Report on Form 2, filed with the Board on June 27, 2023, AO indicated that it is no longer a member of the DTTL global network or any other global network.

12. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[5] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[6]

13. In connection with the Audit, DT Luxembourg failed to inform ArcelorMittal's audit committee of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of the following independent public accounting firms that performed audit procedures in the Audit: DT Russia, DT UK, DT India A, DT India B, DT Argentina, DT Hungary, and DT Qatar.

14. Accordingly, DT Luxembourg violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the Audit.

IV.

[4] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (August 15, 2012).

[5] The term "other independent public accounting firms" includes "firms that perform audit procedures in the current period audit regardless of whether they otherwise have any relationship with the auditor." AS 1301.10d, Note.

[6] Id. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, at A4-15.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-033

November 14, 2023

(1) censuring KPMG ("KPMG Argentina," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of its issuer audit client, Banco BBVA Argentina S.A. ("Banco BBVA"), in violation of AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Argentina has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG is a partnership headquartered in Buenos Aires, Argentina and is a member of the KPMG global network of firms ("KPMG International"). It is licensed to practice public accounting in multiple jurisdictions in Argentina, including by the Consejo Profesional de Ciencias Económicas de Buenos Aires (license no. T°1 F°193 - Docket 193). At all relevant times, KPMG Argentina was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for one issuer client.

B. Issuers

2. Banco BBVA Argentina S.A. is a corporation headquartered in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Its public filings disclose that it is a financial institution providing a variety of banking services. At all relevant times, Banco BBVA was an issuer as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On April 15, 2021, KPMG Argentina issued an audit report on Banco BBVA's financial statements that Banco BBVA included in its Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020 (the "Audit").

C. Other Relevant Entities

3. KPMG Auditores, S.L. ("KPMG Spain") is a limited liability company headquartered in Madrid, Spain and a member of KPMG International. At all relevant times, KPMG Spain was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and licensed by the Instituto de Contabilidad y Auditoría de Cuentas de España (license no. s0702). KPMG Spain performed audit procedures in connection with the Audit.

4. KPMG S.A. is a corporation headquartered in Córdoba, Argentina and a member of KPMG International. KPMG S.A. is not, and has never been, registered with the Board. KPMG S.A. performed audit procedures in connection with the Audit.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to KPMG Argentina's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

D. KPMG Argentina Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301

5. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[3]

6. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[4] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[5]

7. In connection with the Audit, KPMG Argentina failed to inform Banco BBVA's audit committee of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of KPMG Spain and KPMG S.A., other independent public accounting firms that performed audit procedures in the Audit.

8. Accordingly, KPMG Argentina violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the Audit.

[2] AS 1301.01, Communications with Audit Committees.

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (Aug. 15, 2012).

[5] Id. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG Auditores Independentes Ltda.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-034

November 14, 2023

(1) censuring KPMG Auditores Independentes Ltda. ("KPMG Brazil," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of its issuer audit client, Petróleo Brasileiro S.A. ("Petrobras"), in violation of AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Brazil has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG Auditores Independentes Ltda. is a limited liability partnership headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil and is a member of the KPMG global network of firms ("KPMG International"). It is licensed to practice public accounting by the Conselho de Contabilidade do Estado de São Paulo (license no. 2SP014428/06). At all relevant times, KPMG Brazil was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for eleven issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. Petróleo Brasileiro S.A. is a corporation headquartered in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Its public filings disclose that it focuses on the offshore and onshore exploration, appraisal, development, production and incorporation of oil and natural gas reserves. At all relevant times, Petrobras was an issuer as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On March 30, 2022, KPMG Brazil issued an audit report on Petrobras's financial statements that Petrobras included in its Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2021 (the "Audit").

C. Other Relevant Entity

3. KPMG Assurance Services Ltda. ("KPMG Assurance") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil, and a member of KPMG International. KPMG Assurance is not, and has never been, registered with the Board. KPMG Assurance performed audit procedures in connection with the Audit.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to KPMG Brazil's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

D. KPMG Brazil Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301

4. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[3]

5. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[4] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[5]

6. In connection with the Audit, KPMG Brazil failed to inform Petrobras's audit committee of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of KPMG Assurance, an other independent public accounting firm that performed audit procedures in the Audit.

7. Accordingly, KPMG Brazil violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the Audit.

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (Aug. 15, 2012).

[5] Id. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of RH CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-035

November 14, 2023

(1) censuring RH CPA ("RH," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $45,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of its issuer audit client Sunrise Real Estate Group, Inc. ("Sunrise"), in violation of AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees, and failed to file an accurate Form AP regarding an audit of Sunrise, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, RH has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. RH CPA is a sole proprietorship headquartered in Bayside, New York. RH is licensed by the state of New York (lic. no. 115377). At all relevant times, RH was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for three issuer clients.

B. Issuer

2. Sunrise Real Estate Group, Inc. is a corporation with principal executive offices in Shanghai, the People's Republic of China ("PRC"). Its public filings disclose that it provides property brokerage services, including real estate marketing, property management, and property leasing, and that it also engages in real estate development. At all relevant times, Sunrise was an issuer as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On September 29, 2020, RH issued an audit report on Sunrise's financial statements that Sunrise included in its Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission for fiscal year 2019 (the "2019 Audit").

C. Other Relevant Entity

3. Beijing Haohe Zhongtian CPA ("BHZ") is a limited liability corporation headquartered in Beijing, PRC. BHZ is a public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii). BHZ is not now, and never has been, registered with the Board. BHZ participated in the 2019 Audit.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Firm's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

D. RH Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301

4. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor must communicate with a client's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment procedures.[3]

5. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[4]

6. In connection with the 2019 Audit, RH failed to inform Sunrise's audit committee of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of two personnel employed by BHZ, other persons who were not employed by RH who performed audit procedures in the 2019 Audit.

7. Accordingly, RH violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the 2019 Audit.

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16, Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (August 15, 2012).

[4] AS 1301.10d. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

E. RH Failed to File an Accurate Form AP in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

8. PCAOB Rule 3211, which took effect for issuer audit reports issued on or after January 31, 2017, provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.

9. In particular, Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."

10. The Form AP Instructions for "Part IV – Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor who uses an "other accounting firm" that incurs more than 5% of the total audit hours "[s]tate the legal name of other accounting firms and the extent of participation in the audit"[5] in its Form AP.[6]

11. The Form AP General Instructions[7] explain that an other accounting firm participated in the audit if "the other accounting firm or any of its principals or professional employees was subject to supervision under AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement."

12. During the 2019 Audit, RH used two BHZ personnel, subject to RH's supervision under AS 1201, for 216 of the 513 total hours (approximately 40%) on the 2019 Audit. Following the 2019 Audit, RH filed a Form AP that failed to identify BHZ as a participant in the audit.

13. Accordingly, RH violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the 2019 Audit.

[6] In the December 15, 2015, Release, the Board indicated that information provided on Form AP was intended to "help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." Id. at 4.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $45,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) see or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by AS 1301 and file accurate and timely Form APs; and

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of UHY LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-036

November 14, 2023

(1) censuring UHY LLP ("UHY," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $45,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules relating to independence in connection with the audits of Mountain Crest Acquisition Corp. V. ("Mountain Crest"). The Firm also failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of iPower Inc. ("iPower") under AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, UHY has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. UHY LLP is a professional limited liability partnership formed under New York law and headquartered in New York, New York. It is licensed to practice public accounting in multiple jurisdictions, including with the New York State Education Department (license no. 053132) and the District of Columbia Board of Accountancy (license no. CPC900636). At all relevant times, UHY was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuers

2. Mountain Crest Acquisition Corp. V., was, at all relevant times, an entity incorporated in Delaware and headquartered in New York, New York. It is a special acquisition company formed for the purpose of effecting a merger, capital stock exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, reorganization, or similar business combination with one or more businesses. At all relevant times, Mountain Crest was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). UHY issued an audit report that Mountain Crest included in its Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the period from April 8, 2021 through December 31, 2021.

3. iPower Inc., was, at all relevant times, an entity incorporated in Nevada and headquartered in Duarte, California. It is engaged in the marketing and sale of indoor and greenhouse gardening products with warehouses in the United States and China. At all relevant times, iPower was an issuer as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). UHY issued an audit report that iPower Inc. included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission for the year ended June 30, 2021.

C. Other Relevant Entity

4. UKW Advisors China Co., Ltd. ("UKW"), was at all relevant times an affiliate advisory company of UHY in China. UHY used a person affiliated with UKW to perform certain audit procedures in connection with the iPower audit.

D. UHY Failed to Obtain Audit Committee Pre-Approval of Services in Violation of PCAOB Rules 3520 and 3524

5. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons must be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[2] That requirement includes an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB and all other independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[3]

6. Rule 3524, Audit Committee Pre-approval of Certain Tax Services, provides that, in connection with seeking audit committee pre-approval to perform for an issuer audit client any permissible tax service, a registered public accounting firm describe, in writing, to the audit committee of the issuer, among other things, the scope of the service, the fee structure of the engagement, and any side letter or other amendment to the engagement letter, or any other agreement between the firm and the audit client relating to the service.

7. Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer . . . to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's . . . audit committee."[4]

8. UHY audited Mountain Crest's financial statements for the period from April 8, 2021 through December 31, 2021, issuing an audit report that the issuer included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission in March 2022.

4 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(c)(7).

9. During the time that UHY performed that audit, it also performed tax compliance and consulting services for Mountain Crest.

10. UHY failed to obtain pre-approval from Mountain Crest's audit committee to provide these additional services.

11. Accordingly, UHY violated Rule 3520 and Rule 3524 by not fulfilling the requirements of Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, and thus was not independent of Mountain Crest.

E. UHY Failed to Communicate the Names, Locations, and Planned Responsibilities of UKW in Violation of AS 1301

12. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor must communicate with a client's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[5] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[6]

13. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[7] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period

[6] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (August 15, 2012).

[7] The term "other independent public accounting firms" includes "firms that perform audit procedures in the current period audit regardless of whether they otherwise have any relationship with the auditor." AS 1301.10d, Note.

14. UHY audited iPower's financial statements for the year ended June 30, 2021, issuing an audit report that the issuer included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission in September 2021.

15. In connection with the audit of iPower, UHY failed to inform iPower's audit committee of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of UKW, which performed inventory physical observation procedures in assisting the Firm's audit of the iPower's financial statements for the year ended June 30, 2021.

16. Accordingly, UHY violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the Audit.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $45,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

[8] Id. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006;

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order; and

5. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by PCAOB Rule 3520, PCAOB Rule 3524, and Rule 2-01(c)(7) of Commission Regulation S-X; and

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Guney Bagimsiz Denetim Ve Serbest Muhasebeci Mali Musavirlik A.S.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-037

November 28, 2023

(1) censuring Guney Bagimsiz Denetim Ve Serbest Muhasebeci Mali Musavirlik A.S. ("EY Turkey," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $25,000 civil money penalty on EY Turkey; and

(3) requiring EY Turkey to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that EY Turkey failed to disclose certain reportable events to the PCAOB on Form 3, Special Report, or to do so on a timely basis.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Guney Bagimsiz Denetim Ve Serbest Muhasebeci Mali Musavirlik A.S. is a limited liability corporation organized under the laws of Turkey. EY Turkey is headquartered in Istanbul, Turkey and is licensed to practice by the Istanbul Chamber of Public Accountants and Advisors (License No. 10356). EY Turkey is a member of the Ernst & Young Global Limited network of firms and is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns EY Turkey's failure to disclose to the PCAOB on Form 3, or to do so on a timely basis, four reportable events regarding two disciplinary proceedings brought against the Firm by the Turkish Public Oversight Accounting and Auditing Standards Authority ("POA"). PCAOB rules require registered firms, including EY Turkey, to complete and file with the PCAOB a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence. Among the events that EY Turkey is required to report on Form 3 are its becoming aware that the Firm has become a respondent in certain disciplinary proceedings, and the conclusion of such proceedings.

3. On January 3, 2019, the POA issued a warning to EY Turkey and imposed a fine on the Firm in connection with the Firm's audit of a client for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2016 ("2019 POA Proceeding"). The initiation and conclusion of the 2019 POA Proceeding constituted reportable events under Form 3.

4. On February 2, 2021, the POA issued a warning to EY Turkey and imposed a fine on the Firm in connection with the Firm's audit of a client for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2017 ("2021 POA Proceeding" and, collectively with the 2019 POA Proceeding, the "POA

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

Proceedings"). The initiation and conclusion of the 2021 POA Proceeding constituted reportable events under Form 3.

5. EY Turkey failed to report either of the POA Proceedings on Form 3 until March 1, 2023 ("March 2023 Form 3"), well after the applicable deadlines for doing so.[2]

C. Respondent Failed to Disclose Certain Reportable Events to the PCAOB, or to Do So on a Timely Basis, in Violation of PCAOB Rules

6. PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[3] One such specified event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[4]

7. Another reportable event occurs when a firm has become aware that a reportable proceeding (i.e., a reportable event under Items 2.4 – 2.9 of Form 3) has been concluded as to the firm or certain of its associated persons.[5]

8. No later than January 3, 2019, EY Turkey became aware that the POA had initiated and concluded an administrative proceeding against the Firm concerning its audit of a client's financial statements for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2016, which resulted in the POA issuing a warning to and imposing a fine on the Firm.

9. No later than February 2, 2021, EY Turkey also became aware that the POA had initiated and concluded an administrative proceeding against the Firm concerning its audit of a client's financial statements for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2017, which resulted in the POA again issuing a warning to and imposing a fine on the Firm.

[2] The March 2023 Form 3 indicated solely that the POA Proceedings had concluded and did not report or provide information about the initiation of the POA Proceedings (and EY Turkey did not file any separate Form 3s reporting the initiation of the POA Proceedings).

[3] See PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports. As the Board noted when adopting its rules on special reporting, "reportable events will sometimes occur, and the public interest, as well as the ability to consider whether prompt action is warranted by the Board's inspection staff or enforcement staff, will be served by contemporaneous reporting of the event." PCAOB Rel. No. 2008-004, at 17 (June 10, 2008).

[5] Id., at Item 2.10.

10. The initiation and conclusion of the POA Proceedings constituted reportable events under Form 3. Accordingly, the Firm was required to report those events to the PCAOB on Form 3 within thirty days of their occurrence.[6] However, EY Turkey reported the conclusion of the 2019 POA Proceeding approximately four years late and the conclusion of the 2021 POA Proceeding approximately two years late. The Firm also failed to report the initiation of either POA Proceeding.

11. EY Turkey's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the initiation of the POA Proceedings as reportable events, and to identify the conclusion of those proceedings as being reportable to the PCAOB on Form 3 on a timely basis. As a result, EY Turkey inappropriately notified the PCAOB of the conclusion of relevant disciplinary proceedings after the deadline for doing so, and failed to report the initiation of those proceedings.

IV.

12. EY Turkey has represented to the Board that, since the events described in this order, it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements:

a. EY Turkey has revised and supplemented its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by EY Turkey personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

b. EY Turkey has established policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any EY Turkey personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

c. EY Turkey has assigned the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to an individual within the Firm who possesses adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority within EY Turkey to fulfill those requirements on behalf of EY Turkey.

V.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), EY Turkey is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon EY Turkey.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. EY Turkey shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies EY Turkey as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that EY Turkey shall pay pursuant to this Order, EY Turkey shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of EY Turkey's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against EY Turkey based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. EY Turkey understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of EY Turkey's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to EY Turkey at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), EY Turkey is required to comply with its revised policies and procedures concerning PCAOB reporting, including:

1. those intended to provide reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by EY Turkey personnel who participate in EY Turkey's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. those ensuring training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any EY Turkey personnel who participate in EY Turkey's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. those assigning the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to an individual within EY Turkey who possesses adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority within EY Turkey to fulfill those requirements on behalf of EY Turkey.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Manning Elliott LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-038

November 28, 2023

(1) censuring Manning Elliott LLP ("Manning Elliott," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $35,000 civil money penalty on Manning Elliott; and

(3) requiring Manning Elliott to undertake certain remedial measures, including measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Manning Elliott failed to disclose certain reportable events to the PCAOB on Form 3, Special Report, or to do so on a timely basis.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Manning Elliott is a limited liability partnership organized under the laws of Canada. Manning Elliott is headquartered in Vancouver, British Columbia and is licensed to practice public accounting by the Chartered Professional Accountants of British Columbia. Manning Elliott is registered with the Canadian Public Accountability Board ("CPAB") and is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the PCAOB pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Manning Elliott's failure to disclose to the PCAOB on Form 3, or to do so on a timely basis, nine reportable events concerning three disciplinary proceedings brought by CPAB against Manning Elliott. The proceedings addressed deficiencies in the quality of the Firm's audits of various clients that CPAB initially identified during inspections and subsequently referred to CPAB's enforcement program. PCAOB rules require registered firms, including Manning Elliott, to complete and file with the PCAOB a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence. Among the events that Manning Elliott is required to report on Form 3 are its becoming aware that the Firm has become a respondent in certain disciplinary proceedings, the conclusion of such proceedings, and any limitations on the Firm's authorization to engage in the business of auditing or accounting.

3. On April 20, 2021, CPAB concluded an enforcement proceeding addressing findings from a 2020 CPAB inspection of the Firm ("April 2021 Proceeding"). CPAB, as part of the April 2021 Proceeding, imposed sanctions on Manning Elliott that included restrictions on client acceptance. The limitation on the Firm's practice, as well as the initiation and conclusion of the April 2021 Proceeding, constituted reportable events under Form 3. However, Manning

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

Elliott did not report the conclusion of the April 2021 Proceeding or the resulting limitation on the Firm's license on Form 3 until August 28, 2023, and did not report the initiation of the April 2021 Proceeding on that (or any other) Form 3.

4. On May 6, 2022, CPAB concluded an enforcement proceeding addressing findings from a 2021 CPAB inspection of the Firm ("May 2022 Proceeding"). CPAB, as part of the May 2022 Proceeding, again imposed sanctions on Manning Elliott that included restrictions on client acceptance. The limitation on the Firm's practice, as well as the initiation and conclusion of the May 2022 Proceeding, constituted reportable events under Form 3. However, Manning Elliott did not report the conclusion of the May 2022 Proceeding on Form 3 until August 28, 2023, and did not report the initiation of the May 2022 Proceeding, or the limitation on the Firm's practice that resulted from it, on that (or any other) Form 3.

5. On June 19, 2023, CPAB concluded an enforcement proceeding addressing findings from a 2022 CPAB inspection of the Firm ("June 2023 Proceeding" and, collectively with the April 2021 Proceeding and May 2022 Proceeding, the "CPAB Proceedings"). Once again, the sanctions that CPAB imposed on Manning Elliott, as part of the June 2023 Proceeding, included restrictions on client acceptance. That limitation on the Firm's practice, as well as the initiation and conclusion of the June 2023 Proceeding, constituted reportable events under Form 3. However, Manning Elliott did not report the conclusion of the June 2023 Proceeding or the resulting limitation on the Firm's license on Form 3 until September 15, 2023, and did not report the initiation of the June 2023 Proceeding on that (or any other) Form 3.

C. Respondent Failed to Disclose Certain Reportable Events to the PCAOB, or to Do So on a Timely Basis, in Violation of PCAOB Rules

6. PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[2] One such specified event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute

[2] See PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports. As the Board noted when adopting its rules on special reporting, "reportable events will sometimes occur, and the public interest, as well as the ability to consider whether prompt action is warranted by the Board's inspection staff or enforcement staff, will be served by contemporaneous reporting of the event." PCAOB Rel. No. 2008-004, at 17 (June 10, 2008).

resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[3]

7. Another reportable event occurs when a firm has become aware that a reportable proceeding (i.e., a reportable event under Items 2.4 – 2.9 of Form 3) has been concluded as to the firm or certain of its associated persons.[4]

8. A registered firm must also report when it becomes aware that "its authorization to engage in the business of auditing or accounting in a particular jurisdiction has ceased to be effective or has become subject to conditions or contingencies other than conditions or contingencies imposed on all firms engaged in the business of auditing or accounting in the jurisdiction."[5]

9. No later than April 20, 2021, Manning Elliott became aware that CPAB had initiated and concluded the April 2021 Proceeding, which concerned professional services the Firm provided for its clients and imposed conditions on the Firm's authorization to engage in the business of auditing by limiting the Firm's ability to accept new clients.

10. No later than May 6, 2022, Manning Elliott became aware that CPAB had initiated and concluded the May 2022 Proceeding, which concerned professional services the Firm provided for its clients and imposed conditions on the Firm's authorization to engage in the business of auditing by limiting the Firm's ability to accept new clients.

11. No later than June 19, 2023, Manning Elliott became aware that CPAB had initiated and concluded the June 2023 Proceeding, which concerned professional services the Firm provided for its clients and imposed conditions on the Firm's authorization to engage in the business of auditing by limiting the Firm's ability to accept new clients.

12. The initiation and conclusion of each of the CPAB Proceedings, and the limitations on client acceptance imposed as a result of each of them, constituted reportable events under Form 3. Accordingly, the Firm was required to report those events to the PCAOB on Form 3 within thirty days of their occurrence.[6] However, Manning Elliott failed to report certain of those events altogether, and reported others after the deadline for doing so, as summarized below.

- April 2021 Proceeding: All three reportable events occurred by April 20, 2021 and, therefore, should have been reported no later than May 20, 2021.[7] However, the Firm never reported the initiation of the April 2021 Proceeding, and it failed to report the conclusion of that proceeding and the limitations on client acceptance imposed as a result of it until August 28, 2023—over two years after the applicable deadline.

- May 2022 Proceeding: All three reportable events occurred by May 6, 2022 and, therefore, should have been reported no later than June 6, 2022.[8] However, the Firm never reported the initiation of the May 2022 Proceeding or the limitations on client acceptance imposed as a result of it, and it failed to report the conclusion of that proceeding until August 28, 2023—roughly fourteen months after the applicable deadline.

- June 2023 Proceeding: All three reportable events occurred by June 19, 2023 and, therefore, should have been reported on Form 3 no later than July 19, 2023. However, the Firm never reported the initiation of the June 2023 Proceeding, and it failed to report the conclusion of that proceeding and the limitations on client acceptance imposed as a result of it until September 15, 2023—roughly two months after the applicable deadline.

13. Manning Elliott's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the initiation and conclusion of the CPAB Proceedings, as well as the limitations on the Firm's license (specifically, limitations on client acceptance) that resulted from those proceedings, as being reportable to the PCAOB on Form 3 on a timely basis, if at all. As a result, Manning Elliott inappropriately failed to notify the PCAOB of reportable events concerning relevant disciplinary proceedings, or did so after the applicable deadline.

[7] To calculate the relevant reporting deadline for the initiation of each of the CPAB Proceedings, the Board is treating each of the proceedings as having been initiated and concluded simultaneously.

[8] Thirty days from the initiation/conclusion date of the May 2022 Proceeding is June 5, 2022, which was a Sunday. Accordingly, Manning Elliott's effective deadline to report that proceeding fell on the following Monday, June 6, 2022. See PCAOB Rule 1002, Time Computation.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Manning Elliott is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $35,000 is imposed upon Manning Elliott.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Manning Elliott shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Manning Elliott as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Manning Elliott shall pay pursuant to this Order, Manning Elliott shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Manning Elliott's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Manning Elliott based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Manning Elliott understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Manning Elliott's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Manning Elliott at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), Manning Elliott is required:

1. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing Manning Elliott with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by Manning Elliott personnel who participate in Manning Elliott's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any Manning Elliott personnel and any other individuals or entities, including outside consultants, who participate in Manning Elliott's PCAOB reporting process;

3. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to assign the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to an individual within Manning Elliott, or an outside consultant retained for such purposes, who possesses adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority to fulfill those requirements on behalf of Manning Elliott; and

4. within 120 days from the date of this Order, to have the individual referenced in paragraph C.3 above certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, Manning Elliott's compliance with paragraphs C.1 through C.3 above. The certification shall identify the actions taken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. Manning Elliott shall also submit such additional evidence and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. Manning Elliott understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Da Hua CPAs (Special General Partnership),

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-039

November 28, 2023

(1) censuring Da Hua CPAs (Special General Partnership) ("Da Hua," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $50,000 civil money penalty on Da Hua; and

(3) requiring Da Hua to review and certify its PCAOB reporting policies and procedures.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Da Hua failed to disclose certain reportable events to the Board on PCAOB Form 3, Special Report, on a timely basis and violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Da Hua CPAs (Special General Partnership) is a partnership organized under the laws of China and headquartered in Beijing, China. Da Hua is licensed in China by the Chinese Ministry of Finance and is a member of the Moore Global network of firms. Da Hua is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns Da Hua's failure to timely disclose to the Board on Form 3 ten reportable events regarding five disciplinary proceedings brought against the firm and certain of its personnel by the China Securities Regulatory Commission ("CSRC"). PCAOB rules require registered firms, including Da Hua, to complete and file with the PCAOB a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence. Among the events that Da Hua is required to report on Form 3 are its becoming aware that the firm has become a respondent in certain disciplinary proceedings, and the conclusion of such proceedings.

3. Between May 2022 and March 2023, five separate proceedings brought by the CSRC against Da Hua (and various associated persons of the Firm) were concluded with orders that, in each instance, sanctioned the Firm and the relevant individuals. The initiation and conclusion of each of those CSRC proceedings constituted reportable events under Form 3, but the Firm failed to report any of those events on Form 3 until June 28, 2023—well past the thirty-day reporting deadline.

4. This matter also concerns Da Hua's violation of PCAOB quality control standards. The Board previously issued an order sanctioning Da Hua for failing to report certain qualifying disciplinary proceedings on Form 3 and requiring the Firm to improve its PCAOB reporting process.[2] Da Hua's continued failure to comply with Form 3 reporting requirements demonstrates that the steps taken by the Firm in response to the 2020 Order were insufficient and that its system of quality control concerning PCAOB reporting remains deficient.

C. Respondent Failed to Timely Disclose Certain Reportable Events to the Board, in Violation of PCAOB Rules

5. PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[3] One such specified event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[4]

6. Another reportable event occurs when a firm has become aware that a reportable proceeding (i.e., a reportable event under Items 2.4 – 2.9 of Form 3) has been concluded as to the firm or certain of its associated persons.[5]

7. Between May 2022 and March 2023, five separate disciplinary proceedings initiated by the CSRC against Da Hua and various associated persons concluded. Each proceeding pertained to audits Da Hua conducted of non-issuer clients.[6]

[6] The term "issuer" means an issuer (as defined in Section 3 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act")), the securities of which are registered under Section 12 of the Exchange Act, or that is required to file reports under Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act, or that files or has filed a registration statement that has not yet become effective under the Securities Act of 1933, and that it has not withdrawn. See PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

8. No later than the dates on which the CSRC concluded the proceedings, Da Hua became aware that the proceedings had been initiated and concluded. Da Hua was required to report the initiation and conclusion of each of the proceedings within thirty days of the Firm becoming aware of each of those events.[7] However, Da Hua failed to report the initiation and conclusion of the proceedings until it filed a series of Form 3s on June 28, 2023, well after the applicable deadlines. The relevant dates and the extent of Da Hua's delinquency are listed below:

	Initiation/Conclusion Date[8]	Reporting Deadline	Delinquency
Proceeding 1	May 16, 2022	June 15, 2022	378 days
Proceeding 2	June 28, 2022	July 28, 2022	335 days
Proceeding 3	January 5, 2023	February 6, 2023[9]	142 days
Proceeding 4	March 14, 2023	April 13, 2023	76 days
Proceeding 5	March 28, 2023	April 27, 2023	62 days

9. Accordingly, Da Hua repeatedly violated PCAOB Rule 2203.

D. Respondent Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

10. PCAOB rules further require registered public accounting firms to comply with the Board's quality control standards.[10] PCAOB quality control standards require each registered firm to effectively design, implement, and maintain a system of quality control in the firm's accounting and auditing practice.[11] A firm should establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel

7 See PCAOB Rule 2203(a).

8 To calculate reporting deadlines for purposes of this Order—and consistent with the dates for the initiation and conclusion of the proceedings listed in Da Hua's June 28, 2023 Form 3s—the Board is treating each of the proceedings as having been initiated and concluded on the same date.

9 Thirty days from the initiation/conclusion date of Proceeding 3 is February 4, 2023, which was a Saturday. Accordingly, the Firm's effective deadline to report that proceeding fell on the following Monday, February 6, 2023.

10 See PCAOB Rule 3400T, Interim Quality Control Standards.

meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[12]

11. A firm should establish policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that its quality control policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied. Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of the (a) relevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures; (b) appropriateness of the firm's guidance materials and any practice aids; (c) effectiveness of professional development activities; and (d) compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[13]

12. The 2020 Order sanctioned Da Hua for failing to report the initiation and conclusion of a CSRC proceeding on Form 3 and required Da Hua to complete various undertakings designed to improve its policies and procedures concerning PCAOB reporting. Specifically, the 2020 Order required Da Hua to (i) establish policies and procedures—or revise or supplement existing policies or procedures—to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, (ii) establish policies to ensure that personnel participating in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process receive training at least annually concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, and (iii) assign the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to an individual within the Firm possessing adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB requirements, and sufficient authority within the Firm, to fulfill Da Hua's PCAOB reporting requirements, and certify in writing the Firm's compliance with the requirements listed above.

13. Following issuance of the 2020 Order, Da Hua certified to the Director of the Board's Division of Enforcement and Investigations that it had complied with the undertakings enumerated in the 2020 Order.

14. However, Da Hua's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the initiation and conclusion of the five CSRC proceedings against Da Hua and its personnel described above as being reportable to the PCAOB on Form 3 on a timely basis. The Firm's continued failure to make timely disclosures on Form 3 demonstrates that Da Hua's system of quality control concerning PCAOB reporting remains deficient despite the Firm's certification following issuance of the 2020 Order.

[12] QC § 20.17.

[13] See QC § 20.20; Quality Control Standard 30, Monitoring a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice ("QC § 30"), .02.

15. Accordingly, Da Hua violated QC §§ 20 and 30.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Da Hua is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 is imposed upon Da Hua.

2. Da Hua shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Da Hua as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Da Hua shall pay pursuant to this Order, Da Hua shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Da Hua's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Da Hua based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Da Hua understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Da Hua's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Da Hua at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by Da Hua. Within 90 days of the date of this Order, Da Hua shall review and evaluate its quality control or other policies and procedures intended to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that it complies with PCAOB reporting requirements.

2. Reporting. Within 120 days of the date of this Order, Da Hua shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the area specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by Da Hua or, if Da Hua concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, Da Hua shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and Da Hua's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within 150 days of the date of this Order, Da Hua's head of quality assurance shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that Da Hua has implemented all of the modifications and additions to its policies and procedures, if any, that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of Da Hua's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. Da Hua shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. Da Hua understands that a failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Olayinka Oyebola & Co (Chartered Accountants),

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-040

November 28, 2023

(1) censuring Olayinka Oyebola & Co (Chartered Accountants), a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $90,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to timely file required Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Olayinka Oyebola & Co (Chartered Accountants) is located in Victoria Island, Nigeria. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

2. PCAOB Rule 3211, which took effect for issuer audit reports issued on or after January 31, 2017, provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC or Commission),[2] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[3]

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] See Rule 3211(b)(1).

[3] In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. See Rule 3211(b)(2). In the case of a Form S-1 filing, the date of the issuer's S-1/A filing is the latest possible starting point for that ten-day deadline.

3. The Firm audited the financial statements of Motos America, Inc. (f/k/a WECONNECT Tech International) for the years ended July 31, 2020, and July 31, 2021. For Motos America, Inc.'s 2020 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated July 28, 2021, which was included in Motos America, Inc.'s Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on August 25, 2021. For Motos America, Inc.'s 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated October 25, 2021, which was included in Motos America, Inc.'s Form 10-K filed with the SEC on October 26, 2021.

4. The Firm audited the financial statements of Hanjiao Group, Inc. (f/k/a AS Capital, Inc.) for the year ended December 31, 2018. For Hanjiao Group, Inc.'s 2018 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated March 2019, which was included in Hanjiao Group, Inc.'s Form 10-12G/A filed with the SEC on April 1, 2019.

5. The Firm audited the financial statements of Namliong SkyCosmos Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2019. The Firm issued an audit report dated September 24, 2021, which was included in Namliong SkyCosmos Inc.'s Form 10-K filed with the SEC on September 28, 2021.

6. The Firm audited the financial statements of Livento Group Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021. The Firm issued an audit report dated November 11, 2022, which was included in Livento Group Inc.'s Form 10-12G/A filed with the SEC on November 15, 2022.

7. The Firm audited the financial statements of Livento Group Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021. The Firm issued an audit report dated December 13, 2022, which was included in Livento Group Inc.'s Form 10-12G/A filed with the SEC on December 15, 2022.

8. The Firm audited the financial statements of Livento Group Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021. The Firm issued an audit report dated January 5, 2023, which was included in Livento Group Inc.'s Form 10-12G/A filed with the SEC on February 24, 2023.

9. The Firm audited the financial statements of Livento Group Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated February 22, 2023, which was included in Livento Group Inc.'s Form 10-12G/A filed with the SEC on February 24, 2023.

10. The Firm audited the financial statements of Livento Group Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated March 23, 2023, which was included in Livento Group Inc.'s Form 10-12G/A filed with the SEC on March 24, 2023.

11. The Firm audited the financial statements of Livento Group Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated May 25, 2023, which was included in Livento Group Inc.'s Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on May 26, 2023.

12. The Firm audited the financial statements of Livento Group Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated June 28, 2023, which was included in Livento Group Inc.'s Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on June 28, 2023.

13. The Firm audited the financial statements of Kenilworth Systems Corporation for the year ended December 31, 2021. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 29, 2022, which was included in Kenilworth Systems Corporation's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on May 3, 2022.

14. The Firm audited the financial statements of Yijia Group Corp. for the year ended April 30, 2023. The Firm issued an audit report dated May 12, 2023, which was included in Yijia Group Corp.'s Form 10-K filed with the SEC on May 15, 2023.

15. The Firm audited the financial statements of Connexa Sports Technologies Inc. for the year ended April 30, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated May 17, 2023, which was included in Connexa Sports Technologies Inc.'s Form 10-K filed with the SEC on May 17, 2023.

16. For the same year, the Firm also issued an audit report dated July 18, 2023, which was included in Connexa Sports Technologies Inc.'s Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on July 18, 2023.

17. The Firm audited the financial statements of Costas Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated March 27, 2023, which was included in Costas Inc.'s Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on April 10, 2023.

18. The Firm audited the financial statements of General European Strategic Investments, Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021. The Firm issued an audit report dated August 23, 2022, which was included in General European Strategic Investments, Inc.'s Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on December 20, 2022.

19. The Firm audited the financial statements of General European Strategic Investments, Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 5, 2023, which was included in General European Strategic Investments, Inc.'s Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on April 25, 2023.

20. The Firm audited the financial statements of General European Strategic Investments, Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated July 3, 2023, which was included in General European Strategic Investments, Inc.'s Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on July 5, 2023.

21. The Firm audited the financial statements of Kashin, Inc. for the year ended April 30, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated December 5, 2022, which was included in Kashin Inc.'s Form 10-K filed with the SEC on December 15, 2022.

22. The Firm failed to file the required Form APs for the above filings by the 35th day after the date the audit reports were first included with the filings made with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211. The Firm also failed to file the required Form APs by the 10th day after the date certain of the audit reports were first included in a registration statement filed with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

23. In connection with a 2020 inspection of the Firm, the PCAOB inspection staff brought to the Firm's attention that in an audit reviewed, the Firm failed to comply with PCAOB Rule 3211. Despite this notice, the Firm failed to file additional Form APs.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured:

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $90,000 is imposed upon the Firm:

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Olayinka Oyebola & Co (Chartered Accountants) as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that the failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211 and that Form APs are filed in a timely and complete manner;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Victor Mokuolu, CPA PLLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-041

November 28, 2023

(1) censuring Victor Mokuolu, CPA PLLC, a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to timely file required Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

I.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Victor Mokuolu, CPA PLLC is a company located in Houston, Texas (C10829). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

2. PCAOB Rule 3211, which took effect for issuer audit reports issued on or after January 31, 2017, provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC),[2] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[3]

3. The Firm audited the financial statements of Emerging Opportunities Corporation for the year ended December 31, 2020. For Emerging Opportunities Corporation's 2020 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated December 14, 2022 (sic), which was included in Emerging Opportunities Corporation's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on January 24, 2022.

4. The Firm audited the financial statements of Himalaya Technologies, Inc. for the year ended July 31, 2022. For Himalaya Technologies, Inc.'s 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated November 21, 2022, which was included in Himalya Technologies, Inc.'s Form 10-K filed with the SEC on November 22, 2022.

5. The Firm audited the financial statements of SmartMetric, Inc. for the year ended June 30, 2022. For SmartMetric, Inc.'s 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated November 8, 2022, which was included in SmartMetric, Inc.'s Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on November 8, 2022.

6. The Firm audited the financial statements of First America Resources Corporation for the year ended June 30, 2022. For First America Resources Corporation's 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated October 12, 2022, which was included in First America Resources Corporation's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on October 13, 2022.

7. The Firm audited the financial statements of Mountain Top Properties, Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021. For Mountain Top Properties, Inc.'s 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated April 15, 2022, which was included in Mountain Top Properties, Inc.'s Form 10-K filed with the SEC on April 18, 2022.

8. The Firm audited the financial statement of Good Gaming, Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021. For Good Gaming, Inc.'s 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated April 14, 2022, which was included in Good Gaming, Inc.'s Form 10-K filed with the SEC on April 15, 2022.

9. The Firm failed to file six required Form APs for the above filings by the 35th day after the date the audit reports were first included with the filings made with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211.

10. The Firm belatedly filed the aforementioned Forms AP on February 6, 2023.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that the failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211 and that Form APs are filed in a timely and complete manner;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Mah & Associates, LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-042

November 28, 2023

(1) censuring Mah & Associates, LLP, a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to timely file required Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

I.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Mah & Associates, LLP is a partnership located in San Francisco, California (license no. 6755). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

2. PCAOB Rule 3211, which took effect for issuer audit reports issued on or after January 31, 2017, provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC),[2] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[3]

3. The Firm audited the financial statements of PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan for the years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021. For PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan's 2020 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated July 14, 2021, which was included in PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan's Form 11-K filed with the SEC on July 14, 2021. For PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan's 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated June 28, 2022, which was included in PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan's Form 11-K filed with the SEC on June 29, 2022.

4. The Firm audited the financial statements of PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan for Union-Represented Employees for the years ended December 31, 2020, 2021 and 2022. For PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan for Union-Represented Employees' 2020 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated July 14, 2021, which was included in PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan for Union-Represented Employees' Form 11-K filed with the SEC on July 14, 2021. For PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan for Union-Represented Employees' 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated June 28, 2022, which was included in PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan for Union-Represented Employees' Form 11-K filed with the SEC on June 29, 2022. For PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan for Union-Represented Employees' 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated June 28, 2023, which was included in PG&E Corporation Retirement Savings Plan for Union-Represented Employees' Form 11-K filed with the SEC on June 28, 2023.

5. The Firm failed to file five required Form APs for the above filings by the 35th day after the date the audit reports were first included with the filings made with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211.

6. The Firm belatedly filed the aforementioned Form APs on July 27, August 17 and August 21, 2023, after receiving notice of the deficiencies from the Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division").

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that the failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211 and that Form APs are filed in a timely and complete manner;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of PricewaterhouseCoopers,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-043

November 30, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is imposing sanctions upon PricewaterhouseCoopers ("PwC HK," the "Firm," or "Respondent"). The Board is:

(1) censuring the Firm;

(2) imposing a $4,000,000 civil money penalty on the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that PwC HK violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards over three years in connection with the Firm's internal training program.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. PricewaterhouseCoopers is a limited liability partnership organized under Hong Kong law and headquartered in Hong Kong, Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China. It is a member firm of the PwC network, of which PricewaterhouseCoopers International Limited is the coordinating entity ("PwC Global"). At all relevant times, PwC HK was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for two or more issuer audit clients.

B. Summary

2. From 2018 until 2020, PwC HK violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures for administering and overseeing internal training tests, including tests designed to help the Firm's audit professionals satisfy the requirements for maintaining their professional certifications. Those quality control failures prevented the Firm from identifying that over one thousand Firm professionals were involved from 2018 to 2019 in improper answer sharing – either by providing or receiving access to answers through unauthorized technology – in connection with online tests for mandatory internal training courses related to PwC HK's U.S. auditing curriculum. Firm personnel engaged in the answer sharing primarily by sending or receiving software applications designed to access the correct answers for exam questions. Additionally, from 2019 to 2020, and as discussed more fully below, more than one hundred Firm personnel used tools and took steps to improperly fast-forward through Firm trainings or to falsely record that they had completed Firm trainings. The overwhelming majority of the above groups of professionals performed work for the Firm's assurance practice.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

C. PwC HK Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

i. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

3. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[3] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[4]

4. As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[5] In addition, PCAOB quality control standards related to personnel management state that "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [w]ork is assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances."[6] Moreover, "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [p]ersonnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned, and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of . . . regulatory agencies."[7]

5. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[8] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[9] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, the effectiveness of professional development activities and compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[10]

ii. Training Requirements for PwC HK

6. As part of PwC HK's personnel management system, the Firm utilizes internal training programs for its audit professionals. The training programs the Firm uses are designed to serve multiple purposes, including to provide personnel with technical instruction, to further their professional development, and to help employees satisfy some of the continuing professional education requirements imposed by the accountancy boards that license PwC HK's auditors. PwC HK's training requirements are intended to be relevant to, among other things, the independence of their personnel, the audit work they perform, and the integrity with which they carry out their professional responsibilities. However, the training requirements can vary by a professional's position, role, and industry practice area. Since at least 2018, PwC HK has required its personnel to take certain online courses that contain content regarding auditing of U.S. issuers.

7. PwC Global plays a significant role in the development and deployment of the training programs PwC HK uses. PwC Global has issued several Global Assurance Quality – Learning & Education standards that PwC HK, as a member firm of the PwC network, is expected to comply with as part of PwC HK's system of quality control. To comply with these standards, PwC HK has elected to use training material provided by PwC Global to supplement trainings the Firm developed to satisfy local regulations and requirements. With respect to training tests PwC Global provides, PwC Global designs the tests, administers the platform that records test attempts and completions, and maintains certain exam-integrity measures like rotating banks of questions and randomizing the order of answer options.

8. The internal trainings utilized by PwC HK often include a testing component. For training courses with a testing component, the Firm does not credit personnel with completing the training until they satisfactorily pass the related test.

iii. Failures by PwC HK to Establish Adequate Quality Control Policies and Procedures Related to Integrity and Personnel Management

9. During 2018 and 2019, PwC HK had in place certain quality control policies and procedures intended to address integrity and personnel management. The Firm had certain policies requiring that its personnel act with integrity generally, and starting in 2019, the Firm included in its annual training a module generally covering ethics and integrity. The Firm did not, however, communicate any specific warnings against improperly sharing answers to training tests, and its policies and procedures were not adequately designed to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel acted with integrity when taking internal training tests. Up through 2019, PwC HK also employed certain monitoring procedures related to internal training, but those procedures were designed to track items like completion of trainings and tests, not to detect instances of improper answer sharing. It was not until August 2020 that PwC HK added notices to the start of its mandatory training tests asking participants to confirm that they will not use any inappropriate means to complete the tests, including sharing answers.

10. As described below, these policies and procedures were inadequate to prevent or detect the extensive improper answer sharing on training tests that occurred among PwC HK personnel over multiple years.

iv. Widespread Improper Answer Sharing Regarding Internal Training Tests at PwC HK

11. From at least 2018 to 2019, over one thousand PwC HK Assurance personnel obtained access to answers for training tests in an unauthorized manner. Firm personnel did so through software applications capable of obtaining the correct test answers from the online test platform.

12. Instances of improper answer sharing primarily occurred in connection with two software applications: "vLearn" and "Lifeistooshort." The vLearn application, when run while a participant was taking an online training test, conducted a trial-and-error selection of each answer option offered in the test until the correct answers were selected (i.e., without the participants having to input the answer selections themselves). The application was directed at the 2018 U.S. Curriculum Auditing Workshop – Assessment. Throughout 2018, many hundreds of PwC HK personnel downloaded the vLearn software application. Despite the vast number of PwC HK personnel who downloaded the vLearn application, no one reported the improper conduct to the Firm until a staff member did so in December 2018.

13. By early 2019, the Firm had started an internal investigation and ascertained the names of the Firm personnel who had downloaded the vLearn application. Also at that time, it provided the technical specifications of the vLearn application to the network information security team for the PwC network ("NIS"), and requested the placement of a technological block on further use of the vLearn application in the PwC environment. However, the Firm merely gave a general explanation to NIS that vLearn was an undesirable software application that NIS should block; the Firm also did not inform PwC Global's assurance and learning education team that the vLearn application was a tool designed for improper answer sharing. PwC HK's failure to share this information with PwC Global's assurance and learning education team, on which the Firm placed substantial reliance for significant aspects of its training program, compromised PwC Global's ability to evaluate the nature and extent of the threat and to assist PwC HK in formulating potential defenses against future uses of software applications engineered to undermine the integrity of the trainings and related tests that PwC Global deployed to the Firm.

14. About one year later, in December 2019, the Firm initiated a review of test completion times for all mandatory training tests on U.S.-related topics taken by Firm personnel in 2019. The review showed that some tests were completed after an unreasonably high number of attempts. By January 2020, PwC HK investigated and learned that Lifeistooshort, another software application that automatically input the correct answers in online training tests for the test taker, had been downloaded by many hundreds of Firm personnel over the course of 2019. No Firm personnel had reported the existence of the Lifeistooshort application to the Firm prior to the Firm's discovery of the application through its investigation. The Firm again requested that NIS institute a technological block, this time for the Lifeistooshort application. Again, though, the Firm merely gave a general explanation to NIS that Lifeistooshort was an undesirable software application that NIS should block; the Firm also did not inform PwC Global's assurance and learning education team that the Lifeistooshort application was a tool designed for improper answer sharing.

15. After learning of the vLearn and Lifeistooshort applications, the Firm ascertained the names of those personnel who had involvement with the applications and created a plan to sanction them.

16. Despite first becoming aware of Firm personnel's extensive dissemination of the vLearn application in January 2019, it was not until August 2020 that the Firm sent a firm-wide communication to its personnel specifically prohibiting the sharing of answers for the purpose of completing training tests. This communication was in the form of a screen at the beginning of all mandatory training tests informing the test taker of the policy and asking the test taker to confirm that he or she will complete the test individually.

17. The Firm also took years to report to PwC Global the nature of the two answer sharing applications and that more than one thousand personnel downloaded the applications. In fact, it was not until September 2022, when the PCAOB conducted its first inspection of the Firm in Hong Kong and asked the Firm to identify any instances of improper answer sharing by its personnel, that the Firm finally told the PCAOB and PwC Global about these details.

v. Fast-Forwarding Through Online Firm Trainings at PwC HK

18. In March 2020, the Firm conducted a review of completion times for mandatory online trainings that did not include a testing component, and that Firm personnel completed between April 2019 and December 2019. It also began monitoring the completion times for certain mandatory online trainings going forward through 2020. Based upon that review and ongoing monitoring, the Firm learned that, throughout 2019 and 2020, over one hundred PwC HK personnel improperly fast-forwarded through internal trainings at speeds too fast to allow comprehension of the material, or utilized tools to mark their training sessions as complete when the sessions had not actually been completed. Through PwC HK's internal investigation, the Firm ascertained the names of these personnel and created a plan to sanction them. The Firm also learned subsequent to 2020 that improperly launching more than one online training course simultaneously could also be done as a means of improperly fast-forwarding. As mentioned below, the Firm has taken steps to monitor and remediate that issue, along with other forms of fast-forwarding conduct.

19. As illustrated by the misconduct described above, from at least 2018 to 2020, PwC HK failed to establish policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) PwC HK personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity; (2) PwC HK personnel had the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; and (3) PwC HK personnel participated in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enabled them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of regulatory agencies. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control policies related to integrity and personnel management.[11]

IV.

In ordering sanctions, the Board took into account the Firm's extraordinary cooperation in this matter.[12] The Firm provided substantial assistance to the PCAOB's investigation by sharing the results of the Firm's extensive investigation to uncover more than one thousand

Firm personnel who had downloaded the vLearn and Lifeistooshort applications, as well as personnel who had used tools to fast-forward through trainings or falsely mark them as completed as described above. The Firm also performed forensic examinations of computer records and laptops to develop evidence showing how individuals used the applications. Additionally, the Firm subsequently instituted remedial measures to address the above-described issues, including conducting periodic searches across certain Firm systems to identify improper answer sharing, requiring personnel to re-take certain training and testing, and enhancing the quantity and quality of communications to personnel about the Firm's policy against providing or receiving improper assistance with Firm training tests. Absent the Firm's extraordinary cooperation, the civil money penalty imposed would have been larger, and the Board may have imposed additional sanctions.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), PricewaterhouseCoopers is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $4,000,000 is imposed on PricewaterhouseCoopers.

2. PricewaterhouseCoopers shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies PricewaterhouseCoopers as the Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that PricewaterhouseCoopers shall pay pursuant to this Order, PricewaterhouseCoopers shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy (except Respondent may seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification of any civil money penalty amounts from self-insurance provided through a captive insurer owned by Respondent and/or other firms within the network of which Respondent is a member that provides insurance solely to Respondent and other firms within that network); (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of PricewaterhouseCoopers's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against PricewaterhouseCoopers based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

4. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

5. PricewaterhouseCoopers understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), PricewaterhouseCoopers is required:

1. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (a) personnel perform all internal training and tests associated with such training with integrity; (b) personnel to whom work has been assigned have the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; (c) personnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of regulatory agencies; and (d) the above-described policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to examine the extent to which the Firm implemented the sanctions it planned to impose on its personnel in connection with the events involving the vLearn or Lifeistooshort software applications, the improper fast-forwarded through internal Firm trainings, and the use of tools to mark Firm training sessions as complete when they had not actually been completed; and to the extent such planned sanctions have not yet been imposed as of the entry of this Order, to impose such planned sanctions on any such personnel currently employed at the Firm.

3. Within 150 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraphs IV.C.1.-2. above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. PricewaterhouseCoopers shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-044

November 30, 2023

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is imposing sanctions upon PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP ("PwC ZT," the "Firm," or "Respondent"). The Board is:

(1) censuring the Firm;

(2) imposing a $3,000,000 civil money penalty on the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that PwC ZT violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards over three years in connection with the Firm's internal training program.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP is a special general partnership organized under Chinese law and headquartered in Shanghai, People's Republic of China. It is a member firm of the PwC network, of which PricewaterhouseCoopers International Limited is the coordinating entity ("PwC Global"). At all relevant times, PwC ZT was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for forty or more issuer audit clients.

B. Summary

2. From 2018 until 2020, PwC ZT violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures for administering and overseeing internal training tests, including tests designed to help the Firm's audit professionals satisfy the requirements for maintaining their professional certifications. Those quality control failures prevented the Firm from identifying that hundreds of Firm professionals were involved from 2018 to 2019 in improper answer

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

sharing – either by providing or receiving access to answers through unauthorized technology – in connection with online tests for mandatory internal training courses related to PwC ZT's U.S. auditing curriculum. Firm personnel engaged in the answer sharing primarily by sending or receiving software applications designed to access the correct answers for exam questions. Additionally, from 2019 to 2020, and as discussed more fully below, hundreds of Firm personnel used tools and took steps to improperly fast-forward through Firm trainings or to falsely record that they had completed Firm trainings. The overwhelming majority of the above groups of professionals performed work for the Firm's assurance practice.

C. PwC ZT Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

i. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

3. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[3] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[4]

4. As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[5] In addition, PCAOB quality control standards related to personnel management state that "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [w]ork is assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances."[6] Moreover, "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [p]ersonnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned, and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of . . . regulatory agencies."[7]

[7] QC § 20.13.c; QC § 40.02.c.

5. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[8] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[9] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, the effectiveness of professional development activities and compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[10]

ii. Training Requirements for PwC ZT

6. As part of PwC ZT's personnel management system, the Firm utilizes internal training programs for its audit professionals. The training programs the Firm uses are designed to serve multiple purposes, including to provide personnel with technical instruction, to further their professional development, and to help employees satisfy some of the continuing professional education requirements imposed by the accountancy boards that license PwC ZT's auditors. PwC ZT's training requirements are intended to be relevant to, among other things, the independence of their personnel, the audit work they perform, and the integrity with which they carry out their professional responsibilities. However, the training requirements can vary by a professional's position, role, and industry practice area. Since at least 2018, PwC ZT has required its personnel to take certain online courses that contain content regarding auditing of U.S. issuers.

7. PwC Global plays a significant role in the development and deployment of the training programs PwC ZT uses. PwC Global has issued several Global Assurance Quality – Learning & Education standards that PwC ZT, as a member firm of the PwC network, is expected to comply with as part of PwC ZT's system of quality control. To comply with these standards, PwC ZT has elected to use training material provided by PwC Global to supplement trainings the Firm developed to satisfy local regulations and requirements. With respect to training tests PwC Global provides, PwC Global designs the tests, administers the platform that records test attempts and completions, and maintains certain exam-integrity measures like rotating banks of questions and randomizing the order of answer options.

8. The internal trainings utilized by PwC ZT often include a testing component. For training courses with a testing component, the Firm does not credit personnel with completing the training until they satisfactorily pass the related test.

iii. Failures by PwC ZT to Establish Adequate Quality Control Policies and Procedures Related to Integrity and Personnel Management

9. During 2018 and 2019, PwC ZT had in place certain quality control policies and procedures intended to address integrity and personnel management. The Firm had certain policies requiring that its personnel act with integrity generally, and starting in 2019, the Firm included in its annual training a module generally covering ethics and integrity. The Firm did not, however, communicate any specific warnings against improperly sharing answers to training tests, and its policies and procedures were not adequately designed to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel acted with integrity when taking internal training tests. Up through 2019, PwC ZT also employed certain monitoring procedures related to internal training, but those procedures were designed to track items like completion of trainings and tests, not to detect instances of improper answer sharing. It was not until August 2020 that PwC ZT added notices to the start of its mandatory training tests asking participants to confirm that they will not use any inappropriate means to complete the tests, including sharing answers.

10. As described below, these policies and procedures were inadequate to prevent or detect the extensive improper answer sharing on training tests that occurred among PwC ZT personnel over multiple years.

iv. Widespread Improper Answer Sharing Regarding Internal Training Tests at PwC ZT

11. From at least 2018 to 2019, hundreds of PwC ZT Assurance personnel obtained access to answers for training tests in an unauthorized manner. Firm personnel did so through software applications capable of obtaining the correct test answers from the online test platform.

12. Instances of improper answer sharing primarily occurred in connection with two software applications: “vLearn” and “Lifeistooshort.” The vLearn application, when run while a participant was taking an online training test, conducted a trial-and-error selection of each answer option offered in the test until the correct answers were selected (i.e., without the participants having to input the answer selections themselves). The application was directed at the 2018 U.S. Curriculum Auditing Workshop – Assessment. Throughout 2018, hundreds of PwC ZT personnel downloaded the vLearn software application. Despite the high number of PwC ZT personnel who downloaded the vLearn application, no one reported the improper conduct to the Firm. The Firm learned about the vLearn application when a staff member at another PwC member firm made an internal report about it at that firm in December 2018.[11]

13. By early 2019, the Firm had started an internal investigation and ascertained the names of the Firm personnel who had downloaded the vLearn application. Also at that time, it provided the technical specifications of the vLearn application to the network information security team for the PwC network ("NIS"), and requested the placement of a technological block on further use of the vLearn application in the PwC environment. However, the Firm merely gave a general explanation to NIS that vLearn was an undesirable software application that NIS should block; the Firm also did not inform PwC Global's assurance and learning education team that the vLearn application was a tool designed for improper answer sharing. PwC ZT's failure to share this information with PwC Global's assurance and learning education team, on which the Firm placed substantial reliance for significant aspects of its training program, compromised PwC Global's ability to evaluate the nature and extent of the threat and to assist PwC ZT in formulating potential defenses against future uses of software applications engineered to undermine the integrity of the trainings and related tests that PwC Global deployed to the Firm.

14. About one year later, in December 2019, the Firm initiated a review of test completion times for all mandatory training tests on U.S.-related topics taken by Firm personnel in 2019. The review showed that some tests were completed after an unreasonably high number of attempts. By January 2020, PwC ZT investigated and learned that Lifeistooshort, another software application that automatically input the correct answers in online training tests for the test taker, had been downloaded by hundreds of Firm personnel over the course of 2019. No Firm personnel had reported the existence of the Lifeistooshort application to the Firm prior to the Firm's discovery of the application through its investigation. The Firm again requested that NIS institute a technological block, this time for the Lifeistooshort application. Again, though, the Firm merely gave a general explanation to NIS that Lifeistooshort was an undesirable software application that NIS should block; the Firm also did not inform PwC Global's assurance and learning education team that the Lifeistooshort application was a tool designed for improper answer sharing.

15. After learning of the vLearn and Lifeistooshort applications, the Firm ascertained the names of those personnel who had involvement with the applications and created a plan to sanction them.

16. Despite first becoming aware of Firm personnel's extensive dissemination of the vLearn application in January 2019, it was not until August 2020 that the Firm sent a firm-wide communication to its personnel specifically prohibiting the sharing of answers for the purpose of completing training tests. This communication was in the form of a screen at the beginning of all mandatory training tests informing the test taker of the policy and asking the test taker to confirm that he or she will complete the test individually.

17. The Firm also took years to report to PwC Global the nature of the two answer sharing applications and that hundreds of personnel downloaded the applications. In fact, it was not until September 2022, in response to events initiated by the PCAOB, that the Firm finally told the PCAOB and PwC Global about these details.

v. Fast-Forwarding Through Online Firm Trainings at PwC ZT

18. In March 2020, the Firm conducted a review of completion times for mandatory online trainings that did not include a testing component, and that Firm personnel completed between April 2019 and December 2019. It also began monitoring the completion times for certain mandatory online trainings going forward through 2020. Based upon that review and ongoing monitoring, the Firm learned that, throughout 2019 and 2020, over one hundred PwC ZT personnel improperly fast-forwarded through internal trainings at speeds too fast to allow comprehension of the material, or utilized tools to mark their training sessions as complete when the sessions had not actually been completed. Through PwC ZT's internal investigation, the Firm ascertained the names of these personnel and created a plan to sanction them. The Firm also learned subsequent to 2020 that improperly launching more than one online training course simultaneously could also be done as a means of improperly fast-forwarding. As mentioned below, the Firm has taken steps to monitor and remediate that issue, along with other forms of fast-forwarding conduct.

19. As illustrated by the misconduct described above, from at least 2018 to 2020, PwC ZT failed to establish policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) PwC ZT personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity; (2) PwC ZT personnel had the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; and (3) PwC ZT personnel participated in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enabled them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of regulatory agencies. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control policies related to integrity and personnel management.[12]

IV.

In ordering sanctions, the Board took into account the Firm's extraordinary cooperation in this matter.[13] The Firm provided substantial assistance to the PCAOB's investigation by sharing the results of the Firm's extensive investigation to uncover hundreds of Firm personnel who had downloaded the vLearn and Lifeistooshort applications, as well as personnel who had used tools to fast-forward through trainings or falsely mark them as completed as described above. The Firm also performed forensic examinations of computer records and laptops to develop evidence showing how individuals used the applications. Additionally, the Firm subsequently instituted remedial measures to address the above-described issues, including conducting periodic searches across certain Firm systems to identify improper answer sharing, requiring personnel to re-take certain training and testing, and enhancing the quantity and quality of communications to personnel about the Firm's policy against providing or receiving improper assistance with Firm training tests. Absent the Firm's extraordinary cooperation, the civil money penalty imposed would have been larger, and the Board may have imposed additional sanctions.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $3,000,000 is imposed on PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP.

[13] See Policy Statement Regarding Credit for Extraordinary Cooperation in Connection with Board Investigations, PCAOB Rel. No. 2013-003 (Apr. 24, 2013).

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP as the Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP shall pay pursuant to this Order, PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy (except Respondent may seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification of any civil money penalty amounts from self-insurance provided through a captive insurer owned by Respondent and/or other firms within the network of which Respondent is a member that provides insurance solely to Respondent and other firms within that network); (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP is required:

1. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (a) personnel perform all internal training and tests associated with such training with integrity; (b) personnel to whom work has been assigned have the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; (c) personnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of regulatory agencies; and (d) the above-described policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to examine the extent to which the Firm implemented the sanctions it planned to impose on its personnel in connection with the events involving the vLearn or Lifeistooshort software applications, the improper fast-forwarded through internal Firm trainings, and the use of tools to mark Firm training sessions as complete when they had not actually been completed; and to the extent such planned sanctions have not yet been imposed as of the entry of this Order, to impose such planned sanctions on any such personnel currently employed at the Firm.

3. Within 150 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraphs IV.C.1.-2. above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. PricewaterhouseCoopers Zhong Tian LLP shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Shandong Haoxin Certified Public Accountants Co., Ltd., LIU Kun, MA Yao, SUN Penghuan, and ZHU Dawei,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2023-045

November 30, 2023

(1) censuring Shandong Haoxin Certified Public Accountants Co., Ltd. ("Haoxin" or the "Firm") and four associated persons of the Firm: LIU Kun ("Liu"), MA Yao ("Ma"), SUN Penghuan ("Sun"), and ZHU Dawei ("Zhu") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) limiting the activities, functions, and operations of Haoxin, including by prohibiting it from accepting new engagements to prepare or issue audit reports for new clients who are issuers, brokers, or dealers, as those terms are defined by U.S. securities laws and PCAOB rules, until the Firm completes certain quality control remediation measures, and requiring pre-issuance quality control monitoring reviews on issuer audits for a defined period of time;

(3) requiring Haoxin to engage an independent monitor for the period specified in this Order;

(4) requiring Haoxin to adopt and implement certain policies and procedures related to its system of quality control;

(5) barring Liu, Ma, Sun, and Zhu (collectively, the "Individual Respondents") each from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1]

(6) limiting Ma's activities for an additional one-year period if the Board later consents to Ma's association with a registered firm;

(7) imposing civil money penalties in the amount of $750,000 upon Haoxin, $100,000 upon Liu, $50,000 upon Ma, $20,000 upon Sun, and $20,000 upon Zhu;[2] and

(8) requiring Liu, Ma, and Sun to complete 50 hours of additional continuing professional education.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondents violated securities laws and/or PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of the 2015-2017 financial statements of Gridsum Holding Inc. ("Gridsum" or the "Company"). Specifically, (1) Haoxin violated Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") and Exchange Act Rule 10b-5 by issuing an audit report falsely stating that the Firm's audits of the 2015-2017 financial statements of Gridsum ("Gridsum Audits") had been performed in accordance with PCAOB standards and that Haoxin was independent of Gridsum; (2) Liu, the engagement partner for the Gridsum Audits, and Ma, the engagement quality reviewer, recklessly contributed to the Firm's Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 violations; (3) Haoxin and the Individual Respondents violated independence requirements and/or PCAOB auditing, ethics, and quality control rules and standards; and (4) Haoxin and Zhu failed to cooperate with the investigation conducted by the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division") by providing false information and testimony.

I.

[1] Liu, Ma, and Sun may file petitions for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after the expiration of the following time periods from the date of this Order: Liu—four years, Ma—two years, and Sun—one year.

[2] Based on their conduct, Zhu's civil money penalty in this settlement would have been $120,000 and Ma's civil money penalty would have been $75,000. The Board determined to accept Zhu's and Ma's offers of settlement and impose lower penalties after considering their financial resources.

pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act") and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) and (3).

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings contained herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Shandong Haoxin Certified Public Accountants Co., Ltd. is a limited liability corporation headquartered in Weifang City, Shandong Province, the People's Republic of China ("China"). The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and is licensed by the China Ministry of Finance (license no. 37060025). Haoxin served as the external auditor of Gridsum from January 6, 2019, until the Company terminated its registration with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC" or the "Commission") in April 2021.

2. LIU Kun is a partner of Haoxin, and served as the engagement partner for the Gridsum Audits. He is a certified public accountant licensed by the Chinese Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("CICPA") (license no. 110001022639). He is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

3. MA Yao is a director of Haoxin, and served as the engagement quality reviewer for the Gridsum Audits. She is a certified practising accountant licensed by CPA Australia (license no. 10537234). She is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

4. SUN Penghuan is a director of Haoxin, and served as the manager for the Gridsum Audits. She is a certified public accountant licensed by the CICPA (license no. 370600250003). She is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

5. ZHU Dawei is a partner of Haoxin, and at all relevant times was the Firm's chief partner and legal representative.[5] He is a certified public accountant licensed by the CICPA (license no. 370600010005). He is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Issuer

6. Gridsum Holding Inc. was, at all relevant times, an exempted company with limited liability, incorporated in the Cayman Islands, with its headquarters in Beijing, China. Its public filings disclose that Gridsum provided data analysis software for multinational and domestic enterprises and government agencies in China. During all relevant times, Gridsum's American Depository Shares were listed on Nasdaq Stock Market LLC and Gridsum was an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

7. This matter involves Haoxin's issuance of a false audit report, as well as a host of other egregious violations of independence requirements and PCAOB rules and standards committed by the Firm and some of its most senior personnel.[6]

[5] Under Chinese law, each company in mainland China is required to have a legal representative, who executes the functions and powers on behalf of a company. The legal representative has the statutory power to represent a company, and his or her acts bind the company.

8. On January 6, 2019, Haoxin, having never previously served as a principal auditor on an audit governed by PCAOB standards, executed an agreement to audit Gridsum's 2015, 2016, and 2017 financial statements. On the next day, the Firm issued an unqualified audit opinion on those financial statements. It did so even though it was aware that (a) Gridsum had terminated a predecessor auditor ("Auditor A") after Auditor A had raised concerns about Gridsum's 2017 financial statements and informed Gridsum that its audit report on the Company's 2016 financial statements should no longer be relied upon; and (b) the audit firm ("Auditor B") that had replaced Auditor A had determined that it could not finish its audits of Gridsum's 2015, 2016, and 2017 financial statements because of an inability to obtain certain information it needed to complete its procedures and express an audit opinion.

9. To conduct the Gridsum Audits, Haoxin obtained incomplete draft work papers from Auditor B for the audits of Gridsum's 2015, 2016, and 2017 financial statements in late December 2018 under a "pre-audit agreement," adopted those draft work papers as its own, and performed limited additional procedures. However, even that improper approach left substantial gaps in the audit work, as evidenced by the fact that Haoxin continued to ask Auditor B for additional draft work papers—some of which later became part of the audit file—weeks after Haoxin issued its unqualified audit opinion, which stated that the Firm had conducted the Gridsum Audits in accordance with PCAOB standards. In issuing that unqualified audit opinion stating that the audit had been performed in accordance with PCAOB standards knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that statement was false, Haoxin violated Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10b-5.

10. Haoxin also violated Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 because, at the time it issued what it described as its "Report of Independent Registered Public Accounting Firm," it knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that it was not independent of Gridsum. That was because Haoxin, prior to being retained as auditor and at Gridsum's request, had conducted a "pre-audit" of Gridsum's financial statements and had told Gridsum's audit committee that it was prepared to issue an unqualified audit opinion. It was only after Haoxin made that commitment that Gridsum terminated Auditor B and appointed Haoxin as its auditor. Because the Firm informed Gridsum of its expectation to issue an unqualified opinion prior to being engaged to perform the Gridsum Audits, the Firm was not independent of Gridsum. The Firm also was not independent because, through its financial arrangements with Gridsum, the Firm effectively agreed to provide an unqualified opinion for a contingent fee.

11. The Firm also violated other PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Gridsum Audits. Because it improperly relied on Auditor B's draft work papers in multiple areas, including areas involving significant risks and fraud risks, the Firm failed to plan and perform the Gridsum Audits to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence supporting its opinion, in violation of multiple PCAOB standards. And because the Firm failed to satisfy the independence criteria of Rule 2-01 of SEC Regulation S-X, it also violated PCAOB rules and standards related to auditor independence.

12. In addition, the Firm (1) violated PCAOB audit documentation standards because the Gridsum audit documentation contained a substantial amount of false information; (2) failed to cooperate with a PCAOB investigation by knowingly providing false audit documentation to the Division and by making a false statement to the Division about the personnel involved in the Gridsum audits; (3) violated PCAOB rules by failing to make required communications to Gridsum's audit committee related to independence; and (4) failed to design and implement a system of quality control that would provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (a) its personnel would maintain independence and perform all professional responsibilities with integrity and maintain objectivity; (b) the Firm would undertake only those engagements it could reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence; and (c) its personnel would comply with applicable professional standards.

13. The Individual Respondents also engaged in significant conduct violative of securities laws and PCAOB rules and standards. Liu, the engagement partner on the Gridsum Audits, violated PCAOB rules and standards because he failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence supporting the Firm's audit opinion. He also violated independence requirements because he informed Gridsum's audit committee of the Firm's expectation to issue an unqualified audit opinion prior to being engaged to perform the Gridsum Audits. In addition, Liu violated PCAOB audit documentation standards and ethics rules because he signed audit documentation containing a substantial amount of materially false, inaccurate, and/or misleading information. And he directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violation of PCAOB rules by recklessly failing to make required communications to Gridsum's audit committee regarding independence prior to the Firm accepting the engagement for the Gridsum Audits. Finally, he directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 when he authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit opinion knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the Gridsum Audits had not been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards and that the Firm was not independent of Gridsum.

14. Ma, the engagement quality reviewer on the Gridsum Audits, violated PCAOB rules and standards because she failed to conduct her engagement quality review with due professional care and in accordance with AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review. Like Liu, Ma also violated independence requirements, PCAOB audit documentation standards, and PCAOB ethics rules. Further, as the individual at the Firm responsible for the design and implementation of the Firm's system of quality control, Ma also knowingly or recklessly contributed to the Firm's violations of PCAOB quality control standards. Finally, Ma directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 violations when she concurred in the issuance of the Firm's audit opinion knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the Gridsum Audits had not been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards and that the Firm was not independent of Gridsum.

15. Zhu, the head of the Firm at all relevant times, knowingly or recklessly contributed to the Firm's violations of quality control standards, its violations of independence rules and standards, and its failure to make required communications to Gridsum's audit committee related to independence. Zhu also failed to cooperate with a PCAOB investigation because he provided false audit documentation and other false information to the Division in response to accounting board demands.

16. Finally, Sun, the manager on the Gridsum Audits, violated PCAOB audit documentation standards and ethics rules because, like Liu and Ma, she signed audit documentation containing materially false, inaccurate, and/or misleading information.

Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Exchange Act Rule 10b-5 prohibit a person, in connection with the purchase or sale of a security, from making an untrue statement of a material fact or from omitting to state a material fact necessary to make statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.[7] To violate Section 10(b) or Rule 10b-5, a respondent must act with scienter,[8] which the Supreme Court has defined as "a mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud."[9] Scienter encompasses knowing or intentional conduct, or recklessness.[10]

18. An auditor violates Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 thereunder by issuing an audit report stating that the audit has been performed in accordance with PCAOB standards or that the auditor is "independent" when the auditor knows, or is reckless in not knowing, that the statement is false.[11]

ii. Haoxin's "Pre-Audit Engagement" with Gridsum

19. In late April 2018, Auditor A, after previously informing Gridsum of concerns it had identified in its 2017 audit, notified Gridsum's audit committee that its audit opinion on Gridsum's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2016 should no longer be relied upon. Shortly thereafter, Gridsum dismissed Auditor A and engaged Auditor B as its new external auditor.[12]

20. Auditor B then began performing audit procedures on Gridsum's 2015, 2016, and 2017 financial statements. In the second half of December 2018, after performing substantial audit procedures, Auditor B recognized that it would not be able to complete its audit because a China-based audit firm with a technology specialty retained to help verify certain of Gridsum's revenue-generating activities could not agree to share its work with Auditor B, due to cybersecurity and data privacy regulations in China.

21. On December 10, 2018, while Auditor B was still Gridsum's external auditor, Haoxin's legal representative and partner, Zhu, and Gridsum's Co-Chief Financial Officer executed a document under which Haoxin agreed to: (1) review Auditor B's draft work papers for Auditor B's incomplete 2015, 2016, and 2017 audits of Gridsum; and (2) "pre-audit" Gridsum's financial statements and related information for those three years (the "Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement"). In return, Gridsum was required to pay a fixed fee to Haoxin that would offset any later audit fee, should Gridsum subsequently engage Haoxin as its external auditor.

[12] From 2015, Haoxin served as Auditor B's mainland China accounting firm as required by the Provisional Rule for Accounting Firms Engaged in Audit Services in Respect of Overseas Listing of Chinese Mainland Enterprises (Cai Kuai [2015] No. 9 by the Ministry of Finance of the People's Republic of China) for Auditor B's audits of overseas listed, mainland China enterprises.

22. In late December 2018, while operating under the Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement, Haoxin obtained and reviewed electronic copies of certain of Auditor B's draft work papers.

23. Then, on January 3, 2019, before Gridsum engaged Haoxin as its external auditor, Haoxin informed Gridsum's audit committee that it had substantially completed its pre-audit work and was ready to issue an unqualified audit opinion on Gridsum's 2015, 2016, and 2017 financial statements (subject to management making any changes to its financial information).

iii. Haoxin's Issuance of an Unqualified Audit Opinion

24. On January 6, 2019, Gridsum engaged Haoxin as its external auditor by executing a formal audit engagement agreement (the "Audit Engagement Agreement"), which required Haoxin to "complete the audit work and issue the auditor's report within 15 business days after receiving from [Gridsum] all materials required for the audit."

25. Under the Audit Engagement Agreement, Gridsum was required to pay Haoxin RMB 2.4 million for performing the Gridsum Audits. However, prior to entering into the Audit Engagement Agreement, Haoxin had already billed Gridsum 75% of that amount under the Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement.

26. On January 7, 2019, the day after executing the Audit Engagement Agreement, Haoxin released its same-dated audit report containing an unqualified audit opinion on Gridsum's 2015-2017 financial statements.

iv. Haoxin's Improper Reliance on Auditor B's Audit Documentation

27. PCAOB standards permit auditors, under certain circumstances, to "use the work and reports of other independent auditors who have audited the financial statements of one or more [of an issuer's] subsidiaries, divisions, branches, components, or investments."[13] PCAOB standards do not, however, permit an auditor to adopt wholesale another auditor's work papers and, based on the other auditor's work papers, issue an audit opinion for an issuer.

28. To support its unqualified audit opinion on Gridsum's 2015-2017 financial statements, Haoxin did what PCAOB standards do not allow. Rather than performing sufficient procedures to support its opinion, Haoxin performed limited procedures and relied primarily on the draft work papers Auditor B had prepared.

[13] AS 1205.01, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors (emphasis added).

29. Indeed, Haoxin copied, in many instances word-for-word, Auditor B's draft documentation without reperforming the relevant audit procedures. In fact, over one-quarter of Haoxin's audit documentation, much of which contained responses to significant or fraud risks, is essentially identical, or substantially similar, to Auditor B's draft audit documentation.

30. Moreover, at the time Haoxin released its audit report, it had not even completed its efforts to obtain all of the documentation from Auditor B that it had sought. For example, the Firm requested specific additional audit documentation from Auditor B more than a week after it released its audit report. Haoxin included some of that additional documentation in the final set of work papers that it assembled for retention in connection with the Gridsum Audits.

v. Haoxin Improperly Issued Its Audit Report, in Violation of Securities Laws, and Liu and Ma Knowingly or Recklessly, and Directly and Substantially, Contributed to that Violation

31. As detailed above, rather than conduct its own audit, Haoxin primarily relied on the audit work performed by Auditor B, and therefore failed to plan and perform the Gridsum Audits in accordance with PCAOB standards. In addition, Haoxin was not independent of Gridsum during the Gridsum Audits because, as discussed above and in more detail below, it (1) informed Gridsum of the Firm's expectation to issue an unqualified opinion prior to being engaged to perform the Gridsum Audits; and (2) effectively agreed to provide an unqualified opinion for a contingent fee.

32. Haoxin nevertheless issued its audit report with an unqualified opinion on Gridsum's 2015-2017 financial statements. That audit report stated that the Gridsum Audits had been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards and that Haoxin was independent of Gridsum, when the Firm knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that both of those statements were false. Thus, Haoxin violated Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 thereunder.

33. PCAOB Rule 3502 provides that "[a] person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[14]

[14] PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

34. When Liu, as the engagement partner for the Gridsum Audits, authorized the issuance of Haoxin's audit report, and when Ma, as the engagement quality reviewer for the Gridsum Audits, provided her concurring approval of issuance, they also knew, or were reckless in not knowing, that the Gridsum Audits had not been conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards and that Haoxin was not independent of Gridsum. By nonetheless authorizing and concurring in the issuance of Haoxin's audit report, they directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502.

E. Haoxin and Liu Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence in Connection with the Gridsum Audits in Violation of PCAOB Rules and Standards

35. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[15]

36. An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on the financial statements of a company when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[16]

37. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed in the auditor's report, including obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud.[17] Auditors are required to evaluate the results of the audit to determine whether the audit evidence obtained is sufficient and appropriate to support the opinion to be expressed in the auditor's report.[18]

38. As described above, Haoxin and Liu failed to perform necessary audit procedures and instead improperly relied on draft work papers prepared by Auditor B. As a result of this conduct, Haoxin and Liu failed to plan and perform the Gridsum Audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements were free of material misstatement. Haoxin and Liu also failed to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for their opinion. Therefore, Haoxin and Liu violated AS 1105 and AS 2810.

F. Haoxin, Liu, and Ma Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards Relating to Auditor Independence, and Zhu Knowingly or Recklessly, and Directly and Substantially, Contributed to Haoxin's Violations

39. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client.[19] A firm's independence obligation with respect to an audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other applicable independence criteria, including those in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[20] Under PCAOB standards, "[i]ndependent auditors should not only be independent in fact; they should avoid situations that may lead outsiders to doubt their independence."[21]

40. Rule 2-01(b) of Regulation S-X sets forth the SEC's general standard of auditor independence.[22] "The Commission will not recognize an accountant as independent, with respect to an audit client, if the accountant is not, or a reasonable investor with knowledge of all relevant facts and circumstances would conclude that the accountant is not, capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment on all issues encompassed within the accountant's engagement."[23] When considering that standard of independence, the Commission, among other things, looks at whether a relationship or the provision of a service creates a mutual or conflicting interest between the accountant and the audit client.[24]

24 See SEC Regulation S-X, Preliminary Note to Rule 2-01.

41. Rule 2-01(c) of Regulation S-X sets forth a non-exclusive specification of circumstances inconsistent with the standard set forth in Rule 2-01(b).[25] Rule 2-01(c)(5) provides that an accountant is not independent of an audit client if, at any point during the audit and professional engagement period, the accountant provides any service or product to an audit client for a contingent fee or a commission, or receives a contingent fee or commission from an audit client.[26] The audit and professional engagement period includes the period covered by any financial statements being audited or reviewed.[27] It also includes the period of the engagement to audit or review the audit client's financial statements, which begins with the earlier of the agreement to perform audit or review services or the start of those procedures, and ends when the audit client or the accountant notifies the SEC that the client is no longer that accountant's audit client.[28] PCAOB Rule 3521, Contingent Fees, likewise states that "[a] registered public accounting firm is not independent of its audit client if the firm, or any affiliate of the firm, during the audit and professional engagement period, provides any service or product to the audit client for a contingent fee or a commission, or receives from the audit client, directly or indirectly, a contingent fee or commission."[29]

42. As noted above, the December 10, 2018 Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement required Haoxin to review Auditor B's draft work papers and to "pre-audit" Gridsum's financial statements and related information. The Firm and Zhu, who executed the agreement on behalf of Haoxin, understood the term "pre-audit" to mean performing audit procedures on Gridsum's financial statements. The Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement also stated that Gridsum "will intend" to engage Haoxin as its external auditor, but it did not commit Gridsum to doing so.

43. According to the Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement, Gridsum was required to pay a fixed fee to Haoxin. However, the agreement also provided that, "if after the execution of the Agreement, [Gridsum] engages [Haoxin] as its independent auditor and signs the audit engagement letter, this Agreement shall become invalid immediately, and any fee paid by [Gridsum] would offset the audit fee that [Gridsum] shall pay [Haoxin] afterwards." This arrangement created an incentive for Haoxin to perform its audit procedures under the Pre-

Audit Engagement Agreement in a manner that would induce Gridsum to retain Haoxin as its auditor, allowing Haoxin to collect additional fees.

44. Before Haoxin was engaged as Gridsum's external auditor, Liu prepared a presentation that Ma delivered to Gridsum's audit committee on January 3, 2019. The presentation included the following language: "Our work is substantially complete and we expect to provide an unqualified audit opinion on the consolidated financial statements of Gridsum Holding Inc., subject to any changes management, you or the board may make to the published information before the planned release date…." As of January 3, 2019, Gridsum still had not committed to engaging Haoxin as its external auditor.

45. Three days later, on January 6, 2019, Gridsum engaged Haoxin as its external auditor and executed the Audit Engagement Agreement. On the same day, Haoxin billed Gridsum for an amount approximating the remainder of the audit fee noted in the Audit Engagement Agreement. On the next day, January 7, 2019, Liu authorized, and Ma concurred in, the issuance of Haoxin's audit report containing an unqualified audit opinion on Gridsum's 2015-2017 financial statements.

46. At the time Haoxin issued its unqualified opinion, the Firm, Liu, and Ma were not independent of Gridsum within the meaning of Rule 2-01 of SEC Regulation S-X. They had compromised their independence by informing Gridsum's audit committee—before Gridsum had actually engaged, or had even committed to engage, Haoxin as its external auditor—that they expected the Firm to issue an unqualified opinion. Under these circumstances, no reasonable investor would conclude that Haoxin, Liu, and Ma were capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment once Haoxin became Gridsum's external auditor. As a result, Haoxin, Liu, and Ma violated PCAOB Rule 3520 and AS 1005.

47. Haoxin further impaired its independence by effectively entering into a contingent fee arrangement with Gridsum. As explained above, the Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement required Haoxin to perform audit procedures on Gridsum's 2015-2017 financial statements but conditioned Haoxin's receipt of additional fees on being retained as Gridsum's external auditor. The timing and circumstances of Haoxin's actual retention demonstrate that such retention, in turn, was conditioned on the Firm's assuring Gridsum's audit committee that the Firm expected to issue an unqualified opinion. The contingent fee arrangement that was effectively created—payment of the additional fees conditioned on the issuance of an unqualified audit opinion—was inconsistent with Rule 2-01(c)(5) of Regulation S-X and violated PCAOB Rule 3521 and AS 1005.

48. Zhu, who executed both the Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement and the Audit Engagement Agreement on behalf of Haoxin, knew or was reckless in not knowing, that the terms, timing, and performance of those agreements created an improper contingent fee structure. By executing those agreements, he directly and substantially contributed to Haoxin's violations of PCAOB Rule 3521 and AS 1005, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502.

G. Ma Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection with Her Engagement Quality Review of the Gridsum Audits

49. In an audit, the engagement quality reviewer is responsible for evaluating the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[30] Among other things, the engagement quality reviewer should: (1) evaluate the significant judgments that relate to engagement planning; (2) evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, significant risks identified by the engagement team or the engagement quality reviewer; (3) review the engagement team's evaluation of the firm's independence in relation to the engagement; and (4) review the engagement completion document for the audit.[31] The engagement quality reviewer should also evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[32]

50. The engagement quality reviewer may provide concurring approval of issuance of an audit report only if, after performing the engagement quality review with due professional care, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[33] "Due professional care requires the auditor to exercise professional skepticism. Professional skepticism is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence."[34]

32 See id. ¶ .11.

33 See id. ¶ .12 and Note ("A significant engagement deficiency in an audit exists when (1) the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB, (2) the engagement team reached an inappropriate overall conclusion on the subject matter of the engagement, (3) the engagement report is not appropriate in the circumstances, or (4) the firm is not independent of its client.").

34 AS 1015.07, Due Professional Care in the Performance of Work (emphasis in original).

51. "Documentation of an engagement quality review should be included in the engagement documentation."[35] That documentation should contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the procedures performed by the engagement quality reviewer, including, but not limited to, information that identifies the documents reviewed by the engagement quality reviewer.[36]

52. In performing the engagement quality reviews for the Gridsum Audits and evaluating the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached, Ma failed to identify numerous significant engagement deficiencies. In particular, she failed to identify that the engagement team had not performed necessary audit procedures and instead had improperly relied on draft work papers prepared by Auditor B. Ma also failed to identify the independence impairments described above.

53. As a result, Ma failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and failed to perform her engagement quality reviews in accordance with PCAOB standards.[37]

54. Additionally, Ma failed to properly document her engagement quality review. Indeed, she failed to identify any documents that she reviewed as part of her engagement quality review. As a result, Ma violated AS 1220.

H. The Firm, Liu, Ma, and Sun Violated Audit Documentation Requirements, and Liu, Ma, and Sun Violated Ethics Rules

i. Audit Documentation

55. PCAOB standards provide that the auditor must prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB.[38] The auditor should prepare audit documentation in sufficient detail to provide a clear understanding of its purpose, source, and the conclusions reached.[39] Audit documentation must clearly demonstrate that the work was in fact performed.[40] This requirement applies to the work of all those who participate in the engagement.[41]

37 See AS 1015.07; AS 1220.10-.12.

56. Audit documentation must contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to: (1) understand the nature, timing, extent, and results of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached; and (2) determine who performed the work and the date such work was completed as well as the person who reviewed the work and the date of such review.[42] In addition, prior to the report release date, the auditor must have completed all necessary auditing procedures and obtained sufficient evidence to support the representations in the auditor's report.[43]

57. As noted above, over one-quarter of Haoxin's audit documentation was essentially identical to, or substantially similar to, Auditor B's draft audit documentation. Yet Haoxin's audit documentation does not indicate that the documented audit procedures had actually been performed by Auditor B, as opposed to Haoxin.

58. Further, Haoxin's audit documentation contains numerous false statements about the audit procedures performed, who performed the work, and the date the work was performed. The audit documentation also contains material omissions. These false statements, inaccuracies, and omissions include, but are not limited to, the following:

a. Multiple workpapers reviewed by Sun inaccurately reflect that they were prepared by a staff member ("Staff A") who Sun knew was not a member of the Haoxin engagement team;

b. An Engagement Status Report, signed by Liu, inaccurately reflects the budget and planned or actual dates of activities relating to the Gridsum Audits;

c. The Supervision, Review, and Approval Form, signed by Liu, Sun, and Ma to reflect their respective approval, satisfaction, or concurrence to issue Haoxin's

40 Id. ¶ .06.

42 Id.

43 Id. ¶ .15.

audit report for Gridsum, includes inaccurate information and omits significant items;

d. The Fraud and Significant Risk Inquiries Form, prepared by Sun and reviewed by Liu to document required fraud inquiries of management and others, includes inaccurate dates of interviews with Gridsum personnel;

e. A document entitled "Summary of Inquiry with Predecessor Auditor," prepared by Liu to document required inquiries of a predecessor auditor, falsely reflects the dates, participants, and substance of communications between Liu and Auditor B personnel; and

f. The Engagement Completion Document, signed by Liu, Ma, and Sun, which is required to identify all significant findings or issues in an audit, is blank, inaccurately indicating that there were no significant findings or issues in the Gridsum Audits, when other audit documentation indicates that there were significant findings and issues in the Gridsum Audits.

59. As a result, the Firm, Liu, Ma, and Sun violated AS 1215.

60. In addition, as noted above, Haoxin continued to request and obtain additional draft audit documentation from Auditor B after Haoxin had issued and released its audit opinion on Gridsum's 2015-2017 financial statements. At least some of the documentation obtained post-issuance was included in the complete and final set of audit documentation that Haoxin assembled for retention for the Gridsum Audits. That late-obtained audit documentation does not accurately indicate who performed the work documented, the date such work was completed, who reviewed the work documented, and the date of any review. For these reasons as well, Haoxin violated AS 1215.

ii. Ethics Violations

61. PCAOB rules require associated persons to comply with PCAOB ethics standards.[44] Those ethics standards include ET Section 102, Integrity and Objectivity, which provides, in part, that an associated person "shall maintain . . . integrity" and "shall not knowingly misrepresent facts" in the performance of professional services.[45] An associated person knowingly misrepresents facts in violation of ET Section 102 when, for example, he or she knowingly: (1) makes, or permits or directs another to make, materially false and misleading entries in an entity's records; or (2) signs, or permits or directs another to sign, a document containing materially false and misleading information.[46]

45 ET § 102.01.

62. Liu, Ma, and Sun violated PCAOB ethics standards in connection with the Gridsum Audits by repeatedly making materially false or misleading statements in audit documentation, as described above.

I. The Firm Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications, and Liu and Zhu Recklessly, and Directly and Substantially, Contributed to That Failure

63. PCAOB Rule 3526, Communications with Audit Committees Concerning Independence, requires that prior to accepting an audit engagement, a registered public accounting firm must describe, in writing, to the audit committee of the potential audit client, all relationships between the registered public accounting firm that, as of the date of the communication, may reasonably be thought to bear on independence.

64. Prior to accepting the engagement for the Gridsum Audits, Haoxin did not describe, in writing, to Gridsum's audit committee a significant relationship between Haoxin and Gridsum that bore on independence. Most notably, Haoxin had no communications, written or otherwise, with Gridsum's audit committee about the Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement or its potential effects on Haoxin's independence. As a result, Haoxin violated PCAOB Rule 3526.

65. Liu, as engagement partner on the Gridsum Audits, failed to communicate the potential independence impairment to Gridsum's audit committee before the Firm accepted the engagement, even though he was aware of the Pre-Audit Engagement Agreement. As a result, he recklessly contributed to the Firm's violation of PCAOB Rule 3526. Further, by executing the Audit Engagement Agreement with Gridsum without understanding whether Haoxin had made the required independence communications, Zhu also recklessly contributed to the Firm's violation of PCAOB Rule 3526. Liu and Zhu thereby violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

J. The Firm Violated Quality Control Standards, and Zhu and Ma Knowingly or Recklessly, and Directly and Substantially, Contributed to Those Violations

66. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[47] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[48] A firm's system of quality control provides a critical foundation and infrastructure for a firm's audit quality as it should "ensure that services are competently delivered and adequately supervised."[49] "A system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality."[50]

67. As described below, Haoxin failed to suitably design and effectively apply policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance concerning (i) independence, integrity, and objectivity; (ii) client acceptance and continuance; and (iii) engagement performance. Zhu and Ma knowingly or recklessly, and directly and substantially, contributed to the Firm's violations of the PCAOB quality control standards.

i. Haoxin's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Independence, Integrity, and Objectivity

68. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances, perform all professional responsibilities with integrity, and maintain objectivity in discharging professional responsibilities.[51] With respect to independence, the Firm and its personnel must be free from any obligation to or interest in the client, its management, or its owners.[52]

50 Id. at § 20.03.

51 Id. at § 20.09.

52 Id. at § 20.10.

69. The repeated failures of Haoxin and its personnel to act with integrity and maintain independence from Gridsum illustrate the significant deficiencies in Haoxin's system of quality control in those areas. As a result, Haoxin violated QC § 20.09.

ii. Haoxin's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Client Acceptance

70. PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm establish quality control policies and procedures for deciding whether to accept a client relationship and whether to perform a specific engagement for that client.[53] Such policies and procedures should provide reasonable assurance that the firm undertakes only those engagements that the firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence, and appropriately considers the risks associated with providing professional services in the particular circumstances.[54]

71. As explained above, Haoxin decided to accept Gridsum as its audit client and rely primarily on another auditor's work papers to conduct its audit of three years of financial statements. Further, when making that decision, Haoxin failed to appropriately consider the risks of accepting Gridsum as a client, given Auditor A's withdrawal of its audit opinion on Gridsum's 2016 financial statements, the concerns Auditor A had identified in attempting to conduct its audit of Gridsum's 2017 financial statements, and the inability of Auditor B to complete its audits of Gridsum's 2015-2017 financial statements. The flaws in Haoxin's approach to deciding whether to accept the Gridsum engagement illustrate that the Firm's policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm (1) undertook only those engagements that it could reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence; and (2) appropriately considered the risks associated with providing professional services in particular circumstances. As a result, Haoxin violated QC §§ 20.14-.15.

iii. Haoxin's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Engagement Performance

72. A registered public accounting firm should also establish quality control policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[55] Quality control policies and procedures for engagement

---

53 Id. at § 20.14.

54 Id. at § 20.15.

55 Id. at § 20.17.

performance encompass all phases of the design and execution of an engagement.[56] Such policies and procedures should also provide reasonable assurance that personnel refer to appropriate authoritative literature or other sources and consult, on a timely basis, with individuals within or outside the firm, including when dealing with complex, unusual, or unfamiliar issues.[57]

73. The numerous deficiencies in Haoxin's engagement performance and documentation outlined above illustrate that Haoxin's system of quality control did not provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements. As a result, Haoxin violated QC §§ 20.17-.19.

iv. Zhu and Ma Knowingly or Recklessly, and Directly and Substantially, Contributed to Haoxin's Quality Control Failures

74. At all relevant times, Zhu was the head of the Firm and the individual ultimately responsible for the assignment of quality control responsibilities within the Firm. Zhu knowingly or recklessly contributed to the Firm's quality control failures, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502, because he assigned Ma to design and maintain the Firm's system of quality control without appropriately considering Ma's proficiency to serve in that role, and by not appropriately supervising her.

75. Ma knowingly or recklessly contributed to the Firm's quality control failures, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3502, because she failed to design and maintain a system of quality control for the Firm that complied with PCAOB standards.

K. The Firm and Zhu Failed to Cooperate with the Division's Investigation

76. The Board may conduct investigations pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB rules into acts or practices that may violate any provision of the Act, the rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports, or professional standards.

77. The Act authorizes the Board to sanction a registered firm or any of its associated persons if they "refuse[] to testify, produce documents, or otherwise cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation."[58] PCAOB rules similarly authorize sanctions for a registered firm or associated person who has "knowingly made any false material declaration."[59]

56 Id. at § 20.18.

78. In early March 2022, the Division requested that Haoxin produce audit documentation for the Gridsum Audits. Nearly two months later, the Firm produced that documentation, which included (i) two revenue workpapers indicating that they had been prepared by a Haoxin staff auditor, Staff A, and (ii) an audit program indicating that Staff A performed substantially all the "sales" audit procedures described in the audit program. Further, in late June 2022, in responding to a Division request regarding Firm personnel, the Firm indicated that Staff A was a Haoxin engagement team member on the Gridsum Audits, was assigned to "Sales & AR," and had charged nearly 300 "Working Hours" in the Gridsum Audits. On August 24, 2022, the Board issued an accounting board demand to Haoxin, incorporating all of the previous requests for documents from the Firm, in response to which the Firm did not revise or supplement the aforementioned documentation.

79. Based on Haoxin's responses to the Division's requests and accounting board demand, the Division scheduled the testimony of Staff A and traveled to Hong Kong to conduct that and other testimony. However, the day before the Division was to take Staff A's testimony, Zhu, during his testimony, informed the Division for the first time that Staff A was not involved in the Gridsum Audits and that Staff A performed no audit procedures in those audits.

80. At the time Haoxin produced the audit documentation for the Gridsum Audits to the Division, Zhu knew that Staff A had not participated in the Gridsum Audits. Nonetheless, with the help of an assistant, Zhu prepared the response to the Division that falsely indicated that Staff A had charged hundreds of hours to the Gridsum Audits, working in an area of significant risk. Zhu falsified the Firm's response to the Division to maintain consistency with the Firm's audit documentation, which also falsely indicated that Staff A had performed work in that area of significant risk. Accordingly, the Firm and Zhu failed to cooperate with a PCAOB investigation.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED, effective immediately, that:

A. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A) and/or 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Shandong Haoxin Certified Public Accountants Co., Ltd., LIU Kun, MA Yao, SUN Penghuan, and ZHU Dawei are hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A) and/or 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), LIU Kun, MA Yao, SUN Penghuan, and ZHU Dawei are each barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[60]

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302, LIU Kun, MA Yao, and SUN Penghuan may file petitions for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after the expiration of the following time periods from the date of this Order: LIU Kun—four years; MA Yao—two years; and SUN Penghuan—one year.

D. If MA Yao is permitted to associate again with a registered public accounting firm, pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for a one-year period from the date her bar is terminated, Ma's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Ma shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "lead partner," "practitioner-in-charge," or "concurring partner"); (4) exercise authority, or supervise the work of another person exercising authority, to either sign a registered public accounting firm's name to an audit report, or to consent to the use of a previously issued audit report, for any issuer, broker, or dealer; (5) assist the engagement partner in fulfilling his or her responsibilities under paragraph 4 of AS 1201; (6) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as the "other auditor," or "another auditor," as those terms are used in AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors; or (7) participate in designing, establishing, implementing, maintaining, or monitoring compliance with a registered firm's system of quality control.

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), LIU Kun, MA Yao, and SUN Penghuan are required to complete, before filing a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered firm, fifty hours of continuing professional education ("CPE") in subjects that are directly related to the audits of issuer financial statements under PCAOB standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the CPE they are required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

F. Pursuant to Sections 105(b)(3)(A) and/or 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), civil money penalties are imposed on the Firm and Individual Respondents in the following amounts: (i) Shandong Haoxin Certified Public Accountants Co., Ltd.—$750,000; (ii) LIU Kun—$100,000; (iii) MA Yao—$50,000; (iv) SUN Penghuan—$20,000; and (v) ZHU Dawei—$20,000.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Each Respondent shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Division staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm or the person as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondents based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. The Firm understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to the Firm at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order. Liu, Ma, and Sun understand that their failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon them may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b). Zhu understands that his failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed on him may alone be grounds to deny any request for leave to file a petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(c).

6. Zhu and Ma acknowledge that the determination to accept their Offers is contingent upon the accuracy and completeness of the financial information they provided to the Division. Zhu and Ma also acknowledge that, if at any time following this settlement, the Division obtains information indicating that any financial information provided by them—including, but not limited to, any information concerning assets, income, liabilities, or net worth—was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect as of the time such information was provided, then at any time following entry of this Order (1) the Board may institute a disciplinary proceeding for noncooperation with an investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110 and/or (2) the Division may petition the Board to (a) reopen this matter to consider whether Zhu or Ma provided accurate and complete financial information at the time such information was provided to the Division; and (b) seek an order directing payment of the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law or any lesser amount determined to be appropriate. No other issue shall be considered in connection with this petition other than whether the financial information provided by Zhu or Ma was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect; and, if so, whether a civil money penalty should be ordered up to the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law. Zhu and Ma may not, by way of defense to any such petition: (i) contest the findings in this Order; (ii) assert that payment of a civil money penalty should not be ordered; (iii) contend that the amount of the civil money penalty to be ordered should be less than $120,000 as to Zhu, and $75,000 as to Ma, which is specified herein as the amount the penalties would have been, based on Zhu's and Ma's conduct and without consideration of Zhu's and Ma's financial resources; or (iv) put forward any other contention or assert any defense to liability or remedy, including, but not limited to, any defense based on statute of limitations or any other time-related defense, other than to contend (a) that Zhu and Ma did not provide financial information that was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect, or (b) that a civil money penalty should not be ordered in an amount higher than $120,000 as to Zhu and $75,000 as to Ma.

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C), (F), and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), (6), (7), and (9), and as detailed in the following specific provisions, Shandong Haoxin Certified Public Accountants Co., Ltd.'s activities, functions, and operations are limited; and Haoxin shall undertake remedial steps, conduct training, and appoint an independent monitor:

1. Definitions: The following definitions shall apply to the provisions of this section:

   a. Immediate Practice Limitations: The limitations imposed on Haoxin's audit practice pursuant to subsection G.2.

   b. Interim Certificate of Compliance: A certificate submitted by Haoxin to the PCAOB, after review and approval by the Independent Monitor, certifying that certain requirements of this Order have been fulfilled pursuant to subsection G.6.

c. Interim Compliance Date: The date on which Haoxin submits the Interim Certificate of Compliance. In any event, the Interim Compliance Date shall not be earlier than one year after the date of this Order.

d. Pre-Issuance Review: Review of audits performed by Haoxin pursuant to subsection G.2(b).

e. Pre-Issuance Reviewer: An individual who: (i) is not associated with the Firm but is an associated person of another PCAOB-registered firm; (ii) has experience in the conduct of audits pursuant to PCAOB standards; and (iii) performs Pre-Issuance Reviews pursuant to subsection G.2(b).

f. Final Certificate of Compliance: A certificate submitted by Haoxin to the PCAOB, after review and approval by the Independent Monitor, certifying that all requirements of this Order have been fulfilled pursuant to subsection G.7.

g. Final Compliance Date: The date on which Haoxin submits the Final Certificate of Compliance.

h. Independent Monitor: An independent monitor retained by Haoxin to monitor, evaluate, and report on the Firm's compliance with the requirements of this Order pursuant to subsection G.4.

i. Monitoring Period: The period of the Independent Monitor's required retention by Haoxin, ending on the Final Compliance Date.

j. Undertakings: Actions required by subsection G.3.

2. Immediate Practice Limitations: From the date of this Order to the dates set forth in subsections a and b below, Haoxin shall be subject to the following Immediate Practice Limitations:

a. Prohibition on Engagements to Prepare or Issue Audit Reports for New Clients Before the Interim Compliance Date. Prior to the Interim Compliance Date, the Firm shall be prohibited from accepting engagements to prepare or issue audit reports for new clients who are "issuers," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), and who are "brokers" or "dealers," as those terms are defined by PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and 1001(d)(iii), and shall be prohibited from accepting engagements in which the Firm would "play a substantial role in the preparation or furnishing of an audit report," as that term is defined by PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(ii).

b. Pre-Issuance Review. From the date of the Order until the Final Compliance Date, Haoxin shall arrange for one or more Pre-Issuance Reviewers to conduct a pre-issuance quality control monitoring review for each issuer, broker, or dealer audit, in which the Firm prepares or issues an audit report or plays a substantial role in the preparation or furnishing of an audit report (a "PCAOB Engagement").[61] The purpose of each Pre-Issuance Review shall be to support the Firm in identifying deficiencies, if any, in the application of PCAOB rules or standards, and adequately addressing those deficiencies prior to the issuance of the audit report. The review described in this paragraph must be in addition to the Engagement Quality Review required by AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review.

3. Undertakings: Haoxin shall carry out the following Undertakings:

a. Executed Acknowledgement. Within 10 days of the date of this Order, Haoxin shall circulate this Order (in both English and Chinese) to all partners and staff of the Firm. Each of the Firm's partners and staff shall review this Order and, within 20 days of the date of this Order, sign and return to Haoxin's Managing Partner an acknowledgment that he or she reviewed this Order and understands and will comply with the requirements and obligations thereof. The Firm shall retain such acknowledgements for seven years.

b. Initial Certification. Within 45 days of the date of this Order, Haoxin shall provide a certification, signed by its Managing Partner, stating that personnel in the Firm's PCAOB Engagements Group[62] have received 24 hours of additional training regarding independence, integrity, and objectivity; client acceptance and continuance; and professional standards and regulatory requirements for audits under PCAOB standards.

c. Policies and Procedures. Haoxin shall conduct a review of its quality control policies and procedures and determine whether modifications should be made, or additional policies and procedures should be adopted, concerning: (i) independence, integrity, and objectivity; (ii) acceptance and continuance of clients and engagements; and (iii) engagement performance, especially with respect to sufficient appropriate audit evidence, audit documentation, engagement quality review, and use of the work of other auditors. No later than 90 days from the date of the Order, the Firm shall submit a written report to Division staff and the Independent Monitor summarizing its review, attaching any new or modified policies and procedures in the areas enumerated above, and, with respect to any of the areas enumerated above, in which modifications will not be made and additional policies and procedures will not be adopted, providing an explanation concerning why new or modified policies and procedures are not required ("QC Report").

d. Training. In addition to the training required in paragraph G.3(b), within one year after the date of this Order, Haoxin shall provide to all personnel in the Firm's PCAOB Engagements Group, as well as to other Firm personnel who are or will be involved in PCAOB Engagements, 40 hours of training concerning PCAOB rules and standards, including: (i) integrity and objectivity; (ii) independence; (iii) audit evidence; (iv) audit documentation; (v) engagement quality review; (vi) supervision; and (vii) the use of the work of other auditors. During each year thereafter until the end of the Monitoring Period, the Firm shall provide to personnel in its PCAOB Engagements Group, and to other personnel who are or will be involved in PCAOB Engagements, at least 25 hours of training concerning the above topics.

e. Certifications. Until the Final Compliance Date, Haoxin shall obtain annually from each individual involved in PCAOB Engagements a signed certification stating that the individual, during the prior year, (i) has complied with all applicable Firm policies and procedures; (ii) has cooperated with the Independent Monitor and all internal and external reviews and inspections of audit work governed by PCAOB standards; and (iii) is not aware of, or has reported to Firm management or the Independent Monitor, any violations of PCAOB rules and standards of which the individual has become aware. The Firm shall retain such certifications for seven years.

4. Independent Monitor:

   a. Selection, Retention, and Term. Haoxin shall retain and pay the fees and reasonable expenses for a third-party Independent Monitor, not unacceptable to Division staff, who has experience with public company reporting in the United States and is knowledgeable concerning PCAOB rules and standards. Within 60 days of the date of this Order, the Firm shall submit the name, qualifications, and proposed terms of engagement of the Independent Monitor to Division staff. The Firm may not retain as Independent Monitor any person who has been employed by or had a professional relationship with the Firm or any audit client of the Firm in the previous two years; and the Firm shall require the Independent Monitor to agree not to enter into any employment or other professional relationship with the Firm or any audit client of the Firm for two years following the expiration of the Monitoring Period. The Independent Monitor shall not be any individual who conducts, or will conduct, or who is employed by the firm that conducts or will conduct, any Pre-Issuance Reviews for Haoxin. The Monitoring Period shall end as of the Final Compliance Date. The Independent Monitor shall have unobstructed access to all Firm-related information needed to carry out his or her responsibilities as set forth in this Order.

   b. Monitor QC Report. The Independent Monitor shall review the QC Report and determine whether, as supplemented and modified, Haoxin's policies and procedures appear reasonably designed to ensure compliance with PCAOB rules and standards. No later than 60 days after receiving the QC Report, the Independent Monitor shall provide a report ("Monitor QC Report") to the Firm and Division staff setting out the Independent Monitor's recommendations concerning any additional policies or procedures or modifications to policies or procedures that should be made to reasonably assure compliance with PCAOB rules and standards then in effect. The Firm shall adopt the Independent Monitor's recommendations as soon as practicable, except that the Firm may notify the Independent Monitor within 30 days of receiving the Monitor QC Report of any recommendations contained therein that the Firm believes to be unnecessary, impractical, unduly burdensome, or outside the scope of this Order, and the bases of the Firm's objection(s). In connection with that notification, the Firm may propose alternative policies and procedures that it believes will achieve the objectives of the recommendations contained in the Monitor QC Report. The Firm and the Independent Monitor shall engage in good-faith negotiations concerning any objection raised by the Firm, but if the Firm and the Independent Monitor are unable to come to agreement within 45 days, the Firm shall be required to adopt the Independent Monitor's recommendations to which it objects.

c. Additional Responsibilities. The Independent Monitor shall have, and the engagement agreement between Haoxin and the Independent Monitor shall provide for the Independent Monitor to have, the following additional powers and responsibilities: (i) to review and assess the Firm's quality control system, including but not limited to its policies, procedures, and practices relating to audit documentation (including the assembly of a complete and final set of audit documentation for retention ("archiving")) and ethics and integrity; (ii) to monitor the Firm's compliance with the Immediate Practice Limitations; (iii) to monitor the performance and results of the Pre-Issuance Reviews that are performed pursuant to subsection G.2(b); (iv) to review and assess the Firm's process for training its PCAOB Engagements Group and other personnel who are or will be involved in PCAOB Engagements, including the training materials used and the conduct of the training sessions; (v) to monitor the Firm's implementation of the Undertakings described in subsection G.3; (vi) to review and assess the results of any internal or third-party review or inspection of the Firm that occurs during the Monitoring Period of audit or review work governed by PCAOB standards or that relates to any aspect of Haoxin's quality control system (including reviewing and assessing any inspection comments and responses to comments); (vii) to make recommendations to the Firm concerning improvements to its policies, procedures, or practices in light of any of the Independent Monitor's activities; (viii) to take steps to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's Managing Partner and other leaders of the Firm are competent and qualified to perform the tasks they have undertaken or have been assigned; (ix) to take steps to provide reasonable assurance that Zhu, Liu, Ma, and Sun do not violate the terms of their bars, which, among other effects, prohibit them from, in connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, as defined in Section 110(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(vi), (1) sharing in the profits of, or receiving compensation in any other form from, the Firm; (2) participating as an agent or otherwise on behalf of the Firm in any activity of the Firm; and (x) to take steps to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm and all Firm personnel comply with the terms of this Order.

5. Documentation and Reporting:

   a. Documentation Requirements. During the Monitoring Period, the Firm shall maintain documentation sufficient to describe in reasonable detail all steps that it has taken to comply with Section IV.G of this Order. The Firm shall make such documentation available at any time to the Independent Monitor or Division staff, upon reasonable request, and shall retain such documentation for two years after the Final Compliance Date.

   b. Reporting Requirements. No later than six months from the date of this Order, the Firm shall submit to the Independent Monitor and Division staff a report: (i) detailing its progress in implementing and complying with the Undertakings and other requirements of this Order; (ii) identifying any recommendations that the Independent Monitor has made to the Firm and the Firm's response to those recommendations; and (iii) identifying any noncompliance by the Firm with this Order or any material noncompliance by the Firm with PCAOB rules and standards it has identified in its audit and review work. The Independent Monitor shall review and evaluate the report and, within 60 days of the receipt of the report, provide a separate report to Division staff, with a copy to the Firm: (i) describing the Independent Monitor's work during the previous six months; and (ii) concurring with the Firm's report or listing the points of non-concurrence. The Firm shall make subsequent reports of an identical nature no later than one year from the date of this Order and every six months thereafter until the end of the Monitoring Period, all of which shall be subject to the Independent Monitor's review, evaluation, and report as described above.

   c. Division Staff Access. Throughout the Monitoring Period, and for a period of two years after the end of the Monitoring Period, Division staff shall have reasonable access to the Independent Monitor and to the content and results of the Independent Monitor's work. The Independent Monitor shall be required to provide prompt responses to all Division staff requests for documents and information concerning the content and results of the Independent Monitor's work, and neither the Independent Monitor nor the Firm shall assert any basis on which to fail to comply with such requests. The engagement agreement between the Firm and the Independent Monitor shall require the Independent Monitor to comply with the terms of this subsection.

6. Interim Certificate of Compliance: No earlier than ten months after the date of this Order, the Firm may submit to the Independent Monitor (with a copy to Division staff) a report ("Interim Firm Report") stating its intention to submit an Interim Certificate of Compliance to Division staff, and containing a summary of its compliance with this Order and any other supporting material the Firm believes appropriate. Within 45 days of receiving the Interim Firm Report, the Independent Monitor shall submit a report ("Interim Monitor Report") to the Firm and Division staff setting out the Independent Monitor's conclusion concerning whether: (a) the Firm has complied with the Immediate Practice Limitations; (b) the Firm has made substantial progress in implementing the recommendations in the Monitor QC Report; (c) the Firm has taken appropriate steps to ensure compliance by Firm personnel with its policies and procedures, as supplemented and modified; (d) the Firm has made substantial progress in addressing the Independent Monitor's other recommendations; (e) the Firm has made substantial progress in implementing and complying with the Undertakings, including by conducting all required training sessions; (f) the Firm has made substantial progress implementing policies, procedures, and practices to establish and maintain a quality control system that provides reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards, including with regard to audit documentation (including archiving) and ethics and integrity; and (g) the performance and results of the Pre-Issuance Reviews required by subsection G.2(b) indicate that the Firm is conducting its audit work for issuers substantially in compliance with PCAOB standards. Division staff shall have the right to request documentation and other evidence supporting any original or supplementary Interim Firm Report or Interim Monitor Report, and the Firm and/or the Independent Monitor shall promptly comply with any such requests. Additionally, the Independent Monitor shall inform Division staff with 14 days advance notice of the Independent Monitor's intention to issue the Interim Monitor Report and shall provide the Division with a summary of the Independent Monitor's intended findings, the basis for those findings, and any draft of the intended report. If the Interim Monitor Report concludes that each of the above conditions has been met, the Firm may submit an Interim Certificate of Compliance to Division staff. If the Interim Monitor Report does not conclude that each of the above conditions has been met, the Firm shall have an opportunity to remediate any deficiencies and submit supplementary Interim Firm Reports every 30 days thereafter, as necessary. The Independent Monitor shall consider any supplementary Interim Firm Reports promptly and shall issue a new Interim Monitor Report when he or she has concluded that each of the above conditions has been met, at which time the procedures above relating to an Interim Certificate of Compliance shall apply. The date on which the Firm submits the Interim Certificate of Compliance to Division staff shall be the Interim Compliance Date. The Interim Compliance Date shall be no earlier than one year after the Date of this Order.

7. Final Certificate of Compliance: No less than one year from the Interim Compliance Date, the Firm may submit to the Independent Monitor (with a copy to Division staff) a report ("Final Firm Report") stating its intention to submit a Final Certificate of Compliance to Division staff, and containing a summary of its compliance with this Order since the Interim Compliance Date and any other supporting material the Firm believes appropriate. Within 60 days of receiving the Final Firm Report, the Independent Monitor shall submit a report ("Final Monitor Report") to the Firm and Division staff setting out the Independent Monitor's conclusion concerning whether: (a) the Firm has adequately implemented the recommendations in the Monitor QC Report; (b) the Firm has taken appropriate steps to ensure compliance by Firm personnel with its policies and procedures, as supplemented and modified; (c) the Firm has adequately addressed the Independent Monitor's other recommendations; (d) the Firm has implemented and complied with the Undertakings, including by conducting all required training sessions; and (e) the Firm has made adequate progress implementing policies, procedures, and practices to establish and maintain a quality control system that provides reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards, including with regard to audit documentation (including archiving) and ethics and integrity. Division staff shall have the right to request documentation and other evidence supporting any original or supplementary Final Firm Report or Final Monitor Report, and the Firm and/or the Independent Monitor shall promptly comply with any such requests. Additionally, the Independent Monitor shall inform Division staff with 14 days advance notice of the Independent Monitor's intention to issue the Final Monitor Report and shall provide the Division with a summary of the Independent Monitor's intended findings, the bases for those findings, and any draft of the intended report. If the Final Monitor Report concludes that each of the above conditions has been met, the Firm may submit a Final Certificate of Compliance to Division staff. If the Final Monitor Report does not conclude that each of the above conditions has been met, the Firm shall have an opportunity to remediate any deficiencies and submit supplementary Final Firm Reports every 30 days thereafter, as necessary. The Independent Monitor shall consider any supplementary Final Firm Reports promptly, and shall issue a new Final Monitor Report when he or she has concluded that each of the above conditions has been met, at which time the procedures above relating to a Final Certificate of Compliance shall apply. The date on which the Firm submits the Final Certificate of Compliance to Division staff shall be the Final Compliance Date.

8. For good cause shown, Division staff may extend any of the procedural dates relating to these undertakings. Deadlines for procedural dates shall be counted in calendar days, except that if the last day falls on a weekend, a U.S. federal holiday or official public holiday in the People's Republic of China, the next business day shall be considered the last day.

9. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy any provision of Section IV.G may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Haynie & Company,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-001

January 23, 2024

(1) censuring Haynie & Company ("Haynie," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $400,000 civil money penalty on Haynie; and

(3) requiring the Firm to engage an independent consultant to review and make recommendations concerning its system of quality control as specified in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on Haynie on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audits of the financial statements of George Risk Industries, Inc. ("George Risk") for the fiscal year ended April 30, 2019 ("2019 George Risk Audit"), and of Investview, Inc. ("Investview") for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2019 ("2019 Investview Audit") (collectively, the "2019 Audits").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Haynie has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Haynie and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Haynie consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Haynie's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Haynie & Company is a professional corporation organized under the laws of Utah and headquartered in Salt Lake City, Utah. Haynie is licensed to practice public accounting by the Utah Board of Accountancy (license nos. 13292009-2603 and 103735-2603), among other state boards. Haynie is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board, and is a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

B. Relevant Individuals

2. Tyson Holman was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the states of Colorado (license no. 24301) and New York (license no. 135845). Holman is a partner in the Denver, Colorado office of Haynie. Holman served as the engagement partner for the 2019 George Risk Audit. At all relevant times, Holman was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

3. Anna Hrabova was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Georgia (license no. CPA028398) and a partner of Haynie. Hrabova served as the engagement quality review ("EQR") partner for the 2019 George Risk Audit. At all relevant times, Hrabova was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

4. Steven Avis was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Utah (license no. 363384-2601). Avis is a partner in the Salt Lake City, Utah office of Haynie. Avis served as the engagement partner for the 2019 Investview Audit. At all relevant times, Avis was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

5. Richard Fleischman was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Colorado (license no. 21292). Fleischman was, until July 2019, a partner in the Littleton, Colorado office of Haynie. Fleischman served as the EQR partner for the 2019 Investview Audit. At all relevant times, Fleischman was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

C. Issuers

6. George Risk Industries, Inc. was, at all relevant times, a Colorado corporation headquartered in Kimball, Nebraska. George Risk's public filings disclose that it designs, manufactures, and sells computer keyboards, push button switches, burglar alarm components and systems, pool alarms, EZ Duct wire covers, water sensors, and wire and cable installation tools. George Risk is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

7. Investview, Inc. was, at all relevant times, a Nevada corporation headquartered in Salt Lake City, Utah.[2] Investview's public filings disclose that it provides access to financial education, market research, and technology on certain financial subjects including equities, options, binary options, and cryptocurrency. Investview is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

D. Summary

8. This matter concerns Haynie's violations of PCAOB rules and standards during the 2019 Audits, as well as PCAOB quality control standards. On the 2019 George Risk Audit, the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards by failing to: (1) evaluate whether George Risk's revenue was reported in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework; (2) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to George Risk's investments; and

[2] Investview's corporate headquarters is now located in Haverford, Pennsylvania.

(3) notify George Risk's Board of Directors and management of an identified material weakness.[3]

9. On the 2019 Investview Audit, the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards by failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning: (1) Investview's accounting for its acquisition of United Games, LLC and United League, LLC (collectively, "United Games"); (2) Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue; and (3) a license agreement held by Investview.[4]

10. In addition, on both of the 2019 Audits, the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards by failing to document the EQRs, including the work papers reviewed by the EQR partners, in accordance with PCAOB standards.

11. In numerous areas across both of the 2019 Audits, the Firm's engagement teams failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the Firm's audit opinions, and to conduct the 2019 Audits with due care and professional skepticism. Despite being on notice of two deficiencies identified during the PCAOB's inspection of the audit of the financial statements of George Risk for the fiscal year ended April 30, 2017 ("2017 George Risk Audit"), Haynie repeated the same deficiencies on the 2019 George Risk Audit. There are also similar deficiencies in the 2019 George Risk Audit and the 2019 Investview Audit, including a total of four failures to evaluate whether areas of the financial statements identified as significant risks were presented in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework, and two failures to document EQRs in accordance with PCAOB standards.

12. Finally, this matter concerns the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and quality control standards. Specifically, as evidenced by the 2019 Audits, the Firm failed to: (1) maintain a system of quality control sufficient to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that engagement teams performed issuer audits and reviews in accordance with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements; and (2) establish policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its quality control policies and procedures were suitably designed and were being effectively applied, and that its system of quality control was effective.

E. Relevant PCAOB Rules and Standards

13. In connection with the preparation and issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[6]

14. PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit.[7] Due professional care requires that the auditor exercise professional skepticism, which is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence.[8]

15. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion.[9] In addition, an auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement.[10]

16. While an auditor may use inquiry of management to obtain information, "[i]nquiry alone does not provide sufficient appropriate evidence to support a conclusion about a relevant assertion."[11] Management representations "are not a substitute for the application of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[12]

17. In addition, if audit evidence obtained from one source is inconsistent with audit evidence obtained from another source, "the auditor should perform the audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter and should determine the effect, if any, on other aspects of the audit."[13] Likewise, if management's responses to an auditor's inquiries appear to be "inconsistent with other audit evidence, imprecise, or not at a sufficient level of detail to be useful, the auditor should perform procedures to address the matter."[14] "If a representation made by management is contradicted by other audit evidence, the auditor should investigate the circumstances and consider the reliability of the representation made," and, based on the circumstances, "consider whether his or her reliance on management's representations relating to other aspects of the financial statements is appropriate and justified."[15]

18. As described below, Haynie violated these and other PCAOB rules and standards on the 2019 Audits.

F. Haynie Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards on the 2019 George Risk Audit

i. Haynie Failed to Evaluate Whether George Risk's Revenue was Presented in Conformity With the Applicable Financial Reporting Framework

19. Haynie issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on George Risk's financial statements for the fiscal year ended April 30, 2019 on August 13, 2019. The report was included with George Risk's Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on August 13, 2019.

20. George Risk disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2019 revenue of $14,126,000. Haynie identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

21. PCAOB standards required Haynie to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed the Firm's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk,[16] and to evaluate whether George Risk's revenue was presented in the financial statements fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[17]

22. George Risk disclosed in its Form 10-K that it had adopted FASB ASC 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers ("ASC 606") effective May 1, 2018, the beginning of the 2019 fiscal year. During the 2019 George Risk Audit, however, Haynie evaluated George Risk's revenue recognition under FASB ASC 605, Revenue Recognition ("ASC 605"), which had been superseded by ASC 606. The adoption of ASC 606 resulted in different considerations in the determination of whether revenue had met the criteria to be recognized. Haynie failed to evaluate the implications to the audit procedures of the adoption of ASC 606. For example, Haynie failed to evaluate whether George Risk recognized revenue when (or as) George Risk satisfied performance obligations set forth in a contract with a major customer, in conformity with ASC 606.

23. As a result, Haynie failed to evaluate whether the recognized revenue in George Risk's financial statements was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[18] By testing George Risk's revenue under ASC 605 rather than ASC 606, Haynie also failed to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed the Firm's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk.[19]

ii. Haynie Failed to Test the Valuation and Disclosure of George Risk's Investments Despite Prior Notice of Issues Regarding its Testing the Valuation and Disclosure of Investments

24. George Risk's 2019 Form 10-K reported $27,291,000 in investments and securities, which primarily consisted of mutual funds and municipal bond securities. The Firm identified the valuation of investments as a significant risk.

a. Haynie Failed to Adequately Test the Fair Value of George Risk's Level 2 Investments

25. In connection with the PCAOB's 2017 inspection of Haynie, PCAOB inspectors brought to Haynie's attention apparent failures by the Firm during the 2017 George Risk Audit.

In particular, PCAOB inspectors informed Haynie that during the 2017 George Risk Audit, the Firm failed to perform sufficient procedures to test whether the valuation and disclosure of George Risk's investments were presented in conformity with AS 2502, Auditing Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures. Haynie understood that this failure was in part because (1) other than comparing the custodial statements to the investment balances George Risk recorded, and tracing a small sample of George Risk's municipal bonds to a third-party website, the Firm failed to perform any procedures to test the reasonableness of the fair values of George Risk's municipal bonds; and (2) for the sample of municipal bonds, the Firm failed to evaluate the relevance and reliability of the data from the third-party website.

26. Despite being aware of these apparent failures, Haynie followed a similar approach to testing the valuation of George Risk's municipal bonds during the 2019 George Risk Audit. George Risk disclosed in its 2019 Form 10-K that its municipal bonds were valued at approximately $5,483,000, representing approximately 13% of George Risk's total assets. George Risk characterized these municipals bonds as Level 2 investments.[20]

27. George Risk also disclosed in its 2019 Form 10-K that municipal bonds did not trade in an active market. George Risk obtained the market value of municipal bonds at year-end from third-party custodians' statements.

28. PCAOB standards required Haynie to obtain an understanding of the process George Risk used to determine the fair value of the municipal bonds, and, in the event there were no observable market prices for the municipal bonds, to evaluate whether the valuation method was appropriate under the circumstances.[21]

29. PCAOB standards also provided that Haynie had to evaluate whether the significant assumptions used to measure the fair value of George Risk's municipal bonds

[20] Under U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("U.S. GAAP"), investments are characterized as either Level 1 Investments, Level 2 Investments, or Level 3 Investments, based upon the inputs used to value the investments. Level 1 Investments reflect inputs based upon quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the reporting entity can access at the measurement date. Level 2 Investments reflect inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 Investments. Level 3 Investments reflect inputs that are unobservable. See FASB ASC 820-10-20, Fair Value Measurement.

provided a reasonable basis for the fair value measurements and disclosures in George Risk's financial statements.[22]

30. To test the valuation of George Risk's approximately $5,483,000 in municipal bonds, Haynie relied solely on two things. First, the Firm relied on custodial statements, which were also the sources of the values of the municipal bonds recorded by George Risk. The Firm failed, however, to evaluate the methods and assumptions used by the custodians. Second, Haynie relied on data from a third-party website. The Firm did not, however, assess the relevance or reliability of that data.

31. More specifically, Haynie traced approximately $3,300,000 in municipal bonds to a third-party website and a custodial statement, agreed approximately $764,000 to a custodial statement only, and agreed approximately $851,000 to an investment schedule prepared by George Risk. Haynie failed to assess whether the third-party pricing data was a reliable source of evidence of fair value in an illiquid market. The Firm also failed to evaluate George Risk's process for determining that the custodial statements provided reliable measures of the fair value for the municipal bonds at year-end. Additionally, a balance of approximately $568,000 was not tested.

32. Therefore, despite being on notice of the deficiencies in this testing approach from the 2017 PCAOB inspection, Haynie failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to understand and evaluate the valuation methods used by George Risk to calculate the market value of George Risk's municipal bonds at year-end or the appropriateness of the pricing data obtained from a third-party website as audit evidence.

33. As a result, Haynie failed to adequately test the fair value of George Risk's municipal bonds.[23] The Firm failed to adequately perform substantive procedures specifically responsive to the identified significant risks over George Risk's investments.[24] The Firm also failed to perform sufficient audit procedures related to George Risk's municipal bonds, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that George Risk's municipal bonds were properly valued.[25]

b. Haynie Failed to Evaluate George Risk's OTTI Investments

34. In connection with the 2017 inspection of Haynie, PCAOB inspectors also brought to Haynie's attention another apparent failure by the Firm during the 2017 George Risk Audit. In particular, Haynie was made aware that during the 2017 George Risk Audit, the Firm failed to perform sufficient procedures to evaluate whether George Risk's investments in loss positions were other-than-temporarily impaired ("OTTI"). That failure was in part because the Firm failed to evaluate whether George Risk had the ability to hold these investments and securities until recovery of their fair value. For example, Haynie did not consider the arrangements with George Risk's broker that conveyed to it the sole discretion to buy and sell investments and securities, which called into question George Risk's ability to limit its broker from selling investments and securities that were in a loss position.

35. Despite being aware of this apparent failure, the Firm followed the same approach to evaluating whether George Risk's investment losses were OTTI during the 2019 George Risk Audit. In its 2019 Form 10-K, George Risk disclosed in the notes to the financial statements that it had the ability to hold investments in municipal bonds, real estate investment trusts, and equity securities until recovery of their fair values and, therefore, the unrealized loss of approximately $357,000 associated with these investments was not an indicator of an OTTI.

36. George Risk also disclosed, however, that it "use[d] 'money manager' accounts for most stock transactions," and thereby gave "an independent third-party firm, who are experts in this field, permission to buy and sell stocks at will."

37. Haynie obtained George Risk's calculation of the $357,000 unrealized loss and documented George Risk's policy for determining whether its investment losses were OTTI. Haynie concluded that George Risk's policy was reasonable, without analyzing why George Risk's methodology was reasonable or describing any audit steps performed to support the conclusion.

38. Additionally, despite being on notice of the deficiencies in this testing approach from the 2017 PCAOB inspection, Haynie never talked to George Risk's third-party investment broker, or otherwise considered that George Risk's broker had "permission to buy and sell stocks at will," in evaluating the appropriateness of George Risk's policy for impairment of investments during the 2019 George Risk Audit.

39. Haynie, therefore, failed to adequately perform substantive procedures specifically responsive to the identified significant risks over the valuation of George Risk's investments.[26] Haynie also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that George Risk's investment losses were OTTI.[27]

c. Haynie Failed to Evaluate Whether George Risk's Investments Were Presented in Conformity With the Applicable Financial Reporting Framework

40. During the 2019 George Risk Audit, Haynie failed to evaluate whether the accounting for George Risk's investments was in conformity with U.S. GAAP. Specifically, the Firm failed to recognize that changes in the fair value of equity investments should no longer be recorded on the balance sheet but instead were required to be recognized in the income statement, pursuant to Accounting Standards Update No. 2016-01, Recognition and Measurement of Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities (January 2016) ("ASU 2016-01"), thereby impacting net income for the period. During the 2019 George Risk Audit, Haynie failed to perform any audit procedures to test whether George Risk was accounting for its investments consistent with ASU 2016-01.

41. George Risk restated its 2019 financial statements and filed two amendments to its 2019 Form 10-K on March 25, 2020 and May 26, 2020, to give effect to ASU 2016-01. As a result of the restatement, George Risk recorded a gain from changes in fair value of equity security of $444,000 for the 2019 fiscal year, which increased George Risk's net income from approximately $3.2 million to $3.6 million, or approximately 12%.

42. Therefore, Haynie failed to evaluate whether George Risk's investments in the financial statements were presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[28]

iii. Haynie Failed to Appropriately Communicate a Material Weakness to George Risk's Audit Committee

43. Under AS 1305, Communications About Control Deficiencies in an Audit of Financial Statements, Haynie was required to communicate in writing all significant deficiencies

26 See AS 2301.11.

27 See AS 1105.04.

28 See AS 2810.30-.31.

and material weaknesses identified during the audit to George Risk's management and audit committee.[29]

44. In the risk assessment performed in relation to the 2019 George Risk Audit, Haynie documented a material weakness concerning the lack of ASC and PCAOB knowledge in the financial statement reporting function. Haynie, however, failed to communicate that material weakness in writing to George Risk's management and audit committee equivalent.[30]

45. In addition, for all of the reasons described above, Haynie failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism on the 2019 George Risk Audit.[31]

iv. Haynie Failed to Document the EQR on the 2019 George Risk Audit

46. PCAOB standards require that an EQR be performed on all audit engagements conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[32] PCAOB standards also require that documentation of an EQR be included in the engagement documentation.[33] Such documentation should "contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the procedures performed by the engagement quality reviewer," including, but not limited to, "[t]he documents reviewed by the engagement quality reviewer."[34]

47. Haynie failed to document the EQR of the 2019 George Risk Audit with sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the procedures performed by the EQR partner, including the documents reviewed by the EQR partner.[35]

G. Haynie Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards on the 2019 Investview Audit

48. On June 28, 2019, Haynie issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on Investview's March 31, 2019 financial statements, with an explanatory paragraph describing substantial doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern. The report was included with Investview's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on June 28, 2019.

i. Haynie Failed to Appropriately Audit Investview's Accounting for its Acquisition of United Games

49. On July 20, 2018, Investview entered into a purchase agreement with United Games Marketing LLC to purchase United Games in exchange for 50,000,000 shares of Investview common stock.

50. Investview disclosed in its public filings that it accounted for its acquisition of United Games as a business combination pursuant to FASB ASC 805, Business Combinations ("ASC 805"), and recognized it as a "bargain purchase," meaning that, according to Investview's accounting, the United Games assets were acquired for less than their fair market value.[36]

51. Haynie identified a significant risk related to the accounting for the United Games acquisition, and assessed the control risk as "High" for all assertions.

52. PCAOB standards required Haynie to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Haynie's identification of the accounting for the United Games acquisition as a significant risk,[37] and to evaluate whether the acquisition was presented in the financial statements fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[38]

53. As described below, Haynie failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence related to Investview's accounting for the United Games acquisition, because the Firm failed to appropriately evaluate (1) Investview's valuation of the intangible assets acquired and shares used as consideration in the United Games acquisition; and (2) whether Investview's acquisition of United Games, including Investview's recognition of a bargain purchase gain, was presented in conformity with ASC 805.

a. Haynie Failed to Appropriately Evaluate Valuation Estimates Related to the United Games Acquisition

54. According to its public filings, Investview estimated the valuation of the intangible assets it acquired from United Games at approximately $1.8 million, and the Investview shares used as consideration at approximately $800,000, resulting in a one-time gain of approximately $971,000 recorded in earnings in 2019. Investview used a third-party valuation firm (the "Third-Party Specialist"), to support these fair value estimates.

55. PCAOB standards require auditors to evaluate the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, and to obtain sufficient appropriate evidential matter to provide reasonable assurance that all accounting estimates that could be material to the financial statements have been developed, are reasonable in the circumstances, and are presented in conformity with applicable accounting principles and properly disclosed.[39]

56. In evaluating the reasonableness of an accounting estimate, PCAOB standards require the auditor to obtain an understanding of how management developed the estimate. Based on that understanding, the auditor should use one or a combination of the following approaches: (a) review and test the process used by management to develop the estimate; (b) develop an independent expectation of the estimate to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate; and (c) review subsequent events or transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report.[40]

57. PCAOB standards further require auditors who use the work of a company's specialist as evidential matter in performing an audit to, among other things, "make appropriate tests of data provided to the specialist, taking into account the auditor's assessment of control risk."[41]

58. Haynie knew that Investview relied on the valuation reports prepared by the Third-Party Specialist to account for the United Games acquisition. The valuation reports prepared by the Third-Party Specialist relied on data and assumptions provided by Investview, including projected rates of United Games' revenue growth and royalty rates from United Games' technology, as well as Investview's revenue growth rates, as key assumptions in calculating the fair value of the acquired intangible assets and of the shares used as consideration. The Third-Party Specialist did not perform any procedures to evaluate the reasonableness of this information Investview provided.

59. Haynie used the Third-Party Specialist's reports as evidential matter in the 2019 Investview Audit to evaluate Investview's accounting for the United Games acquisition. Haynie reviewed the Third-Party Specialist's valuation reports, and made high-level inquiries of management. Haynie understood that the Third-Party Specialist relied on Investview-provided projections. With respect to the revenue projections for Investview, Haynie documented that Investview's revenue projections were "fairly aggressive."

60. Despite this, and though Haynie had assessed the control risk related to the United Games acquisition accounting as "High," the Firm failed to test the projections that Investview provided to the Third-Party Specialist.[42] Likewise, Haynie failed to perform procedures to (a) sufficiently review, or perform any procedures to test, the process used to develop the estimated valuation of United Games' intangible assets, the Investview shares used as consideration, or the underlying projections; (b) develop an independent expectation of those estimates; or (c) review subsequent events or transactions to evaluate the reasonableness of those estimates.[43]

61. In addition, with respect to the approximately $1.8 million valuation of United Games' intangible assets, Haynie received a representation from Investview management that the estimate included the value of a software system that was not reflected on United Games' books. Haynie understood generally that the intangible assets also included proprietary technology, customer contacts, and trade names. Haynie took no steps, however, to gain an understanding of the software system or other intangible assets, or to evaluate whether Investview's valuation estimate for the intangible assets was reasonable in the circumstances.

62. As such, Haynie failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidential matter to evaluate the valuation of United Games' assets acquired by Investview or the Investview shares used as consideration,[44] and failed to make appropriate tests of the projections provided by Investview to the Third-Party Specialist.[45]

b. Haynie Failed to Appropriately Evaluate Whether Investview's Recognition of a Bargain Purchase Gain was Presented in Conformity With the Applicable Financial Reporting Framework

63. Haynie also failed to appropriately evaluate whether Investview's recognition of a bargain purchase gain in connection with the acquisition was presented in conformity with ASC 805.

64. ASC 805 recognizes that a bargain purchase may happen "[o]ccasionally," and provides the example of "a forced sale in which the seller is acting under compulsion." ASC 805 also requires that an issuer recognizing a gain in connection with a bargain purchase disclose a "description of the reasons why the transaction resulted in a gain."[46]

65. Haynie received no indication that United Games was a "forced" sale. Investview management represented to Haynie that United Games' management wanted to leave the industry. Haynie took no steps to follow up on that representation or gain an understanding of why United Games' management might be willing to sell its subsidiaries for less than fair market value, or whether other circumstances might warrant the unusual recognition of a gain from an acquisition.

66. Nor did Haynie identify that Investview's 2019 Form 10-K failed to disclose a "description of the reasons why the transaction resulted in a gain" as required by ASC 805.[47]

67. Therefore, Haynie failed to evaluate whether the United Games acquisition was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[48]

68. Based on this failure, together with the failure described above to appropriately evaluate Investview's estimates of the valuation of United Games intangible assets and the Investview shares used as consideration in the acquisition, Haynie failed to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Haynie's identification of the accounting for the United Games acquisition as a significant risk,[49] and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to Investview's accounting for the United Games acquisition.[50]

ii. Haynie Failed to Appropriately Audit Investview's Cryptocurrency Mining Revenue

69. Investview reported net cryptocurrency mining revenue of approximately $1.94 million for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2019. Haynie identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

70. PCAOB standards required Haynie to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Haynie's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk,[51] and to evaluate whether Investview's revenue was presented in the financial statements fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[52]

71. As described below, Haynie failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence related to Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue, because the Firm (1) failed to evaluate whether Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue recognition approach was presented in conformity with ASC 606, which Investview adopted at the beginning of the 2019 fiscal year; and (2) failed to perform detailed testing of a $3.83 million component of cryptocurrency mining net revenue representing the amounts Investview paid to its cryptocurrency mining supplier.

a. Haynie Failed to Evaluate Whether Investview's Cryptocurrency Mining Revenue was Presented in Conformity With the Applicable Financial Reporting Framework

72. Investview's public filings disclosed that it generated revenue from the sale of cryptocurrency mining services through an arrangement with a third-party supplier ("Supplier"). Investview leased cryptocurrency mining services from the Supplier, and subleased those services to Investview customers. To execute this arrangement, Investview engaged in separate agreements with (1) its customers; and (2) the Supplier.

49 See AS 2301.08; see also AS 2301.03, .09, .11.

50 See AS 1105.04.

51 See AS 2301.03, .08-.09.

52 See AS 2810.30-.31.

73. Investview reported that it recognized revenue generated through this arrangement on a net basis, at the time the customer purchased the cryptocurrency mining services (i.e., before the cryptocurrency mining services were provided by the Supplier).

74. Haynie failed to perform sufficient procedures during the 2019 Investview Audit to assess the reasonableness under ASC 606 of Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue recognition approach. Instead, the Firm simply relied on the information in a work paper titled "Mining Revenue Treatment Memo" from the Firm's audit of Investview's financial statements for the prior fiscal year ended March 31, 2018 (the "2018 Investview Audit").

75. Investview had prepared the Mining Revenue Treatment Memo during the 2018 fiscal year to document the company's conclusion that its cryptocurrency mining revenue recognition approach was reasonable, applying the indicators set forth in ASC 605, regarding whether revenue in connection with a transaction should be recognized on a gross basis or a net basis (the "ASC 605 Indicators").[53] During the 2018 Investview Audit, Haynie reviewed the Mining Revenue Treatment Memo, added notations including excerpts from ASC 605 regarding each of the ASC 605 Indicators, and added the annotated Mining Revenue Treatment Memo to the corresponding work papers.

76. In relying on the Mining Revenue Treatment Memo copied from the 2018 Investview Audit file during the following year 2019 Investview Audit, Haynie failed to consider that Investview had adopted a new accounting standard for revenue, ASC 606, at the beginning of the 2019 fiscal year. ASC 606 required consideration of a different model for determining whether to recognize revenue in connection with a transaction on a gross basis or a net basis, based upon whether the entity recognizing revenue exercised control over the specified goods or services before they were transferred to the customer. As a result, the ASC 605 Indicators, which were the basis for the Mining Revenue Treatment Memo's analysis and conclusion, were no longer applicable during the 2019 fiscal year.[54]

77. Haynie did not request an updated analysis from Investview applying ASC 606 during the 2019 Investview Audit, or conduct any procedures to evaluate whether it was reasonable under ASC 606 for Investview to recognize cryptocurrency mining revenue on a net basis at the time the customer purchased the cryptocurrency mining services.

54 Compare ASC 605-45-45-10 with ASC 606-10-55-39.

78. Therefore, Haynie failed to evaluate whether the cryptocurrency mining revenue recognized in Investview's 2019 financial statements was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[55]

b. Haynie Failed to Test the "Amounts Paid to Supplier" Component of Investview's Cryptocurrency Mining Revenue

79. Investview reported that it had $1.94 million in net cryptocurrency mining revenue for the 2019 fiscal year which consisted of: (1) approximately $5.77 million in "gross billings," which represented sublease payments from customers to Investview; and (2) approximately $3.83 million in "amounts paid to supplier," which represented payments from Investview to the Supplier.

80. Because Haynie had identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk, PCAOB standards required the Firm to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, specifically responsive to the assessed risk.[56]

81. Haynie failed to test the $3.83 million "amounts paid to supplier" component of Investview's net cryptocurrency mining revenue. Haynie knew that Investview had agreed to provide 60% of the amounts collected from each cryptocurrency mining customer to the Supplier, and that Investview would keep the remaining 40% as its commission. Based on this agreement, Investview should have paid the supplier 60% of the $5.77 million that the company reported in gross billings, which would have resulted in approximately $3.46 million in "amounts paid to supplier." Investview, however, reported approximately $370,000 more in "amounts paid to supplier."

82. Haynie did not identify this inconsistency during the 2019 Investview Audit, nor did the Firm perform any testing, detailed or otherwise, of the overall "amounts paid to supplier."

83. Therefore, Haynie failed to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, specifically responsive to the Firm's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and fraud risk.[57]

---

55 See AS 2810.30-.31.

57 See id.

84. In addition, by failing both to evaluate whether Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue recognition approach was in conformity with ASC 606, and to test the "amounts paid to supplier" component, Haynie failed to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed the Firm's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk,[58] and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue was properly valued.[59]

iii. Haynie Failed to Appropriately Audit an Investview License Agreement

85. In June 2017, Investview purchased a long-term, fifteen-year license agreement (the "License Agreement"). As of March 31, 2019, Investview recorded a net carrying value for the License Agreement of approximately $2 million. Haynie did not identify a significant risk related to the License Agreement during the 2019 Investview Audit.

86. Based on an oral representation from Investview's accounting staff, Haynie noted in a planning work paper that "the license agreement is no longer of value to the company as the service and license has failed due to issues with the brokerage platform." Haynie later received a management representation from Investview's Director of Finance indicating that the License Agreement was not impaired.

87. Haynie failed to take any steps to resolve the inconsistent representations from Investview management regarding the License Agreement.[60] Haynie also failed to take any steps to evaluate whether indicators may have been present that would have required Investview to perform an impairment analysis to assess whether the value of the License Agreement should have been impaired in accordance with FASB ASC 350, Intangibles—Goodwill and Other.[61] Indeed, Haynie did not ask Investview management whether the License Agreement had been evaluated for impairment.

61 See ASC 350-30-35-14.

88. Accordingly, Haynie failed to perform audit procedures necessary to resolve inconsistent audit evidence.[62] The Firm also failed to perform sufficient audit procedures and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that the License Agreement was properly valued.[63]

89. In addition, for all of the reasons described above, Haynie failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism on the 2019 Investview Audit.[64]

iv. Haynie Failed to Document the EQR on the 2019 Investview Audit

90. As in the 2019 George Risk Audit, Haynie also failed to document the EQR of the 2019 Investview Audit with sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the procedures performed by the EQR partner, including the documents reviewed by the EQR partner and the date the EQR partner provided concurring approval of issuance.[65]

H. Haynie Violated PCAOB Standards Related to Quality Control

91. PCAOB rules require registered public accounting firms to comply with the Board's quality control standards.[66] PCAOB quality control standards require each registered firm to effectively design, implement, and maintain a system of quality control to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards.[67]

92. A firm's system of quality control also should, among other things, include policies and procedures for engagement performance.[68] These quality control policies and procedures should provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[69] To the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, these policies and procedures should cover planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement.[70] These policies and procedures also should address EQRs.[71]

93. Monitoring is one of the five elements of quality control.[72] Through monitoring, an audit firm should establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied, and that its system of quality control is effective.[73] Procedures that provide the firm with a means of identifying and communicating circumstances that may necessitate changes to or the need to improve compliance with the firm's policies and procedures contribute to the monitoring element.[74] A firm's monitoring procedures may include follow-up by appropriate firm personnel to ensure that any necessary modifications are made to the quality control policies and procedures on a timely basis.[75]

94. Throughout the relevant time period, the Firm failed to maintain an adequate system of quality control, as evidenced by the 2019 Audits. First, in four instances on the 2019 Audits, Haynie failed to evaluate whether areas of the financial statements identified as significant risks were presented in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[76] On the 2019 George Risk Audit, Haynie audited George Risk's revenue to the criteria of ASC 605 rather than ASC 606, and failed to consider ASU 2016-01 in auditing George Risk's investments. On the 2019 Investview Audit, Haynie failed to adequately evaluate whether Investview's acquisition of United Games was presented in conformity with ASC 805, and failed to evaluate whether Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue was presented in conformity with ASC 606.

95. Second, despite being on notice of deficiencies in the Firm's testing approach during the 2017 George Risk Audit related to (1) the fair value of George Risk's Level 2

Investments, and (2) whether George Risk's investments in loss positions were OTTI, Haynie failed to implement timely and necessary corrective action, and repeated the same failures during the 2019 George Risk Audit.

96. Third, on both of the 2019 Audits, Haynie failed to document the EQRs in accordance with PCAOB standards.

97. These failures illustrate the Firm's failures to have: (1) effectively implemented policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that the work performed by its engagement personnel met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements;[77] and (2) established policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its quality control policies and procedures were suitably designed and were being effectively applied, and that its system of quality control was effective.[78]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Haynie & Company is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $400,000 is imposed on Haynie & Company.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Haynie & Company shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check

(i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Haynie & Company as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Haynie & Company understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to the Firm at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(C), (F), and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(3), (6), (8), and (9), the Board orders that:

1. Independent Consultant.

a. Haynie & Company shall retain and pay for an independent consultant ("Independent Consultant") not unacceptable to the staff of the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("DEI Staff") to review and make recommendations regarding Haynie & Company's quality control policies and procedures applicable to an audit of an issuer, as that term is defined in PCAOB Rule 1001, as described below. The Independent Consultant must have experience with, and be knowledgeable concerning, PCAOB auditing and quality control rules and standards. Within 60 days after the entry of this Order, Haynie & Company shall submit to DEI Staff a proposal setting forth the identity, qualifications, and proposed terms of retention of the Independent Consultant. Haynie & Company may not retain as the Independent Consultant any individual or entity that has provided legal, auditing, or other services not set forth in Paragraph IV.C.2 below to, or has had any other affiliation with, Haynie & Company during the two years prior to the date of this Order.

b. To ensure the independence of the Independent Consultant, Haynie & Company: (i) shall not have the authority to terminate the Independent Consultant or substitute another independent consultant for the initial Independent Consultant, without the prior written approval of DEI Staff; and (ii) shall compensate the Independent Consultant and persons engaged to assist the Independent Consultant for services rendered pursuant to this Order at their reasonable and customary rates.

c. Haynie & Company will enter into an agreement with the Independent Consultant that provides that, for the period of the engagement and for a period of two years from completion of the engagement, the Independent Consultant shall not enter into any new employment, consultant, attorney-client, auditing, or other professional relationship with Haynie & Company or any of its present or former affiliates, directors, officers, employees, or agents acting in their capacity as such. The agreement also will provide that the Independent Consultant will require that any firm with which the Independent Consultant is affiliated or of which the Independent Consultant is a member, and any person engaged to assist the Independent Consultant in performance of the Independent Consultant's duties under this Order, shall not, without prior written consent of DEI Staff, enter into any employment, consultant, attorney-client, auditing, or other professional relationship with Haynie & Company or any of its present or former affiliates, directors, officers, employees, or agents acting in their capacity as such, for the period of the engagement and for a period of two years after the engagement.

d. Haynie & Company shall provide to DEI Staff a copy of the engagement letter detailing the scope of the Independent Consultant's responsibilities, which shall include the review described in Paragraph IV.C.2 below.

e. Haynie & Company shall cooperate fully with the Independent Consultant and shall provide reasonable access to its personnel, information, and records as the Independent Consultant may reasonably request for the Independent Consultant's review, evaluation, and reports described in Paragraphs IV.C.2 and IV.C.3 below.

f. If Haynie & Company, despite its best, good-faith efforts, is unable to identify an Independent Consultant candidate that meets all of the above-listed criteria, Haynie & Company may seek approval from DEI Staff of alternative candidates or alternative terms that Haynie & Company believes to be otherwise suitable.

2. Areas Independent Consultant is to Review. Within the time periods specified in Paragraph IV.C.3 below, the Independent Consultant will review and evaluate the following:

a. Haynie & Company's quality control policies and procedures as they relate to "Engagement Performance," as that term is described in QC § 20.17, including in the areas of the failures described in Sections III.F-H above;

b. Haynie & Company's quality control policies and procedures as they relate to "Monitoring," as that term is described in QC § 20.20 and as further discussed in QC §§ 30.02-.03, including in the areas of the failures described in Sections III.F-H above;

c. The resources Haynie & Company is devoting to provide reasonable assurance of its personnel's compliance with PCAOB standards, including the expertise, experience, and staffing of Haynie's quality control personnel; and

d. Haynie & Company's professional education and training policies and materials relating to compliance with PCAOB standards.

3. Independent Consultant Reports and Certifications.

a. Within 90 days of the Independent Consultant being retained, Haynie & Company shall require the Independent Consultant to issue a detailed written report ("Report") to Haynie & Company: (i) summarizing the Independent Consultant's review and evaluation of the areas identified in Paragraph IV.C.2 above, and (ii) making recommendations, where appropriate, reasonably designed to ensure that Haynie & Company's system of quality control provides reasonable assurance of its personnel's compliance with applicable PCAOB standards. Haynie & Company shall require the Independent Consultant to provide a copy of the Report to DEI Staff when the Report is issued.

b. Haynie & Company will adopt, as soon as practicable, all recommendations of the Independent Consultant in the Report; provided, however, that within 30 days of the issuance of the Report, Haynie & Company may advise the Independent Consultant and DEI Staff in writing of any recommendation that it considers to be unnecessary, unduly burdensome, or impractical. Haynie & Company need not adopt any such recommendation at that time, but instead may propose in writing to the Independent Consultant and DEI Staff an alternative proposal designed to achieve the same objective or purpose. Haynie & Company and the Independent Consultant will engage in good faith negotiations in an effort to reach agreement on any recommendations objected to by Haynie & Company.

c. In the event that the Independent Consultant and Haynie & Company are unable to agree on an alternative proposal within 45 days of the issuance of the Report, Haynie & Company either will abide by the determinations of the Independent Consultant or will seek approval from DEI Staff to engage, at Haynie & Company's expense, a qualified third party not unacceptable to DEI Staff to promptly resolve the issue(s).

d. Within 60 days of the issuance of the Report, Haynie & Company will certify to DEI Staff in writing that it has adopted and has implemented or will implement all recommendations of the Independent Consultant ("Certification of Compliance"). Haynie & Company will provide a copy of the Certification of Compliance to DEI Staff.

e. Within 120 days of the issuance of the Report, Haynie & Company shall require the Independent Consultant to test whether Haynie & Company has implemented and enforced the Independent Consultant's recommendations and to assess the effectiveness of those implemented recommendations. Haynie & Company shall require the Independent Consultant to issue a written final report summarizing the results of the Independent Consultant's test and assessment ("Final Report") and to provide a copy of the Final Report to DEI Staff. At this time, if the Independent Consultant determines that the undertakings discussed herein have been completed to the satisfaction of the Independent Consultant, Haynie & Company shall require the Independent Consultant to certify in writing that the undertakings have been so completed ("Independent Consultant Certification") and to provide a copy of this certification to DEI Staff.

f. The Report, Final Report, Certification of Compliance, and Independent Consultant Certification shall be submitted to the Director of DEI.

g. For good cause shown, PCAOB staff may extend any of the procedural dates relating to these undertakings. Deadlines for procedural dates shall be counted in calendar days, except that if the last day falls on a weekend or federal holiday, the next business day shall be considered to be the last day.

h. Haynie & Company agrees that DEI may petition the Board to reopen this matter to determine whether additional sanctions or findings are appropriate if it believes that Haynie & Company has not satisfied any provision in Section IV of this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Tyson Holman, CPA, and Anna Hrabova, CPA,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-002

January 23, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Tyson Holman, CPA ("Holman");

(2) barring Holman from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1]

(3) imposing a $65,000 civil money penalty on Holman;

(4) censuring Anna Hrabova, CPA ("Hrabova");

(5) limiting Hrabova's activities in connection with any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), for a period of one year from the date of this Order; and

(6) imposing a $30,000 civil money penalty on Hrabova.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on Holman and Hrabova (collectively, "Respondents") on the basis of its findings that Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit by Haynie & Company (the "Firm" or "Haynie") of the financial statements of George Risk Industries, Inc. ("George Risk") for the fiscal year ended April 30, 2019 ("2019 George Risk Audit").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted Offers of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondents

1. Tyson Holman was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the states of Colorado (license no. 24301) and New York (license no. 135845). Holman is a partner in the Denver, Colorado office of Haynie. Holman served as the engagement partner for the 2019 George Risk Audit. At all relevant times, Holman was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

2. Anna Hrabova was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Georgia (license no. CPA028398) and a partner of Haynie. Hrabova served as the engagement quality review ("EQR") partner for the 2019 George Risk Audit. At all relevant times, Hrabova was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Relevant Entities

3. Haynie & Company is a professional corporation organized under the laws of Utah and headquartered in Salt Lake City, Utah. Haynie is licensed to practice public accounting by the Utah Board of Accountancy (license nos. 13292009-2603 and 103735-2603), among other state boards. Haynie is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board, and is a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

4. George Risk Industries, Inc. was, at all relevant times, a Colorado corporation headquartered in Kimball, Nebraska. George Risk's public filings disclose that it designs, manufactures, and sells computer keyboards, push button switches, burglar alarm components and systems, pool alarms, EZ Duct wire covers, water sensors, and wire and cable installation tools. George Risk is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the 2019 George Risk Audit. As detailed below, Holman failed to: (1) evaluate whether George Risk's revenue was reported in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework; (2) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to George Risk's investments; and (3) notify George Risk's Board of Directors and management of an identified material weakness.

6. Additionally, Hrabova violated AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review, by providing her concurring approval of issuance of the 2019 George Risk Audit report without performing the required EQR with due professional care.

D. Holman Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards on the 2019 George Risk Audit

7. In connection with the preparation and issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional standards.[4] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[5]

8. PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit.[6] Due professional care requires that the auditor exercise professional skepticism, which is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence.[7]

9. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion.[8] In addition, an auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement.[9]

10. Haynie issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on George Risk's 2019 financial statements on August 13, 2019. The report was included with George Risk's Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on August 13, 2019.

i. Holman Failed to Evaluate Whether George Risk's Revenue was Presented in Conformity With the Applicable Financial Reporting Framework

11. George Risk disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2019 revenue of $14,126,000. Holman identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

12. PCAOB standards required Holman and the engagement team to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Holman's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk,[10] and to evaluate whether George Risk's revenue was presented in the financial statements fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[11]

13. George Risk disclosed in its Form 10-K that it had adopted FASB ASC 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers ("ASC 606") effective May 1, 2018, the beginning of the 2019 fiscal year. During the 2019 George Risk Audit, however, Holman and the engagement team evaluated George Risk's revenue recognition under FASB ASC 605, Revenue Recognition ("ASC 605"), which had been superseded by ASC 606. The adoption of ASC 606 resulted in different considerations in the determination of whether revenue had met the criteria to be recognized. Holman and the engagement team failed to evaluate the implications to the audit procedures of the adoption of ASC 606. For example, Holman and the engagement team failed to evaluate whether George Risk recognized revenue when (or as) George Risk satisfied performance obligations set forth in a contract with a major customer, in conformity with ASC 606.

14. As a result, Holman and the engagement team failed to evaluate whether the recognized revenue in George Risk's financial statements was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[12] By testing George Risk's revenue under ASC 605 rather than ASC 606, Holman and the engagement team also failed to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Holman's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk.[13]

ii. Holman Failed to Test the Valuation and Disclosure of George Risk's Investments Despite Prior Notice of Issues Regarding its Testing the Valuation and Disclosure of Investments

a. Holman Failed to Adequately Test the Fair Value of George Risk's Level 2 Investments

16. In connection with the PCAOB's 2017 inspection of Haynie, PCAOB inspectors brought to the Firm and Holman's attention apparent failures by the engagement team during the Firm's audit of the financial statements of George Risk for the fiscal year ended April 30, 2017 ("2017 George Risk Audit"). In particular, PCAOB inspectors informed Holman, who also served as the engagement partner on the 2017 George Risk Audit, that he and the engagement team failed to perform sufficient procedures to test whether the valuation and disclosure of George Risk's investments were presented in conformity with AS 2502, Auditing Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures. Holman understood that this failure was in part because (1) other than comparing the custodial statements to the investment balances George Risk recorded, and tracing a small sample of George Risk's municipal bonds to a third-party website, Holman and the engagement team failed to perform any procedures to test the reasonableness of the fair values of George Risk's municipal bonds; and (2) for the sample of municipal bonds, Holman and the engagement team failed to evaluate the relevance and reliability of the data from the third-party website.

17. Despite being aware of these apparent failures, Holman and the engagement team followed a similar approach to testing the valuation of George Risk's municipal bonds during the 2019 George Risk Audit. George Risk disclosed in its 2019 Form 10-K that its municipal bonds were valued at approximately $5,483,000, representing approximately 13% of George Risk's total assets. George Risk characterized these municipals bonds as Level 2 investments.[14]

[14] Under U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("U.S. GAAP"), investments are characterized as either Level 1 Investments, Level 2 Investments, or Level 3 Investments, based upon the inputs used to value the investments. Level 1 Investments reflect inputs based upon quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the reporting entity can access at the measurement date. Level 2 Investments reflect inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 Investments.

18. George Risk also disclosed in its 2019 Form 10-K that municipal bonds did not trade in an active market. George Risk obtained the market value of municipal bonds at year-end from third-party custodians' statements.

19. PCAOB standards required Holman and the engagement team to obtain an understanding of the process George Risk used to determine the fair value of the municipal bonds, and, in the event there were no observable market prices for the municipal bonds, to evaluate whether the valuation method was appropriate under the circumstances.[15]

20. PCAOB standards also provided that Haynie had to evaluate whether the significant assumptions used to measure the fair value of George Risk's municipal bonds provided a reasonable basis for the fair value measurements and disclosures in George Risk's financial statements.[16]

21. To test the valuation of George Risk's approximately $5,483,000 in municipal bonds, the engagement team relied solely on two things. First, the engagement team relied on custodial statements, which were also the sources of the values of the municipal bonds recorded by George Risk. The engagement team failed, however, to evaluate the methods and assumptions used by the custodians. Second, the engagement team relied on data from a third-party website. The engagement team did not, however, assess the relevance or reliability of that data.

22. More specifically, the engagement team traced approximately $3,300,000 in municipal bonds to a third-party website and a custodial statement, agreed approximately $764,000 to a custodial statement only, and agreed approximately $851,000 to an investment schedule prepared by George Risk. Holman and the engagement team failed to assess whether the third-party pricing data was a reliable source of evidence of fair value in an illiquid market. They also failed to evaluate George Risk's process for determining that the custodial statements provided reliable measures of the fair value for the municipal bonds at year-end. Additionally, a balance of approximately $568,000 was not tested.

23. Therefore, despite being on notice of the deficiencies in this testing approach from the 2017 PCAOB inspection, Holman and the engagement team failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to understand and evaluate the valuation methods used by George

Risk to calculate the market value of George Risk's municipal bonds at year-end or the appropriateness of the pricing data obtained from a third-party website as audit evidence.

24. As a result, Holman and the engagement team failed to adequately test the fair value of George Risk's municipal bonds.[17] They failed to adequately perform substantive procedures specifically responsive to the identified significant risks over George Risk's investments.[18] They also failed to perform sufficient audit procedures related to George Risk's municipal bonds, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that George Risk's municipal bonds were properly valued.[19]

b. Holman Failed to Evaluate George Risk's OTTI Investments

25. In connection with the 2017 inspection of Haynie, PCAOB inspectors also brought to the Firm and Holman's attention another apparent failure by the engagement team during the 2017 George Risk Audit. In particular, Holman was made aware that during the 2017 George Risk Audit, he and the engagement team failed to perform sufficient procedures to evaluate whether George Risk's investments in loss positions were other-than-temporarily impaired ("OTTI"). That failure was in part because they failed to evaluate whether George Risk had the ability to hold these investments and securities until recovery of their fair value. For example, Holman and the engagement team did not consider the arrangements with George Risk's broker that conveyed to it the sole discretion to buy and sell investments and securities, which called into question George Risk's ability to limit its broker from selling investments and securities that were in a loss position.

26. Despite being aware of this apparent failure, Holman and the engagement team followed the same approach to evaluating whether George Risk's investment losses were OTTI during the 2019 George Risk Audit. In its 2019 Form 10-K, George Risk disclosed in the notes to the financial statements that it had the ability to hold investments in municipal bonds, real estate investment trusts, and equity securities until recovery of their fair values and, therefore, the unrealized loss of approximately $357,000 associated with these investments was not an indicator of an OTTI.

17 See AS 2502.09, .18, .28.

18 See AS 2301.11.

19 See AS 1105.04.

28. Holman and the engagement team obtained George Risk's calculation of the $357,000 unrealized loss and documented George Risk's policy for determining whether its investment losses were OTTI. They concluded that George Risk's policy was reasonable, without analyzing why George Risk's methodology was reasonable or describing any audit steps performed to support the conclusion.

29. Additionally, despite being on notice of the deficiencies in this testing approach from the 2017 PCAOB inspection, Holman and the engagement team never talked to George Risk's third-party investment broker, or otherwise considered that George Risk's broker had "permission to buy and sell stocks at will," in evaluating the appropriateness of George Risk's policy for impairment of investments during the 2019 George Risk Audit.

30. Holman and the engagement team, therefore, failed to adequately perform substantive procedures specifically responsive to the identified significant risks over the valuation of George Risk's investments.[20] They also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that George Risk's investment losses were OTTI.[21]

c. Holman Failed to Evaluate Whether George Risk's Investments Were Presented in Conformity With the Applicable Financial Reporting Framework

31. During the 2019 George Risk Audit, Holman and the engagement team failed to evaluate whether the accounting for George Risk's investments was in conformity with U.S. GAAP. Specifically, they failed to recognize that changes in the fair value of equity investments should no longer be recorded on the balance sheet, but instead were required to be recognized in the income statement, pursuant to Accounting Standards Update No. 2016-01, Recognition and Measurement of Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities (January 2016) ("ASU 2016-01"), thereby impacting net income for the period. During the 2019 George Risk Audit, Holman and the engagement team failed to perform any audit procedures to test whether George Risk was accounting for its investments consistent with ASU 2016-01.

21 See AS 1105.04.

32. George Risk restated its 2019 financial statements and filed two amendments to its 2019 Form 10-K on March 25, 2020 and May 26, 2020, to give effect to ASU 2016-01. As a result of the restatement, George Risk recorded a gain from changes in fair value of equity security of $444,000 for the 2019 fiscal year, which increased George Risk's net income from approximately $3.2 million to $3.6 million, or approximately 12%.

33. Therefore, Holman and the engagement team failed to evaluate whether George Risk's investments in the financial statements were presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[22]

iii. Holman Failed to Appropriately Communicate a Material Weakness to George Risk's Audit Committee

34. Under AS 1305, Communications About Control Deficiencies in an Audit of Financial Statements, Holman and the engagement team were required to communicate in writing all significant deficiencies and material weaknesses identified during the audit to George Risk's management and audit committee.[23]

35. In the risk assessment performed in relation to the 2019 George Risk Audit, Holman and the engagement team documented a material weakness concerning the lack of ASC and PCAOB knowledge in the financial statement reporting function. Holman and the engagement team, however, failed to communicate that material weakness in writing to George Risk's management and audit committee equivalent.[24]

36. In addition, for all of the reasons described above, Holman failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in serving as the engagement partner on the 2019 George Risk Audit.[25]

E. Hrabova Failed to Appropriately Perform the EQR on the 2019 George Risk Audit

37. PCAOB standards require that an EQR be performed on all audit engagements conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[26] In conducting the EQR, PCAOB standards require the EQR partner to evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[27]

38. PCAOB standards also require the EQR partner to evaluate the assessment of, and audit responses to, among other things, significant risks identified by the engagement team, including fraud risks.[28] In addition, the EQR partner is required to evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed in connection with the EQR indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks, and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[29]

39. The EQR partner may provide concurring approval of issuance of an audit report only if, after performing the EQR with due professional care, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[30] Among other things, a significant engagement deficiency in an audit exists when the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in accordance with PCAOB standards.[31]

40. Hrabova served as the EQR partner on the 2019 George Risk Audit and provided her concurring approval of issuance of the 2019 George Risk Audit report.

41. During her EQR of the 2019 George Risk Audit, Hrabova was aware that Holman and the engagement team identified George Risk's revenue as a significant risk. She reviewed the revenue work papers from the audit file, including the work papers documenting that Holman and the engagement team audited George Risk's revenue pursuant to the criteria of ASC 605 rather than ASC 606.

42. Hrabova was also aware that Holman and the engagement team identified George Risk's investments as a significant risk, and reviewed the investment work papers from the audit file indicating that the engagement team failed to consider ASU 2016-01 in auditing George Risk's investments.

43. Hrabova failed to conduct the EQR in accordance with PCAOB standards by failing to properly: (1) evaluate the significant judgments Holman and the engagement team made with respect to the areas of revenue and investments, and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report;[32] (2) evaluate Holman and the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to the significant risks they identified, in the areas of revenue and investments;[33] and (3) evaluate whether the engagement documentation that Hrabova reviewed indicated that Holman and the engagement team responded properly to significant risks and supported the conclusions Holman and the engagement team reached with respect to the matters reviewed related to the area of revenue and investments.[34]

44. An EQR partner performing an EQR with due professional care, in compliance with AS 1220, should have detected the significant engagement deficiencies described above. Because Hrabova did not identify the significant engagement deficiencies, she failed to exercise due professional care and perform her EQR in accordance with AS 1220, and she inappropriately provided her concurring approval of issuance, in violation of PCAOB rules and standards.[35]

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Tyson Holman is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Tyson Holman is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[36]

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Tyson Holman may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $65,000 is imposed on Tyson Holman.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Tyson Holman shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Tyson Holman as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

[36] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Holman. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

4. Tyson Holman understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Tyson Holman shall pay pursuant to this Order, Tyson Holman shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Tyson Holman's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Tyson Holman based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Anna Hrabova is hereby censured.

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for a period of one year from the date of this Order, Anna Hrabova's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Anna Hrabova shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "lead partner," "practitioner-in-charge," or "concurring partner"); (4) exercise authority, or supervise the work of another person exercising authority, either to sign a registered public accounting firm's name to an audit report, or to consent to the use of a previously issued audit report, for any issuer, broker, or dealer; (5) assist the engagement partner in fulfilling his or her responsibilities under paragraph 4 of AS 1201; or (6) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as the "other auditor," or "another auditor," as those terms are used in AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors.

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 is imposed on Anna Hrabova.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Anna Hrabova shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Anna Hrabova as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Anna Hrabova shall pay pursuant to this Order, Anna Hrabova shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Anna Hrabova's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Anna Hrabova based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Steven Avis, CPA, and Richard Fleischman, CPA, Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-003

January 23, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Steven Avis, CPA ("Avis");

(2) barring Avis from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1]

(3) imposing a $65,000 civil money penalty on Avis;

(4) censuring Richard Fleischman, CPA ("Fleischman");

(5) limiting Fleischman's activities in connection with any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), for a period of one year from the date of this Order; and

(6) imposing a $30,000 civil money penalty on Fleischman.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on Avis and Fleischman (collectively, "Respondents") on the basis of its findings that Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit by Haynie & Company (the "Firm" or "Haynie") of the financial statements of Investview, Inc. ("Investview") for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2019 ("2019 Investview Audit").

[1] Avis may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted Offers of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondents

1. Steven Avis was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Utah (license no. 363384-2601). Avis is a partner in the Salt Lake City, Utah office of Haynie. Avis served as the engagement partner for the 2019 Investview Audit. At all relevant times, Avis was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

2. Richard Fleischman was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Colorado (license no. 21292). Fleischman was, until July 2019, a partner in the Littleton, Colorado office of Haynie. Fleischman served as the engagement quality review ("EQR") partner for the 2019 Investview Audit. At all relevant times, Fleischman was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

B. Relevant Entities

3. Haynie & Company is a professional corporation organized under the laws of Utah and headquartered in Salt Lake City, Utah. Haynie is licensed to practice public accounting by the Utah Board of Accountancy (license nos. 13292009-2603 and 103735-2603), among other state boards. Haynie is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board, and is a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

4. Investview, Inc. was, at all relevant times, a Nevada corporation headquartered in Salt Lake City, Utah.[4] Investview's public filings disclose that it provides access to financial education, market research, and technology on certain financial subjects including equities, options, binary options, and cryptocurrency. Investview is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the 2019 Investview Audit. As detailed below, Avis failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning: (1) Investview's accounting for its acquisition of United Games, LLC and United League, LLC (collectively, "United Games"); (2) Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue; and (3) a license agreement that Investview recorded at a value of approximately $2 million, even though Investview's accounting staff orally told the Firm the license agreement was worthless.

6. Additionally, Fleischman violated AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review, by providing his concurring approval of issuance of the 2019 Investview Audit without performing the required EQR with due professional care.

D. Avis Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards on the 2019 Investview Audit

7. In connection with the preparation and issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[6]

8. PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit.[7] Due professional care requires that the auditor exercise professional skepticism, which is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence.[8]

9. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion.[9] In addition, an auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement.[10]

10. While an auditor may use inquiry of management to obtain information, "[i]nquiry alone does not provide sufficient appropriate evidence to support a conclusion about a relevant assertion."[11] Management representations "are not a substitute for the application of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[12]

11. In addition, if audit evidence obtained from one source is inconsistent with audit evidence obtained from another source, "the auditor should perform the audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter and should determine the effect, if any, on other aspects of the audit."[13] Likewise, if management's responses to an auditor's inquiries appear to be "inconsistent with other audit evidence, imprecise, or not at a sufficient level of detail to be useful, the auditor should perform procedures to address the matter."[14] "If a representation made by management is contradicted by other audit evidence, the auditor should investigate the circumstances and consider the reliability of the representation made," and, based on the circumstances, "consider whether his or her reliance on management's representations relating to other aspects of the financial statements is appropriate and justified."[15]

12. On June 28, 2019, Haynie issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on Investview's March 31, 2019 financial statements, with an explanatory paragraph describing substantial doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern. The report was included with Investview's Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on June 28, 2019.

i. Avis Failed to Appropriately Audit Investview's Accounting for its Acquisition of United Games

13. On July 20, 2018, Investview entered into a purchase agreement with United Games Marketing LLC to purchase United Games in exchange for 50,000,000 shares of Investview common stock.

14. Investview disclosed in its public filings that it accounted for its acquisition of United Games as a business combination pursuant to FASB ASC 805, Business Combinations ("ASC 805"), and recognized it as a "bargain purchase," meaning that, according to Investview's accounting, the United Games assets were acquired for less than their fair market value.[16]

15. Avis and the engagement team identified a significant risk related to the accounting for the United Games acquisition, and assessed the control risk as "High" for all assertions.

14 AS 2810.08, Evaluating Audit Results.

16 See ASC 805-30-25-2.

16. PCAOB standards required Avis and the engagement team to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Avis's identification of the accounting for the United Games acquisition as a significant risk,[17] and to evaluate whether the acquisition was presented in the financial statements fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[18]

17. As described below, Avis failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence related to Investview's accounting for the United Games acquisition, because Avis and the engagement team failed to appropriately evaluate (1) Investview's valuation of the intangible assets acquired and shares used as consideration in the United Games acquisition; and (2) whether Investview's acquisition of United Games, including Investview's recognition of a bargain purchase gain, was presented in conformity with ASC 805.

a. Avis Failed to Appropriately Evaluate Valuation Estimates Related to the United Games Acquisition

18. According to its public filings, Investview estimated the valuation of the intangible assets it acquired from United Games at approximately $1.8 million, and the Investview shares used as consideration at approximately $800,000, resulting in a one-time gain of approximately $971,000 recorded in earnings in 2019. Investview used a third-party valuation firm (the "Third-Party Specialist"), to support these fair value estimates.

19. PCAOB standards require auditors to evaluate the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, and to obtain sufficient appropriate evidential matter to provide reasonable assurance that all accounting estimates that could be material to the financial statements have been developed, are reasonable in the circumstances, and are presented in conformity with applicable accounting principles and properly disclosed.[19]

20. In evaluating the reasonableness of an accounting estimate, PCAOB standards require the auditor to obtain an understanding of how management developed the estimate. Based on that understanding, the auditor should use one or a combination of the following approaches: (a) review and test the process used by management to develop the estimate; (b) develop an independent expectation of the estimate to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate; and (c) review subsequent events or transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report.[20]

21. PCAOB standards further require auditors who use the work of a company's specialist as evidential matter in performing an audit to, among other things, "make appropriate tests of data provided to the specialist, taking into account the auditor's assessment of control risk."[21]

22. Avis and the engagement team understood that Investview relied on the valuation reports prepared by the Third-Party Specialist to account for the United Games acquisition. The valuation reports prepared by the Third-Party Specialist relied on data and assumptions provided by Investview, including projected rates of United Games' revenue growth and royalty rates from United Games' technology, as well as Investview's revenue growth rates, as key assumptions in calculating the fair value of the acquired intangible assets and of the shares used as consideration. The Third-Party Specialist did not perform any procedures to evaluate the reasonableness of this information Investview provided.

23. Avis and the engagement team used the Third-Party Specialist's reports as evidential matter in the 2019 Investview Audit to evaluate Investview's accounting for the United Games acquisition. Avis and the engagement team reviewed the Third-Party Specialist's valuation reports, and made high-level inquiries of management. They understood that the Third-Party Specialist relied on Investview-provided projections. With respect to the revenue projections for Investview, Avis and the engagement team documented that Investview's revenue projections were "fairly aggressive."

24. Despite this, and though they had assessed the control risk related to the United Games acquisition accounting as "High," Avis and the engagement team failed to test the projections that Investview provided to the Third-Party Specialist.[22] Likewise, Avis and the engagement team failed to perform procedures to (a) sufficiently review, or perform any procedures to test, the process used to develop the estimated valuation of United Games' intangible assets, the Investview shares used as consideration, or the underlying projections; (b) develop an independent expectation of those estimates; or (c) review subsequent events or transactions to evaluate the reasonableness of those estimates.[23]

25. In addition, with respect to the approximately $1.8 million valuation of United Games' intangible assets, Avis and the engagement team received a representation from Investview management that the estimate included the value of a software system that was not reflected on United Games' books. Avis and the engagement team understood generally that the intangible assets also included proprietary technology, customer contacts, and trade names. Avis and the engagement team took no steps, however, to gain an understanding of the software system or other intangible assets, or to evaluate whether Investview's valuation estimate for the intangible assets was reasonable in the circumstances.

26. As such, Avis and the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidential matter to evaluate the valuation of United Games' assets acquired by Investview or the Investview shares used as consideration,[24] and failed to make appropriate tests of the projections provided by Investview to the Third-Party Specialist.[25]

b. Avis Failed to Appropriately Evaluate Whether Investview's Recognition of a Bargain Purchase Gain was Presented in Conformity With the Applicable Financial Reporting Framework

27. Avis and the engagement team also failed to appropriately evaluate whether Investview's recognition of a bargain purchase gain in connection with the acquisition was presented in conformity with ASC 805.

28. ASC 805 recognizes that a bargain purchase may happen "[o]ccasionally," and provides the example of "a forced sale in which the seller is acting under compulsion." ASC 805 also requires that an issuer recognizing a gain in connection with a bargain purchase disclose a "description of the reasons why the transaction resulted in a gain."[26]

29. Avis and the engagement team received no indication that United Games was a "forced" sale. Investview management represented to Avis and the engagement team that United Games' management wanted to leave the industry. Avis and the engagement team took no steps to follow up on that representation or gain an understanding of why United Games' management might be willing to sell its subsidiaries for less than fair market value, or whether other circumstances might warrant the unusual recognition of a gain from an acquisition.

30. Nor did Avis and the engagement team identify that Investview's 2019 Form 10-K failed to disclose a "description of the reasons why the transaction resulted in a gain" as required by ASC 805.[27]

31. Therefore, Avis and the engagement team failed to evaluate whether the United Games acquisition was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[28]

32. Based on this failure, together with the failure described above to appropriately evaluate Investview's estimates of the valuation of United Games intangible assets and the Investview shares used as consideration in the acquisition, Avis and the engagement team failed to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Avis's identification of the accounting for the United Games acquisition as a significant risk,[29] and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to Investview's accounting for the United Games acquisition.[30]

ii. Avis Failed to Appropriately Audit Investview's Cryptocurrency Mining Revenue

33. Investview reported net cryptocurrency mining revenue of approximately $1.94 million for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2019. Avis identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

34. PCAOB standards required Avis and the engagement team to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Avis's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk,[31] and to evaluate whether Investview's revenue was presented in the financial statements fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[32]

35. As described below, Avis failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence related to Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue, because Avis and the engagement team (1) failed to evaluate whether Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue was presented in conformity with FASB ASC 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers ("ASC 606"), which Investview adopted at the beginning of the 2019 fiscal year; and (2) failed to perform detailed testing of a $3.83 million component of cryptocurrency mining net revenue representing the amounts Investview paid to its cryptocurrency mining supplier.

a. Avis Failed to Evaluate Whether Investview's Cryptocurrency Mining Revenue was Presented in Conformity With the Applicable Financial Reporting Framework

36. Investview's public filings disclosed that it generated revenue from the sale of cryptocurrency mining services through an arrangement with a third-party supplier ("Supplier"). Investview leased cryptocurrency mining services from the Supplier, and subleased those services to Investview customers. To execute this arrangement, Investview engaged in separate agreements with (1) its customers; and (2) the Supplier.

37. Investview reported that it recognized revenue generated through this arrangement on a net basis, at the time the customer purchased the cryptocurrency mining services (i.e., before the cryptocurrency mining services were provided by the Supplier).

38. Avis and the engagement team failed to perform sufficient procedures during the 2019 Investview Audit to assess the reasonableness under ASC 606 of Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue recognition approach. Instead, Avis and the engagement team simply relied on the information in a work paper titled "Mining Revenue Treatment Memo" from the Firm's audit of Investview's financial statements for the prior fiscal year ended March 31, 2018 (the "2018 Investview Audit").

39. Investview had prepared the Mining Revenue Treatment Memo during the 2018 fiscal year to document the company's conclusion that its cryptocurrency mining revenue recognition approach was reasonable, applying the indicators set forth in FASB ASC 605, Revenue Recognition ("ASC 605"), regarding whether revenue in connection with a transaction should be recognized on a gross basis or a net basis (the "ASC 605 Indicators").[33] During the 2018 Investview Audit, Avis and the engagement team reviewed the Mining Revenue Treatment Memo, added notations including excerpts from ASC 605 regarding each of the ASC 605 Indicators, and added the annotated Mining Revenue Treatment Memo to the corresponding work papers.

40. In relying on the Mining Revenue Treatment Memo copied from the 2018 Investview Audit file during the following year 2019 Investview Audit, Avis and the engagement team failed to consider that Investview had adopted a new accounting standard for revenue, ASC 606, at the beginning of the 2019 fiscal year. ASC 606 required consideration of a different model for determining whether to recognize revenue in connection with a transaction on a gross basis or a net basis, based upon whether the entity recognizing revenue exercised control over the specified goods or services before they were transferred to the customer. As a result, the ASC 605 Indicators, which were the basis for the Mining Revenue Treatment Memo's analysis and conclusion, were no longer applicable during the 2019 fiscal year.[34]

41. Avis and the engagement team did not request an updated analysis from Investview applying ASC 606 during the 2019 Investview Audit, or conduct any procedures to evaluate whether it was reasonable under ASC 606 for Investview to recognize cryptocurrency mining revenue on a net basis at the time the customer purchased the cryptocurrency mining services.

42. Therefore, Avis failed to evaluate whether the cryptocurrency mining revenue recognized in Investview's 2019 financial statements was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[35]

b. Avis Failed to Test the "Amounts Paid to Supplier" Component of Investview's Cryptocurrency Mining Revenue

43. Investview reported that it had $1.94 million in net cryptocurrency mining revenue for the 2019 fiscal year which consisted of: (1) approximately $5.77 million in "gross billings," which represented sublease payments from customers to Investview; and (2) approximately $3.83 million in "amounts paid to supplier," which represented payments from Investview to the Supplier.

35 See AS 2810.30-.31.

44. Because Avis had identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk, PCAOB standards required Avis and the engagement team to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, specifically responsive to the assessed risk.[36]

45. Avis and the engagement team failed to test the $3.83 million "amounts paid to supplier" component of Investview's net cryptocurrency mining revenue. Avis understood that Investview had agreed to provide 60% of the amounts collected from each cryptocurrency mining customer to the Supplier, and that Investview would keep the remaining 40% as its commission. Based on this agreement, Investview should have paid the supplier 60% of the $5.77 million that the company reported in gross billings, which would have resulted in approximately $3.46 million in "amounts paid to supplier." Investview, however, reported approximately $370,000 more in "amounts paid to supplier."

46. Avis and the engagement team did not identify this inconsistency during the 2019 Investview Audit, nor did they perform any testing, detailed or otherwise, of the overall "amounts paid to supplier."

47. Therefore, Avis failed to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, specifically responsive to Avis's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and fraud risk.[37]

48. In addition, by failing both to evaluate whether Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue recognition approach was in conformity with ASC 606, and to test the "amounts paid to supplier" component, Avis failed to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Avis's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk,[38] and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue was properly valued.[39]

iii. Avis Failed to Appropriately Audit an Investview License Agreement

49. In June 2017, Investview purchased a long-term, fifteen-year license agreement (the "License Agreement"). As of March 31, 2019, Investview recorded a net carrying value for the License Agreement of approximately $2 million. Avis and the engagement team did not identify a significant risk related to the License Agreement during the 2019 Investview Audit.

50. Based on an oral representation from Investview's accounting staff, Avis and the engagement team noted in a planning work paper that "the license agreement is no longer of value to the company as the service and license has failed due to issues with the brokerage platform." Avis and the engagement team later received a management representation from Investview's Director of Finance indicating that the License Agreement was not impaired.

51. Avis and the engagement team failed to take any steps to resolve the inconsistent representations from Investview management regarding the License Agreement.[40] They also failed to take any steps to evaluate whether indicators may have been present that would have required Investview to perform an impairment analysis to assess whether the value of the License Agreement should have been impaired in accordance with FASB ASC 350, Intangibles—Goodwill and Other.[41] Indeed, Avis and the engagement team did not ask Investview management whether the License Agreement had been evaluated for impairment.

52. Accordingly, Avis and the engagement team failed to perform audit procedures necessary to resolve inconsistent audit evidence.[42] They also failed to perform sufficient audit procedures and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that the License Agreement was properly valued.[43]

53. In addition, for all of the reasons described above, Avis failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in serving as engagement partner on the 2019 Investview Audit.[44]

E. Fleischman Failed to Appropriately Perform the EQR on the 2019 Investview Audit

54. PCAOB standards require that an EQR be performed on all audit engagements conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[45] In conducting the EQR, the EQR partner should evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[46]

55. PCAOB standards also require the EQR partner to evaluate the assessment of, and audit responses to, among other things, significant risks identified by the engagement team, including fraud risks.[47] In addition, the EQR partner is required to evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed in connection with the EQR indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks, and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[48]

56. The EQR partner may provide concurring approval of issuance of an audit report only if, after performing the EQR with due professional care, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[49] Among other things, a significant engagement deficiency in an audit exists when the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in accordance with PCAOB standards.[50]

57. Fleischman served as the EQR partner on the 2019 Investview Audit and provided his concurring approval of issuance of the 2019 Investview Audit report.

58. During his EQR of the 2019 Investview Audit, Fleischman was aware that Avis and the engagement team identified the United Games acquisition as a significant risk. He reviewed the acquisition work papers, and was aware during the 2019 Investview Audit that Investview was accounting for the acquisition as a bargain purchase. He also reviewed the Third-Party Specialist's reports and the engagement team's related documentation which, as described above, did not reflect sufficient procedures performed by Avis and the engagement team to test the data and assumptions provided by Investview to the Third-Party Specialist.

59. Fleischman was also aware that Avis and the engagement team identified Investview's revenue as a significant risk. He reviewed the Mining Revenue Treatment Memo documenting that Investview had evaluated its cryptocurrency mining revenue recognition approach under ASC 605 rather than ASC 606 during the 2018 Investview Audit, and that Avis and the engagement team had relied on that work paper during the 2019 Investview Audit. He also reviewed the engagement team's revenue testing documentation, which reflected no testing related to the $3.83 million "amounts paid to supplier" component of Investview's cryptocurrency mining revenue.

60. Fleischman failed to conduct the EQR in accordance with PCAOB standards by failing to properly: (1) evaluate the significant judgments Avis and the engagement team made with respect to the United Games acquisition and cryptocurrency mining revenue, and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report;[51] (2) evaluate Avis and the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, the significant risks they identified, in the areas of the United Games acquisition and cryptocurrency mining revenue;[52] and (3) evaluate whether the engagement documentation that Fleischman reviewed indicated that Avis and the engagement team responded properly to significant risks and supported the conclusions Avis and the engagement team reached with respect to the matters reviewed related to the United Games acquisition and cryptocurrency mining revenue.[53]

61. An EQR partner performing an EQR with due professional care, in compliance with AS 1220, should have detected the significant engagement deficiencies described above. Because Fleischman did not identify the significant engagement deficiencies, he failed to exercise due professional care and perform his EQR in accordance with AS 1220, and he inappropriately provided his concurring approval of issuance, in violation of PCAOB rules and standards.[54]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondents' Offers.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Steven Avis is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Steven Avis is barred from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm, as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[55]

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Steven Avis may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $65,000 is imposed on Steven Avis.

   1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

   2. Steven Avis shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check

[55] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Avis. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

(i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Steven Avis as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. Steven Avis understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Steven Avis shall pay pursuant to this Order, Steven Avis shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Steven Avis's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Steven Avis based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Richard Fleischman is hereby censured.

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for a period of one year from the date of this Order, Richard Fleischman's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Fleischman shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "lead partner," "practitioner-in-charge," or "concurring partner"); (4) exercise authority, or supervise the work of another person exercising authority, either to sign a registered public accounting firm's name to an audit report, or to consent to the use of a previously issued audit report, for any issuer, broker, or dealer; (5) assist the engagement partner in fulfilling his or her responsibilities under paragraph 4 of AS 1201; or (6) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as the "other auditor," or "another auditor," as those terms are used in AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors.

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 is imposed on Richard Fleischman.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Richard Fleischman shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Richard Fleischman as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Richard Fleischman shall pay pursuant to this Order, Richard Fleischman shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Richard Fleischman's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Richard Fleischman based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Jack Shama and Jack Shama, CPA,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-004

January 23, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Jack Shama ("Firm") and Jack Shama, CPA ("Shama") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) permanently revoking the Firm's registration; and

(3) permanently barring Shama from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of the financial statements of six issuer clients; (b) the Firm violated PCAOB standards concerning engagement quality reviews in connection with those audits; (c) the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards; and (d) Shama directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and standards.[1]

I.

reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondents.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted Offers of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings, and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondents

1. Jack Shama is a sole proprietorship located in Brooklyn, New York. The Firm registered with the Board on February 5, 2019. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

2. Jack Shama, CPA is a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 050909). At all relevant times, Shama was the sole owner of the Firm and an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Shama was the engagement partner for each of the audits discussed below.

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that the Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

B. Issuers

3. Cyber Apps World Inc. ("Cyber Apps") was, at all relevant times, incorporated under the laws of Nevada and headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada. Cyber Apps' public filings disclose that, at the time of the relevant audits, the company was involved in the development of mobile software applications. At all relevant times, Cyber Apps was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

4. Limitless Projects Inc. ("Limitless") was, at all relevant times, incorporated under the laws of Wyoming and headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada. Limitless' public filings disclose that, at the time of the relevant audits, the company was involved in the development of computer software systems and mobile device applications for commercial and consumer use. At all relevant times, Limitless was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

5. WarpSpeed Taxi Inc. ("WarpSpeed") was, at all relevant times, incorporated under the laws of the state of Wyoming and headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada. WarpSpeed's public filings disclose that, at the time of the relevant audits, the company was engaged in the development of a ride-hailing and food delivery application. At all relevant times, WarpSpeed was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).[4]

6. DongFang City Holding Group Company Limited ("DongFang") was, at all relevant times, incorporated under the laws of the state of Delaware and headquartered in New York, New York. DongFang's public filings disclose that, at the time of the relevant audits, DongFang was a development stage company that was not conducting business operations. At all relevant times, DongFang was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).[5]

7. Galaxy Enterprises Inc. ("Galaxy") was, at all relevant times, incorporated under the laws of Wyoming and headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada. Galaxy's public filings disclose that, at the time of the relevant audits, the company was focused on raising capital to fund its business plan of offering real estate management services. At all relevant times, Galaxy was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

8. Privacy and Value Inc. ("Privacy and Value") was, at all relevant times, incorporated under the laws of Wyoming and headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada. Privacy and Value's public filings disclose that, at the time of the relevant audits, the company was involved in the development of computer monitoring software. At all relevant times, Privacy and Value was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).[6]

C. Summary

9. This matter concerns Respondents' numerous and repeated violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audits of the financial statements of Cyber Apps for the fiscal years ended July 31, 2021 and 2022, Limitless for the fiscal years ended July 31, 2021 and 2022, WarpSpeed for the fiscal years ended July 31, 2021 and 2022, DongFang for the fiscal year ended October 31, 2020, Galaxy for the fiscal year ended July 31, 2021, and Privacy and Value for the fiscal year ended July 31, 2021 (collectively, "Issuer Audits").

10. The Firm issued audit reports for the Issuer Audits that contained unqualified audit opinions on the companies' financial statements for the relevant periods. Shama served as engagement partner on the Issuer Audits and authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit report for each of those audits.

11. As detailed below, in performing the Issuer Audits, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the opinions, and failed to properly assemble and retain audit documentation.

12. In addition, the Firm violated PCAOB standards by failing to have an engagement quality review performed for any of the Issuer Audits. The Firm also violated PCAOB quality control standards by failing to properly design and implement adequate quality control policies and procedures, including with respect to performing audits under PCAOB rules and standards, technical training and proficiency, and client acceptance and continuance.

[6] Privacy and Value was a consolidated subsidiary of Limitless as of the end of the fiscal years ended July 31, 2021 and July 31, 2022.

13. Finally, Shama violated PCAOB rules by knowingly or recklessly, and directly and substantially, contributing to the Firm's violations of PCAOB standards related to engagement quality reviews and quality control.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

14. In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[7] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and "concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework."[8] PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the auditor's opinion, and properly document the audit.[9]

15. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in performing the Issuer Audits.

i. Respondents Failed to Plan and Perform the Issuer Audits to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence and Failed to Exercise Due Professional Care

16. Under PCAOB standards, the auditor should properly plan the audit.[10] Proper planning includes "establishing the overall audit strategy for the engagement and developing an audit plan," which includes, in particular, "planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risks of material misstatement."[11] PCAOB standards also require the auditor to consider materiality in planning and performing the audit.[12] The auditor should "establish a materiality level for the financial statements as a whole that is appropriate in light of the particular circumstances"[13] and "determine the amount or amounts of tolerable misstatement for purposes of assessing risks of material misstatement and planning and performing audit procedures at the account or disclosure level."[14] PCAOB standards further require that the auditor perform "risk assessment procedures that are sufficient to provide a reasonable basis for identifying and assessing the risks of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud, and designing further audit procedures."[15]

17. The auditor must "plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis" for the auditor's opinion.[16] To be appropriate, audit evidence must be both relevant and reliable.[17] When using information produced by the company as audit evidence, the auditor should evaluate whether the information is sufficient and appropriate for purposes of the audit by performing procedures to test the accuracy and completeness of the information, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness of that information.[18]

18. "The auditor should perform substantive procedures for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure, regardless of the assessed level of control risk."[19] Furthermore, "[i]f the auditor has not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence about a relevant assertion or has substantial doubt about a relevant assertion, the auditor should perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address the matter."[20]

19. In addition, PCAOB standards require "[d]ue professional care . . . to be exercised in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report."[21] Due professional care "requires the auditor to exercise professional skepticism[,]" which is an "attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence."[22]

20. In connection with each of the Issuer Audits, Respondents failed to: (1) establish an overall audit strategy for the engagements and develop an audit plan; (2) consider materiality in planning and performing the audits, including establishing a materiality level and determining a tolerable misstatement amount; or (3) perform any risk assessment procedures to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement.

21. In performing the Issuer Audits, Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence. Other than obtaining certain bank statements, agreements, invoices, and issuer-prepared documents, Respondents performed limited or no procedures concerning accounts and transactions that were significant to each issuer's financial statements, as illustrated by the following examples from the audits of Cyber Apps, Limitless, and WarpSpeed.

22. During the fiscal year 2021 Cyber Apps audit, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to test whether goodwill, which represented 53% of the issuer's total assets at year end, was properly valued, despite the issuer's history of poor financial performance, including no revenue and negative earnings.[23] In fiscal year 2022, Cyber Apps wrote off the entire goodwill balance and recorded an impairment loss that was 64% of the net loss recognized during the year. Respondents failed to perform any procedures to test the impairment loss, including evaluating whether the write-off should have been recorded in a prior period.

23. During the fiscal year 2021 Limitless audit, Respondents failed to perform any audit procedures relating to deferred revenue, which represented 81% of total liabilities at year end, or notes receivable, which represented 66% of total assets at year end. In addition, Respondents failed to perform any audit procedures with respect to two software sale transactions completed by Limitless with Cyber Apps and WarpSpeed, a subsidiary of Cyber Apps, that accounted for 100% of the revenue reported by Limitless for the fiscal year ended 2021.

[23] An issuer is required to periodically test goodwill for impairment—the condition that exists when the carrying amount of goodwill on a company's books exceeds its implied fair value. See FASB ASC 350, Intangibles – Goodwill and Other. Such testing must occur annually, or more frequently if there is an indication of impairment. If the testing results in an impairment, the carrying amount of the goodwill must be reduced by the amount of the impairment. See id.

24. During fiscal year 2022, Limitless capitalized certain software development costs, which represented 89% of the issuer's total assets at year end. Other than obtaining invoices related to the costs capitalized during the year, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to determine whether the capitalized costs met the criteria for capitalization and whether the capitalized costs were recoverable at year end.[24] In addition, other than obtaining an issuer-prepared accounts payable aging summary report, Respondents failed to perform any audit procedures with respect to accounts payable even though they represented 100% of the issuer's total liabilities at year end.

25. During the fiscal year 2021 WarpSpeed audit, Respondents failed to perform any audit procedures with respect to capitalized software, which represented 85% of the issuer's total assets at year end, and notes payable, which represented 75% of the issuer's total liabilities at year end.

26. Finally, Respondents failed to test the accuracy and completeness, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness, of most of the issuer-prepared information obtained during each of the Issuer Audits, as required by PCAOB standards.[25]

27. Accordingly, Respondents failed to properly plan and perform the Issuer Audits in violation of AS 2101, AS 2105, AS 2110, and AS 2301; failed to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism during the Issuer Audits in violation of AS 1015; and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the Firm's audit opinions in violation of AS 1105 and AS 2810.

ii. Respondents Violated PCAOB Standards Related to the Assembly and Retention of Audit Documentation

28. PCAOB standards require that an auditor prepare and retain audit documentation in connection with each engagement. AS 1215 provides that "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[26] Further, although "[c]ircumstances may require additions to audit documentation after the report release date," any documentation added "must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[27]

29. In connection with the fiscal year 2021 audits of Cyber Apps, Limitless, WarpSpeed, and Privacy and Value, Respondents failed to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation by the documentation completion dates.[28] In addition, Shama continued to make additions to the audit documentation of each of those audits several months after the relevant documentation completion dates without documenting when and why the documentation was added.[29]

30. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 1215.

E. The Firm Violated PCAOB Standards Related to Engagement Quality Reviews

31. PCAOB standards require that an engagement quality review be performed on all audit engagements.[30] A firm may grant permission to a client to use the audit report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance of the report.[31]

32. The Firm failed to obtain engagement quality reviews for the Issuer Audits. The Firm also improperly permitted Cyber Apps, Limitless, WarpSpeed, DongFang, Galaxy, and Privacy and Value to use its audit reports for the Issuer Audits without having obtained a concurring approval of issuance from an engagement quality reviewer.

33. Accordingly, the Firm violated AS 1220.

F. The Firm Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

34. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's quality control standards.[32] These standards require that a registered firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[33] "A system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality."[34] The Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards in multiple ways.

35. First, PCAOB quality control standards require firms to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with "reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[35] The Firm did not maintain any policies, procedures, or guidance materials related to performing audits under PCAOB rules and standards. As illustrated by Respondents' multiple audit violations in connection with the Issuer Audits, the Firm's system of quality control failed to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm would comply with PCAOB rules and standards, including those involving the planning and performance of audits, the performance of engagement quality reviews, and the assembly and retention of audit documentation.

36. Second, policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that work is "assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required" to audit an issuer in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards.[36] At all relevant times, the Firm failed to maintain effective policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that work was assigned to personnel with the required technical training and proficiency, or that personnel assigned to the engagement would develop appropriate proficiency in relevant matters. During the relevant times, Shama also failed to receive training in performing audits in accordance with PCAOB rules and standards, and, as evident from the violations of numerous PCAOB rules and standards, lacked the proficiency to perform audits under PCAOB standards.

37. Third, PCAOB quality control standards require that a firm establish policies and procedures "for deciding whether to accept or continue a client relationship and whether to perform a specific engagement for that client."[37] Those policies and procedures should also provide reasonable assurance that the firm "[u]ndertakes only those engagements that the firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence" and "[a]ppropriately considers the risks associated with providing professional services in the particular circumstances."[38] At all relevant times, the Firm failed to maintain policies and procedures related to the acceptance or continuance of client engagements, including policies and procedures that provided reasonable assurance concerning competence and proficiency in client engagements. The Firm's lack of such policies and procedures contributed to its acceptance of engagements that were not completed with professional competence.

38. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20.

G. Shama Directly and Substantially Contributed to the Firm's Engagement Quality Review and Quality Control Violations

39. A person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action "knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[39]

40. As described above, Shama was, at all relevant times, a sole proprietor and the Firm's sole partner, and served as the engagement partner for all the Issuer Audits. Accordingly, Shama was responsible for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB standards related to obtaining engagement quality reviews. He was also responsible for developing and maintaining quality control policies and procedures applicable to the Firm's auditing practice.

41. Shama, however, repeatedly disregarded those responsibilities and knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of AS 1220 and QC § 20 described above. As a result, Shama violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

[39] PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Respondents are censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of the Firm is permanently revoked.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Shama is permanently barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[40]

D. Respondents acknowledge that the determination to accept Respondents' Offers, without imposing a civil money penalty, is contingent upon the accuracy and completeness of Respondents' financial information provided to the Division of Enforcement and Investigations (the "Division"). Respondents also acknowledge that, if at any time following this settlement, the Division obtains information indicating that any financial information provided by Respondents—including, but not limited to, any information concerning assets, income, liabilities, or net worth—was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect as of the time such information was provided, then at any time following entry of this Order (1) the Board may institute a disciplinary proceeding for noncooperation with an investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110 and/or (2) the Division may petition the Board to (a) reopen this matter to consider whether Respondents provided accurate and complete financial information at the time such information was provided to the Division; and (b) seek an order directing payment of the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law or any lesser amount determined to be appropriate. No other issue shall be considered in connection with this petition other than whether the financial information provided by Respondents was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect; and, if so, whether a civil money penalty should be ordered up to the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law. Respondents may not, by way of defense to any such petition: (i) contest the findings in this Order; (ii) assert that payment of a civil money penalty should not be ordered; (iii) contend that the amount of the civil money penalty to be ordered should be less than $50,000, which is specified herein as the amount the penalty would have been, based on Respondents' conduct and without consideration of Respondents' financial resources; or (iv) put forward any other contention or assert any defense to liability or remedy, including, but not limited to, any defense based on statute of limitations or any other time-related defense, other than to contend (a) that Respondents did not provide financial information that was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect, or (b) that a civil money penalty should not be ordered in an amount higher than $50,000.

[40] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Shama. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Marcelo de los Santos Anaya and Martín Rodríguez Martínez, Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-005

February 6, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) barring Marcelo de los Santos Anaya ("de los Santos") from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm[1] and imposing on de los Santos a $125,000 civil money penalty;

(2) barring Martín Rodríguez Martínez ("Rodríguez" and, collectively with de los Santos, "Respondents") from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm[2] and imposing on Rodríguez a $40,000 civil money penalty; and

(3) requiring Respondents to each complete 40 hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license, before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondents violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with two audits of an issuer.

[1] De los Santos may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after five years from the date of this Order.

[2] Rodríguez may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Marcelo de los Santos Anaya is, and at all relevant times was, the managing partner and one of three co-owners of Marcelo de los Santos y Cía, S.C. ("MSC" or "Firm"), a member firm of Moore Global Network Limited ("Moore Global"). De los Santos is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). He is a registered public accountant licensed under the laws of Mexico (license no. 1649173) and has served for several years as the chair of Moore Mexico, a regional association of Moore Global member firms. He also served as the engagement partner on MSC's integrated audits of the financial statements and the internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") of Grupo Simec, S.A.B. de C.V. ("Simec") as of and for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019 ("2018 Audit" and "2019 Audit," respectively, and collectively, the "Audits" or the "2018 and 2019 Audits").

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

2. Martín Rodríguez Martínez is, and at all relevant times was, a partner of MSC and an associated person of a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Rodríguez is a registered public accountant licensed under the laws of Mexico (license no. 1064659). Rodríguez performed an engagement quality review ("EQR") for each of the 2018 and 2019 Audits.

B. Issuer and Other Relevant Entities

3. Grupo Simec, S.A.B. de C.V. is a Mexican corporation headquartered in Jalisco, Mexico. Simec is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). According to its public filings, Simec has operations in Mexico, the United States, and Brazil, and its business focuses on processing and distributing special bar quality steel and structural steel products.

4. Marcelo de los Santos y Cía, S.C. is a civil corporation organized under the laws of Mexico and headquartered in San Luis Potosí, Mexico. MSC is licensed under the laws of Mexico. MSC is and, at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. In connection with the 2018 Audit, MSC issued audit reports dated July 30, 2019, that contained an unqualified opinion on Simec's 2018 financial statements and an adverse opinion on the effectiveness of Simec's ICFR. In connection with the 2019 Audit, MSC issued audit reports dated May 27, 2020, that contained unqualified opinions on Simec's financial statements and ICFR. The Firm also engaged, and relied on the work of, two other audit firms in connection with each of the 2018 and 2019 Audits: one in Brazil to audit Simec's primary Brazilian subsidiary (the "Brazilian Component Auditor"), and one in the United States to audit Simec's American subsidiaries (the "U.S. Component Auditor").[5]

C. Summary

5. In both planning and executing the 2018 and 2019 Audits, de los Santos violated numerous PCAOB rules and auditing standards. In both Audits, de los Santos failed to exercise due professional care and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to support MSC's opinion on Simec's financial statements and its opinion on the effectiveness of Simec's ICFR.

6. With respect to Simec's financial statements, de los Santos failed during the Audits to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning the appropriateness of the presentation of Simec's financial statements, the consolidation of the operations of Simec's subsidiaries into its consolidated financial statements, and the accuracy and completeness of company-prepared reports that de los Santos relied on as audit evidence.

7. With respect to Simec's ICFR, de los Santos failed during the Audits to conduct fundamental procedures, including failing to test controls over numerous significant accounts and failing to evaluate the severity of identified control deficiencies.

8. Despite significant deficiencies in the 2018 and 2019 Audits, including crucial omitted procedures in portions of the Audits that Rodríguez was obligated to review in his role as the EQR partner, Rodríguez gave concurring approval of issuance for both Audits, in violation of PCAOB standards.

D. De los Santos Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards in Connection With the 2018 and 2019 Audits

9. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, and to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[7] When evaluating audit results, the auditor is required to conclude on whether sufficient appropriate audit evidence has been obtained to support his or her opinion on the financial statements.[8] Because a company's internal control cannot be considered effective if one or more material weaknesses exist, PCAOB standards require that the auditor plan and perform an integrated audit to obtain appropriate evidence that is sufficient to obtain reasonable assurance about whether material weaknesses exist as of the date specified in management's assessment.[9]

10. As described below, de los Santos violated these and other PCAOB standards in connection with the 2018 and 2019 Audits.

i. Violations Concerning Planning of the 2018 and 2019 Audits

a. Failure to Determine Compliance with Independence Requirements

11. "The engagement partner is responsible for the engagement and its performance. Accordingly, the engagement partner is responsible for planning the audit . . . ."[10] Among the activities that PCAOB standards require an auditor to perform at the beginning of an audit is determining compliance with independence requirements.[11]

12. In turn, PCAOB rules specify that a "registered public accounting firm and its associated persons must be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period."[12] "[A] registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria applicable to the engagement set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the [Securities and Exchange Commission ('SEC')] under the federal securities laws."[13]

13. In the 2018 and 2019 Audits, de los Santos determined that the MSC engagement team was independent of Simec based on certain independence representations signed by members of the engagement team. However, those representations stated that the engagement team members were independent in accordance with certain provisions of the professional ethics code of the Instituto Mexicano de Contadores Públicos (Mexican Institute of Public Accountants). Neither those representations nor any other audit documentation for the 2018 and 2019 Audits referenced compliance with, nor reflected any consideration by de los Santos of, PCAOB or SEC independence requirements.

14. Similarly, de los Santos determined that the Brazilian Component Auditor and the U.S. Component Auditor were independent of Simec for the 2018 and 2019 Audits based on a representation obtained from each component audit firm for each audit. However, that representation stated in each instance that the component audit firm had not provided any non-audit services prohibited by certain provisions of International Standards on Auditing ("ISA") and had no business relationships or arrangements "of common commercial interest with the audit client or its directors/officers/senior client management." Neither those representations nor any other audit documentation for the 2018 and 2019 Audits addressed, or reflected any consideration by de los Santos of, PCAOB or SEC independence requirements or aspects of auditor independence other than those concerning prohibited non-audit services or common interests.

15. Accordingly, de los Santos violated AS 2101 during the Audits by failing to appropriately determine compliance with applicable independence requirements.

b. Communication of Engagement Terms to Audit Committee

16. Among the activities that an auditor should perform at the beginning of an audit is establishing "an understanding of the terms of the audit engagement with the audit committee in accordance with AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees."[14] Under AS 1301, the auditor "should record the understanding of the terms of the audit engagement in an engagement letter and provide the engagement letter to the audit committee annually."[15] The engagement letter should include a description of the objective of the audit which, in the case of an integrated audit, is the expression of an opinion on both the financial statements and effectiveness of ICFR.[16] It should also state that the auditor is responsible for conducting the audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and include a summary of what those standards require.[17]

17. The engagement letters for the 2018 and 2019 Audits failed to state, or otherwise communicate to Simec's audit committee, that the objective of MSC's audit was to express an opinion on the effectiveness of Simec's ICFR. To the contrary, both engagement letters stated that MSC would perform a study and evaluation of Simec's ICFR, but would not provide assurance as to the adequate functioning of the company's internal control. The letters also included a list of reports to be issued by MSC each year, but did not mention an ICFR audit report.

18. In addition, neither engagement letter stated, or otherwise communicated to Simec's audit committee, that MSC was responsible for conducting the audit in accordance with

PCAOB standards or that PCAOB standards imposed on MSC certain requirements concerning the planning and performance of an integrated audit. To the contrary, the engagement letters for both audits stated that they would be performed under ISA.

19. Accordingly, de los Santos violated AS 2101 and AS 1301 during the Audits.

ii. Violations During the 2018 and 2019 Audits Concerning Simec's Financial Statements and ICFR

a. Failure to Conduct the Audits in Accordance with PCAOB Standards

20. "In connection with the preparation or issuance of any audit report, a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons shall comply with all applicable auditing standards adopted by the Board and approved by the SEC."[18] "The auditor is in a position to express an unqualified opinion on the financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with the standards of the [PCAOB]."[19] In addition, "[t]he audit of [ICFR] should be integrated with the audit of the financial statements . . . and the auditor must plan and perform the work to achieve the objectives of both audits."[20]

21. Despite being required to do so, de los Santos did not plan and perform the 2018 and 2019 Audits in accordance with PCAOB auditing standards. Like the engagement letters discussed above, the audit strategy memorandum and the engagement completion document in both Audits also stated that the audit was conducted pursuant to ISA. None of these documents referenced the planning or performance of the audit under PCAOB standards. Moreover, as de los Santos was aware, there is no ISA standard with requirements equivalent to those in AS 2201, and thus, to comply with PCAOB auditing standards, the integrated Audits of Simec required procedures beyond the scope of an ISA audit. However, as described below, de los Santos failed in multiple instances to perform procedures required by AS 2201.

22. Accordingly, de los Santos violated PCAOB Rule 3200, AS 3101, and AS 2201.

b. Failure to Adequately Address Fraud Risks

23. Under PCAOB standards, an auditor "should perform risk assessment procedures that are sufficient to provide a reasonable basis for identifying and assessing the risks of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud, and designing further audit procedures."[21] "The auditor's identification of fraud risks should include the risk of management override of controls."[22] "When the auditor has determined that a significant risk, including a fraud risk, exists, the auditor should evaluate the design of the company's controls that are intended to address fraud risks and other significant risks and determine whether those controls have been implemented, if the auditor has not already done so when obtaining an understanding of internal control."[23]

24. The auditor should also "inquire of the audit committee . . . , the internal audit function, and others within the company who might reasonably be expected to have information that is important to the identification and assessment of risks of material misstatement."[24] Those inquires "should include inquiries regarding fraud risks."[25] "The auditor should presume that there is a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition and evaluate which types of revenue, revenue transactions, or assertions may give rise to such risks."[26]

25. "When planning and performing the audit of internal control over financial reporting, the auditor should take into account the results of his or her fraud risk assessment."[27] "[T]he auditor should evaluate whether the company's controls sufficiently address identified risks of material misstatement due to fraud and controls intended to address the risk of management override of other controls."[28]

26. Despite those requirements, de los Santos failed in the 2018 and 2019 Audits to:

- consider the risk of management override of controls as a fraud risk and respond appropriately;[29]
- make required inquiries of Simec's audit committee regarding the risk of fraud;
- identify which of Simec´s controls, if any, addressed the fraud risks de los Santos had identified; and
- evaluate whether Simec´s controls were sufficiently designed to address the identified fraud risks.

27. Additionally, in the 2018 Audit, de los Santos failed to presume that there was a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition or evaluate whether there was a basis to overcome the presumption.

28. Accordingly, de los Santos violated AS 2110 and AS 2201 during the Audits.

c. Failure to Adequately Test Simec's Journal Entries for Evidence of Possible Material Misstatement Due to Fraud

29. PCAOB standards provide that an auditor "should design procedures to test the appropriateness of journal entries recorded in the general ledger and other adjustments . . . made in the preparation of the financial statements."[30] Among other things, the auditor should "[o]btain an understanding of the entity's financial reporting process and the controls over journal entries and other adjustments" and should "[i]dentify and select journal entries and other adjustments for testing."[31]

30. In the 2018 and 2019 Audits, de los Santos failed to obtain an understanding of Simec's journal entry process, failed to identify controls over journal entries and other

29 This failure was particularly acute in connection with the 2019 Audit given the findings of an internal inspection that Moore Global conducted, which included a review of the 2018 Audit (the "Moore Global Inspection"). Those findings, issued in December 2019, identified MSC's failure to document its consideration of the risk of management override of controls and respond appropriately as a deficiency in the 2018 Audit. However, de los Santos did not take steps to address that failure, and substantially replicated that deficiency, in planning and performing the 2019 Audit.

31 Id.

adjustments, and failed to identify and select journal entries and other adjustments for testing with respect to Simec's Mexican subsidiaries. These subsidiaries held more than 75% of Simec´s total assets and generated more than 50% of its total revenue in each year.

31. The findings from the Moore Global Inspection identified a lack of evidence of journal entry testing in the audit documentation for the 2018 Audit. However, de los Santos failed to address that deficiency or otherwise improve MSC's journal entry testing during the 2019 Audit.

32. Accordingly, de los Santos violated AS 2401 during the Audits.

iii. Violations During the 2018 and 2019 Audits Concerning Simec's Financial Statements

a. Failure to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence to Evaluate Whether Simec's Consolidated Financial Statements Were Presented Fairly, in all Material Respects, in Conformity with International Financial Reporting Standards

33. PCAOB standards require an auditor to "evaluate whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework."[32] "To form an appropriate basis for expressing an opinion on the financial statements, the auditor must plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement due to error or fraud."[33]

34. Simec's consolidated financial statements for 2018 and 2019 were presented in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS"). However, the financial statements of Simec's primary U.S. subsidiary, which constituted approximately 20% of Simec's total assets and generated approximately 20% of Simec's total revenue, were prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). De los Santos was aware that the U.S. Component Auditor did not audit the schedule of accounting entries proposed by Simec management to convert that subsidiary's financial statements from U.S. GAAP to IFRS ("Conversion Schedule"). For its part, the MSC engagement team verified the arithmetic of Simec's Conversion Schedule and—in the 2018 Audit—compared the starting U.S. GAAP amounts on the Conversion Schedule obtained from management to the corresponding U.S. GAAP amounts audited by the U.S. Component Auditor. But de los Santos failed to perform any other audit procedures concerning the appropriateness of the U.S. GAAP-to-IFRS conversion for the 2018 and 2019 Audits.

35. Accordingly, de los Santos violated AS 2810 and AS 1101 during the Audits.

b. Failure to Obtain, Review or Retain Sufficient Information to Reconcile Financial Information for Simec's Subsidiaries to its Consolidated Financial Statements

36. PCAOB standards provide that, "[w]hen using information produced by the company as audit evidence, the auditor should evaluate whether the information is sufficient and appropriate for purposes of the audit by performing procedures to:

- Test the accuracy and completeness of the information, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness of that information; and

- Evaluate whether the information is sufficiently precise and detailed for purposes of the audit."[34]

37. Further, when an issuer's financial statements consolidate the results of a subsidiary audited by a separate auditor, the principal auditor of the issuer must "obtain, and review and retain . . . from the other auditor . . . [s]ufficient information to enable the office issuing the auditor's report to agree or reconcile the financial statement amounts audited by the other firm to the information underlying the consolidated financial statements."[35]

38. During the 2018 and 2019 Audits, Simec manually created and populated an Excel spreadsheet that aggregated the financial information of Simec's subsidiaries and that served as the basis for the consolidated financial statements ("Manual Consolidation Spreadsheet"). De los Santos relied upon the Manual Consolidation Spreadsheet as audit evidence because it showed that the total of the subsidiary-level balances, which were purportedly subject to audit, agreed to the amounts reported in the consolidated financial statements. However, de los Santos failed to test the accuracy and completeness of the amounts presented in this spreadsheet, even though he was aware of deficiencies in Simec's ICFR related to the consolidation process.[36]

35 AS 1205.12.e, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors.

39. In addition, de los Santos failed in the 2019 Audit to obtain sufficient information and perform sufficient procedures to determine whether the U.S. subsidiary-level balances included in the Manual Consolidation Spreadsheet were, in fact, the same underlying balances that were subject to audit by the U.S. Component Auditor.

40. Accordingly, de los Santos violated AS 1105 during the Audits and also violated AS 1205 during the 2019 Audit.

iv. Violations During the 2018 and 2019 Audits Concerning Simec's ICFR

41. At the time of the 2018 and 2019 Audits, de los Santos was aware that Simec had a history of material weaknesses in its ICFR that the company had failed to remediate. He also knew that: (a) the SEC had issued a cease and desist order in January 2019 that addressed material weaknesses in Simec's ICFR from 2008 through 2017;[37] (b) Simec had a history of failing to remediate those material weaknesses; and (c) Simec's management had failed to perform its required assessment of ICFR in 2015 and 2016.

a. Failure to Obtain ICFR-Related Management Representations

42. PCAOB standards list a number of specific representations that an auditor conducting an audit of ICFR should obtain in writing from company management.[38] Those representations include an acknowledgement of management's responsibility for establishing and maintaining effective ICFR, a statement that management has evaluated and assessed the effectiveness of the company's ICFR, and a representation that management has disclosed to the auditor all deficiencies in the design or operation of ICFR identified during management's evaluation.[39]

43. In each of the 2018 and 2019 Audits, MSC obtained a management representation letter from Simec containing management representations concerning Simec's financial statements, as well as a representation that acknowledged management's responsibility for establishing and maintaining effective ICFR. However, the letter in each of the Audits omitted—and de los Santos did not otherwise obtain—the required representations that management had evaluated and assessed ICFR effectiveness and had disclosed to MSC all ICFR deficiencies it had identified.

[36] De los Santos's failure to ensure that MSC tested the completeness and accuracy of this information produced by the company in connection with the 2019 Audit was particularly acute given that the same issue was identified as a deficiency in the 2018 Audit by the Moore Global Inspection.

44. Accordingly, de los Santos violated AS 2201.

b. Failure to Test Controls Concerning Fourteen Significant Accounts

45. PCAOB standards provide that an auditor "should test those controls that are important to the auditor's conclusion about whether the company's controls sufficiently address the assessed risk of misstatement to each relevant assertion."[40]

46. For the 2019 Audit, de los Santos performed a risk assessment that identified Simec's significant accounts and the relevant assertion(s) for each. Despite identifying those accounts and assertions, de los Santos failed to evaluate whether Simec had designed or implemented any internal controls to address them.

47. Indeed, de los Santos failed to test any controls that addressed his assessed risk of material misstatement for any of the relevant assertions of the following accounts: (1) Cash and equivalents, (2) Related party accounts receivable, (3) Recoverable taxes, (4) Other receivables, (5) Prepaid expenses, (6) Property, plant, and equipment, (7) Intangibles, (8) Accounts payable, (9) Related party accounts payable, (10) Taxes and contributions payable, (11) Other accounts payable, (12) Income taxes payable, (13) Deferred income taxes, and (14) Stockholders' equity. Five of those accounts—Cash and equivalents, Related party accounts receivable, Property, plant and equipment, Intangibles, and Related party accounts payable—were assessed as having one or more significant risks during the 2019 Audit. Another five accounts were assessed as being higher-risk audit areas.

48. Accordingly, in this manner too, de los Santos violated AS 2201 during the 2019 Audit.

c. Failure to Evaluate the Severity of Control Deficiencies Identified by Component Auditors

49. PCAOB standards require an auditor to "evaluate the severity of each control deficiency that comes to his or her attention to determine whether the deficiencies, individually or in combination, are material weaknesses as of the date of management's assessment."[41] The auditor should evaluate the effect of compensating controls when determining whether a control deficiency, or combination of deficiencies, is a material weakness.[42] The auditor should also consider whether any deficiencies, alone or in combination, identified during the audit are significant deficiencies and, if so, communicate them in writing to the audit committee.[43]

50. With respect to the 2018 Audit, the Brazilian Component Auditor provided MSC with a reporting package concerning its audit of Simec's Brazilian subsidiary. The Brazilian Component Auditor identified in that reporting package four deficiencies that it believed constituted material weaknesses in the ICFR of the Brazilian subsidiary. The U.S. Component Auditor also identified and communicated to MSC four deficiencies that it believed constituted material weaknesses in the ICFR at Simec's U.S. subsidiaries. Each of the deficiencies identified by the component auditors related to a significant risk that MSC had identified, specifically, the risk that Simec's financial statements could be materially misstated due to improper conversion and consolidation of subsidiary financial information. Nonetheless, de los Santos failed to evaluate the severity of the deficiencies the component auditors had identified.

51. Similarly, with respect to the 2019 Audit, the Brazilian Component Auditor's reporting package to MSC identified five deficiencies in the ICFR of Simec's Brazilian subsidiary, and the U.S. Component Auditor reported three deficiencies in the ICFR of Simec's U.S. subsidiaries. The component auditors believed that the deficiencies they identified constituted material weaknesses. Again, all of those deficiencies related to the identified significant risk that Simec's financial statements could be materially misstated due to improper conversion and consolidation of subsidiary financial information. However, once again, de los Santos failed to evaluate the severity of the deficiencies reported by the component auditors.

52. For these reasons too, de los Santos violated AS 2201 during the Audits.

d. Failure to Evaluate Whether Control Deficiencies Identified in Previous Years as Material Weaknesses Had Been Remediated

53. PCAOB standards require the auditor to evaluate whether control deficiencies previously communicated to the audit committee are important to the company's financial statements and ICFR and, if so, how they will affect the auditor's procedures.[44] Moreover, if audit evidence obtained from one source is inconsistent with that obtained from another, the auditor should perform the audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter and should determine the effect, if any, on other aspects of the audit.[45]

43 Id. at .80.

54. Simec management disclosed in its 2018 Form 20-F that the company's ICFR was ineffective as of December 31, 2018. This conclusion was based on material weaknesses identified in management's ICFR assessment for the 2018 annual period as well as material weaknesses identified in each of management's four preceding annual assessments, from 2014 through 2017. However, MSC's ICFR audit report for 2018 made references to only material weaknesses Simec had identified as of year-end 2018. De los Santos failed to evaluate whether the material weaknesses identified by management from 2014 through 2017 had, in fact, been remediated as of December 31, 2018, or alternatively, whether these previously deficient controls had been superseded by new controls that achieved the related control objectives.

55. In planning the 2019 Audit, de los Santos noted that Simec had a number of material weaknesses in prior audit years and was subject to investigation by the SEC for failure to remediate those material weaknesses. De los Santos also knew that Simec had engaged a third-party consultant who assisted management in taking corrective actions in response to the previously disclosed material weaknesses and that management thereafter concluded that it had fully remediated the previously disclosed material weaknesses by year-end 2019. Despite obtaining evidence during the 2019 Audit that several of those material weaknesses had not been remediated, de los Santos failed to perform any procedures to resolve these inconsistencies. Further, de los Santos nevertheless authorized the issuance of MSC's unqualified ICFR audit report for 2019.

56. Accordingly, de los Santos committed these additional violations of AS 1105 and AS 2201 in the Audits.

E. De los Santos Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications

57. PCAOB standards and other provisions of the securities laws provide that auditors should communicate certain information to an issuer's audit committee. In violation of those provisions, de los Santos failed to communicate the following matters to Simec's audit committee in connection with the 2018 and 2019 Audits:

- all significant risks identified during risk assessment procedures;[46]

45 AS 1105.29.

46 See AS 1301.09.

- the extent to which MSC's engagement team planned to use the work of internal auditors;[47]
- Simec's critical accounting policies, practices, and accounting estimates;[48]
- uncorrected and corrected misstatements;[49] and
- other material written communications between the engagement team and management, such as the management representation letter.[50]

58. Accordingly, de los Santos violated AS 1301, AS 2805, Exchange Act § 10A(k), and Rule 2-07(a) of SEC Regulation S-X in connection with the Audits.

F. Rodríguez Violated PCAOB Auditing Standards in Connection with His EQRs of the 2018 and 2019 Audits

59. PCAOB standards provide that, "[i]n an audit engagement, the engagement quality reviewer should evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report."[51] As is the case with members of the engagement team, an engagement quality reviewer should exercise due professional care and professional skepticism.[52]

60. An engagement quality reviewer should evaluate the "engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to . . . [s]ignificant risks identified by the engagement team, including fraud risks."[53] In the 2018 and 2019 Audits, Rodríguez knew that Simec had disclosed various material weaknesses in its ICFR in the most recent Form 20-Fs it filed with the SEC and that the engagement team planned to evaluate the adequacy of any remedial actions taken by Simec during the subsequent year. He also knew that certain prior-year material weaknesses—including with respect to Simec's process for preparing consolidated financial statements—had been identified as significant risks and/or fraud risks by the engagement teams in the 2018 and 2019 Audits. However, during both Audits, Rodríguez failed to evaluate the engagement teams' assessment of and response to these significant and/or fraud risks with due professional care.

61. An engagement quality reviewer should also evaluate the "significant judgments made about . . . the severity and disposition of identified control deficiencies."[54] As part of his EQRs for the 2018 and 2019 Audits, Rodríguez represented that he had reviewed the engagement teams' evaluation of internal control and the relevant work papers to evaluate the engagement teams' critical judgments and that, based on his review, all pending matters were resolved before the audit reports were signed. However, as discussed above, the engagement teams for the 2018 and 2019 Audits failed to evaluate the severity of identified ICFR deficiencies.

62. PCAOB standards also require an engagement quality reviewer to review "the engagement team's evaluation of the firm's independence in relation to the engagement."[55] The engagement teams for the 2018 and 2019 Audits failed to evaluate their (and the component auditors') independence in accordance with PCAOB and/or SEC requirements and, instead, supplied and obtained independence representations that solely referenced ISA and Mexican requirements. Rodríguez failed to review the engagement team's evaluation of its independence with due professional care and, consequently, failed to identify that deficiency.

63. As discussed above, de los Santos in the 2018 and 2019 Audits failed to make a number of required communications to Simec's audit committee. An engagement quality reviewer should evaluate "whether appropriate matters have been communicated, or identified for communication, to the audit committee."[56] Rodríguez failed to perform that evaluation with due professional care. Specifically, despite indicating in each of the Audits that he had reviewed all relevant communications with Simec's audit committee as part of his EQR, Rodríguez failed to identify that those communications omitted numerous required communications.

54 Id. at .10.c.

55 Id. at .10.d.

56 Id. at .10.i.

64. An engagement quality reviewer should also determine whether the audit documentation he or she reviews indicates "that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks" and supports "the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed."[57] In the 2019 Audit, Rodríguez provided concurring approval of issuance of MSC's audit report expressing an unqualified ICFR opinion despite reviewing audit documentation indicating that the engagement team (a) had not appropriately evaluated whether Simec had remediated certain material weaknesses disclosed by Simec in its 2018 Form 20-F; and (b) had not evaluated the severity of identified ICFR deficiencies.

65. Accordingly, Rodríguez violated AS 1015 and AS 1220.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Marcelo de los Santos Anaya is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[58]

B. After five years from the date of this Order, Marcelo de los Santos Anaya may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Martín Rodríguez Martínez is barred from being an "associated person of a registered

---

57 Id. at .11.

58 As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to de los Santos. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[59]

D. After two years from the date of this Order, Martín Rodríguez Martínez may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4): (i) a civil money penalty in the amount of $125,000 is imposed on Marcelo de los Santos Anaya; and (ii) a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 is imposed on Martín Rodríguez Martínez.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Each Respondent shall pay his civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the individual as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. Respondents understand that their failure to pay the civil money penalties imposed upon them may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

[59] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act, discussed in footnote 58, above, will also apply with respect to Rodríguez.

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalties pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against one or both Respondents based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Marcelo de los Santos Anaya and Martín Rodríguez Martínez are each required to complete, prior to filing any petition to terminate his bar and for Board consent to reassociate with a registered public accounting firm, 40 hours of continuing professional education and training relating to PCAOB auditing standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the continuing professional education each Respondent is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Baker Tilly US, LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-006

February 20, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Baker Tilly US, LLP ("Baker Tilly," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $80,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm (a) failed to document pre-approval of services by two issuer clients' audit committees, in violation of AS 1215, Audit Documentation; and (b) failed to make certain required communications to the audit committees of two issuer audit clients, in violation of AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Baker Tilly has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Baker Tilly US, LLP is a limited liability partnership headquartered in Chicago, Illinois and is a member of the Baker Tilly International network of firms ("BTI"). It is licensed to practice public accounting in multiple jurisdictions, including with the Department of Financial and Professional Regulation of the State of Illinois (license no. 066-004260). At all relevant times, Baker Tilly was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for more than 70 issuer clients and more than 30 broker-dealer clients.

B. Issuers

2. Genius Brands International, Inc. ("Genius Brands") is a corporation headquartered in Beverly Hills, California. Its public filings disclose that it is a global content and brand management company that creates and licenses multimedia content. Baker Tilly issued an audit report that Genius Brands included in its Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020 (the "2020 Genius Brands Audit").

3. Nortech Systems, Inc. ("Nortech") is a corporation headquartered in Maple Grove, Minnesota. Its public filings disclose that it is a provider of design and manufacturing solutions for complex electromedical devices, electromechanical systems, assemblies, and components. Baker Tilly issued an audit report that Nortech included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020 (the "2020 Nortech Audit").

4. Northern Technologies International Corporation ("Northern Technologies") is a corporation headquartered in Circle Pines, Minnesota. Its public filings disclose that it develops and markets corrosion prevention and polymer resin compounds and products. Baker Tilly issued an audit report that Northern Technologies included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended August 31, 2021 (the "2021 Northern Technologies Audit").

5. At all relevant times, each of the companies listed in paragraphs 2 through 4 was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Other Relevant Entities

6. Baker Tilly 4Partners Auditores Independentes S.S. ("BT Brazil") is headquartered in Sao Paolo, Brazil, and a member of BTI. At all relevant times, BT Brazil was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. BT Brazil performed a statutory audit for a subsidiary of Northern Technologies.

7. Baker Tilly China Certified Public Accountants ("BT China") is headquartered in Beijing, China and a member of BTI. At all relevant times, BT China was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. BT China performed a statutory audit for a subsidiary of Northern Technologies.

8. Baker Tilly Mexico, S.C. ("BT Mexico") is headquartered in Mexico City, Mexico and a member of BTI. At all relevant times, BT Mexico was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. BT Mexico performed a statutory audit for a subsidiary of Nortech.

9. Baker Tilly Hong Kong Limited ("BT Hong Kong") is headquartered in Hong Kong, Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China, and a member of BTI. BT Hong Kong is a "public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii). BT Hong Kong is not now, and was not at the relevant time, registered with the Board. BT Hong Kong performed a statutory audit for a subsidiary of Nortech.

10. Haribhakti & Co. LLP ("BT India") is headquartered in Mumbai, India and a member of BTI. BT India is a "public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii). BT India is not now, and was not at the relevant time, registered with the Board. BT India performed a statutory audit for a subsidiary of Northern Technologies.

11. Suzhou Wanlong Yongding Certified Public Accountants Co., Ltd. ("SWY") headquartered in Suzhou, Jiangsu, People's Republic of China. SWY is a "public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii). SWY is not now, and never has been, registered with the Board. SWY was an other accounting firm that performed audit procedures on the 2020 Nortech Audit.

D. Baker Tilly Failed to Document Audit Committee Pre-Approval of Statutory Audit Services, in Violation of AS 1215

12. PCAOB standards require that audit documentation should demonstrate that the engagement complied with the standards of the PCAOB.[2] Audit documentation is the written record of the basis of the auditor's conclusions and provides the support for the auditor's representations in the audit report,[3] including the representation that an audit was conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards.[4]

13. Thus, documentation of an audit must support that the auditor complied with PCAOB and SEC independence requirements. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client, including by satisfying the independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[5] One such criterion is set out in Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, which provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer…to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's…audit committee."[6]

IV.

29. Baker Tilly has represented to the Board that it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing it with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications:

a. Baker Tilly implemented new template work papers for documenting pre-approval of services by audit committees;

b. Baker Tilly communicated requirements related to documenting pre-approval of services by audit committees to all personnel working on issuer audits through an updated policy and guidance;

c. Baker Tilly required senior audit professionals to attend webinars concerning, among other things, PCAOB and SEC independence requirements and related documentation requirements;

d. Baker Tilly updated an internal publication and template audit work paper checklist related to audit committee communications; and

e. Baker Tilly required senior audit professionals to attend webinars concerning, among other things, required audit committee communications.

V.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $80,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required to comply with its revised policies and procedures, including those intended to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Grant Thornton Bharat LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-007

February 20, 2024

(1) censuring Grant Thornton Bharat LLP ("GT India," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of an issuer client, in violation of AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees, and failed to make, or obtain evidence management made, other required audit committee communications, in violation of AS 2805, Management Representations, and AS 1301, all in connection with the audits of WNS Holdings Limited ("WNS").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, GT India has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Grant Thornton Bharat LLP is a limited liability partnership headquartered in New Delhi, India, and is a member of the Grant Thornton global network of firms ("GT International"). At all relevant times, GT India was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the time period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for one issuer client.

B. Issuer

2. WNS Holdings Limited is a limited company headquartered in Mumbai, India. At all relevant times, WNS was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On May 14, 2021, GT India issued an audit report on WNS's financial statements that WNS included in its Form 20-F Annual Report filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2021 (the "Audit").

C. Other Relevant Entities

3. Walker Chandiok & Co. LLP ("Walker Chandiok") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in New Delhi, India. At all relevant times, Walker Chandiok was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. GT India supervised individuals affiliated with Walker Chandiok who performed certain audit procedures in connection with the Audit.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Firm's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

4. Grant Thornton Limited ("GT Channel Islands") is a limited liability corporation headquartered in Saint Helier, Isle of Jersey, and a member of GT International. At all relevant times, GT Channel Islands was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. GT Channel Islands performed certain audit procedures in connection with the Audit.

5. SizweNtsalubaGobodo Grant Thornton Inc. ("GT South Africa") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in Johannesburg, South Africa, and a member of GT International. At all relevant times, GT South Africa was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. GT South Africa performed certain audit procedures in connection with the Audit.

6. Grant Thornton UK LLP ("GT UK") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in London, United Kingdom, and a member of GT International. At all relevant times, GT UK was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. GT UK performed certain audit procedures in connection with the Audit.

7. The entities described in paragraphs 3 through 6 are "public accounting firms," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii).

D. GT India Failed to Communicate to WNS's Audit Committee Information About Other Independent Public Accounting Firms that Performed Audit Procedures in the Audit, in Violation of AS 1301

8. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor must communicate with a client's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[3]

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (August 15, 2012).

9. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[4] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[5]

10. In connection with the Audit, GT India failed to inform WNS's audit committee of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of the following independent public accounting firms that were not employed by GT India that performed audit procedures in the Audit: GT Channel Islands, GT South Africa, and GT UK. GT India also failed to inform WNS's audit committee of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of the individuals affiliated with Walker Chandiok.

11. Accordingly, GT India violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the Audit.

E. GT India Failed to Ensure that WNS's Audit Committee Had Received a Copy of Management's Representation Letter, in Violation of AS 2805 and 1301

12. PCAOB standards provide that the auditor should obtain written representations from management "for all financial statements and periods covered by the auditor's report."[6] PCAOB standards also specify that the auditor should provide a copy of the representation letter to the audit committee if management has not already done so.[7] PCAOB

[5] Id. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." standards further specify that the auditor should communicate to the audit committee any other material written communications between the auditor and management.[8]

13. In connection with the Audit, GT India failed to provide a copy of management's representation letter to WNS's audit committee or otherwise to obtain evidence that WNS's management had itself provided a copy of the representation letter to the audit committee.

14. Accordingly, GT India violated AS 2805.05 and 1301.20 in connection with the Audit.

IV.

15. GT India has represented to the Board that, since these deficiencies were identified by the PCAOB during its 2022 inspection, it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing GT India with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees:

a. GT India has implemented updated audit planning guidance for communicating the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms performing audit procedures in an audit; and

b. GT India has communicated this updated guidance through training materials to relevant assurance personnel; and

c. GT India has provided training to its assurance partners on compliance with PCAOB standards concerning the provision of management representation letters.

V.

[8] AS 1301.20.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), GT India is required to comply with its audit committee communications policies and procedures, including:

1. those intended to provide reasonable assurance that, as part of communicating its overall audit strategy, GT India communicates with the audit committee or functional equivalent the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the audit; and

2. those intended to provide reasonable assurance that GT India obtains written representations from management for all financial statements and periods covered by its audit report, and to provide a copy of the representation letter to the audit committee if management has not already done so.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Mazars USA LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-008

February 20, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Mazars USA LLP ("Mazars," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $60,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of its issuer audit clients, Inter Parfums, Inc. ("Inter Parfums") and Medallion Financial Corp. ("Medallion"), in violation of AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Mazars has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Mazars USA LLP is a limited liability partnership headquartered in New York, New York. At all relevant times, Mazars was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm issued audit reports for fifteen issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. Inter Parfums, Inc. is a corporation incorporated in Delaware with principal executive offices in New York, New York. Its public filings disclose that it manufactures, markets, and distributes fragrances and fragrance related products. At all relevant times, Inter Parfums was an "issuer," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On March 1, 2021, Mazars issued an audit report on Inter Parfums' financial statements that Inter Parfums included in its Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") for fiscal year ending December 31, 2020 (the "Inter Parfums Audit").

3. Medallion Financial Corp. is a corporation incorporated in Delaware with principal executive offices in New York, New York. Its public filings disclose that it is a finance company that operates through Medallion Bank, which originates consumer loans. At all relevant times, Medallion was an "issuer," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On March 15, 2021, Mazars issued an audit report on Medallion's financial statements that Medallion included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission for fiscal year ending December 31, 2020 (the "Medallion Audit").

C. Other Relevant Entities

4. GreerWalker LLP ("GreerWalker") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in Charlotte, North Carolina. GreerWalker is a "public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii). At all relevant times, GreerWalker was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. GreerWalker performed audit procedures for the Medallion Audit.

5. Mazars Advisory LLP ("Mazars Advisory") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in India that contracted with Mazars to provide staffing and services. Mazars Advisory provided a professional to work on each of the Inter Parfums Audit and the Medallion Audit under the supervision of Mazars.

D. Mazars Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301

6. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor must communicate with a client's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment procedures.[3]

7. As part of communicating the overall audit strategy, an auditor should also communicate:

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16, Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (August 15, 2012).

- the nature and extent of specialized skill or knowledge needed to perform the planned audit procedures or evaluate the audit results related to significant risks;[4]

- the extent to which the auditor plans to use the work of internal auditors, company personnel (in addition to internal auditors), and third parties working under the direction of management or the audit committee when performing an audit of internal control over financial reporting;[5] and

- the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[6] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[7]

8. In addition, PCAOB auditing standards require an auditor to communicate certain matters related to the results of the audit to the issuer's audit committee.[8] The matters to be communicated include the auditor's evaluation of the quality of the issuer's financial reporting related to qualitative aspects of significant accounting policies and practices; the auditor's assessment of critical accounting policies and practices; and the auditor's conclusions regarding critical accounting estimates.[9]

9. In connection with the Inter Parfums Audit, Mazars failed to inform Inter Parfums' audit committee of the significant risks identified during its risk assessment procedures related to inventory, accounts payable, and other liabilities for entities affiliated with Inter Parfums. In addition, Mazars failed to inform Inter Parfums' audit committee of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of a person employed by Mazars Advisory and not employed by Mazars that performed audit procedures for the Inter Parfums Audit.

10. Accordingly, Mazars violated AS 1301.09 and .10d in connection with the Inter Parfums Audit.

11. In connection with the Medallion Audit, Mazars failed to communicate the following to Medallion's audit committee:

- the significant risk identified during Mazars' risk assessment procedures related to management override of controls;

- the nature and extent of specialized skill or knowledge needed to perform the planned audit procedures or evaluate the results of the procedures related to the impairment valuation analysis of goodwill and intangible assets, which were areas of significant risks;

- the extent to which the engagement team planned to use the work of internal auditors when performing its audit of internal control over financial reporting;

- the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of (a) an other independent public accounting firm (GreerWalker) and (b) an other person, who was not employed by Mazars (the Mazars Advisory professional), each of which performed audit procedures for the Medallion Audit; and

- the final results of the Medallion Audit, including Mazars' evaluation of the quality of Medallion's financial reporting related to qualitative aspects of significant accounting policies and practices, its assessment of critical accounting policies and practices, and its conclusions regarding critical accounting estimates.

12. Accordingly, Mazars violated AS 1301.09, .10a, .10c, .10d, and .13a-c in connection with the Medallion Audit.

IV.

13. Mazars has represented to the Board that, since this deficiency was identified by the PCAOB during its 2021 inspection, it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing it with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees:

a. Mazars has implemented an updated audit committee communications template to assist engagement teams with appropriately capturing all required audit committee communications;

b. Mazars has communicated the updated template to personnel, and has communicated that the template is mandatory; and

c. Mazars engaged an external consultant to develop and deliver training on AS 1301, and Mazars required relevant personnel to complete the training.

V.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $60,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), Mazars is required to comply with its audit committee communications policies and procedures, including those intended to provide reasonable assurance that Mazars communicates to the audit committee the information required by AS 1301.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of SW Audit,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-009

February 20, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring SW Audit ("SW Audit," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $60,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB and SEC independence requirements, PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees, and PCAOB standards for timely assembly and retention of audit documentation.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules relating to independence in connection with the audits of an issuer audit client, Prime Global Capital Group Incorporated ("Prime Global"); failed to make certain required audit committee communications with respect to another issuer audit client, Kibush Capital Corp. ("Kibush"), and failed to establish and implement a system of quality control that provided reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable PCAOB rules and standards.[1]

[1] All references to PCAOB rules and standards in this Order are to the versions of those rules and standards, and to their organization and numbering, in effect at the time of the audits and reviews discussed herein.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted against Respondent pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1).

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, SW Audit has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. SW Audit (f/k/a ShineWing Australia) is an unincorporated partnership headquartered in Melbourne, Australia. It is a member of the ShineWing International Ltd. network of firms ("ShineWing International"). At all relevant times, SW Audit was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for approximately three issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. Prime Global Capital Group Incorporated is a corporation headquartered in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. Its public filings disclose that it operates palm and durian plantations as well as a real estate business in Malaysia. At all relevant times, Prime Global was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On January 29,

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Firm's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

2019, SW Audit issued an audit report on Prime Global's financial statements that Prime Global included in its Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the fiscal year ended October 31, 2018 (the "2018 Prime Global Audit").

3. Kibush Capital Corp. is a corporation headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada. Its public filings disclose that it is a mineral and natural resources exploration company. At all relevant times, Kibush was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On August 31, 2021, SW Audit issued an audit report on Kibush's financial statements that Kibush included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended September 30, 2020 (the "2020 Kibush Audit").

C. Other Relevant Entity

4. ShineWing TY Teoh PLT ("ShineWing Malaysia") is headquartered in Petaling Jaya, Malaysia and is a member of ShineWing International. At all relevant times, ShineWing Malaysia was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. ShineWing Malaysia performed audit procedures on the 2018 Prime Global Audit and performed statutory audits and tax compliance services for Prime Global subsidiaries.

D. SW Audit Failed to Satisfy Independence Requirements in Violation of PCAOB Rules 3520 and 3524

5. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[3] That requirement includes an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB and all other independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[4]

i. SW Audit Failed to Obtain Audit Committee Pre-Approval of Tax Compliance and Other Services

6. Rule 3524, Audit Committee Pre-approval of Certain Tax Services, provides that, in connection with seeking audit committee pre-approval to perform for an issuer audit client any permissible tax service, a registered public accounting firm shall describe, in writing, to the audit committee of the issuer, among other things, the scope of the service, the fee structure of the engagement, and any side letter or other amendment to the engagement letter, or any other agreement between the firm and the audit client relating to the service.

7. Rule 2-01(c)(7) of Commission Regulation S-X provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer…to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's…audit committee."[5]

8. SW Audit served as Prime Global's auditor for the 2018 Prime Global Audit.

9. At the same time SW Audit performed the 2018 Prime Global Audit, its affiliate, ShineWing Malaysia, provided statutory audit and tax compliance services for subsidiaries of Prime Global.

10. SW Audit failed, however, to obtain pre-approval from Prime Global's audit committee for ShineWing Malaysia to provide these services.

11. Accordingly, SW Audit violated Rule 3520 and Rule 3524 by not fulfilling the requirements of Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, and thus was not independent of Prime Global.

ii. SW Audit Failed to Satisfy Independence Rules by Seeking to Limit Its Liability Through Its Agreement with an Issuer Client

12. Rule 2-01(b) of Commission Regulation S-X provides that "[t]he Commission will not recognize an accountant as independent, with respect to an audit client, if the accountant is not, or a reasonable investor with knowledge of all relevant facts and circumstances would conclude that the accountant is not, capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment on all issues encompassed within the accountant's engagement. In determining whether an accountant is independent, the Commission will consider all relevant circumstances, including all relationships between the accountant and the audit client, and not just those relating to reports filed with the Commission."[6]

[6] 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(b).

13. Under relevant independence criteria, entering into an indemnity agreement with a client impairs an auditor's independence.[7]

14. The executed audit engagement letter between SW Audit and Prime Global for the 2018 Prime Global Audit included the following language indemnifying SW Audit against a variety of claims and damages arising from SW Audit's provision of audit services to Prime Global:

> 18. Exclusions and limitations of liability: You indemnify ShineWing Australia for any claims, demands, causes of action, losses and damages (including potential losses), business interruptions, loss of data, failure to realise anticipated savings or benefits whatsoever incurred by or awarded against you, . . . liabilities, costs (including legal costs on an indemnity basis) or expenses . . . that may be suffered or incurred by us as a result of any breach by you of a term of this Contract.[8]

15. Accordingly, SW Audit violated Rule 3520 by not fulfilling the requirements of Rule 2-01(b) of Commission Regulation S-X, and thus was not independent of Prime Global.

E. SW Audit Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301 and AS 1305

16. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor must communicate with a client's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[9] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the

Further, including in engagement letters a clause that an issuer would release, indemnify or hold harmless from any liability and costs resulting from knowing misrepresentations by management would also impair the firm's independence.").

timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[10]

17. PCAOB standards specify that auditors should communicate to the audit committee "[a]ll critical accounting policies and practices to be used, including (1) The reasons certain policies and practices are considered critical; and (2) How current and anticipated future events might affect the determination of whether certain policies and practices are considered critical."[11]

18. An auditor should also communicate to the audit committee (1) the auditor's evaluation of certain matters relevant to the quality of the issuer's financial reporting;[12] (2) the auditor's responsibility under PCAOB rules and standards with respect to other information presented in documents containing audited financial statements, any related procedures performed, and the results of such procedures;[13] and (3) any significant difficulties encountered during the audit.[14]

19. An auditor must also communicate in writing to the audit committee all significant deficiencies and material weaknesses identified during the audit.[15]

20. In connection with the 2020 Kibush Audit, SW Audit communicated with Kibush's audit committee concerning certain matters related to independence, going concern, internal controls, misstatements, and areas of audit focus. But the Firm failed to inform Kibush's audit committee of the following, as required by PCAOB standards: (i) critical accounting policies and practices, including the reasons certain policies and practices were considered critical, and how current and anticipated future events might affect the determination of whether certain

In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. policies and practices were considered critical; (ii) SW Audit's evaluation of matters relevant to the quality of an issuer's financial reporting; (iii) SW Audit's responsibility under PCAOB rules and standards with respect to other information presented in documents containing audited financial statements, any related procedures performed, and the results of such procedures; and (iv) any significant difficulties encountered in performing the audit.

21. SW Audit also failed to inform Kibush's audit committee in writing about the material weaknesses included in Kibush's Form 10-K filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended September 30, 2020.

22. Accordingly, SW Audit violated AS 1301.12b, .13, .14, .23, and AS 1305.04 in connection with the 2020 Kibush Audit.

F. SW Audit's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Compliance with PCAOB Rules and Standards

23. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[16] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[17] A firm's system of quality control provides a critical foundation and infrastructure for a firm's audit quality as it should "ensure that services are competently delivered and adequately supervised."[18] "A system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality."[19]

24. As described below, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

17 See QC 20.01, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice.

18 QC § 20.02.

19 QC § 20.03.

i. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Independence

25. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that "personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances."[20]

26. At all relevant times, the Firm failed to maintain effective policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that personnel would maintain their independence. While the Firm required engagement team members to sign independence confirmations in connection with issuer audits, these confirmations did not specifically address the independence of engagement team members with respect to an issuer and its affiliates in accordance with PCAOB and SEC independence requirements.

27. Accordingly, the Firm violated QC § 20.09.

ii. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Assembly of Audit Documentation for Retention

28. A firm's quality control policies and procedures should also address the documentation of each engagement in accordance with applicable professional standards.[21] One of these standards is AS 1215, Audit Documentation, which provides that "[t]he auditor must prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB."[22] "A complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[23]

29. At all relevant times, the Firm failed to maintain effective policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 1215's requirements regarding audit documentation. Rather, the Firm had a policy requiring that audit documentation be assembled for retention not more than 60 days after the report release date, which was inconsistent with AS 1215's 45-day requirement.

21 QC §§ 20.03, .17, .18.

22 AS 1215.04.

23 AS 1215.15.

30. Accordingly, the Firm violated QC §§ 20.17 and .18.

IV.

31. SW Audit has represented to the Board that it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing it with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB and SEC independence requirements, PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees, and PCAOB standards for timely retention of audit documentation:

a. SW Audit implemented templates for group audit engagements to facilitate pre-approval of services from issuer audit committees;

b. SW Audit implemented engagement letter templates for issuer audit engagements that omit any indemnification clause;

c. SW Audit revised its independence confirmations for issuer audit engagements to include individuals' independence pursuant to PCAOB and SEC requirements;

d. SW Audit required relevant personnel to complete training concerning, inter alia, PCAOB and SEC independence requirements, documentation assembly and retention requirements, and required audit committee communications; and

e. SW Audit engaged an external quality advisor and hired an audit technical director to improve the Firm's system of quality control.

V.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $60,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required to comply with its revised policies and procedures, including those intended to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel (1) comply with PCAOB and SEC independence requirements; (2) communicate to the audit committee required information; and (3) prepare, assemble, and retain audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of WithumSmith+Brown, PC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-010

February 20, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring WithumSmith+Brown, PC ("Withum," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $2 million on the Firm;

(3) requiring Withum to engage an independent consultant who will review and make recommendations concerning Withum's quality control policies and procedures;

(4) requiring Withum to implement all recommendations of the independent consultant; and

(5) requiring Withum to conduct certain training for all audit staff.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards by failing to take sufficient steps to ensure that its system of quality control provided reasonable assurance that: (1) the Firm would comply with the requirements regarding the acceptance of issuer clients and engagements, and (2) its personnel would comply with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

I.

pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1).

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. WithumSmith+Brown, PC is a professional corporation headquartered in Princeton, New Jersey. Withum is licensed by the New Jersey State Board of Accountancy (License No. 20CB00149600) and several other states. Withum is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the PCAOB, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and quality control standards during the time period from January 2020 through April 2022. The Firm's system of quality control failed to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm would: (a) undertake only those issuer engagements that the Firm could reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence and appropriately consider the risks associated with providing professional services in the particular circumstances; (b) ensure that partner workloads were manageable to allow sufficient time for engagement partners to discharge their responsibilities with professional competence and due care; (c) ensure that personnel were consulting with individuals within or outside the Firm, when appropriate, when dealing with complex issues; (d) perform sufficient procedures to test estimates, including sufficiently evaluating the reasonableness of certain significant assumptions underlying the estimate; (e) make all required communications to issuer audit committees; (f) perform sufficient procedures to determine whether certain matters were critical audit matters ("CAMs"); (g) perform sufficient procedures to test journal entries; and (h) timely file Form APs.

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

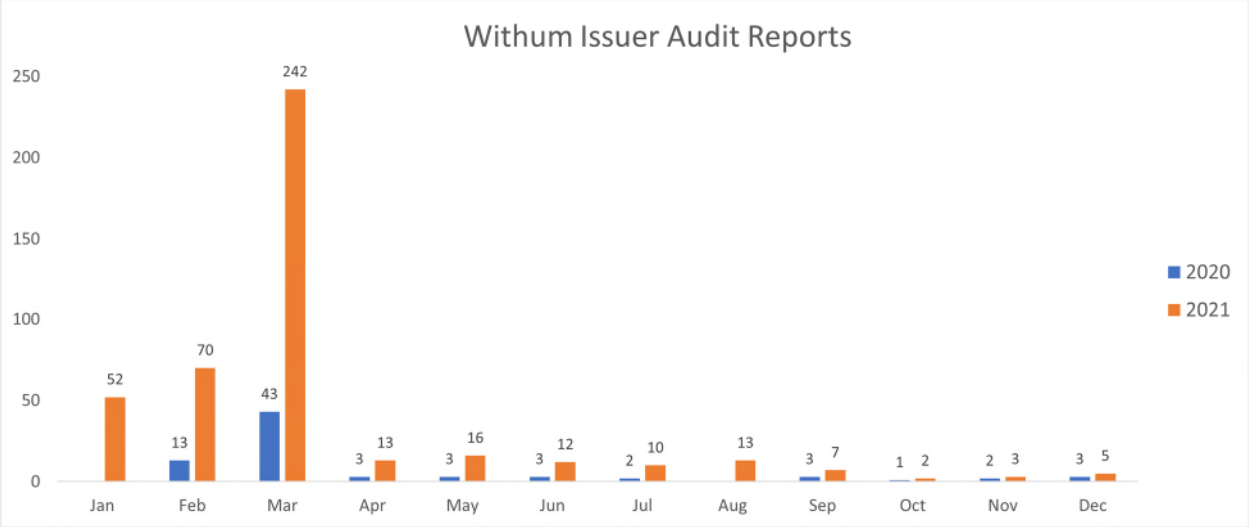
C. Background

3. From January 2020 through December 2021, Withum accepted a substantial number of issuer audit clients, including hundreds of special purpose acquisition companies ("SPACs"), resulting in a significant increase in its issuer audit practice. The Firm added 273 new issuer clients in 2020 and another 157 new issuer clients in 2021. A substantial portion of these client additions occurred during the six months from September 2020 to February 2021, with the largest monthly increase of 98 new issuer clients occurring in December 2020.

4. During 2021, there was a corresponding spike in issuer audit reports Withum issued in comparison with the prior year. Overall, in 2021, Withum issued 445 issuer audit reports, an increase of 369 (or 486%) over the 76 audit reports issued in 2020, as shown in the below chart.



5. Despite the 486% increase in issuer audit reports issued in 2021, the number of engagement partners responsible for these issuer audit reports increased from 15 in 2020 to only 23 in 2021, an increase of 8 (or 53%). This relatively small increase in engagement partners, when compared to the corresponding increase in issuer audits, led to a large number of issuer engagements being assigned to certain partners. For example, during 2021, there were five engagement partners who were each responsible for 40 or more issuer audits. In fact, these five engagement partners issued 275 audit reports constituting 62% of Withum's total issuer audit reports in 2021. This led to significant workloads for these partners.

6. As shown in the chart below, during Withum's 2021 busy season, from January through March 2021, the average billable utilization for the group of five engagement partners responsible for 40 or more issuer audits was 141%, 148%, and 178%, for each month, respectively.[3] In addition to the billable hours worked, these five partners also averaged 15 hours per week on non-billable work over the same period, which further added to the workload for these partners.[4] Engagement Partner 1, who had the highest number of assigned issuer audits, also had the highest monthly utilization during the period of 220% in March 2021. Moreover, for two weeks during March 2021, Engagement Partner 1 was working approximately 100 hours per week.

Utilization Summary

Engagement Partner	Number of audit reports issued in 2021	Utilization - January 2021 (%)	Utilization - February 2021 (%)	Utilization - March 2021 (%)
Engagement Partner 1	73	184%	165%	220%
Engagement Partner 2	62	138%	154%	197%
Engagement Partner 3	52	132%	162%	168%
Engagement Partner 4	44	137%	153%	155%
Engagement Partner 5	44	114%	104%	150%
Average	55	141%	148%	178%

[3] Utilization rate measures workload and productivity, and the rate is calculated by dividing client billable hours worked in the period by the number of available work hours for the partners in the period based on a forty-hour work week.

[4] Non-billable work included, among other things, time spent on business development, proposals, client acceptance, and practice management.

D. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

7. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[5] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[6] A firm's system of quality control provides a critical foundation and infrastructure for a firm's audit quality, as it should "ensure that services are competently delivered and adequately supervised."[7] "A system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality."[8]

8. As described below, Withum failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

i. Withum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Acceptance of Issuer Clients and Partner Workload

9. PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm establish quality control policies and procedures for deciding whether to accept or continue a client relationship and whether to perform a specific engagement for that client.[9] Such policies and procedures should provide reasonable assurance that the firm undertakes only those engagements that the firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence, and appropriately considers the risks associated with providing professional services in the particular circumstances.[10] In addition, policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that work is assigned to personnel having the degree of proficiency required under the circumstances.[11]

10. In accepting hundreds of new SPAC issuer clients, Withum failed to properly consider whether it could complete the new engagements with professional competence, given the competing time demands on the Firm's partners assigned to lead and execute the audits and perform the engagement quality reviews for all of its issuer clients. Withum also failed to timely implement sufficient policies and procedures as to client acceptance to manage the large influx of new SPAC audit clients.

11. The Firm, therefore, violated QC § 20 by failing to have adequate policies and procedures related to: (a) client acceptance and continuance sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that it undertook only those engagements that it could reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence; (b) appropriately considering the risks associated with providing professional services in particular circumstances; and (c) assigning work to personnel having the requisite proficiency required in the circumstances, specifically taking into consideration competing time demands on the Firm's personnel when assigning individuals to lead issuer audits. These failures resulted in, or contributed to, the Firm's acceptance of hundreds of new issuer audit clients without appropriate processes in place for determining whether it had sufficient capacity to accept such clients and ensuring that partner workloads were manageable so that engagement partners and engagement quality reviewers could discharge their responsibilities with professional competence.[12]

ii. Withum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance that Personnel Would Consult With Others When Dealing with Complex Issues

12. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[13]

13. A registered public accounting firm should also establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that personnel refer to authoritative literature

13 QC §§ 20.03, .17.

or other sources and consult, on a timely basis, with individuals within or outside the firm, when appropriate (for example, when dealing with complex, unusual, or unfamiliar issues).[14]

14. During the relevant time period, 143 of Withum's SPAC and former SPAC audit clients restated their financial statements for incorrect accounting related to the classification of warrants in accordance with ASC Topic 815, Derivatives and Hedging, and the classification of redeemable shares in accordance with ASC Topic 480, Distinguishing Liabilities from Equity. Although the Firm's policies required a consultation for "complex debt and equity transactions," "restatement issues," or "complex SEC issues," Withum's engagement teams did not consult with individuals within or outside the Firm in connection with the audits of most SPAC restatements.

15. Similarly, the Firm's policies required a consultation for "Mergers / acquisitions and business combinations," yet Withum's engagement teams did not consult with individuals within or outside the Firm for most audits involving business combinations during the relevant period.

16. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel consulted with individuals within or outside the Firm, when appropriate.

iii. Withum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Testing Estimates

17. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[15] AS 2501, Auditing Accounting Estimates, Including Fair Value Measurements, establishes requirements for auditing accounting estimates in significant accounts and disclosures in financial statements, including that an auditor "identify which of the assumptions used by the company are significant assumptions to the accounting estimate, that is, the assumptions that are important to the recognition or measurement of the accounting estimate in the financial statements."[16] AS 2501 further states that an "auditor should evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by the company to develop the [accounting] estimate, both

16 AS 2501.15.

individually and in combination."[17] That includes evaluating whether "[t]he company has a reasonable basis for the significant assumptions used and, when applicable, for its selection of assumptions from a range of potential assumptions," and that the significant assumptions are consistent with "relevant industry, regulatory, and other external factors."[18] Moreover, when a significant assumption is based on a company's intent and ability to carry out a particular course of action, the auditor should take into account certain relevant factors in evaluating the reasonableness of the assumption.[19]

18. When a specialist employed or engaged by the company assists the company in developing an accounting estimate, the auditor should follow the requirements in Appendix A of AS 1105, Audit Evidence, when using the work of a company's specialist as audit evidence.[20] AS 1105 states that an auditor should test the accuracy and completeness of company-produced data used by the specialist and evaluate the relevance and reliability of data from sources external to the company that are used by the specialist, evaluate whether the significant assumptions used by the specialist are reasonable, and evaluate whether the methods used by the specialist are appropriate under the circumstances, taking into account the requirements of the applicable financial reporting framework.[21]

19. When the engagement team uses an auditor-employed specialist, AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement, states that the engagement partner and, as applicable, other engagement team members performing supervisory activities should "evaluate whether the specialist's work provides sufficient appropriate evidence."[22]

20. In connection with certain audits performed during the relevant period, Withum failed to test accounting estimates in accordance with these PCAOB standards. For example, in connection with the audits of several of the SPAC restatements noted above, Withum failed to perform sufficient procedures to test the valuation of the restated warrant liabilities. During these audits, Withum failed to sufficiently evaluate the reasonableness of certain significant assumptions used by the company or the company's specialist in determining an estimate of the fair value of the warrant liability and, in instances where Withum used an auditor-employed specialist, failed to identify that the auditor-employed specialist's work did not provide sufficient appropriate evidence.

21. In addition, during several audits involving business combinations, Withum failed to sufficiently evaluate the reasonableness of certain significant assumptions used by the company and/or the company's specialist in determining an estimate of the fair value of certain acquired assets. In another audit, Withum failed to sufficiently evaluate the reasonableness of company-prepared revenue forecasts that were used by the company's specialist in a cash-flow model to estimate the fair value of intangible assets in connection with its impairment analysis.

22. These failures illustrate that Withum violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that the work performed by Firm personnel with respect to testing accounting estimates met the requirements of AS 1105, AS 1201, and AS 2501.

iv. Withum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Audit Committee Communications

23. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[23] AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees, requires an auditor to communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[24] AS 1301 states that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate to the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[25]

24. In order to manage the increased workload from the significant increase in SPAC audit clients, from January 1, 2021, through April 30, 2022, Withum engaged individuals from Staffing Accountants LLC d/b/a SAPRO to perform audit procedures on approximately 477 audits. For 471 of those audits, Withum failed to communicate the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of these individuals or SAPRO to the respective audit committees.

23 QC §§ 20.03, .17.

25 AS 1301.10d.

25. In addition, to assist with completing the large number of SPAC restatements in 2021, from January 1, 2021, through June 30, 2021, Withum engaged specialists, who were not employed by Withum, to perform audit procedures on approximately 38 audits. For 27 of those audits, Withum failed to communicate the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of these specialists to the respective audit committees.

26. These failures illustrate that Withum violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 1301.

v. Withum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Determining Critical Audit Matters

27. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[26] AS 3101, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion, "establishes requirements regarding the content of the auditor's written report when the auditor expresses an unqualified opinion on the financial statements."[27] Among other things, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any critical audit matters in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[28] A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[29] The requirement to evaluate CAMs took effect for audits of large accelerated filers for fiscal years ending on or after June 30, 2019, and on or after December 15, 2020, for audits of all other required companies.

28. In developing its audit programs for the evaluation of CAMs, Withum failed to develop sufficient guidance to reasonably assure that engagement teams properly evaluated the complete population of potential CAMs.[30] As a result, Withum failed to properly evaluate in certain issuer audits whether one or more matters were CAMs. Although such matters were required to be communicated to audit committees under AS 1301, and related to accounts or disclosures that were material to the financial statements, Withum failed to properly evaluate whether the matters involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment.

29. Withum therefore violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 3101.

vi. Withum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Journal Entry Testing

30. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[31] AS 2401, Consideration of Fraud in a Financial Statement Audit, specifies that "[m]aterial misstatements of financial statements due to fraud often involve the manipulation of the financial reporting process by (a) recording inappropriate or unauthorized journal entries throughout the year or at period end, or (b) making adjustments to amounts reported in the financial statements that are not reflected in formal journal entries[.]"[32] Accordingly, auditors are instructed to "[i]dentify and select journal entries and other adjustments for testing."[33] Among other things, "even though controls [over the preparation and posting of journal entries and adjustments] might be implemented and operating effectively, the auditor's substantive procedures for testing journal entries and other adjustments should include the identification and substantive testing of specific items."[34] "[T]he auditor's procedures should include selecting from the general ledger journal entries to be tested and examining support for those items."[35]

31. AS 2401 also specifies that "management is in a unique position to perpetuate fraud because of its ability to directly or indirectly manipulate accounting records and prepare fraudulent financial statements by overriding established controls . . . ."[36] Accordingly, auditors

34 Id. at .61.

35 Id.

36 Id. at .57.

should perform procedures to specifically address the risk of management override of controls.[37]

32. In certain audits during the relevant period, Withum failed to perform sufficient procedures to test journal entries in accordance with AS 2401. Specifically, in response to an identified fraud risk concerning management override of controls, Firm personnel determined risk characteristics for selecting journal entries and obtained a listing of all journal entries that met the risk characteristics. However, Firm personnel did not perform sufficient procedures to test those journal entries because the engagement teams examined the underlying support for only certain journal entries from the listing of entries that met the established risk characteristics, without having an appropriate rationale for limiting testing to only those journal entries.

33. For example, during one audit, Firm personnel identified thousands of journal entries that met their established risk characteristics. However, the engagement team examined the underlying support for only three of the journal entries, without having an appropriate rationale for limiting its testing to those journal entries. In another audit, Firm personnel did not examine the underlying support for any of the journal entries that met the engagement team's established risk characteristics and instead limited their procedures to evaluating journal entry descriptions and/or relying on its understanding of the journal entries obtained from other audit procedures.

34. These failures illustrate that Withum violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that the work performed by Firm personnel with respect to testing journal entries met the requirements of AS 2401.

vii. Withum's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants

---

38 QC §§ 20.03, .17.

firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"),[39] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement under the Securities Act of 1933 filed with the Commission.[40]

36. Due to the sizable increase in issuer clients in late 2020 and early 2021, and the expected increase in the number of audit reports that would be issued in that period, Withum's policies and procedures related to Form AP were insufficient to manage the increased volume of Form AP reporting obligations.

37. From January 1, 2021, through December 31, 2021, the Firm failed to timely file Form APs with respect to 64 audit reports for 56 issuers.

38. These failures illustrate that the Firm violated QC § 20 by failing to maintain effective policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with the requirements of PCAOB Rule 3211.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Withum is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), the Board imposes a civil money penalty in the amount of $2 million on Withum.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by

[39] PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1).

[40] In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(C) and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(3), (8) and (9), the Board orders that:

1. Self-Assessment

    a. Withum shall undertake a self-assessment of its system of quality control, including its Quality Control Manual, to ensure its current policies and procedures are compliant with PCAOB quality control standards.

2. Independent Consultant

    a. Withum shall retain and pay for an independent consultant not unacceptable to the PCAOB staff who has the experience with, and is knowledgeable concerning, PCAOB quality control and auditing standards ("Independent Consultant") to review Withum's system of quality control applicable to audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards. Within thirty days after the entry of this Order, Withum shall submit to the PCAOB staff a proposal setting forth the identity, qualifications, and proposed terms of retention of the Independent Consultant.

    b. To ensure the independence of the Independent Consultant, Withum: (i) shall not have the authority to terminate the Independent Consultant or substitute another independent consultant for the initial Independent Consultant, without the prior written approval of the PCAOB staff; and (ii) shall compensate the Independent Consultant and persons engaged to assist the Independent Consultant for services rendered pursuant to this Order at their reasonable and customary rates.

    c. Withum shall cooperate fully with the Independent Consultant and shall provide reasonable access to its personnel, information, and records as the Independent Consultant may reasonably request for the Independent Consultant's review, evaluation, and reports.

    d. If Withum, despite its best, good faith efforts, is unable to identify an Independent Consultant candidate that meets all of the above-listed criteria, it may seek approval from the PCAOB staff of alternative candidates or alternative terms that Withum believes to be otherwise suitable.

e. Within 90 days of this Order, Withum will review, evaluate, and implement, under the supervision of the Independent Consultant, any necessary enhancements to Withum's quality control policies and procedures applicable to audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards. If, as a result of that review and evaluation, it appears to the Independent Consultant that any further enhancements to the system of quality control are necessary, the Independent Consultant shall recommend such enhancements to Withum.

f. Within 180 days of this Order, Withum shall (i) implement any recommendations received from the Independent Consultant, pursuant to Section IV.C.2.e, and (ii) require the Independent Consultant to review a sample of the Firm's most recent issuer audits for compliance with PCAOB auditing standards.

3. Firm Certification

a. Within 270 days of the date of this Order, Withum shall certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, PCAOB, 1666 K Street N.W., Washington, DC 20006, the Firm's compliance with the above paragraphs ("Final Certification"). The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The certification shall include a description of the specific enhancements implemented to Withum's system of quality control since the time of the conduct described in this Order. If Withum does not implement recommendations received from the Independent Consultant pursuant to Section IV.C.2.e, the certification shall identify the recommendations of the Independent Consultant Withum did not implement and explain the reasons for not doing so. Withum shall also submit additional information as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

b. For good cause shown, the PCAOB staff may extend any of the procedural dates relating to these undertakings. Deadlines for procedural dates shall be counted in calendar days, except that if the last day falls on a weekend or federal holiday, the next business day shall be considered the last day.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Withum is required, as of the date of the Final Certification, to have conducted training related to changes to the Firm's policies and procedures that resulted from the review of Withum's quality control policies and procedures conducted by Withum or the Independent Consultant pursuant to Section IV.C.2.e-.f

E. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings and conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Gries & Associates, LLC, and Blaze Gries, CPA,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-011

March 5, 2024

(1) Censuring Gries & Associates, LLC (the "Firm"), and Blaze Gries, CPA ("Gries") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) Revoking the Firm's registration;[1]

(3) Barring Gries from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[2]

(4) Imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $65,000 jointly and severally upon the Firm and Gries; and

(5) Before reassociating with a registered public accounting firm, requiring that Gries complete twenty-four hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after one year from the date of this Order.

[2] Gries may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one year from the date of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audit of the fiscal year 2021 financial statements of Tingo, Inc. (the "Audit").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. Gries & Associates, LLC, a Colorado limited liability company, is a public accounting firm headquartered in Denver, Colorado, and is registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm's license with the Colorado Division of

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

Professions and Occupations (license no. FRM.5000533) expired on August 31, 2023. The Firm served as the auditor of Tingo, Inc. for fiscal years 2021 and 2022.

2. Blaze Gries was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Colorado (license no. CPA.9035290). He is the sole partner and owner of the Firm, and an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). He served as the engagement partner for the Audit.

B. Relevant Entity

3. Tingo, Inc. ("Tingo") was, at all relevant times, a Nevada corporation with principal executive offices in New York, New York. The company's filings described it as an agri-fintech company offering a platform service through the use of smartphones – "device as a service" – to facilitate a marketplace where subscribers/farmers within and outside of the agricultural sector can sell their crops to market participants. Tingo disclosed that, in 2021, its operations in Nigeria generated the substantial majority of the company's revenue. At all relevant times, Tingo's common stock was registered under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. At all relevant times, Tingo was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Effective May 2023, Tingo changed its name to Agri-Fintech Holdings, Inc.

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the Firm's Audit of the financial statements of Tingo for fiscal year ended December 31, 2021. First, Respondents failed to perform procedures to evaluate the basis of accounting for the business combination that resulted in Tingo. In 2021, Tingo Mobile, PLC ("Tingo Mobile") merged with a company called IWEB, Inc. ("IWEB"), which changed its name to Tingo, Inc. (i.e., "Tingo") as part of the transaction. Tingo's public filings disclose that it accounted for the transaction as an acquisition, as opposed to a reverse acquisition, identifying itself as the acquiring company and Tingo Mobile as the acquired company. Under this basis of accounting, Tingo reported approximately $3.6 billion of goodwill. Four months after the release of Respondents' Audit report, Tingo restated its 2021 financial statements to reflect a reverse acquisition, resulting in removal of the roughly $3.6 billion of goodwill from the company's previously reported total assets of $6.5 billion, a 56% reduction in assets. Respondents failed to evaluate the basis of accounting for the merger, and also failed to resolve several red flags indicating that the transaction should have been accounted for as a reverse acquisition.

5. Second, during the Audit, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to Tingo's accounting for its issuance of Tingo stock as compensation. Tingo's Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2021, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC" or "Commission") on March 31, 2022 (the "Tingo Form 10-K") disclosed that: the company issued stock compensation awards to company insiders and consultants; the majority of the awards vested over a two-year period; and Tingo accounted for share-based compensation under the fair value method, which calls for the compensation expense to be amortized over the course of the award's vesting period. Despite these public disclosures, Tingo's Form 10-K also stated that the company issued $220 million in stock compensation in 2021 and reported this entire amount as an expense in fiscal year 2021, without amortizing any of the expense over the two-year vesting period. Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence supporting this reported expense, and they also failed to resolve red flags indicating that a material portion of the expense should have been amortized over two years. Eight months after the release of Respondents' Audit report, Tingo again restated its 2021 financial statements, which included the deferral of $66 million in stock compensation expense from 2021 to future years.

6. Third, the Firm failed to timely file Form APs, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, due in 2022 for ten audit reports associated with eight issuer audit clients, one of which was Tingo.

7. As detailed below, Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards, including standards requiring them to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism and to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the Firm's audit report containing an unqualified opinion on Tingo's 2021 financial statements.

D. Background

8. IWEB's Form 10-Q for the second quarter of 2021, filed with the Commission on August 23, 2021, disclosed that, as of June 30, 2021, the company's total assets were $6,121, revenue was $0, and total stockholder's equity was negative $207,915. The Form 10-Q also disclosed that, on July 29, 2021, IWEB entered into an agreement to acquire Tingo Mobile, a Nigerian telecommunications company, and to change IWEB's name to Tingo, Inc. prior to closing the agreement.

9. In the Tingo Form 10-K, Tingo disclosed that it had acquired Tingo Mobile in a share exchange with Tingo Mobile's sole shareholder effective August 15, 2021 (the "Acquisition"). The combined entity reported that, as of December 31, 2021, its total assets were $6.5 billion, revenue was $651 million, and total stockholder's equity was $4.4 billion. Tingo also reported that it had approximately 9.3 million subscribers using its mobile phones and payment platform.

10. By July 22, 2022, Tingo had restated its 2021 financial statements, correcting its accounting treatment to reflect the Acquisition as a reverse acquisition of Tingo by Tingo Mobile, instead of as a forward acquisition of Tingo Mobile by Tingo, as was previously presented in Tingo's original Form 10-K for 2021.

11. At the time of the Audit, U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP") provided that one of the combining entities in a business combination transaction must be identified as the acquirer, defined as the entity that obtains control over the acquiree.[5] GAAP also provided that, in a business combination effected primarily through a share exchange (like the Acquisition), various facts should be considered when identifying the acquirer for accounting purposes. These facts include (a) the acquirer usually is the combining entity whose owners as a group retain or receive the largest portion of the voting rights in the combined entity; (b) the acquirer usually is the combining entity whose former management dominates the management of the combined entity; and (c) the acquirer usually is the combining entity whose relative size (measured in, for example, assets or revenues) is significantly larger than that of the other combining entity.[6] Generally, the combined entity's financial reporting should reflect the accounting from the perspective of the acquirer.[7]

12. In Tingo's case, its initial 2021 Form 10-K reflected the accounting from the perspective of Tingo (as the purported acquirer), reporting that the Acquisition resulted in $3.6 billion in goodwill for Tingo. However, a Form 10-K/A filed by Tingo with the Commission on July 22, 2022, corrected the company's accounting to reflect it from the perspective of Tingo Mobile (as the true acquirer), resulting in, among other things, the $3.6 billion in goodwill being removed from Tingo's balance sheet. Total assets were reduced by 56% as a result of the corrections made to goodwill in the amended Form 10-K/A filing.

E. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards During the Audit

i. Relevant PCAOB Auditing Standards

PCAOB's auditing and related professional standards.[8] An auditor is in a position to express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements when the auditor has conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[9]

14. PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit and in the preparation of the report.[10] Due professional care requires that the auditor exercise professional skepticism, which is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence.[11] Professional skepticism requires "an ongoing questioning of whether the information and evidence obtained suggests that a material misstatement due to fraud has occurred."[12]

15. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed in the auditor's report, including obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud.[13]

16. When identifying and assessing the risks of material misstatement, the auditor should obtain an understanding of the company's selection and application of accounting principles, including related disclosures.[14] As part of obtaining this understanding, the auditor should evaluate whether the company's selection and application of accounting principles are appropriate for its business and consistent with the applicable financial reporting framework and accounting principles used in the relevant industry.[15]

17. When the auditor evaluates results of the audit, he or she must conclude on whether sufficient appropriate audit evidence has been obtained to support his or her opinion on the financial statements.[16] To be appropriate, audit evidence must be both relevant and reliable in providing support for the conclusions on which the auditor's opinion is based.[17]

18. PCAOB standards provide that management representations "are part of the evidential matter the independent auditor obtains, but they are not a substitute for the application of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit."[18] Inquiry of company personnel, by itself, does not provide sufficient audit evidence to reduce audit risk to an appropriately low level for a relevant assertion.[19]

19. If audit evidence obtained from one source is inconsistent with that obtained from another, or if the auditor has doubts about the reliability of information to be used as audit evidence, the auditor should perform the audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter and should determine the effect, if any, on other aspects of the audit.[20] Similarly, if a representation made by management is contradicted by other audit evidence, the auditor should investigate the circumstances and consider the reliability of the representation made.[21] Based on the circumstances, the auditor should consider whether his or her reliance on management's representations relating to other aspects of the financial statements is appropriate and justified.[22] If the auditor has not obtained sufficient appropriate audit evidence about a relevant assertion or has substantial doubt about a relevant assertion, the auditor should perform procedures to obtain further audit evidence to address the matter.[23]

20. As described below, Respondents violated these and other standards in performing the Audit.

ii. Respondents Failed to Evaluate the Basis of Accounting for the Acquisition

21. During the Audit, Respondents violated PCAOB standards by failing to perform any audit procedures to determine the appropriate basis of accounting for the Acquisition. Specifically, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to evaluate Tingo's determination that it was the acquirer for accounting purposes and should have accounted for the Acquisition as an acquisition, rather than as a reverse acquisition.

22. Respondents failed to perform such procedures despite being aware during the Audit of multiple red flags indicating that the Acquisition was actually a reverse acquisition, which would make Tingo Mobile the acquirer for accounting purposes. First, Respondents were aware that Tingo, Inc. (formerly IWEB) filed a Form 8-K/A with the Commission dated September 13, 2021, that stated the Acquisition was a "reverse merger."

23. Second, Respondents were aware of a December 2021 slide deck that Tingo management presented to investors, which mentioned the August 2021 "reverse merger."

24. Third, Respondents received two March 2022 emails in which the Tingo CFO stated that the Acquisition was a "reverse acquisition."

25. Fourth, Respondents were aware that eight out of Tingo's 10 directors were appointed by Tingo Mobile, and that the Acquisition agreement provided that the existing CEO, CFO, and Secretary of Tingo Mobile would hold the same positions in Tingo after the Acquisition. These circumstances signaled that Tingo Mobile's former management would dominate the management of the combined entity, Tingo, and were indicative of Tingo Mobile being the acquirer in the Acquisition.[24]

26. Fifth, Respondents were aware that, out of Tingo's total 1,250 million class A shares, the former Tingo Mobile shareholders would receive 928 million class A shares (74%), providing them the largest portion of voting rights in Tingo. Again, this was indicative of Tingo Mobile being the acquirer in the Acquisition.[25]

27. Sixth, Respondents knew, or should have known, that Tingo Mobile's total assets, revenue, and stockholder's equity were significantly larger than that of IWEB/Tingo

24 See ASC 805-10-55-12.

25 Id.

before the Acquisition, which was indicative of Tingo Mobile being the likely acquirer in the Acquisition.[26]

28. Instead of performing procedures to evaluate Tingo management's identification of Tingo as the accounting acquirer, Respondents assumed that Tingo was required to record goodwill under acquisition accounting, rather than as a reverse acquisition, and simply checked the math on Tingo's goodwill calculation for reasonableness. Respondents failed to evaluate management's selection and application of the requisite GAAP to determine if the substance of the transaction dictated that it should be recorded as a reverse acquisition.

29. As a result, Respondents' failure to evaluate whether Tingo's accounting for the acquisition was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with U.S. GAAP and to perform sufficient procedures and respond appropriately to resolve the multiple instances of evidence inconsistent with their audit conclusions about the Acquisition constituted violations of PCAOB rules and standards, including AS 1015, AS 1105, AS 2110, AS 2301, AS 2805, and AS 2810.

iii. Respondents Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence Supporting Tingo's Stock Compensation Expense

30. During the Audit, Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for their audit conclusion that Tingo properly accounted for the $220 million in stock compensation it awarded in 2021. Specifically, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence that Tingo actually issued the stock compensation awards. Respondents simply inquired of management about the vesting period of the issued stock, without obtaining other audit evidence to support those management representations that the vesting period was just one year. Respondents received summary documents from Tingo management about the stock awards, such as a list of the stock that was issued, but these documents did not disclose the vesting period. When Respondents asked Tingo management to provide signed stock award contracts, and management said they were not finalized, Respondents failed to follow up to obtain signed contracts or other sufficient appropriate evidence of a binding agreement and related vesting period before issuing the Audit report in late March.

31. Despite being aware during the Audit of red flags warning that the vesting period for at least some of the stock was greater than one year, which would require Tingo to amortize the expense beyond 2021, Respondents failed to perform sufficient procedures. First, Respondents were aware during the Audit that Tingo management planned to disclose in the Form 10-K that the majority of the awards vested over a two-year period, and that, "as prescribed by ASC 718, Compensation—Stock Compensation, . . . we amortize the fair value of the awards as share-based compensation expense over the requisite service period, which is generally the vesting term."

32. Second, although Tingo's Board of Directors had approved the stock awards in October 2021, and the stock purportedly was awarded by December 31, 2021, management told Respondents in mid-March 2022 that it could not provide Respondents the signed stock award contracts because they had not been finalized. This significant delay in memorializing the transactions should have caused Respondents to exercise heightened skepticism and pursue further evidence of the vesting terms of the stock awards, but they failed to do so.

33. Respondents' failure to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence, and to respond appropriately to resolve evidence inconsistent with their audit conclusions, concerning Tingo's stock compensation expense constituted violations of PCAOB rules and standards, including AS 1015, AS 1105, AS 2301, AS 2805, and AS 2810.

iv. The Firm Repeatedly Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

34. PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, took effect for issuer audit reports issued on or after January 31, 2017, and provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the SEC,[27] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[28]

35. Specifically, the Firm audited the financial statements of eight clients in the following ten audits, but failed to timely file Form APs in connection with the related audit reports.[29] For Excellerant, Inc.'s 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated December 10, 2021, which was included in the issuer's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on

[27] See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1).

[28] In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

[29] At all relevant times, these audit clients were issuers as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

December 10, 2021. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for that audit report on November 2, 2023.

36. For 808 Renewable Energy Corp.'s 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated April 15, 2022, which was included in the issuer's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on April 15, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for that audit report on November 2, 2023.

37. For Industrial Technical Holdings Corp.'s 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated May 19, 2022, which was included in the issuer's Form 20-F filed with the SEC on May 23, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for that audit report on June 12, 2023.

38. The Firm audited the financial statements of Power Americas Resource Group Ltd. ("Power America")[30] as of and for the years ended May 31, 2018, 2019, and 2020. For Power America's 2018 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated May 25, 2022, which was included in the issuer's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on July 29, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for that audit report on November 15, 2023. For Power America's 2019 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated May 25, 2022, which was included in the issuer's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on May 26, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for that audit report on January 26, 2023. For Power America's 2020 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated June 17, 2022, which was included in the issuer's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on June 21, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for that audit report on February 6, 2023.

39. For Alterola Biotech, Inc.'s 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated June 10, 2021,[31] which was included in the issuer's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on June 10, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for the audit report on February 6, 2023.

40. For Marquie Group, Inc.'s 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated June 28, 2022, which was included in the issuer's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on August 30, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for that audit report on November 2, 2023.

[30] On March 16, 2022, Brisset Beer International, Inc. changed its name to Power Americas Resource Group Ltd. The Firm later filed the noted Form APs for this issuer under the name Brisset Beer International, Inc.

[31] The Firm mistakenly dated the audit report with the year 2021, rather than 2022. This error was corrected and disclosed in a Form 10-K/A filed by the issuer on September 14, 2022.

41. For Tingo, Inc.'s 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated July 18, 2022, which was included in the issuer's Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on July 22, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for that audit report on November 2, 2023.

42. For Linktory Inc.'s 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated July 20, 2022, which was included in the issuer's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on July 22, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed a Form AP for that audit report on November 2, 2023.

43. The Firm failed to timely file Form APs for the above SEC filings by the 35th day after the date the audit reports were first included with the filings made with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Gries & Associates, LLC, and Blaze Gries, CPA, are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Gries & Associates, LLC, is revoked.

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rules 2101 and 5302(a), after one year from the date of this Order, Gries & Associates, LLC, may reapply for registration.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Blaze Gries, CPA, is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[32]

[32] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Gries. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

E. After one year from the date of this Order, Blaze Gries, CPA may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $65,000 is imposed jointly and severally upon Gries & Associates, LLC, and Blaze Gries, CPA.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondents shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the entity or person as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. By consenting to this Order, Gries & Associates, LLC acknowledges that the failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon it may alone be grounds to deny any application, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2106, for registration with the Board.

4. By consenting to this Order, Blaze Gries, CPA, acknowledges that the failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon him may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

6. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondents based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Blaze Gries, CPA is required to complete, prior to filing any petition to terminate his bar and for Board consent to reassociate with a registered public accounting firm, twenty-four hours of continuing professional education and training relating to PCAOB auditing standards, PCAOB reporting requirements, and U.S. GAAP update training (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the continuing professional education he is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Halperin Ilanit CPA and Ilanit Halperin,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-012

March 19, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Halperin Ilanit CPA ("Firm") and Ilanit Halperin ("Halperin") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) revoking the Firm's registration;[1]

(3) barring Halperin from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[2]

(4) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $200,000, jointly and severally, on the Firm and Halperin;

(5) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions concerning quality control directed toward satisfying requirements applicable to audits and reviews of issuers before filing, and to provide evidence of such measures with, any future registration application; and

(6) requiring Halperin to complete 40 hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after three years from the date of this Order.

[2] Halperin may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three years from the date of this Order.

license, before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of the financial statements of three issuer clients; (b) the Firm violated PCAOB standards by failing to obtain engagement quality reviews in connection with those audits; (c) the Firm failed to file timely and accurate forms required by PCAOB rules; (d) the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards; and (e) Halperin directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and engagement quality review and quality control standards.[3]

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted Offers of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[4]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[5]

The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the PCAOB pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

2. Ilanit Halperin is the owner of the Firm and a certified public accountant licensed by the Israeli Auditors' Council. At all relevant times, she was the sole partner of the Firm and served as the engagement partner on all issuer audits it conducted, including those discussed below. Halperin is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

3. Cuentas Inc. ("Cuentas") is, and at all relevant times was, a Florida corporation headquartered in Miami Beach, Florida. Cuentas's public filings disclose that its business focuses on providing mobile and e-commerce services to clients with limited access to bank accounts. At all relevant times, Cuentas was an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), including when the Firm audited Cuentas's financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020 and 2021 (the "2020 Cuentas Audit" and "2021 Cuentas Audit," respectively).

4. Enigma MPC, Inc. ("Enigma") was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in San Francisco, California. Enigma's public filings disclose that its business focused on developing and implementing blockchain technology. At all relevant times, Enigma was an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), including when the Firm audited Enigma's financial statements for the fiscal year ended February 28, 2021 ("2021 Enigma Audit").[6]

SuperCom is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), including when the Firm audited SuperCom's financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020 and 2021 (the "2020 SuperCom Audit" and "2021 SuperCom Audit," respectively, and, collectively with the 2020 Cuentas Audit, 2021 Cuentas Audit, and 2021 Enigma Audit, the "Issuer Audits").

C. Summary

6. The Firm issued audit reports containing an unqualified audit opinion on the financial statements for each of the Issuer Audits. Halperin served as the engagement partner for each of those audits and authorized the issuance of those audit reports.

7. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Issuer Audits. Specifically, Respondents failed to: (1) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in connection with testing the valuation of an intangible asset during the 2021 Cuentas Audit; (2) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in connection with testing the valuation of a provision for claims during the 2021 Enigma Audit; (3) evaluate whether certain matters constituted critical audit matters ("CAMs") during the 2021 Cuentas Audit and the 2021 SuperCom Audit; (4) make certain required audit committee communications during the 2021 Cuentas Audit and the 2021 SuperCom Audit; (5) assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation within 45 days of the report release date for the 2021 SuperCom Audit; and (6) properly document changes made to the work papers after the documentation completion date for the 2021 Cuentas Audit and the 2021 SuperCom Audit.

8. In addition, the Firm violated PCAOB standards by failing to obtain engagement quality reviews for any of the Issuer Audits, and violated PCAOB rules by failing to timely file PCAOB Form 2s and Form APs, some of which included inaccurate information when eventually filed.

9. The Firm also violated PCAOB quality control standards because it failed to establish an appropriate system of quality control to provide it with reasonable assurance that work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality. The Firm also failed to establish policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide it with reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was suitably designed and being effectively applied.

10. Finally, Halperin violated PCAOB rules by knowingly or recklessly, and directly and substantially, contributing to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and engagement quality review and quality control standards.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

11. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[7] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[8] Among other things, PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report, exercise professional skepticism, and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[9]

12. PCAOB standards require the auditor to address the risks of material misstatement through appropriate overall audit responses and procedures, and specify that the auditor should design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[10]

13. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards.

i. Respondents Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence in Testing the Valuation of an Intangible Asset in the 2021 Cuentas Audit

14. The objective of the auditor when auditing accounting estimates is to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to determine whether accounting estimates in significant accounts and disclosures are properly accounted for and disclosed in the financial statements.[11] When performing substantive procedures to respond to the identified and assessed risks of material misstatement associated with accounting estimates, the auditor should test an accounting estimate by using one or a combination of the following approaches: (1) test the company's process used to develop the accounting estimate; (2) develop an independent expectation for comparison to the company's estimate; and (3) evaluate audit evidence from events or transactions occurring after the measurement date related to the accounting estimate for comparison to the company's estimate.[12]

15. Developing an independent expectation involves the auditor using some or all of his or her own methods, data, and assumptions to develop an expectation of the estimate for comparison to the company's estimate. In developing the expectation, the auditor should consider the requirements of the applicable financial reporting framework and the auditor's understanding of the company's process.[13] When the auditor independently derives assumptions or uses his or her own method in developing an independent expectation, the auditor should have a reasonable basis for the assumptions and method used.[14]

16. As of December 31, 2021, Cuentas reported an intangible asset—specifically, a perpetual software license acquired in 2019—that accounted for 44% of its total reported assets. Cuentas amortized the license on a straight-line basis over its expected useful life.[15]

17. In its Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2021, Cuentas identified the valuation of intangible assets as a significant estimate and disclosed in the footnotes to its financial statements that "the Company reviews its long-lived assets for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of these assets may not be fully recoverable."

18. During the 2021 Cuentas Audit, Respondents understood that the company's management engaged a specialist to prepare an intangible asset impairment analysis. The analysis noted recent events that suggested a potential impairment of the software license, which necessitated a recoverability test.[16] The company's specialist estimated the recoverable amount of the software license by preparing an undiscounted cash flow analysis based on issuer-prepared financial forecasts and concluded that no impairment of the intangible asset existed at year-end 2021. The issuer-prepared forecasts used by the company's specialist projected a substantial increase in the revenue to be generated from use of the software license in future years. Respondents included a copy of this impairment analysis in the audit documentation for the 2021 Cuentas Audit but did not perform any procedures to evaluate the impairment analysis, including the data and assumptions used.

19. Respondents did not: (1) review and test the process used by management to develop its estimate, which as noted above, included the use of a specialist retained by the company to prepare an impairment analysis; or (2) review events or transactions that occurred prior to the auditor's report date that related to the accounting estimate for comparison to the issuer's estimate.

20. Instead, Respondents' approach to substantively test the intangible asset for impairment was to develop an independent estimate of the fair value of the asset for comparison to the carrying amount. To estimate the fair value, Respondents took Cuentas's market capitalization at December 31, 2021, and subtracted Cuentas's net "Financial Assets."[17] Respondents then treated the resulting difference as an estimate of the fair value of the intangible asset and compared it to the carrying amount of that asset. Because that estimated fair value exceeded the carrying amount, Respondents concluded there was no impairment of the asset.

21. Respondents lacked a reasonable basis for the assumptions and method used in developing their independent expectation and failed to take into account the requirements of the applicable financial reporting framework.[18] Specifically, they failed to appropriately evaluate whether subtracting Cuentas's net "Financial Assets" from its market capitalization was a reasonable method of measuring the fair value of the intangible asset. For example, Respondents failed to sufficiently evaluate whether the market capitalization of Cuentas included value attributable to assets other than the perpetual software license. Moreover, Respondents failed to sufficiently evaluate whether their fair value estimate derived from the market capitalization of Cuentas represented the standalone price that would be received to its fair value. The carrying amount of a long-lived asset (asset group) is not recoverable if it exceeds the sum of the undiscounted cash flows expected to result from the use and eventual disposition of the asset (asset group).").

sell the intangible asset in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date.[19]

22. Accordingly, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to test the valuation of Cuentas's intangible asset in violation of AS 1105, AS 2301, and AS 2501. Respondents also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

ii. Respondents Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence in Testing the Valuation of a Provision for Claims in the 2021 Enigma Audit

23. As of the fiscal year ended February 28, 2021, Enigma reported a provision for claims of nearly $25 million, which represented approximately 80% of its total reported liabilities. The provision for claims balance represented the amount the company estimated it would have to pay for claim requests received in connection with a settlement it reached with the Commission in February 2020 concerning an unregistered offering of digital assets conducted by the company.[20] The provision for claims balance did not change from the prior year.

24. In its Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended February 28, 2021, Enigma identified the liability for estimated claims as a critical and significant accounting estimate and disclosed in the footnotes to its financial statements that "based on the ENG Token market the Company knows that some of the $42 million ENG Tokens sold at the [initial coin offering] have since been sold at a profit. Accordingly, in exercising a prudent approach, as of the end of the reporting periods presented herein, the Company has recorded a liability for the estimate[] of claims of $24.9 million . . . ." In the Legal Proceedings section of the same Form 10-K, Enigma also disclosed that "[t]he deadline for ENG Token claimants to submit claims has since passed and we are currently processing the claims."

25. During the 2021 Enigma Audit, other than comparing the current year account balance to the amount Enigma reported in the prior year and obtaining from management a claims status report that included a listing of submitted claims, Respondents—who should have used one or more of the methods for testing accounting estimates discussed above—failed to perform any substantive procedures to test the valuation of the provision for claims. For example, Respondents failed to evaluate whether the assumptions used in the company's estimate of its provision for claims in the prior year were still reasonable in the current year or whether the company had obtained any new information during the year that would bear on the appropriateness of the estimate.

26. Respondents also failed to evaluate whether information concerning submitted claims contained in the claims status report it obtained from management and included in the audit documentation contradicted the company's estimate. Notably, the claims status report indicated that, at the conclusion of the claim submission deadline on April 25, 2021 (a date after the measurement date of February 28, 2021, but before the audit report date of June 15, 2021), the company had received claims with an aggregate claim value representing less than 1% of the company's provision for claims estimate of roughly $25 million. Accordingly, Respondents lacked a reasonable basis for concluding that it was appropriate for the current year provision for claims estimate to be the same as the prior year estimate.

27. As a result, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to test the valuation of Enigma's provision for claims in violation of AS 1105, AS 2301, and AS 2501. Respondents also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

iii. Respondents Failed to Perform Procedures to Evaluate Whether Certain Matters Were Critical Audit Matters in the 2021 Cuentas Audit and the 2021 SuperCom Audit

28. AS 3101 "establishes requirements regarding the content of the auditor's written report when the auditor expresses an unqualified opinion on the financial statements."[21] Among other things, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any critical audit matters in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[22] A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[23]

29. For the 2021 Cuentas Audit and the 2021 SuperCom Audit, Respondents failed to evaluate as potential CAMs numerous matters that were communicated, or required to be communicated, to the companies' audit committees and that related to accounts or disclosures

21 AS 3101.01.

22 Id. at .11.

that were material to the financial statements.[24] For example, in the 2021 Cuentas Audit, Respondents failed to evaluate as potential CAMs certain significant risks and other matters communicated to the audit committee, including those that Respondents had identified concerning revenue recognition, equity, and intangible asset valuation. Similarly, in the 2021 SuperCom Audit, Respondents failed to evaluate as potential CAMs significant risks and other matters communicated to the audit committee, including those that Respondents had identified concerning revenue recognition, equity, and inventories.

30. Accordingly, Respondents failed to evaluate whether certain matters were CAMs and violated AS 3101.

iv. Respondents Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in the 2021 Cuentas Audit and the 2021 SuperCom Audit

31. PCAOB standards require the auditor to communicate certain matters related to the conduct of an audit to the issuer's audit committee.[25] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee the issuer's significant accounting policies and practices, critical accounting policies and practices, critical accounting estimates, and the results of the auditor's evaluation of the quality of the issuer's financial reporting.[26]

32. Additionally, PCAOB standards require the auditor to communicate to the audit committee his or her evaluation of the company's identification of, accounting for, and disclosure of its relationships and transactions with related parties.[27]

33. In connection with the 2021 Cuentas Audit and 2021 SuperCom Audit, Respondents failed to communicate their evaluation of the companies' identification of, accounting for, and disclosure of their relationships and transactions with related parties to the audit committees despite both Cuentas and SuperCom disclosing related party transactions in their Form 10-Ks for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2021.[28]

[28] Cuentas disclosed that "the Company has had extensive dealings with related parties including those in which our Chief Executive Officer holds a significant ownership interest as well as an executive

34. With respect to the 2021 SuperCom Audit, Respondents also failed to make certain required communications to SuperCom's audit committee related to: (1) significant accounting policies and practices; (2) critical accounting policies and practices, (3) critical accounting estimates; and (4) the results of Respondents' evaluation of the quality of the issuer's financial reporting.

35. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 1301 and AS 2410.

v. Respondents Violated the Audit Documentation Standard in the 2021 Cuentas Audit and the 2021 SuperCom Audit

36. PCAOB standards require that the auditor "prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB."[29] PCAOB standards further require that "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[30] Further, although "[c]ircumstances may require additions to audit documentation after the report release date[,]" any documentation added "must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[31]

37. The report release dates for the 2021 Cuentas Audit and 2021 SuperCom Audit were April 1, 2022, and April 4, 2022, respectively. Accordingly, Respondents should have assembled a complete and final set of audit documentation for the 2021 Cuentas Audit by May 16, 2022, and for the 2021 SuperCom Audit by May 19, 2022.

38. However, Respondents assembled an incomplete set of audit documentation for the 2021 SuperCom Audit, as they omitted certain relevant work papers from the final set of audit documentation they assembled. In addition, Respondents added information to the work papers for the 2021 Cuentas Audit and 2021 SuperCom Audit after the applicable documentation completion dates without documenting the date the information was added, the name of who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it to the work papers. As a result, Respondents violated AS 1215.

30 Id. at .15.

31 Id. at .16.

E. The Firm Violated PCAOB Standards by Failing to Obtain Engagement Quality Reviews for the Issuer Audits

39. PCAOB standards require that an engagement quality review be performed on all audits.[32] A firm may grant permission to a client to use the audit report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance of the report.[33]

40. The Firm failed to obtain engagement quality reviews for any of the Issuer Audits, and improperly permitted Cuentas, Enigma, and SuperCom to use its audit reports for the Issuer Audits without having obtained concurring approval of issuance from an engagement quality reviewer. As a result, the Firm repeatedly violated AS 1220.

F. The Firm Violated PCAOB Reporting Requirements

i. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules by Failing to File Timely Annual Reports on Form 2

41. PCAOB rules require registered public accounting firms to file annual reports with the Board on Form 2 no later than June 30 of each year, unless a firm's application for registration has been approved by the Board during the period between April 1 and June 30 of the year in which the filing would otherwise be due.[34]

42. The Firm registered with the Board on June 13, 2018. It was therefore required to file an annual report on Form 2 by June 30 each year beginning in 2019. In every year it was required to file a Form 2, the Firm failed to file by the relevant deadline. Specifically, its annual reports were filed on September 5, 2019, July 31, 2020, November 24, 2021, and December 21, 2022.

43. Accordingly, the Firm repeatedly violated PCAOB Rule 2201.

ii. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules by Failing to File Timely and Accurate Form APs

44. PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, requires every registered public accounting firm to file a Form AP for each audit report it issues for an issuer, and include the identity of the engagement partner and certain information about the issuer and other accounting firms that participated in the audit.

32 AS 1220.01, Engagement Quality Review.

33 Id. at .13.

34 PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report; PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing of Annual Report.

45. A Form AP must be filed by the 35th day after the date a firm's audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission or, in the case of a registration statement, by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission.[35]

46. The Firm filed its Form AP for the 2020 Cuentas Audit 126 days after the date Cuentas's Form 10-K including the Firm's audit report was filed with the Commission. The Firm filed its Form AP for the 2021 Cuentas Audit 80 days after the date Cuentas's Form 10-K including the Firm's audit report was filed with the Commission, and the Firm included an incorrect financial statement date for the financial statements subject to audit in that Form AP.

47. Similarly, the Firm filed its Form AP for the 2020 SuperCom Audit 90 days after the date SuperCom's Form 20-F including the Firm's audit report was filed with the Commission, and the Firm included an incorrect Central Index Key number for SuperCom in that Form AP. The Firm filed its Form AP for the 2021 SuperCom Audit 77 days after the date SuperCom's Form 20-F including the Firm's audit report was filed with the Commission, and the Firm included an incorrect financial statement date for the financial statements subject to audit and an incorrect Central Index Key number for SuperCom in that Form AP.

48. Accordingly, the Firm repeatedly violated PCAOB Rule 3211.

G. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

49. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[36] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[37] A firm's system of quality control provides a critical foundation and infrastructure for a firm's audit quality as it should "ensure that services are competently delivered and adequately supervised."[38] The quality control system should include policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[39]

37 See QC § 20.01, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice.

38 Id. at .02.

39 Id. at .17.

50. As described below, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

i. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance That Audit Work Performed by Firm Personnel Met Professional Standards and Regulatory Requirements

51. Quality control policies and procedures for engagement performance should encompass all phases of the design and execution of an engagement.[40] To the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, these policies and procedures should cover, among other things, planning, performing, and documenting each engagement.[41]

52. From 2019 to 2022, the Firm's internally developed audit methodology, which the Firm employed for issuer audits, frequently referenced international auditing standards and PCAOB auditing standards that were outdated and had been superseded, rather than the PCAOB standards that governed the Firm's issuer audits. As a result of the Firm's deficient audit methodology and as evidenced by the numerous audit failures described above, the Firm's system of quality control failed to provide it with reasonable assurance that personnel conducting the Firm's audits would comply with applicable professional standards and regulations.

53. Accordingly, the Firm violated QC §§ 20.17 and .18.

ii. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance That the Firm Would Obtain Engagement Quality Reviews

54. PCAOB quality control standards require that a firm's system of quality control include policies and procedures that address engagement quality reviews pursuant to AS 1220.[42]

55. Throughout the relevant period, the Firm lacked sufficient policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards with regard to its engagement quality reviews. Specifically, the Firm's policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that each issuer audit would be subject to an engagement quality review and the Firm would obtain

---

40 Id. at .18.

42 Id.

concurring approval from an engagement quality reviewer prior to issuing an audit report, as required by AS 1220.

56. Accordingly, the Firm violated QC §§ 20.17 and .18.

iii. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to the Assembly of Audit Documentation for Retention

57. A firm's quality control policies and procedures should address the documentation of each engagement in accordance with applicable professional standards.[43] As noted above, AS 1215 requires that auditors assemble for retention a complete and final set of audit documentation not more than 45 days after the report release date.[44]

58. At all relevant times, the Firm failed to maintain effective policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 1215's requirements regarding audit documentation, as evidenced by its failure to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation for the 2021 SuperCom Audit by the applicable deadline, and its failure to ensure that changes made to the work papers for that audit and for the 2021 Cuentas Audit after the applicable documentation completion dates indicated the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it.

59. Accordingly, the Firm violated QC §§ 20.17 and .18.

iv. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Monitoring

60. PCAOB quality control standards also provide that policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is suitably designed and being effectively applied.[45] Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of: (1) the relevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures; (2) the appropriateness of the firm's guidance materials and any practice aids; (3) the effectiveness of professional development activities; and (4) compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[46] Monitoring procedures taken as a whole should enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective.[47]

61. At all relevant times, the Firm lacked any process to monitor its quality control system. For example, during the time it conducted issuer audits, the Firm never performed an internal inspection or other evaluation to assess whether the work performed by its engagement personnel on issuer audits met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality.

62. The Firm's failure to implement monitoring procedures to enable it to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was effective violated QC §§ 20 and 30.

H. Halperin Directly and Substantially Contributed to the Firm's Engagement Quality Review, PCAOB Reporting and Quality Control Violations

63. PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations, states that "[a] person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."

64. Halperin is, and at all relevant times was, the Firm's sole owner and partner and served as the engagement partner for each of the Issuer Audits. Accordingly, Halperin was responsible for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. She was also responsible for developing and maintaining quality control policies and procedures applicable to the Firm's auditing practice.

65. Halperin knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that her acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of AS 1220, PCAOB reporting requirements, and PCAOB quality control standards described above. As a result, Halperin violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondents' Offers. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm and Halperin are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the Firm's registration is revoked;

C. After three years from the date of this Order, the Firm may reapply for registration by filing an application for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Halperin is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[48]

E. After three years from the date of this Order, Halperin may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b);

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $200,000 is imposed, jointly and severally, on the Firm and Halperin;

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondents shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money

[48] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Halperin. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm and Halperin as respondents in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against either Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. By consenting to this Order, the Firm acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any reapplication for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

6. By consenting to this Order, Halperin acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Before filing with the Board any future registration application, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that: (a) Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards when conducting issuer audits; (b) Firm personnel will obtain, and adequately document, engagement quality reviews for all issuer audits in accordance with applicable professional standards; (c) the Firm will properly assemble for retention complete and final sets of audit documentation in accordance with professional standards; (d) the Firm will comply with PCAOB reporting requirements on a timely basis, including with respect to Form 2 and Form AP; and (e) the Firm has established monitoring procedures sufficient to enable it to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is suitably designed and being effectively applied.

2. To provide with any future registration application a written certification of compliance with the above requirements, in the form of a narrative, exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance, and such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Registration and Inspections may reasonably request.

H. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Halperin is required to complete, prior to filing any petition to terminate her bar and for Board consent to reassociate with a registered public accounting firm, 40 hours of continuing professional education and training relating to PCAOB auditing standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the continuing professional education she is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of CHOI Chung Chuen, MA Hong Chao, and DONG Chang Ling,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-013

March 20, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring CHOI Chung Chuen (Alex) ("Choi"), MA Hong Chao (Max) ("Ma"), and DONG Chang Ling (Jason) ("Dong") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) barring Choi and Ma each from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1]

(3) limiting Dong's activities in connection with any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), for a period of one year from the date of this Order;

(4) imposing civil money penalties in the amounts of $75,000 on Choi, $50,000 on Ma, and $25,000 on Dong;

(5) requiring that Choi and Ma each complete twenty hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license, before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm; and

(6) requiring that Dong complete twenty hours of CPE, in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license.

[1] Choi and Ma may each file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one year from the date of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions based on its findings that Respondents—three partners of KPMG Huazhen LLP ("KPMG HZ" or the "Firm")—violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audit of the December 31, 2017 financial statements of Tarena International Inc. ("Tarena").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (collectively, "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondents

1. CHOI Chung Chuen (Alex) is a certified practicing accountant in Hong Kong (license no. P05138) and a partner in KPMG HZ's Beijing office. He was the engagement partner for the Firm's audit of the December 31, 2017 financial statements of Tarena (the "Audit") and, at all relevant times, he was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

2. MA Hong Chao (Max) is a certified public accountant in the State of California (license no. 122230) and in the People's Republic of China (license no. 110002432630), and a partner in KPMG HZ's Beijing office. He was another partner on the Audit, assisting Choi in supervising other engagement team members. At all relevant times, Ma was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

3. DONG Chang Ling (Jason) is a certified information systems auditor, as designated by ISACA (formerly known as the Information Systems Audit and Control Association), and a partner in KPMG HZ's Beijing office. Dong was assigned to the Audit and had overall responsibility for the involvement of the Firm's information risk management ("IRM") personnel on the Audit. At all relevant times, Dong was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Other Relevant Entities

4. KPMG Huazhen LLP is a public accounting firm organized under Chinese law and headquartered in Beijing, People's Republic of China, and has offices throughout China. At all relevant times, KPMG HZ was registered with the Board, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. KPMG HZ reported to the PCAOB that during the period April 1, 2022, through March 31, 2023, the Firm issued 21 audit reports for issuers.

5. Tarena International, Inc. (n/k/a TCTM Kids IT Education Inc.)[4] is an exempted company[5] with limited liability incorporated under the laws of the Cayman Islands and headquartered in Beijing, China. Tarena provides education services including information technology ("IT") training courses and non-IT training courses across China. According to its public filings, over 128,000 adult students, and nearly 10,000 children, enrolled in at least one of its courses in 2017. At the time of the Audit, Tarena's American Depository Receipts were traded on the Nasdaq Global Select Market.[6] Tarena is an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[5] An "exempted company" is an offshore entity organized under the laws of the Cayman Islands that conducts its business mainly outside of the Cayman Islands. See, e.g., Cayman Islands Companies Act Part VII (Exempted Companies) § 163, What Companies May Apply to be Registered as Exempted Companies (2021 Rev.).

C. Summary

6. This matter involves multiple violations of PCAOB rules and standards by Choi, Ma, and Dong, three KPMG HZ partners who worked on the Audit of Tarena, an education service provider in China.

7. First, Choi and Ma failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support Tarena's reported revenue. During the Audit, Choi and Ma planned to test the design and operating effectiveness of Tarena's internal controls in order to rely on them to address, among other things, a fraud risk they had identified related to Tarena potentially recording revenue from fictitious students.

8. However, after learning of numerous unremediated deficiencies in Tarena's IT general controls ("ITGCs"), Choi and Ma did not respond appropriately. Instead, Choi and Ma improperly concluded that these unremediated control deficiencies did not affect their plan to rely on Tarena's revenue-related controls. In particular, Choi and Ma did not revise the control risk assessment and modify the nature, timing, and extent of their substantive revenue testing planned under the assumption that Tarena's revenue-related controls were effective. As a result, Choi and Ma failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence as to Tarena's reported revenue.

9. Second, Choi and Ma also failed to exercise due care and professional skepticism and obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support Tarena's net accounts receivable. Specifically, they did not appropriately evaluate the reasonableness of Tarena's allowance for doubtful accounts, i.e., its bad debt allowance estimate, which they had identified as a significant accounting estimate and as a significant risk. In particular, they did not obtain an adequate understanding of how management developed the estimate, did not appropriately evaluate its reasonableness, and did not adequately consider evidence indicating that the estimate might not be reasonable.

10. Third, Dong failed to properly supervise the IT auditors on the Audit, which resulted in Dong's failure to identify several deficiencies in the IT auditors' procedures.

[6] Tarena transferred the listing of its American Depositary Receipts to the Nasdaq Capital Market on November 17, 2023. See Exhibit 99.1 to Form 6-K (filed Nov. 16, 2023), https://www.sec.gov/Archives/edgar/data/1592560/000110465923118945/tm2330909d1_ex99-1.htm.

11. Choi, Ma, and Dong's violations occurred in connection with audit procedures for two accounts that Tarena later restated. Specifically, during the following year's audit, KPMG HZ informed Tarena's audit committee that the 2018 engagement team had identified non-compliance or suspected non-compliance with laws and regulations, including (a) Tarena employees' interference with KPMG HZ's anti-fraud procedures for testing the existence of students and (b) acts related to the existence and accuracy of revenue recognition.[7] In response, on April 30, 2019, Tarena disclosed that its audit committee was conducting a review into certain issues concerning revenue recognition at the company. KPMG HZ did not issue a report of Tarena's December 31, 2018 financial statements and was dismissed as Tarena's auditor on December 5, 2019. The audit committee-led investigation ultimately found that Tarena (a) had inflated revenue by, among other means, recording fictitious student account data in the company's systems and prematurely recognizing revenue; and (b) made improper charges against accounts receivable. As reflected in its restatement, Tarena's originally reported net revenue for 2017 was overstated by approximately 13% and its originally reported net accounts receivable for 2017 were overstated by more than 300%.

D. Choi and Ma Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence to Support Tarena's Reported Revenue

i. Relevant Rules and Standards

12. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that associated persons of a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[8] An auditor is in a position to express an unqualified opinion on the financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[9]

13. PCAOB standards provide that, as part of audit planning, the auditor should establish an overall audit strategy.[10] The auditor should modify the overall audit strategy and the audit plan as necessary if circumstances change significantly during the course of the audit, including changes due to a revised assessment of the risks of material misstatement or the discovery of a previously unidentified risk of material misstatement.[11]

14. PCAOB standards also require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit.[12] Due professional care requires that the auditor exercise professional skepticism—an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence—throughout the audit process.[13]

15. PCAOB standards instruct that "[t]he auditor should design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure."[14] "[T]he audit procedures that are necessary to address the assessed fraud risks depend upon the types of risks and the relevant assertions that might be affected."[15]

16. The auditor should perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that are specifically responsive to the assessed fraud risks. If the auditor selects certain controls intended to address the assessed fraud risks for testing, the auditor should perform tests of those controls.[16]

17. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[17] To be appropriate, audit evidence must be both relevant and reliable in providing support for the conclusions on which the auditor's opinion is based.[18]

18. PCAOB standards provide that if the auditor plans to assess control risk at less than the maximum by relying on controls, and the nature, timing, and extent of planned substantive procedures are based on that lower assessment, the auditor must obtain evidence that the controls selected for testing are designed effectively and operated effectively during the entire period of reliance.[19] Also, tests of controls must be performed in the audit of financial statements for each relevant assertion for which substantive procedures alone cannot provide sufficient appropriate audit evidence and when necessary to support the auditor's reliance on the accuracy and completeness of financial information used in performing other audit procedures.[20]

19. "When a significant amount of information supporting one or more relevant assertions is electronically initiated, recorded, processed, or reported, it might be impossible to design effective substantive tests that, by themselves, would provide sufficient appropriate evidence regarding the assertions."[21] In these circumstances, obtaining sufficient appropriate audit evidence is usually dependent on the effectiveness of controls over that information.[22]

20. Control risk should be assessed at the maximum level for relevant assertions (a) for which controls necessary to sufficiently address the assessed risk of material misstatement in those assertions are missing or ineffective or (b) when the auditor has not obtained sufficient appropriate evidence to support a control risk assessment below the maximum level.[23]

21. When deficiencies affecting the controls on which the auditor intends to rely are detected, the auditor should evaluate the severity of the deficiencies and the effect on the auditor's control risk assessments.[24] If the auditor plans to rely on controls relating to an assertion but the controls that the auditor tests are ineffective because of control deficiencies, the auditor should (a) perform tests of other controls related to the same assertion as the ineffective controls; or (b) revise the control risk assessment and modify the planned substantive procedures as necessary in light of the increased assessment of risk.[25]

22. If the auditor identifies deficiencies in controls that are intended to address assessed fraud risks, the auditor should take into account those deficiencies when designing his or her response to those fraud risks.[26]

23. "Audit evidence consists of both information that supports and corroborates management's assertions regarding the financial statements . . . and information that contradicts such assertions."[27]

24. If audit evidence obtained from one source is inconsistent with audit evidence obtained from another source, "the auditor should perform the audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter and should determine the effect, if any, on other aspects of the audit."[28]

25. When an auditor uses information produced by the company as audit evidence, the auditor should evaluate whether the information is sufficient and appropriate for purposes of the audit by performing procedures to, among other things, test the accuracy and completeness of the information, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness of that information.[29]

26. PCAOB standards require an auditor to evaluate the results of the audit to determine whether the audit evidence obtained is sufficient and appropriate to support the opinion to be expressed in the auditor's report.[30]

ii. Background

27. In 2017, Tarena reported in its audited financial statements net revenue of approximately 2 billion Chinese Renminbi ("RMB"). Nearly 97% of Tarena's net revenue was attributable to relatively small tuition transactions with the over 135,000 students enrolled in courses that it offered.

28. Once Tarena entered into a training contract with a student, Tarena personnel at the student's training center inputted the student's contract information into its customer relationship management ("CRM") system, including the student's name, course term, tuition fee, and payment terms. Class commencement, repayment, and other relevant information were also updated in the CRM system by the personnel at the training centers.

29. Tuition fees were proportionately recognized as revenue as the training courses were delivered, with the unearned portion of tuition fees being recorded as deferred revenue. Tarena personnel exported a revenue spreadsheet from the CRM system at the end of each month and manually re-calculated tuition revenue and an accounts receivable aging schedule based on the information produced by the CRM system. They then prepared journal entries to record tuition revenue and deferred revenue, with the corresponding accounts receivable, in Tarena's financial accounting system.

30. The accuracy and completeness of the data exported from the CRM system depended on the design and operating effectiveness of certain controls, known as IT application controls ("ITACs"), that Tarena had adopted over approval rights, data transmission, and data accuracy and integrity. The effectiveness of certain of those ITACs, in turn, depended on the proper design and operating effectiveness of the relevant underlying ITGCs.

iii. Choi and Ma's Failure to Appropriately Evaluate Tarena's Revenue-Related Controls Resulted in a Failure to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence Concerning Tarena's Revenue

a. Choi and Ma's Planning and Risk Assessment

31. Choi and Ma identified a significant risk in connection with the occurrence of Tarena's revenue: the fraud risk that Tarena's management would record fictitious student revenue. Choi and Ma planned to address that fraud risk through reliance on Tarena's controls, including IT controls, and substantive testing.

32. Choi and Ma documented that the Firm's IRM personnel should be included in the Audit because, among other reasons, (a) Tarena's business was dependent on IT processes to maintain its financial reporting and accounting books and records; and (b) the engagement team would be unable to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence without reliance on application controls.

33. Choi and Ma planned to use the IRM personnel to obtain an understanding of IT at Tarena and to test the design and operating effectiveness of Tarena's ITGCs and several ITACs related to Tarena's process for recording revenue.

34. Based on their plan to rely on Tarena's controls, Choi and Ma adopted a lower extent of planned substantive testing, as compared to the substantive testing in the prior year's audit in which the Firm did not rely on controls. They also planned to rely on Tarena's controls to provide assurance as to the accuracy and completeness of the information generated by Tarena's CRM and financial accounting systems.

b. The Engagement Team's Identification of Control Deficiencies

35. Choi, Ma, and their team identified three ITACs as important to the proper recording of tuition revenue. These ITACs were: (1) the interface between the CRM system and financial accounting system transmits accurate and complete data; (2) approval rights have been established for the CRM system; and (3) relevant data is accurate and complete in the CRM system (collectively, the "Tuition Revenue ITACs"). The engagement team concluded that the failure of any of these Tuition Revenue ITACs could impact the accuracy and completeness of tuition-related information in the CRM system and the data in the revenue spreadsheet exported from the CRM system.

36. The engagement team also concluded that the effectiveness of the three Tuition Revenue ITACs was dependent on certain ITGCs (the "ITAC-Relevant ITGCs"). During the Audit, however, the engagement team found that multiple ITAC-Relevant ITGCs were either not designed effectively or were not operating effectively. In fact, IRM staff identified that about one third of the ITAC-Relevant ITGCs were either designed ineffectively or operating ineffectively. Among those deficient ITGCs were (a) controls to prevent employees' ability to directly access and make changes to CRM system data Tarena used to calculate student tuition revenue; and (b) logging, monitoring, or reviewing controls to detect any changes to such data.

37. After identifying the ineffective ITGCs, the IRM staff documented that all of the deficiencies were mitigated by compensating controls or other factors. But the work papers in which the IRM staff purported to document the compensating controls and mitigating factors merely repeated the reasons those ITGCs were ineffective. No one on the engagement team identified or tested any mitigating factors or compensating controls for the deficient ITGCs to support their reliance on the Tuition Revenue ITACs. Choi and Ma did not ensure that, as planned, non-IRM members of the engagement team reviewed IRM personnel's conclusions concerning Tarena's ITGCs and Tuition Revenue ITACs. In fact, an IRM staff person at the assistant manager level, who performed and documented much of the IT control testing, signed off as the sole preparer and sole reviewer of certain testing work papers, with no other IRM staff or other engagement team member properly reviewing that work.

c. Choi and Ma Did Not Respond Appropriately to the Control Deficiencies

38. After learning of the ITGC deficiencies that the engagement team had identified, Choi and Ma did not respond appropriately. Under PCAOB standards, Choi and Ma were required either (a) to perform tests of other controls related to the same assertion(s) as the ineffective ITGCs; or (b) to revise their control risk assessment and modify the planned substantive procedures as necessary in light of the increased assessment of risk. However, Choi and Ma did neither. Instead, they continued with their controls reliance approach, concluding that, despite the deficiencies identified in ITAC-relevant ITGCs, they could rely on the Tuition Revenue ITACs when evaluating Tarena's tuition revenue.

39. That conclusion was inappropriate given that the three Tuition Revenue ITACs could be relied upon only when the ITAC-relevant ITGCs were designed and operating effectively. Notably, Choi and Ma did not document any support for the conclusion that they could rely on the Tuition Revenue ITACs.

40. In reaching their conclusion that the ITGC deficiencies affecting Tarena's CRM and financial accounting systems did not impact their audit strategy, Choi and Ma did not perform any procedures to determine whether the specific deficiencies were compensated for by other controls or had other mitigating factors.

41. Choi and Ma also did not evaluate whether the nature, timing, and extent of the engagement team's substantive revenue testing needed to be modified.[31] They failed to do so, despite the fact that the nature, timing, and extent of their substantive tests of revenue had been determined under the assumption that Tarena's revenue-related controls were effective, and thus the testing was more limited than it would have been absent that incorrect assumption.

42. In addition, Choi and Ma did not address the implications of the control deficiencies for the reports generated by Tarena's CRM system, from which the engagement team selected samples for revenue testing. Although the engagement team performed some manual testing over the accuracy and completeness of the CRM data, due to the identified deficiencies in the ITGCs, Choi, Ma, and the engagement team could not rely on the accuracy and completeness of the reports drawn from that system absent further work.

43. Furthermore, Choi and Ma did not appropriately evaluate the severity of the ITGC deficiencies. Although Choi and Ma documented that, overall, there was a "[s]ignificant deficiency related to the design and operating effectiveness of [ITGCs] for" Tarena's CRM and financial accounting systems and reported that significant deficiency to Tarena's audit committee, they failed to obtain or provide support for their conclusion that the severity of the ITGC deficiencies was only a significant deficiency, rather than a material weakness.

44. In summary, Choi and Ma failed to exercise due professional care and take appropriate steps after learning of numerous control deficiencies in Tarena's revenue-related IT controls.[32] As a result, they failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support Tarena's reported revenue, in violation of PCAOB standards.[33]

E. In Evaluating Tarena's Bad Debt Allowance Estimate, Choi and Ma Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence as to Tarena's Net Accounts Receivable

i. Relevant Rules and Standards

45. PCAOB standards require the auditor to evaluate the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management in the context of the financial statements taken as a whole.[34] Estimates are based on subjective as well as objective factors, and when planning and performing procedures to evaluate accounting estimates, the auditor should consider, with an attitude of professional skepticism, both the subjective and objective factors.[35] The auditor's objective when evaluating accounting estimates is to obtain sufficient appropriate evidential matter to provide reasonable assurance that all accounting estimates that could be material to the financial statements have been developed, those estimates are reasonable in the circumstances, and the accounting estimates are presented in conformity with applicable accounting principles and are properly disclosed.[36]

46. The risk of material misstatement of accounting estimates normally varies with (i) the complexity and subjectivity associated with management's process for preparing accounting estimates, which normally includes accumulating relevant, sufficient, and reliable data on which to base the estimate, developing assumptions that represent management's judgment of the most likely circumstances and events with respect to the relevant factors, and determining the estimated amount based on the assumptions and other relevant factors; (ii) the availability and reliability of relevant data; (iii) the number and significance of assumptions that are made; and (iv) the degree of uncertainty associated with the assumptions.[37]

47. "In evaluating reasonableness, the auditor should obtain an understanding of how management developed the estimate."[38] Based on that understanding, the auditor should then use one or a combination of the following approaches to test the accounting estimate: (1) review and test the process used by management to develop the estimate; (2) develop an independent expectation of the estimate to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate; or (3) review subsequent events or transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report.[39] In addition, when evaluating the reasonableness of an estimate, the auditor normally concentrates on key factors and assumptions that are significant to the estimate.[40]

48. "If a representation made by management is contradicted by other audit evidence, the auditor should investigate the circumstances," "consider the reliability of the representation made," and "consider whether his or her reliance on management's representations relating to other aspects of the financial statements is appropriate and justified."[41] In addition, if management's responses to the auditor's inquiries appear to be "implausible, inconsistent with other audit evidence, imprecise, or not at a sufficient level of detail to be useful, the auditor should perform procedures to address the matter."[42]

ii. Background

49. Tarena's accounts receivable primarily consisted of tuition fees due from students. Accounts receivable were considered past due based on their contractual payment terms. Tarena maintained a bad debt allowance for estimated losses resulting from the inability of its customers to make required payments. Tarena disclosed that it wrote off against the bad debt allowance accounts receivable that it deemed to be uncollectible after all means of collection had been exhausted and the potential for recovery was considered remote. Tarena reported its accounts receivable net of the bad debt allowance.

50. As of December 31, 2017, Tarena's reported net accounts receivable represented approximately 10% of Tarena's total reported assets. Between December 31, 2016, and December 31, 2017, Tarena's gross accounts receivable increased by more than 65%, from approximately RMB 199 million to approximately RMB 330 million.[43] Despite that increase, Tarena decreased its bad debt allowance over the same period from approximately RMB 100 million to approximately RMB 98 million.

iii. Choi and Ma Failed to Exercise Appropriate Professional Skepticism and Due Care in Evaluating the Bad Debt Allowance Accounting Estimate, Resulting in a Failure to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence for Net Accounts Receivable

51. As described below, Choi and Ma violated PCAOB standards because, after identifying Tarena's bad debt allowance as a significant accounting estimate, they did not obtain an adequate understanding of how management developed the estimate, did not appropriately evaluate its reasonableness, and did not consider evidence indicating that the estimate might not be reasonable.

a. Choi and Ma Did Not Obtain an Adequate Understanding of How Management Developed the Bad Debt Allowance

52. Choi and Ma identified Tarena's bad debt allowance as a significant accounting estimate and concluded that the allowance presented a significant risk of material misstatement for the value of tuition receivables. However, Choi and Ma did not obtain an adequate understanding of how management developed its bad debt allowance estimate.

53. Tarena disclosed that, in establishing its bad debt allowance, it considered "historical losses, the students' financial condition, the amount of accounts receivables in dispute, the accounts receivables aging and the students' payment patterns."[44] In actually calculating the allowance, however, Tarena mechanically applied particular bad debt ratios to different categories of past-due receivables based both on the age of the receivables and the year of enrollment of the students from whom tuition was due ("aging buckets"). Tarena then aggregated the results of applying the various ratios to the receivables in different aging buckets to arrive at its bad debt allowance estimate.

54. To understand how management developed its bad debt estimate, therefore, Choi and Ma needed to understand how management arrived at its various bad debt ratios. They did not do so. Instead, they documented that management used actual cash collections and cash collection forecasts as inputs, but did not obtain an adequate understanding of how management used that information to develop any particular bad debt ratio.

55. Choi, Ma, and the engagement team also did not obtain an adequate understanding of management's basis for its cash collection forecasts, including whether management accumulated relevant, sufficient, and reliable data to arrive at the forecasts, notwithstanding that certain of them appeared unreasonable on their face. For example, for one quarter, management forecast that Tarena would collect the same amount of cash—RMB 6 million—from students enrolled in each of the years 2015, 2016, and 2017, despite the very different ages and gross amounts of those accounts receivable groupings.

56. In short, Choi and Ma did not obtain an adequate understanding of how management arrived at the particular bad debt ratios that drove Tarena's bad debt allowance estimate, despite the bad debt ratios being assumptions that were significant to the accounts receivable estimate. They therefore did not obtain an adequate understanding of how management developed the estimate, in violation of PCAOB standards.[45]

b. Choi and Ma Did Not Respond Appropriately to Contradictory Audit Evidence

57. Choi, Ma, and the engagement team also did not obtain an adequate understanding of the reason for, and did not obtain support for the reasonableness of, the significant decrease in Tarena's bad debt allowance percentage in 2017. To the contrary, Choi and Ma were on notice during the Audit of evidence that appeared to contradict management's decision to decrease the allowance, yet they did not appropriately address that contradictory audit evidence. For example:

a. As noted above, between year-end 2016 and year-end 2017, Tarena's gross accounts receivable increased by more than 65%, from approximately RMB 199 million to approximately RMB 330 million, yet Tarena's management decreased its bad debt allowance over the same period.

b. Similarly, Tarena's reported net revenue increased from approximately RMB 1.6 billion to approximately RMB 2.0 billion, or by 25%, and its total past due accounts receivable increased from approximately RMB 121 million to approximately RMB 199 million, or by 64%, from year-end 2016 to year-end 2017. Yet management decreased Tarena's bad debt expense over the same period.

[45] AS 2501.10; see also id. at 04-.05.

c. Management decreased Tarena's bad debt allowance from 50% in 2016 to 30% in 2017 as a percentage of year-end accounts receivable balances. While the engagement team documented reasons for the 20% decrease, including a write-off of RMB 33.7 million of accounts receivable in 2017 (with no write-off in 2016), those reasons accounted for only a small portion of the decrease. Furthermore, the aging of Tarena's accounts receivable worsened in 2017, yet the bad debt allowance as a percentage of aged accounts receivable decreased from 28% in 2016 to 16% in 2017.

d. Tarena significantly increased its cash collection projection for 2018, despite, as Choi and Ma were aware, there being a tighter student loan regulatory environment in China affecting Tarena's potential customer pool.

e. Ma knew that in 2017 management decreased the bad debt ratios for tuition due from students enrolled in 2015 and that management's basis for this adjustment was that it believed actual collections from 2015-enrolled students were better than from students enrolled in prior years. Ma did not obtain adequate support for management's representation and did not consider contradictory information suggesting difficulties in collections from 2015-enrolled students.

f. Shortly before the Firm issued its audit opinion, Choi was informed that the subsequent collections data from early 2018 did not present an "optimistic" situation, potentially requiring a revision of Tarena's bad debt allowance. Yet Choi did not sufficiently question the adequacy of the bad debt allowance, which was not revised.

58. Choi and Ma did not, as required by PCAOB standards, resolve the doubts that this evidence should have raised about the adequacy of Tarena's bad debt allowance or attempt to resolve the inconsistencies between the evidence and management's decision to reduce the bad debt allowance in 2017.[46]

c. Choi and Ma Failed to Evaluate the Reasonableness of the Bad Debt Allowance in Accordance with PCAOB Standards

59. Choi and Ma also did not ensure that the specific procedures the engagement team performed sufficiently addressed the risks associated with the bad debt allowance and accorded with PCAOB standards.

60. Choi, Ma, and the engagement team appeared to attempt to use a combination of the three approaches identified in AS 2501.10 to evaluate the reasonableness of the bad debt allowance estimate. However, they did not appropriately evaluate the estimate using any of the approaches.

61. With respect to reviewing and testing the process used by management to develop the bad debt allowance estimate, Choi and Ma, as noted above, did not obtain an adequate understanding of management's process for arriving at its estimate. For that reason, and also because they did not respond appropriately to contradictory audit evidence that their procedures revealed, Choi and Ma did not appropriately test management's process for developing the estimate.

62. Choi and Ma's testing of management's process for developing the bad debt allowance estimate was deficient for other reasons also, including that the testing used information from the revenue spreadsheet exported from the CRM system. As explained above, due to the identified deficiencies in Tarena's IT controls, Choi, Ma, and the engagement could not rely on the accuracy and completeness of the reports drawn from the CRM system absent further work.

63. Under Choi and Ma's direction, the engagement team also appeared to attempt to develop an independent expectation of the bad debt allowance to corroborate the reasonableness of management's estimate. The engagement team did not perform this procedure with due professional care. For example, the engagement team included information for certain periods that appeared unreasonable. Choi and Ma did not consider whether inclusion of that information rendered their independent expectation unreliable.

64. Moreover, creating an independent expectation only achieves its objective if the auditor uses the result of that procedure to assess the reasonableness of management's estimate. Although the independent expectation procedure that Choi and Ma developed indicated that Tarena's bad debt allowance was understated by an amount that exceeded the materiality level set for the Audit, Ma and the engagement team did not appropriately evaluate whether the difference should be treated as a misstatement and, if so, whether that misstatement was material.

65. Finally, under Choi and Ma's direction, the engagement team reviewed certain subsequent events or transactions occurring prior to the date of the auditor's report. Specifically, Ma and the engagement team compared actual cash collections in the first quarter of 2018 to management's higher cash collection forecast for that quarter, but they did not adequately evaluate the reason for the shortfall or its implications as to the reasonableness of the bad debt allowance estimate. Also, for the reasons stated earlier, including the failure to adequately understand how management developed its collection forecast for the first quarter of 2018, this procedure did not provide evidence of the reasonableness of Tarena's bad debt allowance.

66. In summary, Choi and Ma failed to exercise due care or to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in performing any of the procedures identified in PCAOB standards for evaluating the reasonableness of management's bad debt allowance.[47] Moreover, as a result, Choi and Ma did not perform, or ensure that their engagement team performed, sufficient substantive procedures that were specifically responsive to the significant risk they identified with respect to accounts receivable.[48]

F. Dong Failed to Fulfill His Supervisory Responsibilities

67. PCAOB standards provide that the engagement partner is responsible for the engagement and its performance.[49] Accordingly, the engagement partner is responsible for proper supervision of the work of engagement team members and for compliance with PCAOB standards, including standards regarding using the work of specialists, other auditors, internal auditors, and others who are involved in testing controls.[50] Engagement team members who assist the engagement partner with supervision of the work of other engagement team members also should comply with the requirements of the PCAOB supervision standard with respect to the supervisory responsibilities assigned to them.[51]

68. The engagement partner and, as applicable, others performing supervisory activities should "[r]eview the work of engagement team members to evaluate whether: (1) [t]he work was performed and documented; (2) [t]he objectives of the procedures were achieved; and (3) [t]he results of the work support the conclusions reached."[52] To determine the extent of supervision necessary for engagement team members to perform their work as directed and form appropriate conclusions, the engagement partner and other engagement team members performing supervisory activities should take into account, among other things, the risks of material misstatement.[53]

69. Dong was the IRM partner on the Audit with overall responsibility for the IRM personnel's involvement and the overall IRM work quality. Accordingly, Dong's role was to assist Choi with supervision over this area of the Audit.[54]

70. Dong assigned an IRM associate director to the engagement. However, Dong himself had minimal involvement in the Audit. Aside from the IRM planning memo, Dong did not review any work papers and did not obtain an understanding during the Audit of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, or conclusions reached by the IRM personnel.

71. In fact, Dong's only source of information about the IRM personnel's audit work was through his occasional oral communications with the IRM associate director. He did not have any other communications with other IRM personnel concerning the Audit.

72. Dong relied almost exclusively on the IRM associate director, despite never having worked with him before, and despite the assigned work being in an area of identified higher risk. Dong did not become aware of how little involvement the IRM associate director himself had in the Audit.[55] For example, Dong was not aware that the IRM associate director did not review numerous work papers prepared by IRM personnel and did not charge any time to the Audit.

73. As detailed above, the IRM personnel on the Audit identified control deficiencies in Tarena's ITGCs, which increased the risk of material misstatement. As a result, Dong should have adjusted and increased his level of supervision.[56] He did not do so, in violation of PCAOB standards.

74. Moreover, given his lack of involvement with the Audit and the personnel he was responsible for supervising, Dong was unfamiliar with the IRM personnel's procedures and conclusions, as well as their documentation. For example:

a. He was not aware that the IRM personnel did not document the key elements of understanding Tarena's IT environment, a procedure that they had been designated to perform in the IRM planning memo.

b. He did not discuss or evaluate the identified ineffective ITGCs with the IRM personnel or other engagement team members.

---

54 Id. at .04.

55 See id. at .04-.05.

56 Id. at .06.

c. He also was not aware that the IRM personnel did not properly document compensating controls or mitigating factors for the ineffective ITGCs.

d. He did not obtain an understanding of how the engagement team determined the severity of the control deficiencies, nor how the engagement team concluded that the ineffective ITGCs did not affect the Tuition Revenue ITACs.

e. He also did not review, or ensure others on the IRM team reviewed as planned, a number of control testing work papers for which an IRM staff person at the assistant manager level had signed off as both preparer and sole reviewer.

75. Accordingly, Dong failed to sufficiently supervise the engagement team's IT controls testing to evaluate if the procedures were performed and documented; if its objectives were achieved; and if the results supported the conclusions reached, in violation of AS 1201.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), CHOI Chung Chuen, MA Hong Chao, and DONG Chang Ling are hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), CHOI Chung Chuen and MA Hong Chao are each barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[57]

C. After one year from the date of this Order, CHOI Chung Chuen and MA Hong Chao may each file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

[57] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Choi and Ma. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), CHOI Chung Chuen and MA Hong Chao are required to complete, before filing a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered firm, twenty hours of continuing professional education ("CPE") in subjects that are directly related to the audits of issuer financial statements under PCAOB standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the CPE they are required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for a period of one year from the date of this Order, DONG Chang Ling's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Dong shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "lead partner," "practitioner-in-charge," or "concurring partner"); (4) exercise authority, or supervise the work of another person exercising authority, either to sign a registered public accounting firm's name to an audit report, or to consent to the use of a previously issued audit report, for any issuer, broker, or dealer; (5) assist the engagement partner in fulfilling his or her responsibilities in an audit under paragraph 4 of AS 1201; (6) participate on an audit as an engagement team member with specialized skill or knowledge in information technology, see AS 1201, App. C.1, Note; or (7) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as the "other auditor," or "another auditor," as those terms are used in AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors.[58]

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), DONG Chang Ling is required to complete, within one year from the date of this Order, twenty hours of CPE related to AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; AS 1015, Due Professional Care in the Performance of Work; AS 1215, Audit Documentation; or AS 2301, The Auditor's Responses to the Risks of Material [58] Nor shall Dong assume any equivalent role, such as a serving as a "lead auditor," "other auditor," or "referred-to auditor," as such terms will be defined by Appendix A of AS 2101, Audit Planning, when amendments to AS 2101 become effective for audits for fiscal years ending on or after December 15, 2024.

Misstatement (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the CPE he is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), civil money penalties are imposed on Respondents in the following amounts: (i) CHOI Chung Chuen—$75,000; (ii) MA Hong Chao—$50,000; and (iii) DONG Chang Ling—$25,000.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondents shall pay these civil money penalties within thirty (30) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies the payor as a Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalties pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondents based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

4. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

5. By consenting to this Order, CHOI Chung Chuen and MA Hong Chao acknowledge that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

6. By consenting to this Order, DONG Chang Ling acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in the PCAOB summarily suspending or barring him pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(b), following written notice to him at the address he last provided to the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations in writing as of the time of the issuance of this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-014

March 28, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP ("Respondent," "PwC," or the "Firm");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,750,000 on Respondent; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB quality control standards that required the Firm to establish and appropriately communicate policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances and consult, on a timely basis, concerning independence with individuals within or outside the firm, when appropriate.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings contained herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of this proceeding, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP is a limited liability partnership organized under the laws of the state of Delaware, and headquartered in New York, New York. The Firm is licensed to practice public accounting in multiple jurisdictions, including the State of New York (Partnership ID No. 036148). The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. At all relevant times, PwC served as the external auditor for an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), referred to herein as "Issuer A."

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns PwC's failure to implement a system of quality control that provided reasonable assurance that its personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances.

3. Due to its size and substantial business activities beyond its provision of audit services, PwC can often face complex, unusual, or unfamiliar issues that may impact the Firm's independence, either in fact or appearance. Those issues can include circumstances which are not specifically addressed in applicable independence rules and standards, but which have the potential to impair independence and must be evaluated under the general standard of independence set forth in Rule 2-01(b) of Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC" or "Commission") Regulation S-X ("Reg. S-X").[2] To mitigate the resulting risks to independence, the

[2] Rule 2-01(b) of Reg. S-X, 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(b), provides:

> The Commission will not recognize an accountant as independent, with respect to an audit client, if the accountant is not, or a reasonable investor with knowledge of all relevant facts and circumstances would conclude that the accountant is not, capable of Firm maintains an Independence Office, which develops and provides guidance, training, and resources to PwC professionals on independence, and serves as a consultative resource for independence questions and issues.

4. However, during the period covered by the Order, the Firm's quality control policies and procedures, and the Firm's communications around those policies and procedures, failed to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would timely consult with the Independence Office or other qualified individuals and/or refer to authoritative literature or other sources, when dealing with certain complex, unusual, or unfamiliar independence issues that warranted such steps. In particular, PwC's quality control policies and procedures did not advise or require any Independence Office consultation prior to discussions with an audit client about the possibility of terminating the audit relationship to allow for consideration of potential joint business activities. Nor did they require such a consultation after such discussions took place. The Firm's policies and procedures, as communicated, also failed to provide reasonable assurance that PwC professionals would timely and appropriately evaluate the impact of such discussions under Reg. S-X's general standard of independence. As a result, the Firm's quality control policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would comply with the general standard of independence set forth in Reg. S-X Rule 2-01(b), and related obligations under PCAOB rules and standards addressing independence.[3] The Firm, therefore, violated QC § 20, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice.

5. The foregoing quality control deficiencies were illustrated in 2018 when numerous PwC leaders and partners failed to initiate an Independence Office consultation or conduct other appropriate independence analysis as PwC explored the possibility of terminating its audit relationship with a client, Issuer A—a supplier of software that PwC utilized (as a consumer) in a variety of both internal and client-facing business activities—to allow for a potential joint business relationship ("JBR") with Issuer A.

6. On November 28, 2018, at the instruction of one of PwC's national leaders for Assurance ("National-Level Assurance Leader"), two PwC partners—including the audit exercising objective and impartial judgment on all issues encompassed within the accountant's engagement. In determining whether an accountant is independent, the Commission will consider all relevant circumstances, including all relationships between the accountant and the audit client, and not just those relating to reports filed with the Commission.

engagement partner for the then-ongoing integrated audit of Issuer A's December 31, 2018 financial statements ("Audit Engagement Partner")—met with Issuer A's CEO and Issuer A's President and discussed, among other things, the independence restrictions currently imposed on the parties and business opportunities that PwC and Issuer A could pursue in a JBR (the "November 28 Meeting"). PwC planned and conducted that meeting in response to a projection in a June 2018 "business case" document, prepared by members of PwC's Tax group, showing that PwC could generate substantially more revenue from a JBR with Issuer A than it was earning as Issuer A's auditor. Going into the meeting, PwC anticipated that Issuer A would be intrigued by a JBR. And, both during and after the meeting, Issuer A's CEO expressed enthusiasm for a JBR with PwC, which the CEO understood might be worth tens of millions of dollars to Issuer A. PwC and Issuer A then immediately began exploring the possibility of transitioning Issuer A to another auditor, so that there would be no independence-related restrictions on the commercial relationships and business activities between PwC and Issuer A—a process which PwC refers to, internally, as "channel change"—which would free PwC and Issuer A to enter into a JBR. At the same time, however, PwC planned to continue performing the integrated audit of Issuer A's financial statements and internal control over financial reporting for the year ended December 31, 2018 ("2018 Audit") and also to perform a review of Issuer A's Q1 2019 interim financial statements, while simultaneously arranging meetings with Issuer A's CEO in follow-up to the November 28 Meeting.

7. Despite the risks to PwC's independence stemming from the unusual facts and circumstances surrounding the November 28 Meeting, no PwC policy required any consultation to take place with PwC's Independence Office, either before or after the November 28 Meeting. Nor did any written independence policy, procedure, or guidance provide reasonable assurance that PwC professionals would promptly reevaluate independence under the general standard of independence set forth in Rule 2-01(b) of Reg. S-X, in light of the unusual events surrounding the November 28 Meeting.

8. In fact, PwC professionals did not initiate any consultation with the Independence Office related to either the internal discussions about the potential JBR or the November 28 Meeting and its aftermath until January 2019, after the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("DEI") began an inquiry into PwC's independence from Issuer A. Only then, in response to a DEI document and information request, did PwC personnel finally consult with the Independence Office about the November 28 Meeting and related internal and external discussions, and their impact on whether PwC would appear independent to a reasonable investor.[4] As a result of that consultation, PwC advised Issuer A in January 2019

[4] In addition to the JBR-related discussions, the Independence Office also considered other PwC activities relating to Issuer A, including both internal and client-facing business activities, in order to that, although the 2018 Audit was already underway, Issuer A should consider terminating PwC as its auditor, due to independence concerns. Issuer A then terminated PwC before PwC issued an audit report, and Issuer A retained a different independent public accountant to audit its 2018 financial statements.

C. PwC Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

9. PCAOB rules require registered public accounting firms to comply with the Board's quality control standards.[5] Those standards require that registered firms establish and maintain an adequate system of quality control.[6] "A firm's system of quality control encompasses the firm's organizational structure and the policies adopted and procedures established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance of complying with professional standards. The nature, extent, and formality of a firm's quality control policies and procedures should be appropriately comprehensive and suitably designed in relation to the firm's size, the number of its offices, the degree of authority allowed its personnel and its offices, the knowledge and experience of its personnel, the nature and complexity of the firm's practice, and appropriate cost-benefit considerations."[7]

10. PCAOB standards provide that a firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[8] A firm's system of quality control should, among other things, include policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances.[9] "Policies and procedures should also be established to provide reasonable assurance that personnel refer to authoritative literature or other sources and consult, on a timely basis, with individuals within

6 See QC § 20.01; see also QC § 20.03 ("A firm has a responsibility to ensure that its personnel comply with the professional standards applicable to its accounting and auditing practice. or outside the firm, when appropriate (for example, when dealing with complex, unusual, or unfamiliar issues)."[10]

11. "A firm should communicate its quality control policies and procedures to its personnel in a manner that provides reasonable assurance that those policies and procedures are understood and complied with. The form and extent of such communications should be sufficiently comprehensive to provide the firm's personnel with an understanding of the quality control policies and procedures applicable to them."[11]

12. As described below, PwC failed to establish and appropriately communicate policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would: (1) maintain independence, including the appearance of independence, throughout the audit and professional engagement period, as required under the general standard of Rule 2-01(b) of Reg. S-X; and (2) timely consult and refer to authoritative literature and other sources about auditor independence, when appropriate.

i. Independence Requirements

13. PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[12] Among other requirements, registered public accounting firms and their associated persons must comply with the Board's auditing and independence standards in connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report.[13]

14. PCAOB Rule 3520 requires a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[14] Rule 3520 "encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria applicable to the engagement set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws."[15] PCAOB standards likewise require compliance with the Commission's independence criteria and other applicable independence criteria.[16]

S-X Rule 2-01(f)(5), 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(f)(5) (defining the term "audit and professional engagement period"). Under PCAOB Rule 3501(a)(iii) and Reg. S-X Rule 2-01(f)(5), the "audit period" includes the period covered by any financial statements being audited or reviewed. The "professional engagement period" begins with the earlier of the agreement to perform audit or review services or the start of those procedures and ends

15. To be independent within the meaning of AS 1005, an auditor "must be without bias with respect to the client since otherwise he would lack that impartiality necessary for the dependability of his findings."[17] AS 1005 further states that auditors should not only be independent in fact, but should avoid situations that may lead outsiders to doubt their independence.[18] Similarly, Rule 2-01(b) of Reg. S-X provides: "The Commission will not recognize an accountant as independent, with respect to an audit client, if the accountant is not, or a reasonable investor with knowledge of all relevant facts and circumstances would conclude that the accountant is not, capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment on all issues encompassed within the accountant's engagement."[19] ET § 101, which the Board adopted from the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct,[20] further provides that "[i]t is impossible to enumerate all circumstances in which the appearance of independence might be questioned." That standard also states that "[m]embers should consider whether personal and business relationships between the member and the client or an individual associated with the client would lead a reasonable person aware of all the relevant facts to conclude that there is an unacceptable threat to the member's and the firm's independence."[21]

ii. Deficiencies in PwC's Independence Quality Control Policies and Procedures

16. PwC is one of the largest accounting firms in the world, and the nature of its practice, which includes substantial tax and advisory services, gives rise to independence risks that are less common for firms with less complexity. The Firm has established an Independence Office intended to address associated independence risks. That office, which is a key pillar in PwC's system of quality control, comprises independence-focused individuals with specialized knowledge, and is responsible for maintaining PwC's independence policies, processes, and controls, and for developing the Firm's independence training courses. The Independence Office is also intended to serve as a resource when independence-related questions arise, including by providing ad hoc guidance on an as-needed basis.

17. However, at the time of the events described below, PwC's quality control policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel referred to authoritative independence guidance or engaged in independence consultations, on a timely basis, in all appropriate circumstances. In particular, neither PwC's written independence policies and procedures, nor its communications and trainings around them, provided reasonable assurance that PwC personnel would refer to authoritative literature or other sources and promptly consult with knowledgeable individuals within or outside the Firm prior to engaging in discussions with audit clients about potential joint business activities prior to a JBR proposal, including commercially motivated "channel change" discussions. PwC also did not adequately communicate to its personnel in this context that, under applicable independence criteria, an accountant's appearance of independence could be impaired in situations not specifically addressed in, or prohibited by, an independence rule or standard, and that all relevant facts and circumstances, including all relationships between the accountant and the audit client, should be considered in such situations.

18. As a result, PwC's quality control policies and procedures did not provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances, in violation of QC § 20.

iii. PwC Professionals' Failure to Timely Consult About the Internal Discussions and Interactions with Issuer A Regarding a Potential Channel Change and JBR

19. By the beginning of 2018, professionals within a PwC group specializing in the use of technology to improve tax reporting (the "Tax Sub-Group") were making significant use of Issuer A's software in a variety of the Firm's client-facing activities. However, the Tax Sub-Group understood that there were certain marketplace activities that it could not engage in related to Issuer A and Issuer A's software while PwC was Issuer A's auditor.

20. In February 2018, a practice area leader in the Tax Sub-Group ("Tax Sub-Group Partner") held a call with several PwC partners to explore whether there had been a "channel choice discussion" within PwC concerning Issuer A—i.e., whether PwC had considered if it would be preferable to sever the audit relationship with Issuer A, thereby removing independence-related restrictions on PwC's business interactions with Issuer A.[22] The call included the Issuer A Audit Engagement Partner and a PwC Assurance leader for the area covering Issuer A ("Local Assurance Leader").

21. During the February 2018 call, the Tax Sub-Group Partner shared his thought that there could be a substantial benefit to PwC in forming an alliance with Issuer A and pursuing a joint go-to-market strategy, which he understood would first require that PwC terminate its audit relationship with Issuer A. The Tax Sub-Group Partner specifically raised the idea of pursuing a channel change with Issuer A to enable such an alliance. In response, the participants in the February 2018 call agreed that there was merit to internally exploring whether to change the relationship with Issuer A.

22. Thereafter, with the help of the Tax Sub-Group's leader ("Tax Sub-Group Leader") and others, the Tax Sub-Group Partner drafted a document summarizing the business case for pursuing a channel change and JBR with Issuer A. That business case document laid out the key business drivers for considering a channel change and JBR with Issuer A at the conclusion of the year-end 2018 Audit. It included specific business activities that could be pursued through a JBR. It also estimated that the proposed channel change and JBR could enable PwC to generate revenues that were substantially higher than PwC's audit revenues from Issuer A.

23. The Tax Sub-Group Leader and Tax Sub-Group Partner shared the business case document with the Audit Engagement Partner in July 2018. The Audit Engagement Partner then shared and discussed the business case document with various local and regional leaders in PwC's Assurance group, including the Local Assurance Leader. At about the same time, the Tax Sub-Group Leader also discussed the Tax Sub-Group's proposal with two members of the Firm's national leadership, including the National-Level Assurance Leader.

[22] Within PwC, audit clients subject to auditor independence restrictions are referred to as "channel 1" or "C1" clients. Clients not subject to such restrictions are referred to as "channel 2" or "C2" clients.

24. The Audit Engagement Partner, upon reviewing and forwarding the business case document to the Local Assurance Leader, indicated that Issuer A would likely be intrigued by the Tax group's proposal and open to having a channel change discussion. The Local Assurance Leader also shared that assessment with a regional PwC Assurance leader ("Regional Assurance Leader") and another local PwC leader, and noted to them that a channel change discussion concerning Issuer A was likely to reach high levels of Firm leadership.

25. In October 2018, the Tax Sub-Group Leader sent the National-Level Assurance Leader an updated version of the business case document for pursuing a JBR and channel change with Issuer A. The updated business case document noted that Issuer A was "aggressively pushing us to work with them in unique ways" and was "a fast growing company looking to partner with someone like us."

26. Following the receipt of the updated business case document, the National-Level Assurance Leader instructed the Audit Engagement Partner to arrange and participate in a meeting between Issuer A's CEO and a member of PwC's Tax group, in light of the Tax group's JBR and channel change proposal. The National-Level Assurance Leader gave that instruction in meetings that included the Regional Assurance Leader, Local Assurance Leader, Tax Sub-Group Leader, and Audit Engagement Partner. The National-Level Assurance Leader also instructed that PwC should not propose a channel change in the meeting, noting that it should be Issuer A's decision whether to terminate the audit relationship. However, the National-Level Assurance Leader indicated that the Audit Engagement Partner and Tax group representative should explain during the meeting with Issuer A's CEO both what PwC could and could not do while the audit relationship continued, and instructed that he wanted to be "[kept] in the loop as the discussions progress."

27. Based on the National-Level Assurance Leader's guidance, the Audit Engagement Partner then scheduled a meeting with Issuer A's CEO for November 28, 2018, which was a time when PwC would already be performing work on the 2018 Audit.

28. On November 28, 2018, the Audit Engagement Partner and the Tax Sub-Group Partner met with both Issuer A's CEO and Issuer A's President/Chief Revenue Officer. During the meeting, the Tax Sub-Group Partner described, among other things, PwC's use of Issuer A software, PwC's strategy to grow its business in areas that were relevant to Issuer A, and certain marketplace opportunities and activities relating to Issuer A that PwC could not engage in while PwC remained Issuer A's auditor.

29. On December 10, 2018, the Audit Engagement Partner described in an email to the National-Level Assurance Leader, Regional Assurance Leader, Local Assurance Leader, Tax Sub-Group Leader, and Tax Sub-Group Partner, that the Issuer A representatives in the November 28 Meeting: (1) "were very receptive to the discussion and the conversation evolved very quickly," (2) "were very excited about the possibility of expanding their relationship with us," and (3) "directly asked . . . what the process looks like for auditor transition." The Audit Engagement Partner also described in that email that, in follow-up conversations with Issuer A representatives, the Audit Engagement Partner understood that Issuer A's CEO "'could hardly contain himself' after coming out of the meeting with us, and sees the opportunity as a 'tens of million of dollars [sic].'" Later that month, Issuer A's Audit Committee issued a request for proposal to audit firms, including PwC, to allow for consideration of a possible channel change.

30. Because the tax group's internal JBR proposal was the impetus for the November 28 Meeting, and such a JBR was impermissible under the independence rules and standards while PwC was Issuer A's auditor, there was a risk that the November 28 Meeting could lead to discussions that would cause a reasonable investor to doubt PwC's independence from Issuer A and conclude that PwC was not capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment on all issues encompassed within the ongoing 2018 Audit.

31. Moreover, the substance of the conversations that did occur during the November 28 Meeting and follow-up discussions, as reported in the Audit Engagement Partner's December 10 summary, increased the risk that a reasonable investor with knowledge of all relevant facts and circumstances would have concluded that PwC was not capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment on all issues encompassed within the ongoing 2018 Audit.

32. Nevertheless, PwC's then-existing independence policies and procedures did not require an Independence Office consultation in these circumstances. More specifically, while PwC's then-existing policies required consultation with the Independence Office regarding any "proposed" JBR, they did not require any consultation before or after discussions about potential joint business activities with an audit client prior to a formal proposal. In the absence of such guidance, the PwC professionals discussed above did not initiate an Independence Office or similar consultation either before the November 28 Meeting or reasonably promptly after receiving the Audit Engagement Partner's summary of that meeting and the follow-up conversations with Issuer A. Nor did any of those PwC leaders or partners perform or cause PwC to perform a specific analysis of the implications of the November 28 Meeting and follow-up conversations under the general standard of independence set forth in Rule 2-01(b) of Reg. S-X, either before or reasonably promptly after they occurred.

33. Instead, with the knowledge of each of the PwC leaders and partners identified in paragraph 29, above, PwC continued to perform the 2018 Audit, and was also planning to perform a review of Issuer A's interim financial statements for the first quarter of 2019. Some of those professionals also immediately began to plan follow-up meetings with Issuer A's CEO, that would have taken place while the 2018 Audit was ongoing.

34. The PwC leaders and partners did not initiate a consultation with the Independence Office, or perform an appropriate analysis of its independence from Issuer A in the wake of the November 28 Meeting, until DEI initiated its investigation. On January 4, 2019, DEI sent PwC a document and information request concerning PwC's independence from Issuer A, which caused the Firm to initiate a consultation with the Independence Office. During that consultation, the Independence Office learned about the Tax group proposal for a channel change and JBR, and the related November 28 Meeting, for the first time. The Independence Office then considered those circumstances, alongside PwC's other non-audit interactions with and involving Issuer A—including PwC's enterprise-wide license of Issuer A software, PwC's encouraging its staff to use Issuer A software, and PwC's use of Issuer A software in client-facing activities—and determined that there was a risk that a reasonable investor could conclude that PwC was not independent of Issuer A in 2018.

35. On January 17, 2019, PwC informed the Chair of Issuer A's Audit Committee that PwC was recommending that Issuer A's Audit Committee consider immediately replacing PwC as Issuer A's auditor. The following day, PwC made the same recommendation to the full Audit Committee. Shortly thereafter, the Audit Committee determined to terminate PwC as Issuer A's auditor.

36. The foregoing events related to Issuer A illustrate PwC's failure to establish or appropriately communicate policies and procedures that would provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would maintain independence, in fact and in appearance, in all required circumstances.

IV.

PCAOB's investigation, including (1) adopting additional policies and procedures relating to independence being maintained (in both fact and appearance) in connection with any channel change discussions between the Firm and an audit client and (2) providing supplemental training to audit, tax, and advisory professionals on independence risks, including those arising from the use of software and other products sold by audit clients.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED, effective immediately, that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,750,000 is imposed on PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F)-(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6) & (9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP shall establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, its independence-related quality control policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) the Firm and its personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances; and (2) Firm personnel refer to authoritative literature or other sources and consult, on a timely basis, with individuals within or outside the Firm, when appropriate (for example, when dealing with complex, unusual, or unfamiliar issues). As part of that review and evaluation, the Firm shall consider and analyze, without limitation, whether its policies and procedures and related guidance that the Firm makes available to its professionals in searchable databases adequately address the topics described in paragraphs IV.C.2 and IV.C.3, below.

2. Communication of Quality Control Policies and Procedures. Within 60 days of the completion of the undertaking described in paragraph IV.C.1, above, PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP shall:

a. Communicate to all of the Firm's professionals[23] any additions, revisions, or supplements to its independence-related quality control policies and procedures as a result of the undertaking described in paragraph IV.C.1, above, in a manner that provides reasonable assurance that those policies and procedures are understood and complied with;

b. Communicate to all of the Firm's professionals to emphasize and reinforce:

    1. That an auditor must be independent in both fact and appearance;

    2. That appearance of independence, within the meaning of Reg. S-X Rule 2-01(b), 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(b), is measured through a "reasonable investor" test, which is an objective standard, and the SEC will not recognize an accountant as independent, with respect to an audit client, if a reasonable investor with knowledge of all relevant facts and circumstances would conclude that the accountant is not capable of exercising objective and impartial judgment on all issues encompassed within the accountant's engagement;

    3. That an auditor may violate independence rules, regulations, and standards set forth by the PCAOB and SEC if facts and circumstances would lead a reasonable investor to doubt the auditor's independence from an audit client—even if the particular circumstance is not expressly addressed in, or prohibited by, a more specific independence-related rule, regulation, or standard;

    4. That, in determining whether an accountant is independent, the SEC will consider all relevant

[23] For purposes of the undertakings set forth in Section IV of this order, "professionals" shall mean any partner, principal, shareholder, or professional employee of the Firm, regardless of whether such person provides audit services.

circumstances, including all relationships between the accountant and the audit client, and not just those relating to reports filed with the SEC;

5. That a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons must be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period, and that the determination of compliance with independence requirements is not limited to preliminary engagement activities and should be reevaluated with changes in circumstances; and

6. That, as part of the policies and procedures that the Firm has adopted in response to QC § 20.19, it is the Firm's policy to encourage consultations with the Independence Office when complex, unusual, or unfamiliar circumstances arise that may bear on a reasonable investor's evaluation of auditor independence.

3. Training of Current Professionals. PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP shall ensure that each of its professionals receives 4 hours of additional training on auditor independence within 12 months of the completion of the undertaking described in paragraph IV.C.1, above, which must include this order as a required reading material and include each of the following topics:

   a. The requirement, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 3520, Auditor Independence, that both a registered firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period and satisfy all independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, and in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws;

   b. The general standard of independence set forth in Reg. S-X, Rule 2-01(b), 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(b);

c. The obligations of auditors to avoid situations that may lead outsiders to doubt their independence from an audit client, pursuant to AS 1005.03, Independence;

d. The obligations of auditors, pursuant to ET § 101.02, Interpretation of Rule 101, to consider whether personal and business relationships with a client or an individual associated with the client would lead a reasonable person aware of all the relevant facts to conclude that there is an unacceptable threat to auditor independence; and

e. The policies and procedures that the Firm has adopted to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that personnel maintain independence (in fact and in appearance) in all required circumstances, including:

    1. Key factors that the Firm has identified that should be considered in evaluating whether the Firm has maintained the appearance of independence;

    2. Authoritative literature and other resources available to Firm professionals concerning auditor independence, and how and where to access that literature and those resources;

    3. The role of, and services provided by, the Firm's Independence Office, including the consultative services available from and provided by the Independence Office;

    4. The process for initiating an Independence Office consultation;

    5. Firm policies and procedures for ensuring that independence is not impaired by any proposal to form new relationships with an audit client, including any required consultations prior to communicating with an audit client about potential changes to the Firm's relationships with that client;

6. Steps Firm personnel can take if they believe that other professional staff are engaged in or planning activities for which an Independence Office consultation is warranted, but has not taken place; and

7. How Firm personnel can raise concerns about whether the Firm or its professionals have violated, or may in the future violate, independence rules or standards, including that:

    a. Individuals may raise concerns anonymously through PwC's Ethics Helpline; and

    b. The Firm will protect individuals from retaliation for raising good-faith concerns, even if the concerns are ultimately unsubstantiated.

4. Future Independence Training. For a period of five years following the date of this Order, PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP shall ensure that each professional it hires after the date of this Order receives 4 hours of training on auditor independence within the time period set forth for the completion of the undertakings in paragraph IV.C.3, above, or within 60 days of being hired, whichever is later, including training covering the topics described in paragraph IV.C.3, above.

5. Certification. Respondent shall certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs IV.C.1 through IV.C.3, as follows: (a) within 60 days after completing the undertakings in paragraph IV.C.2, the Firm will certify compliance with paragraphs IV.C.1 and IV.C.2, and (b) within 60 days after completing the undertakings in paragraph IV.C.3, the Firm will certify compliance with paragraph IV.C.3. The certification of the Firm's compliance with paragraph IV.C.1 shall include copies of the policies, procedures, and related guidance, including any supplements or amendments thereto, that PwC is relying upon to satisfy that undertaking. The certification of the Firm's compliance with paragraph IV.C.2 shall include copies of the communications sent to the Firm's professionals to comply with those undertakings. The certification of the Firm's compliance with paragraph IV.C.3 shall include copies of any written materials or recordings used in the trainings conducted to comply with those undertakings.

6. For good cause shown, the PCAOB staff may extend any of the procedural dates relating to these undertakings. Deadlines for procedural dates shall be counted in calendar days, except that if the last day falls on a weekend or federal holiday, the next business day shall be considered the last day.

7. Respondent understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

In the Matter of PricewaterhouseCoopers,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-015

March 28, 2024

(1) Censuring PricewaterhouseCoopers ("PwC Australia," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) Imposing a $600,000 civil money penalty on PwC Australia; and

(3) Requiring PwC Australia to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that PwC Australia violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards in connection with its failure to timely report certain matters to the Board.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. PricewaterhouseCoopers is a partnership organized under Australian law and headquartered in Sydney, Australia. It is a member firm of the PwC network, of which PricewaterhouseCoopers International Limited is the coordinating entity. At all relevant times, PwC Australia was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm served as principal auditor for nine or more issuer audit clients.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns PwC Australia's failure to timely report the initiation and conclusion of proceedings against the Firm by the Australian Tax Practitioners Board ("TPB"). The TPB proceedings related to failures on the part of the Firm to properly manage conflicts of interest that arose from the participation of certain partners in confidential consultations with the Australian government. In an order issued November 25, 2022, the TPB found that PwC Australia violated the TPB's Code of Professional Conduct because the Firm "would have [been], or should have been, aware of the perceived and actual conflict of interest which existed in relation to its duties and activities as a tax agent and it failed to ensure that there were adequate arrangements in place to manage these conflicts."[2] Despite being put on notice in February 2022 of the TPB's initiation of proceedings against the Firm, and the issuance of the TPB's order in November 2022, the Firm did not report the initiation or conclusion of those proceedings to the Board on PCAOB Form 3*, Special Report*, until June 2023, well after the applicable deadlines.

3. This matter also concerns the failure of PwC Australia to properly monitor compliance with its quality control policies and procedures that were meant to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm met its Form 3 reporting requirements. Significantly, the Firm's then-Chief Executive Officer, and members of the Firm's Office of General Counsel ("OGC"), Strategy, Risk, and Reputation Group, and Financial Advisory Services practice, were aware of the TPB investigation as early as March 2021 and related proceedings as early as February 2022. They also participated in preparing the Firm's responses to the TPB, yet none of those involved shared information about the proceedings with those at the Firm responsible for Form 3 reporting compliance. Indeed, the individuals responsible for Form 3 reporting learned of the proceedings only after reading about them in the press during early May 2023. Even then, the Firm failed to file mandatory Form 3s until June 20, 2023.

4. The Firm's monitoring processes failed to identify the siloed nature of the Firm's primary practice areas and the impact it might have on the Firm's compliance with its PCAOB reporting requirements. The Firm's monitoring process further failed to (i) timely identify necessary corrective actions and improvements to be made in the Firm's system of quality control; (ii) communicate to appropriate Firm personnel any weaknesses in the quality control system or in the level of understanding or compliance therewith; and (3) follow up with appropriate firm personnel to ensure that any necessary modifications were made to the quality control policies and procedures in a timely manner.

C. PwC Australia Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

i. PwC Australia Failed to Timely File Form 3s

5. PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports, requires registered public accounting firms to file Form 3s disclosing certain reportable events to the Board within 30 days of the occurrence of those events.[3] One such specified event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a government entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[4]

6. Another reportable event occurs when a firm has become aware that a reportable proceeding (i.e., a reportable event under Items 2.4 – 2.9 of Form 3) has been concluded as to the firm or certain of its associated persons.[5]

3 See PCAOB Rule 2203(a)(1).

4 PCAOB Form 3, at Item 2.7 (italics in the original removed).

5 Id. at Item 2.10.

7. In March 2021, as described more fully below, certain people within PwC Australia became aware that the TPB had commenced an investigation into the Firm. No later than February 16, 2022, the TPB initiated proceedings against the Firm when the TPB indicated it was concerned about the Firm's conflict of interest policies and procedures and requested a statement of position from the Firm. The request for a statement of position reflected a change in the posture of the TPB's investigation, and the Firm should have understood that the TPB's request for a statement of position constituted the TPB's commencement of a proceeding against the Firm.

8. No later than November 25, 2022, the TPB notified the Firm that it had concluded its proceedings against the Firm by issuing its order against the Firm. The TPB's order found that the Firm violated the TPB's Code of Professional Conduct because the Firm would have, or should have, been "aware of the perceived and actual conflict of interest which existed in relation to its duties and activities as a tax agent and it failed to ensure that there were adequate arrangements in place to manage these conflicts."[6] As part of the order, the TPB required the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures.

9. The initiation and conclusion of the TPB proceedings against the Firm constituted reportable events under Form 3. Accordingly, the Firm was required to report those events to the PCAOB on Form 3 within thirty days of their occurrence.[7] However, PwC Australia reported the two events on June 20, 2023, more than a year after the TPB proceedings were initiated and more than six months after the proceedings were concluded.

ii. PwC Australia's Monitoring Procedures Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance that Reportable Events Were Identified and Timely Reported

10. PCAOB rules also require that a registered accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[8] which provide that a registered accounting firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[9] "A system of quality control is . . . a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality."[10] "A firm's system of quality control encompasses the firm's organizational structure and the policies adopted and procedures established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance of complying with professional standards."[11]

11. PCAOB standards require that a firm establish policies and procedures to monitor its system of quality control. Such procedures should "provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control . . . are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[12]

12. Under PCAOB standards, monitoring "involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of," among other things, the "[r]elevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures . . . [and] compliance with the firm's policies and procedures."[13] When monitoring, a firm should consider "the effects of the firm's management philosophy."[14] A firm's "[m]onitoring procedures taken as a whole should enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective."[15]

13. Monitoring procedures may include: (i) "Determination of any corrective actions to be taken and improvements to be made in the quality control system"; (ii) "Communication to appropriate firm personnel of any weaknesses identified in the quality control system or in the level of understanding or compliance therewith"; and (iii) "Follow-up by appropriate firm personnel to ensure that any necessary modifications are made to the quality control policies and procedures on a timely basis."[16]

14. Between 2015 and 2017, certain PwC partners were engaged by Australia's Department of the Treasury ("Treasury") in confidential consultations on proposed tax legislation. Under the terms of those consultations, the partners agreed to keep confidential information obtained from Treasury. In March 2021, after the TPB had commenced an inquiry into the Firm, PwC Australia, through its OGC, undertook an internal inquiry. As part of its internal inquiry, PwC Australia's OGC learned that certain PwC Australia partners had shared confidential tax information with others within the firm despite signing confidentiality agreements with Treasury.[17] The findings of the internal inquiry, including details of the confidentiality breaches, were shared with the Firm's then-Chief Executive Officer ("CEO") and its then-Chief Strategy, Risk, and Reputation Officer. Significantly, the CEO was in a unique position to assess the merits of the concerns raised by the TPB as he was the leader of the tax practice at the time the PwC Australia partners were asked to participate in confidential Treasury consultations and was advised of their participation at the time. He was also aware, as early as January 2016, that information obtained by a partner participating in Treasury consultations had been used to market and sell tax services to existing and prospective clients.

15. From March 2021 until November 2022, the Firm's former CEO, the Firm's then-Financial Advisory Services Leader and OGC were directly involved in and had oversight over the Firm's handling of the TPB matter. Despite the direct involvement of Firm leadership, the existence of the TPB matter was not shared with those at the Firm responsible for compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

16. Under the Firm's existing policies and procedures, threatened or potential investigations by a regulator required internal reporting intended to trigger notice to and consideration by the individuals responsible for Form 3 compliance. Such reporting did not occur either at the time the TPB investigation commenced in March 2021 or when the TPB proceedings commenced in February 2022. Indeed, the individuals responsible for Form 3 compliance learned of the TPB matter only after hearing about it in the press in May 2023.

17. It appears the siloed nature of the Firm's practices, combined with a lack of candor by Firm leadership, led to the failure to share information on the matter with the appropriate individuals. Moreover, the Firm's monitoring procedures failed to properly consider and respond to the Firm's fragmented governance structure and the culture of the tax practice under its former leader, who became the Firm's CEO in March 2020. As a result, the Firm's monitoring procedures failed to identify the Firm's non-compliance with Rule 2203 and the need for updated quality control policies and procedures. The Firm's monitoring procedures further failed to communicate weaknesses identified in the relevant quality control policies and procedures or in the level of understanding or compliance therewith, and ensure necessary modifications were timely made.

18. As illustrated by the Form 3 violations described above, from at least 2021 to 2023, the Firm failed to establish and implement appropriate monitoring procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its Form 3-related policies and procedures were suitably designed and being effectively applied. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 30.

IV.

In ordering sanctions, the Board took into account the Firm's extraordinary cooperation in this matter.[18] The Firm provided substantial assistance to the PCAOB's investigation by sharing the results of the Firm's investigation into the confidentiality breaches and its related root cause analysis. Additionally, the Firm subsequently instituted remedial measures to address the above-described issues, including retaining an independent consultant to evaluate and report on the Firm's governance and culture to identify shortcomings and areas for improvement at the Firm. The Firm also made changes to its leadership, replacing its CEO, Chief Strategy, Risk, and Reputation Officer, and Financial Advisory Services Leader. The Chairs of the Firm's Governance Board and the Governance Board's designated risk committee were also replaced. The Firm also represented that it has (i) created a new role, Chief Risk and Ethics Leader, and a new compliance function, and (ii) revised its Annual Compliance Confirmation to include questions to identify Form 3 reportable events.[19]
Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), PricewaterhouseCoopers is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $600,000 is imposed on PricewaterhouseCoopers.

---

[18] See Policy Statement Regarding Credit for Extraordinary Cooperation in Connection with Board Investigations, PCAOB Rel. No. 2013-003 (Apr. 24, 2013).

[19] In 2023, the Firm added four new PCAOB-related questions to its Annual Compliance Confirmation designed to identify potential reportable events. The first period covered by the new requirements was May 1, 2022 – April 30, 2023.

2. PricewaterhouseCoopers shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter which identifies PricewaterhouseCoopers as the Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that PricewaterhouseCoopers shall pay pursuant to this Order, PricewaterhouseCoopers shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy (except Respondent may seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification of any civil money penalty amounts from self-insurance provided through a captive insurer owned by Respondent and/or other firms within the network of which Respondent is a member that provides insurance solely to Respondent and other firms within the network); (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of PricewaterhouseCoopers's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against PricewaterhouseCoopers based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

4. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

5. PricewaterhouseCoopers understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), PricewaterhouseCoopers is required:

1. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (a) personnel comply with the Firm's policies and procedures related to compliance with Form 3 reporting requirements; and (b) the above-described policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.

2. Within 150 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with Section IV.C.1. above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. PricewaterhouseCoopers shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy any provision of Section IV.C. may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Berkower LLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-016

March 28, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Berkower LLC ("Berkower," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to timely assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation within 45 days of the report release date in connection with its audit of Issuer A.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Berkower has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Berkower LLC is a New Jersey limited liability company headquartered in Iselin, New Jersey. Berkower is licensed to practice public accounting by the New Jersey State Board of Accountancy (License No. 20CB00106700), among other state boards. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuer

2. Issuer A was, at all relevant times, a shell company incorporated in Nevada and headquartered in New York, New York. At all relevant times, Issuer A was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Berkower issued an audit report that Issuer A included in its Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the year ended December 31, 2020.

C. Berkower Failed to Assemble and Retain Audit Documentation in Violation of AS 1215

3. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[2] PCAOB standards require that the auditor prepare and retain audit documentation in connection with audit engagements.[3] That includes the requirement that "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[4]

4. Berkower audited Issuer A's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2020, and issued its audit report on March 31, 2021, which the issuer included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission.

5. The documentation completion date for the audit was May 15, 2021 (45 days after the report release date). However, from such time until at least March 2022, the Firm failed to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation for retention. In addition, the Firm failed to include multiple work papers necessary to evidence the Firm's compliance with auditing standards in the Firm's final set of audit documentation.

6. Accordingly, Berkower violated AS 1215.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K

Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), the Firm is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to ensure that all professionals involved in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act, have received professional education and training concerning compliance with AS 1215, Audit Documentation, including archiving of audit documentation in accordance with AS 1215. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy this condition may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Freedman & Goldberg, C.P.A.'s, P.C.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-017

March 28, 2024

(1) censuring Freedman & Goldberg, C.P.A.'s, P.C. ("Freedman & Goldberg," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to establish quality control policies and procedures that would provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel would comply with PCAOB standards requiring the timely assembly of a complete and final set of audit documentation under AS 1215.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Freedman & Goldberg has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Freedman & Goldberg, C.P.A.'s, P.C. is a Michigan domestic professional corporation headquartered in Farmington Hills, Michigan. Freedman & Goldberg is licensed to practice public accounting by the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs (License No. 1102001272). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Freedman & Goldberg Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

2. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm to comply with all applicable auditing and related professional practice standards, including the Board's quality control standards.[2]

3. PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[3] "A system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality."[4]

4. PCAOB quality control standards require firms to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with "reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[5]

5. PCAOB standards require that the auditor prepare and retain audit documentation in connection with audit engagements.[6] That includes the requirement that "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[7]

6. From May 2020 until at least July 2021, the Firm failed to design and implement appropriate policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 1215's requirements regarding audit documentation. Specifically, the Firm's policies and procedures were designed to comply with professional standards that imposed less exacting archiving requirements than the PCAOB's audit documentation standards. The Firm's policies and procedures therefore failed to require a complete and final set of audit documentation to be assembled for retention within 45 days following the report release date as required under AS 1215.

7. Accordingly, Freedman & Goldberg violated QC § 20.

IV.

6 See AS 1215.01, Audit Documentation.

7 Id. at .15.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty as follows: the Firm shall pay $15,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order and an additional $10,000 within 60 days of the issuance of this Order. The Firm shall make payment by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6) and (9), the Firm is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with the audit documentation requirements of AS 1215, Audit Documentation, including with respect to the archiving of audit documentation in accordance with AS 1215;

2. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to ensure that all professionals involved in any audit, as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act, have received professional education and training concerning compliance with AS 1215, including archiving of audit documentation in accordance with AS 1215; and conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Sassetti LLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-018

March 28, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Sassetti LLC ("Sassetti," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to comply with PCAOB audit documentation standards in connection with the audit of Broker-Dealer A.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted against Respondent pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1).

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Sassetti has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Sassetti LLC is an Illinois limited liability company headquartered in Oak Brook, Illinois. Sassetti is licensed to practice public accounting by the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation (License No. 158002559) and the South Carolina Board of Accountancy (License No. 10464). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Broker-Dealer

2. Broker-Dealer A was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in Chicago, Illinois. At all relevant times, Broker-Dealer A was registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a broker and dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Broker-Dealer A was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii). At all relevant times, Broker-Dealer A was a "non-carrying" broker-dealer (i.e., a broker-dealer that does not maintain custody of customer funds or securities).[2]

C. Sassetti Failed to Assemble and Retain Audit Documentation in Violation of AS 1215

3. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[3] PCAOB standards require that

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Firm's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Broker-Dealer A claimed an exemption pursuant to paragraph (k)(2)(ii) of Rule 15c3-3 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), 17 C.F.R. § 240.15c3-3(k)(2)(ii).

[3] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards; PCAOB Rule 3200, Auditing Standards.

the auditor prepare and retain audit documentation in connection with audit engagements.[4] That includes the requirement that "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[5] Further, "[c]ircumstances may require additions to audit documentation after the report release date[,]" but any documentation added "must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[6]

4. Sassetti audited Broker-Dealer A's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2021, and issued its audit report on February 25, 2022, that the broker-dealer included in its Form X-17A-5 Part III filed with the Commission.

5. The documentation completion date for the audit was April 11, 2022 (45 days after the report release date). However, the Firm failed to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation for retention until July 11, 2022, three months after the documentation completion date.

6. In addition, the Firm prepared and/or reviewed 12 work papers after the report release date and failed to indicate the reason for adding each of them to the audit documentation. The work papers included, among other things, the engagement completion document; a supervision, review, and approval form; general auditing and completion procedures; and work papers related to property, income taxes, notes payable and long-term debt, and commission expense and other income and expenses.

7. Accordingly, Sassetti violated AS 1215.

IV.

---

4 See AS 1215.01, Audit Documentation.

5 Id. at .15.

6 Id. at .16.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), the Firm is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to ensure that all professionals involved in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act, have received professional education and training concerning compliance with AS 1215, Audit Documentation, including archiving of audit documentation in accordance with AS 1215. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of R. Bolko CPA P.A,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-019

March 28, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring R. Bolko CPA P.A f/k/a Bolko and Associates LLC, a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to timely file required Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which are admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. R. Bolko CPA P.A is a company located in Boca Raton, Florida (License number AD70400). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

2. PCAOB Rule 3211, which took effect for issuer audit reports issued on or after January 31, 2017, provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC),[2] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[3]

3. The Firm audited the financial statements of HFactor, Inc. ("HFactor") (f/k/a FICAAR, Inc.) as of and for the years ended December 31, 2019, 2020, and 2021. For HFactor's 2019 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated January 25, 2021, which was included in HFactor's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on February 2, 2021. For HFactor's 2019 and 2020 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated April 9, 2021, which was included in HFactor's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on April 13, 2021. For HFactor's 2020 and 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated April 11, 2022, which was included in HFactor's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on April 14, 2022.

4. The Firm audited the financial statements of Go Go Buyers, Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021. The Firm issued an audit report dated July 15, 2022, which was included in Go Go Buyers, Inc.'s Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on July 15, 2022. The Firm audited the financial statements of Go Go Buyers, Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021. The Firm issued an audit report dated July 13, 2022, which was included in Go Go Buyers, Inc.'s Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on August 16, 2022. The Firm audited the financial statements of Go Go Buyers, Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated April 14, 2023, which was included in Go Go Buyers, Inc.'s Form 10-K filed with the SEC on April 17, 2023.

5. Over more than a two-year period, the Firm failed to file certain required Form APs for the above filings by the 35th day after the date the audit reports were first included with the filings made with the SEC in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211. The Firm also failed to file certain required Form APs by the 10th day after the date the audit report was first included in a registration statement filed with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that the failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of

compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211 and that Form APs are filed in a timely and complete manner;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Fontanella Associates LLC CPA & Consulting Firm,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-020

March 28, 2024

(1) censuring Fontanella Associates LLC CPA & Consulting Firm ("Fontanella," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $25,000 civil money penalty on Fontanella; and

(3) requiring Fontanella to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Fontanella failed to timely file required Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Fontanella Associates LLC CPA & Consulting Firm is a limited liability corporation organized under the laws of New Jersey. The Firm is located in Totowa, New Jersey and is licensed to practice public accounting by the New Jersey Board of Accountancy (license no. 20CB00711700). Fontanella is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the PCAOB pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Fontanella Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

2. PCAOB Rule 3211, which took effect for issuer audit reports issued on or after January 31, 2017, requires every registered public accounting firm to file a Form AP for each audit report it issues for an issuer, and include the identity of the engagement partner and certain information about the issuer and other accounting firms that participated in an audit. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"),[2] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[3]

3. Fontanella audited the financial statements of Sunnyside Bancorp, Inc. ("Sunnyside") for each of the years ended December 31, 2016 through December 31, 2021. On June 1, 2022, Vecta Partners LLC acquired Sunnyside, which then changed its name to Vecta Inc. ("Vecta"). Following the acquisition, Fontanella audited the financial statements of Vecta for the year ended December 31, 2022. For each of its audits of the company, the Firm failed to file a Form AP within 35 days of the inclusion of Fontanella's audit report in a filing with the SEC, as summarized below:

[2] See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1).

[3] In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the SEC. See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

Financial Statement Date	Date of SEC Filing Including Firm Audit Report	Date Form AP Due	Date Form AP Filed
December 31, 2016	March 30, 2017	May 4, 2017	November 1, 2017
December 31, 2017	March 28, 2018	May 2, 2018	September 7, 2018
December 31, 2018	March 28, 2019	May 2, 2019	June 18, 2019
December 31, 2019	March 27, 2020	May 1, 2020	August 19, 2020
December 31, 2020	March 31, 2021	May 5, 2021	July 22, 2021
December 31, 2021	March 30, 2022	May 4, 2022	June 5, 2023
December 31, 2022	March 31, 2023	May 5, 2023	June 5, 2023

4. In addition to repeatedly filing Form APs after the applicable deadline, Fontanella's Form APs for its audits of Sunnyside's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2016 through 2019 included an incorrect Central Index Key ("CIK") number for Sunnyside.

5. The PCAOB conducted its first inspection of Fontanella in 2020 and the inspectors brought to the Firm's attention its failure to file the Form AP for its year-end 2019 Sunnyside audit within the requisite time period—and the inclusion of an incorrect CIK number in it—as deficiencies. The Firm thereafter filed an amended Form AP for that audit, which corrected the CIK number. The Firm continued to use the correct CIK number in its subsequent Form APs, but continued filing those Form APs after the applicable deadline despite such untimeliness having been raised during the inspection.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Fontanella is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon Fontanella.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Fontanella shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Fontanella as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Fontanella shall pay pursuant to this Order, Fontanella shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Fontanella's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Fontanella based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Fontanella understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Fontanella's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Fontanella at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), Fontanella is required:

1. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing Fontanella with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211, and that Form APs are filed in a timely and complete matter;

2. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211, at least annually, of Fontanella personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within 120 days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, Fontanella's compliance with paragraphs C.1 and C.2 above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. Fontanella shall also submit such additional evidence and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. Fontanella understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Pan-China Singapore PAC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-021

April 9, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Pan-China Singapore PAC ("Pan-China," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $75,000 on the Firm; and

(3) requiring Pan-China to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards by failing to implement and maintain quality control policies and procedures to ensure that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Pan-China Singapore PAC is a partnership organized under the laws of Singapore and headquartered in Singapore. Pan-China is licensed by the Singapore Accounting and Corporate Regulatory Authority (License No. 201603521D). Pan-China is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the PCAOB, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and quality control standards. During 2019 and 2020, the Firm failed to establish and maintain a system of quality control to provide it with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would comply with PCAOB rules and standards and regulatory requirements. Specifically, the Firm's system of quality control failed to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm used an audit methodology, guidance materials, and practice aids designed to comply with PCAOB auditing standards and other regulatory requirements; that staff participated in relevant training; and that the Firm met requirements with respect to audit documentation, auditor reporting of certain audit participants, and audit committee communications.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

C. The Firm Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

3. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[3] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[4] A firm's system of quality control provides a critical foundation and infrastructure for a firm's audit quality as it should "ensure that services are competently delivered and adequately supervised."[5] A firm should establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[6]

4. Quality control policies and procedures for engagement performance should encompass all phases of the design and execution of an engagement.[7] To the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, including U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") and PCAOB rules and/or standards, these policies and procedures should also cover planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement.[8]

5. Quality control policies and procedures for personnel management should provide reasonable assurance that personnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements.[9]

[9] QC § 20.13

6. As described below, Pan-China failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

i. Pan-China's Quality Control Policies and Procedures Failed to Provide the Firm with Reasonable Assurance that the Work Performed by Engagement Personnel Met Professional Standards and that Personnel Participated in Relevant Training

7. A firm should establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[10] The Firm did not maintain adequate policies, procedures, or guidance materials related to performing audits under PCAOB rules and standards.

8. In addition, the Firm failed to establish and implement training policies and procedures that provided reasonable assurance that personnel assigned to issuer audit work would receive appropriate training on PCAOB standards and rules, Commission rules and regulations, and U.S. generally accepted accounting principles, including through participation in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that would enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of professional organizations and regulatory agencies.

9. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20.13 and QC § 20.17 by failing to have established policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel were: (i) using an audit methodology on issuer audit work that was in accordance with PCAOB auditing standards; and (ii) receiving appropriate training on PCAOB standards and rules, Commission rules and regulations, and U.S. GAAP.

ii. Pan-China's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Compliance with Audit Documentation Requirements with AS 1215, Audit Documentation, which establishes requirements for documentation the auditor should prepare and retain in connection with issuer engagements.

10 QC § 20.17.

11 QC §§ 20.03, .17.

11. During 2019 and 2020, Pan-China personnel failed to timely assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation within 45 days of the report release date in connection with issuer audit engagements. The Firm's policies and procedures did not address the requirement that a complete and final set of audit documentation be assembled for retention within 45 days following the report release date.[12] Instead, the Firm's policy set forth a 60-day requirement that on its face was inconsistent with AS 1215.

12. In addition, the Firm's policies and procedures included storing a complete and final set of audit documentation on a USB drive in a secured locker. Firm personnel were required to check out and check in the USB drive when accessing the audit documentation. Under Firm policy if a USB drive is checked out, firm personnel are required to make a copy of the original USB drive and return it to the secured locker.

13. In one issuer audit performed by the Firm, Pan-China personnel checked out the USB drive containing the archived audit documentation to make a copy for use in subsequent audit work. During an inspection by the PCAOB, the Firm discovered that the original USB drive was not returned to the secured locker and had been lost. All that was available for the inspection team was a copy of the USB drive that contained changes made in connection with subsequent audit work. Consequently, the Firm did not have a complete and final set of audit documentation for the original audit. While the changes were not significant in relation to the original audit, the loss of the USB drive demonstrated deficiencies in the Firm's controls over archived audit documentation.

14. These violations illustrate that the Firm failed to have policies and procedures related to audit documentation sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with the requirements of AS 1215.15, in violation of QC § 20.

iii. Pan-China's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants

---

13 QC §§ 20.03, .17.

PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, requires registered public accounting firms to report information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participated in the audits of issuers by filing a Form AP for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission,[14] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement under the Securities Act of 1933 filed with the Commission.[15]

16. During 2019 and 2020, Pan-China did not comply with PCAOB Rule 3211. With respect to seven audit reports for two issuers, the Firm failed to timely file Form APs by the relevant deadlines.

17. These violations illustrate that the Firm failed to maintain effective policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with the requirements of PCAOB Rule 3211, in violation of QC § 20.

iv. Pan-China's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Audit Committee Communications

18. A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm complies with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.[16] AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees, requires the auditor to communicate certain matters related to the conduct of an audit to an issuer's audit committee, including significant risks that were identified by the auditor.[17]

19. In one issuer audit, Pan-China did not communicate to, and discuss with the issuer's audit committee, the significant risk related to management override of controls identified during its risk assessment procedures. In another issuer audit, the Firm did not communicate to, and discuss with the issuer's audit committee equivalent, the significant risks related to management override of controls and revenue recognition identified during its risk assessment procedures.[18]

15 In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

20. These violations illustrate that Pan-China failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 1301, in violation of QC § 20.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Pan-China is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), the Board imposes a civil money penalty in the amount of $75,000 on Pan-China.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown,

[18] Id.

Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), Pan-China is required:

1. Within ninety (90) days from the date of the Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable PCAOB rules and standards; and to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable PCAOB rules and standards, of any Firm audit personnel who participate in any way in the planning or performing of any audit or interim review of an issuer or any SEC Registered Broker-Dealer Engagement, which includes any engagement that provides a report—whether an audit report, an examination report, or a review report—required under paragraph (d)(1)(i)(C) of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 17a-5, 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5, as amended.

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1. above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. Pan-China shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

D. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG Accountants N.V.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-022

April 10, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is imposing sanctions upon KPMG Accountants N.V. ("KPMG Netherlands," the "Firm," or "Respondent"). The Board is:

(1) censuring the Firm;

(2) imposing a $25,000,000 civil money penalty on the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that KPMG Netherlands violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards over several years in connection with the Firm's internal training program.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. KPMG Accountants N.V. is a limited liability corporation organized under the laws of the Netherlands. KPMG Netherlands is headquartered in Amstelveen, Noord-Holland, Netherlands. The Firm is registered with the Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets ("AFM"), and at all relevant times, was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is a wholly-owned subsidiary of KPMG N.V.[3] KPMG N.V. is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms. At all relevant times, the individuals serving in the roles of Chief Executive Officer of KPMG N.V., Chief Operating Officer of KPMG N.V., and Head of Assurance of the Firm constituted the Management Board for the Firm. The Management Board has ultimate responsibility for the Firm's system of quality control and annually reviews its effectiveness.

B. Summary

2. From at least October 2017 until December 2022, KPMG Netherlands violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures for administering and overseeing

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

internal training tests, including tests designed to help the Firm's audit professionals satisfy the requirements for maintaining their professional certifications. Those quality control failures prevented the Firm from identifying that hundreds of Firm professionals were involved in improper answer sharing—either by providing access to test questions or answers, or by receiving such access without reporting it—in connection with tests for mandatory internal training courses. These courses related to a variety of topics, including U.S. auditing standards, U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), and professional ethics and independence. Firm personnel engaged in the answer sharing through a variety of unauthorized methods, including by sending or receiving answers through electronic communications and by taking tests jointly. The vast majority of the professionals who engaged in improper answer sharing performed work for the Firm's Assurance practice.

3. This misconduct revealed an inappropriate tone at the top of the Firm and a failure by Firm leadership to effectively promote an ethical culture among Firm personnel with respect to improper answer sharing and monitoring of the Firm's system of quality control. The improper answer sharing included a number of the Firm's partners and some of its most senior leaders, including Marc Hogeboom ("Hogeboom"), who served as the Firm's Head of Assurance and on the Firm's Management Board,[4] and another individual who served as the Chairman of the Firm's Supervisory Board ("Supervisory Chairman").[5] Also, as more fully described below, both KPMG N.V.'s Chief Executive Officer ("CEO"), who served on the Firm's Management Board, and a former head of the Firm's Compliance Department ("Former Compliance Head") were separately aware for at least six months during the PCAOB's investigation that Hogeboom previously had been involved in an incident of improper answer sharing, but neither the CEO nor the Former Compliance Head disclosed this fact to anyone, including the PCAOB, until other evidence of Hogeboom's misconduct came to light.

4. The Firm's leadership also failed to respond appropriately to the risk that Firm personnel might be engaged in improper answer sharing. Since June 2020, the Firm was aware that personnel from a separate KPMG entity based in India that provides support for KPMG Netherlands' audit work (the "Service Delivery Center") had engaged in improper answer sharing. The Firm's leadership was further aware that the misconduct at the Service Delivery Center included improper answer sharing with personnel at another KPMG member firm that also worked with the Service Delivery Center.[6] Nevertheless, KPMG Netherlands took virtually no steps to investigate potential answer sharing among its own personnel until July 2022, when it received a whistleblower report of answer sharing occurring within the Firm.

5. In addition, from March 2022 to June 2023, the Firm made, and failed to correct, multiple inaccurate representations to the PCAOB during its investigation into improper answer sharing at the Firm. In the first several months of the PCAOB's investigation, KPMG Netherlands sent submissions to the PCAOB denying any knowledge of answer sharing by Firm personnel. These submissions, which were reviewed by the Firm's Management Board and Supervisory Board, were false because members of those Boards—Hogeboom and the Supervisory Chairman—had themselves previously engaged in answer sharing misconduct. Then, after the July 2022 whistleblower report, KPMG Netherlands continued to misstate its knowledge to the PCAOB, erroneously claiming in subsequent submissions that the Firm had not been aware of any improper answer sharing at the Firm before learning of the July 2022 whistleblower report. The Firm made, and failed to correct, these later inaccurate representations until approximately June 2023, when another whistleblower at the Firm reported answer sharing by Hogeboom.

C. KPMG Netherlands Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

i. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

6. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[7] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[8]

7. As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[9] In addition, PCAOB quality control standards related to personnel management state that "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [w]ork is assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances."[10] Moreover, "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [p]ersonnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned, and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of . . . regulatory agencies."[11]

8. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[12] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[13] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, the effectiveness of professional development activities and compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[14]

ii. Training Requirements for KPMG Netherlands Personnel

9. As part of KPMG Netherlands' personnel management systems, the Firm administers internal training programs for all of its professionals. The training programs the Firm uses are designed to serve multiple purposes, including to provide personnel with technical instruction, to further their professional development, and to help employees satisfy some of the continuing professional education requirements imposed by the accountancy boards that license KPMG Netherlands' auditors. The Firm's training requirements are intended to be relevant to, among other things, the independence of their personnel, the audit work they perform, and the integrity with which they carry out their professional responsibilities. The training requirements can vary by a professional's position, role, and industry practice area. Many personnel in the Firm's Assurance practice are required to take trainings regarding auditing U.S. issuers.

10. Since at least 2017, the Firm has utilized online platforms to offer training to its personnel. The platforms enable the Firm to deliver, track, and record completion of mandatory training and testing. The platforms record the dates and times when personnel access and complete mandatory training and testing.

11. The Firm's internal trainings often include a testing component. For training courses with a testing component, the Firm does not credit personnel with completing the training until they satisfactorily pass the related test.

12. Since at least 2017, the Firm has administered periodic licensing exams that are required by the Royal Netherlands Institute of Chartered Accountants ("NBA"), which is the licensing authority for auditors in the Netherlands. Successful completion of such tests is required about every two years for those individuals to maintain their licenses to perform certain types of audits. These tests are known as the NBA Kennistoets ("NBA Knowledge tests").

iii. Failures by KPMG Netherlands to Establish Adequate Quality Control Policies and Procedures Related to Integrity and Personnel Management

13. Between 2017 and 2022, KPMG Netherlands had in place certain quality control policies and procedures intended to address integrity and personnel management. The Firm's policies required that its personnel act with integrity generally. For example, as of 2017, the Firm's Code of Conduct generally advised personnel that the Firm does not "tolerate behavior . . . that is . . . unethical" and that personnel "should act with integrity." At the same time, however, the Firm's policies, including those reflected in its Quality and Risk Management Manual, did not specifically discuss the sharing of training test answers or questions. These and other Firm policies were not specifically designed to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel acted with integrity when taking internal training tests.

14. In June 2019, KPMG Netherlands became aware of substantial answer sharing at a KPMG member firm in the United States, through that firm's settlement of an enforcement action ("KPMG U.S. Settlement") brought by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC").[15] Even after learning of that misconduct, KPMG Netherlands did not appropriately evaluate and address the risk of improper answer sharing among its personnel.

15. In fact, it was not until early 2021 that the Firm began to provide training in which personnel were specifically instructed not to engage in improper answer sharing. Also around that time, the Firm added specific language to some of its training tests warning against answer sharing in connection with the tests. However, this warning language was not included in all of the Firm's internal training tests until later. Similarly, the Firm did not include improper answer sharing in its Annual Compliance Confirmation, in which personnel are required to certify their compliance with the Firm's Code of Conduct, until late 2021.

16. Although KPMG Netherlands also employed certain monitoring procedures related to internal training from 2017 to 2022, those procedures were limited to tracking completion of courses and related tests. The monitoring procedures were not designed to detect other compliance issues, such as improper answer sharing.

17. As described below, the Firm's policies and procedures were inadequate to prevent or detect the extensive improper answer sharing on training tests that occurred among KPMG Netherlands personnel from 2017 to 2022.

iv. Widespread Sharing of Questions and Answers to Training Tests at KPMG Netherlands

18. From at least October 2017 through 2022, hundreds of KPMG Netherlands personnel, including partners, were involved in improper answer sharing related to training tests, and in some cases the NBA Knowledge tests. This misconduct occurred primarily through emails attaching documents or images containing the contents of the tests and/or answers to test questions. KPMG Netherlands personnel also jointly took tests that were intended to assess individual knowledge. Of the hundreds of Firm personnel who engaged in improper answer sharing during this period, the overwhelming majority did so at least once after the June 2019 publication of the KPMG U.S. Settlement.

19. Instances of improper answer sharing primarily occurred in connection with tests that were a part of KPMG Netherlands' mandatory training. Firm personnel engaged in answer sharing in connection with tests for trainings concerning professional independence, PCAOB audit requirements, SEC regulations, U.S. GAAP and generally accepted auditing standards, and professional integrity. Some Firm personnel, including several partners, also engaged in improper answer sharing in connection with the mandatory NBA Knowledge tests.

20. Some of the answer sharing at KPMG Netherlands extended to personnel who had responsibilities for implementing aspects of the Firm's system of quality control. For example, personnel within the Firm's Department of Professional Practice shared files containing training tests with senior managers who had a quality control role in the Firm's International Business Group ("Business Group"); the purpose of sharing the files was to help members of the Business Group better prepare for certain mandatory exams. From 2019 through 2022, Firm personnel used these shared tests to identify the correct answers before taking the tests and made the answers available for colleagues to use, including outside of the Business Group.

21. The improper answer sharing reached the highest levels of personnel at KPMG Netherlands and reflected the improper tone at the top of the Firm. For example, Hogeboom repeatedly engaged in improper answer sharing with his subordinates. From 2012 to 2015, and again from January 2020 to July 2023, Hogeboom served on KPMG Netherlands' Management Board. During the latter period, Hogeboom also served as the Head of the Firm's Assurance practice and was a member of the Firm's Regulatory Office Core Team, a group of Firm leaders who met regularly with the Regulatory Office to discuss certain regulatory issues, including how the Firm should respond to inquiries from its regulators.

22. In 2018, Hogeboom solicited subordinates in the Firm to assist him with passing a test in connection with mandatory training for audit supervisors. Eventually, a subordinate on one of his audit engagement teams agreed to sit with him and assist while he took the online test.

23. In 2019, shortly before Hogeboom began serving as the Head of Assurance, rejoined the Management Board, and joined the Firm's Regulatory Office Core Team, he received test answers from a subordinate member of an audit engagement team that he was leading. Hogeboom knew this sharing of answers was wrong, and told the subordinate so, but failed to report this misconduct to the Firm's Compliance function or to look into the matter in any way. In fact, the only person Hogeboom informed at the time was a partner who was working under him on the engagement team and who had served as the Firm's Compliance Head in 2014-2017. Like Hogeboom, the Former Compliance Head failed to tell anyone else of the incident at the time.

24. In 2020, while serving as the Head of Assurance, on the Firm's Management Board, and in its Regulatory Office Core Team, Hogeboom prevailed upon several subordinate members of his engagement team to share test answers with him by accompanying him while he took online training tests. Some of these subordinates also engaged in improper answer sharing with each other, and with others at the Firm.

25. In 2021, another senior leader at the Firm, the Supervisory Chairman, engaged in improper answer sharing. At KPMG Netherlands, the Supervisory Board oversees policies set by the Firm's Management Board and holds the Management Board accountable for designing, implementing, and maintaining an effective system of quality control at the Firm. Shortly after joining the Supervisory Board, the Supervisory Chairman received assistance from a staff member while taking two mandatory trainings that the Supervisory Board had assigned to the Supervisory Chairman. The staff member sat next to the Supervisory Chairman while he took the two training tests, and the staff member finished one of the tests for the Supervisory Chairman when he left for a meeting before completing the test.

v. Failures by KPMG Netherlands to Identify the Sharing of Questions and Answers to Training Tests

26. The growth of this widespread answer sharing was enabled by the Firm's failure to take appropriate steps to monitor, investigate, and identify the potential misconduct.

27. Since at least June 2020, the Firm knew that hundreds of personnel working at the Service Delivery Center in India had engaged in improper answer sharing, and that some of those individuals performed audit work with personnel in certain member firms of the KPMG global network, including KPMG Netherlands and KPMG LLP ("KPMG UK").[16] Since June 2020, the Firm also was aware that personnel at the Service Delivery Center had shared test answers with personnel of KPMG UK.[17] Despite this knowledge, KPMG Netherlands did not investigate whether its Netherlands personnel were engaging in similar misconduct.

28. In October 2021, KPMG Netherlands and Hogeboom reported the answer sharing misconduct by the Service Delivery Center personnel to PCAOB inspectors. The Firm's disclosure only came after direct questioning by PCAOB inspectors during an inspection of the Firm.

29. In February 2022, the Firm learned of the PCAOB's investigation and a concurrent investigation by the AFM into improper answer sharing at the Firm. In March 2022, the Firm sent to the PCAOB and AFM written responses to regulatory requests for documents and information about improper answer sharing at the Firm. Without taking any steps to investigate answer sharing among its personnel, the Firm wrote in its responses, "As there were no indications of improper answer sharing at KPMG NL [Netherlands], no investigation has been performed by KPMG NL [Netherlands]." The Firm's Management Board and the Supervisory Board received this submission for their review and approval in advance of the Firm sending it to the PCAOB and AFM.

30. In June 2022, the Firm sent more responses to the PCAOB and AFM, and it repeated its statement that there were no indications of improper answer sharing at the Firm. The Management Board also approved that submission before the Firm sent it to the PCAOB and AFM.

31. Both the Firm's March 2022 and June 2022 responses constituted misrepresentations to the PCAOB because, at the time the Firm submitted the responses, both a member of the Management Board (Hogeboom) and a member of the Supervisory Board (Supervisory Chairman) were aware that improper answer sharing had occurred at the Firm, because they had themselves engaged in such improper answer sharing.

32. In July 2022, the Firm received an internal whistleblower report about improper answer sharing that had occurred at the Firm. Although the Firm then started to take some steps to investigate, these efforts were too limited. It was not until November 2022 that the Firm expanded the scope of its investigative steps to reasonable breadth and depth.

33. Between July and December 2022, the Firm sent three more responses to the PCAOB, each inaccurately representing that, before the July 2022 whistleblower report, the Firm had not been aware of any indications of improper answer sharing at the Firm. The Firm's Management Board also approved these responses before they were sent to the PCAOB.

34. During November 2022, Hogeboom and the CEO made multiple requests to have a video meeting with PCAOB and AFM investigators to convey how seriously the Firm was taking the PCAOB's and AFM's investigations. When that meeting occurred on November 29, 2022, Hogeboom and the CEO repeatedly assured the regulators of the sincerity of the Firm's efforts to conduct a complete and thorough investigation into the extent of improper answer sharing at the Firm. But during the meeting, Hogeboom did not correct the prior misrepresentations that the Firm had no indication, before July 2022, that improper answer sharing had occurred at the Firm. In addition, Hogeboom did not reveal that any member of Firm leadership had been involved in improper answer sharing.

35. In or around December 2022, Hogeboom told the CEO about the 2019 incident where he received test answers from a subordinate. However, he told the CEO that the incident had occurred between 2015-2017. He also told the CEO that he responded to the sender and told him that answer sharing was wrong. Hogeboom further told the CEO that he had reported the incident to the partner who had been the Head of Compliance in the 2015-2017 time period. The CEO made no effort to corroborate any part of this partially inaccurate story, erroneously accepting that the matter had been reported to the Firm's Compliance Department, and she and Hogeboom did not report the incident to anyone else for approximately six months.

36. In June 2023, Firm leadership became aware of another internal whistleblower report. This report referenced some of Hogeboom's above-described 2020 answer sharing. At this point, the CEO and Hogeboom, separately from each other, came forward and disclosed their awareness of the "2015-2017" answer sharing incident to others in the Firm's leadership and to internal investigators. The Supervisory Chairman also then came forward about his answer sharing incident. The Firm started investigating the issue and soon thereafter reported Hogeboom's and the Supervisory Chairman's answer sharing incidents to the PCAOB and AFM.

37. But the Firm should have discovered and reported this information much earlier. Other than the above-mentioned one-on-one discussions Hogeboom had with the CEO and the Former Compliance Head, none of the above Firm leaders disclosed their knowledge of improper answer sharing incidents involving Firm leadership before the June 2023 whistleblower report. By that time, the PCAOB's investigation had been ongoing for more than 15 months, and the Firm's internal investigation—for which the Firm's Management Board and Supervisory Board had certain oversight responsibilities—had been ongoing for almost one year. Similarly, before June 2023, no one from the Firm corrected the untrue representations the Firm had submitted to the PCAOB in connection with the PCAOB's investigation.

38. As illustrated by the failures and misconduct described above, from at least October 2017 to December 2022, an inappropriate tone at the top enabled a pervasive problem with the Firm's culture, resulting in widespread improper answer sharing with respect to professional training tests. During that period, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) KPMG Netherlands personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity; (2) KPMG Netherlands personnel had the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; and (3) KPMG Netherlands personnel participated in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enabled them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of regulatory agencies. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management.[18]

IV.

In ordering sanctions, the Board took into account that the Firm will be subject to an intensive supervision program conducted by the AFM. The Board understands that this supervision program will include remediation, conducting a root cause analysis, establishing policies and procedures to prevent and detect improper answer sharing at the Firm, and exploring further appropriate changes to Firm culture.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Accountants N.V. is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000,000 is imposed on KPMG Accountants N.V.

2. KPMG Accountants N.V. shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (iii) submitted under a cover letter which identifies KPMG Accountants N.V. as the Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that KPMG Accountants N.V. shall pay pursuant to this Order, KPMG Accountants N.V. shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of KPMG Accountants N.V.'s payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against KPMG Accountants N.V. based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

4. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

5. KPMG Accountants N.V. understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), KPMG Accountants N.V. is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (a) personnel perform all internal training and tests associated with such training with integrity; (b) personnel to whom work has been assigned have the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; (c) personnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enables them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of regulatory agencies; and (d) the above-described policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by the Chief Executive Officer of KPMG N.V., to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. KPMG Accountants N.V. shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. To make available to the PCAOB any document or report submitted to the AFM as part of its intensive supervision of the Firm, within 14 days of any such request by the Division of Enforcement and Investigations.

4. KPMG Accountants N.V. understands that the failure to satisfy any provision of Section IV.C may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Marc Hogeboom,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-023

April 10, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is imposing sanctions upon Marc Hogeboom ("Hogeboom" or "Respondent"). The Board is:

(1) censuring Hogeboom;

(2) barring Hogeboom from associating with a registered public accounting firm; and

(3) imposing a $150,000 civil money penalty on Hogeboom.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Hogeboom violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations, by directly and substantially contributing to violations by KPMG Accountants N.V. ("KPMG Netherlands" or the "Firm") of PCAOB rules and quality control standards in connection with the Firm's internal training program.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Marc Hogeboom is a chartered accountant certified by the Royal Netherlands Institute of Chartered Accountants ("NBA") (registration no. 29011). At all relevant times, he was a partner of KPMG Netherlands. From 2012 to 2015, he served on the Firm's Management Board, and from January 2020 to July 2023, he served as the Firm's Head of Assurance and again on the Firm's Management Board. At all relevant times, Hogeboom was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Hogeboom is no longer associated with KPMG Netherlands.

B. Other Relevant Entity

2. KPMG Accountants N.V. is a limited liability corporation organized under the laws of the Netherlands. KPMG Netherlands is headquartered in Amstelveen, Noord-Holland, Netherlands. The Firm is registered with the Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets ("AFM"), and at all relevant times, was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is a wholly-owned subsidiary of KPMG N.V.[3] KPMG N.V. is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms. At all relevant times, the individuals serving in the roles of Chief Executive Officer of KPMG N.V., Chief Operating Officer of KPMG N.V., and Head of Assurance of the Firm constituted the Management Board for the Firm. The

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of, inter alia, intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[3] KPMG N.V. is a holding company with three subsidiaries through which it offers Assurance services (via the Firm – i.e., KPMG Accountants N.V.), Advisory services (via KPMG Advisory N.V.), and Business Services (via KPMG Staffing & Facility Services B.V.), respectively.

Management Board has ultimate responsibility for the Firm's system of quality control and annually reviews its effectiveness.

C. Summary

3. From at least October 2017 until December 2022, KPMG Netherlands violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures for administering and overseeing internal training tests, including tests designed to help the Firm's audit professionals satisfy the requirements for maintaining their professional certifications.[4] Those quality control failures prevented the Firm from identifying that hundreds of Firm professionals were involved in improper answer sharing—either by providing access to test questions or answers, or by receiving such access without reporting it—in connection with tests for mandatory internal training courses. These courses related to a variety of topics, including U.S. auditing standards, U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), and professional ethics and independence. Firm personnel engaged in the answer sharing through a variety of unauthorized methods, including by sending or receiving answers through electronic communications and by taking tests jointly. The vast majority of the professionals who engaged in improper answer sharing performed work for the Firm's Assurance practice.

4. This misconduct revealed an inappropriate tone at the top of the Firm and a failure by Firm leadership to effectively promote an ethical culture among Firm personnel with respect to improper answer sharing and monitoring of the Firm's system of quality control. The improper answer sharing included a number of the Firm's partners and some of its most senior leaders, including Hogeboom, who served as the Firm's Head of Assurance and on the Firm's Management Board, and another individual who served as the Chairman of the Firm's Supervisory Board ("Supervisory Chairman").[5] Also, as more fully described below, both KPMG N.V.'s Chief Executive Officer ("CEO"), who served on the Firm's Management Board, and a former head of the Firm's Compliance Department ("Former Compliance Head") were separately aware for at least six months during the PCAOB's investigation that Hogeboom previously had been involved in an incident of improper answer sharing, but neither the CEO nor the Former Compliance Head disclosed this fact to anyone, including the PCAOB, until other evidence of Hogeboom's misconduct came to light.

5. The Firm's leadership, including Hogeboom, also failed to respond appropriately to the risk that Firm personnel might be engaged in improper answer sharing. Since June 2020, the Firm and Hogeboom were aware that personnel from a separate KPMG entity based in

[4] See KPMG Accountants N.V., PCAOB Rel. No. 105-2024-022 (Apr. 10, 2024), for further information about this misconduct.

[5] The Supervisory Chairman has since left the Firm.

India that provides support for KPMG Netherlands' audit work (the "Service Delivery Center") had engaged in improper answer sharing. The Firm's leadership, including Hogeboom, was further aware that the misconduct at the Service Delivery Center included improper answer sharing with personnel at another KPMG member firm that also worked with the Service Delivery Center.[6] Nevertheless, KPMG Netherlands and Hogeboom took virtually no steps to investigate potential answer sharing among the Firm's own personnel until July 2022, when KPMG Netherlands received a whistleblower report of answer sharing occurring within the Firm.

6. In addition, from March 2022 to June 2023, the Firm made, and failed to correct, multiple inaccurate representations to the PCAOB during its investigation into improper answer sharing at the Firm. In the first several months of the PCAOB's investigation, KPMG Netherlands sent submissions to the PCAOB denying any knowledge of answer sharing by Firm personnel. These submissions, which were reviewed by the Firm's Management Board and Supervisory Board, were false because members of those Boards—Hogeboom and the Supervisory Chairman—had themselves previously engaged in answer sharing misconduct. Then, after the July 2022 whistleblower report, KPMG Netherlands continued to misstate its knowledge to the PCAOB, erroneously claiming in subsequent submissions that the Firm had not been aware of any improper answer sharing at the Firm before learning of the July 2022 whistleblower report. The Firm made, and failed to correct, these later inaccurate representations until approximately June 2023, when another whistleblower at the Firm reported answer sharing by Hogeboom.

7. Through his acts and omissions, Hogeboom knowingly and recklessly contributed directly and substantially to the above Firm violations. As the Firm's Head of Assurance and a member of the Firm's Management Board, Hogeboom had responsibilities for the Firm's system of quality control and its effectiveness. And as a member of the Firm's Regulatory Office Core Team, he and other Firm leaders met regularly with the Regulatory Office to discuss certain regulatory issues, such as how the Firm should respond to inquiries from its regulators, including responses in connection with the PCAOB's investigation. Despite those quality control responsibilities, Hogeboom engaged in conduct that compromised the ability of the Firm's quality control system to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel performed their professional responsibilities with integrity and were appropriately trained, and he repeatedly concealed his misconduct from Firm leadership and the PCAOB during its investigation. Accordingly, Hogeboom violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

D. Hogeboom Directly and Substantially Contributed to KPMG Netherlands' Violations of PCAOB Rules and Standards

i. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

8. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[7] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[8]

9. As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[9] In addition, PCAOB quality control standards related to personnel management state that "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [w]ork is assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances."[10] Moreover, "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [p]ersonnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned, and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of . . . regulatory agencies."[11]

10. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[12] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[13] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, the effectiveness of professional development activities and compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[14]

11. PCAOB Rule 3502 provides that "[a] person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of . . . the Rules of the Board . . . or professional standards."

ii. Training Requirements for KPMG Netherlands Personnel

12. As part of KPMG Netherlands' personnel management systems, the Firm administers internal training programs for all of its professionals. The training programs the Firm uses are designed to serve multiple purposes, including to provide personnel with technical instruction, to further their professional development, and to help employees satisfy some of the continuing professional education requirements imposed by the accountancy boards that license KPMG Netherlands' auditors. The Firm's training requirements are intended to be relevant to, among other things, the independence of their personnel, the audit work they perform, and the integrity with which they carry out their professional responsibilities. The training requirements can vary by a professional's position, role, and industry practice area. Many personnel in the Firm's Assurance practice are required to take trainings regarding auditing U.S. issuers.

13. Since at least 2017, the Firm has utilized online platforms to offer training to its personnel. The platforms enable the Firm to deliver, track, and record completion of mandatory training and testing. The platforms record the dates and times when personnel access and complete mandatory training and testing.

14. The Firm's internal trainings often include a testing component. For training courses with a testing component, the Firm does not credit personnel with completing the training until they satisfactorily pass the related test.

iii. Failures by KPMG Netherlands to Establish Adequate Quality Control Policies and Procedures Related to Integrity and Personnel Management

15. Between 2017 and 2022, KPMG Netherlands had in place certain quality control policies and procedures intended to address integrity and personnel management. The Firm's policies required that its personnel act with integrity generally. For example, as of 2017, the Firm's Code of Conduct generally advised personnel that the Firm does not "tolerate behavior . . . that is . . . unethical" and that personnel "should act with integrity." At the same time, however, the Firm's policies, including those reflected in its Quality and Risk Management

[14] See QC § 20.20.c-d; QC § 30.02.c-d.

Manual, did not specifically discuss the sharing of training test answers or questions. These and other Firm policies were not specifically designed to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel acted with integrity when taking internal training tests.

16. In June 2019, KPMG Netherlands and Hogeboom became aware of substantial answer sharing at a KPMG member firm in the United States, through that firm's settlement of an enforcement action ("KPMG U.S. Settlement") brought by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC").[15] Even after learning of that misconduct, KPMG Netherlands did not appropriately evaluate and address the risk of improper answer sharing among Firm personnel.

17. In fact, it was not until early 2021 that the Firm began to provide training in which personnel were specifically instructed not to engage in improper answer sharing. Also around that time, the Firm added specific language to some of its training tests warning against answer sharing in connection with the tests. However, this warning language was not included in all of the Firm's internal training tests until later. Similarly, the Firm did not include improper answer sharing in its Annual Compliance Confirmation, in which personnel are required to certify their compliance with the Firm's Code of Conduct, until late 2021.

18. Although KPMG Netherlands also employed certain monitoring procedures related to internal training from 2017 to 2022, those procedures were limited to tracking completion of courses and related tests. The monitoring procedures were not designed to detect other compliance issues, such as improper answer sharing.

19. As described below, the Firm's policies and procedures were inadequate to prevent or detect the extensive improper answer sharing on training tests that occurred among KPMG Netherlands personnel from 2017 to 2022.

iv. Widespread Sharing of Questions and Answers to Training Tests at KPMG Netherlands

20. From at least October 2017 through 2022, hundreds of KPMG Netherlands personnel, including partners, were involved in improper answer sharing related to training tests. This misconduct occurred primarily through emails attaching documents or images containing the contents of the tests and/or answers to test questions. KPMG Netherlands personnel also jointly took tests that were intended to assess individual knowledge. Of the hundreds of Firm personnel who engaged in improper answer sharing during this period, the overwhelming majority, including Hogeboom, did so at least once after the June 2019 publication of the KPMG U.S. Settlement.

21. Instances of improper answer sharing primarily occurred in connection with tests that were a part of KPMG Netherlands' mandatory training. Firm personnel engaged in answer sharing in connection with tests for trainings concerning professional independence, PCAOB audit requirements, SEC regulations, U.S. GAAP and generally accepted auditing standards, and professional integrity.

22. The improper answer sharing reached the highest levels of personnel at KPMG Netherlands and reflected the improper tone at the top of the Firm. For example, Hogeboom repeatedly engaged in improper answer sharing with his subordinates. From 2012 to 2015, and again from January 2020 to July 2023, Hogeboom served on KPMG Netherlands' Management Board. During the latter period, Hogeboom also served as the Head of the Firm's Assurance practice and was a member of the Firm's Regulatory Office Core Team.

23. In 2018, Hogeboom solicited subordinates in the Firm to assist him with passing a test in connection with mandatory training for audit supervisors. Eventually, a subordinate on one of his audit engagement teams agreed to sit with him and assist while he took the online test.

24. In 2019, shortly before Hogeboom began serving as the Head of Assurance, rejoined the Management Board, and joined the Firm's Regulatory Office Core Team, he received test answers from a subordinate member of an audit engagement team that he was leading. Hogeboom knew this sharing of answers was wrong, and told the subordinate so, but failed to report this misconduct to the Firm's Compliance function or to look into the matter in any way. In fact, the only person Hogeboom informed at the time was a partner who was working under him on the engagement team and who had served as the Firm's Compliance Head in 2014-2017. Like Hogeboom, the Former Compliance Head failed to tell anyone else of the incident at the time.

25. In 2020, while serving as the Head of Assurance, on the Firm's Management Board, and in its Regulatory Office Core Team, Hogeboom prevailed upon several subordinate members of his engagement team to share test answers with him by accompanying him while he took online training tests. Some of these subordinates also engaged in improper answer sharing with each other, and with others at the Firm.

26. In 2021, another senior leader at the Firm, the Supervisory Chairman, engaged in improper answer sharing. At KPMG Netherlands, the Supervisory Board oversees policies set by the Firm's Management Board and holds the Management Board accountable for designing, implementing, and maintaining an effective system of quality control at the Firm. Shortly after joining the Supervisory Board, the Supervisory Chairman received assistance from a staff member while taking two mandatory trainings that the Supervisory Board had assigned to the Supervisory Chairman. The staff member sat next to the Supervisory Chairman while he took the two training tests, and the staff member finished one of the tests for the Supervisory Chairman when he left for a meeting before completing the test.

v. Hogeboom Directly and Substantially Contributed to Failures by KPMG Netherlands to Identify the Sharing of Questions and Answers to Training Tests

27. The growth of this widespread answer sharing was enabled by the Firm's failure to take appropriate steps to monitor, investigate, and identify the potential misconduct. Hogeboom played a leading role at the Firm with respect to these issues while he served as the Head of Assurance and as a member of the Management Board and Regulatory Office Core Team.

28. Since at least June 2020, the Firm and Hogeboom knew that hundreds of personnel working at the Service Delivery Center in India had engaged in improper answer sharing, and that some of those individuals performed audit work with personnel in certain member firms of the KPMG global network, including KPMG Netherlands and KPMG LLP ("KPMG UK").[16] Since June 2020, the Firm and Hogeboom also were aware that personnel at the Service Delivery Center had shared test answers with personnel of KPMG UK.[17] Despite this knowledge, KPMG Netherlands and Hogeboom did not investigate whether the Firm's Netherlands personnel were engaging in similar misconduct.

29. In October 2021, KPMG Netherlands and Hogeboom reported the answer sharing misconduct by the Service Delivery Center personnel to PCAOB inspectors. The Firm's disclosure only came after direct questioning by PCAOB inspectors during an inspection of the Firm.

30. In February 2022, the Firm and Hogeboom learned of the PCAOB's investigation and a concurrent investigation by the AFM into improper answer sharing at the Firm. In March 2022, the Firm sent to the PCAOB and AFM written responses to regulatory requests for documents and information about improper answer sharing at the Firm. Without taking any steps to investigate answer sharing among its personnel, the Firm wrote in its responses, "As there were no indications of improper answer sharing at KPMG NL [Netherlands], no investigation has been performed by KPMG NL [Netherlands]." The Firm's Management Board and the Supervisory Board received this submission for their review and approval in advance of the Firm sending it to the PCAOB and AFM.

31. In June 2022, the Firm sent more responses to the PCAOB and AFM, and it repeated its statement that there were no indications of improper answer sharing at the Firm.

16 See KPMG LLP, PCAOB Rel. No. 105-2022-032.

17 Id.

The Management Board also approved that submission before the Firm sent it to the PCAOB and AFM.

32. Both the Firm's March 2022 and June 2022 responses constituted misrepresentations to the PCAOB because, at the time the Firm submitted the responses, both Hogeboom and a member of the Supervisory Board (Supervisory Chairman) were aware that improper answer sharing had occurred at the Firm, because they had themselves engaged in such improper answer sharing.

33. In July 2022, as Hogeboom was aware, the Firm received an internal whistleblower report about improper answer sharing that had occurred at the Firm. Although the Firm then started to take some steps to investigate, these efforts were too limited.

34. Between July and December 2022, the Firm sent three more responses to the PCAOB, each inaccurately representing that, before the July 2022 whistleblower report, the Firm had not been aware of any indications of improper answer sharing at the Firm. The Firm's Management Board also approved these responses before they were sent to the PCAOB.

35. During November 2022, Hogeboom and the CEO made multiple requests to have a video meeting with PCAOB and AFM investigators to convey how seriously the Firm was taking the PCAOB's and AFM's investigations. When that meeting occurred on November 29, 2022, Hogeboom and the CEO repeatedly assured the regulators of the sincerity of the Firm's efforts to conduct a complete and thorough investigation into the extent of improper answer sharing at the Firm. But during the meeting, Hogeboom did not correct the prior misrepresentations that the Firm had no indication, before July 2022, that improper answer sharing had occurred at the Firm. In addition, Hogeboom did not reveal that any member of Firm leadership, including Hogeboom, had been involved in improper answer sharing.

36. In or around December 2022, Hogeboom told the CEO about the 2019 incident where he received test answers from a subordinate. However, he told the CEO that the incident had occurred between 2015-2017. He also told the CEO that he responded to the sender and told him that answer sharing was wrong. Hogeboom further told the CEO that he had reported the incident to the partner who had been the Head of Compliance in the 2015-2017 time period. The CEO made no effort to corroborate any part of this partially inaccurate story, erroneously accepting that the matter had been reported to the Firm's Compliance Department, and she and Hogeboom did not report the incident to anyone else for approximately six months.

37. In June 2023, Firm leadership, including Hogeboom, became aware of another internal whistleblower report. This report referenced some of Hogeboom's above-described 2020 answer sharing. At this point, the CEO and Hogeboom, separately from each other, came forward and disclosed their awareness of the "2015-2017" answer sharing incident to others in the Firm's leadership and to internal investigators. The Supervisory Chairman also then came forward about his answer sharing incident. The Firm started investigating the issue and soon thereafter reported Hogeboom's and the Supervisory Chairman's answer sharing incidents to the PCAOB and AFM.

38. But the Firm should have discovered this information, and both the Firm and Hogeboom should have reported it, much earlier. Other than the above-mentioned one-on-one discussions Hogeboom had with the CEO and the Former Compliance Head, none of the above Firm leaders disclosed their knowledge of improper answer sharing incidents involving Firm leadership before the June 2023 whistleblower report. By that time, the PCAOB's investigation had been ongoing for more than 15 months, and the Firm's internal investigation—for which the Firm's Management Board and Supervisory Board had certain oversight responsibilities—had been ongoing for almost one year. Similarly, before June 2023, no one from the Firm corrected the untrue representations the Firm had submitted to the PCAOB in connection with the PCAOB's investigation.

39. As illustrated by the failures and misconduct described above, from at least October 2017 to December 2022, an inappropriate tone at the top enabled a pervasive problem with the Firm's culture, resulting in widespread improper answer sharing with respect to professional training tests. During that period, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) KPMG Netherlands personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity; (2) KPMG Netherlands personnel had the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; and (3) KPMG Netherlands personnel participated in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enabled them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of regulatory agencies. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management.[18]

40. As described above, Hogeboom knowingly and recklessly contributed directly and substantially to these Firm violations. Specifically, despite his significant responsibilities for elements of the Firm's system of quality control, including those related to integrity and personnel management, Hogeboom continually disregarded those responsibilities. He repeatedly engaged in improper answer sharing on internal training exams and repeatedly concealed his misconduct from Firm leadership and PCAOB investigators, thereby compromising the Firm's system of quality control. Accordingly, Hogeboom violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Marc Hogeboom is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Marc Hogeboom is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[19]

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $150,000 is imposed on Marc Hogeboom.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Marc Hogeboom shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (iii) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Hogeboom as the Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to

[19] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Hogeboom. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Marc Hogeboom shall pay pursuant to this Order, he shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of his payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Hogeboom based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

4. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

5. By consenting to this Order, Marc Hogeboom acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any request for leave to petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(c).

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Imelda & Rekan,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-024

April 10, 2024

(1) censuring Imelda & Rekan ("DT Indonesia," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000,000 on DT Indonesia; and

(3) requiring DT Indonesia to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that DT Indonesia violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards over several years in connection with the Firm's internal training program.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings contained herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of this proceeding, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. DT Indonesia is a public accounting firm located in Jakarta, Indonesia. DT Indonesia is an affiliate of a member of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited ("Deloitte Global") network. The Firm registered with the Board on March 23, 2021, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. DT Indonesia is, and at all relevant times was, a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

B. Summary

2. From 2021 to 2023, DT Indonesia violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures for administering and overseeing internal training tests, including tests designed to help the Firm's audit professionals satisfy the requirements for maintaining their professional certifications. Those quality control failures prevented the Firm from identifying that, during the relevant period, more than 200 Firm professionals were involved in improper answer sharing—either by providing answers or using answers—or received answers without reporting such sharing in connection with online tests for mandatory internal training courses. DT Indonesia's failure to detect and deter improper answer sharing by its personnel occurred

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

despite numerous warnings from Deloitte Global and regional leadership that answer sharing was impermissible.

C. DT Indonesia Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

i. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

3. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[3] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[4]

4. As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity." [5] In addition, PCAOB quality control standards related to personnel management state that "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [w]ork is assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances."[6] Moreover, "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [p]ersonnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned, and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of . . . regulatory agencies."[7]

5. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated," [8] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied." [9] Under

PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, the effectiveness of professional development activities and compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[10]

ii. Training Requirements

6. As part of DT Indonesia's personnel management systems, the Firm administers internal training programs for all of its professionals. The training programs the Firm uses are designed to serve multiple purposes, including to provide personnel with technical instruction, to further their professional development, and to help licensed certified public accountants satisfy some of the continuing professional education requirements imposed by relevant professional bodies. The Firm's training requirements are intended to be relevant to, among other things, the independence of their personnel, the audit work they perform, and the integrity with which they carry out their professional responsibilities. The training requirements can vary by a professional's position, role, and industry practice area.

7. The Firm's online internal trainings often include a testing component. For training courses with a testing component, the Firm does not credit personnel with completing the training until they satisfactorily pass the related test.

iii. Failures by DT Indonesia to Establish Adequate Quality Control Policies and Procedures Related to Integrity and Personnel Management

8. DT Indonesia's quality control policies and procedures concerning ethics and integrity as well as personnel management were inadequate to prevent or detect improper answer sharing on training tests that occurred among DT Indonesia personnel from March 2021 until 2023.

9. During the relevant time period, large numbers of DT Indonesia personnel were involved in improper answer sharing. Indeed, more than 200 of its personnel, including two partners, participated in instances of improper answer sharing by, among other means, sending emails with answers to training test questions, providing screenshots of training questions and answers, or discussing answers when taking tests in the presence of others.

10. Despite this widespread answer sharing by the Firm's personnel, none of those aware of the improper answer sharing timely reported the answer sharing (a) to anyone at the Firm not involved in answer sharing; (b) to anyone within regional leadership or Deloitte Global; or (c) to any relevant regulator. Moreover, the misconduct occurred notwithstanding numerous warnings from Deloitte Global and regional leadership that answer sharing was improper. Beginning in October 2019 through September 2022, DT Indonesia partners were repeatedly told through a series of calls, townhalls, meetings, emails, and mandatory e-learnings that answer sharing was not acceptable. Despite these warnings, answer sharing at DT Indonesia continued until 2023, when the Firm discovered the misconduct and began an internal investigation.

11. As illustrated by the misconduct described above, from 2021 to 2023, DT Indonesia failed to establish and implement policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) DT Indonesia personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity; (2) DT Indonesia personnel to whom work was assigned had the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; and (3) DT Indonesia personnel participated in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enabled them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements for licensed certified public accountants of relevant professional bodies. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management. [11]

IV.

In ordering sanctions, the Board took into account the Firm's extraordinary cooperation with respect to certain aspects of its response to discovering improper answer sharing on internal trainings. Specifically, the Firm voluntarily and timely self-reported to PCAOB staff the answer sharing misconduct it had discovered. The Firm then provided substantial assistance to the PCAOB's investigation by conducting, and providing to the PCAOB the results of, its internal investigation, including evidence relating to the Firm's interviews of personnel it suspected of engaging in improper answer sharing.

Additionally, since the answer sharing misconduct occurred, the Firm has implemented remedial and corrective measures aimed at successfully ending improper answer sharing. Among other actions, the Firm has made changes to its quality control policies and procedures to promote professional integrity, especially as it relates to training examinations, and to ensure that its personnel obtain the degree of technical training and proficiency required without engaging in improper answer sharing.

Absent this extraordinary cooperation, the civil money penalty imposed would have been significantly larger, and the Board may have imposed additional sanctions. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Imelda & Rekan is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000,000 is imposed on Imelda & Rekan.

2. Imelda & Rekan shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (iii) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Imelda & Rekan as the Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Imelda & Rekan. shall pay pursuant to this Order, Imelda & Rekan shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Imelda & Rekan's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Imelda & Rekan based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

4. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

5. Imelda & Rekan understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), Imelda & Rekan is required:

1. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures as described in QC § 20.20, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (a) personnel perform all internal training and tests associated with such training with integrity; (b) personnel to whom work has been assigned have the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; (c) personnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of regulatory agencies; and (d) the above-described policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.

2. Within 150 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with Section IV.C.1. above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. Imelda & Rekan shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy any provision of Section IV.C. may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Navarro Amper & Co.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-025

April 10, 2024

(1) censuring Navarro Amper & Co. ("DT Philippines," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000,000 on DT Philippines; and

(3) requiring DT Philippines to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that DT Philippines violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards over several years in connection with the Firm's internal training program.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings contained herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of this proceeding, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. DT Philippines is a public accounting firm located in Taguig, Philippines. DT Philippines is an affiliate of a member of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited ("Deloitte Global") network. The Firm registered with the Board on June 2, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. DT Philippines is, and at all relevant times was, a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

B. Summary

2. From at least 2017 until early 2019, DT Philippines violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures for administering and overseeing internal training tests, including tests designed to help the Firm's audit professionals satisfy the requirements for maintaining their professional certifications. Those quality control failures prevented the Firm from identifying that nearly all of its audit partners during the period, including the then-National Professional Practice Director ("NPPD"), and other audit professionals, engaged in improper answer sharing—either by providing answers or using answers—or received answers without reporting such sharing in connection with online tests for mandatory internal training courses.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

C. DT Philippines Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

i. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

3. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[3] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[4]

4. As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[5] In addition, PCAOB quality control standards related to personnel management state that "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [w]ork is assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances."[6] Moreover, "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [p]ersonnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned, and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of . . . regulatory agencies."[7]

5. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[8] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[9] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, the effectiveness of professional development activities and compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[10]

ii. Training Requirements

6. As part of DT Philippines's personnel management systems, the Firm administers internal training programs for all of its professionals. The training programs the Firm uses are designed to serve multiple purposes, including to provide personnel with technical instruction, to further their professional development, and to help licensed certified public accountants satisfy some of the continuing professional education requirements imposed by relevant professional bodies. The Firm's training requirements are intended to be relevant to, among other things, the independence of their personnel, the audit work they perform, and the integrity with which they carry out their professional responsibilities. The training requirements can vary by a professional's position, role, and industry practice area.

7. The Firm's online internal trainings often include a testing component. For training courses with a testing component, the Firm does not credit personnel with completing the training until they satisfactorily pass the related test.

iii. Failures by DT Philippines to Establish Adequate Quality Control Policies and Procedures Related to Integrity and Personnel Management

8. DT Philippines's quality control policies and procedures concerning ethics and integrity as well as personnel management were inadequate to prevent or detect improper answer sharing on training tests that occurred among DT Philippines personnel, including nearly all of its audit partners, from at least 2017 to 2019. In fact, during this time, improper sharing of answers was common within the Firm's audit practice and was facilitated by the Firm's then-NPPD, who had responsibility for overseeing Firm personnel's compliance with online courses ("e-learnings") and trainings.[11]

9. During the relevant time period, the NPPD recognized that the Firm's audit partners had fallen behind in their rates of compliance with trainings because their workloads and utilization rates made it difficult for them to keep up with required continuing professional education and trainings.

10. The NPPD e-mailed answers to e-learnings to the audit partners and others in the Firm at least six times from 2017 through 2019. For example, on January 4, 2019, the NPPD sent an e-mail to the Firm's audit partner listserv with the subject "IFRS E – Learnings." The email included answers to 21 different questions on three different IFRS topics. The NPPD explained that those answers would result in a passing rate, but not a score of 100%.

11. Between 2017 and 2019, some of the audit partners who received answers from the NPPD used those answers to complete required e-learnings and trainings.

12. Other Firm personnel also engaged in improper answer sharing. For example, in 2018, a director in the Firm's audit practice shared answers with others in the Firm on, at least, three occasions.

13. Despite this widespread answer sharing among audit partners of the Firm and by other audit personnel, none of the Firm's personnel timely reported the answer sharing to (a) anyone at the Firm not involved in answer sharing; (b) anyone within regional leadership or Deloitte Global; or (c) any relevant regulator.

14. As illustrated by the misconduct described above, from at least 2017 to 2019, DT Philippines's inappropriate tone at the top enabled widespread improper answer sharing with respect to internal training tests. From 2017 to October 2019, DT Philippines failed to establish and implement policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) DT Philippines personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity; (2) DT Philippines personnel to whom work was assigned had the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; and (3) DT Philippines personnel participated in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enabled them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements for licensed certified public accountants of relevant professional bodies. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management.[12]

IV.

In ordering sanctions, the Board took into account the Firm's extraordinary cooperation with respect to certain aspects of its response to discovering improper answer sharing on internal trainings. Specifically, the Firm provided substantial assistance to the PCAOB's investigation by conducting, and providing to the PCAOB the results of, its internal investigation, including evidence relating to the Firm's interviews of personnel it suspected of engaging in improper answer sharing.

Additionally, since the answer sharing misconduct occurred, the Firm has implemented remedial and corrective measures aimed at successfully ending improper answer sharing. Among other actions, the Firm has made changes to its quality control policies and procedures to promote professional integrity, especially as it relates to training examinations, and to ensure that its personnel obtain the degree of technical training and proficiency required without engaging in improper answer sharing.

Absent this extraordinary cooperation, the civil money penalty imposed would have been significantly larger, and the Board may have imposed additional sanctions. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Navarro Amper & Co. is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,000,000 is imposed on Navarro Amper & Co.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Navarro Amper & Co. shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (iii) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Navarro Amper & Co. as the Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Navarro Amper & Co. shall pay pursuant to this Order, Navarro Amper & Co. shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Navarro Amper & Co.'s payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Navarro Amper & Co. based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

4. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

5. Navarro Amper & Co. understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), Navarro Amper & Co. is required:

1. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures as described in QC §20.20, System of Quality Control for A CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (a) personnel perform all internal training and tests associated with such training with integrity; (b) personnel to whom work has been assigned have the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; (c) personnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of regulatory agencies; and (d) the above-described policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.

2. Within 150 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with Section IV.C.1. above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. Navarro Amper & Co. shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy any provision of Section IV.C. may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Wilfredo Baltazar,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-026

April 10, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) Censuring Wilfredo Baltazar ("Baltazar" or "Respondent");

(2) Barring Respondent from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and

(3) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 on Respondent.[2]

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations, by directly and substantially contributing to violations by Navarro Amper & Co. (the "Firm" or "DT Philippines") of PCAOB rules and quality control standards in connection with the Firm's internal training program.

[1] Baltazar may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three years from the date of this Order.

[2] Based on his conduct, Baltazar's civil money penalty in this settlement would have been $50,000. The Board determined to accept Baltazar's offer of settlement and impose a lower penalty after considering his financial resources.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings contained herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of this proceeding, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondent

1. Wilfredo Baltazar was a partner at DT Philippines in the Audit and Assurance group. From June 2009 until May 2021, Baltazar served as the Firm's National Professional Practice Director ("NPPD"). As the NPPD, Baltazar was responsible for, among other things, promoting Firm audit quality, facilitating audit consultations, and monitoring and managing the compliance by the Firm's auditors with online training and professional training requirements. At all relevant times, Respondent was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

---

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of, inter alia, intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

B. Other Relevant Entity

2. DT Philippines is a public accounting firm located in Taguig, Philippines. DT Philippines is an affiliate of a member of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited ("Deloitte Global") network. The Firm registered with the Board on June 2, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. DT Philippines is, and at all relevant times was, a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

C. Summary

3. This matter concerns Baltazar's direct and substantial contribution to violations of PCAOB rules and quality control standards by DT Philippines.[5] As described below, Respondent knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to DT Philippines's violations.

4. From at least 2017 until early 2019, DT Philippines violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures for administering and overseeing internal training tests, including tests designed to help the Firm's audit professionals satisfy the requirements for maintaining their professional certifications. Those quality control failures prevented the Firm from identifying that nearly all of its audit partners during the period, including Respondent, the Firm's then-NPPD, and other audit professionals, engaged in improper answer sharing—either by providing answers or using answers—or received answers without reporting such sharing in connection with online tests for mandatory internal training courses.

5. Despite Respondent's quality control-related responsibilities as the NPPD, he shared answers to online training ("e-learning") and training assessments. On at least six occasions between 2017 and 2019, Respondent, in his capacity as the partner responsible for e-learning compliance, shared the answers to assessments with other partners at the Firm. Further, throughout the relevant period, Respondent knew that answer sharing occurred and took no steps to stop others at the Firm from sharing answers or to report such misconduct. Through these knowing or reckless acts and omissions, Respondent directly and substantially contributed to DT Philippines's violations of PCAOB rules and quality control standards.

D. DT Philippines's Violations of PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

i. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

6. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[6] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[7]

7. As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[8] In addition, PCAOB quality control standards related to personnel management state that "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . 8. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[11] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[12] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, the effectiveness of professional development activities and compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[13]

ii. Training Requirements

9. As part of DT Philippines's personnel management systems, the Firm administers internal training programs for its audit professionals. The training programs the Firm uses are designed to serve multiple purposes, including to provide personnel with technical instruction, to further their professional development, and to help licensed certified public accountants satisfy some of the continuing professional education requirements imposed by relevant professional bodies. The Firm's training requirements are intended to be relevant to, among other things, the independence of their personnel, the audit work they perform, and the integrity with which they carry out their professional responsibilities. The training requirements can vary by a professional's position, role, and industry practice area.

10. The Firm's online internal trainings often include a testing component. For training courses with a testing component, the Firm does not credit personnel with completing the training until they satisfactorily pass the related test.

iii. Failures by DT Philippines to Establish Appropriate Quality Control Policies and Procedures Related to Integrity and Personnel Management

11. DT Philippines's quality control policies and procedures concerning ethics and integrity as well as personnel management were inadequate to prevent or detect improper answer sharing on training tests that occurred among DT Philippines personnel, including nearly all of its audit partners, from at least 2017 to 2019. In fact, during this time, improper sharing of answers was common within the Firm's audit practice and was facilitated by Respondent, who had responsibility as the NPPD for overseeing Firm personnel's compliance with e-learnings and trainings.

12. During the relevant time period, Respondent recognized that the Firm's audit partners had fallen behind in their rates of compliance with trainings because their workloads and utilization rates made it difficult for them to keep up with required continuing professional education and trainings.

13. Respondent e-mailed answers to e-learnings to the audit partners and others in the Firm at least six times from 2017 through 2019. For example, on January 4, 2019,

[13] See QC § 20.20.c-.d; QC § 30.02.c-.d.

Respondent sent an e-mail to the audit partner listserv with the subject "IFRS E – Learnings." The email included answers to 21 different questions on three different IFRS topics. Respondent explained that those answers would result in a passing rate, but not a score of 100%.

14. Between 2017 and 2019, some of the audit partners who received answers from Respondent used those answers to complete required e-learnings and trainings.

15. Other Firm personnel also engaged in improper answer sharing. For example, in 2018, a director in the Firm's audit practice shared answers with others in the Firm on at least three occasions.

16. Despite this widespread answer sharing among audit partners of the Firm and by other audit personnel, none of the Firm's personnel timely reported the answer sharing to (a) anyone at the Firm not involved in answer sharing; (b) anyone within regional leadership or Deloitte Global; or (c) any relevant regulator.

17. As illustrated by the misconduct described above, from at least 2017 to October 2019, DT Philippines failed to establish and implement policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) DT Philippines personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity; (2) DT Philippines personnel to whom work was assigned had the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; and (3) DT Philippines personnel participated in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enabled them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements for licensed certified public accountants of relevant professional bodies. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management.[14]

E. Respondent at Least Recklessly, and Directly and Substantially, Contributed to the Firm's Violations of PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

18. PCAOB Rule 3502 provides that "[a] person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of . . . the Rules of the Board . . . or professional standards."

[14] See QC § 20.09, .13.b-c, .20; QC § 30.02; and QC § 40.02.b-c.

19. Respondent violated PCAOB Rule 3502 because he knew, or recklessly did not know, that his actions and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations described above. As the NPPD, Respondent had responsibility for Firm personnel's compliance with the Firm's e-learnings and trainings. When Respondent recognized that Firm personnel's compliance rates had fallen, he began sharing answers to exams.

20. As described above, Respondent shared answers with the Firm's audit partners on at least six occasions from 2017-2019. Additionally, he was aware that others at the Firm were involved in improper answer sharing. Respondent failed to put a stop to or report that misconduct during the relevant period, despite his responsibilities for personnel management and promoting an ethical culture at the Firm.

21. Instead, as the Firm's NPPD in charge of Firm training, Respondent created and fostered an environment in which it was acceptable to share answers and use shared answers on e-learning and training tests.

22. Respondent directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's failure to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel, including its partners, acted with integrity by facilitating answer sharing at the Firm, including by personally sharing answers with the Firm's partners.

23. Further, by sharing answers with the Firm's audit partners to use on required e-learnings and trainings, and creating and fostering an environment in which others at the Firm also improperly shared or used answers, Respondent directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's failure to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel: (1) had the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; and (2) participated in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enabled them to fulfill responsibilities assigned and satisfy applicable continuing professional education requirements of relevant professional bodies.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Wilfredo Baltazar is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Wilfredo Baltazar is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i); [15]

C. After three years from the date of this Order, Wilfredo Baltazar may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed on Wilfredo Baltazar.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty as follows: Respondent shall pay $5,000 within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order and an additional $5,000 within 30 days of the issuance of this Order. Respondent shall make payment by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (iii) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Wilfredo Baltazar as the Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

[15] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Baltazar. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

3. Respondent understands that his failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon him may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

6. Respondent acknowledges that the determination to accept his Offer is contingent upon the accuracy and completeness of the financial information he provided to the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Division"). Balthazar also acknowledges that, if at any time following this settlement, the Division obtains information indicating that any financial information provided by him—including, but not limited to, any information concerning assets, income, liabilities, or net worth—was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect as of the time such information was provided, then at any time following entry of this Order (1) the Board may institute a disciplinary proceeding for noncooperation with an investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110 and/or (2) the Division may petition the Board to (a) reopen this matter to consider whether Baltazar provided accurate and complete financial information at the time such information was provided to the Division; and (b) seek an order directing payment of the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law or any lesser amount determined to be appropriate. No other issue shall be considered in connection with this petition other than whether the financial information provided by Baltazar was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect; and, if so, whether a civil money penalty should be ordered up to the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law. Baltazar may not, by way of defense to any such petition: (i) contest the findings in this Order; (ii) assert that payment of a civil money penalty should not be ordered; (iii) contend that the amount of the civil money penalty to be ordered should be less than $50,000, which is specified herein as the amount the penalties would have been, based on Baltazar's conduct and without consideration of his financial resources; or (iv) put forward any other contention or assert any defense to liability or remedy, including, but not limited to, any defense based on statute of limitations or any other time-related defense, other than to contend (a) that Baltazar did not provide financial information that was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect, or (b) that a civil money penalty should not be ordered in an amount higher than $50,000.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Jessica Etania, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-029

May 7, 2024

(1) censuring Jessica Etania, CPA ("Etania" or "Respondent");

(2) barring Etania from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and

(3) imposing a $55,000 civil money penalty on Etania.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on Etania on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits by Liggett & Webb, P.A. ("Liggett & Webb" or the "Firm") of the financial statements of Innovative Food Holdings, Inc. ("Innovative Food") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020 ("2020 Innovative Food Audit") and of Luvu Brands, Inc. ("Luvu") for the fiscal years ended June 30, 2019 ("2019 Luvu Audit") and June 30, 2020 ("2020 Luvu Audit"), respectively (collectively, the "Luvu Audits").

I.

[1] Etania may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1), against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Jessica Etania was, at all relevant times, a partner of the Firm and a certified public accountant under the laws of Florida (license no. AC50610). Etania served as the engagement partner for the 2020 Innovative Food Audit, the 2019 Luvu Audit, and the 2020 Luvu Audit. At all relevant times, Etania was "an associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Relevant Entities

2. Liggett & Webb, P.A. is headquartered in Boynton Beach, Florida. Liggett & Webb was licensed to practice public accounting by the Florida Board of Accountancy (license no. AD63352).[4] Liggett & Webb is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board, and

---

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[4] The Firm's license expired on December 31, 2023.

is a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

3. Innovative Food Holdings, Inc. is a Florida corporation headquartered in Bonita Springs, Florida. Its public filings disclose that it is a distributor of perishables and specialty food and food-related products to restaurants, hotels, country clubs, national chain accounts, casinos, hospitals, and catering houses. Innovative Food is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

4. Luvu Brands, Inc. is a Florida corporation headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia. Its public filings disclose that it designs, manufactures, and markets a portfolio of consumer lifestyle brands through the company's websites, online mass merchants, and specialty retail stores worldwide. Luvu is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Etania's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the 2020 Innovative Food Audit, the 2019 Luvu Audit, and the 2020 Luvu Audit. As detailed below, Etania failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to Innovative Food's and Luvu's revenue and failed to make certain required communications to Luvu's audit committee.

D. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Standards

6. In connection with the preparation and issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[6]

All references to PCAOB rules and standards in this Order are to the versions of those rules and standards, and to their organization and numbering, in effect at the time of the audits discussed herein.

[6] See AS 3101.02, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion.

7. PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit.[7] Due professional care requires that the auditor exercise professional skepticism, which is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence.[8]

8. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion.[9] In addition, an auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement.[10]

9. PCAOB standards also require auditors to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[11] PCAOB standards further require auditors to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that are specifically responsive to the assessed risks, including fraud risks.[12]

10. When using information produced by the company as audit evidence, the auditor is also required to evaluate whether the information is sufficient and appropriate for purposes of the audit by performing procedures to test the accuracy and completeness of the information and evaluate whether the information is sufficiently precise and detailed for purposes of the audit.[13] An entity may publish various documents that contain information in addition to the audited financial statements and the independent auditor's report ("other information").[14] Other information in a document may also be relevant to an audit performed by an independent auditor. PCAOB standards require auditors to read the other information and consider whether such information, or the manner of its presentation, is materially inconsistent with information, or the manner of its presentation, appearing in the financial statements.[15]

11. PCAOB standards also require the auditor to communicate with the company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit, including identified significant risks and uncorrected misstatements.[16]

E. Etania Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards on the 2020 Innovative Food Audit

12. Liggett & Webb issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on Innovative Food's 2020 financial statements on April 15, 2021. The report was included with Innovative Food's Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on April 15, 2021.

13. Innovative Food disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2020 total assets of $23,150,275 and revenue and net loss of $51,676,028 and $7,665,024, respectively, for the year end. Etania and the engagement team identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

14. Innovative Food also disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2020 that its largest customer, U.S. Foods, Inc. ("U.S. Foods"), accounted for 40% of Innovative Food's consolidated revenue. Innovative Food's largest subsidiary, Food Innovations, Inc. ("FII"), with recorded revenue of $20,902,670, had a contractual agreement with U.S. Foods during fiscal year 2020.

15. PCAOB standards required Etania and the engagement team to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Etania's identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk,[17] and to evaluate whether Innovative Food's revenue was presented in the financial statements fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[18]

16. In performing audit procedures regarding Innovative Food's revenue, notwithstanding that FII's sales to U.S. Foods represented approximately 40% of Innovative Food's consolidated revenue in 2020, Etania and the engagement team failed to review FII's contract with U.S. Foods—Innovative Food's largest customer—to determine that it met the five criteria[19] outlined in FASB ASC 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers ("ASC 606") to qualify as a contract.[20]

17. As a result of Etania and the engagement team's failure to review FII's contract with U.S. Foods, Etania and the engagement team failed to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed their identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk, failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that Innovative Food's revenue was properly valued, and failed to evaluate whether Innovative Food's revenue was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[21]

F. Etania Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards on the Luvu Audits

18. Liggett & Webb issued audit reports containing unqualified opinions on Luvu's 2019 and 2020 financial statements on June 30, 2019, and June 30, 2020, respectively. The reports were included with Luvu's Forms 10-Ks filed with the Commission on October 11, 2019, and October 1, 2020, respectively.

19. Luvu disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2019 total assets of $4,087,000 and net sales and net loss of $17,003,000 and $157,000, respectively. Luvu disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2020 total assets of $5,447,000 and net sales and net income of approximately $18,376,000 and $860,000, respectively. In the 2019 Luvu Audit and 2020 Luvu Audit, Etania and the engagement team identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

i. Etania Failed to Test the Occurrence and Completeness of Revenue and Failed to Determine Whether All Performance Obligations Were Satisfied on the Luvu Audits

20. On both the 2019 Luvu Audit and the 2020 Luvu Audit, Etania and the engagement team failed to perform sufficient substantive procedures to test the occurrence and completeness of Luvu's e-commerce and wholesale revenues, which combined

[19] ASC 606 includes the following five revenue recognition implementation steps: (1) identify the contract with the customer; (2) identify performance obligations; (3) determine the transaction price; (4) allocate the transaction price to performance obligations; and (5) recognize revenue when each performance obligation is satisfied.

[20] See AS 1105.04.

[21] See AS 1105.04; AS 2810.30-.31; AS 2301.11-.13.

represented approximately 98 and 99 percent of Luvu's total annual revenue, respectively, to evaluate whether Luvu's revenue was recognized in the proper period and properly valued.

21. For the 2019 Luvu Audit and the 2020 Luvu Audit, in response to the identified significant risk and fraud risk concerning revenue recognition, Etania and the engagement team selected a sample of 292 and 279 sales invoices, respectively. They then planned procedures to agree each sales invoice to a shipping document, and obtain evidence of cash receipts.

22. In selecting the samples for the Luvu Audits, however, Etania and the engagement team failed to perform audit procedures to determine whether the population of sales invoices from which Etania and the engagement team made selections agreed to the sales sub-ledger. They also failed to reconcile the sales sub-ledger to Luvu's trial balance, general ledger, or financial statements. Therefore, Etania and the engagement team failed to sufficiently test the accuracy and completeness of the population of sales invoices agreed to the shipping documents and cash receipts.[22]

23. Additionally, during the 2019 Luvu Audit, Etania and the engagement team failed to trace 224 of the 292 selected sales invoices to actual shipping documents. Similarly, in the 2020 Luvu Audit, Etania and the engagement team failed to obtain evidence of shipping for 179 of the 279 selected sales invoices. Therefore, in both of the Luvu Audits, Etania and the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that Luvu's revenue was recognized in the proper period and properly valued.[23]

24. Finally, in both Luvu Audits, Etania and the engagement team failed to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed their identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.[24]

ii. Etania Failed to Evaluate Revenue Recognition Disclosures to Identify Material Inconsistencies in Luvu's Financial Statements on the 2019 Luvu Audit

25. In the Management Discussion & Analysis section ("MD&A") of Luvu's Form 10-K for the fiscal year 2019, Luvu disclosed the following: "[r]evenue is recognized at the point in time that control of the ordered products is transferred to the customer. Generally, this occurs

---

22 See AS 1105.10.

23 See AS 1105.04.

24 See AS 2301.08, .13.

when the product is delivered, or in some cases, picked up from one of our distribution centers by the customer."

26. But the disclosures included in Luvu's Form 10-K financial statements for the fiscal year ended 2019 contained contradictory language regarding revenue recognition as compared to the MD&A. Specifically, the disclosures provided that different revenue streams affected how revenue is recognized and that revenue was not always only recognized upon delivery of goods to a customer, but could also be recognized upon shipment of goods to the customer.

27. As a result, in reviewing Luvu's revenue recognition disclosures in its financial statements, Etania failed to consider whether that information was materially inconsistent with other information in the MD&A.[25]

iii. Etania Failed to Evaluate Whether Luvu's Revenue Was Presented Fairly, in All Material Respects, in Conformity with the Applicable Financial Reporting Framework on the 2020 Luvu Audit

28. In Luvu's Form 10-K for the fiscal year 2020, Luvu disclosed in the notes to the financial statements the following: "[r]evenue is recognized at the point in time that control of the ordered products is transferred to the customer. Generally, this occurs when the product is delivered, or in some cases, picked up from one of our distribution centers by the customer."

29. Etania and the engagement team, however, understood that Luvu recognized revenue upon shipment—not delivery. As a result, Etania and the engagement team failed to evaluate whether Luvu's revenue as disclosed in its financial statements was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[26]

iv. Etania Failed to Make Required Communications to the Audit Committee on the Luvu Audits

30. In addition to improper revenue recognition, in both the 2019 Luvu Audit and the 2020 Luvu Audit, Etania and the engagement team identified management override of controls and inventory valuation as significant risks and fraud risks.

31. In both the 2019 Luvu Audit and the 2020 Luvu Audit, Etania and the engagement team sent letters to Luvu's audit committee, on August 14, 2019, and August 16,

---

[25] See AS 2710.04.

[26] See AS 2810.30-.31.

2020, respectively, communicating an overview of the audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and the identified significant risks related to improper revenue recognition and inventory valuation. In both audits, however, they failed to disclose management override of controls as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

32. Additionally, during the 2019 Luvu Audit, Etania and the engagement team identified an uncorrected misstatement—specifically, a balance sheet reclassification from a prepaid asset to deferred revenue. In the final letter communication to Luvu's audit committee on October 11, 2019, however, Etania and the engagement team did not provide the schedule of uncorrected misstatements to the audit committee.

33. As a result of these failures in both the 2019 Luvu Audit and the 2020 Luvu Audit, Etania and the engagement team failed to make certain required communications to Luvu's audit committee concerning identified significant risks and uncorrected misstatements.[27]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Jessica Etania is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Jessica Etania is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[28]

---

[27] See AS 1301.09, .18.

[28] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Etania. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Jessica Etania may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $55,000 is imposed on Jessica Etania.

2. Jessica Etania shall pay $30,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order, and $25,000 within twelve months of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Jessica Etania as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Jessica Etania understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Jessica Etania shall pay pursuant to this Order, Jessica Etania shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Jessica Etania's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Jessica Etania based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Arpita Joshi, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-030

May 7, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Arpita Joshi, CPA ("Joshi" or "Respondent");

(2) barring Joshi from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and

(3) imposing a $45,000 civil money penalty on Joshi.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on Joshi on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits by Liggett & Webb, P.A. ("Liggett & Webb" or the "Firm") of the financial statements of Innovative Food Holdings, Inc. ("Innovative Food") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2019 ("2019 Innovative Food Audit") and of Luvu Brands, Inc. ("Luvu") for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2020 ("2020 Luvu Audit").

I.

[1] Joshi may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the " Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1), against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Arpita Joshi was, at all relevant times, a partner of the Firm and a certified public accountant under the laws of New York (license no. 120778) and Maine (license no. CP4777). Joshi served as the engagement partner for the 2019 Innovative Food Audit and the engagement quality review ("EQR") partner on the 2020 Luvu Audit. At all relevant times, Joshi was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Relevant Entities

2. Liggett & Webb, P.A. is headquartered in Boynton Beach, Florida. Liggett & Webb was licensed to practice public accounting by the Florida Board of Accountancy (license

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Joshi's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the 2019 Innovative Food Audit. As detailed below, Joshi failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to Innovative Food's goodwill and other intangible assets.

6. Additionally, Joshi violated AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review, by providing her concurring approval of issuance of the 2020 Luvu Audit report without performing the required EQR with due professional care.

D. Joshi Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the 2019 Innovative Food Audit

7. In connection with the preparation and issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[6]

8. PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit.[7] Due professional care requires that the auditor exercise professional skepticism, which is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence.[8]

9. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion.[9] In addition, an auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement.[10]

10. PCAOB standards also require auditors to evaluate whether the significant assumptions used to measure the fair value of an asset provide a reasonable basis for the fair value measurement and disclosure in the financial statements.[11] PCAOB standards further require auditors who use the work of a specialist as evidential matter in performing an audit to, among other things, "evaluate whether the specialist's findings support the related assertions in the financial statements."[12]

11. Liggett & Webb issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on Innovative Food's 2019 financial statements on May 14, 2020. The report was included with Innovative Food's Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on May 14, 2020.

12. Innovative Food disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2019 total assets of $20,874,975, including goodwill and other intangible assets of $3,525,806. More specifically, for the intangible assets, Innovative Food disclosed goodwill in the amount of $650,243, Trade

Name in the amount of $1,532,822, Customer Relationships in the amount of $640,422, Non-Compete Agreements in the amount of $72,355, and Internally Developed Technology in the amount of $545,964. Joshi and the engagement team assessed inherent risk, control risk, and the combined risk of material misstatement for the valuation of intangible assets as high, and they identified a significant risk related to goodwill.

13. PCAOB standards required Joshi and the engagement team to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed Joshi's identification of valuation of goodwill as a significant risk,[13] and to evaluate whether Innovative Food's intangible assets were presented in the financial statements fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[14]

14. Innovative Food performed a qualitative assessment of goodwill to determine whether it was more likely than not that the fair value of goodwill was less than the carrying amount. Innovative Food concluded that the qualitative assessment indicated that goodwill could be impaired and engaged a valuation specialist to perform a quantitative assessment.

15. Joshi and the engagement team used the report of the specialist as evidence in performing substantive procedures to evaluate the valuation of Innovative Food's goodwill as of December 31, 2019. Joshi and the engagement team, however, failed to perform procedures to evaluate whether the specialist's findings supported that valuation.[15]

16. Additionally, with respect to Innovative Food's other intangible assets, Joshi and the engagement team failed to perform any audit procedures over Innovative Food's Trade Name, Customer Relationships, Non-Compete Agreements, or Internally Developed Technology, other than tracing amounts to prior year financial statements and cross-footing to other data provided by Innovative Food.

17. As a result, Joshi and the engagement team failed to adequately test the fair value of Innovative Food's goodwill and intangible assets.[16] They failed to adequately perform substantive procedures specifically responsive to the identified significant risks over Innovative Food's goodwill,[17] and they failed to evaluate whether the specialist's findings supported the valuation of Innovative Food's goodwill.[18] They also failed to perform sufficient audit procedures related to Innovative Food's intangible assets, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that Innovative Food's goodwill and other intangible assets were properly valued as of December 31, 2019.[19]

E. Joshi Failed to Appropriately Perform the EQR on the 2020 Luvu Audit

18. PCAOB standards require that an EQR be performed on all audit engagements conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[20] In conducting the EQR, PCAOB standards require the EQR partner to evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[21]

19. PCAOB standards also require the EQR partner to evaluate the assessment of, and audit responses to, among other things, significant risks identified by the engagement team, including fraud risks.[22] In addition, the EQR partner is required to evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed in connection with the EQR indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks, and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[23]

20. The EQR partner may provide concurring approval of issuance of an audit report only if, after performing the EQR with due professional care, the EQR partner is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[24] Among other things, a significant engagement deficiency in an audit exists when the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in accordance with PCAOB standards.[25]

21. Liggett & Webb issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on Luvu's 2020 financial statements on June 30, 2020. The report was included with Luvu's Form 10-K filed with the Commission on October 1, 2020. Luvu disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2020 total assets of $5,447,000 and net sales and net income of approximately $18,376,000 and $860,000, respectively. In the 2020 Luvu Audit, the engagement team identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

22. On the 2020 Luvu Audit, the engagement team failed to perform sufficient substantive procedures to test the occurrence and completeness of Luvu's e-commerce and wholesale revenues, which combined represented approximately 99 percent of Luvu's total revenue, to evaluate whether Luvu's revenue was recognized in the proper period and properly valued.

23. For the 2020 Luvu Audit, in response to the identified significant risk and fraud risk concerning revenue recognition, the engagement team selected a sample of 279 sales invoices. They then planned procedures to agree each sales invoice to a shipping document, and obtain evidence of cash receipts.

24. In selecting the sample, however, the engagement team failed to perform audit procedures to determine whether the population of sales invoices agreed to the shipping documents and cash receipts was recorded in the sales sub-ledger. The engagement team also failed to reconcile the sales sub-ledger to Luvu's trial balance, general ledger, or financial statements. Therefore, the engagement team failed to sufficiently test the accuracy and completeness of the population of sales invoices agreed to the shipping documents and cash receipts.[26]

25. Additionally, in the 2020 Luvu Audit, the engagement team did not obtain evidence of shipping for 179 of the 279 selected sales invoices. Therefore, the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that Luvu's revenue was recognized in the proper period and properly valued.[27]

26. Joshi served as the EQR partner on the 2020 Luvu Audit and provided her concurring approval of issuance of the 2020 Luvu Audit report.

---

[26] See AS 1105.10.

[27] See AS 1105.04.

27. During her EQR of the 2020 Luvu Audit, Joshi was aware that the engagement team identified Luvu's revenue as a significant risk. She reviewed the revenue work papers from the audit file.

28. Joshi failed to conduct the EQR in accordance with PCAOB standards by failing to properly: (1) evaluate the significant judgments the engagement team made with respect to Luvu's revenue, and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report;[28] (2) evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, the significant risk they identified in the area of revenue;[29] and (3) evaluate whether the engagement documentation that Joshi reviewed indicated that the engagement team responded properly to significant risks and supported the conclusions the engagement team reached with respect to the matters reviewed related to the area of revenue.[30]

29. An EQR partner performing an EQR with due professional care, in compliance with AS 1220, should have detected the significant engagement deficiencies described above. Because Joshi did not identify the significant engagement deficiencies in the area of revenue, she failed to exercise due professional care and perform her EQR in accordance with AS 1220, and she inappropriately provided her concurring approval of issuance, in violation of PCAOB standards.[31]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Arpita Joshi is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Arpita Joshi is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[32]

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Arpita Joshi may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $45,000 is imposed on Arpita Joshi.

2. Arpita Joshi shall pay $22,500 within ten days of the issuance of this Order, and $22,500 within six months of the issuance of this Order, by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Arpita Joshi as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

[32] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Joshi. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

4. Arpita Joshi understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Arpita Joshi shall pay pursuant to this Order, Arpita Joshi shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Arpita Joshi's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Arpita Joshi based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Robert Garick, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-031

May 7, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Robert Garick, CPA ("Garick" or "Respondent");

(2) limiting Garick's activities in connection with any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act") for a period of one year from the date of this Order; and

(3) imposing a $30,000 civil money penalty on Garick.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on Garick on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit by Liggett & Webb, P.A. ("Liggett & Webb" or the "Firm") of the financial statements of Innovative Food Holdings, Inc. ("Innovative Food") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020 ("2020 Innovative Food Audit").

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Robert Garick was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant under the laws of Florida (license no. AC0020942) and New York (license no. 046922). Garick served as the engagement quality review ("EQR") partner for the 2020 Innovative Food Audit. At all relevant times, Garick was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Relevant Entities

2. Liggett & Webb, P.A. is headquartered in Boynton Beach, Florida. Liggett & Webb was licensed to practice public accounting by the Florida Board of Accountancy (license no. AD63352).[3] Liggett & Webb is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board, and is a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[3] The Firm's license expired on December 31, 2023.

3. Innovative Food Holdings, Inc. is a Florida corporation headquartered in Bonita Springs, Florida. Its public filings disclose that it is a distributor of perishables and specialty food and food-related products to restaurants, hotels, country clubs, national chain accounts, casinos, hospitals, and catering houses. Innovative Food is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns Garick's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the 2020 Innovative Food Audit. As detailed below, Garick violated AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review, by providing his concurring approval of issuance of the 2020 Innovative Food Audit report without performing the required EQR with due professional care.

D. Garick Failed to Appropriately Perform the Engagement Quality Review on the 2020 Innovative Food Audit

5. In connection with the preparation and issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional standards.[4] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[5]

6. PCAOB standards also require that an EQR be performed on all audit engagements conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[6] In conducting the EQR, PCAOB standards require the EQR partner to evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[7]

7. PCAOB standards also require the EQR partner to evaluate the assessment of, and audit responses to, among other things, significant risks identified by the engagement team, including fraud risks.[8] In addition, the EQR partner is required to evaluate whether the engagement documentation that the EQR partner reviewed in connection with the EQR indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks, and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[9]

8. The EQR partner may provide concurring approval of issuance of an audit report only if, after performing the EQR with due professional care, the EQR partner is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[10] Among other things, a significant engagement deficiency in an audit exists when the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in accordance with PCAOB standards.[11]

9. Liggett & Webb issued an audit report containing an unqualified opinion on Innovative Food's 2020 financial statements on April 15, 2021. The report was included with Innovative Food's Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on April 15, 2021.

10. Innovative Food disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2020 total assets of $23,150,275 and revenue and net loss of $51,676,028 and $7,665,024, respectively, for the year end. The engagement team identified improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk.

11. Innovative Food also disclosed in its Form 10-K for fiscal year 2020 that its largest customer, U.S. Foods, Inc. ("U.S. Foods"), accounted for 40% of Innovative Food's consolidated revenue. Innovative Food's largest subsidiary, Food Innovations, Inc. ("FII"), with recorded revenue of $20,902,670, had a contractual agreement with U.S. Foods during fiscal year 2020.

12. In performing audit procedures over Innovative Food's revenue, notwithstanding that FII's sales to U.S. Foods represented approximately 40% of Innovative Food's consolidated revenue in 2020, the engagement team failed to review FII's contract with U.S. Foods—

Innovative Food's largest customer—to ensure that it met the five criteria[12] outlined in FASB ASC Topic 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers ("ASC 606"), to qualify as a contract.[13]

13. As a result of the engagement team's failure to review FII's contract with U.S. Foods, the engagement team failed to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addressed their identification of improper revenue recognition as a significant risk and a fraud risk, failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence that Innovative Food's revenue was properly valued, and failed to evaluate whether Innovative Food's revenue was presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[14]

14. Garick served as the EQR partner on the 2020 Innovative Food Audit and provided his concurring approval of issuance of the 2020 Innovative Food Audit report.

15. During his EQR of the 2020 Innovative Food Audit, Garick was aware that the engagement team identified both Innovative Food's revenue and accounts receivable as significant risks and fraud risks. He reviewed some of the revenue and accounts receivable work papers included in the audit file.

16. Garick, however, saw no documentation that the engagement team reviewed FII's contract with U.S. Foods. Additionally, he failed to review the work papers summarizing the engagement team's testing of accounts receivable confirmations and revenue, as well as the U.S. Foods accounts receivable confirmation. As a result, Garick failed to conduct the EQR in accordance with PCAOB standards by failing to properly: (1) evaluate the significant judgments the engagement team made with respect to Innovative Food's revenue, and the related conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report;[15] (2) evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, the significant risk and fraud risk identified in the area of revenue;[16] and (3) evaluate whether the engagement documentation that Garick reviewed indicated that the engagement team responded properly to the identified significant risk and supported the conclusions the engagement team reached with respect to the matters reviewed related to the area of revenue.[17]

17. An EQR partner performing an EQR with due professional care, in compliance with AS 1220, should have detected the significant engagement deficiencies described above. Because Garick did not identify the significant engagement deficiencies in the area of revenue, he failed to exercise due professional care and perform his EQR in accordance with AS 1220, and he inappropriately provided his concurring approval of issuance, in violation of PCAOB standards.[18]

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Robert Garick is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(C) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(3), for a period of one year from the date of this Order, Robert Garick's role in any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(a)(v), shall be restricted as follows: Robert Garick shall not (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement partner," as that term is used in AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (3) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement partner or engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "lead partner," "practitioner-in-charge," or "concurring partner"); (4) exercise authority, or supervise the work of another person exercising authority, either to sign a registered public accounting firm's name to an audit report, or to consent to the use of a previously issued audit report, for any issuer, broker, or dealer; (5) assist the engagement partner in fulfilling his or her responsibilities under paragraph 4 of AS 1201; or (6) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as the "other auditor," or "another auditor," as those terms are used in AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors.[19]

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 is imposed on Robert Garick.

2. Robert Garick shall pay $20,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order, $5,000 within sixty (60) days from the date of the issuance of this Order, and $5,000 within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of the issuance of this Order, by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Robert Garick as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Robert Garick shall pay pursuant to this Order, Robert Garick shall not, directly or indirectly, [19] Nor shall Robert Garick assume any equivalent role, such as a serving as a "lead auditor," "other auditor," or "referred-to auditor," as such terms will be defined by Appendix A of AS 2101, Audit Planning, when amendments to AS 2101 become effective for audits for fiscal years ending on or after December 15, 2024.

(a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Robert Garick's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Robert Garick based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of MaloneBailey, LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-032

May 21, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring MaloneBailey, LLP ("MaloneBailey," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $400,000 civil money penalty on the Firm;

(3) requiring MaloneBailey to engage an independent consultant to review and make recommendations concerning MaloneBailey's system of quality control as specified in Section IV of this Order; and

(4) requiring MaloneBailey to conduct certain training for all audit staff.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards by failing to take sufficient steps from 2018 through 2021 to ensure that its system of quality control provided reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and the Firm's standards of quality, despite repeated notifications of auditing and quality control concerns brought to the Firm's attention through several PCAOB inspections.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. MaloneBailey, LLP is a public accounting firm headquartered in Houston, Texas. MaloneBailey is licensed to practice public accounting by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy (License No. P05522), among other states, and is a member of the Nexia International network of firms. MaloneBailey is, and at all relevant times, was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and quality control standards during the time period 2018 through 2021. The Firm's system of quality control failed to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm would establish engagement performance and monitoring policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that its policies and procedures were suitably designed and effectively applied. During the period from 2018 through 2021, PCAOB inspectors repeatedly brought concerns to the Firm's attention related to significant deficiencies in various audit areas, including auditing

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

accounting estimates and testing revenue, and raised concerns that MaloneBailey's system of quality control failed to provide reasonable assurance of complying with the related professional standards. Despite the Firm's awareness of these deficiencies and concerns, the Firm failed to make effective changes to improve its system of quality control, as indicated by the repeated significant engagement deficiencies identified in the 2018, 2019, and 2021 inspections.

C. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

3. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[3] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[4] A firm's system of quality control encompasses the firm's organizational structure and the policies adopted and procedures established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance of complying with professional standards.[5]

4. A firm's system of quality control should, among other things, include policies and procedures for engagement performance.[6] These quality control policies and procedures should provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[7] Quality control policies and procedures for engagement performance encompass all phases of the design and execution of an engagement.[8] To the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, these policies and procedures should cover planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement.[9] These policies and procedures also should address engagement quality reviews ("EQRs").[10]

5. A firm should also establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its quality control policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.[11] Monitoring procedures taken as a whole should enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective.[12] Procedures that provide the firm with a means of identifying and communicating circumstances that may necessitate changes to or the need to improve compliance with the firm's policies and procedures contribute to the monitoring element.[13] Among other things, a firm's monitoring procedures may include inspection procedures, preissuance or postissuance review of selected engagements, determination of any corrective actions to be taken and improvements to be made in the quality control system, communication to appropriate firm personnel of any weaknesses identified, and follow-up to ensure that any necessary modifications are made to the quality control system on a timely basis.[14]

6. Inspection procedures, as a part of a firm's system of quality control, evaluate the adequacy of a firm's policies and procedures, its personnel's understanding of those policies and procedures, and the extent of the firm's compliance with its quality control policies and procedures.[15] Inspection procedures contribute to the monitoring function because findings are evaluated and changes in, or clarifications of, quality control policies and procedures are considered.[16]

7. To provide reasonable assurance that the firm's quality control system achieves its objectives, appropriate consideration should be given to the assignment of quality control responsibilities within the firm, the means by which quality control policies and procedures are communicated, and the extent to which the policies and procedures and compliance should be documented.[17]

8. As described below, MaloneBailey failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

i. MaloneBailey Received Notice of Significant Audit Deficiencies in the Firm's Audits through Repeat Notifications in Multiple PCAOB Inspections

9. During the time period from 2018 through 2021, PCAOB inspection staff conducted three inspections of the Firm and, during each inspection, notified the Firm of repeated significant audit deficiencies that raised concerns about the Firm's engagement performance. The initial notifications of these deficiencies provided the Firm with notice of engagement performance issues. Subsequent findings of deficiencies provided continuing notice and indicated the Firm's system of quality control had failed to adequately address the deficiencies noted in previous inspections.

10. In 2018, PCAOB inspection staff conducted an inspection of the Firm. In connection with the inspection, between September 2018 and October 2018, PCAOB inspection staff informed the Firm of its findings regarding significant audit deficiencies in MaloneBailey issuer audits related to revenue testing, auditing accounting estimates, including fair value measurements, and audit committee communications.

11. In 2019, PCAOB inspection staff conducted another inspection of the Firm. In connection with the inspection, between November 2019 and December 2019, PCAOB inspection staff informed the Firm of its findings regarding significant audit deficiencies in numerous MaloneBailey issuer audits related again to revenue testing, auditing accounting estimates, including fair value measurements, and audit committee communications. In addition, the inspection staff also identified audit deficiencies related to EQRs. With respect to the EQR deficiencies, in several audits inspected, the EQR partner did not identify a deficiency in an area identified by the engagement team as a significant risk, including in some cases a fraud risk.[18] Inspection staff also identified deficiencies related to the Firm's internal inspection program and state practice qualification requirements.

12. In 2021, PCAOB inspection staff conducted an inspection of the Firm. In connection with the inspection, between September 2021 and December 2021, PCAOB inspection staff informed the Firm regarding significant audit deficiencies in numerous MaloneBailey issuer audits related again to revenue testing, auditing accounting estimates, including fair value measurements, audit committee communications, and EQRs. With respect to the EQR deficiencies, PCAOB inspection staff identified one or more deficiencies in areas that the EQR partners were required to evaluate, such as the engagement teams' assessment of, and audit responses to, areas of significant risk, including in some cases a fraud risk. Inspection staff also identified deficiencies related to state practice qualification requirements.

ii. Despite the Repeat, Significant Audit Deficiencies, the Firm's Quality Control Policies and Procedures Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance That They Were Suitably Designed and Being Effectively Applied from 2018 through 2021

13. From 2018 through 2021, the engagement performance element of the Firm's system of quality control failed to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by its engagement personnel met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[19] In addition, the Firm's monitoring procedures related to inspections ("Internal Inspections") were deficient and failed to provide the Firm with a means of identifying and communicating circumstances that may necessitate changes to or the need to improve compliance with the Firm's policies and procedures that contribute to the monitoring element.[20]

14. To address requirements that a firm's monitoring element provide it with reasonable assurance that its policies and procedures for each of the other elements of its system of quality control are suitably designed and were being effectively applied,[21] the Firm's policies indicated that Internal Inspections were to be performed on all elements of the Firm's quality control system at least annually.

15. The Firm conducted an internal inspection for the year-ended June 30, 2019, and identified a large number of engagement-specific deficiencies, yet the Firm failed to take sufficient or timely corrective action to improve compliance with the Firm's quality control policies and procedures.

16. Additionally, the Firm's Internal Inspections included the inspection of two issuer audits that the 2019 PCAOB inspection team subsequently inspected. However, the Firm's Internal Inspections failed to identify significant engagement deficiencies in the engagement performance of one of the audits where the same areas were reviewed by the PCAOB, and significant engagement deficiencies were found.

19 QC § 20.17.

20 QC § 30.03.

21 QC § 20.20.

17. Despite the Firm's awareness that PCAOB inspectors had found repeated engagement performance deficiencies in specific audits, including deficiencies that the Firm failed to identify during its Internal Inspections, the Firm did not consider and evaluate the adequacy of its monitoring policies and procedures in light of these findings.[22] The Firm failed to make changes to, or sufficiently improve, its policies and procedures to address the failures of its procedures to identify these deficiencies.

18. As a result, the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards by failing to have monitoring policies and procedures, taken as a whole, that enabled the Firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was effective, such that the policies and procedures for each of the elements of its system of quality control were suitably designed and being effectively applied, including engagement performance.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), MaloneBailey is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), the Board imposes a civil money penalty in the amount of $400,000 on MaloneBailey.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check:

[22] QC § 30.04.

(i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(C) and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(3), (8) and (9), the Board orders that:

1. Independent Consultant

a. MaloneBailey shall retain and pay for an independent consultant ("Independent Consultant"), not unacceptable to the PCAOB staff, to review and make recommendations regarding MaloneBailey's quality control policies and procedures applicable to audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards. The Independent Consultant must have experience with, and be knowledgeable concerning, PCAOB quality control and auditing standards. Within thirty days after the entry of this Order, MaloneBailey shall submit to the PCAOB staff a proposal setting forth the identity, qualifications, and proposed terms of retention of the Independent Consultant. MaloneBailey may not hire as the Independent Consultant any individual who has provided legal, auditing, or other services to, or has had any affiliation with, MaloneBailey during the two years prior to entry of this Order.

b. To ensure the independence of the Independent Consultant, MaloneBailey: (i) shall not have the authority to terminate the Independent Consultant or substitute another independent consultant for the initial Independent Consultant, without the prior written approval of the PCAOB staff; and (ii) shall compensate the Independent Consultant and persons engaged to assist the Independent Consultant for services rendered pursuant to this Order at their reasonable and customary rates.

c. MaloneBailey shall cooperate fully with the Independent Consultant and shall provide reasonable access to its personnel, information, and records as the Independent Consultant may reasonably request for the Independent Consultant's review, evaluation, and reports.

d. If MaloneBailey, despite its best, good faith efforts, is unable to identify an Independent Consultant candidate that meets all of the above-listed criteria, it may seek approval from the PCAOB staff of alternative candidates or alternative terms that MaloneBailey believes to be otherwise suitable.

e. Within 90 days of this Order, MaloneBailey will review, evaluate, and implement, under the supervision of the Independent Consultant, any necessary enhancements to MaloneBailey's quality control policies and procedures applicable to audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards. If, as a result of that review and evaluation, it appears to the Independent Consultant that any further enhancements to the system of quality control are necessary, it shall recommend such enhancements to MaloneBailey.

f. Within 120 days of this Order, MaloneBailey shall (1) implement any recommendations received from the Independent Consultant, pursuant to Paragraph IV.C.1.e, and (2) require the Independent Consultant to review a sample of the Firm's most recent public company audits to ensure those audits comply with PCAOB auditing standards and that those integrated audits were conducted in accordance with PCAOB quality control standards and the Firm's revised Quality Control Manual. If MaloneBailey does not implement recommendations received from the Independent Consultant pursuant to Paragraph IV.C.1.e, it shall communicate to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations the recommendations of the Independent Consultant it did not implement and the reasons for not doing so.

2. Firm Certification

a. Within 270 days of the date of this Order, MaloneBailey shall certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, PCAOB, 1666 K Street N.W., Washington, DC 20006, the Firm's compliance with the above paragraphs ("Final Certification"). The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The certification shall include a description of the specific enhancements implemented to MaloneBailey's system of quality control from the time of the conduct described in this Order. MaloneBailey shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

b. For good cause shown, the PCAOB staff may extend any of the procedural dates relating to these undertakings. Deadlines for procedural dates shall be counted in calendar days, except that if the last day falls on a weekend or federal holiday, the next business day shall be considered the last day.

c. MaloneBailey understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F), (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), (9), MaloneBailey is required:

1. As of the date of the Final Certification, to have conducted training for all audit personnel of the Firm related to changes to the Firm's policies and procedures that resulted from the Independent Consultant's recommendations relating to, among other areas:

a. Testing Accounting Estimates, Including Fair Value Measurements, and Using the Work of a Company's Specialist
b. Testing of Revenue
c. EQRs
d. Audit Committee Pre-Approval and Independence
e. Audit Committee Communications
f. Internal Inspections
g. State Practice Qualification Requirements

E. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of L&L CPAs, PA, Weixuan Tracy Luo, CPA, Andy Chow, CPA, and Robert Kinzer, CPA,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-033

June 10, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring L&L CPAs, PA ("L&L" or the "Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, Weixuan Tracy Luo, CPA ("Luo"), Andy Chow, CPA ("Chow"), and Robert Kinzer, CPA ("Kinzer") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $75,000 upon the Firm and Luo, jointly and severally;

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions concerning quality control directed toward satisfying requirements applicable to audits and reviews of issuers before filing, and to provide evidence of such measures with, any future registration application;[1]

(4) barring Chow from being associated with a registered public accounting firm and imposing a $50,000 civil money penalty on him;[2]

[1] L&L filed a Form 1-WD on December 20, 2022, requesting leave to withdraw from registration with the Board.

[2] Chow may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after one year from the date of this Order.

(5) limiting Kinzer's activities in connection with any "audit," as that term is defined in Section 110(1) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), for a period of one year from the date of this Order, and imposing a $25,000 civil money penalty on him;

(6) requiring that Chow complete 50 hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license, before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm; and

(7) requiring that Kinzer complete 50 hours of CPE, in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) the Firm failed to timely file two PCAOB Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, and violated PCAOB quality control standards; (b) Luo directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of PCAOB quality control standards; (c) Chow violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with the audit of the financial statements of Sugarmade, Inc., ("Sugarmade") for the fiscal year ("FY") ended June 30, 2021 (the "Sugarmade Audit"); and (d) Kinzer violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with his engagement quality review ("EQR") for the Sugarmade Audit.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, each Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondents

1. L&L CPAs, PA is a public accounting firm headquartered in Plantation, Florida, and is licensed under the laws of the state of Florida (license no. AD68932). At all relevant times, L&L was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

2. Weixuan Tracy Luo was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Florida (license no. AC44726), and was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). At all relevant times, Luo was the President of L&L.

3. Andy Chow was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Florida (license no. AC51679) and an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Chow served as the engagement partner for the Sugarmade Audit.

4. Robert Kinzer was, at all relevant times, a certified public accountant licensed by the states of New York (license no. 043182) and Florida (license no. AC48886) and an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Kinzer served as the engagement quality reviewer for the Sugarmade Audit.

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

B. Issuers

5. Sugarmade, Inc. is a corporation organized under the laws of Delaware and headquartered in Monrovia, California. Sugarmade's public filings disclose that it supplies disposable products to the restaurant industry, imports and distributes non-medical personal protection equipment, provides cannabis product delivery services, and is involved in the establishment of cannabis and hemp projects. At all relevant times, Sugarmade was an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

6. Xiamen Lutong International Travel Agency Co., Ltd. ("Xiamen") is a corporation organized under the laws of Nevada and headquartered in Zhangzhou, Fujian, China. Xiamen's public filings disclose that it is a company that plans to engage in travel businesses in China, but has not commenced its business and has no business operations, revenues, or assets. At all relevant times, Xiamen was an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

7. Grapefruit USA, Inc. ("Grapefruit") is a corporation organized under the laws of California and headquartered in Delaware. Grapefruit's public filings disclose that it manufactures and distributes cannabis products. At all relevant times, Grapefruit was an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

8. Marijuana Co of America, Inc. ("Marijuana Co") is a corporation organized under the laws of Utah and headquartered in Escondido, California. Marijuana Co's public filings disclose that it markets and sells consumer products containing hemp and cannabinoids (or CBD) and provides financial accounting and property management services for companies in the cannabis industry. At all relevant times, Marijuana Co was an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

9. This matter concerns L&L's violations of PCAOB rules and standards by failing to (1) timely file Form APs for two issuer audits; and (2) establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would comply with PCAOB requirements concerning identification and disclosure of critical audit matters ("CAMs"). Luo violated PCAOB rules by knowingly or recklessly, and directly and substantially, contributing to the Firm's violations of PCAOB quality control standards.

10. This matter also concerns Chow's and Kinzer's violations of PCAOB rules and standards during the Sugarmade Audit. Specifically, while serving as engagement partner on the Sugarmade Audit, Chow failed to: (1) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence supporting the existence, valuation, and presentation and disclosure of a purported intangible asset representing over 50% of Sugarmade's total assets in FY 2021; and (2) accurately describe in the Firm's audit report how the engagement team addressed a CAM. Kinzer, the EQR partner for the Sugarmade Audit, failed to perform his engagement quality review with due professional care and in accordance with AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review.

D. L&L Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

11. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"),[5] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[6]

12. L&L audited the financial statements of Marijuana Co as of and for the year ended December 31, 2018, and issued an audit report dated June 25, 2019, which was included in Marijuana Co's financial statements filed with the SEC on the same day. After notification from the PCAOB, L&L belatedly filed the Form AP for that audit on March 6, 2024.

13. L&L audited the financial statements of Xiamen as of and for the year ended June 30, 2020, and issued an audit report dated October 13, 2020, which was included in Xiamen's financial statements filed with the SEC on the same day. The Firm belatedly filed the Form AP for that audit on April 20, 2021.

14. L&L failed to file the required Form APs for each of the above audit reports by the 35th day after the date the audit reports were first included with the filings made with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211. Indeed, in the case of the 2018 Marijuana Co audit, L&L's Form AP filing was more than four and a half years late.

[5] See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1).

[6] In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the SEC. See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

E. L&L Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

15. PCAOB rules require registered public accounting firms to comply with the Board's quality control standards.[7] PCAOB quality control standards, in turn, require each registered firm to effectively design, implement, and maintain a system of quality control for the firm's accounting and auditing practice.[8]

16. A system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality.[9] A firm should establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[10]

17. L&L failed to establish and implement policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that, in audits governed by PCAOB standards, engagement personnel would comply with the requirements of AS 3101, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion, related to determining and reporting CAMs.

18. AS 3101.11 states that an auditor must determine whether there are any CAMs in the audit of a client's current period financial statements. A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[11]

19. For each CAM communicated in the auditor's report, the auditor must: (a) identify the CAM; (b) describe the principal considerations that led the auditor to determine that the matter is a CAM; (c) describe how the CAM was addressed in the audit; and (d) refer to the relevant financial statement accounts or disclosures that relate to the CAM.[12] If the auditor determines that there are no CAMs in an audit, the auditor must state in the audit report that no CAMs were identified.[13]

20. L&L issued an audit report dated April 19, 2021, on Grapefruit's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2020 (the "Grapefruit 2020 Audit"). L&L's audit report expressed an unqualified opinion with explanatory language regarding substantial doubt about Grapefruit's ability to continue as a going concern but did not include any language related to CAMs, in violation of AS 3101. On July 26, 2021, the engagement team for the Grapefruit 2020 Audit identified that the previously issued audit report did not include the required language related to CAMs, and subsequently performed procedures to determine whether inventory, fixed assets, accounts payable and accrued liabilities, convertible notes, and equity were CAMs for the Grapefruit 2020 Audit. L&L then issued a revised audit report, also dated April 19, 2021, that included language identifying and describing convertible notes as a CAM.

21. L&L also issued an audit report dated October 13, 2021, for the Sugarmade Audit. L&L's audit report expressed an unqualified opinion with explanatory language regarding substantial doubt about Sugarmade's ability to continue as a going concern. L&L's audit report identified the potential impairment of an intangible asset as a CAM, but it did not accurately describe how that CAM was addressed in the Sugarmade Audit. Specifically, the audit report stated that procedures performed to address CAMs included a "sensitivity analysis of significant assumptions" and "evaluating the impact on the fair values that would result from changes in the assumptions." However, the engagement team did not, in fact, perform the procedures described in the CAM during the Sugarmade Audit.

22. As illustrated by the deficiencies in the Grapefruit 2020 Audit and the Sugarmade Audit, during 2021, L&L failed to establish and implement policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that, in audits governed by PCAOB standards, engagement personnel would (1) determine whether there were any CAMs in the audit; (2) communicate all CAMs in the audit report or state in the audit report that it determined that there were no CAMs; and (3) accurately describe how the CAMs were addressed in the audit. Accordingly, L&L violated QC § 20.

F. Luo Directly and Substantially Contributed to the Firm's Quality Control Violations

23. PCAOB rules require that a person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action "knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[14]

24. As described above, the Firm failed to design, implement, and maintain policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that, in audits governed by PCAOB standards, engagement personnel would comply with the requirements of AS 3101 related to determining and reporting CAMs. At all relevant times, Luo was President of the Firm, and was responsible for developing and maintaining quality control policies and procedures applicable to the Firm's auditing practice.

25. Luo failed to design, implement, and maintain adequate policies and procedures related to compliance with the CAM requirements in AS 3101 and knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that her acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of QC § 20, as described above.

26. As a result, Luo violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

G. Chow Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards on the Sugarmade Audit

a. Chow Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence Supporting the Existence of a Purported "Cannabis Cultivation License"

27. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing standards.[15] Under these standards, an auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has formed such an opinion on the basis of an audit performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[16]

28. The auditor must plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to support the audit opinion.[17] Auditors are required to evaluate the results of the audit to determine whether the audit evidence obtained is sufficient and appropriate to support the opinion to be expressed in the report.[18] Auditors are required to exercise due professional care in the planning and performance of the audit and in the preparation of the report.[19] Due professional care requires the auditor to exercise professional skepticism, which is "an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence."[20]

29. In its financial statements for FY 2021, Sugarmade reported "intangible asset, net" totaling $10,650,394, of which $10,637,000 related to a "cannabis cultivation license." This license represented approximately 55% of Sugarmade's total reported assets for FY 2021.

30. The cannabis cultivation license component of Sugarmade's intangible assets was purportedly associated with a 640-acre property that Sugarmade acquired as part of its May 25, 2021, acquisition of a non-operating entity (the "Acquisition"). In the notes to its FY 2021 financial statements, Sugarmade disclosed that it "valued the cannabis cultivation license . . . at $10,637,000 with remaining economic life of 9 years as of June 30, 2021."

31. Chow and the engagement team identified impairment of intangible assets associated with the Acquisition as significant risks in the Sugarmade Audit. As noted above, these significant risks were communicated as CAMs in L&L's audit report.

32. However, Chow failed to plan and perform sufficient audit procedures to test the existence of the purported cannabis cultivation license. Indeed, the only procedures it appears the engagement team performed were to obtain the agreement and plan of merger for the Acquisition, which did not purport to convey a cannabis cultivation license, and make management inquiries. Those procedures were insufficient to evidence the existence of the license under PCAOB standards.[21]

33. In fact, the cannabis cultivation license, reported by Sugarmade, did not exist as of fiscal year-end 2021. While the land Sugarmade acquired in connection with the Acquisition had been zoned for potential cannabis cultivation, neither the acquired company nor Sugarmade had applied for a cannabis cultivation license for the property as of the date of the Acquisition, or as of the date of L&L's October 13, 2021 audit report and the filing of Sugarmade's 2021 Form 10-K.[22]

34. Accordingly, Chow violated AS 1015 and AS 1105.

b. Chow Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence Supporting the Valuation of the Purported Cannabis Cultivation License

35. Chow not only failed to obtain sufficient evidence to support the existence of the purported cannabis cultivation license, but he also failed to obtain sufficient evidence at year-end to support the valuation management ascribed to the license.

36. An auditor must plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to support the audit opinion.[23] To be appropriate, evidence must be both relevant and reliable.[24] PCAOB standards establish requirements for evaluating accounting estimates, including fair value measurements.[25] Among other procedures, an auditor should evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by a company to develop an estimate, both individually and in combination.[26] This includes evaluating whether the company has a basis for the significant assumptions used and, when applicable, for its selection of assumptions from a range of potential assumptions.[27] When a significant assumption is based on the company's intent and ability to carry out a particular course of action, the auditor should take into account certain factors in evaluating the reasonableness of the assumption, including the company's ability to carry out a particular course of action, which includes, among other things, legal, regulatory, or contractual restrictions that could affect the company's ability to carry out the action.[28]

22 The following year, in the notes to its FY 2022 financial statements, Sugarmade disclosed that it obtained a conditional use permit number on October 28, 2021—fifteen days after the date of L&L's 2021 audit report and after the filing of Sugarmade's 2021 Form 10-K. Sugarmade described the conditional use permit number as "an important step towards . . . commercial cannabis cultivation at its property," as it allowed the company "to proceed with the state cannabis cultivation license application, and potentially obtain certain applicable permits." Sugarmade, Inc.'s Form 10-K for fiscal year ended June 30, 2022, at 44, available at https://www.sec.gov/ix?doc=/Archives/edgar/data/0000919175/000149315223001479/form10-k.htm.

37. If an auditor uses the work of a specialist, employed or engaged by an issuer client, as audit evidence to support a conclusion regarding a relevant assertion of a significant account or disclosure, the auditor has certain responsibilities.[29] Among other things, when evaluating the work of the company's specialist, the auditor should evaluate whether the significant assumptions used by the specialist are reasonable.[30]

38. Sugarmade engaged a specialist to determine the estimated fair value and estimated useful life of the purported cannabis cultivation license. Sugarmade's specialist used prospective financial information and assumptions developed by Sugarmade management to determine its valuation, which included estimates of revenue, revenue growth, operating expenses, gross margin, taxes, and a discount rate.

39. Chow failed to perform sufficient procedures to evaluate the reasonableness of the significant assumptions used by Sugarmade's valuation specialist. To test the reasonableness of the revenue and revenue growth assumptions, Chow used a third-party study to determine the wholesale market price for a pound of cannabis flower, and then multiplied that price by the estimated production potential per square foot for the 32 acres of cultivable land on the 640-acre property Sugarmade obtained in the Acquisition. However, Chow did not evaluate the relevance or reliability of that third-party study.[31] Nor did Chow appropriately consider factors potentially affecting Sugarmade's ability to carry out the actions necessary to meet its revenue and revenue growth forecasts.[32] For example, Chow did not consider (1) the probability that Sugarmade might not obtain the necessary licenses and approvals to cultivate cannabis; (2) when such licenses and approvals, if granted, might occur; or (3) that Sugarmade might not cultivate the same types of cannabis flowers referenced in the third-party study.

40. Chow did not perform any procedures to evaluate the reasonableness of any other assumptions developed by Sugarmade and used by Sugarmade's valuation specialist, including, for example, estimated operating expenses and the discount rate.[33]

41. Accordingly, Chow violated AS 1015, AS 1105, and AS 2501.

c. Chow Failed to Adequately Evaluate the Presentation and Disclosure of the Purported Cannabis Cultivation License

42. PCAOB standards require an auditor to evaluate whether financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[34] As part of the evaluation of the presentation of the financial statements, the auditor should evaluate whether they contain the information essential for a fair presentation of the financial statements in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[35] Evaluation of the information disclosed in the financial statements includes consideration of the form, arrangement, and content of the financial statements (including the accompanying notes), encompassing matters such as the terminology used, the amount of detail given, the classification of items in the statements, and the bases of amounts set forth.[36]

43. During the Sugarmade Audit, Chow reviewed Sugarmade's financial statements, including the accompanying notes, yet he failed to identify the errors in Sugarmade's presentation of the purported cannabis cultivation license. Specifically, as noted above, Sugarmade repeatedly referred to and valued the cannabis cultivation "license" as if it had been obtained in the Acquisition when, in fact, no such license existed as of Sugarmade's fiscal year-end 2021 or at the time Chow authorized the issuance of L&L's audit report.

44. Accordingly, Chow failed to adequately evaluate the presentation and disclosure of the purported cannabis cultivation license, in violation of AS 2810.

d. Chow Failed to Describe Accurately How the Engagement Team Addressed a CAM

45. As stated above, PCAOB standards require that the auditor communicate in the auditor's report the CAMs relating to the audit of the current period's financial statements, or state that the auditor determined that there are no CAMs.[37] For each CAM communicated in the auditor's report, the auditor must, among other things, describe how the CAM was addressed in the audit.[38]

46. For the Sugarmade Audit, Chow did not accurately describe how the engagement team addressed a CAM. The Firm's audit report identified "Intangible Assets Impairment" as a CAM and stated that Sugarmade's intangible assets "mainly related to the cannabis cultivation license." The audit report further stated that the procedures Chow and the engagement team used to address this CAM included performing a "sensitivity analysis of significant assumptions" and "evaluating the impact on the fair values that would result from changes in the assumptions." However, Chow and his team did not, in fact, perform those procedures during the Sugarmade Audit.

47. Accordingly, Chow violated AS 3101.

H. Kinzer Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with His EQR on the Sugarmade Audit

48. PCAOB standards require that an EQR be performed on all audit engagements conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[39] In conducting the EQR, the EQR partner should evaluate the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the related

---

37 AS 3101.13.

38 Id. at .14(c).

39 AS 1220.01.

conclusions reached in forming the overall conclusion on the engagement and in preparing the engagement report.[40]

49. PCAOB standards also require the EQR partner to evaluate the assessment of, and audit responses to, among other things, significant risks identified by the engagement team, including fraud risks.[41] In addition, the EQR partner is required to evaluate whether the engagement documentation that he or she reviewed in connection with the EQR indicates that the engagement team responded appropriately to significant risks, and supports the conclusions reached by the engagement team with respect to the matters reviewed.[42] PCAOB standards also provide that an engagement quality reviewer should evaluate the engagement team's determination, communication, and documentation of CAMs.[43]

50. The EQR partner may provide concurring approval of issuance of an audit report only if, after performing the EQR with due professional care, he or she is not aware of a significant engagement deficiency.[44] A significant engagement deficiency in an audit exists when the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in accordance with PCAOB standards.[45]

51. As explained above, L&L issued an audit report dated October 13, 2021, and expressed an unqualified opinion for the Sugarmade Audit, with explanatory language regarding substantial doubt about Sugarmade's ability to continue as a going concern. Kinzer was the EQR partner for the Sugarmade Audit and provided his concurring approval of issuance.

52. In the Sugarmade Audit, Chow and his engagement team identified intangible assets, which included the purported cannabis cultivation license, as a significant risk. Thus, Kinzer was required to evaluate, with due professional care, the engagement team's planned and performed procedures related to that account. Kinzer was also required to evaluate, with due professional care, the engagement team's determination, communication, and documentation of the CAM described in the Firm's audit report related to the purported cannabis cultivation license.

53. As stated above, Chow and the engagement team failed to perform appropriate procedures and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence supporting the existence, valuation, and presentation and disclosure of the purported cannabis cultivation license. While Kinzer, as EQR partner, reviewed the engagement team's procedures in these areas, he failed to evaluate them with due professional care, and as a result, failed to identify multiple deficiencies in the engagement team's work.

54. In addition, as described above, the Firm's audit report on the Sugarmade audit failed to accurately describe how Chow and his engagement team addressed the CAM related to the purported cannabis cultivation license in the Sugarmade Audit. While Kinzer reviewed the Firm's audit report, he failed to evaluate with due professional care whether the communication of the CAM in the report was accurate.

55. Kinzer provided his concurring approval of issuance of the Firm's Sugarmade Audit report, despite the deficiencies described above. As a result, he violated AS 1015 and AS 1220.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), L&L CPAs, PA, Weixuan Tracy Luo, Andy Chow, and Robert Kinzer are hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Chow is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[46]

[46] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Chow. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302, Chow may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after the expiration of one year from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Chow is required to complete, before petitioning to reassociate with the Board, fifty hours of CPE in subjects that are directly related to the audits of issuer financial statements under PCAOB standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the CPE he is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

E. For one year after the date of this Order, Kinzer shall not: (1) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, as an "engagement quality reviewer," as that term is used in AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review; (2) serve, or supervise the work of another person serving, in any role that is equivalent to engagement quality reviewer, but differently denominated (such as "concurring partner"); (3) exercise authority, or supervise the work of another person exercising authority, to consent to the use of a previously issued audit report, for any issuer, broker, or dealer; or (4) assist the engagement quality reviewer in fulfilling his or her responsibilities under the Note to paragraph 6 of AS 1220.

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Kinzer is required to complete, within one year of the date of this Order, fifty hours of CPE in subjects that are directly related to the audits of issuer financial statements under PCAOB standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the CPE he is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), civil money penalties are imposed on Respondents in the following amounts: (i) $75,000 is imposed upon the Firm and Luo, jointly and severally; (ii) $50,000 is imposed upon Chow; and (iii) $25,000 is imposed upon Kinzer.

care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm and Luo shall pay the foregoing civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm and Luo as respondents in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. Chow shall pay the foregoing civil money penalty as follows: Chow shall pay $10,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order, an additional $10,000 within 90 days of the issuance of this Order, an additional $10,000 within 180 days of the issuance of this Order, an additional $10,000 within 270 days of this Order, an additional $10,000 within one year of the issuance of this Order, making each payment by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Chow as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. Kinzer shall pay the foregoing civil money penalty as follows: Kinzer shall pay $5,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order, an additional $5,000 within 90 days of the issuance of this Order, an additional $5,000 within 180 days of the issuance of this Order, an additional $5,000 within 270 days of this Order, and an additional $5,000 within one year of the issuance of this Order, making each payment by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Kinzer as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

6. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of a Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against the Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

7. The Firm understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to the Firm at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

8. Chow understands that his failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon him may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

9. Kinzer understands that his failure to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon him may, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(b), result in a suspension or bar.

H. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Before filing with the Board any future registration application, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB Rule 3211 and AS 3101; and

2. To provide with any future registration application a written certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.H.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Registration and Inspections may reasonably request.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of De Visser Gray LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-034

June 18, 2024

(1) censuring De Visser Gray LLP ("De Visser Gray," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $60,000 on the Firm; and

(3) requiring De Visser Gray to undertake certain remedial measures as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards by failing to take sufficient steps to ensure that its system of quality control provided reasonable assurance that the Firm and its personnel would comply with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. De Visser Gray LLP is a public accounting firm located in Vancouver, British Columbia. It is licensed to practice public accounting by the Chartered Professional Accountants of British Columbia. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and quality control standards during the time period from April 2019 through January 2024. The Firm's system of quality control failed to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm and its personnel would: (a) comply with applicable PCAOB, as opposed to Canadian, professional standards and regulatory requirements; (b) perform sufficient procedures to determine whether certain matters were critical audit matters ("CAMs"), and accurately describe how CAMs that were identified in audit reports were addressed in the audit; (c) timely file Form APs; (d) make all required communications to issuer audit committees; and (e) comply with independence-related pre-approval requirements.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

C. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards.

3. PCAOB rules require registered public accounting firms to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[3] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[4] A system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality.[5] A registered public accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel complies with applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[6] Such policies and procedures should encompass all phases of the design and execution of the engagement.[7] In addition, to the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, these policies and procedures should cover planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement.[8]

4. As described below, De Visser Gray failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

i. De Visser Gray's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance that the Work Performed by Engagement Personnel Met Professional Standards and Regulatory Requirements.

5. In 2019, PCAOB inspection staff conducted an inspection of the Firm. In connection with the inspection, PCAOB inspection staff informed the Firm of its findings regarding significant deficiencies in the Firm's system of quality control. In particular, PCAOB inspection staff noted that the Firm had obtained its audit methodology and audit practice materials from external service providers. It informed the Firm that the guidance used was only in accordance with Canadian Auditing Standards ("CAS"), rather than PCAOB auditing standards.

6. In 2022, PCAOB inspection staff conducted another inspection of the Firm. In connection with the inspection, PCAOB inspection staff informed the Firm of its findings regarding significant deficiencies in its system of quality control related once again to its use of an external service provider and its audit practice materials. Specifically, PCAOB inspection staff informed the Firm that certain of this guidance, including Professional Engagement Guide ("PEG") audit programs, was only in accordance with CAS, rather than PCAOB auditing standards and rules. In addition, it noted that the Firm had not established policies and procedures to ensure that when engagement teams use the PEG audit programs on issuer audit work, they will address the requirements in PCAOB standards that were not addressed in the PEG audit programs. As a result, for certain audits, the Firm used audit methodology that failed to consider the requirements of PCAOB standards.

7. Despite being on notice of these deficiencies, the Firm continued to use the audit methodology and audit practice materials that were not compliant with PCAOB auditing standards and other regulatory requirements.

8. De Visser Gray therefore failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that the work performed by the Firm and its engagement personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements, in violation of QC § 20.

ii. De Visser Gray's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Critical Audit Matters.

9. AS 3101, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion, "establishes requirements regarding the content of the auditor's written report when the auditor expresses an unqualified opinion on the financial statements . . . ."[9] Among other things, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any critical audit matters in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[10] A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[11] For each CAM communicated in the auditor's report, the auditor must: (a) identify the CAM; (b) describe the principal considerations that led the auditor to determine that the matter is a CAM; (c) describe how the CAM was addressed in the audit; and (d) refer to the relevant financial statement accounts or disclosures that related to the CAM.[12]

10. De Visser Gray's system of quality control failed to provide reasonable assurance that its engagement teams properly evaluated potential CAMs. Specifically, the Firm failed to develop sufficient guidance to reasonably assure that engagement teams properly evaluated CAMs. For example, in certain audits, the Firm failed to perform procedures to determine whether matters were CAMs[13] and failed to accurately describe how certain matters, which were identified as CAMs, were addressed during the audit.[14]

11. These failures illustrate that De Visser Gray violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 3101.

iii. De Visser Gray's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to the Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

12. PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, requires public accounting firms to report information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission,[15] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed with the Commission under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[16]

13. During the relevant time period, De Visser Gray's quality control policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would comply with the requirements of PCAOB Rule 3211. During the 2019 inspection of the Firm, PCAOB inspection

15 PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1).

16 In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

staff informed the Firm that it had not filed certain Form APs by the relevant deadline. Despite this notice, from November 2021 through January 2024, the Firm again failed to timely file Form APs for certain audit reports issued by the Firm in connection with issuer audits.

14. These failures illustrate that the Firm violated QC § 20 by failing to maintain effective policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with the requirements of PCAOB Rule 3211.

iv. De Visser Gray's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Audit Committee Communications.

15. AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees, requires the auditor to communicate with the issuer's audit committee regarding certain matters concerning the audit.[17] Those matters include, among others, significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment procedures[18] and the results of the audit, including, among others, all critical accounting policies and practices;[19] the auditor's evaluation, where applicable, of the issuer's ability to continue as a going concern;[20] and corrected misstatements, other than those that are clearly trivial, related to accounts and disclosures that might not have been detected except through the auditing procedures performed.[21] The auditor should also provide the audit committee with the schedule of uncorrected misstatements.[22]

16. Other required communications to audit committees include all significant deficiencies and material weaknesses in the issuer's internal control over financial reporting that were identified during an audit of financial statements;[23] the auditor's evaluation of the company's identification of, accounting for, and disclosure of its relationships and transactions with related parties;[24] and a copy of management's representation letter, which should be provided by the auditor if management had not already provided it.[25]

17. In addition, PCAOB Rule 3526, Communication with Audit Committees Concerning Independence, requires the auditor, prior to accepting an engagement, to describe, in writing, to the audit committee all relationships between the registered public accounting firm or any affiliates of the firm and the potential audit client that, as of the date of the communication, may reasonably be thought to bear on independence, and to discuss with the audit committee the potential effects of those relationships on the independence of the firm.[26] Rule 3526 further provides, with respect to accepted audit clients, that the auditor must, among other things, at least annually affirm to the audit committee, in writing, that, as of the date of the communication, the firm is independent in compliance with Rule 3520.[27]

18. During the 2019 inspection, PCAOB inspection staff informed the Firm that it was not compliant with AS 1301 by failing to make certain required audit committee communications related to issuers' accounting policies and practices, estimates, and significant unusual transactions; the Firm's evaluation of the quality of issuers' financial reporting; and the Firm's evaluation of issuers' ability to continue as a going concern.

19. During the 2022 PCAOB inspection, the PCAOB inspectors again identified instances in which the Firm had failed to make all required audit committee communications despite being on notice of these deficiencies based on the 2019 inspection. Specifically, the Firm failed to make required communications regarding matters such as independence; significant risks; the results of the audit, including critical accounting policies and practices, critical accounting estimates, and the corrected and uncorrected misstatements related to accounts and disclosures; and the Firm's evaluation of the issuer's identification of, accounting for, and disclosure of its relationships and transactions with related parties. The Firm also failed to evaluate whether identified material misstatements resulted from control deficiencies and whether any such control deficiencies, individually or in combination, represented a material weakness or significant deficiency that required communication to management and the audit committee. In addition, the Firm failed to ensure that a copy of the management representation letter was provided to the audit committee.

20. These failures illustrate that the Firm violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 1301, AS 1305, AS 2410, AS 2805, and PCAOB Rule 3526.

v. De Visser Gray's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Independence.

21. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[28] That requirement includes an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB and all other independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[29] One such criterion is set out in Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X ("Reg. S-X"), which provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer . . . to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's . . . audit committee."[30]

22. PCAOB Rule 3524, Audit Committee Pre-approval of Certain Tax Services, further requires that, "[i]n connection with seeking audit committee pre-approval to perform for an issuer audit client any permissible tax service, a registered public accounting firm shall . . . describe, in writing, to the audit committee of the issuer," among other things, "the scope of the service, the fee structure for the engagement, and any side letter or other amendment to the engagement letter, or any other agreement . . . between the firm and the audit client, relating to the service . . . ."[31]

23. During the relevant time period, De Visser Gray's quality control policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would abide by PCAOB and SEC independence requirements. Specifically, despite having been put on notice by a similar finding by PCAOB inspection staff in 2019, the Firm failed to obtain audit committee pre-approval before providing tax services to an audit client in 2021.

24. This failure illustrates that De Visser Gray violated QC § 20 by failing to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with PCAOB Rule 3520, PCAOB Rule 3524, AS 1005, and Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Reg. S-X.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), De Visser Gray is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $60,000 is imposed on De Visser Gray.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), De Visser Gray is required:

1. Within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish quality control policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing quality control policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality in compliance with QC Section 20.17;

2. Within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish a policy of ensuring training, whether internal or external, on an annual or more frequent regular basis, concerning applicable PCAOB rules and standards including critical audit matters, audit committee communications, PCAOB reporting requirements, and independence for all Firm personnel who participate in audit engagements; and

3. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by the Firm's managing partner, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with sections IV.C.1 and C.2 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. De Visser Gray shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

D. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of BDO Chartered Accountants & Advisors,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-035

June 18, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring BDO Chartered Accountants & Advisors ("BDO UAE," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $20,000 civil money penalty on BDO UAE; and

(3) requiring BDO UAE to undertake certain remedial measures, including measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that BDO UAE failed to disclose certain reportable events to the Board on PCAOB Form 3, Special Report, on a timely basis.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. BDO Chartered Accountants & Advisors is a public accounting firm organized under the laws of the United Arab Emirates (UAE). BDO UAE is headquartered in Dubai and is licensed to practice public accounting by the Dubai Department of Economic Development (License No. 106930). BDO UAE is a member of the BDO International network of firms and is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns BDO UAE's failure to timely disclose to the Board on Form 3 two reportable events regarding a disciplinary proceeding brought against it (and a former partner) by the Auditors Disciplinary Board of the United Arab Emirates Ministry of Economy ("ADB"). PCAOB rules require registered firms, including BDO UAE, to complete and file with the PCAOB a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence. Among the events that a registered firm is required to report on Form 3 are a firm becoming aware that it has become a respondent in certain disciplinary proceedings, and the conclusion of such proceedings.

3. On April 11, 2023, the ADB concluded a proceeding involving BDO UAE that was initiated no later than that date and concerned the violation of certain provisions of UAE laws regulating the auditing profession in connection with audit work conducted for a non-issuer client.[2] The proceeding resulted in the imposition of a monetary penalty against the Firm.

4. The initiation and conclusion of the ADB's proceeding against BDO UAE constituted reportable events under Form 3, but BDO UAE failed to file a Form 3 reporting either event until January 11, 2024.

C. Respondent Failed to Timely Disclose Certain Reportable Events to the Board, in Violation of PCAOB Rules

5. PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[3] One such specified event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[4]

6. Another reportable event occurs when a firm has become aware that a reportable proceeding (i.e., a reportable event under Items 2.4 – 2.9 of Form 3) has been concluded as to the firm or certain of its associated persons.[5]

7. No later than April 11, 2023, BDO UAE became aware that the ADB had initiated and concluded a disciplinary proceeding against the Firm concerning violations of local laws regulating the audit profession in connection with audit work the Firm performed for a non-issuer client.

[2] The term "issuer" means an issuer as defined in Section 3 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), the securities of which are registered under Section 12 of the Exchange Act, or that is required to file reports under Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act, or that files or has filed a registration statement that has not yet become effective under the Securities Act of 1933, and that it has not withdrawn. See PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[3] See PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports. As the Board noted when adopting its rules on special reporting, "reportable events will sometimes occur, and the public interest, as well as the ability to consider whether prompt action is warranted by the Board's inspection staff or enforcement staff, will be served by contemporaneous reporting of the event." PCAOB Rel. No. 2008-004, at 17 (June 10, 2008).

[5] Id., at Item 2.10.

8. The initiation and conclusion of the ADB proceeding constituted reportable events under Form 3. Accordingly, BDO UAE was required to report those events to the Board on Form 3 within thirty days of their occurrence, i.e., not later than May 11, 2023.[6] However, BDO UAE failed to file a Form 3 reporting either event until January 11, 2024, approximately eight months after the deadline for doing so.

9. BDO UAE's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify, on a timely basis, the initiation and conclusion of the ADB proceeding against the Firm as being reportable to the PCAOB on Form 3. As a result, BDO UAE inappropriately notified the PCAOB of the initiation and conclusion of a relevant disciplinary proceeding after the applicable deadline, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2203.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), BDO UAE is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 is imposed upon BDO UAE.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. BDO UAE shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies BDO UAE as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K. Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that BDO UAE shall pay pursuant to this Order, BDO UAE shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of BDO UAE's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against BDO UAE based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. BDO UAE understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of BDO UAE's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to BDO UAE at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), BDO UAE is required:

1. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing BDO UAE with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by BDO UAE personnel who participate in BDO UAE's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any BDO UAE personnel who participate in BDO UAE's PCAOB reporting process;

3. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to assign the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to an individual within BDO UAE who possesses adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority within BDO UAE to fulfill those requirements on behalf of BDO UAE; and

4. within 120 days from the date of this Order, to have the individual referenced in paragraph C.3 above certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, BDO UAE's compliance with paragraphs C.1 through C.3 above. The certification shall identify the actions taken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. BDO UAE shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. BDO UAE understands that failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KKM CPA Associates PLLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-036

June 18, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring KKM CPA Associates PLLC, a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm filed an Annual Report on Form 2 with the PCAOB that contained inaccurate information, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KKM CPA Associates PLLC is a public accounting firm located in Garden City, New York. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Filed a Form 2 with the PCAOB Containing Inaccurate Information in Violation of PCAOB Rule 2200

2. PCAOB Rule 2200 requires that registered public accounting firms file annual reports with the Board on Form 2 "following the instructions to that form." The instructions to Form 2 require firms to identify and provide certain information relating to any issuer or broker or dealer audit reports issued during the reporting period. They also require that a firm representative certify that the information contained on the Form 2 is accurate and complete.

3. In its 2022 Annual Report, the Firm indicated that it had not issued any audit reports with respect to an issuer during the reporting period. However, filings made with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission indicate that the Firm had, in fact, issued an audit report for an issuer, Mystic Holdings, Inc., during the reporting period. The Form 2 contained a certification that it did not "contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state a material fact necessary to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which such statements were made, not misleading." The Form 2 also contained a certification that the Firm has not "failed to include in this Form any information or affirmation that is required by the instructions to this form."

4. The PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections emailed the Firm on four occasions between November 2022 and December 2022 in an attempt to resolve this issue, but the Firm failed to file an amended Form 2 correcting the inaccuracy.

5. The Firm's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the Firm's audit of Mystic Holdings, Inc., as being reportable to the PCAOB. As a result, the Firm inappropriately failed to notify the PCAOB that it issued an audit report for that entity.

6. By filing a Form 2 with the Board that inaccurately stated the Firm had not issued any audit reports with respect to an issuer during the reporting period, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 2200.

7. On December 19, 2023, after receiving notice of the deficiency from the PCAOB Division of Enforcement and Investigations, the Firm filed an amended Form 2 indicating that the Firm issued an audit report for the issuer, Mystic Holdings, Inc., during the reporting period.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W.,

Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a).

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent agrees not to, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

6. Respondent understands that a breach of this agreement constitutes a violation of the Order and of PCAOB Rule 5000, as well as grounds for the Board to vacate the Order and restore this proceeding to its active docket without prior notice to Respondent.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 2200, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the actions taken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Halpern & Associates, LLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-041

September 24, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Halpern & Associates, LLC ("Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $20,000 civil money penalty on Respondent; and

(3) requiring Respondent to undertake certain remedial measures, including measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondent failed to disclose a reportable event to the Board on PCAOB Form 3, Special Report.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Halpern & Associates, LLC is a public accounting firm organized under the laws of Connecticut and located in Wilton, Connecticut. The Firm is licensed to practice public accounting by the Connecticut State Board of Accountancy (License No. 0003520). The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to disclose to the Board on Form 3 a reportable event regarding a disciplinary proceeding brought against it (and the Firm's president) by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"). PCAOB rules require registered firms, including the Firm, to complete and file with the PCAOB a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence. Among the events that a registered firm is required to report on Form 3 is a firm becoming aware that it has become a respondent in certain disciplinary proceedings.

3. On March 14, 2022, the Commission initiated a proceeding against the Firm,[2] which involves allegations concerning two audits the Firm conducted of a non-issuer client.[3]

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Halpern & Associates LLC and Barbara Halpern, CPA, Exchange Act Rel. No. 94410 (Mar. 14, 2022).

[3] The term "issuer" means an issuer as defined in Section 3 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), the securities of which are registered under Section 12 of the Exchange Act, or that is required to file reports under Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act, or that files or has filed a registration

4. The initiation of the Commission's proceeding against the Firm constituted a reportable event under Form 3, but the Firm failed to file a Form 3 reporting the initiation of that proceeding until May 30, 2024—only after being alerted to the reporting failure, and instructed to correct it, by PCAOB staff.

C. Respondent Failed to Disclose A Reportable Event to the Board, in Violation of PCAOB Rules

5. PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[4] One such specified event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil . . . proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[5]

6. The Commission initiated a proceeding against the Firm (and its president) on March 14, 2022. The proceeding concerns alleged violations of several auditing standards in two annual audits the Firm conducted of private equity fund.

7. The initiation of the Commission proceeding constituted a reportable event under Form 3. Accordingly, the Firm was required to report it to the Board on Form 3 within thirty days, i.e., not later than April 13, 2022.[6] However, the Firm failed to file a Form 3 reporting the initiation of the proceeding for over two years. The Firm did not report the initiation of the proceeding on Form 3 until May 30, 2024, after Board staff raised the delinquency with the Firm and instructed it to file a Form 3.

statement that has not yet become effective under the Securities Act of 1933, and that it has not withdrawn. See PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[4] See PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports. As the Board noted when adopting its rules on special reporting, "reportable events will sometimes occur, and the public interest, as well as the ability to consider whether prompt action is warranted by the Board's inspection staff or enforcement staff, will be served by contemporaneous reporting of the event." Rules on Periodic Reporting by Registered Public Accounting Firms, PCAOB Rel. No. 2008-004, at 17 (June 10, 2008).

[5] PCAOB Form 3, at Item 2.7 (italics in the original removed).

[6] See PCAOB Rule 2203(a).

8. The Firm's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the initiation of the Commission's proceeding against the Firm as being reportable to the PCAOB on Form 3. As a result, the Firm inappropriately failed to timely notify the PCAOB of the initiation of a relevant disciplinary proceeding, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2203.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Respondent is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $20,000 is imposed upon Respondent.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), Respondent is required:

1. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, for the purpose of providing Respondent with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by Firm personnel who participate in Respondent's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in Respondent's PCAOB reporting process;

3. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to assign the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to an individual within the Firm who possesses adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority within the Firm to fulfill those requirements on behalf of Respondent; and

4. within 120 days from the date of this Order, to have the individual referenced in paragraph C.3 above certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, Respondent's compliance with paragraphs C.1 through C.3 above. The certification shall identify the actions taken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. Respondent shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

5. Respondent understands that the failure to satisfy any provision of Section IV.C may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Grant Thornton LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-040

September 24, 2024

(1) censuring Grant Thornton LLP ("Grant Thornton Canada," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB rules and standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required written communications and document pre-approval of services by an issuer's audit committee, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3524, Audit Committee Pre-approval of Certain Tax Services, and AS 1215, Audit Documentation.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Grant Thornton Canada has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Grant Thornton LLP is a public accounting firm headquartered in Toronto, Canada. It is a member of the Grant Thornton International Ltd. network of firms ("Grant Thornton International"). At all relevant times, Grant Thornton Canada was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for five issuer clients.

B. Issuer

2. Patagonia Gold Corp. ("Patagonia") was, at all relevant times, an entity incorporated in British Columbia, Canada, and headquartered in Buenos Aires, Argentina. According to its public filings, it is a mineral exploration and production company. At all relevant times, Patagonia was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Grant Thornton Canada issued an audit report that Patagonia included in its Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC" or "Commission") for the year ended December 31, 2020.

C. Other Relevant Entity

3. Grant Thornton UK LLP ("Grant Thornton UK") is a public accounting firm headquartered in London, United Kingdom. It is a member firm of Grant Thornton International. At all relevant times, Grant Thornton UK was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Grant Thornton UK performed tax return preparation services for the year ended December 31, 2020, for a Patagonia subsidiary.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Grant Thornton Canada's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

D. Grant Thornton Canada Failed to Make Certain Required Written Communications and Failed to Document Certain Discussions with an Issuer's Audit Committee, in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3524, and Failed to Document Audit Committee Pre-Approval of Services in Violation of AS 1215

4. Audit documentation is the written record of the basis of the auditor's conclusions, and provides support for the auditor's representation that an audit was conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards.[2] PCAOB standards provide that audit documentation should demonstrate that the engagement complied with the standards of the PCAOB.[3]

5. Thus, documentation of an audit must support that the auditor complied with PCAOB and SEC independence requirements. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client, including by satisfying the independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[4] One such criterion is set out in Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, which provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer . . . to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's . . . audit committee."[5]

6. PCAOB Rule 3524 provides that, in connection with seeking audit committee pre-approval to perform for an issuer audit client any permissible tax service, a registered public accounting firm shall describe, in writing, to the audit committee of the issuer, among other things, the scope of the service, the fee structure of the engagement, and any side letter or other amendment to the engagement letter, or any other agreement between the firm and the audit client relating to the service. Under Rule 3524, the auditor is also required to "discuss with the audit committee of the issuer the potential effects of the services on the independence of the firm" and to "document the substance of its discussion with the audit committee of the issuer."

7. Grant Thornton Canada audited Patagonia's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2020, issuing an audit report that Patagonia included in its Form 20-F filed with the Commission on May 5, 2021.

8. During the audit and professional engagement period when Grant Thornton Canada was performing this audit, Grant Thornton Canada's affiliate, Grant Thornton UK, performed tax return preparation services for a subsidiary of Patagonia.

9. Grant Thornton Canada failed to document pre-approval from Patagonia's audit committee for Grant Thornton UK to provide these tax return preparation services.

10. Grant Thornton Canada also failed to describe in writing to Patagonia's audit committee the scope of the tax return preparation services, the fee structure for the engagement, and any oral agreement between Grant Thornton Canada and Patagonia relating to the tax services. Grant Thornton Canada further failed to document the substance of any discussion with Patagonia's audit committee concerning the potential effects of the tax services on the independence of the Firm.

11. Accordingly, Grant Thornton Canada violated Rule 3524 and AS 1215 with respect to the 2020 Patagonia audit.

IV.

12. Grant Thorton Canada has represented to the Board that after May 2021, it has communicated with and provided a training for its partners concerning documentation of pre-approval communications with the audit committees of issuer clients. The Firm also has designed a process whereby engagement teams may seek assistance from the Firm's National Ethics and Independence group regarding compliance with PCAOB rules and standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications.

V.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006;

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order; and

5. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required to comply with its policies and procedures (including those discussed in Section IV) intended to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB rules and standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Ernst & Young AG,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-039

September 24, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Ernst & Young AG ("EY Switzerland," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $45,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of its issuer audit client, STMicroelectronics N.V. ("STMicroelectronics"), in violation of AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, EY Switzerland has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Ernst & Young AG is a public limited liability company with headquarters in Basel, Switzerland, and is a member firm of Ernst & Young Global Limited ("EY Global"). At all relevant times, EY Switzerland was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for six issuer clients.

B. Issuer

2. STMicroelectronics N.V. is a corporation organized under the laws of The Netherlands, with its corporate legal seat in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, and executive offices in Schiphol, The Netherlands. Its public filings disclose that it is a semiconductor company that designs, develops, manufactures, and markets a range of products. At all relevant times, STMicroelectronics was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On February 24, 2022, EY Switzerland issued an audit opinion on STMicroelectronics' consolidated financial statements that STMicroelectronics included in its Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission for the year ended December 31, 2021 (the "2021 Audit").

C. Other Relevant Entities

3. EY & Associes ("EY France") is a simplified joint stock company headquartered in Courbevoire, France, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY France was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY France performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Firm's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

4. Ernst & Young LLP ("EY Singapore") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in Singapore, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Singapore was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Singapore performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

5. EY S.p.A. ("EY Italy") is a corporation headquartered in Milan, Italy, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Italy was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Italy performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

6. Ernst & Young LLP ("EY U.S.") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in New York, New York, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY US was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY US performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

7. Ernst & Young PLT ("EY Malaysia") is a partnership headquartered in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Malaysia was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Malaysia performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

8. Ernst & Young Hua Ming LLP ("EY Beijing") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in Beijing, China, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Beijing was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Beijing performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

9. SyCip Gorres Velayo & Co. ("EY Philippines") is a partnership headquartered in Makati City, Philippines, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Philippines was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Philippines performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

10. Ernst & Young Malta Limited ("EY Malta") is a partnership headquartered in Msida, Malta, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Malta was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Malta performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

11. Ernst & Young Audit ("EY France Audit") is a limited liability corporation headquartered in Courbevoie, France, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY France Audit was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY France Audit performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

12. Ernst & Young ShinNihon LLC ("EY Japan") is a corporation headquartered in Tokyo, Japan, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Japan was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Japan performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

13. Ernst & Young LLP ("EY U.K.") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in London, Great Britian, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY U.K. was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY U.K. performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

14. Ernst & Young Sarl ("EY Morocco") is headquartered in Casablanca, Morocco, and is a member firm of EY Global. EY Morocco is not currently, and never has been, registered with the Board. EY Morocco performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

15. Ernst & Young ("EY Hong Kong") is a partnership headquartered in Hong Kong, China, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Hong Kong was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Hong Kong performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

16. Ernst & Young ("EY Australia") is a partnership headquartered in Sydney, Australia, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Australia was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Australia performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

17. Ernst & Young Accountants LLP ("EY Netherlands") is a limited liability partnership headquartered in Rotterdam, Netherlands, and is a member firm of EY Global. At all relevant times, EY Netherlands was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. EY Netherlands performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit.

18. The entities described in paragraphs 3 through 17 are "public accounting firms," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii).

D. EY Switzerland Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301

19. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the

[2] AS 1301.01, Communications with Audit Committees.

timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment procedures.[3]

20. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[4] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[5]

21. In connection with the 2021 Audit, EY Switzerland failed to inform the audit committee of STMicroelectronics of the name, location, and planned responsibilities of the following independent public accounting firms that performed audit procedures in the 2021 Audit: EY France, EY Singapore, EY Italy, EY U.S., EY Malaysia, EY Beijing, EY Philippines, EY Malta, EY France Audit, EY Japan, EY U.K., EY Morocco, EY Hong Kong, EY Australia, and EY Netherlands.

22. Accordingly, EY Switzerland violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the 2021 Audit.

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (August 15, 2012).

[4] The term "other independent public accounting firms" includes "firms that perform audit procedures in the current period audit regardless of whether they otherwise have any relationship with the auditor." AS 1301.10d, Note.

[5] Id. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

IV.

23. EY Switzerland has represented to the Board that, since this deficiency was identified by the PCAOB during its 2021 inspection, it has implemented updated audit planning and results guidance for communicating the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms performing audit procedures in an audit for the purpose of providing EY Switzerland with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees.

V.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $45,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), EY Switzerland is required to comply with its audit committee communications policies and procedures, including those intended to provide reasonable assurance that, as part of communicating its overall audit strategy, EY Switzerland communicates with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the audit.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Crowe MacKay LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-038

September 24, 2024

(1) censuring Crowe MacKay LLP ("Crowe MacKay," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB rules and standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required written communications and document pre-approval of services by two issuers' audit committees, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3524, Audit Committee Pre-approval of Certain Tax Services, and AS 1215, Audit Documentation.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Crowe MacKay has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Crowe MacKay LLP is a public accounting firm headquartered in Vancouver, Canada. At all relevant times, Crowe MacKay was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for seven issuer clients.

B. Issuer

2. GreenPower Motor Company Inc. ("GreenPower Motor") was, at all relevant times, an entity incorporated in British Columbia and headquartered in Vancouver, Canada. According to its public filings, it designs, builds, and distributes electric vehicles, including buses. At all relevant times, GreenPower Motor was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Crowe MacKay issued audit reports concerning GreenPower Motor's financial statements that GreenPower Motor attached to its Forms 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC" or "Commission") for the year ended March 31, 2021 and for the year ended March 31, 2022.

3. Issuer A was, at all relevant times, an entity incorporated in British Columbia and headquartered in Victoria, Canada. According to its public filings, it develops technologies associated with the development of novel therapeutic antibodies. At all relevant times, Issuer A was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Crowe MacKay issued an audit report concerning Issuer A's financial statements that Issuer A attached to its Form 40-F and Form 40-F/A, filed with the Commission on July 28, 2021, and September 29, 2021, respectively.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Crowe MacKay's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

C. Crowe MacKay Failed to Make Certain Required Written Communications and Document Audit Committee Pre-Approval of Services in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3524 and AS 1215

4. Audit documentation is the written record of the basis of the auditor's conclusions and provides support for the auditor's representation that an audit was conducted in accordance with PCAOB standards.[2] PCAOB standards provide that audit documentation should demonstrate that the engagement complied with the standards of the PCAOB.[3]

5. Thus, documentation of an audit must support that the auditor complied with PCAOB and SEC independence requirements. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client, including by satisfying the independence criteria set out in the Commission's rules and regulations under the federal securities laws.[4] One such criterion is set out in Rule 2-01(c)(7)(i) of Commission Regulation S-X, which provides that "[a]n accountant is not independent of an issuer" unless, "[b]efore the accountant is engaged by the issuer . . . to render audit or non-audit services, the engagement is approved by the issuer's . . . audit committee."[5]

6. PCAOB Rule 3524 provides that, in connection with seeking audit committee pre-approval to perform for an issuer audit client any permissible tax service, a registered public accounting firm shall describe, in writing, to the audit committee of the issuer, among other things, the scope of the service, the fee structure of the engagement, and any side letter or other amendment to the engagement letter, or any other agreement between the firm and the audit client relating to the service. Under Rule 3524, the auditor is also required to "discuss with the audit committee of the issuer the potential effects of the services on the independence of the firm" and "document the substance of its discussion with the audit committee of the issuer."

[2] See AS 1215.02; AS 3101.09, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion (describing the elements that must be included in the section of the audit report containing the basis for the auditor's opinion).

[3] See AS 1215.05(a).

[4] See PCAOB Rule 3520, Note 1, Auditor Independence; AS 1005.05-.06, Independence.

[5] 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(c)(7). The definition of accountant includes "any accounting firm with which the certified public accountant . . . is affiliated." 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(f)(1).

i. GreenPower Motor

7. Crowe MacKay audited GreenPower Motor's financial statements for the years ended March 31, 2021 and March 31, 2022, issuing audit reports that GreenPower Motor included in its Forms 20-F filed with the Commission on June 29, 2021 and July 29, 2022.

8. During the time Crowe MacKay performed those audits, it also performed other services for GreenPower Motor, including tax return preparation services and services in connection with its consent to the use of its auditor's report in connection with a Form S-8 registration statement ("consent services").

9. Crowe MacKay failed to document pre-approval from GreenPower Motor's audit committee to provide these tax return preparation and consent services.

10. Crowe MacKay also failed to describe in writing to GreenPower Motor's audit committee the scope of the tax return preparation services, the fee structure for the engagement, and any oral agreement between Crowe MacKay and GreenPower Motor relating to the tax services. Crowe MacKay further failed to document the substance of any discussion with GreenPower Motor's audit committee concerning the potential effects of the tax services on the independence of the Firm.

11. Accordingly, Crowe MacKay violated PCAOB Rule 3524 and AS 1215 with respect to the 2021 and 2022 GreenPower audits.

ii. Issuer A

12. Crowe MacKay audited Issuer A's financial statements for the year ended April 30, 2021, issuing an audit report that Issuer A attached to its Form 40-F and Form 40-F/A, filed with the Commission on July 28, 2021, and September 29, 2021, respectively.

13. Crowe MacKay failed to document pre-approval from Issuer A's audit committee for the audit services.

14. Accordingly, Crowe MacKay violated AS 1215 with respect to the 2021 Issuer A audit.

IV.

15. Crowe MacKay has represented to the Board that it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing it with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications:

a. Crowe MacKay updated its engagement letter template to include communications required under PCAOB Rule 3524 and to document pre-approval by an issuer's audit committee of audit and non-audit services.

b. Crowe Mackay updated other template work papers to document pre-approval of audit and non-audit services by an issuer's audit committee.

c. Crowe MacKay provided training to Firm personnel that covered the requirements for obtaining and documenting audit committee pre-approval of audit and non-audit services.

V.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $30,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006;

3. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest;

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order; and

5. Respondent understands that its failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of the Firm's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required to comply with its revised policies and procedures, including those intended to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB rules and standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Accell Audit & Compliance, P.A.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-037

September 24, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Accell Audit & Compliance, P.A. ("Accell," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of Fitell Corporation ("Fitell") in violation of AS 1301, Communications with Audit Committees, and AS 1305, Communications About Control Deficiencies in an Audit of Financial Statements, and to the audit committee of Brain Scientific Inc. ("Brain Scientific") in violation of AS 1301.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Accell has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Accell Audit & Compliance, P.A. is a corporation headquartered in Tampa, Florida. At all relevant times, Accell was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Accell is licensed to practice public accounting by the Florida Board of Accountancy (license number AD66617), among other state boards. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for 28 issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. Fitell Corporation is a Cayman Islands corporation with principal executive offices in Taren Point, Australia. Its public filings disclose that it is an online retailer of gym and fitness equipment and provides other fitness-related services. At all relevant times, Fitell was an "issuer," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On November 23, 2022, Accell issued an audit report on Fitell's financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2022 (the "Fitell Audit") that Fitell included in its Form F-1/A filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") on November 29, 2022.

3. Brain Scientific Inc. is a corporation incorporated in Nevada with principal executive offices in Lakewood Ranch, Florida. Its public filings disclose that it is a medical technology company with product lines in neurology and motion products. At all relevant times, Brain Scientific was an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). On March 31, 2022, Accell issued an audit report on Brain Scientific's financial statements for fiscal year ending December 31, 2021 (the "Brain Scientific Audit") that Brain Scientific included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission on March 31, 2022.

C. Other Relevant Entities

4. Hall Chadwick is a partnership headquartered in Sydney, Australia. Hall Chadwick is a "public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii). At all relevant times, Hall Chadwick was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Hall Chadwick performed audit procedures for the Fitell Audit.

D. Accell Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301 and 1305

5. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment procedures.[3]

6. As part of communicating the overall audit strategy, an auditor should also communicate to the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[4] or other persons, who are not employed by the auditor, that perform audit procedures in the current audit period.[5]

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release"), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16 – Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (Aug. 15, 2012).

7. Further, auditors should communicate to the audit committee, when applicable, the following matters relating to the auditor's evaluation of the company's ability to continue as a going concern:

- If the auditor believes there is substantial doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time, the conditions and events that the auditor identified that, when considered in the aggregate, indicate that there is substantial doubt; and

- If the auditor concludes, after consideration of management's plans, that substantial doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time remains: the effects, if any, on the financial statements and the adequacy of the related disclosure; and the effects on the auditor's report.[6]

8. PCAOB auditing standards also require an auditor to communicate to the audit committee those corrected misstatements, other than those that are clearly trivial, related to accounts and disclosures that might not have been detected except through the auditing procedures performed, and discuss with the audit committee the implications that such corrected misstatements might have on the company's financial reporting process.[7]

9. In addition, the auditor must communicate in writing to management and the audit committee all significant deficiencies and material weaknesses identified during the audit.

[4] The term "other independent public accounting firms" includes "firms that perform audit procedures in the current period audit regardless of whether they otherwise have any relationship with the auditor." AS 1301.10d, Note.

[5] Id. at .10d. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

[6] AS 1301.17a and .17c.

[7] Id. at .19.

The written communication should be made prior to the issuance of the auditor's report on the financial statements.[8]

10. In connection with the Fitell Audit, Accell filed a Form AP that identified Hall Chadwick as another independent public accounting firm that participated in the Fitell Audit. However, Accell did not communicate to Fitell's audit committee as part of its overall audit strategy the name, location, and planned responsibilities of Hall Chadwick.

11. Additionally, the Firm did not communicate to Fitell's audit committee all material weaknesses identified during the Fitell Audit prior to the issuance of the auditor's report on the issuer's financial statements.

12. Accordingly, Accell violated AS 1301.10d and AS 1305.04 in connection with the Fitell Audit.

13. In connection with the Brain Scientific Audit, Accell failed to communicate to Brain Scientific's audit committee: (a) a significant risk Accell identified related to the accounting for options and warrants; and (b) a corrected misstatement related to Brain Scientific's accounting for Paycheck Protection Program loan forgiveness identified by the engagement team through the auditing procedures performed.

14. In addition, although Accell included in its audit report for the Brain Scientific Audit a paragraph stating that certain conditions and events had occurred that raised substantial doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern, Accell did not communicate to Brain Scientific's audit committee: (a) the conditions and events that Accell had identified that indicated that there was substantial doubt; and (b) the effects, if any, on Brain Scientific's financial statements and the adequacy of the related disclosure.

15. Accordingly, Accell violated AS 1301.09, .17, and .19 in connection with the Brain Scientific Audit.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

[8] AS 1305.04.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by AS 1301 and AS 1305; and

2. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.C.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Yusufali & Associates, LLC, and Yusufali Musaji, CPA,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-042

October 22, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Yusufali & Associates, LLC ("Firm") and Yusufali Musaji ("Musaji") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) revoking the Firm's registration;[1]

(3) barring Musaji from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[2]

(4) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000, jointly and severally, on the Firm and Musaji;

(5) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions concerning quality control directed toward satisfying requirements applicable to audits and reviews of issuers before filing, and to provide evidence of such measures with, any future registration application; and

(6) requiring Musaji to complete 50 hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after three years from the date of this Order.

[2] Musaji may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three years from the date of this Order.

license, before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of the financial statements of two issuer clients; (b) Respondents failed to cooperate with a Board inspection; (c) the Firm violated PCAOB standards by failing to obtain engagement quality reviews in connection with those audits; (d) the Firm failed to file forms required by PCAOB rules; (e) the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards; and (f) Musaji directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and engagement quality review and quality control standards.[3]

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted Offers of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[4]

[3] All references to PCAOB rules and standards in this Order are to the versions of those rules and standards, and to their organization and numbering, in effect at the time of the audits discussed herein.

[4] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[5]

A. Respondents

1. Yusufali & Associates, LLC is a limited liability company located in Short Hills, New Jersey. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the PCAOB pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is licensed to practice public accountancy with the state of New Jersey (license no. 20CB00603500).

2. Yusufali Musaji, CPA is the owner of the Firm and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New Jersey (license no. 20CC03225800) and several other states. At all relevant times, Musaji was the sole partner of the Firm and served as the engagement partner on all issuer audits it conducted, including those discussed below. Musaji is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Issuers

3. Free Flow, Inc. ("Free Flow") was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in King George, Virginia. Free Flow's public filings disclose that it was engaged in the business of selling used auto parts. Free Flow was, at all relevant times, an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), including at the time the Firm audited Free Flow's financial statements for the years ended as of December 31, 2020, and December 31, 2021 (the "2020 Free Flow Audit" and "2021 Free Flow Audit," respectively, and collectively, the "Free Flow Audits").

4. PotNetwork Holdings, Inc. ("PotNetwork") was, at all relevant times, a Colorado corporation headquartered in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. PotNetwork's public filings disclose that it was engaged in the development and sales of hemp-derived CBD oil containing products. PotNetwork was, at all relevant times, an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii), including at the time the Firm audited PotNetwork's financial statements for the years ended and as of December 31, 2019, and December 31, 2020 (the "2019 PotNetwork Audit" and "2020 PotNetwork Audit," respectively, collectively, the "PotNetwork Audits," and together with the "Free Flow Audits," the "Issuer Audits").[6]

C. Summary

5. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Issuer Audits. Specifically, Respondents failed to: (1) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in connection with testing revenue and inventory in the Free Flow Audits; (2) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in connection with testing revenue, convertible notes payable, and advances in the PotNetwork Audits; (3) perform sufficient procedures to address fraud risks in each of the Issuer Audits; (4) determine critical audit matters ("CAMs") during the Free Flow Audits and 2020 PotNetwork Audit; (5) make certain required audit committee communications during the Free Flow Audits and 2019 PotNetwork Audit; (6) comply with audit documentation requirements in each of the Issuer Audits; and (7) cooperate with a Board inspection of the 2021 Free Flow Audit and 2020 PotNetwork Audit by submitting improperly altered audit documentation to PCAOB inspectors.

6. In addition, the Firm violated PCAOB standards by failing to obtain engagement quality reviews for any of the Issuer Audits, and violated PCAOB rules by failing to file Form APs in connection with each of the Issuer Audits.

7. The Firm also violated PCAOB quality control standards because it failed to establish an appropriate system of quality control to provide it with reasonable assurance that (1) work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements, and (2) the Firm only undertook engagements that it could reasonably expect to perform with professional competence.

8. Finally, Musaji violated PCAOB rules by knowingly or recklessly, and directly and substantially, contributing to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and engagement quality review standards and quality control standards.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

9. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the

Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[7] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[8] Among other things, PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report, exercise professional skepticism, and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[9]

10. PCAOB standards require the auditor to address the risks of material misstatement through appropriate overall audit responses and procedures, and specify that the auditor should design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[10] For significant risks, the auditor should perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that are specifically responsive to the assessed risks.[11]

11. PCAOB standards require that the auditor identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level.[12] PCAOB standards also require the auditor to presume that there is a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition and evaluate which types of revenue, revenue transactions, or assertions may give rise to such risks.[13] If the auditor has not identified, in a particular circumstance, improper revenue recognition as a fraud risk, the auditor should document the reasons supporting that conclusion.[14]

12. PCAOB standards further provide that when using information produced by the company as audit evidence, the auditor should evaluate whether the information is sufficient and appropriate for purposes of the audit by performing procedures to: (1) test the accuracy and completeness of the information, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness of that information; and (2) evaluate whether the information is sufficiently precise and detailed for purposes of the audit.[15]

13. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with these and other PCAOB rules and standards.

i. Respondents Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence in Testing Revenue and Inventory in the Free Flow Audits

14. Revenue and inventory both represented significant items on Free Flow's financial statements for the fiscal years audited. As of and for the years ended December 31, 2020, and December 31, 2021, Free Flow reported revenues of approximately $412,000 and $746,000, and inventory of approximately $1.8 million (49% of total assets) and $2.5 million (60% of total assets), respectively.

a. Revenue

15. Although Respondents identified a significant risk related to revenue for all relevant assertions in the 2020 Free Flow Audit and 2021 Free Flow Audit, they failed to perform any audit procedures to address the significant risk, other than tracing revenue balances to the general ledger and obtaining certain company-generated invoices.[16] Moreover, the audit documentation concerning the invoices obtained merely stated that the Respondents "Checked Invoices" without identifying any of the invoices obtained, how the invoices were selected, and what procedures were performed with respect to each invoice.

16 See AS 2301.08, .11 (auditor should perform audit procedures that address the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosures).

b. Inventory

16. Respondents failed to identify and assess the risk of material misstatement related to the relevant assertions of inventory in the Free Flow Audits.[17] In addition, in the 2020 Free Flow Audit, Respondents did not perform any procedures to test the existence of inventory. In the 2021 Free Flow Audit, Respondents engaged a contractor who performed a count of physical inventory with respect to a sample of inventory items on December 29 and 30, 2021. However, Respondents failed to sufficiently test the existence assertion because they did not establish a basis to support the number of items selected in the sample and did not test the completeness of the inventory report from which the sampled items were selected.[18]

17. Moreover, in both 2020 and 2021, other than preparing a lead schedule and tracing the total amount to the inventory balance in the financial statements, Respondents failed to perform any procedures to test the valuation of inventory.

18. As a result, Respondents failed to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in testing revenue and inventory in the Free Flow Audits, in violation of AS 1105, AS 2110, AS 2301, and AS 2315. Respondents also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

ii. Respondents Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence in Testing Revenue, Convertible Notes Payable, and Advances in the PotNetwork Audits

19. Revenue, convertible notes payable, and advances all represented significant items on PotNetwork's financial statements for the fiscal years audited. As of and for the years ended December 31, 2019, and December, 31, 2020, PotNetwork reported total revenue of approximately $15.1 million and $9.7 million, convertible notes payable of approximately $4.2 million (71% of total liabilities) and $4.2 million (84% of total liabilities), and advances of approximately $5.1 million (84% of total assets) and $0, respectively.[19]

a. Revenue

20. In the 2019 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents failed to design and perform any audit procedures to address the assessed risk of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of revenue despite identifying the account as a significant risk.[20]

21. In the 2020 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents failed to identify and assess the risk of material misstatement at the financial statement level and assertion level for revenue.[21] Specifically, Respondents failed as part of the 2020 PotNetwork Audit to identify a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition – even though PCAOB standards require the auditor to presume such a risk – or to document how Respondents overcame such presumptions.[22] Respondents also failed to design and perform sufficient procedures to test revenue, as they did not perform any procedures other than tracing revenue amounts to the general ledger and obtaining some company-generated invoices.[23] Moreover, the audit documentation concerning the invoices obtained merely stated that the Respondents "Checked Invoices" without identifying any of the invoices obtained, how the invoices were selected, and what procedures were performed with respect to each invoice.

b. Convertible Notes Payable

22. In the 2019 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents failed to design and perform any audit procedures to address the assessed risk of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of convertible notes payable despite identifying the account as a significant risk.

23. In the 2020 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents failed to identify and assess the risk of material misstatement at the financial statement level and assertion level for convertible notes payable. Respondents performed certain limited procedures: (1) prepared a lead schedule and agreed the total to the convertible notes payable amount per trial balance; (2) obtained copies of various convertible notes payable agreements and securities purchase each customer. As of December 31, 2019, the issuer reported advances paid to the drop shipper of $5.1 million. For the year-ended December 31, 2020, the issuer reported a write-off of advances paid to the drop shipper of approximately $3 million and an ending net balance for advances of $0 as of December 31, 2020.

agreements; (3) obtained transaction logs recording accrued interest; and (4) recalculated interest accruals.

24. Other than performing those limited procedures, however, Respondents failed to perform any procedures in the 2020 PotNetwork Audit to test the valuation of the convertible notes payable and PotNetwork's reported loss of $695,000 from debt settlements by share issuances.[24]

c. Advances

25. In the 2019 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents failed to design and perform any audit procedures to address the assessed risk of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of advances paid to the drop shipper despite identifying the account as a significant risk.[25]

26. In the 2020 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents failed to identify and assess the risk of material misstatement at the financial statement level and assertion level for an impairment loss recorded for drop shipper advances. As of December 31, 2020, the gross balance of advances paid to the drop shipper was approximately $3 million. However, PotNetwork disclosed that for the year ended December 31, 2020, it wrote off, as a non-recurring impairment loss, the full amount of this asset held by the drop shipper due to a drop in sales in connection with the Covid-19 pandemic. Respondents failed to perform any procedures to evaluate the appropriateness of the impairment of the full amount of advances to the drop shipper, other than agreeing the total on a lead schedule to the trial balance and obtaining various transaction logs and journal entries showing transactions related to the drop shipper.[26]

27. As a result, in the PotNetwork Audits, Respondents failed to perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in testing revenue, convertible notes payable, and advances, in violation of AS 1105, AS 2110, AS 2301, and AS 2401. Respondents also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

iii. Respondents Failed to Perform Sufficient Procedures to Address Fraud Risks in Each of the Issuer Audits

28. PCAOB standards require the auditor to inquire of the audit committee, management, and others within the issuer about the risks of material misstatement, including fraud.[27] PCAOB standards also require the auditor to perform procedures to specifically address the risk of management override of controls, including obtaining an understanding of the entity's financial reporting process and the related controls over journal entries and other adjustments, and identifying and selecting journal entries and other adjustments for testing.[28]

29. In the Issuer Audits, Respondents failed to perform sufficient procedures to address the risk of management override of controls because they did not obtain an understanding of the issuers' financial reporting processes and the controls over journal entries and other adjustments, and did not identify and select journal entries and other adjustments for testing. Respondents also did not inquire of the issuers' audit committees or equivalents, and management, regarding the risks of material misstatement, including fraud.

30. Moreover, in the 2019 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents were aware that PotNetwork had purportedly paid approximately $3 million in marketing expenses to a marketing agency, but the issuer could not provide supporting documents for these marketing expenses. In the 2020 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents obtained American Express corporate credit card transaction logs indicating that PotNetwork intermingled personal expenses on the corporate card. Nevertheless, Respondents failed to identify fraud risks related to the potential misappropriation of assets and address that risk.

31. Therefore, Respondents violated AS 2110 and AS 2401, and violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

iv. Respondents Failed to Determine CAMs during the Free Flow Audits and 2020 PotNetwork Audit

32. AS 3101 "establishes requirements regarding the content of the auditor's written report when the auditor expresses an unqualified opinion on the financial statements."[29] Among other things, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any critical audit matters in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[30] A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[31]

33. During the Free Flow Audits and the 2020 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents failed to determine whether there were CAMs in the audits. Specifically, Respondents failed to evaluate whether significant risks and other matters that were required to be communicated to the issuers' audit committees were CAMs, i.e., whether the matters were material to the financial statements and involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment.[32]

34. As a result, Respondents violated AS 3101.

v. Respondents Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications

35. PCAOB standards require the auditor to communicate certain matters related to the conduct of an audit to the issuer's audit committee.[33] These matters include, among other things, the overall audit strategy; the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment procedures; significant and critical accounting policies and practices; critical accounting estimates; and the results of the auditor's evaluation of the quality of the company's financial reporting.[34]

36. In connection with the Free Flow Audits and the 2019 PotNetwork Audit, Respondents failed to make required communications to the audit committees related to: (1) the significant risks identified during the engagement team's risk assessment procedures; (2) significant accounting policies and practices; (3) critical accounting policies and practices; (4) critical accounting estimates; and (5) the results of Respondents' evaluation of the quality of the issuers' financial reporting.

37. PCAOB rules also require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[35] PCAOB rules require that a registered firm, at least annually for each audit client, describe in writing to the audit committee of an audit client relationships between the firm and the client that may reasonably be thought to bear on independence.[36]

38. With respect to the Free Flow Audits and the PotNetwork Audits, the Firm failed to make any communication in writing to the Free Flow or PotNetwork audit committees about all relationships between the Firm and the issuers that may reasonably be thought to bear on independence.

39. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 1301 and the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3526.

vi. Respondents Violated Audit Documentation Standards and Failed to Cooperate with the Board's Inspection

40. PCAOB Rule 4006 states, in part: "Every registered public accounting firm, and every associated person of a registered public accounting firm, shall cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[37] "Implicit in this cooperation requirement is that auditors provide accurate and truthful information" to the Board's inspectors.[38]

41. PCAOB standards require that the auditor "prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB."[39] PCAOB standards further provide that "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[40] In addition, although "[c]ircumstances may require additions to audit documentation after the report release date[,]" any documentation added "must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[41]

42. In connection with each of the Issuer Audits, Respondents failed to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation by the documentation completion dates.[42] Musaji maintained audit documentation for the Issuer Audits in various locations on an external hard drive, as well as in emails and other locations, rather than appropriately and timely assembling the documentation for retention.

43. In August 2022, the PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections performed an inspection of the Firm. In advance of the inspection, on July 8, 2022, the Board's inspectors informed Musaji that they would inspect the Firm's 2020 PotNetwork Audit and 2021 Free Flow Audit. The documentation completion date for the 2020 PotNetwork Audit was November 11, 2021, and the documentation completion date for the 2021 Free Flow Audit was June 23, 2022.

44. During the inspection, Musaji provided to the Board's inspectors dozens of work papers containing metadata showing that the documents were created or modified after the relevant documentation completion dates for both the inspected 2020 PotNetwork Audit and 2021 Free Flow Audit, as well as after the date that Musaji was informed of the audits selected for inspection. When the inspectors asked Musaji about the metadata during the inspection, he acknowledged changing the audit documentation after the documentation completion dates while assembling documentation for the inspection. On multiple occasions before this acknowledgement, Musaji failed to disclose to the Board's inspection staff the changes to audit documentation.

45. Moreover, the Firm's audit work papers for the 2020 PotNetwork Audit and 2021 Free Flow Audit failed to document the date of any additions to the audit documentation, the name of who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it to the work papers, in violation of PCAOB standards.[43]

46. Respondents' actions—providing improperly altered audit documentation to the Board's inspection staff without timely disclosing the alterations prior to being asked about them—violated PCAOB audit documentation standards and constituted a failure to cooperate with a PCAOB inspection as required by PCAOB Rule 4006.[44]

E. The Firm Violated PCAOB Standards Relating to Engagement Quality Reviews

47. PCAOB standards require that an engagement quality review be performed on all audits.[45] A firm may grant permission to a client to use the audit report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of issuance of the report.[46] An engagement quality reviewer from the firm that issues the engagement report must be a partner or another individual in an equivalent position.[47]

48. The Firm failed to obtain engagement quality reviews for any of the Issuer Audits, and improperly permitted FreeFlow and PotNetwork to use its audit reports for the Issuer Audits without having obtained concurring approval of issuance from an engagement quality reviewer.

49. As a result, the Firm violated AS 1220.

F. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules by Failing to File Form APs

50. PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, requires every registered public accounting firm to file a Form AP for each audit report it issues for an issuer, and to include the identity of the engagement partner and certain information about the issuer and other accounting firms that participated in the audit.

51. A Form AP must be filed by the 35th day after the date a firm's audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission or, in the case of a registration statement under the Securities Act of 1933, by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission.[48]

52. The Firm failed to file a Form AP in connection with each of the Issuer Audits. As a result, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3211.

G. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

53. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[49] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[50] "A firm's system of quality control encompasses the firm's organizational structure and the policies adopted and procedures established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance of complying with professional standards."[51]

54. As described below, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would (i) comply with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements, and (ii) undertake only those engagements that it could reasonably expect to complete with professional competence.

i. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance That Audit Work Performed by Firm Personnel Met Professional Standards and Regulatory Requirements

55. A firm's system of quality control should include policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[52] To the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, these policies and procedures should cover, among other things, planning, performing, and documenting the results of each engagement, and should address engagement quality reviews.[53]

56. First, the Firm lacked sufficient policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that the Firm's audits would be planned and performed in accordance with PCAOB standards. Respondents' multiple audit violations in connection with the Issuer

Audits demonstrate that the Firm's system of quality control did not provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's audits would be performed consistent with PCAOB standards.

57. Second, the Firm lacked sufficient policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it would comply with AS 1215's requirements regarding the assembly and retention of audit documentation. The Firm had a policy requiring that audit documentation be assembled for retention not more than 60 days after the report release date, which was inconsistent with AS 1215's requirement that audit documentation be assembled for retention not more than 45 days after the report release date. In addition, as described above, the Firm failed to assemble for retention a complete and final set of audit documentation as of the documentation completion date for each of the Issuer Audits.

58. Third, the Firm lacked sufficient policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that engagement quality reviews would be performed on all audits in accordance with PCAOB standards.[54] Specifically, the Firm's policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that each issuer audit would be subject to an engagement quality review and that the Firm would obtain concurring approval from an engagement quality reviewer prior to issuing an audit report, as required by AS 1220.

59. Fourth, the Firm lacked sufficient policies and procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that the Firm would timely comply with PCAOB reporting requirements for the filing of Form AP. As described above, the Firm repeatedly failed to file Form AP in connection with each of the Issuer Audits.

60. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20.

ii. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance With Respect to Client Acceptance and Continuance

61. PCAOB quality control standards require that a firm establish policies and procedures "for deciding whether to accept or continue a client relationship and whether to perform a specific engagement for that client."[55] Those policies and procedures should also provide reasonable assurance that the firm "[u]ndertakes only those engagements that the firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence."[56]

54 Id.

55 Id. at .14.

56 Id. at .15.

62. At all relevant times, the Firm failed to maintain policies and procedures that provided reasonable assurance that it would only undertake engagements that it could complete with professional competence. This was evidenced by the Firm accepting issuer engagements despite lacking the necessary proficiency to perform the audits in compliance with PCAOB rules and standards.

63. As a result, the firm violated QC § 20.

H. Musaji Directly and Substantially Contributed to the Firm's Violations

64. PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations, states that "[a] person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."

65. Musaji is, and at all relevant times was, the Firm's sole owner and partner and served as the engagement partner for each of the Issuer Audits. Accordingly, Musaji was responsible for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. He was also responsible for developing and maintaining quality control policies and procedures applicable to the Firm's auditing practice. As evidenced by the numerous audit and quality control violations described above, Musaji repeatedly failed to carry out those responsibilities.

66. Musaji knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's violations of AS 1220, PCAOB Rules 3211 and 3526, and PCAOB quality control standards described above. As a result, Musaji violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm and Musaji are hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the Firm's registration is revoked;

C. After three years from the date of this Order, the Firm may reapply for registration by filing an application for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Musaji is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[57]

E. After three years from the date of this Order, Musaji may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b);

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 is imposed, jointly and severally, on the Firm and Musaji;

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondents shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm and Musaji as respondents in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of

[57] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Musaji. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondents shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondents shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondents' payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against either Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. By consenting to this Order, the Firm acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any reapplication for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

6. By consenting to this Order, Musaji acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Before filing with the Board any future registration application, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that: (a) Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards when conducting issuer audits; (b) Firm personnel will obtain, and adequately document, engagement quality reviews for all issuer audits in accordance with applicable professional standards; (c) the Firm will properly assemble for retention complete and final sets of audit documentation in accordance with professional standards; and (d) the Firm will comply with PCAOB reporting requirements on a timely basis, including with respect to Form AP.

2. To provide with any future registration application a written certification, signed by the individual ultimately responsible for the Firm's system of quality control, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.G.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

H. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Musaji is required to complete, prior to filing any petition to terminate his bar and for Board consent to reassociate with a registered public accounting firm, 50 hours of continuing professional education and training relating to PCAOB auditing standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the continuing professional education he is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of JTC Fair Song CPA Firm,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-043

November 8, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring JTC Fair Song CPA Firm ("JTC Fair Song," "Firm," or "Respondent"); and

(2) revoking the registration of the Firm.[1]

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; violated PCAOB Rule 2201, Time for Filing of Annual Report; and failed to cooperate with a PCAOB investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110, Noncooperation with an Investigation.

I.

[1] The Board determined to accept Respondent's offer of settlement, which does not require it to pay a civil money penalty, after considering the Firm's financial resources. Based on the Firm's conduct, the Board would have imposed a civil money penalty of $50,000 on the Firm in this settlement if it had not taken the Firm's financial resources into consideration.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. JTC Fair Song CPA Firm is a public accounting firm located in Shenzhen, the People's Republic of China ("PRC"). The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Issuer

2. LNPR Group Inc. ("LNPR Group") is a Colorado corporation. Its public filings disclose that LNPR Group is focused on developing AI-powered products concentrating on digital English learning. At all relevant times, LNPR Group was an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

C. Summary

3. This matter involves JTC Fair Song's failure to timely file: (1) Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211; and (2) its annual reports for 2021, 2022, and 2023, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2201.

4. Additionally, JTC Fair Song failed to cooperate with the Division of Enforcement and Investigations' (the "Division") formal investigation into the above violations by failing to respond to an Accounting Board Demand ("ABD") requiring the production of information. The Firm's failure to respond to the ABD occurred despite repeated communications from Division staff reminding the Firm of its obligation to cooperate with the investigation.

D. The Firm Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

5. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC" or "Commission"),[4] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[5]

6. The Firm audited the financial statements of LNPR Group as of and for the year ended December 31, 2022. The Firm issued an audit report dated May 18, 2022, which was included in LNPR Group's Form 10-12G/A filed with the SEC on May 18, 2022. The Firm also issued an audit report dated March 31, 2023, which was included in LNPR Group's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on March 31, 2023.

7. The Firm failed to file the required Form APs for the above filings by the 35th day after the date the audit reports were first included with the filings made with the SEC.

8. The Firm belatedly filed the aforementioned Form APs on June 25, 2024, after receiving notice of the deficiencies from the Division.

[4] See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1).

[5] In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

9. As a result of its failure to timely file the required Form APs, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3211.

E. The Firm Failed to Timely File Annual Reports in Violation of PCAOB Rule 2201

10. Section 102(d) of the Act states that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm shall submit an annual report to the Board." PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report, states that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file with the Board an annual report on Form 2." PCAOB Rule 2201 requires that the annual report be filed "no later than June 30 of each year."

11. The Firm failed to timely file the following annual reports: its annual report on Form 2 for reporting period 2021 by June 30, 2021, for reporting period 2022 by June 30, 2022, and for reporting period 2023 by June 30, 2023.

12. The Firm belatedly filed the aforementioned Form 2s on June 25, 2024, after receiving notice of the deficiencies from the Division.

13. As a result of its failure to timely file the required annual reports, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 2201.

F. The Firm Failed to Cooperate with a Division Investigation

14. The Board may conduct investigations pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Act and PCAOB rules into acts or practices that may violate any provision of the Act, the rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards.

15. The Act authorizes the Board to sanction a registered accounting firm or any associated person who "refuses to testify, produce documents, or otherwise cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation."[6] PCAOB rules similarly authorize sanctions for a registered accounting firm or any associated person who "has failed to comply with an accounting board demand. . . or has otherwise failed to cooperate in an investigation."[7]

16. On July 30, 2021, during an informal inquiry the Division had opened concerning the Firm, Division staff emailed the Firm a letter informing it that the Division believed the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3211 by failing to file a Form AP, and that the Firm should show good cause as to why the Division should not recommend that disciplinary action be taken against it for the failure.

17. On August 9, 2021, Division staff emailed the Firm and asked that the Firm confirm receipt of its prior email and letter. On August 16, 2021, the Firm replied that the email and letter had been received. On August 30, 2021, Division staff emailed the Firm and asked whether the Firm would be responding to the July 30, 2021 letter. On September 13, 2021, the Firm responded, "Due to the continuous adverse impact of the pandemic, we should be grateful if we could make a response by September 30, 2021." The Firm never emailed that response, despite follow-up emails from Division staff on September 30, 2021, and January 7, 2022.

18. On March 8, 2022, the Board issued an Order of Formal Investigation ("OFI") authorizing the Division to investigate, among other things, the Firm's possible violations of the Act, PCAOB rules, and PCAOB standards. On March 14, 2022, pursuant to the OFI, Division staff emailed an ABD to the Firm.[8] The staff's cover email explained that the ABD required the Firm to provide Division staff with certain information. It also noted that Division staff would consider "a failure to produce all responsive information by the due date or extended due date to be a failure to cooperate under Board Rule 5110," and that "the staff will take appropriate action under such circumstances."

19. On March 29, 2022, the Firm emailed Division staff a letter requesting an extension of time for the Firm to respond to the ABD, to April 15, 2022, stating that the Firm's operations had been "greatly interrupted" by "the recent lockdown of Shenzhen, China and the strict anti-epidemic measures imposed by the Government." The Division granted this request. On April 15, 2022, the Firm emailed Division staff requesting a second extension of time to April 25, 2022, noting that "the lockdown of [Shenzhen] is only partially released" and the Firm needed "a bit more time" to finalize its response. The Division granted this request but informed the Firm that the Division would be unable to accommodate any further extension requests.

[8] The ABD required the Firm to provide certain information to the Division by March 28, 2022, and included the following language: "FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH THIS DEMAND MAY SUBJECT YOU TO SANCTIONS UNDER SECTION 105(b)(3) OF THE SARBANES-OXLEY ACT OF 2002, AS AMENDED, (15 U.S.C. § 7215(b)(3)(A)) AND PCAOB RULE 5300(b)." The ABD also enclosed PCAOB Form ENF-1, which explains the consequences of failing to comply with an ABD or otherwise cooperate with an investigation.

20. On May 3, 2022, after receiving no response from the Firm by the extended deadline, Division staff emailed a letter to the Firm stating that the Firm had failed to respond to the ABD and must produce the requested information "immediately." The May 3, 2022 letter reiterated the consequences of failing to comply with an ABD or otherwise cooperate with an investigation.[9] Division staff continued to reach out to the Firm to no avail.

21. To date, the Firm has not provided the information called for by the ABD, nor has it responded to the May 3, 2022 letter. Accordingly, the Firm has failed to cooperate with an investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) and (c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(5) and 5300(b)(1), JTC Fair Song is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(ii) and (c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(1) and 5300(b)(1), the registration of JTC Fair Song is hereby revoked.

C. JTC Fair Song acknowledges that the determination to accept its Offer, without imposing a civil money penalty, is contingent upon the accuracy and completeness of the financial information the Firm provided to the Division. JTC Fair Song also acknowledges that, if at any time following this settlement, the Division obtains information indicating that any financial information provided by the Firm—including, but not limited to, any information concerning assets, income, liabilities, or net worth—was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect as of the time such information was provided, then at any time following entry of this Order (1) the Board may institute a disciplinary proceeding for noncooperation with an investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110 and/or (2) the Division may petition the Board to (a) reopen this matter to consider whether JTC Fair Song provided accurate and complete financial information at the time such information was provided to the Division; and (b) seek an order directing payment of the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law or any lesser amount determined to be appropriate. No other issue shall be considered in connection with this petition other than whether the financial information provided by the Firm was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect; and, if so, whether a civil money penalty should be ordered up to the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law. JTC Fair Song may not, by way of defense to any such petition: (i) contest the findings in this Order; (ii) assert that payment of a civil money penalty should not be ordered; (iii) contend that the amount of the civil money penalty to be ordered should be less than $50,000, which is specified herein as the amount the penalty would have been, based on its conduct and without consideration of the Firm's financial resources; or (iv) put forward any other contention or assert any defense to liability or remedy, including, but not limited to, any defense based on statute of limitations or any other time-related defense, other than to contend (a) that it did not provide financial information that was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect, or (b) that a civil money penalty should not be ordered in an amount higher than $50,000. For any disciplinary proceeding for noncooperation with an investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110, JTC Fair Song consents for purposes of effectuating service to be served using the email account used by the Firm for communications with the Division during the investigation.

[9] The May 3, 2022 letter stated as follows: "Division staff hereby reminds the Firm of the importance of cooperation with a formal investigation, as required by PCAOB Rule 5110, Noncooperation with an Investigation. Conduct constituting noncooperation includes, among other things, failing to comply with an Accounting Board Demand. Under Section 105(b)(3) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended, if a registered public accounting firm refuses to cooperate, the Board may suspend or revoke the registration of the firm or invoke such lesser sanctions as the Board considers appropriate. PCAOB Rules 5110 and 5300(b) implement this authority."

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of RSM Brasil Auditores Independentes Sociedade Simples,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-045

November 19, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("PCAOB" or "Board") is:

(1) censuring RSM Brasil Auditores Independentes Sociedade Simples ("RSM Brazil," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $25,000 civil money penalty on RSM Brazil; and

(3) requiring RSM Brazil to undertake certain remedial measures, including measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that RSM Brazil failed to disclose certain reportable events to the PCAOB on Form 3, Special Report, on a timely basis.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. RSM Brazil is a public accounting firm organized under the laws of Brazil and headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil. RSM Brazil is a member of the RSM International network and is licensed to practice public accounting by the São Paulo Regional Accounting Council (license no. CRC 2SP030002/O-7). RSM Brazil is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the PCAOB pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns RSM Brazil's failure to timely disclose to the PCAOB on Form 3 four reportable events concerning four disciplinary proceedings initiated against the Firm by the Securities and Exchange Commission of Brazil (the Comissão de Valores Mobiliários ("CVM")). PCAOB rules require registered firms, including RSM Brazil, to complete and file with the PCAOB a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence. Among the events that RSM Brazil is required to report on Form 3 are the Firm becoming aware that it has become a respondent in certain disciplinary proceedings.

3. Between May 24, 2023 and August 30, 2023, the CVM notified RSM Brazil that it had initiated four separate disciplinary proceedings against the Firm. Each of those proceedings pertained to audit work conducted by RSM Brazil for real estate funds that were not issuers.[2] The initiation of each of the proceedings constituted a reportable event under Form 3.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The term "issuer" means an issuer (as defined in Section 3 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act")), the securities of which are registered under Section 12 of the Exchange Act, or that is required to file reports under Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act, or that files or has filed a registration statement that has not yet become effective under the Securities Act of 1933, and that it has not withdrawn. See PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

However, RSM Brazil failed to report those events on Form 3 until after the applicable deadlines.

C. Respondent Failed to Timely Disclose Certain Reportable Events to the PCAOB, in Violation of PCAOB Rules

4. PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[3] One such specified event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[4]

5. Between May 2023 and August 2023, RSM Brazil became aware that the CVM initiated multiple proceedings against the Firm concerning audits the Firm conducted for various real estate fund clients. Specifically:

- On May 24, 2023, the Firm became aware that the CVM initiated a proceeding concerning audits the Firm conducted of a real estate fund for the years ended June 30, 2019, June 30, 2020, and June 30, 2021;
- On June 8, 2023, the Firm became aware that the CVM initiated a proceeding concerning an audit the Firm conducted of a real estate fund for the year ended December 31, 2020;
- On August 28, 2023, the Firm became aware that the CVM initiated a proceeding concerning an audit the Firm conducted of a real estate fund for the year ended June 30, 2021; and
- On August 30, 2023, the Firm became aware that the CVM initiated a proceeding concerning an audit the Firm conducted of a real estate fund for the year ended December 31, 2020.

[3] See PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports. As the Board noted when adopting its rules on special reporting, "reportable events will sometimes occur, and the public interest, as well as the ability to consider whether prompt action is warranted by the Board's inspection staff or enforcement staff, will be served by contemporaneous reporting of the event." Rules on Periodic Reporting by Registered Public Accounting Firms, PCAOB Rel. No. 2008-004, at 17 (June 10, 2008).

[4] PCAOB Form 3, at Item 2.7 (italics in the original removed).

6. The initiation of each of the CVM proceedings constituted a reportable event under Form 3. Accordingly, the Firm was required to report the initiation of those proceedings to the PCAOB on Form 3 within thirty days of the Firm learning of them.[5] However, RSM Brazil failed to report any of the proceedings prior to filing a Form 3 on June 27, 2024—well after the applicable reporting deadlines.[6]

7. RSM Brazil's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the initiation of the CVM proceedings as being reportable to the PCAOB on Form 3 on a timely basis. As a result, RSM Brazil inappropriately failed to notify the PCAOB of reportable events concerning relevant disciplinary proceedings by the applicable deadline, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2203.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), RSM Brazil is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon RSM Brazil.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. RSM Brazil shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies RSM Brazil as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

[5] See PCAOB Rule 2203(a).

[6] RSM Brazil filed a Form 3 on September 6, 2024 timely reporting the conclusion of the CVM proceeding that was initiated on May 24, 2023.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that RSM Brazil shall pay pursuant to this Order, RSM Brazil shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of RSM Brazil's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against RSM Brazil based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. RSM Brazil understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of RSM Brazil's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to RSM Brazil at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), RSM Brazil is required:

1. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, for the purpose of providing RSM Brazil with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by RSM Brazil personnel who participate in RSM Brazil's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any RSM Brazil personnel who participate in RSM Brazil's PCAOB reporting process;

3. within 90 days from the date of this Order, to assign the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to an individual within RSM Brazil who possesses adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority within RSM Brazil to fulfill those requirements on behalf of RSM Brazil; and

4. within 120 days from the date of this Order, to have the individual referenced in paragraph C.3 above certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, RSM Brazil's compliance with paragraphs C.1 through C.3 above. The certification shall identify the actions taken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. RSM Brazil shall also submit such additional evidence and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

5. RSM Brazil understands that the failure to satisfy any provision of Section IV.C may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS

In the Matter of Crowe Hussain Chaudhury & Co,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-048

November 19, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Crowe Hussain Chaudhury & Co, a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to timely file required Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

I.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Crowe Hussain Chaudhury & Co is a public accounting firm located in Lahore, Pakistan (1865). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

2. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"),[2] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[3]

3. The Firm performed audits of the financial statements of GlobalTech Corp ("GLTK") for the year ended December 31, 2022. For GLTK's 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued five audit reports, which are described below:

i. an audit report dated March 30, 2023, which was included in GLTK's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on March 31, 2023;

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] See Rule 3211(b)(1).

[3] In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. See Rule 3211(b)(2).

ii. an audit report dated July 10, 2023, which was included in GLTK's Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on July 14, 2023;

iii. an audit report dated August 15, 2023, which was included in GLTK's Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on August 16, 2023;

iv. an audit report dated September 7, 2023, which was included in GLTK's Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on September 11, 2023; and

v. an audit report dated September 20, 2023, which was included in GLTK's Form 10-K/A filed with the SEC on September 21, 2023.

4. The Firm failed to file five required Form APs for the above filings by the 35th day after the date the audit reports were first included with the filings made with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1).

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W.

Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that the failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including that Form APs are filed in a timely and complete manner pursuant to PCAOB Rule 3211;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C.

20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS

In the Matter of Bush & Associates CPA LLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-046

November 19, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Bush & Associates CPA LLC, a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures to establish policies and procedures directed toward ensuring future compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to timely file required Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

I.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Bush & Associates CPA LLC is a public accounting firm located in Henderson, Nevada (6797). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

2. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"),[2] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[3]

3. The Firm performed an audit of the financial statements of Medical Industries of the Americas ("MIA") for the year ended December 31, 2022. For MIA's 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated October 25, 2023, which was included in MIA's Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on October 27, 2023.

4. The Firm performed audits of the financial statements of Lucent, Inc. ("Lucent") for the years ended May 31, 2021, and May 31, 2022, which are described below:

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] See Rule 3211(b)(1).

[3] In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. See Rule 3211(b)(2).

i. for Lucent's 2021 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated September 6, 2022, which was included in Lucent's Form 10-12G/A filed with the SEC on February 1, 2023; and

ii. for Lucent's 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated September 6, 2022, which was included in Lucent's Form 10-12G filed with the SEC on January 19, 2023.

5. The Firm performed audits of the financial statements of Medies Inc. ("Medies") for the year ended February 28, 2022. For Medies' 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued three audit reports, which are described below:

i. an audit report dated May 20, 2022, which was included in Medies' Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on June 21, 2022;

ii. an audit report dated July 8, 2022, which was included in Medies' Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on July 11, 2022; and

iii. an audit report dated July 18, 2022, which was included in Medies' Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on July 19, 2022. The Firm belatedly filed the Form AP for the Medies July 18, 2022, audit report on December 12, 2022, 136 days after it was due.

6. The Firm performed audits of the financial statements of Richtech Robotics Inc. ("Richtech") for the years ended September 30, 2022, and September 30, 2023, which are described below:

i. for Richtech's 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated June 13, 2023. Subsequently, the Firm issued a consent on September 1, 2023, to include the Firm's June 13, 2023, audit report in a Form S-1/A that Richtech filed with the SEC on September 1, 2023; and

ii. for Richtech's 2023 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated January 4, 2023[4] [sic], which was included in Richtech's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on January 11, 2024. The Firm belatedly filed the Form AP for the Richtech January 4, 2024, audit report on April 29, 2024, 75 days after it was due.

7. The Firm performed an audit of the financial statements of Apex 11 Inc. ("Apex") for the year ended December 31, 2022. For Apex's 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated March 27, 2023, which was included in Apex's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on April 17, 2023. The Firm belatedly filed the Form AP for the Apex March 27, 2023, audit report on August 19, 2023, 89 days after it was due.

[4] The January 4, 2023, Richtech audit report date appears to be a typographical error and the intended date was January 4, 2024.

8. The Firm failed to file the required Form APs by the applicable deadlines for the above-identified audits, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(b).

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that the failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including that Form APs are filed in a timely and complete manner pursuant to PCAOB Rule 3211;

2. within ninety (90) days from the date of this Order, to establish policies to ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, including PCAOB Rule 3211, at least annually, of any Firm personnel who participate in the Firm's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. within one hundred twenty (120) days from the date of this Order, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraphs C(1) and C(2) above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

ORDER INSTITUTING DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS, MAKING FINDINGS, AND IMPOSING SANCTIONS

In the Matter of Barton CPA PLLC,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-047

November 19, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Barton CPA PLLC, a registered public accounting firm (the "Firm" or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB requirements for reporting audit participants.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm failed to timely file required Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Barton CPA PLLC is a public accounting firm located in Cypress, Texas. At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Respondent Failed to Timely File Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211

2. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer. Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC),[2] subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.[3]

3. The Firm performed an audit of the financial statements of Envirotech Vehicles, Inc. ("Envirotech") for the year ended December 31, 2022 (the "Envirotech Audit"). For Envirotech's 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated September 25, 2023, which was included in Envirotech's Form 10-K filed with the SEC on the same day. The Firm belatedly filed the Form AP for the Envirotech Audit, on February 5, 2024, 98 days after it was due.

4. The Firm performed an audit of the financial statements of Golden Sand Holdings Corp. ("GSHC") for the year ended December 31, 2022 (the "GSHC Audit"). For GSHC's 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated May 5, 2023, which was included in GSHC's Form S-1/A filed with the SEC on May 12, 2023. The Firm belatedly filed the Form AP for the GSHC Audit, on February 5, 2024, 259 days after it was due.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1).

[3] In that instance, a firm is required to file the Form AP by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission. See PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

5. The Firm performed an audit of the financial statements of Signing Day Sports, Inc. ("SDS") for the year ended December 31, 2022 (the "SDS Audit"). For SDS's 2022 financial statements, the Firm issued an audit report dated April 27, 2023. Subsequently, the Firm issued a consent on June 30, 2023, to include the Firm's April 27, 2023, audit report in a Form S-1/A that SDS filed with the SEC on June 30, 2023. The Firm belatedly filed the Form AP for the SDS Audit, on February 5, 2024, 210 days after it was due.

6. The Firm failed to file the required Form AP by the 35th day after the date its audit report was first included with the above-described filing Envirotech made with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1). The Firm also failed to file required Form APs by the 10th day after the dates its audit reports were first included in the above-described registration statements GSHC and SDS filed with the SEC, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

IV.

The Firm has represented to the Board that, since the PCAOB identified the above violations, the Firm has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB requirements for reporting audit participants.

A. The Firm has implemented updated guidance and policies directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB Rule 3211.

B. The Firm's updated guidance and policies include:

   i. designating a compliance officer who will maintain a compendium of audit engagements that details the audit engagements to which PCAOB Rule 3211 applies;

   ii. utilizing a conclusion checklist to document that engagement teams complete Form AP for the audit engagements to which PCAOB Rule 3211 applies;

   iii. utilizing a filing calendar to track filing deadlines to provide reasonable assurance of timely submissions; and

   iv. regularly auditing the compliance process to provide reasonable assurance of adherence to the Firm's policies.

C. The Firm has communicated this updated guidance and policies to relevant personnel and has provided relevant training to partners and staff. The Firm has also updated its policies to require annual trainings on compliance requirements and filing procedures. Further, the Firm will maintain a checklist documenting that partners and staff have performed the annual training on compliance requirements and filing procedures.

V.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon the Firm.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that the failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required to comply with its policies and procedures, including those intended to provide reasonable assurance that PCAOB reporting requirements are complied with, including timely filing auditor reports of certain audit participants pursuant to PCAOB Rule 3211.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of B S R & Co. LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-044

November 19, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring B S R & Co. LLP ("BSR," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $25,000 civil money penalty on BSR; and

(3) requiring BSR to comply with its policies and procedures directed toward ensuring compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that BSR failed to disclose certain reportable events to the PCAOB on Form 3, Special Report, on a timely basis.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. B S R & Co. LLP is a public accounting firm organized under the laws of India. BSR is headquartered in Mumbai and is licensed to practice public accounting by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (license no. 101248W/W-100022). BSR is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network and is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns BSR's failure to timely disclose to the PCAOB on Form 3 three reportable events concerning three disciplinary proceedings brought against it and certain firm personnel by a local regulator (the "Regulator").[2] PCAOB rules require registered firms, including BSR, to complete and file with the PCAOB a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence. Among the events that BSR is required to report on Form 3 are the Firm becoming aware that it or certain of its personnel have become respondents in certain disciplinary proceedings.

3. Between December 2020 and January 2024, the Regulator initiated three separate disciplinary proceedings against the Firm and/or Firm personnel pertaining to audit work they performed.

4. The initiation of each of these proceedings constituted a reportable event under Form 3, but BSR failed to report them on Form 3 until after the applicable deadlines.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2300(b)(1), a registered accounting firm "may request confidential treatment of information on" Form 3. BSR requested confidential treatment of certain information concerning the relevant proceedings initiated by the Regulator when belatedly filing a Form 3 to report those proceedings on June 26, 2024. Accordingly, the Board has anonymized the regulator and clients involved in the proceedings.

C. Respondent Failed to Timely Disclose Certain Reportable Events to the Board, in Violation of PCAOB Rules

5. PCAOB Rule 2203 provides that a registered public accounting firm must file a special report on Form 3 to report any event specified in that form within thirty days of the event's occurrence.[3] One such specified event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of the Firm's conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, the Firm has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[4]

6. Another reportable event occurs when a firm "has become aware that, in a matter arising out of his or her conduct in the course of providing professional services for a client, a partner, shareholder, principal, owner, member, or audit manager of the Firm who provided at least ten hours of audit services for any issuer, broker, or dealer during the Firm's current fiscal year or its most recently completed fiscal year has become a defendant or respondent in a civil or alternative dispute resolution proceeding initiated by a governmental entity or in a administrative or disciplinary proceeding other than a Board disciplinary proceeding."[5]

7. In December 2020, the Regulator initiated a disciplinary proceeding against a member of the Firm pertaining to professional services performed in connection with an audit ("December 2020 Proceeding").

8. In September 2023, the Regulator initiated a disciplinary proceeding against the Firm and two of its members pertaining to professional services performed for a Firm client ("September 2023 Proceeding").

9. In January 2024, the Regulator initiated a disciplinary proceeding against a member of the Firm pertaining to professional services performed in connection with an audit ("January 2024 Proceeding").

[3] See PCAOB Rule 2203, Special Reports. As the Board noted when adopting its rules on special reporting, "reportable events will sometimes occur, and the public interest, as well as the ability to consider whether prompt action is warranted by the Board's inspection staff or enforcement staff, will be served by contemporaneous reporting of the event." Rules on Periodic Reporting by Registered Public Accounting Firms, PCAOB Rel. No. 2008-004, at 17 (June 10, 2008).

[4] PCAOB Form 3, at Item 2.7 (italics in the original removed).

[5] PCAOB Form 3, at Item 2.9 (italics in the original removed).

10. The initiation of each of these proceedings constituted a reportable event under Form 3. Accordingly, the Firm was required to report those events to the PCAOB on Form 3 within thirty days of their occurrence.[6] However, despite learning of the initiation of each proceeding on or around the date it was initiated, the Firm failed to report each of these events until June 26, 2024. That filing came over 3 years after the initiation of the December 2020 Proceeding, 8 months after the initiation of the September 2023 Proceeding, and 4 months after the January 2024 Proceeding.

11. BSR's internal compliance and reporting systems failed to identify the initiation of the three proceedings as being reportable to the PCAOB on Form 3 on a timely basis. As a result, BSR inappropriately failed to notify the PCAOB of three reportable events concerning relevant disciplinary proceedings by the applicable deadline, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2203.

IV.

12. BSR has represented to the Board that, since the events described in this Order, it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing BSR with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements:

a. BSR has supplemented its policies and procedures and initiated a process to further enhance its internal documentation and reference materials for the purpose of providing BSR with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB reporting requirements, including policies and procedures providing reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by the personnel who participate in BSR's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

b. BSR has provided additional education on Form 3 reporting requirements to personnel who participate in BSR's PCAOB reporting process and will ensure training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements is provided, at least annually, to any personnel who participate in BSR's PCAOB reporting process; and

c. BSR has assigned the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to a team of individuals that support BSR and who possess adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority to fulfill those requirements on behalf of BSR.

[6] See PCAOB Rule 2203(a).

V.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), BSR is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $25,000 is imposed upon BSR.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. BSR shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies BSR as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that BSR shall pay pursuant to this Order, BSR shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of BSR's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against BSR based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. BSR understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of BSR's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to BSR at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), BSR is required to comply with its PCAOB reporting policies and procedures, including:

1. those intended to provide reasonable assurance that reportable events are identified by the personnel who participate in BSR's PCAOB reporting process and that those events are reported on the applicable PCAOB form in a timely and complete manner;

2. those ensuring training concerning PCAOB reporting requirements, at least annually, of any personnel who participate in BSR's PCAOB reporting process; and

3. those assigning the role of compliance with PCAOB reporting matters to a team of individuals that support BSR and possess adequate knowledge and experience with PCAOB reporting requirements and sufficient authority to fulfill those requirements on behalf of BSR.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of William Fischer, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-052

December 3, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring William Fischer, CPA ("Fischer" or "Respondent");

(2) barring Fischer from being associated with a registered public accounting firm;[1] and

(3) imposing a $75,000 civil money penalty on Fischer.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Fischer: (a) violated PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations, by directly and substantially contributing to violations by Raines & Fischer LLP ("Raines & Fischer" or the "Firm") of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with two inspections; (b) violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by directly and substantially contributing to the Firm's violations of quality control standards; and (c) violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with seven broker-dealer engagements.

I.

[1] Fischer may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three years from the date of this Order.

of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. William Fischer is, and at all relevant times was, a partner at Raines & Fischer and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 038129). During the relevant period, Fischer was the Firm's Managing Partner, Partner in Charge of the Audit Department, and Quality Control Partner. At all relevant times, Fischer was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Fischer served as the engagement quality review ("EQR") partner for the following engagements:

- Raines & Fischer's audits of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and reviews of the exemption reports, for Drexel Hamilton, LLC ("Drexel") for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020 ("2020 Drexel Engagement"), December 31, 2021 ("2021 Drexel Engagement"), and

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5)(A), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of "intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard."

December 31, 2022 ("2022 Drexel Engagement") (collectively, the "Drexel Engagements");

- Raines & Fischer's audits of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and examinations of the compliance reports, for Hold Brothers Capital, LLC ("Hold Brothers") for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020 ("2020 Hold Brothers Engagement"), December 31, 2021 ("2021 Hold Brothers Engagement"), and December 31, 2022 ("2022 Hold Brothers Engagement") (collectively, the "Hold Brothers Engagements"); and

- Raines & Fischer's audit of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and review of the exemption report, for Third Seven Capital, LLC ("Third Seven") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2019 ("2019 Third Seven Engagement").

B. Relevant Entities and Individuals

2. Raines & Fischer LLP is a public accounting firm located in New York, New York, and licensed to practice public accounting under the laws of New York (license no. 024631). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.[4]

3. Drexel Hamilton, LLC is a Pennsylvania limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Drexel was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii).

4. Hold Brothers Capital, LLC is a New Jersey limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the Commission as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Hold Brothers was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii). At all relevant times, Hold Brothers was a "carrying" broker-dealer (i.e., a broker-dealer that maintains custody of customer funds or securities) and therefore had to file a compliance report attesting that it satisfied certain requirements under the Commission's "financial responsibility rules" including requirements concerning net capital and the protection of customer assets.[5]

5. Third Seven Capital, LLC is a Delaware limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the Commission as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Third Seven was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii).

6. Brian Uhlman ("Uhlman") is, and at all relevant times was, a partner at Raines & Fischer and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 080064). Uhlman served as the engagement partner for the Drexel Engagements and Hold Brothers Engagements.[6]

7. Steven Sarrel ("Sarrel") is, and at all relevant times was, a partner at Raines & Fischer and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 110521). Sarrel served as the engagement partner for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement.[7]

C. Summary

8. This matter concerns Fischer's direct and substantial contribution to the Firm's: (a) violation of audit documentation standards and failure to cooperate with two PCAOB inspections; and (b) violation of PCAOB quality control standards. This matter also concerns Fischer's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with seven broker-dealer engagements for which he served as the EQR partner.[8]

9. Specifically, Fischer was aware that Firm personnel improperly created and modified work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement after the applicable documentation completion date,[9] and in advance of a 2020 inspection of the Firm by the PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections ("DRI"). Fischer was also aware that Firm personnel improperly created and modified work papers for the 2021 Drexel Engagement and the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement after the applicable documentation completion dates, and in advance of a 2022 inspection by DRI. Despite his position as the Firm's Managing Partner, Partner in Charge of the Audit Department, and Quality Control Partner, Fischer took no action when he learned of the improper work paper alterations in advance of either inspection.

10. During the relevant period, multiple areas of the Firm's quality control policies and procedures were deficient, including with respect to integrity, audit documentation, EQRs, monitoring, assignment of personnel, and PCAOB reporting requirements. As Raines & Fischer's partner in charge of quality control, Fischer directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's failure to maintain an adequate quality control system with respect to its audit practice.

11. Fisher served as the EQR partner on the 2019 Third Seven Engagement and each of the Drexel Engagements and Hold Brothers Engagements. Fischer failed to perform adequate EQRs in accordance with AS 1220, Engagement Quality Review, in connection with those seven broker-dealer engagements.

12. Accordingly, and as described below, Fischer violated PCAOB Rule 3502 and AS 1220.

D. Fischer Contributed to Raines & Fischer's Violations of PCAOB Rules and Standards

13. PCAOB rules require that a person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action "knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[10]

i. Firm Audit Documentation Violations and Failure to Cooperate with the 2020 and 2022 PCAOB Inspections

14. The PCAOB's audit documentation standard states, in part: "A complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date). . . . Audit documentation

must not be deleted or discarded after the documentation completion date, however, information may be added. Any documentation added must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[11]

15. PCAOB standards require that audit documentation "contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement," to understand, among other things, the timing of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached, and to determine not just who performed and reviewed the work but also "the date such work was completed" and "the date of such review."[12] PCAOB standards also require the auditor to identify all significant findings or issues in an engagement completion document.[13]

16. PCAOB Rule 4006 requires registered public accounting firms and their associated persons to "cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[14] Implicit in that cooperation obligation is a requirement not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with, or otherwise to interfere with, the Board's inspection processes.[15]

17. On August 10, 2020, DRI informed Raines & Fischer that the 2019 Third Seven Engagement had been selected for review during DRI's impending inspection, for which fieldwork was expected to start on October 26, 2020. After learning that DRI would be reviewing the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, and after the documentation completion date, Sarrel, the engagement partner for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, and other Firm personnel improperly created or modified multiple work papers for that engagement and App'x 918 (9th Cir. 2018) (sustaining Board finding that respondents failed to cooperate with an inspection where improper work paper alterations "interfered with the PCAOB's ability to fulfill its regulatory function of ensuring that auditors comply with their professional responsibilities"); Hay & Watson, PCAOB Rel. No. 105-2022-017, at 5 (Sept. 13, 2022) (PCAOB Rule 4006 "includes an obligation not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with, or otherwise to interfere with, the Board's inspection processes"); Dale Arnold Hotz, CPA, PCAOB Rel. added the newly created and modified work papers to the audit file. They also backdated signoffs and applied other individuals' signoffs, both within certain work papers themselves as well as in the signoff fields in the Firm's audit documentation software, to make it appear that the work papers had been prepared and reviewed at the time of the 2019 Third Seven Engagement.

18. Notwithstanding the numerous modifications to the work papers after the documentation completion date for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, the Firm failed to properly document who added the information to the work papers, as well as when and why the information was added.

19. Ultimately, Firm personnel created or modified approximately 40 work papers after the documentation completion date that were included in the set of work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement that the Firm provided to DRI, along with a work paper index printed from the Firm's audit software that contained backdated signoffs.

20. Similar conduct occurred prior to fieldwork for DRI's 2022 inspection of Raines & Fischer. On September 13, 2022, DRI informed the Firm that the 2021 Drexel Engagement and the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement had been selected for review, for which fieldwork was expected to start on November 14, 2022.

21. Uhlman, the engagement partner for both engagements, and those working at his direction, improperly created or modified over 100 total work papers for the two engagements and added the newly created or modified work papers to the corresponding audit file after the documentation completion dates. When doing so, they backdated signoffs and applied other individuals' signoffs, both within certain work papers themselves as well as in the signoff fields in the Firm's audit documentation software, to make it appear that the work papers had been prepared and reviewed at the time of each engagement.

22. Notwithstanding those modifications to the work papers after the applicable documentation completion dates, the Firm failed to properly document who added the information to the work papers, as well as when and why the information was added.

23. The newly created and modified workpapers were included in the sets of work papers for the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement that the Firm provided to DRI, along with a work paper index printed from the Firm's audit software for each engagement that contained backdated signoffs.

24. During the relevant period, Fischer was the Firm's Managing Partner, Partner in Charge of the Audit Department, and the Quality Control Partner. At the time of DRI's 2020 and 2022 inspections, Fischer was aware that work papers had been improperly created or modified after the documentation completion dates and in advance of both inspections and then provided to the DRI inspectors. Fischer, however, took no action in response to the improper alterations and, in particular, failed to prevent the improperly altered documentation from being provided to PCAOB inspectors.

25. Accordingly, Fischer violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by knowingly or recklessly, and directly and substantially, contributing to the Firm's violations of AS 1215 and PCAOB Rule 4006 in connection with the 2020 and 2022 inspections.

ii. Quality Control Violations

26. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards, which mandate that a firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice" and describe "elements of quality control and other matters essential to the effective design, implementation, and maintenance of the system."[16] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[17]

27. PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm establish quality control policies and procedures for deciding whether to accept or continue a client relationship and whether to perform a specific engagement for that client.[18] Such policies and procedures should provide reasonable assurance that the firm undertakes only those engagements that the firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence, and appropriately considers the risks associated with providing professional services in the particular circumstances.[19] In addition, policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that work is assigned to personnel having the degree of proficiency required under the circumstances.[20]

[20] Id. at .13; QC § 40.02, The Personnel Management Element of a Firm's System of Quality Control–Competencies Required by a Practitioner-in-Charge of an Attest Engagement.

28. In addition, as part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[21]

29. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[22] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[23] Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[24]

30. Raines & Fischer's quality control policies and procedures were not suitably designed or effectively applied to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would comply with applicable standards concerning the timely assembly of a complete and final set of audit documentation by the applicable documentation completion date. Raines & Fischer failed to timely assemble complete and final sets of audit documentation by the applicable documentation completion dates for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, as well as each of the Drexel Engagements and Hold Brothers Engagements. For the 2020 Drexel Engagement, the 2022 Drexel Engagement, the 2020 Hold Brothers Engagement, and the 2022 Hold Brothers Engagement, the assembled work paper files lack signoffs on certain work papers indicating who prepared and reviewed the documentation, and when they did so.[25] In addition, the engagement teams failed to include multiple work papers in the audit files necessary to evidence the Firm's compliance with auditing and attestation standards, including work papers concerning the Firm's planning of the engagements, risk assessment procedures, and engagement completion.[26]

31. The Firm also lacked sufficient policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that personnel would perform all professional responsibilities with integrity and specifically that they would refrain from improperly altering audit documentation and providing the improperly altered documentation to PCAOB inspectors. As described above, Firm personnel repeatedly created and modified work papers after the documentation completion date and in advance of PCAOB inspections and provided those improperly altered documents to PCAOB inspectors.

32. Raines & Fischer's quality control policies and procedures with respect to EQRs were also deficient and failed to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would conduct EQRs in compliance with PCAOB standards. Specifically, as detailed below, those policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that adequate EQRs were performed for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement and each of the Drexel Engagements and Hold Brothers Engagements.

33. Raines & Fischer also lacked policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that it would only accept those engagements that it could reasonably expect to complete with professional competence or to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel in charge of engagements possessed the requisite competencies. Hold Brothers was the Firm's only carrying broker-dealer client. While Uhlman and Fischer, the engagement partner and EQR partner for the Hold Brothers Engagements, had prior experience auditing non-carrying broker-dealers, neither had prior experience auditing carrying broker-dealers or sufficient training to enable them to complete such an engagement in compliance with relevant standards. As a result, during the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement, the engagement team failed to sufficiently plan and perform the Firm's examination to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence about assertions made by Hold Brothers in its compliance report.[27]

34. In addition, Raines & Fischer lacked policies and procedures to obtain reasonable assurance of compliance with reporting requirements. Specifically, Raines & Fischer filed its annual reports with the PCAOB on Form 2 for each year from 2020 through 2023 after the applicable deadlines.[28]

35. Moreover, Raines & Fischer lacked policies and procedures for monitoring its quality control system and its compliance with PCAOB rules and standards, including audit documentation standards and PCAOB reporting requirements. The Firm's monitoring policies and procedures did not provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity.

36. As the Firm's Quality Control Partner, Fischer was responsible for the Firm's system of quality control. Notwithstanding his responsibilities, Fischer knowingly or recklessly failed to take steps to adequately address the substantial deficiencies in the Firm's quality control system described above.

37. Accordingly, Fischer violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by knowingly or recklessly, and directly and substantially, contributing to the Firm's violations of PCAOB quality control standards.

E. Fischer Failed to Perform Adequate Engagement Quality Reviews for Seven Broker-Dealer Engagements

38. PCAOB rules require that, in connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with the PCAOB's auditing and related professional practice standards.[29]

39. PCAOB standards require that an EQR be performed on all audits, and certain attestation engagements, including examinations of a broker-dealer's compliance report and reviews of a broker-dealer's exemption report, that are conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards.[30] In an audit, the EQR should, among other things: (a) evaluate the significant judgments that relate to engagement planning; (b) evaluate the engagement team's assessment of, and audit responses to, significant risks; (c) review the engagement completion document; and (d) review the financial statements.[31]

40. Documentation of an EQR should be included in the engagement documentation, and should contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to understand the procedures performed by the EQR partner.[32]

[29] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards; PCAOB Rule 3200, Auditing Standards; PCAOB Rule 3300T, Interim Attestation Standards.

[30] AS 1220.01.

[31] Id. at .10; see also AS 1215.13.

[32] AS 1220.19-.20.

41. None of the work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, the Drexel Engagements, or the Hold Brothers Engagements reflect signoffs by Fischer, the EQR partner for each of the engagements, with the exception of certain work papers that were improperly prepared and backdated in advance of the 2020 and 2022 PCAOB inspections. Thus, the work papers for those engagements lack sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagements, to understand what, if any, procedures were performed by the EQR partner, the documentation reviewed by the EQR partner, and the date the EQR partner provided concurring approval of issuance.[33]

42. Moreover, among the work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, 2021 Drexel Engagement, and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement that were created after the applicable documentation completion dates and in advance of the 2020 and 2022 PCAOB inspections were those relating to planning, risk assessment, and engagement completion. Fischer, therefore, could not have reviewed that documentation at the time of the relevant engagements to evaluate the engagement team's judgments about materiality, or its assessment of and audit response to significant risks, and whether the documentation supported the engagement team's related conclusions. Nor could Fischer have reviewed the engagement completion document. Accordingly, Fischer failed to complete steps that are required of an EQR partner under PCAOB standards.[34]

43. Additionally, in connection with the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement, Fischer failed to identify that the Possession or Control Schedule ("Schedule") included as supplemental information accompanying Hold Brothers' financial statements was not in compliance with Rule 17a-5(d)(2)(ii) of the Exchange Act.[35] Specifically, the Schedule omitted the market valuation and the number of items of customers' fully paid and excess margin securities not in Hold Brothers' possession or control as of the report date, but for which the required action was not taken by Hold Brothers within specified time frames.[36] The Schedule also omitted the market valuation and number of items of customers' fully paid and excess margin securities for which instructions to reduce possession or control had not been issued as of the report date.[37]

44. Accordingly, Fischer violated AS 1220 in connection with the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, the Drexel Engagements, and the Hold Brothers Engagements.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), William Fischer is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), William Fischer is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[38]

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Fischer may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after the expiration of three years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $75,000 is imposed upon William Fischer.

    1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

    2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff, or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance,

[38] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(7)(B), will apply with respect to Fischer. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies William Fischer as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Weinstein International CPA and Idan Weinstein,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-053

December 3, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Weinstein International CPA (the "Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, and Idan Weinstein ("Weinstein" and, together with the Firm, "Respondents");

(2) revoking the Firm's registration;[1]

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures prior to submitting any future registration application; and

(4) barring Weinstein from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm.[2]

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis that (1) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audits of three issuers; (2) the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards, and (3) Weinstein directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's quality control violations.[3]

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after three years from the date of this Order.

[2] Weinstein may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three years from the date of this Order.

[3] The Board determined to accept Respondents' offers of settlement, which do not require them to pay a civil money penalty, after considering their financial resources. Based on Respondents' conduct,

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted against Respondents pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1).

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have each submitted an Offer of Settlement (together, the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents each consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[4]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[5]

A. Respondents

1. Weinstein International CPA is a public accounting firm organized under the laws of Israel and headquartered in Tel Aviv, Israel. The Firm has been registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules since September 23, 2019.

---

the Board would have imposed a civil money penalty of $75,000 on them, jointly and severally, in this settlement, if it had not taken their financial resources into consideration.

[4] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[5] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

2. Idan Weinstein was, at all relevant times, the owner of Weinstein International and an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Issuers

3. OBITX, Inc. (n/k/a Everything Blockchain, Inc.)[6] ("OBITX"), was, at all relevant times, a Delaware corporation headquartered in Fleming Island, Florida. According to its public filings, OBITX was engaged in digital cryptocurrency and blockchain development and consulting during the time period relevant to this Order. At all relevant times, OBITX was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

4. BOTS, Inc. ("BOTS") was, at all relevant times, a Puerto Rico corporation headquartered in San Juan, Puerto Rico. According to its public filings, BOTS was a seller of electronic cigarettes, vaporizers, and cannabis accessories during the time period relevant to this Order. At all relevant times, BOTS was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

5. Global Warming Solutions, Inc. ("GWSO") was, at all relevant times, an Oklahoma corporation headquartered in Temecula, California. According to its public filings, GWSO was engaged in the development of technologies to mitigate global warming and in the retail sale of CBD products during the time period relevant to this Order. At all relevant times, GWSO was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

6. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with three issuer audits.

7. During the audit of OBITX's financial statements for the fiscal year ended January 31, 2021, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism, and failed to perform an appropriate evaluation of, and to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to, OBITX's related party transactions.

8. During the audit of BOTS's financial statements for the fiscal year ended April 30, 2020, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to the existence and valuation of a material intangible asset.

[6] The company changed its name from OBITX, Inc. to Everything Blockchain, Inc. effective May 23, 2021.

9. During the audit of GWSO's financial statements for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020, Respondents failed to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to the existence and valuation of intangible assets and rights to cash.

10. This matter also concerns the Firm's violations of PCAOB quality control standards. Specifically, the Firm failed to design, implement, and monitor adequate policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would comply with applicable professional standards and would receive appropriate technical training. As the Firm's owner, Weinstein directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's quality control violations.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

11. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[7]

12. PCAOB standards require the auditor to "plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for his or her opinion."[8] "The auditor should design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure."[9] "The auditor should perform substantive procedures for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure."[10]

13. PCAOB standards further provide that "[d]ue professional care is to be exercised in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report. . . . Due professional care requires the auditor to exercise professional skepticism."[11]

i. Respondents Failed to Appropriately Evaluate Multiple Related Party Transactions During the OBITX Audit

14. On May 13, 2021, the Firm issued an audit report on OBITX's financial statements for the fiscal year ended January 31, 2021. OBITX included the Firm's audit report in a Form 10-K that it filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on May 17, 2021.

15. Weinstein served as engagement partner for the fiscal year 2021 OBITX audit. Weinstein and the Firm failed in several respects to perform adequate audit procedures over related party transactions.

16. AS 2410 requires the auditor to evaluate "whether the company has properly identified its related parties and relationships and transactions with related parties" and requires the auditor to perform procedures "to test the accuracy and completeness of the related parties and relationships and transactions with related parties identified by the company, taking into account the information gathered during the audit."[12] Further, "[t]he auditor must evaluate whether related party transactions have been properly accounted for and disclosed in the financial statements."[13]

17. "The auditor should perform procedures to obtain an understanding of the company's relationships and transactions with its related parties," which "includes obtaining an understanding of the nature of the relationships between the company and its related parties and of the terms and business purposes (or the lack thereof) of the transactions involving related parties."[14]

18. The Firm's work papers for the fiscal year 2021 OBITX audit contained a settlement agreement that OBITX and BOTS, a related party, purportedly entered into in April 2020. Pursuant to the settlement agreement, BOTS purportedly forgave a $218,257 debt in exchange for OBITX returning certain proprietary software to BOTS. Then, in September 2020, OBITX purportedly transferred 27 million cryptocurrency tokens to BOTS in return for the cancellation of a $218,257 debt—the same amount that BOTS had purportedly forgiven five months earlier. Respondents failed to perform any audit procedures to test whether the debt

[14] Id. at .03 & note thereto; see also id. at .12 (the auditor should "[r]ead the underlying documentation and evaluate whether the terms and other information about the transaction are consistent with explanations from inquiries and other audit evidence about the business purpose (or the lack thereof) of the transaction").

purportedly cancelled in the September 2020 related party transaction had already been forgiven pursuant to the April 2020 settlement agreement.

19. Also in April 2020, OBITX issued 150,000 shares of Series B preferred stock to another related party ("Individual A") in exchange for 60 cryptocurrency automated teller machines ("ATMs"). OBITX's outside valuation specialist valued the preferred stock that was issued at $6.5 million. OBITX disclosed in its 2021 Form 10-K that it believed the ATMs it received in the transaction had no retail or book value. In accounting for its transfer of the $6.5 million in stock to Individual A, OBITX recorded additional paid in capital for the full purported value of the stock of $6.5 million. However, because OBITX believed the ATMs had no value, it recorded these assets at the stock's total par value of $15 and recorded an expense of $6.5 million.

20. In the prior fiscal year (ended January 31, 2020), OBITX had transferred the very same cryptocurrency ATMs to BOTS in return for the cancellation of approximately $408,000 of debt—a value that far exceeded the $15 valuation OBITX recorded for the ATMs when it re-acquired them the following year.[15] Yet Respondents failed to perform any procedures during the fiscal year 2021 OBITX audit to test the existence and valuation of the cryptocurrency ATMs that OBITX purportedly re-acquired in April 2020.

21. Moreover, as part of multiple related party transactions, OBITX received or transferred various cryptocurrencies during fiscal year 2021. For example, OBITX received approximately 2 million BIT tokens, 123 million BIT tokens, and 2 million PRES tokens from a related party ("Company A") in April 2020, May 2020, and September 2020, respectively.

22. OBITX then transferred approximately 104 million BIT tokens to BOTS, Individual A, and other related parties in five transactions in September 2020. For four of the transactions, OBITX represented that the cryptocurrencies were transferred as payment for various services provided by these related parties. The fifth transfer purportedly was made to settle the $218,257 debt OBITX owed to BOTS.[16]

23. As part of recording the transfers, OBITX recognized revenue for the purported fair value of the cryptocurrencies transferred. As a result, OBITX recognized a total of approximately $866,000 in revenue related to these five cryptocurrency transfers, representing

[15] BOTS subsequently purported to transfer the ATMs to Individual A (from whom OBITX purchased the ATMs), also as settlement of $408,000 of debt. Respondents were aware of this transaction as they were also BOTS' auditors for the fiscal periods during which the ATMs purportedly were transferred from OBITX to BOTS, from BOTS to Individual A, and from Individual A to OBITX.

[16] See ¶ 18 above.

93% of its reported revenue for fiscal year 2021.[17] Respondents failed to perform any evaluation of whether OBITX properly accounted for the cryptocurrency transactions under U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("U.S. GAAP") when it recognized revenue in connection with them.

24. In addition, Respondents failed to determine whether any of the above-referenced related party transactions had any business purpose, much less evaluate whether the terms of the transactions and other audit evidence were consistent with a business purpose.

25. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 2410 by failing to appropriately evaluate the company's related party transactions, AS 2301 and AS 1105 by failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning the related party transactions, and AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in auditing the related party transactions.

ii. Respondents Failed to Appropriately Audit Intangible Assets During the BOTS Audit

26. On March 9, 2021, the Firm issued an audit report on BOTS' financial statements for the fiscal year ended April 30, 2020. BOTS included the Firm's audit report in a Form 10-K that it filed with the Commission on April 19, 2021.

27. Weinstein served as engagement partner for the fiscal year 2020 BOTS audit. Weinstein and the Firm failed to perform any audit procedures when confronted with inconsistent audit evidence concerning the intangible assets recorded in BOTS' financial statements.

28. BOTS reported approximately $400,000 in intangible assets in its fiscal year 2020 financial statements. A majority of BOTS' intangible assets was attributed to a so-called "Cannabis License" with a recorded value of $228,085, representing approximately 25% of BOTS' total assets.

29. As support for the $228,085 "Cannabis License," Respondents obtained an unsigned agreement dated in 2018. On its face, the 2018 agreement purported to concern a

[17] In its fiscal year 2022 Form 10-K, OBITX made certain "reclassifications" to its fiscal year 2021 financial statements and disclosed it "determined that the more appropriate place to record sales of cryptocurrency and the associated costs, and fair market value adjustments to cryptocurrency was other income and not revenue and cost of sales."

purchase of vacant land in exchange for $225,000; it made no reference to any cannabis license.

30. PCAOB standards provide that, "[i]f audit evidence obtained from one source is inconsistent with that obtained from another, or if the auditor has doubts about the reliability of information to be used as audit evidence, the auditor should perform the audit procedures necessary to resolve the matter and should determine the effect, if any, on other aspects of the audit."[18]

31. Respondents failed to perform any procedures to address the contradiction between BOTS' purported $228,085 "Cannabis License" and the audit evidence Respondents obtained that referred to a land purchase, not a cannabis license. Nor did they perform any other procedures to test the existence or valuation of the "Cannabis License" intangible asset.

32. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 2301, AS 1105, and AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism, and by failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the existence and valuation of the "Cannabis License" intangible asset.

iii. Respondents Failed to Appropriately Audit Intangible Assets and Cash During the GWSO Audit

33. On March 22, 2021, the Firm issued an audit report on GWSO's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2020. GWSO included the Firm's audit report in a Form 10-12G/A that it filed with the Commission on April 7, 2021.

34. Weinstein served as engagement partner for the fiscal year 2020 GWSO audit. Weinstein and the Firm failed to perform adequate audit procedures over the intangible assets and cash recorded in GWSO's financial statements.

35. First, GWSO reported intangible assets of $63,889, representing 84% of total assets, as of December 31, 2020.

36. Respondents knew that GWSO purportedly had acquired certain of the intangible assets from related parties for $100,000 in October 2019. However, Respondents failed to perform any procedures other than management inquiries to test the existence and valuation of GWSO's intangible assets.[19]

[18] AS 1105.29.

[19] See AS 2805.02, Management Representations ("representations from management are part of the evidential matter the independent auditor obtains, but they are not a substitute for the application

37. Second, GWSO reported cash of $12,450, representing 16% of total assets, as of December 31, 2020.

38. Respondents obtained a bank confirmation to test GWSO's cash balance. However, the confirmation listed a separate entity, not GWSO, as the account owner. Respondents failed to adequately address this contradictory audit evidence and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support GWSO's purported rights to the cash in the bank account.

39. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 1105 and AS 1015 by failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence of the existence and valuation of GWSO's intangible assets, or of the company's rights to the cash reported in its financial statements.

E. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

40. PCAOB rules require registered public accounting firms to comply with the Board's quality control standards.[20] PCAOB quality control standards, in turn, require each registered firm to effectively design, implement, and maintain a system of quality control to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards.[21]

41. As part of this requirement, an accounting firm should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[22] The firm also should establish quality control policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that audit work is assigned to personnel who have an appropriate degree of technical training and proficiency.[23]

42. As evidenced by the audit violations discussed above, the Firm's quality control policies and procedures did not provide reasonable assurance that relevant Firm personnel would comply with applicable professional standards.

of those auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit").

[20] See PCAOB Rule 3400T, Interim Quality Control Standards.

[21] QC §§ 20.01-.03, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice.

[22] Id. at .17.

[23] Id. at .13.

43. The Firm also lacked policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that personnel assigned to issuer audits would receive appropriate technical training related to U.S. GAAP, PCAOB standards, and Commission reporting requirements, rules, and regulations.

44. Accordingly, the Firm violated QC § 20.

45. PCAOB quality control standards further provide that policies and procedures for monitoring "should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control . . . are suitably designed and are being effectively applied,"[24] and that "its system of quality control is effective."[25] A firm's monitoring procedures may include inspection procedures.[26]

46. At all relevant times, the Firm lacked any process to monitor its quality control system. For example, the Firm failed to perform any internal inspection procedures since it first registered with the PCAOB in 2019, and never performed other evaluations to assess whether the work performed by its engagement personnel on issuer audits met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality.

47. Because the Firm's quality control system failed to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm was effectively monitoring its issuer auditing practice, the Firm also violated QC § 30.

F. Weinstein Directly and Substantially Contributed to the Firm's Quality Control Violations

48. "A person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[27]

[26] Id.; see also id. at .04-.09, .11.

[27] PCAOB Rule 3502, Responsibility Not to Knowingly or Recklessly Contribute to Violations.

49. Weinstein directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of PCAOB rules and quality control standards. As the Firm's owner and sole partner, Weinstein was responsible for developing and maintaining quality control policies and procedures applicable to the Firm's issuer auditing practice.

50. Weinstein knew or was reckless in not knowing that the Firm's system of quality control was inadequate. His failure to adequately address these deficiencies directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's violations of QC § 20 and QC § 30. As a result, Weinstein violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm and Weinstein are censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of the Firm is revoked.

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101, after three years from the date of this Order, the Firm may reapply for registration.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

    1. before filing with the Board any future registration application, to (a) establish policies and procedures, or revise and/or supplement existing policies and procedures, for the purpose of providing the Firm with reasonable assurance of compliance with applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality; (b) establish policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm will only assign audit work to personnel who have an appropriate degree of technical training and proficiency; and (c) establish monitoring procedures that determine corrective actions to be taken and improvements to be made in the Firm's quality control system.

    2. with any future application of the Firm for registration, to certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations (the "Division"), Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C.

20006, the Firm's compliance with paragraph IV.D.1 above. The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning compliance as the staff of the Division of Registration and Inspections may reasonably request.

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Weinstein is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[28]

F. After three years from the date of this Order, Weinstein may file a petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

G. The Firm and Weinstein acknowledge that the determination to accept their Offers, without imposing a civil money penalty, is contingent upon the accuracy and completeness of the financial information they provided to the Division. The Firm and Weinstein also acknowledge that, if at any time following this settlement, the Division obtains information indicating that any financial information provided by the Firm and Weinstein—including, but not limited to, any information concerning assets, income, liabilities, or net worth—was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect as of the time such information was provided, then at any time following entry of this Order (1) the Board may institute a disciplinary proceeding for noncooperation with an investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110; and/or (2) the Division may petition the Board to (a) reopen this matter to consider whether the Firm and Weinstein provided accurate and complete financial information at the time such information was provided to the Division; and (b) seek an order directing payment of the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law or any lesser amount determined to be appropriate. No other issue shall be considered in connection with this petition other than whether the financial information provided by the Firm and Weinstein was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect; and, if so, whether a civil money penalty should be ordered up to the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law. The Firm and Weinstein may not, by way of defense to any such petition: (i) contest the findings in this Order; (ii) assert that payment of a civil money penalty should not be ordered; (iii) contend that the amount of the civil money penalty to be ordered should be less than $75,000, which is specified herein as the amount the penalty would have been, based on their conduct and without consideration of the Firm's and Weinstein's financial resources; or (iv) put forward any other contention or assert any defense to liability or remedy, including, but not limited to, any defense based on statute of limitations or any other time-related defense, other than to contend (a) that they did not provide financial information that was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect, or (b) that a civil money penalty should not be ordered in an amount higher than $75,000.

[28] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Weinstein. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Steven Sarrel, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-051

December 3, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Steven Sarrel, CPA ("Sarrel" or "Respondent");

(2) barring Sarrel from being associated with a registered public accounting firm;[1] and

(3) imposing a $65,000 civil money penalty on Sarrel.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Sarrel failed to cooperate with the PCAOB's 2020 inspection of a broker-dealer audit and review, including by directing the improper alteration of audit documentation and providing the altered documentation to PCAOB inspectors.

I.

[1] Sarrel may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three years from the date of this Order.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Steven Sarrel is, and at all relevant times was, a partner at Raines & Fischer LLP ("Raines & Fischer" or "Firm") and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 110521). At all relevant times, Sarrel was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Sarrel served as the engagement partner for Raines & Fischer's audit of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and review of the exemption report, for Third Seven Capital, LLC ("Third Seven") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2019 ("2019 Third Seven Engagement").

B. Relevant Entities

2. Raines & Fischer LLP is a public accounting firm located in New York, New York, and licensed to practice public accounting under the laws of New York (license no. 024631). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.[4]

---

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5)(A), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of "intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard."

[4] See Raines & Fischer LLP, PCAOB Rel. No. 105-2024-049 (Dec. 3, 2024).

3. Third Seven Capital, LLC is a Delaware limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Third Seven was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act, and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii). At all relevant times, Third Seven was a "non-carrying" broker-dealer (i.e., a broker-dealer that does not maintain custody of customer funds or securities).[5]

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns Sarrel's failure to cooperate with the PCAOB's 2020 inspection of the 2019 Third Seven Engagement and related violations of PCAOB audit documentation standards.[6]

5. Specifically, approximately four months after the documentation completion date[7] for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, Sarrel learned that the PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections ("DRI") would be reviewing the 2019 Third Seven Engagement as part of an inspection of Raines & Fischer. In advance of the inspection, Sarrel, and Firm personnel acting under his direction, improperly created or modified multiple work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement. As Sarrel was aware, those improperly altered work papers were then provided to DRI, after which Sarrel participated in discussions with PCAOB inspectors about the documentation for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement without disclosing the improper alterations.

6. Accordingly, and as described below, Respondent violated PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate With Inspectors, AS 1215, and ET § 102, Integrity and Objectivity.

[5] For 2019, Third Seven claimed an exemption pursuant to paragraph (k)(1) of Rule 15c3-3 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), 17 C.F.R. § 240.15c3-3(k)(1).

D. Respondent Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Connection with the 2019 Third Seven Engagement and the Board's 2020 Inspection

i. Relevant Rules and Standards

7. Rule 17a-5 of the Exchange Act ("Rule 17a-5")[8] generally requires a broker-dealer that claims it was exempt from Exchange Act Rule 15c3-3[9] throughout the most recent fiscal year to file annually with the Commission: (a) a financial report containing certain financial statements and supporting schedules (i.e., supplemental information);[10] (b) an exemption report;[11] (c) a report prepared by an independent public accountant based on an examination of the financial report;[12] and (d) a report prepared by an independent public accountant based on a review of the statements made by the broker-dealer in the exemption report.[13] Rule 17a-5 also requires that audits and reviews of broker-dealers be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[14]

8. PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[15] PCAOB rules also require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with the ethics standards adopted by the Board.[16]

9. The PCAOB's audit documentation standard states, in part: "A complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date). . . . Audit documentation must not be deleted or discarded after the documentation completion date, however, information may be added. Any documentation added must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[17]

10. PCAOB standards require that audit documentation "contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement," to understand, among other things, the timing of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached, and to determine not just who performed and reviewed the work but also "the date such work was completed" and "the date of such review."[18]

11. PCAOB Rule 4006 requires registered public accounting firms and their associated persons to "cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection." Implicit in that cooperation obligation is a requirement not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with, or otherwise to interfere with, the Board's inspection processes.[19] An auditor provides misleading information if he or she participates in discussions with inspectors about documentation that the auditor knows has been improperly altered and does not disclose the alterations.[20]

No. 105-2016-040 (Dec. 5, 2016) (same).

12. PCAOB ethics standards provide, in part, that an associated person "shall maintain objectivity and integrity" and "shall not knowingly misrepresent facts" in the performance of professional services.[21] An associated person knowingly misrepresents facts in violation of ET § 102 when, for example, he or she knowingly: (a) makes, or permits or directs another to make, materially false and misleading entries in an entity's records; or (b) signs, or permits or directs another to sign, a document containing materially false and misleading information.[22]

ii. Sarrel Violated PCAOB Audit Documentation and Ethics Standards and Failed to Cooperate with the PCAOB's Inspection of the 2019 Third Seven Engagement

13. As the engagement partner for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, Sarrel authorized the issuance of Raines & Fischer's audit and review reports dated February 27, 2020. The documentation completion date for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement was, therefore, April 12, 2020 (45 days after the release date of the Firm's reports). However, Sarrel failed to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation for retention by that date.

14. On August 10, 2020, DRI informed the Firm that the 2019 Third Seven Engagement had been selected for review during DRI's impending inspection, for which fieldwork was expected to start on October 26, 2020. Raines & Fischer personnel prepared and assembled work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement in electronic form as part of an audit software database. After learning that DRI would be reviewing the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, Sarrel, and those working at his direction, improperly created or modified multiple work papers for that engagement and added the newly created and modified work papers to the audit software.

15. Sarrel and junior staff changed the clocks on their computers to the time of the 2019 Third Seven Engagement to make it appear that the work papers they were creating had been prepared prior to the audit report date in February 2020. However, during their efforts, Sarrel realized that, despite having changed the computers' clocks, certain work papers still indicated that changes had been made in August 2020, in anticipation of DRI's inspection.

16. When Sarrel raised that issue with the junior staff who were assisting him with the creation and modification of the work papers, they informed him that they were denied access to Microsoft Word and Excel if they changed their clocks, but suggested as a "work around" printing Word documents to PDFs with the dates changed. Sarrel then instructed the junior staff to adopt that plan and print the Word documents to PDF to avoid the work papers reflecting their actual creation and modification in advance of the inspection.

17. Additionally, Sarrel and those acting under his supervision backdated signoffs and applied signoffs of other individuals who worked on the 2019 Third Seven Engagement to the newly created or modified work papers, both within certain work papers themselves as well as in the signoff fields in the Firm's audit documentation software, to make it appear that the work papers had been prepared and reviewed at the time of the 2019 Third Seven Engagement.

18. Notwithstanding the numerous modifications to the work papers after the documentation completion date for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, Sarrel failed to properly document who added the information to the work papers, as well as when and why the information was added.

19. Ultimately, Sarrel and those acting under his supervision created or modified approximately 40 work papers after the documentation completion date. Those improperly altered work papers were included in the set of work papers provided to DRI, along with a work paper index printed from the Firm's audit software that contained the backdated signoffs.

20. Sarrel participated in multiple meetings with DRI staff about the 2019 Third Seven Engagement during the 2020 inspection of Raines & Fischer. However, he failed to disclose to inspectors that numerous work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement had been improperly created or modified after the documentation completion date and that signoffs had been backdated.

21. Accordingly, Sarrel violated AS 1215, PCAOB Rule 4006, and ET § 102.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Steven Sarrel is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Steven Sarrel is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[23]

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Steven Sarrel may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $65,000 is imposed upon Steven Sarrel.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff, or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Steven Sarrel as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

[23] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(7)(B), will apply with respect to Sarrel. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Raines & Fischer LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-049

December 3, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Raines & Fischer LLP ("Raines & Fischer," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) permanently revoking the Firm's registration; and

(3) imposing a $200,000 civil money penalty on the Firm.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm: (a) violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with seven broker-dealer engagements; (b) failed to cooperate with two PCAOB inspections; (c) failed to timely file forms required by PCAOB rules; and (d) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Raines & Fischer LLP is a public accounting firm located in New York, New York, and licensed to practice public accounting under the laws of New York (license no. 024631). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. Raines & Fischer conducted the following engagements:

- the audits of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and reviews of the exemption reports, for Drexel Hamilton, LLC ("Drexel") for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020 ("2020 Drexel Engagement"), December 31, 2021 ("2021 Drexel Engagement"), and December 31, 2022 ("2022 Drexel Engagement") (collectively, the "Drexel Engagements");

- the audits of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and examinations of the compliance reports, for Hold Brothers Capital, LLC ("Hold Brothers") for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020 ("2020 Hold Brothers Engagement"), December 31, 2021 ("2021 Hold Brothers Engagement"), and December 31, 2022 ("2022 Hold Brothers Engagement") (collectively, the "Hold Brothers Engagements"); and

- the audit of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and review of the exemption report, for Third Seven Capital, LLC ("Third Seven") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2019 ("2019 Third Seven Engagement").

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5)(A), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of "intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard."

B. Relevant Entities and Individuals

2. Drexel Hamilton, LLC is a Pennsylvania limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Drexel was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii).

3. Hold Brothers Capital, LLC is a New Jersey limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the Commission as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Hold Brothers was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii). At all relevant times, Hold Brothers was a "carrying" broker-dealer (i.e., a broker-dealer that maintains custody of customer funds or securities) and therefore had to file a compliance report attesting that it satisfied certain requirements under the Commission's "financial responsibility rules" including requirements concerning net capital and the protection of customer assets.[3]

4. Third Seven Capital, LLC is a Delaware limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the Commission as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Third Seven was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii).

5. Brian Uhlman ("Uhlman") is, and at all relevant times was, a partner at Raines & Fischer and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 080064). Uhlman served as the engagement partner for the Drexel Engagements and the Hold Brothers Engagements.[4]

6. Steven Sarrel ("Sarrel") is, and at all relevant times was, a partner at Raines & Fischer and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 110521). Sarrel served as the engagement partner for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement.[5]

7. William Fischer ("Fischer") is, and at all relevant times was, a partner at Raines & Fischer and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 038129). During the relevant period, Fischer was Raines & Fischer's Managing Partner, Partner in Charge of the Audit Department, and Quality Control Partner. Fischer served as the engagement quality review ("EQR") partner for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, the Drexel Engagements, and Hold Brothers Engagements.[6]

C. Summary

8. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with seven broker-dealer engagements and its failure to cooperate with two PCAOB inspections.[7]

9. Specifically, the Firm failed to timely assemble complete and final sets of audit documentation for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement and each of the Drexel Engagements and Hold Brothers Engagements.

10. Firm personnel also improperly created or modified work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement in advance of a 2020 inspection of Raines & Fischer by the PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections ("DRI"). Similarly, Firm personnel improperly created or modified work papers for the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement in advance of DRI's 2022 inspection of Raines & Fischer.

11. As exemplified by these violations, Raines & Fischer's policies and procedures failed to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would comply with applicable standards concerning timely assembly of a complete and final set of audit documentation. The Firm's policies and procedures also failed to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would act with integrity and refrain from improperly altering audit documentation in advance of PCAOB inspections.

12. Further, Raines & Fischer's system of quality control did not provide it with reasonable assurance that EQRs performed by Firm personnel would comply with PCAOB standards or that the Firm would accept only those engagements it could reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence.

[7] All references to PCAOB rules and standards in this Order are to the versions of those rules and standards, and to their organization and numbering, in effect at the time of the conduct discussed herein.

13. Moreover, the Firm repeatedly failed to timely file its annual reports on Form 2, Annual Report, with the PCAOB.

D. Raines & Fischer Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

14. PCAOB rules require that, in connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[8] As detailed below, Raines & Fischer violated multiple PCAOB rules and standards.

i. Raines & Fischer Violated PCAOB Audit Documentation Standards and Failed to Cooperate with the PCAOB's 2020 and 2022 Inspections

15. The PCAOB's audit documentation standard states, in part: "A complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date). . . . Audit documentation must not be deleted or discarded after the documentation completion date, however, information may be added. Any documentation added must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[9]

16. PCAOB standards require that audit documentation "contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement," to understand, among other things, the timing of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached, and to determine not just who performed and reviewed the work but also "the date such work was completed" and "the date of such review."[10] PCAOB standards also require the auditor to identify all significant findings or issues in an engagement completion document.[11]

17. PCAOB Rule 4006 requires registered public accounting firms and their associated persons to "cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[12] Implicit in that cooperation obligation is a requirement not to provide misleading

documents or information in connection with, or otherwise to interfere with, the Board's inspection processes.[13]

18. Raines & Fischer failed to timely assemble complete and final sets of audit documentation by the applicable documentation completion dates for seven engagements: the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, as well as each of the Drexel Engagements and Hold Brothers Engagements. Raines & Fischer personnel prepared and assembled the work papers for those engagements in electronic form as part of an audit software database. Though the software database had a feature that, when activated, made an audit file "read-only"—allowing it to be opened and viewed, but not modified—Raines & Fischer personnel did not routinely use that software feature, and did not activate that feature for the work papers assembled for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, the Drexel Engagements, and the Hold Brothers Engagements.

19. For four of the seven engagements—the 2020 Drexel Engagement, the 2022 Drexel Engagement, the 2020 Hold Brothers Engagement, and the 2022 Hold Brothers Engagement—the assembled work paper files lack signoffs on certain work papers indicating who prepared the documentation and when, as well as who reviewed the documentation and when. In addition, the Raines & Fischer engagement teams failed to include multiple work papers necessary to evidence the Firm's compliance with auditing and attestation standards in the Firm's assembled set of audit documentation with respect to each of the four engagements. For example, each of the assembled sets of audit documentation failed to contain work papers relating to the Firm's planning of the engagements, including risk assessment procedures, or an engagement completion document.[14]

20. For the other three engagements—the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, the 2021 Drexel Engagement, and the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement—Firm personnel continued to prepare and modify audit documentation for those engagements after the relevant documentation completion dates and in anticipation of PCAOB inspections.

21. On August 10, 2020, DRI informed Raines & Fischer that the 2019 Third Seven Engagement had been selected for review during DRI's impending inspection, for which fieldwork was expected to start on October 26, 2020. After learning that DRI would be reviewing the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, Sarrel and other Firm personnel improperly created or modified multiple work papers for that engagement and added the newly created and modified work papers to the audit software. When doing so, they changed the clocks on their computers to the time of the 2019 Third Seven Engagement to make it appear that the work papers they were creating had been prepared prior to the audit report date in February 2020. They also backdated signoffs and applied other individuals' signoffs, both within certain work papers themselves as well as in the signoff fields in the Firm's audit documentation software, to make it appear that the work papers had been prepared and reviewed at the time of the 2019 Third Seven Engagement.

22. Notwithstanding those modifications to the work papers after the documentation completion date, the Firm failed to properly document who added the information to the work papers, as well as when and why the information was added.

23. Ultimately, Firm personnel created or modified approximately 40 work papers after the documentation completion date that were included in the set of work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement that the Firm provided to DRI, along with a work paper index printed from the Firm's audit software that contained backdated signoffs. At the time of the 2020 inspection, Sarrel, Fischer, and Uhlman, along with other professionals at the firm, were aware that work papers had been improperly created or modified, but Firm staff who participated in meetings with DRI—including Sarrel and Uhlman—failed to inform DRI of the improper alterations during meetings at which the 2019 Third Seven Engagement was discussed.

24. Similar conduct occurred prior to fieldwork for DRI's 2022 inspection of Raines & Fischer after DRI informed the Firm, on September 13, 2022, that the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement had been selected for review, including Uhlman contacting Drexel and Hold Brothers to obtain information which was used to perform additional audit procedures prior to the inspection fieldwork.

25. Uhlman, the engagement partner for both engagements, and those working at his direction improperly created or modified over 100 total work papers for the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement—including to document the additional procedures they performed after learning of DRI's impending inspection—and added the newly created or modified work papers to the corresponding audit file. When doing so, they backdated signoffs and applied other individuals' signoffs, both within certain work papers themselves as well as in the signoff fields in the Firm's audit documentation software, to make it appear that the work papers had been prepared and reviewed at the time of each engagement.

26. Notwithstanding those modifications to the work papers after the applicable documentation completion dates, the Firm failed to properly document who added the information to the work papers, as well as when and why the information was added.

27. The newly created and modified workpapers were included in the sets of work papers for the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement that the Firm provided to DRI, along with a work paper index printed from the Firm's audit software for each engagement that contained backdated signoffs. At the time of the 2022 inspection, Uhlman and Fischer were aware that work papers were improperly created or modified—and Uhlman participated in meetings with DRI about the two engagements—but they failed to notify DRI of the improper alterations.

28. Accordingly, the Firm violated AS 1215 and PCAOB Rule 4006.

ii. Raines & Fischer Violated PCAOB Rules by Failing to Timely File Annual Reports on Form 2

29. PCAOB Rule 2200 requires that registered public accounting firms file annual reports with the PCAOB on Form 2.[15] PCAOB Rule 2201 provides that "[e]ach registered public accounting firm must file the annual report on Form 2 no later than June 30 of each year."[16]

30. Raines & Fischer filed its annual reports for each year from 2020 through 2023 after the applicable deadline. Specifically, the Firm's annual reports were filed on November 23, 2020, November 23, 2021, December 19, 2022, and November 13, 2023.

31. Accordingly, the Firm repeatedly violated PCAOB Rule 2201.

iii. Raines & Fischer Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

32. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards, which mandate that a firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice" and describe "elements of quality control and other matters essential to the effective design, implementation, and maintenance of the system."[17] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[18]

33. PCAOB quality control standards require that a registered public accounting firm establish quality control policies and procedures for deciding whether to accept or continue a client relationship and whether to perform a specific engagement for that client.[19] Such policies and procedures should provide reasonable assurance that the firm undertakes only those engagements that the firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence, and appropriately considers the risks associated with providing professional services in the particular circumstances.[20] In addition, policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that work is assigned to personnel having the degree of proficiency required under the circumstances.[21]

34. In addition, as part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[22]

35. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[23] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[24] Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[25]

36. Raines & Ficher's quality control policies and procedures were not suitably designed or effectively applied to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would comply with applicable standards concerning the timely assembly of a complete and final set of audit documentation by the applicable documentation completion date. The Firm also lacked sufficient policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that personnel would perform all professional responsibilities with integrity and specifically that they would refrain from improperly altering audit documentation and providing the improperly altered documentation to PCAOB inspectors. As discussed above, the Firm failed to timely assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation for seven engagements over the course of four years; Firm personnel repeatedly created and modified work papers after the documentation completion date, and in advance of PCAOB inspections; and Firm personnel repeatedly provided those improperly altered documents to PCAOB inspectors.

37. Raines & Fischer's quality control policies and procedures with respect to EQRs were also deficient and failed to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel would conduct EQRs in compliance with PCAOB standards.

a. None of the work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, the Drexel Engagements, or the Hold Brothers Engagements reflect signoffs by Fischer, the EQR partner for each of those engagements, with the exception of certain work papers that were improperly prepared and backdated in advance of the 2020 and 2022 PCAOB inspections. Thus, the work papers for those engagements lack sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagements, to understand what, if any, procedures were performed by the EQR partner, the documents reviewed by the EQR partner, and the date the EQR partner provided concurring approval of issuance.[26]

b. Moreover, among the work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement, the 2021 Drexel Engagement, and the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement that were created after the applicable documentation completion dates and in advance of PCAOB inspections were those relating to planning, risk assessment, and engagement completion. Fischer, therefore, could not have (1) reviewed that documentation at the time of the relevant engagements to evaluate the engagement team's assessment of and audit response to significant risks and whether the documentation supported the engagement team's related conclusions; or (2) reviewed the engagement completion document—steps that are required of an EQR partner under PCAOB standards.[27]

[26] See AS 1220.19-.20, Engagement Quality Review.

[27] See id. at .09-.11, .18A.

c. Finally, in connection with the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement, Fischer failed to identify that the Possession or Control Schedule ("Schedule") included as supplemental information accompanying Hold Brothers' financial statements was not in compliance with Rule 17a-5(d)(2)(ii) of the Exchange Act.[28] Specifically, the Schedule omitted the market valuation and the number of items of customers' fully paid and excess margin securities not in Hold Brother's possession or control as of the report date, but for which the required action was not taken by Hold Brothers within specified time frames.[29] The Schedule also omitted the market valuation and number of items of customers' fully paid and excess margin securities for which instructions to reduce possession or control had not been issued as of the report date.[30]

38. Raines & Fischer also lacked policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that it would only accept those engagements that it could reasonably expect to complete with professional competence or to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel in charge of engagements possessed the requisite competencies. Hold Brothers was the Firm's only carrying broker-dealer client. While Uhlman and Fischer, the engagement partner and EQR partner for the Hold Brothers Engagements, had prior experience auditing non-carrying broker-dealers, neither had prior experience auditing carrying broker-dealers or sufficient training to enable them to complete such an engagement in compliance with relevant standards. As a result, during the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement, the engagement team failed to sufficiently plan and perform the Firm's examination to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence about assertions made by Hold Brothers in its compliance report.[31] The assignment of Uhlman and Fischer to the Hold Brothers audit illustrates that the quality control policies and procedures were not adequate to provide reasonable assurance that work was assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances.[32]

39. Raines & Fischer's system of quality control failed to provide it with reasonable assurance that the Firm would comply with the PCAOB's annual reporting requirements on a timely basis.[33]

40. Moreover, the Firm lacked policies and procedures for monitoring its quality control system and its compliance with PCAOB rules and standards, including audit documentation standards and PCAOB reporting requirements. The Firm's monitoring policies and procedures did not provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity.

41. Accordingly, Raines & Fischer violated QC §§ 20, 30, and 40.

IV.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Raines & Fischer is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), Raines & Fischer's registration is revoked.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $200,000 is imposed upon Raines & Fischer.

   1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

   2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff, or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. By consenting to this Order, Raines & Fischer acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny a request for leave pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(c) to file an application for registration or to deny an application for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Brian Uhlman, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-050

December 3, 2024

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Brian Uhlman, CPA ("Uhlman" or "Respondent");

(2) barring Uhlman from being associated with a registered public accounting firm;[1]

(3) imposing a $125,000 civil money penalty on Uhlman; and

(4) requiring Uhlman to complete an additional 40 hours of continuing professional education ("CPE") before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Uhlman: (a) violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the audit and examination of a broker-dealer; (b) violated PCAOB audit and attestation documentation standards in connection with six broker-dealer engagements; and (c) failed to cooperate with the PCAOB's 2020 and 2022 inspections of Raines & Fischer LLP ("Raines & Fischer" or the "Firm"), including by directing the improper alteration of work papers for two broker-dealer engagements selected for review during the 2022 inspection.

[1] Uhlman may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after five years from the date of this Order.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Brian Uhlman is, and at all relevant times was, a partner at Raines & Fischer and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 080064). At all relevant times, Uhlman was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Uhlman served as the engagement partner for the following engagements:

- Raines & Fischer's audits of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and reviews of the exemption reports, for Drexel Hamilton, LLC ("Drexel") for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020 ("2020 Drexel Engagement"), December 31, 2021 ("2021 Drexel Engagement"), and

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5)(A), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of "intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard."

December 31, 2022 ("2022 Drexel Engagement") (collectively, the "Drexel Engagements"); and

- Raines & Fischer's audits of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and examinations of the compliance reports, for Hold Brothers Capital, LLC ("Hold Brothers") for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020 ("2020 Hold Brothers Engagement"), December 31, 2021 ("2021 Hold Brothers Engagement"), and December 31, 2022 ("2022 Hold Brothers Engagement") (collectively, the "Hold Brothers Engagements").

B. Relevant Entities and Individuals

2. Raines & Fischer LLP is a public accounting firm located in New York, New York, and licensed to practice public accounting under the laws of New York (license no. 024631). At all relevant times, the Firm was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.[4]

3. Drexel Hamilton, LLC is a Pennsylvania limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Drexel was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii).

4. Hold Brothers Capital, LLC is a New Jersey limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the Commission as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Hold Brothers was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act, respectively, and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii), respectively. At all relevant times, Hold Brothers was a "carrying" broker-dealer (i.e., a broker-dealer that maintains custody of customer funds or securities).

5. Third Seven Capital, LLC ("Third Seven") is a Delaware limited liability company headquartered in New York, New York, and registered with the Commission as a broker-dealer in securities. At all relevant times, Third Seven was a "broker" and "dealer," as those terms are defined in Sections 110(3) and (4) of the Act, respectively, and PCAOB Rules 1001(b)(iii) and (d)(iii), respectively.

6. Steven Sarrel ("Sarrel") is, and at all relevant times was, a partner at Raines & Fischer and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 110521). Sarrel served as the engagement partner for Raines & Fischer's audit of the financial statements and accompanying supplemental information, and review of the exemption report, for Third Seven for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2019 ("2019 Third Seven Engagement").[5]

C. Summary

7. This matter concerns Uhlman's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in connection with six broker-dealer engagements and to cooperate with two Board inspections.[6]

8. Specifically, in the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement, Uhlman violated PCAOB rules and Attestation Standard No. 1 ("AT No. 1"), Examination Engagements Regarding Compliance Reports of Brokers and Dealers, when performing the examination of the statements made by Hold Brothers in its compliance report filed with the Commission pursuant to Rule 17a-5 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Rule 17a-5").[7] In particular, Uhlman failed to identify and test Hold Brothers' key internal controls over compliance with Commission rules for safeguarding certain customer assets held by Hold Brothers.

9. Uhlman also violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement by failing, in the audit of Hold Brothers' financial statements and accompanying supporting schedules, to perform sufficient procedures to test supplemental information included by Hold Brothers.

10. Uhlman also failed to timely assemble complete and final sets of audit documentation for each of the Drexel Engagements and Hold Brothers Engagements.

11. Additionally, after Uhlman learned—approximately five months after the documentation completion dates[8] for the 2021 Drexel Engagement and the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement—that the PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections ("DRI") would be reviewing both of those engagements as part of an inspection of Raines & Fischer, Uhlman, and Firm personnel acting under his direction, improperly created and modified numerous work papers for those engagements. Uhlman then caused the improperly altered documentation for those engagements to be provided to DRI staff without disclosing to them that any work papers had been created or altered in advance of the 2022 inspection.

12. Moreover, Uhlman was aware that Firm personnel improperly created and modified work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement after the applicable documentation completion date and in advance of DRI's 2020 inspection of the Firm. As the Firm's primary contact with DRI, Uhlman attended meetings with DRI staff at which the 2019 Third Seven Engagement was discussed. Uhlman participated in discussions about the 2019 Third Seven Engagement without informing DRI staff that the discussions were based on documentation that had been improperly altered in advance of the 2020 inspection.

13. Accordingly, and as described below, Uhlman violated AT No. 1; AS 2701, Auditing Supplemental Information Accompanying Audited Financial Statements; AS 1215; PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate With Inspectors; and ET § 102, Integrity and Objectivity.

D. Uhlman Violated PCAOB Attestation and Auditing Standards in the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement

i. Certain Commission Reporting Requirements for Carrying Broker-Dealers

14. Under the Commission's "financial responsibility rules,"[9] Hold Brothers had to satisfy certain requirements relating to net capital and the protection of customer assets.[10] Additionally, Rule 17a-5 required Hold Brothers to file with the Commission an annual report containing: (a) a financial report that included financial statements and supporting schedules (i.e., supplemental information),[11] (b) a compliance report concerning, among other things, the effectiveness of Hold Brothers' internal control over compliance[12] ("ICOC") with the financial

[9] The term "financial responsibility rules" includes Commission Rules 15c3-1, 17 C.F.R. § 240.15c3-1 ("Net Capital Rule"), 15c3-3, 17 C.F.R. § 240.15c3-3 ("Rule 15c3-3"), and 17a-13, 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-13, under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), and any rule of a broker's or dealer's designated examining authority that requires account statements to be sent to the customers of the broker or dealer. The financial responsibility rules are the same as the rules cited in Rule 17a-5(d)(3)(ii).

[10] Although some broker-dealers qualify for exemption from Rule 15c3-3, Hold Brothers did not because it was a carrying broker-dealer. See Rule 15c3-3(k).

[11] See Rule 17a-5(d)(1)(i)(A), (d)(2). The supporting schedules required to be included in Hold Brothers' financial report included a Computation of Net Capital, a Computation for Determination of the Reserve Requirements, and Information Relating to the Possession or Control Requirements for Customers. The financial report, including the required supporting schedules, were required to be in a format consistent with the statements contained in Commission Form X-17A-5.

[12] Rule 17a-5(d)(3)(ii) provides: "The term Internal Control Over Compliance means internal controls that have the objective of providing the broker or dealer with reasonable assurance that non-compliance with § 240.15c3-1, § 240.15c3-3, § 240.17a-13, or any rule of the designated examining responsibility rules;[13] (c) a report prepared by an independent public accountant based on an examination of the financial report;[14] and (d) a report prepared by an independent public accountant based on an examination of the statements made by Hold Brothers in the compliance report.[15] Rule 17a-5 also required that the audit of the financial report and the examination of the compliance report be performed in accordance with PCAOB standards.[16]

15. In the compliance report, Hold Brothers was required to make certain statements about its compliance with the financial responsibility rules, including that: (a) its ICOC was effective during the most recent fiscal year; (b) its ICOC was effective as of the end of the most recent fiscal year; and (c) it was in compliance with the Net Capital Rule and Commission Rule 15c3-3(e) ("Reserve Requirements Rule")[17] as of the end of the most recent fiscal year.[18]

ii. Relevant PCAOB Rules and Standards

16. PCAOB rules require that, in connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report (including an examination report), registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with the PCAOB's auditing and related professional practice standards, including attestation standards adopted by the Board.[19]

17. AT No. 1 provides that, in performing an examination of the assertions made by a broker or dealer in a compliance report, the auditor's objective is to express an opinion regarding whether those assertions are fairly stated, in all material respects.[20] AT No. 1 also provides that, to express such an opinion, the auditor must plan and perform the examination engagement to obtain appropriate evidence sufficient to obtain reasonable assurance about whether: (a) one or more material weaknesses existed during the most recent fiscal year authority of the broker or dealer that requires account statements to be sent to the customers of the broker or dealer (an 'Account Statement Rule') will be prevented or detected on a timely basis."

specified in the broker's or dealer's assertion;[21] (b) one or more material weaknesses existed as of the end of the most recent fiscal year specified in the broker's or dealer's assertion; and (c) one or more instances of non-compliance with the Net Capital Rule or the Reserve Requirements Rule existed as of the end of the most recent fiscal year specified in the broker's or dealer's assertion.[22]

18. AT No. 1 also provides that the auditor must exercise due professional care, which includes application of professional skepticism, in planning and performing the examination and preparation of the report, and that the engagement partner is responsible for proper planning and supervision of work for the engagement.[23]

19. PCAOB standards require that, when the auditor is engaged to perform audit procedures and report on supplemental information accompanying audited financial statements, the auditor should perform audit procedures to obtain appropriate audit evidence that is sufficient to support the auditor's opinion regarding whether the supplemental information is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the financial statements as a whole.[24] In doing so, the auditor should, among other things, obtain an understanding of the criteria that management used to prepare the supplemental information, including relevant regulatory requirements.[25] The auditor should also perform procedures to test the completeness and accuracy of the information presented in the supplemental information to the extent it was not tested as part of the audit of financial statements, and should evaluate whether the supplemental information complies with relevant regulatory requirements or other applicable criteria, if any.[26] The Board's standard on auditing supplement information also specifies that an auditor should obtain certain written representations from management.[27]

iii. Uhlman Failed to Sufficiently Test Assertions in the Compliance Report and Supplemental Information Accompanying the Financial Statements

20. For fiscal year 2021, Hold Brothers filed a compliance report, dated March 1, 2022, pursuant to Rule 17a-5 (the "Compliance Report"). Following the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement, Uhlman authorized the Firm's issuance of an examination report on Hold Brothers' Compliance Report, stating that the Firm examined the statements in the Compliance Report and that, in the Firm's opinion, those statements were fairly stated, in all material respects.

21. However, Uhlman failed to plan and perform adequate procedures to obtain appropriate evidence sufficient to provide reasonable assurance about whether material weaknesses existed in Hold Brothers' ICOC during, and as of the end of, the fiscal year.[28] In particular, Uhlman failed to perform any procedures to (a) obtain an understanding of Hold Brothers' ICOC or (b) test controls that were important to the Firm's conclusion about whether Hold Brothers maintained effective ICOC, including by obtaining evidence that those controls were designed and operating effectively.[29]

22. During the Firm's examination of the Compliance Report, Uhlman also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to identify potential instances of non-compliance with the Net Capital Rule and Reserve Requirements Rule as of the end of the fiscal year.[30] Although he performed procedures to test the existence of cash segregated for the exclusive benefit of Hold Brothers' customers and obtained certain representations from management, Uhlman nevertheless performed insufficient procedures to support the conclusion that Hold Brothers was in compliance with the Net Capital Rule and Reserve Requirements Rule as of the end of the fiscal year.[31]

23. Further, as part of the Firm's audit of Hold Brothers' 2021 financial statements, Uhlman failed to sufficiently test any of the three schedules included as supplemental information accompanying the financial statements—the Computation of Net Capital under the Net Capital Rule ("Net Capital Computation"), the Computation for Determination of Reserve Requirements under the Reserve Requirements Rule ("Customer Reserve Schedule"), and Information for Possession or Control Requirements ("Possession or Control Schedule").[32]

24. Despite obtaining certain representations from management and testing the existence of cash segregated for the exclusive benefit of its customers included in its Customer Reserve Schedule, the engagement team performed insufficient procedures to test the supplemental information. For example, Uhlman failed to obtain an understanding of the criteria management used to prepare it, including relevant regulatory requirements. Uhlman also failed to determine whether the supplemental information reconciled to the applicable underlying accounting and other records or to the financial statements.[33]

25. As a result, Uhlman failed to identify that Hold Brothers omitted certain information required by the Exchange Act from its Possession or Control Schedule. Specifically, Uhlman failed to identify that Hold Bothers omitted (a) the market valuation and the number of items of customers' fully paid and excess margin securities not in Hold Brothers' possession or control as of the report date, but for which the required action was not taken by Hold Brothers within the time frames specified under Rule 15c3-3; and (b) the market valuation and the number of items of customers fully paid and excess margin securities for which instructions to reduce possession or control had not been issued as of the report date.[34]

26. With respect to the audit of Hold Brothers' supplemental information, Uhlman also failed to obtain certain required written representations from management.[35] Specifically, the management representation letter obtained from Hold Brothers included certain representations relating to the Net Capital Computation. However, the representation letter failed to include required representations relating to the Customer Reserve Schedule or Possession or Control Schedule.

27. Accordingly, Uhlman violated AT No. 1 and AS 2701 in connection with the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement.

E. Uhlman Violated PCAOB Auditing and Ethics Standards and Failed to Cooperate with Two PCAOB Inspections

i. Relevant PCAOB Rules and Standards

28. PCAOB rules require that, in connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with both auditing and ethics standards adopted by the Board.[36]

29. The PCAOB's audit documentation standard states, in part: "A complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date). . . . Audit documentation must not be deleted or discarded after the documentation completion date, however, information may be added. Any documentation added must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[37]

30. PCAOB standards require that audit documentation "contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement," to understand, among other things, the timing of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached, and to determine not just who performed and reviewed the work but also "the date such work was completed" and "the date of such review."[38] PCAOB standards also require the auditor to identify all significant findings or issues in an engagement completion document.[39]

31. PCAOB Rule 4006 requires registered public accounting firms and their associated persons to "cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection." Implicit in that cooperation obligation is a requirement not to provide misleading documents or information in connection with, or otherwise to interfere with, the Board's inspection processes.[40] An auditor provides misleading information if he or she participates in discussions with inspectors about documentation that the auditor knows has been improperly altered and does not disclose the alterations.[41]

32. PCAOB ethics standards provide, in part, that an associated person "shall maintain objectivity and integrity" and "shall not knowingly misrepresent facts" in the performance of professional services.[42] An associated person knowingly misrepresents facts in violation of ET § 102 when, for example, he or she knowingly: (a) makes, or permits or directs another to make, materially false and misleading entries in an entity's records; or (b) signs, or permits or directs another to sign, a document containing materially false and misleading information.[43]

ii. Uhlman Violated PCAOB Audit Documentation and Ethics Standards and Failed to Cooperate with the Board's 2020 and 2022 Inspections

33. Raines & Fischer personnel prepared and assembled the work papers for the Drexel Engagements and Hold Brothers Engagements in electronic form as part of an audit software database. Though the software database had a feature that, when activated, made an audit file "read-only"—allowing it to be opened and viewed, but not modified—Uhlman and other Raines & Fischer personnel did not routinely use that software feature, and did not activate that feature for the work papers assembled for the Drexel Engagements and Hold Brothers Engagements.

34. Uhlman failed to timely assemble complete and final sets of audit documentation for four engagements—the 2020 Drexel Engagement, the 2022 Drexel Engagement, the 2020 Hold Brothers Engagement, and the 2022 Hold Brothers Engagement. Certain assembled work papers for those engagements lack signoffs indicating who prepared the documentation and when, as well as who reviewed the documentation and when. In addition, Uhlman and the engagement teams failed to include multiple work papers necessary to evidence the Firm's compliance with auditing and attestation standards in the Firm's assembled set of audit documentation with respect to each of the four engagements. For example, each of the assembled sets of audit documentation failed to contain work papers relating to the Firm's planning of the engagements, including risk assessment procedures, or an engagement completion document.[44]

35. Furthermore, Uhlman failed to cooperate with, and violated PCAOB ethics standards in connection with, two separate PCAOB inspections. As the engagement partner for the 2021 Drexel Engagement, Uhlman authorized the issuance of Raines & Fischer's audit and review reports dated March 1, 2022. Additionally, as the engagement partner for the Firm's 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement, Uhlman authorized the issuance of Raines & Fischer's audit and examination reports, which were also dated March 1, 2022. Therefore, the documentation completion date for both of those engagements was no later than April 15, 2022 (45 days after the release date of the Firm's reports). However, Uhlman failed to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation for both engagements by that date.

36. On September 13, 2022, DRI informed the Firm that the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement had been selected for review during DRI's impending inspection, for which fieldwork was expected to start on November 14, 2022. After learning that DRI would be reviewing the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement, Uhlman contacted Drexel and Hold Brothers to obtain information that he and those working at his direction used to perform additional audit procedures.

37. Uhlman, and junior Firm staff, improperly created or modified over 100 work papers for the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement—including to document the additional procedures they performed after learning of DRI's impending inspection—and added the newly created or modified work papers to the corresponding audit file. When doing so, they backdated signoffs and applied other individuals' signoffs, both within certain work papers themselves as well as in the signoff fields in the Firm's audit documentation software, to make it appear that the work papers had been prepared and reviewed at the time of each engagement.

38. Notwithstanding those modifications to the work papers after the applicable documentation completion dates, Uhlman failed to properly document who added the information to the work papers, as well as when and why the information was added.

39. As Uhlman knew, the newly created and modified work papers were included in the sets of work papers for the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement that Raines & Fischer provided to DRI. As Uhlman further knew, Raines & Fischer also provided to DRI a work paper index printed from the Firm's audit software for each engagement that contained backdated signoffs.

40. Uhlman was the Firm's primary contact with DRI for the 2022 inspection and participated in multiple meetings with DRI staff, including meetings about the 2021 Drexel Engagement and the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement. However, he failed to disclose to inspectors that numerous work papers for the 2021 Drexel Engagement and 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement had been created or modified after the documentation completion dates.

41. During the 2022 inspection, DRI staff noted that three audit programs in the 2021 Hold Brothers work papers provided to them by Uhlman contained tracked changes indicating that the audit programs had been prepared or modified after the documentation completion date. When asked about these audit programs, Uhlman denied being aware of any modifications, even though some of the tracked changes reflected revisions Uhlman had made just days prior to providing the work papers to the inspectors. In a subsequent conversation, Uhlman continued to mislead inspectors by indicating that the edits were made by Firm staff in preparation for the following year's audit. Uhlman then provided inspectors with PDF versions of the audit programs that he claimed were from the archived work papers finalized at the time of the 2021 Hold Brothers Engagement. However, they too contained the improper modifications reflected in the Word versions that were made shortly before the inspection.

42. Similarly, during an earlier 2020 PCAOB inspection of Raines & Fischer, Uhlman knew that Sarrel, and Firm personnel acting under Sarrel's direction, improperly created and modified work papers relating to the 2019 Third Seven Engagement and that the improperly altered documentation was provided to DRI. Uhlman served as Raines & Fischer's primary contact with DRI for the 2020 inspection, and attended at least two meetings with Sarrel and DRI staff during which there were discussions based upon the altered documentation. But Uhlman failed to disclose to DRI during those meetings—or at any other time—that work papers for the 2019 Third Seven Engagement had been created and modified in advance of the 2020 inspection.

43. Accordingly, Uhlman repeatedly violated AS 1215, PCAOB Rule 4006, and ET § 102.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Brian Uhlman is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Brian Uhlman is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[45]

[45] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(7)(B), will apply with respect to Uhlman. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Uhlman may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after the expiration of five years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB 5300(a)(6), Uhlman is required to complete, before petitioning to reassociate with the Board, forty hours of CPE, including on topics related to PCAOB standards concerning audit documentation and audits, examinations, and reviews of broker-dealers (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, any CPE Uhlman is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $125,000 is imposed upon Brian Uhlman.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff, or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Brian Uhlman as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

5. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of SS Accounting and Auditing Inc. and Saima Sayani, CPA,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-002

January 14, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring SS Accounting and Auditing Inc. ("SS Accounting" or the "Firm"), a registered public accounting firm, and Saima Sayani, CPA ("Sayani") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) barring Sayani from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1]

(3) revoking the Firm's registration;[2]

(4) imposing a civil monetary penalty in the amount of $65,000 upon the Firm and Sayani, jointly and severally;

(5) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial measures concerning quality control, and to provide evidence of such measures with, any future registration application; and

(6) requiring that Sayani complete 50 hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license,

1 Sayani may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

2 The Firm may reapply for registration after two years from the date of this Order.

before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Sayani and the Firm violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the Firm's audits of the financial statements of China Green Agriculture, Inc. ("China Green") for the fiscal years ended June 30, 2021 ("2021 China Green Audit") and June 30, 2022 ("2022 China Green Audit") (collectively, the "China Green Audits"), that the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards, and that Sayani directly and substantially contributed to those quality control violations.[3]

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted Offers of Settlement ("Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[4]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[5]

[3] All references to PCAOB rules and standards in this Order are to the versions of those rules and standards, and to their organization and numbering, in effect at the time of the conduct discussed herein.

[4] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[5] The Board finds that Respondents' conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in

A. Respondents

1. SS Accounting and Auditing Inc. is headquartered in Plano, Texas. SS Accounting is licensed to practice public accounting by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy (license no. C10697). SS Accounting is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board, and is a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

2. Saima Sayani was, at all relevant times, a partner of the Firm and a certified public accountant under the laws of Texas (license no. 103440). Sayani served as the engagement partner for the China Green Audits. At all relevant times, Sayani was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Issuer

3. China Green Agriculture, Inc. is headquartered in the People's Republic of China. Its public filings disclose that it is engaged in the production and sale of various types of fertilizers and agricultural products through wholly-owned Chinese subsidiaries and variable interest entities, including Jinong Shaanxi TechTeam Jinong Humic Acid Product Co., Ltd. ("Jinong"); Beijing Gufeng Chemical Products Co., Ltd. ("Gufeng"); and Xi'an Hu County Yuxing Agriculture Technology Development Co., Ltd. ("Yuxing"). China Green is, and at all relevant times was, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

4. As detailed below, Respondents violated multiple PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the China Green Audits. On one or both of the China Green Audits, Respondents failed to: (a) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence for revenue and inventory; (b) perform sufficient procedures to test journal entries in response to the risk of fraud; (c) communicate all required matters to China Green's audit committee; (d) determine all critical audit matters ("CAMs"); and (e) identify significant findings and issues in an engagement completion document.

violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

5. Further, during 2021 and 2022, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards, and Sayani directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's quality control violations.

D. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

6. In connection with the preparation and issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that registered public accounting firms and their associated persons comply with all applicable auditing and related professional standards.[6] An auditor is in a position to express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements when the auditor conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[7] An auditor must determine whether there are any critical audit matters in the audit of the financial statements.[8]

7. PCAOB standards require that an auditor exercise due professional care in planning and performing an audit.[9] Due professional care requires that the auditor exercise professional skepticism, which is an attitude that includes a questioning mind and a critical assessment of audit evidence.[10]

8. Auditors are required to plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the opinion.[11] In addition, an auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether caused by fraud or error.[12] An auditor is also required to prepare audit documentation pursuant to PCAOB standards, including identifying all significant findings or issues in an engagement completion document.[13]

9. PCAOB standards also require auditors to design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[14] In conducting sampling in substantive tests of details, an auditor should determine that the population from which a sample is drawn is appropriate for the specific audit objective and select sample items in such a way that the sample can be expected to be representative of the population.[15] Moreover, when auditing inventories, if the auditor has not satisfied himself or herself as to inventories in the possession of the client, the auditor needs to make or observe some physical counts of the inventory and apply appropriate tests of intervening transactions.[16]

10. In determining the nature, timing, and extent of the testing of journal entries and other adjustments, for purposes of identifying and selecting specific entries and other adjustments for testing, and determining the appropriate method of examining the underlying support for the items selected, an auditor should consider, among other factors, the auditor's assessment of the fraud risk.[17] In addressing fraud risk related to management override of controls, PCAOB standards require the auditor to design procedures to test the appropriateness of journal entries recorded in the general ledger and other adjustments made in the preparation of the financial statements.[18]

11. PCAOB standards also require the auditor to communicate with the company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit, including significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment procedures; the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms or other persons, who are not employed by the auditor, that perform audit procedures in the current period audit; critical accounting policies and practices; critical accounting estimates; and, when applicable, certain matters relating to the auditor's evaluation of the company's ability to continue as a going concern.[19]

E. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards on the China Green Audits

12. SS Accounting issued audit reports containing unqualified opinions on China Green's 2021 and 2022 financial statements on October 13, 2021, and November 10, 2022, respectively. The reports were included with China Green's Forms 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"). As described below, Respondents failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards in performing the China Green Audits.

i. Respondents Failed to Sufficiently Test Revenue on the China Green Audits

13. Jinong, one of China Green's subsidiaries and larger business segments, recorded revenue for fiscal years ending June 30, 2021, and June 30, 2022, of approximately $59.4 million and $54 million, or 26% and 32% of China Green's total revenue, respectively. On both China Green Audits, Respondents identified revenue recognition as a fraud risk for Jinong.

14. In performing substantive testing of revenue on the China Green Audits, Respondents limited the population from which it selected sales transactions. For the 2021 China Green Audit, Respondents selected the top 35 customer sales transactions for testing, which totaled approximately $6.5 million or 11% of Jinong's total revenue. For the 2022 China Green Audit, Respondents selected sales transactions for testing by selecting the top 121 customers with the largest outstanding accounts receivable balances as of year-end, which totaled approximately $8.6 million or 16% of Jinong's total sales. Respondents did not perform any other test of details on Jinong's revenue during the China Green Audits.

15. Because Respondents' selection of transactions was based on a specific characteristic (i.e., largest customers or largest accounts receivable balances), and not all items in Jinong's revenue population had an opportunity to be selected, the selection did not constitute audit sampling.[20] Therefore, the results of Respondents' testing could not be projected to the entire population.[21]

16. As a result, more than 80% of Jinong's revenue for both the 2021 China Green and the 2022 China Green Audit, or 23% and 27% of China Green's total consolidated sales for those years, respectively, was not subject to testing.

20 See AS 1105.27.

21 See id.

17. For these reasons, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning revenue on the China Green Audits.[22]

ii. Respondents Failed to Perform Sufficient Procedures to Test China Green's Inventory on the 2022 China Green Audit

18. For the fiscal year 2022, China Green reported total inventory of $42.2 million, or 22% of China Green's total assets. The majority of China Green's inventory, or 98%, was located at two of its subsidiaries – Gufeng and Yuxing – which reported total inventory of $22 million and $19 million, respectively. Jinong's inventory represented approximately 2% of China Green's total assets. Respondents identified China Green's inventory as a significant risk in the 2022 China Green Audit.

19. To test the existence of inventory, Respondents performed inventory observation procedures on July 31, 2022, and August 1, 2022 – one month after China Green's fiscal year-end June 30, 2022. As part of those procedures, Respondents agreed the quantity of items test counted by product during the physical inventory observation procedures to the quantity of items recorded in China Green's accounting records as of July 31, 2022, and August 1, 2022. The results of those procedures showed no discrepancies. To support the inventory reported on June 30, 2022, Respondents obtained a schedule of all purchases and sales during the intervening period – i.e., the date after the balance sheet date to the date of inventory observation (or July 1, 2022 to July 31, 2022 or August 1, 2022).

20. However, except for testing the intervening purchases after fiscal year-end for one subsidiary (Gufeng), Respondents failed to perform any procedures to test the intervening purchases and sales for China Green's other two subsidiaries that reported inventory.

21. Because Respondents failed to perform sufficient procedures to test intervening transactions between the date of the Firm's inventory observation and fiscal year-end, they failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence for the inventory China Green reported for the fiscal year-end June 30, 2022.[23]

iii. Respondents Failed to Perform Sufficient Procedures to Test Journal Entries in Response to the Risk of Fraud on the 2022 China Green Audit

22. Respondents identified management override of controls as a fraud risk in the 2022 China Green Audit. In response to that risk assessment, Respondents planned to perform an examination of journal entries.

23 See AS 2510.12; AS 1105.04.

23. However, Respondents' journal entry testing was limited to China Green's three operating subsidiaries – Jinong, Gufeng, and Yuxing. Respondents did not perform any journal entry testing on China Green's four discontinued subsidiaries despite the discontinued subsidiaries' materiality to China Green's financial statements – net loss from discontinued operations was $17.8 million and accounted for 18% of China Green's net loss.[24]

24. As a result, Respondents failed to perform sufficient procedures to respond to the risk of management override of controls on the 2022 China Green Audit.[25]

iv. Respondents Failed to Make Required Communications to the Audit Committee on the China Green Audits

25. In both the 2021 China Green Audit and the 2022 China Green Audit, Respondents sent letters to China Green's audit committee, on June 16, 2021, and June 20, 2022, respectively, communicating an overview of the audit strategy, including the timing of the audit. Respondents also sent letters to the audit committee communicating certain results of the 2021 China Green Audit and the 2022 China Green Audit on September 27, 2021 and November 3, 2022, respectively. In both China Green Audits, however, Respondents failed to make several required communications to the audit committee.

26. Specifically, on both the China Green Audits, while Respondents identified revenue recognition, inventory, and management override of controls as significant risks and fraud risks, Respondents failed to communicate those identified risks to the audit committee.[26]

27. Additionally, on both the China Green Audits, Respondents used a foreign accounting firm and external contractors to perform audit procedures. Respondents, however, failed to communicate the name, location, and planned responsibilities of these third parties to China Green's audit committee.[27]

28. Further, on both the China Green Audits, China Green disclosed in its Forms 10-K critical accounting policies and estimates related to the use of estimates, revenue recognition, cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable, assets held for sale, deferred assets, and segment reporting. However, in the letters sent to China Green's audit committee

[26] See AS 1301.09.

[27] See id. at .10d.

communicating the results of its audits, Respondents indicated that there were no critical accounting policies or critical accounting estimates.[28]

29. Finally, on both the China Green Audits, Respondents evaluated China Green's ability to continue as a going concern and concluded, based on conditions and events that Respondents identified, that there was substantial doubt about China Green's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time. Notwithstanding that conclusion, Respondents failed to communicate their conclusion, or the conditions and events on which the conclusion was based, to China Green's audit committee.[29]

30. As a result of these failures on both the China Green Audits to make required communications to China Green's audit committee, Respondents violated PCAOB standards.[30]

v. Respondents Failed to Make Critical Audit Matter Determinations as to Certain Matters Potentially Material to China Green's Financial Statements on the China Green Audits

31. PCAOB standards require an auditor to determine and communicate in the audit report whether there are any CAMs in the audit of a client's current period financial statements. A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[31]

32. For each CAM communicated in the auditor's report, the auditor must: (a) identify the CAM; (b) describe the principal considerations that led the auditor to determine that the matter is a CAM; (c) describe how the CAM was addressed in the audit; and (d) refer to the relevant financial statement accounts or disclosures that relate to the CAM.[32] If the auditor determines that there are no CAMs in an audit, the auditor must state in the audit report that no CAMs were identified.[33]

31 AS 3101.11.

32 Id. at .14.

33 Id. at .13.

33. During the China Green Audits, Respondents did not perform any procedures to determine whether certain potentially material accounts and disclosures that were required to be communicated to China Green's audit committee constituted a CAM.

34. For example, as explained above, China Green disclosed critical accounting policies and critical accounting estimates in its fiscal year 2021 and 2022 financial statements. Respondents were aware of those disclosures during the China Green Audits (despite informing China Green's audit committee that there were no critical accounting policies or critical accounting estimates). As another example, Respondents also identified and communicated to the audit committee a schedule of corrected misstatements.

35. Respondents, however, failed to determine during the China Green Audits whether those issuer-disclosed critical accounting policies and critical accounting estimates, as well as certain corrected misstatements – all of which were required to be communicated to the audit committee – were CAMs.[34]

vi. Respondents Failed to Identify Significant Findings or Issues in the Engagement Completion Audit Documentation for the China Green Audits

36. For each of the China Green Audits, Respondents included an engagement completion document in the work papers, but they noted "N/A" to every section in each of the engagement completion documents.

37. Given the significant issues Respondents encountered on the China Green Audits, those "N/A" designations were inappropriate. For example, in the engagement completion documents, Respondents failed to document the results of their auditing procedures in response to the significant risks they identified or provide cross-references to other supporting documentation.

38. Moreover, in the engagement completion documents, Respondents failed to identify responses to other significant findings or issues, including their audit responses to: (i) China Green's intangible assets subject to amortization, which Respondents identified as a CAM during both China Green Audits; (ii) non-monetary sales and purchases of transactions on which China Green recorded no gain or loss; and (iii) the discontinued operations of China Green's four variable interest entities during the year under audit.

39. For all of these reasons, Respondents failed to identify significant findings or issues in the engagement completion documents for the China Green Audits.[35]

F. The Firm Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards and Sayani Directly and Substantially Contributed to These Violations

40. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's quality control standards.[36] These standards require that a registered firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[37] A system of quality control is broadly defined as a process to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel comply with applicable professional standards and the firm's standards of quality.[38] A firm's system of quality control should include policies and procedures that provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[39] A firm's "policies and procedures should cover planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement."[40]

41. PCAOB quality control standards also require the establishment of monitoring policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures established by the firm for each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.[41] Monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of the (a) relevance and adequacy of the firm's policies and procedures; (b) appropriateness of the firm's guidance materials and any practice aids; (c) effectiveness of professional development activities; and (d) compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[42]

42. The Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards in several ways.

43. As illustrated by the Firm's various violations outlined above in connection with the China Green Audits, the Firm failed to establish and implement policies and procedures sufficient to provide it with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standard of quality.[43]

44. The Firm also failed to establish and implement any monitoring procedures, as required by PCAOB quality control standards. Indeed, since the Firm's registration with the Board in July 2020 and through the time period that Respondents were conducting the China Green Audits, the Firm failed to conduct any monitoring of its quality control system.[44]

45. PCAOB Rule 3502 prohibits an associated person of a registered public accounting firm from taking or omitting an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to the firm's violation of PCAOB rules or standards.[45] At the time of the China Green Audits, as the sole owner of the Firm, Sayani was responsible for ensuring the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards, and was responsible for developing and maintaining the Firm's system of quality control. Sayani, however, recklessly failed to fulfill those responsibilities, and thereby directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's quality control violations.[46]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondents' Offers.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Saima Sayani and SS Accounting are hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Saima Sayani is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[47]

47 As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(7)(B), will apply with respect to Sayani. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Saima Sayani may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and the PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of SS Accounting is hereby revoked.

E. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101, after two years from the date of this Order, the Firm may reapply for registration by filing an application for registration.

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $65,000 is imposed on Saima Sayani and SS Accounting, jointly and severally.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Saima Sayani and SS Accounting shall pay $65,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Saima Sayani and SS Accounting as respondents in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Saima Sayani and SS Accounting shall pay pursuant to this Order, Saima Sayani and SS Accounting shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Saima Sayani and SS Accounting's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Saima Sayani or SS Accounting based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. By consenting to this Order, SS Accounting acknowledges that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any reapplication for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

6. By consenting to this Order, Saima Sayani acknowledges that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Before filing with the Board any future registration application, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that: (a) Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards when conducting issuer audits and (b) the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements, and the Firm's standards of quality.

2. To provide with any future registration application a written certification, signed by the individual ultimately responsible for the Firm's system of quality control, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.G.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations or the staff of the Division of Registration and Inspections may reasonably request.

H. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Sayani is required to complete, prior to filing any petition to terminate her bar and for Board consent to reassociate with a registered public accounting firm, 50 hours of continuing professional education and training relating to PCAOB auditing standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the continuing professional education she is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Baker Tilly US, LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-001

January 14, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Baker Tilly US, LLP ("Baker Tilly," "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a $500,000 civil money penalty upon the Firm;

(3) requiring Baker Tilly to engage an independent consultant to review and make recommendations concerning Baker Tilly's system of quality control as specified in Section IV of this Order; and

(4) requiring Baker Tilly to conduct certain training for all issuer audit staff.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards from 2021 to 2022 by failing to ensure that its system of quality control provided reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and the Firm's standards of quality, despite audit and quality control concerns brought to the Firm's attention through PCAOB inspections.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Baker Tilly US, LLP is a public accounting firm headquartered in Chicago, Illinois. Baker Tilly is licensed to practice public accounting by the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation (License No. 066.004260), among other state licensing authorities. Baker Tilly is, and, at all relevant times, was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

B. Summary

2. This matter concerns the Firm's failure to comply with PCAOB rules and quality control standards from 2021 to 2022. During that period, the Firm's system of quality control over engagement performance failed to provide reasonable assurance that work performed by the Firm's engagement personnel met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements. In addition, the Firm's monitoring policies and procedures failed to provide it with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control were suitably designed and effectively applied.[2]

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] Before 2022, Baker Tilly was inspected on a triennial basis. On October 4, 2021, the Firm filed a special report on Form 3 reporting that it had issued audit reports with respect to more than 100 issuers. As a result, the Firm was subject to a PCAOB inspection each calendar year beginning in calendar year 2022. See PCAOB Rule 4003, Frequency of Inspections. The Firm remained subject to annual inspection in calendar year 2023. The Firm has since reported that it has reduced its issuer client base, filing a PCAOB Form 3 on February 29, 2024, which indicated in Item 2.3 that the Firm has issued audit

3. In 2018 and early 2019, PCAOB inspectors brought concerns to the Firm's attention related to significant engagement deficiencies found in various audit areas, including in the Firm's auditing of issuers' internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR"), its auditing of accounting estimates, and its execution of engagement quality reviews ("EQRs").

4. Despite the Firm's awareness of these deficiencies and concerns, the Firm failed to make effective changes to improve its system of quality control and failed to address the deficiencies through its quality control engagement performance and monitoring policies and procedures. Indeed, in two subsequent inspections that the Board conducted in 2021 and 2022, PCAOB inspectors identified substantially the same significant engagement deficiencies across multiple audits that the Firm conducted. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards.

C. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

5. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[3] These standards require that a registered firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[4] A firm's system of quality control encompasses the firm's organizational structure and the policies adopted and procedures established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance of complying with professional standards.[5]

6. A firm's system of quality control should, among other things, include policies and procedures for engagement performance.[6] These quality control policies and procedures should provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality.[7] Quality control policies and procedures for engagement performance reports with respect to 100 or fewer issuers in a completed calendar year [2023] immediately following a calendar year in which the Firm issued audit reports with respect to more than 100 issuers [2022]. See Firm Form 3 (Feb. 29, 2024).

encompass all phases of the design and execution of an engagement.[8] To the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, these policies and procedures should cover planning, performing, supervising, reviewing, documenting, and communicating the results of each engagement.[9] These policies and procedures also should address EQRs.[10]

7. A firm should also establish policies and procedures to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its quality control policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.[11] Monitoring procedures taken as a whole should enable the firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control is effective.[12] Procedures that provide the firm with a means of identifying and communicating circumstances that may necessitate changes to or the need to improve compliance with the firm's policies and procedures contribute to the monitoring element.[13] Among other things, a firm's monitoring procedures may include inspection procedures, preissuance or postissuance review of selected engagements, determination of any corrective actions to be taken and improvements to be made in the quality control system, communication to appropriate firm personnel of any weaknesses identified, and follow-up to ensure that any necessary modifications are made to the quality control system on a timely basis.[14]

8. Inspection procedures, as a part of a firm's system of quality control, evaluate the adequacy of a firm's quality control policies and procedures, its personnel's understanding of those policies and procedures, and the extent of the firm's compliance with its quality control policies and procedures.[15] Inspection procedures contribute to the monitoring function because findings are evaluated and changes in, or clarifications of, quality control policies and procedures are considered.[16]

9. To provide reasonable assurance that the firm's quality control system achieves its objectives, appropriate consideration should be given to the assignment of quality control responsibilities within the firm, the means by which quality control policies and procedures are communicated, and the extent to which the policies and procedures and compliance should be documented.[17]

i. The Firm's Quality Control Policies and Procedures Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance That Personnel Complied with Applicable Professional Standards

10. In 2018, PCAOB inspection staff conducted an inspection of the Firm. In connection with the inspection, PCAOB inspection staff informed the Firm in 2018 and early 2019 of its findings regarding audit deficiencies, including findings that the Firm failed, in three ICFR audits selected for inspection, to perform sufficient procedures to test the design and operating effectiveness of controls.

11. These 2018 inspection findings related to, among other things, deficiencies in the Firm's testing of controls over allowances for loan losses ("ALL"), valuation of available-for-sale securities, and the existence of inventory. The findings also concerned deficiencies in the Firm's testing of the process used by management to make estimates in two ICFR audits the inspectors reviewed. Lastly, the findings included deficiencies in the performance of an EQR in one audit. Specifically, PCAOB inspectors found that in this audit, the Firm's engagement quality reviewer did not appropriately evaluate an area that the engagement team had identified as a significant risk. These inspection findings, among others, were memorialized in the 2018 PCAOB Inspection Report.[18]

12. In November and December 2021, PCAOB inspection staff conducted the next inspection of the Firm. PCAOB inspectors again found deficiencies in the Firm's testing of controls in ICFR audits and in testing estimates. Specifically, with respect to all three ICFR audits selected for review, PCAOB inspectors again identified deficiencies in the Firm's testing of the design and operating effectiveness of controls. Additionally, the 2021 inspection findings again included deficiencies in issuer audits related to the Firm's ALL testing and, more generally, in testing of estimates. The 2021 inspection further found repeat deficiencies in the performance of EQRs. In particular, in five of the audits reviewed, PCAOB inspectors again found that the Firm's engagement quality reviewers did not appropriately evaluate areas identified as significant risks.

13. In 2022, the PCAOB conducted another inspection of the Firm. In the issuer audits selected for review during that inspection, PCAOB inspectors once again identified deficiencies similar to those that they had brought to the Firm's attention in connection with the 2018 inspection. In three of the four ICFR audits reviewed, the inspectors again identified deficiencies in the Firm's testing of the design and/or operating effectiveness of controls selected for testing. In 10 of 12 audit engagements reviewed, the inspectors again identified deficiencies in the Firm's testing of accounting estimates. And in 10 of the 12 engagements reviewed, the inspectors again found deficiencies in the performance of EQRs.

14. Accordingly, despite being put on notice through the 2018 inspection of significant deficiencies in multiple audits in the areas of ICFR auditing, testing of accounting estimates, and performance of EQRs, the Firm failed to take sufficient action to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel would comply with PCAOB standards in these areas in future audits, as evidenced by the findings in these areas in the 2021 and 2022 PCAOB inspections. Accordingly, from 2021 to 2022, the engagement performance element of the Firm's system of quality control failed to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by its engagement personnel met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements, in violation of QC 20.[19]

ii. The Firm's Quality Control Monitoring Policies and Procedures Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance That Each of the Other Elements of Quality Control Was Suitably Designed and Being Effectively Applied

15. From 2021 to 2022, the Firm's monitoring procedures related to its internal inspections also were deficient and failed to provide the Firm with a means of identifying and communicating circumstances that may necessitate changes to or the need to improve compliance with the Firm's policies and procedures that contribute to the monitoring element.[20]

16. To address requirements that a firm's monitoring element provide it with reasonable assurance that its policies and procedures for each of the other elements of its

19 See QC § 20.17.

20 See QC § 30.03.

system of quality control are suitably designed and were being effectively applied,[21] the Firm conducted annual internal inspections between 2018 and 2022.

17. Those annual internal inspections, however, were insufficient to address the above-described issuer-specific audit deficiencies that PCAOB inspectors first identified in connection with the 2018 inspection and that recurred repeatedly in engagements the Firm conducted in 2021 and 2022.

18. As a result, the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards by failing from 2021 to 2022 to have monitoring policies and procedures, taken as a whole, that enabled the Firm to obtain reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was effective, such that the policies and procedures for each of the elements of its system of quality control, including engagement performance, were suitably designed and being effectively applied.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Baker Tilly is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), the Board imposes a civil money penalty in the amount of $500,000 on Baker Tilly.

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check: (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting

[21] See QC § 20.20.

Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. With respect to any civil money penalty amounts that Respondent shall pay pursuant to this Order, Respondent shall not, directly or indirectly, (a) seek or accept reimbursement or indemnification from any source including, but not limited to, any current or former affiliated firm or professional or any payment made pursuant to any insurance policy; (b) claim, assert, or apply for a tax deduction or tax credit in connection with any federal, state, local, or foreign tax; nor (c) seek or benefit by any offset or reduction of any award of compensatory damages, by the amount of any part of Respondent's payment of the civil money penalty pursuant to this Order, in any private action brought against Respondent based on substantially the same facts as set out in the findings in this Order.

5. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of Respondent's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Sections 105(c)(4)(C) and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rules 5300(a)(3), (8) and (9), the Board orders that:

1. Independent Consultant

a. Baker Tilly shall retain and pay for an independent consultant ("Independent Consultant"), not unacceptable to the PCAOB staff, to review and make recommendations regarding Baker Tilly's quality control policies and procedures applicable to audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards and to recommend areas of training for Baker Tilly issuer audit personnel. The Independent Consultant must have experience with, and be knowledgeable concerning, PCAOB quality control and auditing standards. Within thirty days after the entry of this Order, Baker Tilly shall submit to the PCAOB staff a proposal setting forth the identity, qualifications, and proposed terms of retention of the Independent Consultant. Baker Tilly may not hire as the Independent Consultant any individual who has provided legal, auditing, or other services to, or has had any affiliation with, Baker Tilly during the two years prior to entry of this Order.

b. To ensure the independence of the Independent Consultant, Baker Tilly: (i) shall not have the authority to terminate the Independent Consultant or substitute another independent consultant for the initial Independent Consultant, without the prior written approval of the PCAOB staff; and (ii) shall compensate the Independent Consultant and persons engaged to assist the Independent Consultant for services rendered pursuant to this Order at their reasonable and customary rates.

c. Baker Tilly shall cooperate fully with the Independent Consultant and shall provide reasonable access to its personnel, information, and records as the Independent Consultant may reasonably request for the Independent Consultant's review, evaluation, and reports.

d. If Baker Tilly, despite its best, good faith efforts, is unable to identify an Independent Consultant candidate that meets all of the above-listed criteria, it may seek approval from the PCAOB staff of alternative candidates or alternative terms that Baker Tilly believes to be otherwise suitable.

e. Within 90 days of this Order, Baker Tilly will review, evaluate, and implement, under the supervision of the Independent Consultant, any necessary enhancements to Baker Tilly's quality control policies and procedures applicable to audits and reviews conducted pursuant to PCAOB standards. If, as a result of that review and evaluation, it appears to the Independent Consultant that any further enhancements to the system of quality control are necessary, it shall recommend such enhancements to Baker Tilly.

f. Within 270 days of this Order, Baker Tilly shall (1) implement any recommendations received from the Independent Consultant, pursuant to Paragraph IV.C.1.e, and (2) require the Independent Consultant to complete his or her review of a sample of the Firm's most recent public company audits to ensure those audits comply with PCAOB auditing standards and that those integrated audits were conducted in accordance with PCAOB quality control standards and the Firm's revised Quality Control Manual. If Baker Tilly does not implement recommendations received from the Independent Consultant pursuant to Paragraph IV.C.1.e, it shall communicate to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations the recommendations of the Independent Consultant it did not implement and the reasons for not doing so.

2. Firm Certification

a. Within 270 days of the date of this Order, Baker Tilly shall certify in writing to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, PCAOB, 1666 K Street N.W., Washington, DC 20006, the Firm's compliance with the above paragraphs ("Final Certification"). The certification shall identify the undertakings, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The certification shall include a description of the specific enhancements implemented to Baker Tilly's system of quality control from the time of the conduct described in this Order. Baker Tilly shall also submit such additional evidence of and information concerning actions taken to comply with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

b. For good cause shown, the PCAOB staff may extend any of the procedural dates relating to these undertakings. Deadlines for procedural dates shall be counted in calendar days, except that if the last day falls on a weekend or federal holiday, the next business day shall be considered the last day.

c. Baker Tilly understands that the failure to satisfy these undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) and (G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6) and (9), Baker Tilly is required:

1. As of the date of the Final Certification, to have conducted training for all issuer audit personnel of the Firm related to the areas recommended by the Independent Consultant as referenced in Paragraph IV.C.1.a above.

2. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy these conditions may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Heber Maughan, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-003

February 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Heber Maughan, CPA ("Maughan" or "Respondent");

(2) barring Maughan from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm; and

(3) imposing on Maughan a $10,000 civil money penalty.[1]

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with a PCAOB inspection, a PCAOB investigation, and audit documentation for several audits of issuers.

I.

[1] The Board determined to accept Respondent's offer of settlement, which specifies a $10,000 civil money penalty, after considering his financial resources. Based on Respondent's conduct, the Board would have imposed a civil money penalty of $75,000 in this settlement if it had not taken his financial resources into consideration.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Heber Clark Maughan, CPA is, and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the states of Utah (license no. 131124-2601) and Vermont (license no. 001.0133912). Maughan was a partner at formerly registered public accounting firm MaughanSullivan LLC ("MaughanSullivan" or "Firm").[4] Maughan is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). Maughan served as the engagement partner on every issuer audit conducted by MaughanSullivan.

B. Summary

2. Staff from the PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections ("Inspection Staff") inspected MaughanSullivan in 2020 and 2023. In both inspections (the "2020 Inspection" and "2023 Inspection," respectively, and together the "Inspections"), Maughan made available to Inspection Staff audit documentation that he had improperly altered and backdated. That

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the condition set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5)(A), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[4] The Board granted MaughanSullivan's request for leave to withdraw from registration, effective October 21, 2024.

audit documentation consisted of work papers for five audits of four Firm issuer clients. Maughan never disclosed the alterations or backdating to the Inspection Staff.

3. Staff from the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Enforcement Staff") investigated MaughanSullivan in connection with several audits, including the audits reviewed during the Inspections. In response to accounting board demands ("ABDs," and each an "ABD") Enforcement Staff issued, Maughan provided audit work papers he had improperly altered and backdated either at the time of the Inspections or after Enforcement Staff had called for their production. That audit documentation consisted of work papers for eight audits of four Firm issuer clients. Maughan failed to disclose the alterations and backdating to Enforcement Staff.

4. By engaging in the above conduct, Maughan violated his cooperation obligation in connection with two PCAOB inspections and a PCAOB investigation. Maughan also violated PCAOB standards concerning audit documentation and ethics.

C. Maughan Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

5. PCAOB rules require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[5] As set out below, Maughan failed to comply with PCAOB rules and standards.[6]

i. Maughan Failed to Cooperate with Two Inspections

6. PCAOB rules provide that "every associated person of a registered public accounting firm, shall cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[7] "Implicit in this cooperation requirement is that auditors provide accurate and truthful information" to the PCAOB's inspectors.[8] In violation of that cooperation obligation, Maughan provided false and misleading information to the Inspection Staff in connection with two inspections.

a. The 2020 Inspection

7. Inspection Staff notified Maughan in December 2019 that the PCAOB would conduct an inspection of MaughanSullivan. Maughan knew that Inspection Staff would almost certainly review the 2018 audit of a particular Firm issuer client ("Issuer A"), as that audit was the only issuer audit for which MaughanSullivan had issued an opinion during the inspection period of January 2019 through January 2020 ("Issuer A 2018 Audit").

8. In late January 2020, Maughan created three work papers for the Issuer A 2018 Audit. Those work papers included two "audit programs"—work papers with pre-populated text prepared and published by a third-party vendor. The pre-populated text in each audit program listed audit steps for completion in a particular audit area, including procedures that should be performed or considered. Maughan prepared the audit programs by inserting dates and initials alongside these audit step descriptions indicating when and by whom each step had been completed, and—for certain audit steps—by also adding descriptions of related procedures and references to relevant work papers.

9. Maughan created those three work papers more than eight months after the May 16, 2019 documentation completion date for the Issuer A 2018 Audit—that is, the date by which the Firm's complete and final set of audit documentation for that audit was required to be assembled,[9] and the date after which deletions—as well as additions to the work papers without disclosures of when, why, and by whom the additions were made—were not permitted.[10]

10. Moreover, Maughan backdated signoffs on the two audit programs. Each audit program contained an audit step, under the header "Conclusion," reflecting a determination by the auditor that the "procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached" in the corresponding audit area "are adequately documented." Maughan inserted a "2/2/19"

[9] See AS 1215.15, Audit Documentation ("A complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date).") (italics in original).

[10] See id. at .16 ("Circumstances may require additions to audit documentation after the report release date. Audit documentation must not be deleted or discarded after the documentation completion date, however, information may be added. Any documentation added must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it.").

signoff date alongside this documentation conclusion in one audit program and a "3/8/19" signoff date alongside the equivalent conclusion in the other. Yet these audit programs—each of which was itself an important part of the Firm's audit documentation in the corresponding audit area—did not exist as of those February or March 2019 dates.

11. Maughan backdated those signoffs in both audit programs to give the false impression that they had been prepared, and that the signoffs had been applied, in early 2019 during the audit rather than in January 2020 in anticipation of the 2020 Inspection.

12. In or around early February 2020, Maughan made available to the Inspection Staff, in connection with the 2020 Inspection, the Firm's audit documentation for the Issuer A 2018 Audit. That audit documentation included the three newly created work papers without any documentation of when, why, and by whom they had been added.

13. Maughan engaged in verbal and written communications on multiple occasions with the Inspection Staff during the 2020 Inspection. Certain of those communications related specifically to audit documentation. In none of those communications did Maughan disclose that he had created or backdated three work papers in late January 2020.

14. Accordingly, Maughan violated PCAOB Rule 4006.

b. The 2023 Inspection

15. Inspection Staff notified Maughan in December 2022 that the PCAOB would shortly conduct another inspection of MaughanSullivan. Starting on the day of that notification, Maughan created or modified several audit work papers for recent audits that the Firm had performed.

16. In March 2023, after Inspection Staff identified for Maughan the four Firm audits selected for review (the "2023 Inspection Audits"), Maughan continued to modify, and to add new work papers to, the audit documentation for those audits. For example, in several schedules obtained from issuer management, Maughan added tick marks and comment boxes that described audit procedures MaughanSullivan had purportedly performed and the results of those procedures. Maughan then converted the work papers for each of those audits from their native electronic format to PDF copies before making them available to the Inspection Staff.

17. The work papers Maughan created or altered after learning of the 2023 Inspection also included several audit programs in which Maughan inserted backdated signoffs. Those audit programs—like the audit programs in the Issuer A 2018 Audit—each set out a conclusion by the auditor that the "procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached" in the corresponding audit area "are adequately documented." Maughan inserted signoff dates between January and July 2022 alongside the documentation conclusions in these audit programs—dates that preceded the audit report dates for the 2023 Inspection Audits. Maughan backdated the signoffs in those audit programs to give the false impression that they had been prepared and reviewed, and that the signoffs had been applied, in January-July 2022 during the audits themselves, rather than in December 2022-March 2023 in anticipation of the 2023 Inspection.

18. Furthermore, for each of three 2023 Inspection Audits, Maughan created an index of engagement quality review signoffs ("EQR Signoff Index") during the 2023 Inspection. The EQR Signoff Index listed by title those work papers purportedly reviewed by the engagement quality reviewer and, alongside each, the date on which the engagement quality reviewer had reviewed and signed off on that work paper.

19. The EQR Signoff Indexes for the three audits listed signoff dates from March, April, and August 2022. However, several of the work papers listed in those indexes did not exist until—and were created by Maughan—in or after December 2022, when he learned of the 2023 Inspection. Maughan backdated the signoffs in the three EQR Signoff Indexes, and made them available to the Inspection Staff, to give the false impression that the work papers they referenced had been prepared and reviewed during the audits themselves, rather than in anticipation of the 2023 Inspection.

20. As he did during the 2020 Inspection, Maughan communicated verbally and in writing on multiple occasions with Inspection Staff during the 2023 Inspection, including about audit documentation. Maughan never disclosed in any of those communications that he had created, modified, or backdated multiple work papers made available to the Inspection Staff.

21. Accordingly, Maughan violated PCAOB Rule 4006.

ii. Maughan Failed to Cooperate with an Enforcement Investigation

22. The Act authorizes the Board to sanction a registered public accounting firm or any associated person who "refuses to testify, produce documents, or otherwise cooperate with the Board in connection with an investigation."[11] PCAOB rules implement that authority and state that the Board may institute a disciplinary proceeding if it appears that an associated person "may have failed to comply with an accounting board demand," "may have knowingly made any false material declaration or made or used any other information, including any book, paper, document, record, recording, or other material, knowing the same to contain any false material declaration," "may have abused the Board's processes for the purpose of obstructing an investigation," or "may otherwise have failed to cooperate in connection with an investigation."[12]

23. Following the 2020 Inspection, Enforcement Staff opened an informal inquiry concerning MaughanSullivan. After receiving a request in 2022 from Enforcement Staff for "the complete and final set of audit documentation assembled for retention" pursuant to AS 1215 for each of three audits of Issuer A, Maughan created or modified most of the Firm's work papers for one of those audits: the 2019 audit of Issuer A (the "Issuer A 2019 Audit"). Maughan made those alterations more than two years after the May 2020 documentation completion date for that audit. Maughan then provided Enforcement Staff with three sets of work papers, including the set for the Issuer A 2019 Audit that contained improper alterations.

24. In July 2023, after the Board had issued an Order of Formal Investigation concerning MaughanSullivan, Enforcement Staff sent Maughan an ABD calling for the "complete and final set of audit documentation assembled for retention" pursuant to AS 1215 for each of twelve Firm audits. Those twelve audits included the five for which Maughan previously had made work papers available to Inspection Staff (the "2020/2023 Inspection Audits") and the 2017-2019 audits of Issuer A for which Maughan previously had provided work papers to Enforcement Staff.

25. Maughan provided work papers to Enforcement Staff for those twelve audits in response to the ABD.

26. The work papers Maughan provided to Enforcement Staff in response to the ABDs included improper alterations. For the five 2020/2023 Inspection Audits, the work papers provided by Maughan to Enforcement Staff contained substantially the same improper alterations as when Maughan had made them available to Inspection Staff. For the Issuer A 2019 Audit, Maughan re-produced the Issuer A 2019 Audit work papers with the same improper alterations as the work papers produced to Enforcement Staff in 2022.

27. In addition, for two other audits—one of which was the 2020 audit of Issuer A—the sets of audit documentation Maughan provided to Enforcement Staff included work papers that Maughan created or modified after receiving the July 2023 ABD. For example, Maughan created several leadsheets in various audit areas that set out client account balances and referenced related audit procedures.

[12] PCAOB Rule 5110, Noncooperation with an Investigation.

28. The work papers Maughan provided to Enforcement Staff in response to the ABDs also included three types of backdated signoffs. First, the audit programs and EQR Signoff Indexes for the five 2020/2023 Inspection Audits contained the same backdated signoffs as when they had been made available to Inspection Staff. Second, the audit programs in three other sets of audit work papers provided to Enforcement Staff contained similarly backdated signoffs. Specifically, alongside statements that the "procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached" in various audit areas were "adequately documented," Maughan inserted dates that preceded the dates on which he had created both the audit programs themselves and work papers they referenced. Third, EQR Signoff Indexes in the work papers for two audits contained signoff dates indicating the review and signoff of several work papers in March and April 2021, even though several of those work papers did not exist until nearly two years later, when Maughan created them.

29. Maughan did not disclose the alterations and backdating to Enforcement Staff.

30. Accordingly, Maughan failed to cooperate with an investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110.

iii. Maughan Violated PCAOB Audit Documentation Requirements

31. In the course of the above conduct, Maughan violated several requirements in AS 1215. Specifically, in altering the eight sets of work papers that were later made available to Inspection Staff and/or Enforcement Staff, Maughan added audit documentation after the documentation completion dates without disclosing, as required, when, by whom, and why the additions were made.[13]

32. Moreover, the nature and scope of Maughan's alterations to at least seven of the eight sets of work papers he made available to PCAOB staff showed that Maughan had not assembled final sets of audit documentation for those audits. Maughan accordingly violated the requirement to assemble complete and final sets of audit documentation in those audits by the applicable documentation completion date.[14]

[13] AS 1215.16 (stating that "any documentation added" after the documentation completion date "must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it.").

[14] Id. at .15 ("A complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date).") (italics in original).

33. In addition, Maughan backdated signoffs on audit documentation in all eight sets of work papers that he improperly altered and then provided to Inspection and Enforcement Staff. AS 1215 requires audit documentation to contain sufficient information to enable an understanding of the "timing" of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached; the date the work was completed; and the date that work was reviewed.[15] Maughan prepared two kinds of work papers that contained backdated signoff dates: Microsoft Word audit programs that contained signoff dates indicating the review and assessment of audit documentation that did not exist until months or years after those dates; and one-page EQR Signoff Indexes that listed engagement quality review signoff dates that were months or years earlier than the actual dates on which the documentation was prepared and thus available for review.

34. Accordingly, Maughan violated AS 1215.

iv. Maughan Violated PCAOB Ethics Requirements

35. PCAOB ethics standards require that, in the performance of any professional service, an associated person maintain integrity and "not knowingly misrepresent facts."[16]

36. Maughan violated those ethical obligations by altering and backdating Firm audit documentation for eight audits with the purpose of misrepresenting to PCAOB staff both the nature of the audits and the condition of the Firm's audit documentation. Specifically, Maughan altered and backdated that audit documentation in order to make the audits seem to PCAOB staff as if they involved more extensive procedures than reflected in documentation prepared during the audits, as well as to make the altered documentation appear to PCAOB staff as if it had been prepared before applicable documentation completion dates rather than several months or years later.

37. As a result, Maughan violated ET § 102.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) and (c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5) and (b)(1), Heber Maughan is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(i) and (c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2) and (b)(1), Heber Maughan is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[17]

C. Pursuant to Section 105(b)(3)(A)(iii) and (c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4) and (b)(1), a civil money penalty in the amount of $10,000 is imposed on Heber Maughan.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Heber Maughan shall pay this civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions provided by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Maughan as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public

[17] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Maughan. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

4. By consenting to this Order, Heber Maughan acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any request for leave to petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(c).

5. Heber Maughan acknowledges that the determination to accept Respondent's offer of a civil money penalty of $10,000 is contingent upon the accuracy and completeness of Maughan's financial information provided to the Division of Enforcement and Investigations (the "Division"). Maughan also acknowledges that, if at any time following this settlement the Division obtains information indicating that any financial information provided by Maughan—including, but not limited to, any information concerning assets, income, liabilities, or net worth—was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect as of the time such information was provided, then at any time following entry of this Order (1) the Board may institute a disciplinary proceeding for noncooperation with an investigation under PCAOB Rule 5110 and/or (2) the Division may petition the Board to (a) reopen this matter to consider whether Maughan provided accurate and complete financial information at the time such information was provided to the Division; and (b) seek an order directing payment of the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law or any lesser amount determined to be appropriate. No other issue shall be considered in connection with this petition other than whether the financial information provided by Maughan was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect; and, if so, whether a civil money penalty should be ordered up to the maximum civil money penalty allowable under the law. Maughan may not, by way of defense to any such petition: (i) contest the findings in this Order; (ii) assert that payment of a civil money penalty should not be ordered; (iii) contend that the amount of the civil money penalty to be ordered should be less than $75,000, which is specified herein as the amount the penalty would have been, based on Maughan's conduct and without consideration of Maughan's financial resources; or

(iv) put forward any other contention or assert any defense to liability or remedy, including, but not limited to, any based on statute of limitations or any other time-related defense, other than to contend (a) that Maughan did not provide financial information that was fraudulent, misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete in any material respect, or (b) that a civil money penalty should not be ordered in an amount higher than $75,000.

Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Gabriel Jaime López Díez,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-004

February 11, 2025

By this Order Making Findings and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Gabriel Jaime López Díez ("López" or "Respondent");

(2) barring López from being associated with a registered public accounting firm;[1] and

(3) imposing a $75,000 civil money penalty on López.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the integrated audit of the December 31, 2016 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") of Bancolombia S.A. ("Bancolombia" or the "Bank").

I.

On September 29, 2023, the Board instituted disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent. The Board determined, under Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, that good cause was shown to make the hearing in this proceeding public, and the Division of Enforcement and Investigations consented to making the hearing public. As permitted by Section 105(c)(2) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5203, Respondent did not consent to make the hearing in this proceeding public.

[1] López may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

II.

In response to these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of this proceeding and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Gabriel Jaime López Díez was a partner in the Medellín, Colombia office of Deloitte & Touche S.A.S. ("DT Colombia" or the "Firm") until his retirement in 2021. At all relevant times, he was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i). López served as the engagement partner on the Firm's integrated audit of the December 31, 2016 financial statements and ICFR of Bancolombia (the "2016 Audit").

B. Relevant Entities and Individuals

2. Deloitte & Touche S.A.S. is, and at all relevant times was, a limited liability corporation organized under Colombian law and headquartered in Bogotá, Colombia. The Firm is licensed in Colombia by the Junta Central de Contadores, part of the Colombian Ministry of Commerce, Industry and Tourism, and a member of the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited ("Deloitte Global") network. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.[4]

---

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (a) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (b) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

[4] On January 31, 2023, the Firm filed a Form 4, Succeeding to the Registration Status of Predecessor, with the Board, disclosing that the Firm's form of organization had changed to a simplified

3. Bancolombia S.A. is a financial institution based in Medellín, Colombia. According to its public filings, Bancolombia provides a wide range of financial products and services to a diversified individual, corporate, and government customer base throughout Colombia, Latin America, and the Caribbean region. At all relevant times, Bancolombia was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns López's violations of PCAOB rules and standards as the engagement partner on the 2016 Audit. Specifically, López, then a partner with DT Colombia, failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence before authorizing the issuance of the Firm's unqualified audit opinions on Bancolombia's December 31, 2016 financial statements and ICFR. López's failures during the 2016 Audit included inadequate testing of revenue, interest expenses, fair value of the Bank's loans, derivatives, and the Bank's internal controls.

5. López and the engagement team also improperly altered audit documentation prior to the documentation completion date,[5] and, in several instances, performed audit procedures or obtained supporting audit evidence after issuance of the audit opinions on May 1, 2017, in violation of PCAOB standards. During that period, López and the engagement team tracked changes to the work papers after issuance in a log, referred to by the engagement team as the "Bitácora," that was maintained outside of the 2016 Audit file. Although the number of entries in the Bitácora exceeded 1,000 by May 30, 2017, López and his team deleted nearly all of the entries by May 31, 2017, including many entries that reflected additional work performed after issuance, when they were finalizing the 2016 Audit file for retention. This final version of the Bitácora, which included just ten entries that López had classified as "omitted procedures" performed after issuance, was then added to the final 2016 Audit file.

6. As the engagement partner, López also failed to properly supervise the 2016 Audit to ensure that the engagement team's work was appropriately performed and documented, the objectives of the procedures were achieved, and the results of the work supported the conclusions reached in accordance with PCAOB standards.

D. López Violated PCAOB Rules and Auditing Standards

7. PCAOB rules require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and the auditor has formed an opinion that the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, an entity's financial position, results of operations, and cash flows in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.[7] Among other things, PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care and professional skepticism in performing an audit and preparing an auditor's report.[8]

8. When an auditor is engaged to perform an audit of management's assessment of the effectiveness of ICFR, the audit of ICFR should be integrated with the audit of the financial statements.[9] The objectives of the audits are not identical, however, and the auditor must plan and perform the work to achieve the objectives of both audits.[10]

9. As described below, López violated these and other PCAOB auditing standards in performing the 2016 Audit.

i. Background

10. In March 2016, DT Colombia was appointed as Bancolombia's independent auditor beginning with the year ended December 31, 2016. The 2016 Audit involved an engagement team of over one hundred people, staffed by personnel from the Firm and several Deloitte Global member firms. López and the engagement team also received consulting advice from (a) the Deloitte Americas Center of Excellence ("ACOE"), (b) capital market specialists, and (c) the Firm's National Professional Practice Director and his team.

11. DT Colombia remained Bancolombia's independent auditor for the year ended December 31, 2017. Following the 2016 Audit, however, DT Colombia replaced López as the engagement partner.

ii. López Failed to Complete All Necessary Auditing Procedures and Obtain Sufficient Evidence Prior to Issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports

12. PCAOB standards require that an auditor plan and perform the audit to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for his or her opinion.[11] Prior to the report release date, an auditor must have completed all necessary auditing procedures and obtained sufficient evidence to support the representations in the auditor's report.[12] PCAOB standards further require that an auditor evaluate the results of the audit to determine whether the audit evidence obtained is sufficient and appropriate to support the opinion to be expressed in the auditor's report.[13]

13. PCAOB standards also require the engagement partner to properly supervise and review the work of the engagement team members and be responsible for compliance with PCAOB standards.[14]

14. As discussed below, López failed to ensure that the engagement team completed and appropriately documented certain necessary procedures prior to authorizing issuance of DT Colombia's audit reports on Bancolombia's December 31, 2016 financial statements and ICFR (the "2016 Audit Reports"). Instead, López and the engagement team continued to perform audit procedures and obtain audit evidence after the issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports in violation of PCAOB standards.

a. Revenue

15. Bancolombia reported total net operating income of $3.6 billion for the year ended December 31, 2016.[15] During that period, the Bank recognized $1.1 billion in revenue from fees and commission income and $495.6 million from other operating income.

16. López violated PCAOB standards by failing, prior to the issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports, to ensure the engagement team tested certain material categories of revenue, totaling approximately $548 million. These failures encompassed commission income related to credit cards, totaling approximately $203 million, and "other income," totaling approximately $345 million, which were both well in excess of the $70.4 million planning materiality level that López and his team established for the 2016 Audit.

15 Amounts originally in Colombian pesos have been converted to U.S. dollars at the exchange rate provided by Bancolombia in its 2016 Form 20-F.

17. López and the engagement team planned to perform substantive audit procedures over these material account balances as part of the 2016 Audit, but failed to do so prior to issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports. Moreover, the failures occurred despite López being put on notice by ACOE comments in April 2017 that he and the engagement team still needed to analyze these accounts to see if they exceed materiality.

18. Two weeks after issuing the 2016 Audit Reports, López received an email from an engagement team member indicating that the additional balances had not been subject to substantive testing. Shortly thereafter, the engagement team performed the planned procedures to test these balances, including emailing the client with sample selections and requesting supporting evidence. López and the engagement team documented that this work was performed after issuance in the final Bitácora and final 2016 Audit file.

19. By failing to ensure that the engagement team tested these material categories of revenue prior to issuance, López violated PCAOB supervision standards and failed to obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence to support the opinions in the 2016 Audit Reports.[16]

b. Interest Expenses

20. Bancolombia reported approximately $2 billion in interest expenses for the year ended December 31, 2016. López and the engagement team failed to perform certain necessary audit procedures on these interest expenses prior to issuance, in violation of PCAOB standards.[17]

21. For the majority of interest expenses, López and the engagement team planned to perform substantive analytical procedures using a Deloitte-developed regression analysis tool known as "STAR." More than two weeks after issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports, however, the engagement team identified an error in the interest rates used and re-ran the STAR tests for certificates of deposit ("CDTs"). Under PCAOB standards, an auditor performing substantive analytical procedures needs to evaluate significant unexpected differences,[18] but, because the test was re-run with corrected interest rates after issuance, any potential deviations from the engagement team's expectations were not appropriately evaluated prior to issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports. The changes made to the STAR testing for interest expenses after issuance were incorporated into the final version of the 2016 Audit work papers, but the preparer and reviewer signoffs for the relevant work paper were not updated to reflect when this work was actually performed.

22. Without López's adequate supervision, the engagement team also performed other significant work on interest expense after issuance. Specifically, with respect to savings accounts, which totaled approximately $295 million, López and the engagement team planned to obtain supporting evidence to confirm the completeness and accuracy of the Bank's reports for those savings accounts. The engagement team requested information from the client prior to issuance, but failed to obtain the supporting audit evidence until after issuance. Specifically, two days after issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports, a member of the engagement team emailed the client, again requesting that the client provide them with the "detailed report 441" for savings accounts that would support the team's sample selections. The same email also asked for screenshots showing how the client obtained the reports for savings accounts. The post-issuance audit evidence, including screenshots, sample selections, and copies of the reports, was included in the final 2016 Audit file; however, the preparer and reviewer signoffs for the relevant work paper were not updated to reflect when this work was performed.

23. López reviewed versions of the Bitácora indicating that that work had been performed and evidence had been added for interest expenses after issuance. However, he failed to ensure that this additional work was performed and documented properly, that signoffs were accurately dated, and that the results of the work supported the engagement team's conclusions.[19] López and the engagement team subsequently removed all references to the post-issuance work around interest expense from the final Bitácora archived in the 2016 Audit file.

c. Fair Value of Bancolombia's Loan Portfolio

24. Bancolombia disclosed the fair value of its financial assets and liabilities, including loans, in the footnotes of its December 31, 2016 financial statements as part of its Form 20-F. As disclosed, Bancolombia's loan portfolio was material, representing approximately $46.8 billion and constituting approximately 89% of the fair value of its total assets.

25. During the 2016 Audit, López and the engagement team planned to test the fair value of Bancolombia's loan portfolio, by, among other things (a) reconciling the loan portfolio fair value balances with the notes to the consolidated financial statements; and (b) obtaining an understanding of the methodology Bancolombia used to calculate the fair value of the loan portfolio. As part of the latter, López and the engagement team also planned to perform a walkthrough of the internal valuation process for a sample of selected loans.

26. López used Firm fair value specialists to help recalculate the fair value of the loan portfolio, validate the discount rates used in the projections, and recalculate the fair value of the sample of selected loans. López was required to test, or have his engagement team test, the accuracy and completeness of the data produced by Bancolombia and used by the specialist to calculate the loan portfolio fair value balance.[20]

27. Again, however, neither López nor the engagement team completed all of the planned procedures for fair value testing of the loan portfolio until after the issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports. Less than 48 hours after the 2016 Audit Reports were issued, a member of the engagement team emailed the client about planned walkthroughs, including the fair value testing environment, acknowledging that there were pending tests as of issuance:

> We appreciate your prompt help with the fair value testing environment, we expect to obtain results this week to be able to conclude on our audit procedures and we only have this review pending.

28. Work in this area continued throughout May 2017. For example, on May 12, 2017, the engagement team again reached out to the client about the pending test results:

> We are pending this request, due to the date it is already a critical issue and we need to have results no later than Monday, May 15, otherwise it would be presented as noncompliance with our audit schedule and would be raised to the corresponding committees.

29. Bancolombia personnel agreed to meet with the engagement team on May 15, 2017 to run the necessary tests. Following that meeting, a member of the engagement team emailed the client to ask for evidence of the test that had been performed, including:

> 1. Screenshots of the walkthrough test
> 2. Source of information for the calculation of the sample of 20 loans
> 3. Results obtained from the test environment

30. Two days later, another engagement team member sent the client two more emails: the first to set up a meeting to discuss any questions DT Colombia's internal fair value specialists might have and the second to ask for Bancolombia's "Updated [Fair Value] Methodology as of December 31, 2016" and the "Base input for the projections in Excel." After receiving the information requested in the second email, the engagement team member forwarded this information to the DT Colombia fair value specialists.

31. The performance of these additional procedures is also reflected in the 2016 Audit file. For example, the work paper entitled "23300.06.1 Portfolio Valuation Test" includes a cover tab, which was added after issuance, that listed planned steps under the header of "Procedure" corresponding to the post-issuance work. That same tab included a note, expressly acknowledging that "[t]his procedure was carried out after the date of issuance of the report." In addition, the work paper included screenshots, dated May 16, 2017, that the engagement team used as supporting evidence.

32. By failing to complete, or ensure that the engagement team completed, these necessary procedures before authorizing the issuance of the Audit Reports, López violated PCAOB standards.[21]

33. Unlike in certain other areas, López acknowledged that some of the fair value procedures were completed after issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports by including a description of the post-issuance work in this area in the final Bitácora. However, the description minimized the amount of additional work that had been done, merely stating that "[t]he work of the specialist in the validation of the fair value of the portfolio of note 29 is documented."

d. Bancolombia's Derivative Financial Instruments

34. Bancolombia's derivative assets during 2016 included approximately $105.6 million in forwards, $437.8 million in swaps, and $15.8 million in options. López classified Bancolombia's derivative financial instruments as a significant risk during the 2016 Audit.

35. To test the existence of these derivative financial instruments, López and the engagement team selected a sample of forwards, swaps, and options transactions and performed confirmation procedures. The confirmation response rates were only 27%, 34%, and 4% for each of the respective derivative categories. Despite such low response rates, prior to the issuance of the Audit Reports, neither López nor anyone else on the engagement team performed alternative procedures on the samples for which they did not receive a confirmation response, as required by PCAOB standards.[22]

36. After issuance, engagement team members continued to conduct audit work on Bancolombia's derivative financial instruments. For example, the engagement team performed

[22] See AS 2310.31, The Confirmation Process ("When the auditor has not received replies to positive confirmation requests, he or she should apply alternative procedures to the nonresponses to obtain the evidence necessary to reduce audit risk to an acceptably low level.").

and documented alternative procedures on more than 1,000 selections of forwards, swaps, and options after issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports.

37. After issuance, López and the engagement team also tested for the first time certain information provided by Bancolombia related to its derivatives balance. For example, as part of the testing of information provided by the entity under audit ("IPE"), an engagement team member emailed Bancolombia personnel on May 17, 2017 with a list of requests, including a request for "Trading portfolios Swaps, Forward, Futures and Options of December 28, 29 and 30, 2016." That same day, according to the final work papers, the engagement team made its sample selections to test IPE related to Bancolombia's derivatives.

38. López and the engagement team acknowledged in both the relevant work papers and in the description of work in the final Bitácora that they had performed post-issuance work on Bancolombia's derivatives. But again, López failed to describe in the final Bitácora the extent of that work.

39. As a result of this conduct, López violated PCAOB standards related to supervision and the confirmation process, and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence with respect to Bancolombia's derivative financial instruments prior to issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports.[23]

e. Bancolombia's ICFR

40. López also failed to adequately supervise the engagement team's audit work on internal controls. In particular, after delegating the control work to two Risk Advisory partners, López failed to adequately supervise their work to ensure that the control testing complied with PCAOB auditing standards.[24] As discussed below, the engagement team failed, on numerous occasions, to properly perform or complete control testing prior to issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports. López's failure to adequately supervise occurred even though he discussed the control work with the two partners and other members of the engagement team, and was aware of ACOE comments identifying problems with the control testing.

41. For example, with respect to two key controls related to mitigating the significant risk associated with Bancolombia's loan portfolio, the engagement team performed additional audit procedures and obtained additional evidence after issuance. As acknowledged in the final Bitácora, for one of the key controls, the engagement team identified and tested after issuance the information used by the company ("IUC") in performing the control. For the other key control, the engagement team identified different control owners after issuance and added the qualifications of those new owners, as well as changed the review procedures performed by the team. Moreover, as of issuance, the control activities section for testing operating effectiveness of the second key control was blank, despite signoffs by a preparer and several reviewers. In addition, for both of the key controls, the engagement team changed the risk addressed by the control and increased the risk associated with the control from "not higher" to "higher" after issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports.

42. López was also aware that the engagement team sought additional audit evidence from the client after issuance to complete the testing of controls in numerous areas, ranging from the Bank's review of loan applications to its approval of methodologies for loan impairment calculations. For example, López received emails that put him on notice that the engagement team was still seeking information from the client to support this control testing, including one on May 16, 2017 informing him that the IPE for a control related to review of applications for consumer or microcredit loans was pending clarification from the client.

43. With respect to that control, López and the engagement team had failed to obtain necessary evidence supporting the report used in the control prior to issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports. Although the engagement team had obtained the relevant report prior to issuance, neither López nor the team tested its completeness and accuracy as part of testing the control's operating effectiveness. On the same day that López was informed about the pending clarification, a member of the engagement team emailed Bank personnel, asking for space at the Bank where the team member could "validate the generation of the report of disbursements of consumer and microcredit portfolio that were made from January 1 to December 31, 2016. In order to ensure that the information provided corresponds to that registered in the system." The final work paper for this control, modified after issuance, documents the performance of an updated work step to test the operating effectiveness, whereby the engagement team "[v]erif[ied] that the information requested is that received by comparing the information requested with the information inserted in the system."

44. The engagement team also requested other items after issuance to support the control testing, including meeting minutes, screenshots to show the access path for users of certain Bank systems, and information about the users of those systems. López became aware of certain of these post-issuance requests because of contemporaneous emails yet signoffs for these work papers did not reflect when this work was performed, nor did the final Bitácora reflect this additional work.

45. Further, on one occasion, when the engagement team could not obtain the information it sought from Bancolombia, it simply modified one of its conclusions regarding a control after issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports. Specifically, as part of testing a control concerning the operation of the Bank's risk committee, an engagement team member had asked the client to confirm what was done to verify the completeness and accuracy of the IUC prior to issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports. The client, however, did not respond until after issuance and, even then, the response did not answer the question. Having not received the information needed, the engagement team member changed the designation of whether the control was dependent on IUC from "yes" to "no" in the work paper. This change appeared in a draft of the Bitácora that López reviewed yet was not included in the final Bitácora.

46. As described above, López failed to adequately supervise the engagement to ensure that this work was appropriately performed and documented prior to issuance.[25] As a result, López failed to obtain sufficient evidence to support DT Colombia's opinion on Bancolombia's ICFR as of December 31, 2016.[26]

f. Other Work Performed After Issuance

47. In addition to the work identified above, the engagement team also performed audit procedures and obtained audit evidence after issuance in several other audit areas, and López either participated directly in, or was aware of, the ongoing work after issuance.

48. Specifically, the engagement team made requests to the client after issuance for audit evidence about material journal entries, differences in closing figures for Bancolombia's loan portfolio, changes to indices used by the Bank for valuing collateral, the information provided by the Bank during the Bank's guarantees reserve calculation, and management's calculation and payment of bonuses. In many instances, the engagement team documented the subsequent changes to the relevant work papers in draft versions of the Bitácora that were reviewed by López, but none of the changes were included in the final Bitácora, nor were signoffs updated in the Firm's audit documentation software to reflect when the work was performed.

49. In other instances, López was directly aware of the incomplete work. For example, the engagement team obtained and summarized in a work paper seven months of meeting minutes received from the client after issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports. The team originally requested the minutes prior to issuance, but the client did not provide the minutes until May 4, 2017. After receiving the minutes, the engagement team summarized the meetings through March 2017 in a work paper entitled "21106 Resumen actas de Comité Posición Propia." López had signed off as a reviewer of this work paper in February 2017, when the work paper could not have contained all of the summaries necessary to complete the work.

26 AS 1105.10.

50. As result of this conduct, López violated PCAOB supervision standards and failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to support the opinions in the 2016 Audit Reports.[27]

iii. López Failed to Comply with PCAOB Auditing Standards in Other Respects During the 2016 Audit

51. As described above, López and the engagement team performed work after issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports. Even with that post-issuance work, López and the engagement team failed to adequately address numerous violations of PCAOB standards they committed prior to issuance, including with respect to Bancolombia's revenue, interest expenses, and ICFR.

a. Revenue and Interest Expenses

1. The analytical procedures that López primarily relied on to test revenue and interest expenses did not comply with PCAOB standards.

52. During the 2016 Audit, López assessed whether improper revenue recognition for Bancolombia was a fraud risk. Despite PCAOB standards providing that an auditor should presume that there is a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition,[28] López determined that it was neither a fraud risk nor a significant risk for Bancolombia and, instead, was only a "higher" risk. López also evaluated the risk associated with interest expense as "normal."

53. As a result, López planned to test Bancolombia's 2016 revenue and interest expenses primarily through STAR testing. For revenue, López and the engagement team used STAR testing to evaluate interest income on consumer, microcredit, and mortgage loans, which represented approximately $1.7 billion or 32% of the Bank's revenue for the year ended December 31, 2016. For interest expenses, they used STAR testing to evaluate savings accounts and CDTs, which accounted for approximately $1.29 billion or 64% of the Bank's total interest expenses balance.

54. Analytical procedures are an important part of the audit process when they are properly designed and performed.[29] Analytical procedures consist of evaluations of financial information made by a study of plausible relationships among both financial and nonfinancial data.[30] Before using the results obtained from substantive analytical procedures, the auditor should either test the design and operating effectiveness of controls over financial information used in the substantive analytical procedures or perform other procedures to support the completeness and accuracy of the underlying information.[31] PCAOB standards further require the auditor to evaluate the results of the audit and conclude on whether sufficient appropriate audit evidence has been obtained to support his or her opinion on the financial statements.[32]

55. To perform the STAR testing, López and the engagement team used monthly historical data provided by the Bank. That data included not only amounts from 2016 but also from earlier periods, prior to Bancolombia's engagement of DT Colombia. Neither López nor anyone on the engagement team, however, performed any procedures to support the completeness and accuracy of the data for the periods prior to the Firm's engagement. They failed to do so, despite (a) the total historical monthly revenue and expense data not reflecting the audited consolidated total amounts in prior filings, and (b) the monthly 2015 revenue data differing materially from the revenue amounts in the Bank's general ledger.

56. As a result of using this untested data for substantive analytical procedures, López failed to comply with PCAOB standards with respect to the testing of the Bank's 2016 revenue and interest expenses.[33]

2. López failed to ensure the engagement team properly performed cutoff testing for revenue and interest expenses.

57. Under PCAOB standards, auditors should design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[34]

58. During the 2016 Audit, López planned to perform audit procedures to test Bancolombia's revenue and expenses. Late in the 2016 Audit, ACOE consultants reviewed the relevant work papers and specifically noted the lack of documented cutoff procedures, that is, procedures that address the risk that a portion of the revenue and expenses was not recorded in the correct period. In response, López and the engagement team merely added references in the work papers to other testing that did not appropriately evaluate whether revenue was recognized, or expenses were incurred, in the correct accounting period.

59. As a result, for this reason as well, López failed to comply with PCAOB standards with respect to the testing of the Bank's 2016 revenue and interest expenses.[35]

b. Bancolombia's ICFR

60. Under PCAOB standards, an audit of ICFR should be integrated with the audit of the financial statements.[36] The auditor's objective in an audit of ICFR is to express an opinion on the effectiveness of the company's ICFR.[37] To form a basis for expressing that opinion, the auditor must plan and perform the audit to obtain appropriate evidence that is sufficient to obtain reasonable assurance about whether material weaknesses exist as of the date specified in management's assessment.[38] A material weakness in ICFR may exist even when financial statements are not materially misstated.[39]

61. Pursuant to AS 2201, an auditor must design the test of controls to obtain sufficient evidence to support both the auditor's opinion on ICFR as of year-end, and the auditor's control risk assessments for purposes of the audit of financial statements.[40] As part of this control testing, an auditor must test both the design effectiveness and operating effectiveness of a control.[41] Further, where an auditor has assessed control risk for specific financial statement assertions at less than the maximum during an integrated audit, the auditor is required to obtain evidence that the relevant controls operated effectively during the entire period upon which the auditor plans to place reliance on those controls.[42]

62. PCAOB standards also require that an auditor evaluate the severity of each control deficiency that comes to his or her attention to determine whether the deficiencies, individually or in combination, are material weaknesses as of the date of management's assessment.[43] When conducting the evaluation of severity, the auditor also should determine the level of detail and degree of assurance that would satisfy prudent officials in the conduct of their own affairs that they have reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit the preparation of financial statements in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[44]

63. In violation of PCAOB standards, López and the engagement team failed to test certain controls during the period of reliance and failed to properly evaluate certain control deficiencies prior to issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports.

1. López failed to ensure that the engagement team tested certain controls during the period of reliance.

64. Although DT Colombia was conducting a first-year audit of Bancolombia in 2016, López assessed control risk for most of Bancolombia's financial statement assertions at less than the maximum. As a result, he was required to obtain evidence that the relevant controls were designed effectively and operated effectively during the entire period of reliance being covered by Bancolombia's 2016 financial statements.[45] To support his unqualified ICFR opinion, López also was required to obtain evidence that Bancolombia's controls were effective as of December 31, 2016.[46]

65. To assess whether the relevant controls were designed and operating effectively, López and the engagement team planned to test those controls during calendar year 2016. For many of the relevant controls, however, López failed to perform the planned testing, or cause his engagement team to do so, until well after year-end 2016. These failures encompassed at least six revenue-related controls addressing whether the Bank appropriately controlled access to, and segregated duties with respect to, systems used for loans, interest rates, and creation of credit cards.

statements, or the portion of that period, for which the auditor plans to rely on controls in order to modify the nature, timing, and extent of planned substantive procedures).

46 See AS 2201.B1, .B2.

66. Further, although the engagement team tested the relevant controls after year-end 2016, they also failed to perform procedures to ensure there had been no changes to the controls or the data used in the performance of the controls between December 31, 2016, and when testing occurred. Indeed, after this issue was raised by ACOE, the engagement team deleted the actual dates of testing in some work papers to conceal that the testing had occurred after year-end 2016.

67. As a result, López failed to obtain sufficient evidence that these controls were effective during the period of reliance and as of December 31, 2016, and failed to obtain sufficient evidence to support his assessment of control risk for purposes of the 2016 financial statement audit and DT Colombia's opinion on Bancolombia's ICFR.[47]

2. López failed to adequately evaluate certain control deficiencies prior to issuance.

68. López and the engagement team also failed to adequately evaluate certain control deficiencies identified during the 2016 Audit. For example, the engagement team determined that two revenue-related controls were not operating effectively during 2016. Despite this conclusion, López did not include these deficiencies in the Firm's work paper for aggregating deficiencies because he and the engagement team concluded that the balances of the accounts covered by the controls at year-end were individually below the threshold for clearly trivial errors. PCAOB standards, however, required López to consider the effect of these deficiencies, not only individually, but also in the aggregate with other deficiencies.[48]

iv. López Failed to Comply with PCAOB Audit Documentation Standards During the 2016 Audit

69. PCAOB standards require that an auditor prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB.[49] This audit documentation should be prepared in sufficient detail to provide a clear understanding of its purpose, source, and the conclusions reached.[50] Audit documentation must also contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement, to determine who performed the work and the date such work was completed, as well as who reviewed the work and the date of such review.[51]

49 See AS 1215.04.

50 See id.

51 See id. at .06.

70. Although an auditor has up to 45 days from the report release date to assemble for retention a complete and final set of audit documentation, PCAOB standards require the auditor to complete all necessary auditing procedures and obtain sufficient evidence to support the representations in the auditor's report prior to the report release date.[52]

71. As discussed above, López and the engagement team performed significant work after issuance of the 2016 Audit Reports, including performing certain audit procedures and obtaining evidence from the client related to, among other areas, revenue, interest expenses, derivatives, fair value testing, and control testing. Other than for the limited procedures identified in the final Bitácora, López and the engagement team failed to document in the 2016 Audit file who performed the post-issuance work and the date such work was completed, as well as who reviewed the work and the date of such review.

72. Additionally, López was informed of an upcoming internal inspection the day after issuing the 2016 Audit Reports. He then shared this information with engagement team members, which resulted in some team members making certain changes to the work papers prior to the internal inspection. These changes included an engagement team member adding new audit evidence to a work paper about understanding the client after learning that the failure to include such information would likely result in an inspection comment. No updates were made to signoffs in the Firm's audit documentation software to reflect when this work was performed.

73. During the audit documentation period, López and the engagement team maintained the Bitácora outside of the 2016 Audit file to track changes made after issuance of the 2016 Audit Report and the table reached over 1,000 entries as of May 30, 2017. A substantial number of entries as of that date reflected significant changes to the descriptions of procedures performed, evidence obtained, or conclusions reached in a particular work paper, including changes reflecting necessary work that should have been completed prior to issuance.

74. The day before archiving the 2016 Audit file, López and his senior manager informed members of ACOE that they were "considering only uploading the Log with the topics considered omitted procedures" and leaving the rest outside of the 2016 Audit file. In response, a member of ACOE responded to the senior manager while copying López, saying "[t]he log must include the changes (more than minor) to the audit file,"[53] and highlighting the relevant portions of Deloitte Global guidance.

[52] See id. at .15.

[53] Deloitte Global's guidance for its affiliate firms instructed that engagement teams classify changes made during the audit documentation period as either: "minor," "more than minor," or "omitted procedures." According to Deloitte Global's guidance, teams are supposed to document "more than minor changes" that "affect our descriptions of procedures performed, evidence obtained, or

75. Notwithstanding being told to include "more than minor" changes, López and the senior manager deleted over a thousand entries, many of which reflected changes to the descriptions of procedures performed, evidence obtained, or conclusions reached, and only uploaded the entries that were designated as "omitted procedures." No evidence of these other changes was maintained elsewhere in the 2016 Audit file.

76. As a result of the above conduct, López violated PCAOB standards by failing to include in the audit documentation, or causing the engagement team not to include, information sufficient to enable an experienced auditor having no prior connection with the engagement to determine who performed significant portions of the work for the 2016 Audit and the date such work was completed, as well as the person who reviewed the work and the date of such review.[54]

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Gabriel Jaime López Díez is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Gabriel Jaime López Díez is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i);[55] conclusions reached as of the report," and "omitted procedures" that reflect changes that "add documentation for procedures that were not completed or performed at the report release date and that result in our obtaining evidence after the report release date or reaching or modifying conclusions after the report release date."

[54] AS 1215.06.

[55] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to López. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Gabriel Jaime López Díez may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order;

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $75,000 is imposed on Gabriel Jaime López Díez.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Gabriel Jaime López Díez as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Kesselman & Kesselman C.P.A.s,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-005

February 25, 2025

(1) censuring Kesselman & Kesselman C.P.A.s ("PwC Israel," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,750,000 on PwC Israel; and

(3) requiring PwC Israel to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that PwC Israel violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards over several years in connection with the Firm's internal training program.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings contained herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of this proceeding, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. PwC Israel is a public accounting firm headquartered in Tel Aviv, Israel. PwC Israel is a member of the PricewaterhouseCoopers International Limited ("PwC Global") network. The Firm registered with the Board on July 13, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. PwC Israel is, and at all relevant times was, a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

B. Summary

2. From 2017 to 2022, PwC Israel violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures for administering and overseeing internal training tests. Those quality control failures prevented the Firm from identifying that, during the relevant period, hundreds of Firm personnel were involved in improper answer sharing—either by providing access to test questions or answers, or by receiving such access without reporting it—in connection with online tests for mandatory internal training courses.

C. PwC Israel Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

i. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

3. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[2] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[3]

---

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards; PCAOB Rule 3400T, Interim Quality Control Standards.

[3] QC § 20.01, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice.

4. As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[4] In addition, PCAOB quality control standards related to personnel management state that "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [w]ork is assigned to personnel having the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances."[5] Moreover, "policies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that . . . [p]ersonnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education and other professional development activities that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned . . . ."[6]

5. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[7] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[8] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, the effectiveness of professional development activities and compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[9]

ii. Training Requirements

6. As part of PwC Israel's personnel management system, the Firm utilizes internal training programs for its personnel. The training programs the Firm uses are designed to serve multiple purposes, including to provide personnel with technical instruction, and to further their professional development. PwC Israel's training requirements are intended to be relevant to, among other things, the independence of their personnel, the audit work they perform, and the integrity with which they carry out their professional responsibilities. However, the training requirements can vary by a professional's position, role, and industry practice area.

9 See QC § 20.20.c-.d; QC § 30.02.c-.d.

7. The internal trainings utilized by PwC Israel often include a testing component. For training courses with a testing component, the Firm does not credit personnel with completing the training until they satisfactorily pass the related test.

8. PwC Global plays a significant role in the development and deployment of the training programs PwC Israel uses. PwC Global has issued several Global Assurance Quality – Learning & Education standards that PwC Israel, as a member firm of the PwC Global network, is expected to comply with as part of PwC Israel's system of quality control. To comply with these standards, PwC Israel has elected to use training material provided by PwC Global. With respect to training tests PwC Global provides, PwC Global designs the tests, administers the platform that records test attempts and completions, and maintains certain exam-integrity measures like rotating banks of questions and randomizing the order of answer options.

iii. Failures by PwC Israel to Establish Adequate Quality Control Policies and Procedures Related to Integrity and Personnel Management

9. From 2017 to 2022, PwC Israel had in place certain quality control policies and procedures intended to address integrity and personnel management. The Firm's Code of Conduct required that Firm personnel act with integrity generally, but had no specific prohibition against answer sharing on training tests. The Firm separately communicated specific warnings against improper answer sharing on training tests, but those communications were either limited in distribution or quite recent. For example, in June 2019, the Firm sent a communication only to all of the Firm's assurance partners, bringing to their attention a recent fine imposed on a U.S. accounting firm due, in part, to answer sharing on internal training exams, and warning against such activity. Nearly three years later, in April 2022, the Firm sent a communication to all Firm personnel, bringing to their attention another fine imposed on another PwC Global network firm due to answer sharing on internal training exams.

10. As described below, these policies and procedures were inadequate to prevent or detect the extensive improper answer sharing on training tests that occurred among PwC Israel personnel over multiple years.

iv. Widespread Sharing of Answers to Internal Training Tests at PwC Israel

11. From at least 2017 to 2022, hundreds of PwC Israel personnel provided or obtained access to questions and answers for training tests in an unauthorized manner. Firm personnel did so primarily through email with PwC Israel colleagues. Firm personnel engaged in improper answer sharing in connection with tests for an array of trainings concerning, among other subjects, professional independence, PCAOB audit requirements, and professional ethics and compliance. During this time period, no one reported this misconduct to appropriate parties within the Firm until one employee spoke up in October 2022—three months after PCAOB investigators had sent the Firm an information request inquiring about, among other things, any occurrences of improper answer sharing at the Firm. Shortly after this whistleblower's report, the Firm disclosed it to the PCAOB investigators and began investigating.

12. As illustrated by the misconduct described above, from 2017 to 2022, PwC Israel failed to establish and implement policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) PwC Israel personnel performed all professional responsibilities with integrity; (2) PwC Israel personnel to whom work was assigned had the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; and (3) PwC Israel personnel participated in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enabled them to fulfill responsibilities assigned. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards related to integrity and personnel management.[10]

IV.

In ordering sanctions, the Board took into account the Firm's extraordinary cooperation with respect to its response to the discovery of improper answer sharing on internal trainings. Specifically, the Firm provided substantial assistance to the PCAOB's investigation by conducting, and providing to the PCAOB the results of, its internal investigation, including information relating to the Firm's interviews of personnel whom it suspected of engaging in improper answer sharing.

Additionally, since the answer sharing misconduct occurred, the Firm has implemented remedial and corrective measures aimed at successfully ending improper answer sharing. Among other actions, the Firm transitioned to classroom assessments with proctors rather than online assessments; implemented an annual confirmation for personnel to certify that they have complied with the Firm's policies, which now include a ban on improper answer sharing; began issuing warnings to new employees that answer sharing is prohibited; and disciplined Firm personnel who engaged in improper answer sharing.

Absent this extraordinary cooperation, the civil money penalty imposed would have been significantly larger, and the Board may have imposed additional sanctions.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

---

[10] See QC §§ 20.09, .13.b-.c, .20; QC § 30.02; and QC § 40.02.b-.c.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Kesselman & Kesselman C.P.A.s is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $2,750,000 is imposed on Kesselman & Kesselman C.P.A.s.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Kesselman & Kesselman C.P.A.s shall pay this civil money penalty within fifteen (15) days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; and (iii) submitted under a cover letter which identifies Kesselman & Kesselman C.P.A.s as the Respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Kesselman & Kesselman C.P.A.s understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), Kesselman & Kesselman C.P.A.s is required:

1. Within 120 days of the entry of this Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures as described in QC § 20.20, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (a) personnel perform all internal training and tests associated with such training with integrity; (b) personnel to whom work has been assigned have the degree of technical training and proficiency required in the circumstances; (c) personnel participate in general and industry-specific continuing professional education that enable them to fulfill responsibilities assigned; and (d) the above-described policies and procedures are suitably designed and are being effectively applied.

2. Within 150 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with Section IV.C.1. above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. Kesselman & Kesselman C.P.A.s shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. The Firm understands that the failure to satisfy any provision of Section IV.C. may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Natalie Murphy, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-006

February 25, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Natalie Murphy, CPA ("Murphy" or "Respondent");

(2) barring Murphy from being associated with a registered public accounting firm;[1]

(3) imposing a $50,000 civil money penalty on Murphy; and

(4) requiring Murphy to complete 40 hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license she holds, before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Murphy: (1) failed to cooperate with the PCAOB's 2022 inspection of Heaton & Company, PLLC (d/b/a Pinnacle Accountancy Group of Utah) ("Heaton & Co." or the "Firm") by providing misleading information to PCAOB inspectors in connection with two issuer audits; (2) failed to adequately document work paper additions and modifications made after the documentation completion date for those two issuer audits; and (3) failed to timely assemble for retention a complete and final set of audit documentation in a total of five issuer audits.

[1] Murphy may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after five years from the date of this Order.

I.

The Board deems it necessary and appropriate, for the protection of investors and to further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, that disciplinary proceedings be, and hereby are, instituted pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended ("Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1) against Respondent.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[2]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[3]

A. Respondent

1. Natalie Murphy, CPA is, and at all relevant times was, a certified public accountant licensed by the state of Utah (license no. 7388678-2601). At all relevant times, Murphy was a partner at Heaton & Co. and served as the engagement partner for each of the Firm's audits of the financial statements of the issuers discussed below. Murphy was, at all relevant times, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

---

[2] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[3] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5)(A) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5)(A), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

B. Relevant Entity

2. Heaton & Company, PLLC (d/b/a Pinnacle Accountancy Group of Utah) is a public accounting firm located in Farmington, Utah, and is licensed to practice public accounting by the Utah Board of Accountancy (license no. 9284621-2603) and certain other states. At all relevant times, Heaton & Co. was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

C. Issuers

3. Issuer A was incorporated in Wyoming and, at all relevant times, had its principal executive office in New York, New York. At all relevant times, Issuer A was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Issuer A's public filings disclose that it was a mobile application company. The Firm issued an audit report dated March 31, 2022, on Issuer A's financial statements that Issuer A included in its Form 10-K filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2021 ("Issuer A Audit").

4. Issuer B was incorporated in Colorado and, at all relevant times, had its principal executive office in Huntington Beach, California. At all relevant times, Issuer B was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). Issuer B's public filings disclose that it was engaged in the manufacture, distribution, and sale of ready-to-use food. The Firm issued an audit report dated July 27, 2021, on Issuer B's financial statements that Issuer B included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended May 31, 2021 ("Issuer B Audit").

D. Summary

5. This matter involves Respondent's failure to cooperate with the PCAOB's 2022 inspection of the Firm, and Respondent's repeated violations of PCAOB audit documentation standards.

6. First, after being notified by the staff of PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections (the "Inspection Staff") that it had selected the Issuer A Audit and the Issuer B Audit for review in connection with the 2022 inspection of the Firm, Murphy misrepresented the then-current state of the work papers for the two audits. Murphy told the Inspection Staff that all documentation had been completed and needed to be compiled, when in fact, the documentation had not been completed. Second, after the Inspection Staff notified the Firm of the selection of the Issuer A Audit for review, Murphy performed additional audit work, even while representing to the Inspection Staff that all audit procedures for the Issuer A Audit had been completed prior to the audit report date.

7. Murphy also failed to comply with PCAOB audit documentation standards by failing to adequately document modifications and additions made to the Issuer A Audit and Issuer B Audit work papers after the documentation completion dates for those audits. Further, Murphy failed to timely assemble for retention a complete and final set of audit documentation for the Issuer A Audit and Issuer B Audit, as well as for three additional issuer audits discussed below.

8. Accordingly, and as described below, Respondent violated PCAOB Rule 4006, Duty to Cooperate With Inspectors, and AS 1215, Audit Documentation.

E. Murphy Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

i. Relevant Rules and Standards

9. PCAOB Rule 4006 requires that "[e]very registered public accounting firm, and every associated person of a registered public accounting firm . . . cooperate with the Board in the performance of any Board inspection."[4] "Implicit in this cooperation requirement is that auditors provide accurate and truthful information."[5]

10. PCAOB rules also require that associated persons of registered public accounting firms comply with applicable auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] The PCAOB's audit documentation standard explains that: "A complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date). . . . Audit documentation must not be deleted or discarded after the documentation completion date, however, information may be added. Any documentation added must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[7]

[7] AS 1215.15-.16.

11. PCAOB standards require that audit documentation "contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, having no previous connection with the engagement," to understand, among other things, the timing of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and conclusions reached, and to determine not just who performed and reviewed the work but also "the date such work was completed" and "the date of such review."[8]

ii. Murphy Failed to Cooperate with the PCAOB's 2022 Inspection and Violated PCAOB Audit Documentation Standards

a. Murphy Misrepresented the State of the Issuer A Audit and Issuer B Audit Work Papers and Failed to Comply with PCAOB Audit Documentation Standards

12. As the engagement partner for the Issuer A Audit and the Issuer B Audit, Murphy authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit reports for the two issuers. The documentation completion date for the Issuer A Audit was no later than May 15, 2022 (45 days after the release of the Firm's report). The documentation completion date for the Issuer B Audit was no later than September 10, 2021. Consequently, Murphy was required to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation for the two audits by May 15, 2022, and September 10, 2021, respectively.

13. The Inspection Staff notified the Firm on August 5, 2022, that the Issuer A Audit and the Issuer B Audit had been selected for inspection and requested that the Firm provide the work papers for those two audits by August 15, 2022. After this notification, but before the August 15, 2022 deadline, Murphy informed the Inspection Staff that she had failed to assemble complete and final sets of audit work papers for these two audits.[9] Murphy, however, misrepresented the state of the work papers. Murphy told the Inspection Staff that the Issuer A Audit and the Issuer B Audit work papers were located on various local hard drives of audit staff, and she needed time to compile the work papers. However, at the time, Murphy was aware that much of the work paper documentation had not yet been created or completed.

14. In the weeks leading up to the start of inspection fieldwork for the Issuer A Audit and the Issuer B Audit, Murphy not only compiled but also created and modified work papers for the two audits. Shortly thereafter, the newly created and modified work papers were provided to the Inspection Staff.

8 See id. at .06.

9 See id. at .15.

15. Although Murphy generally disclosed in the work papers provided to the Inspection Staff, and in a subsequent discussion with the Inspection Staff, that she had created and modified work papers after the documentation completion date for the Issuer A Audit and the Issuer B Audit, she failed to adequately document those modifications and additions.

16. The work papers provided to the Inspection Staff for the Issuer A Audit and the Issuer B Audit each included a memorandum ("45-Day Memo") created by Murphy and dated July 30, 2022, and August 26, 2022, respectively. Murphy stated in each 45-Day Memo that the audit was properly and thoroughly performed prior to the audit report date but that, for various reasons, modifications and additions to the work papers were required after the documentation completion date.

17. The Issuer A 45-Day Memo included a list of work papers that were modified after the documentation completion date and stated that no changes were made to any work papers other than the specified work papers. However, Murphy did not update the listing of modified work papers to include those she modified in August 2022, after the date of the Issuer A 45-Day Memo. The Issuer B 45-Day Memo did not include a list of work papers that had been modified. Nor did the Firm create any other record to adequately document the additions and modifications to the Issuer A Audit and Issuer B Audit work papers. Murphy, therefore, failed to adequately document the additions and modifications made to the work papers for both audits.[10]

18. Accordingly, Murphy violated PCAOB Rule 4006 and AS 1215.

b. Murphy Misrepresented the Timing of Audit Procedures for the Issuer A Audit

19. On August 26, 2022, ten days before the start of inspection fieldwork, Murphy sent an email to Issuer A's CFO stating that the Firm was performing an "internal inspection," and needed responses to questions concerning Issuer A's capitalization of intellectual property.

20. Issuer A's CFO provided Murphy with additional audit support within days of her email, including invoices and other documentation related to Issuer A's capitalization of intellectual property costs in 2021. Murphy then documented in the Firm's Issuer A Audit work papers that, as part of testing Issuer A's intellectual property, the engagement team had "[r]eviewed and documented the invoices." Murphy failed to document that, in violation of PCAOB standards, the testing was performed in August 2022 and not at the time of the audit.[11]

10 See AS 1215.16.

11 See AS 1215.06, .15-.16.

21. Murphy provided the Inspection Staff with the Issuer A Audit work papers without disclosing the timing of the intellectual property testing procedures. Murphy also represented to the Inspection Staff, in written responses to comment forms, that all work paper documentation added after the documentation completion date for the Issuer A Audit was for audit procedures performed prior to the audit report date.

22. Accordingly, Murphy violated PCAOB Rule 4006 and AS 1215.

c. Murphy Failed to Timely Assemble Audit Documentation for Three Additional Audits

23. Murphy also failed to timely assemble complete and final sets of audit documentation for three other audits on which she served as the engagement partner. In connection with the investigation of this matter, the staff of PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations ("Enforcement Staff") requested the work papers for three issuer audits in addition to the Issuer A Audit and the Issuer B Audit (the "Additional Audits").

24. In response to that request, Murphy attempted to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation for one of the Additional Audits. On that audit, over 90% of the work papers were created or modified in response to the request from the Enforcement Staff, almost two years after the documentation completion date. Murphy made no attempt to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation for the other two Additional Audits, both of which contained numerous incomplete work papers and one of which contained work papers related to a different issuer.

25. Accordingly, Murphy violated AS 1215.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Natalie Murphy is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Natalie Murphy is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[12]

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Natalie Murphy may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after five years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $50,000 is imposed upon Natalie Murphy.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Respondent shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (1) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff, or (2) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Natalie Murphy as the respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that her failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to [12] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Murphy. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

E. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Natalie Murphy is required to complete, prior to filing any petition to terminate her bar and for Board consent to reassociate with a registered public accounting firm, 40 hours of continuing professional education and training relating to PCAOB auditing standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the continuing education she is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Somekh Chaikin,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-011

March 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Somekh Chaikin ("KPMG Israel," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $250,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, between 2021 and 2023, the Firm: (a) filed 24 inaccurate Form APs in connection with its audits of 13 different issuer clients, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; and (b) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Israel has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. Somekh Chaikin is a public accounting firm headquartered in Tel Aviv, Israel. It is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms ("KPMG International"). At all relevant times, KPMG Israel was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm reported that it annually served as the principal auditor for between 12 and 20 issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. Camtek LTD ("Camtek") is headquartered in Migdal Ha'Emek, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is a manufacturer of equipment for the semiconductor industry. KPMG Israel issued audit reports that Camtek included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

3. Citrine Global, Corp. ("Citrine") is headquartered in Caesarea, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is a plant-based wellness and pharmaceutical company. KPMG Israel issued an audit report that Citrine included in its Form 10-K filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2022.

4. Ellomay Capital Ltd. ("Ellomay") is headquartered in Tel Aviv, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it produces renewable and clean energy. KPMG Israel issued audit reports that Ellomay included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

5. ICL Group Ltd. ("ICL Group") is headquartered in Tel Aviv, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is a specialty minerals company. KPMG Israel issued audit reports that ICL Group included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

6. MediWound Ltd. ("MediWound") is headquartered in Yavne, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is a developer and manufacturer of biopharmaceuticals. KPMG Israel issued audit reports that MediWound included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2021, and 2022.

7. My Size, Inc. ("My Size") is headquartered in Airport City, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is an e-commerce platform and provider of technology solutions. KPMG Israel issued audit reports that My Size included in its Form 10-Ks filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, 2021, and 2022.

8. Nano Dimension Ltd. ("Nano Dimension") is headquartered in Ness Ziona, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is an additive manufacturing, sometimes referred to as 3D printing, solutions provider. KPMG Israel issued audit reports that Nano Dimension included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2021, and 2022.

9. Purple Biotech Ltd. ("Purple Biotech") is headquartered in Rehovot, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is a developer of therapies, with a focus on oncology. KPMG Israel issued audit reports that Purple Biotech included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

10. Silicom Ltd. ("Silicom") is headquartered in Kfar Sava, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is a network and data infrastructure solutions provider. KPMG Israel issued an audit report that Silicom included in its Form 20-F filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020.

11. Tikcro Technologies Ltd. ("Tikcro Technologies") was, at all relevant times, headquartered in Hadera, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it was a developer of antibodies for cancer treatment. KPMG Israel issued an audit report for the fiscal year ended December 21, 2020 that Tikcro Technologies included in its Form 6-K filed with the Commission in April 2021.

12. UAS Drone Corp. ("UAS Drone") is headquartered in Mevo Carmel Science and Industrial Park, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is a robotics company. 13. XTL Biopharmaceuticals Ltd. ("XTL Biopharma") is headquartered in Ramat Gan, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is a biopharmaceutical company that focuses on the treatment of autoimmune diseases. KPMG Israel issued audit reports that XTL Biopharma included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2021, and 2022.

14. ZIM Integrated Shipping Services Ltd. ("ZIM Integrated") is headquartered in Matam, Israel. Its public filings disclose that it is a container liner shipping company. KPMG Israel issued audit reports that ZIM Integrated included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, 2021, and 2022.

15. Each of the entities identified in paragraphs 2 through 14 was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Other Relevant Entities

16. KPMG LLP ("KPMG US") is a public accounting firm headquartered in New York, New York. At all relevant times, KPMG US was a member firm of KPMG International, was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and participated in the KPMG Israel issuer audits described below.

D. Summary

17. This matter concerns KPMG Israel's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with its reporting on the participation of other accounting firms in issuer audits. Specifically, KPMG Israel filed 24 inaccurate Form APs from 2021 through 2023 in connection with 24 audits of 13 different issuer clients, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a).

18. In addition, between 2021 and 2023, KPMG Israel violated PCAOB quality control standards related to engagement performance by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's audit professionals would accurately identify in required Form AP filings the accounting firms that participated in KPMG Israel audits and their percentage of participation.

E. KPMG Israel Filed 24 Inaccurate Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a)

19. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.[2]

20. PCAOB Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."

[2] Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with Commission, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1), subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

21. The instructions to Item 4.1 of Form AP "Part IV - Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor who uses an "other accounting firm"[3] that incurs more than 5% of the total audit hours "[s]tate the legal name of other accounting firms and the extent of participation in the audit" in its Form AP.[4]

22. The instructions to Item 4.2 of Form AP "Part IV - Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor "[s]tate the number of other accounting firm(s) individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours" and "[i]ndicate the aggregate percentage of participation" by those other accounting firms.[5]

23. Form AP Item 3.2 notes that an other accounting firm participated in the audit if "the Firm assume[d] responsibility for the work and report of the other accounting firm as described in . . . AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors," or "the other accounting firm or any of its principals or professional employees was subject to supervision under AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement."[6]

24. For 24 audits across 13 different issuers with fiscal years ending in 2020 through 2022, KPMG Israel filed Form APs that failed to accurately report information concerning other accounting firm participants in the audits.[7] In particular, the Firm failed to file accurate Form APs in connection with the following:

- the Firm's use of KPMG US to review and evaluate the Firm's critical audit matters ("CAMs") in 22 audits; and

- the Firm's use and reporting of component auditors in two audits.

[3] See General Instruction No. 2 of Form AP ("'[O]ther accounting firm' means (i) a registered public accounting firm other than the Firm; or (ii) any other person or entity that opines on the compliance of any entity's financial statements with an applicable financial reporting framework").

[4] In the adopting release for PCAOB Rule 3211, the Board explained that information provided on Form AP was "intended to help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." See Improving the Transparency of Audits: Rules to Require Disclosure of Certain Audit Participants on a New PCAOB Form and Related Amendments to Auditing Standards, PCAOB Rel. No. 2015-008, at 4 (Dec. 15, 2015).

i. Audits Using a "CAM Hub"

25. In connection with preparing an audit report, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any [CAMs] in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[8] A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[9]

26. During the relevant audits, guidance followed by KPMG Israel required that another, specifically-designated KPMG International member firm review and evaluate certain CAMs that would be communicated in the auditor's report prior to the issuance of the report. KPMG Israel referred to that designated member firm as a "CAM Hub."

27. During the relevant audits, KPMG US, through its Department of Professional Practice ("US DPP"), served as the CAM Hub for KPMG Israel, and KPMG Israel used the US DPP to review and evaluate the CAM determinations that KPMG Israel would communicate in its auditor's reports. As a result, KPMG US participated in the following 22 KPMG Israel audits ("CAM Hub Reviews"):

Issuer	Fiscal Year(s)
Camtek	2020, 2021
Citrine	2022
Ellomay	2020, 2021
MediWound	2021, 2022
My Size	2020, 2021, 2022
Nano Dimension	2021, 2022
Purple Biotech	2020, 2021
Silicom	2020
Tikcro Technologies	2020
UAS Drone	2022
XTL Biopharma	2021, 2022
ZIM Integrated	2020, 2021, 2022

28. Following each of the CAM Hub Reviews, KPMG Israel filed a Form AP. Despite utilizing the work of KPMG US in each of the 22 CAM Hub Reviews, KPMG Israel failed to report that participation in its Form AP filings for those audits.

---

[8] AS 3101.11, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion.

[9] Id.

29. Accordingly, KPMG Israel violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the 22 Form APs filed for the CAM Hub Reviews.

30. On July 31, 2023, KPMG Israel filed amended Form APs—one for each of the CAM Hub Reviews—to address KPMG US's participation as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

ii. Audits Using Component Auditors

31. In connection with the audits of ICL Group's 2020 financial statements (the "2020 ICL Group Audit") and 2021 financial statements (the "2021 ICL Group Audit") (collectively, the "ICL Group Audits"), KPMG Israel utilized audit work performed by another accounting firm that was not a member firm of KPMG International (the "Component Auditor").

32. In turn, during the ICL Group Audits, the Component Auditor utilized one or more other accounting firms to perform inventory observation procedures. At the conclusion of each of the ICL Group Audits, the Component Auditor reported the other accounting firm(s) that it utilized in its audit work to KPMG Israel.

33. Following each of the ICL Group Audits, KPMG Israel filed a Form AP. In these Form AP filings, despite the Component Auditor utilizing the other accounting firm(s) to perform inventory observation procedures, KPMG Israel only reflected the participation of the Component Auditor on the relevant Form APs, and failed to report the other accounting firm(s) that participated in the ICL Group Audits.

34. Accordingly, KPMG Israel violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form APs for the ICL Group Audits.

35. Following reevaluation of its Form AP reporting, on November 29, 2023, KPMG Israel filed amended Form APs for both of the ICL Group Audits to report the participation of the other accounting firm(s)—as other accounting firms representing less than 5% of total audit hours—thereby increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours from four to seven for the 2020 ICL Group Audit, and from five to six for the 2021 ICL Group Audit.

F. KPMG Israel Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

36. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[10] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[11] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed

[10] PCAOB Rule 3400T, Interim Quality Control Standards.

by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[12]

37. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[13] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[14]

38. From 2021 through 2023, KPMG Israel failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable regulatory requirements related to accurately reporting on Form AP the participation, including the percentage of participation, of other accounting firms in issuer audits.

39. Although KPMG Israel had certain quality control policies and procedures relating to Form AP reporting in connection with the use of other accounting firms, the Firm failed to implement and monitor them in an adequate manner. As a result, the Firm filed inaccurate Form APs between 2021 and 2023 as described herein.

40. Accordingly, the Firm failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Israel is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $250,000 is imposed on KPMG Israel.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

---

12 QC § 20.17.

13 QC § 30.02, Monitoring a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice; see also QC § 20.20.

14 See QC § 20.20.d; QC § 30.02.d.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies KPMG Israel as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, additional interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG Israel. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Israel shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with PCAOB Rule 3211.

2. Reporting. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Israel shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG Israel or, if KPMG Israel concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG Israel shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG Israel's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within six months of the date of this Order, the individual designated as KPMG Israel's Senior Partner shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG Israel has implemented all of the modifications and additions, if any, to its policies and procedures that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG Israel's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG Israel shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. KPMG Israel understands that a failure to satisfy all applicable undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-018

March 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is :

(1) censuring PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP ("PwC Singapore," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,500,000 on PwC Singapore; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that in connection with the Firm's administration of Personal Independence Compliance Testing ("PICT"), the Firm violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards over approximately two years.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. PwC Singapore is a public accounting firm located in Singapore. PwC Singapore is a member firm of the PricewaterhouseCoopers network, of which PricewaterhouseCoopers International Limited is the coordinating entity ("PwC Global"). The Firm registered with the Board on July 13, 2004, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, a "registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i).

B. Summary

2. From 2022 until mid-2024, PwC Singapore violated PCAOB rules and quality control standards related to integrity and administration of its system of quality control. The Firm's violations stemmed from its failures to establish and implement appropriate policies and procedures over its PICT process and to foster an appropriate ethical culture within its Independence Office. While these deficiencies in its PICT process existed, firm personnel in the Independence Office developed and implemented methods to influence the results of the PICT data the Firm reported to the PCAOB's Division of Registration and Inspections (DRI) and understate the rates at which Firm personnel failed to timely report their financial interests and relationships.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

C. PwC Singapore Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

i. Applicable PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

3. PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm comply with the Board's quality control standards,[3] which provide that a registered firm "shall have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[4]

4. As part of a firm's system of quality control, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that personnel . . . perform all professional responsibilities with integrity."[5]

5. To provide reasonable assurance that the firm's quality control system "achieves its objectives, appropriate consideration should be given to the assignment of quality control responsibilities within the firm . . . and the extent to which the policies and procedures and compliance therewith should be documented."[6] A firm should assign responsibility for the design and maintenance of quality control policies and procedures to appropriate individuals, giving consideration to "the proficiency of the individuals, the authority to be delegated to them, and the extent of supervision to be provided."[7] A firm should also prepare appropriate documentation to demonstrate compliance with its quality control policies and procedures.[8] Such documentation "should be retained for a period of time sufficient to enable those performing monitoring procedures . . . to evaluate the extent of the firm's compliance with its quality control policies and procedures."[9]

6. PCAOB quality control standards recognize that "[t]he elements of quality control are interrelated,"[10] and that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures related to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[11] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[12]

ii. PICT Requirements

7. PwC Singapore's Independence Office administers PICT to provide reasonable assurance that its audit professionals are fulfilling the financial disclosure requirements prescribed under the Firm's independence policies. Most notably, the Firm requires all Partners and professionals of Senior Associate grade and above to maintain a "Checkpoint" portfolio to track their and their immediate family members' financial interests and relationships. The Firm's audit professionals are selected on a variety of bases for PICT to monitor their portfolio maintenance and identify any exceptions, i.e., any failures to properly or timely record their financial interests in the Checkpoint database.

8. Checkpoint exceptions identified during PICT are included in the Firm's PICT exception rate. Conversely, exceptions that personnel "self-report" prior to the initiation of the PICT process are not included in the Firm's PICT exception rate calculation.

9. As part of PCAOB inspections of the Firm, DRI requested and PwC Singapore provided information related to its PICT efforts and related results.

iii. Direction to Reduce PICT Exception Rates

10. In 2020, PwC Singapore was inspected by the PCAOB. In connection with that inspection, the PCAOB, citing the Firm's PICT exception rates for fiscal years 2019 and 2020, identified a quality control criticism related to the Firm's PICT process.[13]

11. This quality control criticism, together with a target from PwC Global to reduce PICT exception rates to below 15%, prompted Firm Risk Management leadership to direct the Independence Office to initiate measures intended to reduce the Firm's PICT exception rate.

12. In response, the Independence Office began a concerted effort to improve compliance with the Firm's independence policies with the aim of achieving a targeted PICT exception rate of 15%. Specifically, the Independence Office increased training on personal independence obligations and internal messaging promoting the importance of compliance with PwC Singapore's personal independence program and self-reporting exceptions. However, when these actions failed to achieve the desired effect, the Independence Office began implementing other measures to reduce the PICT exception rate.

13. Specifically, in an effort to reduce the PICT exception rate, the Independence Office started "proactively" contacting PICT selectees to direct them to review their financial holdings before providing them to PICT administrators. These selectees were further instructed to report all noted exceptions to the Independence Office before the PICT process commenced (the "Proactive Communication Approach"). Exceptions reported in this manner were characterized as "self-reported." In certain instances, the Independence Office also instructed PICT selectees to self-report Checkpoint exceptions identified during PICT. Exceptions reported in this manner were also designated as "self-reported."

14. Updated PICT guidance from PwC Global in November 2022 expressly stated that exceptions identified after personnel were notified of their selection for PICT but before PICT commenced should be considered PICT exceptions, not self-reported. In response, the Independence Office ceased the Proactive Communication Approach.

15. PwC Global's updated guidance prompted Independence Office personnel to implement two new approaches in or around February 2023 to reduce the Firm's PICT exception rate: the "Deferral Approach" and the "Advance Notice Approach."

16. Under the "Deferral Approach," Independence Office personnel contacted PICT selectees to instruct them to review their financial holdings and report any noted exceptions to the Independence Office prior to disclosing their financial holdings to PICT administrators. Anyone who reported an exception to the Independence Office was then issued a new PICT selection notice dated after the exception was reported, and the previously reported exception was improperly characterized as "self-reported."

17. Under the "Advance Notice Approach," Independence Office personnel notified Firm employees that they would be selected for PICT at a later date and instructed them to review their financial holdings for a specific period that would be subject to PICT so they could self-report any exceptions to the Independence Office prior to being officially notified of their selection for PICT. By providing the specific period the individual would be tested for, the Independence Office improperly influenced the PICT process. Any exceptions reported to the Independence Office following Advance Notice but before PICT notification were classified as "self-reported."

iv. PwC Singapore Provided Incorrect PICT Data to DRI

18. In March 2023, PwC Singapore submitted to the PCAOB a document entitled "Final Remediation Plan in Response to the 2020 PCAOB Inspection Quality Control Criticisms" ("Final Response"). The Final Response was prepared by the Firm's Head of Independence and reviewed by the individual the Firm had appointed as the Partner Responsible for Independence (the "PRI"). The Final Response set forth several remedial actions undertaken by the Firm and stated that PICT exception rates had decreased to 13% in fiscal year 2022. The Firm also stated that the year-to-date fiscal year 2023 exception rate was 15%. The Final Response did not disclose the Proactive Communication Approach, the Deferral Approach, or the Advance Notice Approach employed by the Independence Office despite their impact on the Firm's reported exception rates.

19. In August 2023, DRI requested, and the Firm provided, updated PICT exception rates. Shortly thereafter, DRI notified the Firm that it had concluded its review of the Firm's remediation response and planned to recommend that the Board make a favorable determination. In September 2023, the Board made a final determination that the Firm had satisfactorily remediated the Board's 2020 quality control criticism.

20. The PICT exception rates the Firm provided to DRI in March and August 2023 improperly excluded exceptions characterized by the Independence Office as "self-reported."

v. Failures by PwC Singapore to Establish Adequate Quality Control Policies and Procedures Related to Integrity, Administration of the Firm's System of Quality Control, and Monitoring

21. PwC Singapore failed to establish and implement policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its Independence Office personnel would perform their professional responsibilities with integrity.[14] Independence Office personnel went unchecked in their development and implementation of the various methods to modify the Firm's PICT exception rates for fiscal years 2022 and 2023. Those PICT exception rates were ultimately reported to the PCAOB.

22. Firm leadership was focused on achieving the targeted PICT exception rate. As a consequence, Firm Risk Management leadership directed the Independence Office, to "do all possible to reverse" the elevated PICT exception rates. Firm Risk Management leadership did not obtain an understanding of how the Independence Office was ultimately able to reduce the

[14] See QC § 20.03, .09.

PICT exception rate to below 15%. This focus, combined with a lack of appropriate PICT-related policies and procedures and related controls enabled the Independence Office's misconduct.

23. In addition, the Firm failed to give appropriate consideration to the assignment of QC responsibilities when selecting the individual it appointed as the PRI.[15] At the time of the appointment, the PRI had no prior experience in independence and was already serving in other administrative roles within the Firm, as well as serving on client engagements. The Firm then failed to ensure that the PRI had sufficient knowledge of the PICT procedures utilized by Independence Office personnel and failed to provide sufficient resources to the Independence Office. Consequently, the PRI had insufficient time to devote to independence-related responsibilities, was deferential to incumbent Independence Office personnel, and had insufficient resources to ensure appropriate administration of the PICT process.

24. The Firm also failed to design and implement appropriate monitoring procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm and its personnel were complying with the Firm's quality control policies and procedures. The improper means by which the Independence Office administered the PICT process went undetected for approximately two years. Indeed, the misconduct was not discovered until an internal investigation was conducted following the PCAOB's commencement of its inquiry into the matter.

25. Lastly, the Firm failed to design and implement adequate policies and procedures to ensure that Firm personnel prepared and retained documentation for a period of time sufficient to enable those performing monitoring procedures to evaluate the extent of the Firm's compliance with its quality control policies and procedures.[16] Independence Office personnel who improperly modified PICT exception rates purposefully used MS Teams (which, under Firm policy, preserves chats for only 24 hours and does not record or retain calls) as the primary means to communicate directives to PICT selectees to avoid creating a permanent paper trail memorializing their actions.

26. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards related to integrity, administration of the Firm's system of quality control, and monitoring.[17]

IV.

In ordering sanctions, the Board took into account the Firm's extraordinary cooperation in this matter.[18] The Firm shared with the PCAOB the results of its internal investigation which revealed the circumstances surrounding the Independence Office's efforts to improperly reduce the Firm's reported PICT exception rates. Additionally, the Firm voluntarily instituted remedial measures to address the above-described issues, including: (1) increasing trainings and workshops focusing on the importance of employee adherence to both the letter and spirit of the Firm's independence policies; (2) undertaking efforts to transform the culture within the Independence Office and the Firm to incentivize personnel to act with integrity and report unethical behavior; (3) appointing a new PRI, Ethics and Business Conduct Leader, and Risk and Quality Leader; (4) requiring the newly appointed PRI and any successor to devote at least 50% of their time to independence matters; (5) forming an Advisory Working Group to support and provide guidance and subject matter expertise to the Independence Office; and (6) appointing a new Head of PICT to lead the team assigned to administer the PICT process.

Absent the Firm's extraordinary cooperation, the civil money penalty imposed against the Firm would have been larger, and the Board may have imposed additional sanctions.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Respondent is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $1,500,000 is imposed on PwC Singapore.

   1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of these civil money penalties will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

   2. Respondent shall pay the civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by (1) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (2) United States Postal Service postal money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (a) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (b) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and (c) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the entity as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. The Firm understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to PwC Singapore at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), PwC Singapore is required:

1. Within 90 days of the entry of the Order, to provide ten hours of personal independence training to the Partner Responsible for Independence and PwC Singapore Independence Office personnel.

2. Within 120 days of the entry of the Order, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that: (a) all personnel perform all independence-related compliance procedures with integrity; (b) all personnel to whom independence-related compliance procedures are assigned have the degree of technical training and proficiency required under the circumstances and are sufficiently supervised; (c) instructions for performing independence-related compliance procedures are appropriately established and implemented; (d) appropriate documentation is prepared and retained to demonstrate compliance with independence-related compliance policies and procedures; and (e) the above-described policies and procedures are suitably designed and effectively applied.

3. Within 120 days of the entry of the Order, to provide: (a) four hours of ethics training to the Partner Responsible for Independence and PwC Singapore Independence Office personnel; and (b) four hours of personal independence training to all Firm personnel.

4. Within 180 days of the entry of this Order, to provide a certification, signed by its CEO, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraphs IV.D.1.-3. above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above (including any remedial actions taken prior to the date of this Order), provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. PwC Singapore shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

D. Respondent understands that a failure to satisfy the undertakings and conditions prescribed herein may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG Samjong Accounting Corp.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-014

March 11, 2025

(1) censuring KPMG Samjong Accounting Corp. ("KPMG Samjong," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $275,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, between 2020 and 2023, the Firm: (a) filed 10 inaccurate Form APs in connection with its audits of five different issuer clients, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; and (b) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Samjong has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG Samjong Accounting Corp. is a public accounting firm headquartered in Seoul, Republic of Korea. It is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms ("KPMG International"). At all relevant times, KPMG Samjong was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm reported that it annually served as the principal auditor for between five and seven issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. Gravity Co., Ltd. ("Gravity") is headquartered in Seoul, Republic of Korea. Its public filings disclose that it is an online and mobile game developer. KPMG Samjong issued audit reports that Gravity included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

3. KB Financial Group Inc. ("KB Financial") is headquartered in Seoul, Republic of Korea. Its public filings disclose that it is a banking and financial services company. KPMG Samjong issued audit reports that KB Financial included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

4. LG Display Co., Ltd. ("LG Display") is headquartered in Seoul, Republic of Korea. Its public filings disclose that it is a technology equipment manufacturer primarily for televisions and mobile devices. KPMG Samjong issued an audit report that LG Display included in its Form 20-F filed with the Commission for fiscal year ended December 31, 2020.

5. POSCO is headquartered in Seoul, Republic of Korea. Its public filings disclose that it is a steel manufacturer. KPMG Samjong issued audit reports that POSCO included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2019 and 2020.

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

6. SK Telecom Co., Ltd. ("SK Telecom") is headquartered in Seoul, Republic of Korea. Its public filings disclose that it is a telecommunications services provider. KPMG Samjong issued audit reports that SK Telecom included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2019, 2020 and 2021.

7. Each of the entities identified in paragraphs 2 through 6 was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Other Relevant Entities

8. KPMG Huazhen LLP ("KPMG Huazhen") is a public accounting firm headquartered in in Beijing, People's Republic of China. At all relevant times, KPMG Huazhen was a member firm of KPMG International, was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and participated in one or more of KPMG Samjong's issuer audits.

9. KPMG Limited ("KPMG Vietnam") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Hanoi, Vietnam. At all relevant times KPMG Vietnam was a member firm of KPMG International, was not registered with the Board, and participated in one or more of KPMG Samjong's issuer audits.

D. Summary

10. This matter concerns KPMG Samjong's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with its reporting on the participation of other accounting firms in issuer audits. Specifically, KPMG Samjong filed 10 inaccurate Form APs from 2020 through 2022 in connection with 10 audits of five different issuer clients, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a).

11. In addition, between 2020 and 2023, KPMG Samjong violated PCAOB quality control standards related to engagement performance by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's audit professionals would accurately identify in required Form AP filings the accounting firms that participated in KPMG Samjong audits and their percentage of participation.

E. KPMG Samjong Filed 10 Inaccurate Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a)

12. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.[2]

13. PCAOB Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."

14. The instructions to Item 4.1 of Form AP "Part IV - Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor who uses an "other accounting firm"[3] that incurs more than 5% of the total audit hours "[s]tate the legal name of other accounting firms and the extent of participation in the audit" in its Form AP.[4]

15. The instructions to Item 4.2 of Form AP "Part IV – Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor "[s]tate the number of other accounting firm(s) individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours" and "[i]ndicate the aggregate percentage of participation" by those other accounting firms.[5]

16. Form AP Item 3.2 notes that an other accounting firm participated in the audit if "the Firm assume[d] responsibility for the work and report of the other accounting firm as described in . . . AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors," or "the other accounting firm or any of its principals or professional employees was subject to supervision under AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement."[6]

[2] Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with Commission, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1), subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

[3] See General Instruction No. 2 of Form AP ("'[O]ther accounting firm' means (i) a registered public accounting firm other than the Firm; or (ii) any other person or entity that opines on the compliance of any entity's financial statements with an applicable financial reporting framework").

[4] In the adopting release for PCAOB Rule 3211, the Board explained that information provided on Form AP was "intended to help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." See Improving the Transparency of Audits: Rules to Require Disclosure of Certain Audit Participants on a New PCAOB Form and Related Amendments to Auditing Standards, PCAOB Rel. No. 2015-008, at 4 (Dec. 15, 2015).

[5] See Item 4.2 and Part IV of Form AP.

[6] See Note to Item 3.2 of Form AP.

17. For 10 audits across five different issuer clients with fiscal years ending from 2019 through 2021, KPMG Samjong filed Form APs that failed to accurately report information concerning other accounting firm participants in the audits.[7] In particular, the Firm failed to file accurate Form APs in connection with the following:

- the Firm's use of other accounting firms to review and evaluate the Firm's critical audit matters ("CAMs"); and
- the Firm's use and reporting of component auditors.

i. Audits Using a "CAM Hub"

18. In connection with preparing an audit report, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any [CAMs] in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[8] A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[9]

19. During the relevant audits, guidance followed by KPMG Samjong required that one of several specifically-designated KPMG International member firms review and evaluate certain CAMs that KPMG Samjong would communicate in its auditor's reports prior to the issuance of the reports. KPMG Samjong referred to those designated member firms as "CAM Hubs."

20. During the period covered by this Order, several different KPMG member firms served as CAM Hubs for KPMG Samjong, and KPMG Samjong used those firms to review and evaluate the CAM determinations that it would communicate in its auditor's reports. As a result, one or more KPMG International member firms participated in the following seven audits ("CAM Hub Reviews"), as follows:

Issuer	Fiscal Year
KB Financial	2020
KB Financial	2021
Gravity	2020

[7] Each of the other accounting firm participants referenced in the Order meets the definition of an "other accounting firm" requiring reporting on Form AP in accordance with the instructions of Form AP. See Rule 3211(a) and supra note 3.

[8] AS 3101.11, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion.

[9] Id.

Gravity	2021
SK Telecom	2019
SK Telecom	2020
SK Telecom	2021

21. Following each of the CAM Hub Reviews, KPMG Samjong filed a Form AP. Despite utilizing the work of CAM Hubs, KPMG Samjong failed to report the participation of the relevant accounting firms in those audits in its Form AP filings.

22. Accordingly, KPMG Samjong violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with Form APs filed for the CAM Hub Reviews.

23. Between May 2023 and June 2024, KPMG Samjong filed amended Form APs—one for each of the CAM Hub Reviews—to report the participation of the relevant participating CAM Hubs and other accounting firms—each representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

ii. Audits Using Component Auditors

a. KPMG Samjong Failed to Accurately Identify a Component Auditor

24. In connection with KPMG Samjong's audit of LG Display's 2020 financial statements (the "LG Display Audit"), KPMG Samjong utilized work performed by other KPMG International member firms. Specifically, in connection with the LG Display Audit, KPMG Samjong engaged KPMG Vietnam along with other accounting firms, including KPMG Huazhen to perform audit procedures and serve as component auditors.

25. At the time of the LG Display Audit, KPMG Samjong was aware of KPMG Vietnam's role and participation in the audit.

26. Following the LG Display Audit, KPMG Samjong filed a Form AP that included KPMG Vietnam as an other accounting firm reflecting less than 5% of total audit hours.

27. Following the filing of the Form AP for the LG Display Audit, KPMG Samjong determined that KPMG Vietnam's participation was in fact over 5%. Accordingly, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the LG Display Audit.

28. On May 25, 2022, KPMG Samjong filed an amended Form AP for the LG Display Audit, which (1) identified KPMG Vietnam in Item 4.1 at a 5% to 10% level rather than the previous less than 5% level of participation; and (2) decreased KPMG Huazhen's reported participation from a 30% to 40% level to a 20% to 30% level.

b. KPMG Samjong Failed to Report the Participation of a Component Auditor

29. In connection with KPMG Samjong's audits of POSCO's 2019 and 2020 financial statements (the "POSCO Audits"), KPMG Samjong utilized work performed by an other accounting firm in India (the "Indian Firm") to audit a component entity of POSCO.

30. Following the POSCO Audits, KPMG Samjong filed Form APs. Despite utilizing the work of the Indian Firm, KPMG Samjong failed to report the participation of the Indian Firm in the POSCO Audits.

31. Accordingly, KPMG Samjong violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form APs for the POSCO Audits.

32. On July 19, 2023, KPMG Samjong filed amended Form APs for the POSCO Audits. The amended Form APs reported the participation of the Indian Firmin both audits as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

F. KPMG Samjong Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

33. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[10] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[11] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[12]

34. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[13] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[14]

35. From 2020 through 2023, KPMG Samjong failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable regulatory requirements related to accurately reporting on Form AP the participation, including the percentage of participation, of other accounting firms in issuer audits.

36. Although KPMG Samjong had certain quality control policies and procedures relating to Form AP reporting in connection with the use of other accounting firms, the Firm failed to implement and monitor them in an adequate manner. As a result, the Firm filed inaccurate Form APs between 2020 and 2022.

37. Accordingly, the Firm failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Samjong is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $275,000 is imposed on KPMG Samjong.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within twenty (20) days of the issuance of this Order by: (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies KPMG Samjong as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG Samjong. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Samjong shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with PCAOB Rule 3211.

2. Reporting. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Samjong shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG Samjong or, if KPMG Samjong concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG Samjong shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG Samjong's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within six months of the date of this Order, KPMG Samjong's Chief Executive Officer shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG Samjong has implemented all of the modifications and additions, if any, to its policies and procedures that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG Samjong's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG Samjong shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. KPMG Samjong understands that a failure to satisfy all applicable undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG S.p.A. (Italy),

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-010

March 11, 2025

(1) censuring KPMG S.p.A. ("KPMG Italy," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $175,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, between 2021 and 2023, the Firm: (a) filed inaccurate Form APs in connection with two audits of an issuer client, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; and (b) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Italy has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG S.p.A. is a public accounting firm headquartered in Milan, Italy. It is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms ("KPMG International"). At all relevant times, KPMG Italy was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm reported that it annually served as the principal auditor for one issuer client—Natuzzi S.p.A.

B. Issuers

2. Natuzzi S.p.A. ("Natuzzi") is headquartered in Santeramo in Colle, Italy. Its public filings disclose that it is a producer and designer of luxury furniture. Natuzzi was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). KPMG Italy issued audit reports that Natuzzi included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020 and 2021 (the "Natuzzi Audits").

C. Summary

3. This matter concerns KPMG Italy's failure to report on Form AP the participation of an other accounting firm in the Natuzzi Audits, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a). In addition, between 2021 and 2023, KPMG Italy violated PCAOB quality control standards related to engagement performance by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's audit professionals would accurately identify in required Form AP filings the accounting firms that participated in KPMG Italy audits and their percentage of participation.

D. KPMG Italy Filed Two Inaccurate Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a)

4. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.[2]

5. PCAOB Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."

6. The instructions to Item 4.1 of Form AP "Part IV - Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor who uses an "other accounting firm"[3] that incurs more than 5% of the total audit hours "[s]tate the legal name of other accounting firms and the extent of participation in the audit" in its Form AP.[4]

7. The instructions to Item 4.2 of Form AP "Part IV – Responsibility for the Audit is Not Divided" require an auditor to "[s]tate the number of other accounting firm(s) individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours" and "[i]ndicate the aggregate percentage of participation" by those other accounting firms.[5]

8. Form AP Item 3.2 explains that an other accounting firm participated in the audit if "the Firm assume[d] responsibility for the work and report of the other accounting firm as described in . . . AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors," or "the other accounting firm or any of its principals or professional employees was subject to supervision under AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement."[6]

[2] Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with Commission, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1), subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

[3] See General Instruction No. 2 of Form AP ("'[O]ther accounting firm' means (i) a registered public accounting firm other than the Firm; or (ii) any other person or entity that opines on the compliance of any entity's financial statements with an applicable financial reporting framework").

[4] In the adopting release for PCAOB Rule 3211, the Board explained that information provided on Form AP was "intended to help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." See Improving the Transparency of Audits: Rules to Require Disclosure of Certain Audit Participants on a New PCAOB Form and Related Amendments to Auditing Standards, PCAOB Rel. No. 2015-008, at 4 (Dec. 15, 2015).

[5] See Item 4.2 and Part IV of Form AP.

[6] See Note to Item 3.2 of Form AP.

9. In connection with the Natuzzi Audits, KPMG Italy filed Form APs that failed to accurately report information concerning an other accounting firm's participation in those audits through the other accounting firm's review of KPMG Italy's determination of critical audit matters ("CAMs").[7]

10. In connection with preparing an audit report, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any [CAMs] in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[8] A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[9]

11. During the Natuzzi Audits, guidance followed by KPMG Italy required that another, specifically-designated KPMG International-affiliated entity review and evaluate certain CAMs that would be communicated in the auditor's report prior to the issuance of the report. KPMG Italy referred to that designated entity as a "CAM Hub."

12. During the Natuzzi Audits, KPMG Italy consulted with and utilized a UK-based CAM Hub, which was a wholly owned subsidiary of an other accounting firm based in England (the "UK Firm"), to review and evaluate its CAM determinations ("CAM Hub Reviews"). The UK Firm directed and supervised its subsidiary's CAM Hub Reviews on the Natuzzi Audits. As a result, the UK Firm participated in the Natuzzi Audits.

13. Following each of the Natuzzi Audits, KPMG Italy filed a Form AP. Despite utilizing the work of the UK Firm in each of the audits, KPMG Italy failed to report the UK Firm as a participant in those audits in its Form AP filings.

14. Accordingly, KPMG Italy violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form APs filed for the Natuzzi Audits.

15. On May 6, 2024, KPMG Italy filed amended Form APs for each of the Natuzzi Audits to report the UK Firm's participation as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours, thereby increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours by one for each of the Natuzzi Audits.

[7] The other accounting firm participant referenced in the Order meets the definition of an "other accounting firm" requiring reporting on Form AP in accordance with the instructions of Form AP. See Rule 3211(a) and supra note 3.

E. KPMG Italy Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

16. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[10] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[11] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[12]

17. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[13] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[14]

18. From 2021 through 2023, KPMG Italy failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable regulatory requirements related to accurately reporting on Form AP the participation, including the percentage of participation, of other accounting firms in issuer audits.

19. Although KPMG Italy had certain quality control policies and procedures relating to Form AP reporting in connection with the use of other accounting firms, the Firm failed to implement and monitor them in an adequate manner. As a result, the Firm filed two inaccurate Form APs between 2021 and 2022.

20. Accordingly, the Firm failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Italy is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $175,000 is imposed on KPMG Italy.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies KPMG Italy as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG Italy. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Italy shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with PCAOB Rule 3211.

2. Reporting. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Italy shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG Italy or, if KPMG Italy concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG Italy shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG Italy's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within six months of the date of this Order, the individual designated as KPMG Italy's Senior Partner shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG Italy has implemented all of the modifications and additions, if any, to its policies and procedures that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG Italy's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG Italy shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. KPMG Italy understands that a failure to satisfy all applicable undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG LLP (United Kingdom),

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-012

March 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring KPMG LLP ("KPMG UK," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $600,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, between 2020 and 2023, the Firm: (a) failed to make certain required communications to the relevant audit committee or audit committee equivalent in 10 issuer audits, in violation of AS 1301.10d, Communications with Audit Committees; (b) filed 13 inaccurate Form APs in connection with its audits of seven different issuer clients, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; and (c) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG UK has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG LLP is a public accounting firm headquartered in London, United Kingdom. It is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms ("KPMG International"). At all relevant times, KPMG UK was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm reported that it annually served as the principal auditor for between 16 and 19 issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. Arrival is headquartered in Howald, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. Its public filings disclose that it is a commercial electric vehicle designer and manufacturer. KPMG UK issued an audit report that Arrival included in its Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2021.

3. Barclays Bank PLC ("Barclays Bank") is headquartered in London, United Kingdom. Its public filings disclose that it is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Barclays plc, and is a banking and financial services provider. KPMG UK issued audit reports that Barclays Bank included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

4. Barclays PLC ("Barclays") is headquartered in London, United Kingdom. Its public filings disclose that it is a global financial services provider engaged in wholesale, retail, investment banking, and wealth and investment management services. KPMG UK issued audit reports that Barclays included in its form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

5. BHP Group Plc ("BHP Group") is headquartered in London, United Kingdom. Its public filings disclose that it is a mining company that, with Australia-based BHP Group Limited, operated as a combined group known as "BHP." KPMG UK issued joint audit reports with the

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

Australian member firm of KPMG International that BHP Group included in its Form 20-F filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2019.

6. British American Tobacco p.l.c. ("BAT") is headquartered in London, United Kingdom. Its public filings disclose that it manufactures and sells cigarettes, tobacco, and other nicotine products. KPMG UK issued audit reports that BAT included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

7. LumiraDx Limited ("Lumira") is headquartered in Grand Cayman, Cayman Islands. Its public filings disclose that it is a healthcare company. KPMG UK issued an audit report that Lumira included in its Form 20-F filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2021.

8. Prudential Public Limited Company ("Prudential") is headquartered in Hong Kong, Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China. Its public filings disclose that it is an insurance provider. KPMG UK issued audit reports that Prudential included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2019, 2020, 2021, and 2022.

9. PureTech Health plc ("PureTech") is headquartered in Boston, Massachusetts. Its public filings disclose that it is a biotechnology and pharmaceutical company. KPMG UK issued audit reports that PureTech included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021.

10. Smith & Nephew plc ("Smith") is headquartered in Hertfordshire, United Kingdom. Its public filings disclose that it is a developer of medical devices and services. KPMG UK issued audit reports that Smith included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2022.

11. Unilever PLC ("Unilever") is headquartered in London, United Kingdom. Its public filings disclose that it is a consumer goods company. KPMG UK issued audit reports that Unilever included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, 2021, and 2022.

12. Each of the entities identified in paragraphs 2 through 11 was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Other Relevant Entities

13. KPMG ("KPMG Australia") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Sydney, Australia.

14. KPMG S.p.A. ("KPMG Italy") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Milan, Italy.

15. At all relevant times, KPMG Australia and KPMG Italy were member firms of KPMG International, were registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and participated in one or more of KPMG UK's issuer audits.

D. Summary

16. This matter concerns KPMG UK's repeated violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with its failure to disclose, or accurately disclose, the participation of other accounting firms in issuer audits. Specifically, KPMG UK failed to make certain required communications to the relevant audit committee or audit committee equivalent in 10 issuer audits, in violation of AS 1301.10d. In addition, KPMG UK filed 13 inaccurate Form APs from 2020 through 2023 in connection with 13 audits of seven different issuers, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a).

17. Finally, between 2020 and 2023, KPMG UK violated PCAOB quality control standards related to engagement performance by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's audit professionals would accurately identify in required Form AP filings the accounting firms that participated in KPMG UK audits and their percentage of participation.

E. KPMG UK Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301.10d

18. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[3]

---

[2] AS 1301.01. For purposes of AS 1301, "audit committee" is defined as "[a] committee (or equivalent body) established by and among the board of directors of a company for the purpose of overseeing the accounting and financial reporting processes of the company and audits of the financial statements of the company; if no such committee exists with respect to the company, the entire board of directors of the company." AS 1301.A2.

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's

19. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[4] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[5]

20. In connection with the following 10 audits, KPMG UK used other accounting firms to perform certain audit procedures as other independent public accounting firms. However, with respect to each of the audits identified below, KPMG UK failed to communicate at the time of the audit to the relevant issuer's audit committee or audit committee equivalent the name, location, and planned responsibilities of one or more of the following other accounting firms.

Issuer	Fiscal Year
Barclays	2019
Barclays	2021
Barclays Bank	2019

evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16 – Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (Aug. 15, 2012) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release").

[4] The term "other independent public accounting firms" in the context of communications with audit committees pursuant to AS 1301 includes "firms that perform audit procedures in the current period audit regardless of whether they otherwise have any relationship with the auditor." AS 1301.10d, Note.

[5] AS 1301.10d. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

21. Accordingly, KPMG UK violated AS 1301.10d in connection with each of those 10 audits.

F. KPMG UK Filed 13 Inaccurate Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a)

22. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.[6]

23. PCAOB Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."

24. The instructions to Item 4.1 of Form AP "Part IV - Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor who uses an "other accounting firm"[7] that incurs more than 5% of the total audit hours "[s]tate the legal name of other accounting firms and the extent of participation in the audit" in its Form AP.[8]

25. The instructions to Item 4.2 of Form AP "Part IV – Responsibility for the Audit is Not Divided" further require an auditor to "[s]tate the number of other accounting firm(s) individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours" and "[i]ndicate the aggregate percentage of participation" by those other accounting firms.[9]

[6] Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with Commission, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1), subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

[7] See General Instruction No. 2 of Form AP ("'[O]ther accounting firm' means (i) a registered public accounting firm other than the Firm; or (ii) any other person or entity that opines on the compliance of any entity's financial statements with an applicable financial reporting framework").

[8] In the adopting release for PCAOB Rule 3211, the Board explained that information provided on Form AP was "intended to help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." See Improving the Transparency of Audits: Rules to Require Disclosure of Certain Audit Participants on a New PCAOB Form and Related Amendments to Auditing Standards, PCAOB Rel. No. 2015-008, at 4 (Dec. 15, 2015).

[9] See Item 4.2 and Part IV of Form AP.

26. Form AP Item 3.2 explains that an other accounting firm participated in the audit if "the Firm assume[d] responsibility for the work and report of the other accounting firm as described in . . . AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors," or "the other accounting firm or any of its principals or professional employees was subject to supervision under AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement."[10]

27. For 13 audits across seven different issuers with fiscal years ending in 2019 through 2022, KPMG UK filed Form APs that failed to accurately report information concerning other accounting firm participants.[11] In particular, the Firm failed to file accurate Form APs in connection with the following:

- the Firm's use and reporting of component auditors or firms used by the component auditors;
- the Firm's use of other non-accounting firms, including a "shared service center,"[12] or non-accounting firms' use of other accounting firms; and
- the Firm's use of personnel borrowed from other accounting firms.

i. Audits Using Component Auditors

a. KPMG UK Failed to Identify or Report in Form AP the Participation of Component Auditors or Other Accounting Firms Used by Component Auditors

28. During certain audits, KPMG UK utilized work performed by other KPMG International member firms (generally, "Component Auditors"). Some of those Component Auditors, in turn, used the professional staff of other KPMG International member firms to perform certain audit procedures requested by KPMG UK.

29. By performing the requested procedures, KPMG International member firms participated in the following eight audits ("Group Audits"):

Issuer	Fiscal Year(s)
Prudential	2019

[10] See Note to Item 3.2 of Form AP.

[11] Each of the other accounting firm participants referenced in the Order meets the definition of an "other accounting firm" requiring reporting on Form AP in accordance with the instructions of Form AP. See Rule 3211(a) and supra note 8.

[12] KPMG UK used the term "shared service center" to describe an entity that centralizes the performance of procedures requested to support an engagement.

Prudential	2020
Prudential	2021, 2022
PureTech	2020, 2021
Smith	2020, 2022

30. Following each of the eight Group Audits, KPMG UK filed a Form AP. KPMG UK failed, however, to report the participation of the relevant other accounting firms in its Form AP filings.

31. Accordingly, KPMG UK violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form APs filed for the Group Audits.

32. Following reevaluation of its Form AP reporting, KPMG UK filed the following amended Form APs—one for each Group Audit—to report the participation of other accounting firms in the Group Audits:

Issuer	Fiscal Year	Form AP/A Filing Date	Description of Amendment
Prudential	2019	Feb. 2, 2024	Increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours by two and moving one firm from Item 4.2 to Item. 4.1.
Prudential	2020	Feb. 2, 2024	Increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours by three.
Prudential	2021	Feb. 2, 2024	Increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours by one.
Prudential	2022	Feb. 2, 2024	Increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours by one.
PureTech	2020	Feb. 22, 2024	Identifying KPMG Italy's participation in Item 4.1, representing 5 to 10% of total audit hours.
PureTech	2021	Feb. 22, 2024	Increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours by one.
Smith	2020	Feb. 19, 2024	Increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours by one.

Issuer	Fiscal Year	Form AP/A Filing Date	Description of Amendment
Smith	2022	Feb. 19, 2024	Increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours by one.

b. KPMG UK Failed to Accurately Report the Participation of Component Auditors and Other Accounting Firms in its 2019 BHP Audit

33. In connection with KPMG UK's audit of BHP's June 30, 2019, financial statements (the "2019 BHP Audit"), KPMG UK and KPMG Australia both performed audit work. KPMG UK and KPMG Australia jointly issued audit reports on BHP's consolidated June 30, 2019, financial statements and the effectiveness of BHP's internal controls over financial reporting as of June 30, 2019.

34. KPMG Australia utilized multiple other accounting firms to perform audit work on the 2019 BHP Audit.

35. On October 26, 2020, KPMG UK filed a Form AP for the 2019 BHP Audit that reported the participation of two other accounting firms engaged by KPMG Australia that represented less than 5% of total audit hours and four accounting firms with participation higher than 10% of total audit hours.[13] However, an additional five accounting firms had been involved in the 2019 BHP Audit that KPMG UK did not report on Form AP.

36. Accordingly, KPMG UK violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form AP filed for the 2019 BHP Audit.

37. On October 13, 2021, KPMG UK filed an amended Form AP reporting those five other accounting firms representing less than 5% of total audit hours (and accordingly, increasing the reported number of firms participating in less than 5% of total audit hours by five, from two to seven).

ii. Audits Using a Non-Accounting Firm/Shared Service Center

38. In connection with the five audits listed below, KPMG UK utilized work performed by two non-accounting firms, one of which was a shared service center. During those five audits, those non-accounting firms, in turn, used the professional staff of other KPMG International member firms to perform certain necessary audit procedures.

[13] In connection with the 2019 BHP Audit, KPMG UK and KPMG Australia reissued (and dual-dated) their joint audit report on September 22, 2020, resulting in KPMG UK filing a Form AP on October 26, 2020.

Issuer	Fiscal Year
Arrival	2021 (dual-dated audit report)[14]
BAT	2020
BAT	2021
Lumira	2021
PureTech	2021

39. Following each of the five audits, KPMG UK filed a Form AP. Despite the participation of the other accounting firms in each of the five audits, KPMG UK failed to report the other accounting firms' participation in its Form AP filings.

40. Accordingly, KPMG UK violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form APs filed for those five audits.

41. In January and February 2024, KPMG UK filed amended Form APs—one for each of the five audits—to report the participation of the relevant KPMG International member firm as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

iii. Audit Using Personnel Borrowed from Other KPMG International-Affiliated Firms

42. In connection with the audit of BAT's 2021 financial statements (the "2021 BAT Audit"), KPMG UK utilized, and supervised under AS 1201, personnel "borrowed" ("Borrowed Personnel") from two other KPMG International member firms to perform work on the audit.[15] As a result of the Borrowed Personnel performing that work, those other accounting firms were participants in the 2021 BAT Audit.[16]

[14] For Arrival's December 31, 2021 financial statements, KPMG UK reissued and dual-dated its audit report, resulting in two Form APs for the audit of the 2021 financial statements.

[15] KPMG UK distinguished Borrowed Personnel from what the firm considered "Seconded Employees." See Staff Guidance, Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, and Related Voluntary Audit Report Disclosure Under AS 3101, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion, at 7 (Dec. 17, 2021) ("[S]upervision of a professional employee in a secondment arrangement does not, in and of itself, mean that the other accounting firm participated in the audit. A secondment arrangement for purposes of reporting on Form AP is one in which, for at least three consecutive months, (1) a professional employee of an accounting firm in one country works for an accounting firm located in another country, and (2) the professional employee performs audit procedures with respect to entities and their operations in that other country and does not perform more than de minimis audit procedures in relation to entities or business operations in the country of his or her employer.").

[16] See Note to Item 3.2 of Form AP.

43. Following the 2021 BAT Audit, KPMG UK filed a Form AP. Despite utilizing two other accounting firms through Borrowed Personnel, KPMG UK failed to report the participation of the firms in its Form AP.

44. Accordingly, KPMG UK violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form AP for the 2021 BAT Audit.

45. KPMG UK thereafter reevaluated the Form AP for the 2021 BAT Audit and, on January 23, 2024, filed an amended Form AP to report the participation of the two KPMG International member firms, each as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

G. KPMG UK Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

46. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[17] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[18] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[19]

47. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[20] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[21]

48. From 2020 through 2023, KPMG UK failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable regulatory requirements related to accurately reporting on Form AP the participation, including the percentage of participation, of other accounting firms in issuer audits.

49. Although KPMG UK had certain quality control policies and procedures relating to Form AP reporting in connection with the use of other accounting firms, as well as policies and procedures concerning required audit committee communication, the Firm failed to implement and monitor them in an adequate manner. As a result, the Firm repeatedly filed numerous inaccurate Form APs between 2020 and 2022.

50. Accordingly, the Firm failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG UK is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $600,000 is imposed on KPMG UK.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies KPMG UK as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG UK. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG UK shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with Rule 3211; and that such policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by AS 1301.

2. Reporting. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG UK shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG UK or, if KPMG UK concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG UK shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG UK's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within six months of the date of this Order, KPMG UK's Chief Executive shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG UK has implemented all of the modifications and additions, if any, to its policies and procedures that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG UK's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG UK shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. KPMG UK understands that a failure to satisfy all applicable undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG LLP (Canada),

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-009

March 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring KPMG LLP ("KPMG Canada," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $700,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, between 2020 and 2023, the Firm: (a) failed to make certain required communications to the relevant audit committee or audit committee equivalent in three issuer audits, in violation of AS 1301.10d, Communications with Audit Committees; (b) filed 38 inaccurate Form APs in connection with its audits of 33 different issuer clients, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; and (c) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Canada has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG LLP is a public accounting firm headquartered in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. It is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms ("KPMG International"). At all relevant times, KPMG Canada was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for between 70 and 85 issuer clients.

B. Other Relevant Entities

2. B S R & Co. LLP ("B S R & Co.") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Mumbai, India.

3. KPMG Assurance and Consulting Services LLP ("KPMG India") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Mumbai, India.

4. KPMG Audyt Sp. z o.o. ("KPMG Audyt ZOO") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Warsaw, Poland.

5. KPMG LLP ("KPMG US") is a public accounting firm headquartered in New York, New York.

6. KPMG ("KPMG New Zealand") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Auckland, New Zealand.

7. PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP ("PwC US") is a public accounting firm headquartered in New York, New York.

8. At all relevant times, B S R & Co., KPMG India, KPMG Audyt ZOO, KPMG US, and KPMG New Zealand were member firms of KPMG International, were registered with the Board

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and participated in one or more of KPMG Canada's issuer audits. At all relevant times, PwC US was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules and participated in one of KPMG Canada's issuer audits.

9. B S R & Associates LLP ("B S R & Associates") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Mumbai, India.

10. KPMG Advisory Services ("KMPG Nigeria") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Lagos, Nigeria.

11. KPMG Audyt spółka z ograniczoną odpowiedzialnością sp.k. ("KPMG Audyt SPK") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Warsaw, Poland.

12. KPMG ("KPMG Barbados") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Hastings, Barbados.

13. KPMG ("KPMG Ghana") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Accra, Ghana.

14. Mazars Central Inc. ("Mazars") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Bloemfontein, South Africa.

15. At all relevant times, B S R & Associates, KPMG Nigeria, KPMG Audyt SPK, KPMG Barbados, and KPMG Ghana were member firms of KPMG International and participated in one or more of KPMG Canada's issuer audits, but were not registered with the Board. Mazars participated in one KPMG Canada issuer audit and, at all relevant times, was not registered with the Board.

16. KPMG Global Delivery Center Private Limited ("GDC") is a "shared service center"[2] located in Bengaluru, India, that utilized personnel from B S R & Co. and KPMG India.

C. Summary

17. This matter concerns KPMG Canada's repeated violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with its failure to disclose, or accurately disclose, the participation of other accounting firms in issuer audits. Specifically, KPMG Canada failed to make certain required communications to the relevant audit committee or audit committee equivalent in three issuer audits, in violation of AS 1301.10d. In addition, KPMG Canada filed 38 inaccurate

[2] KPMG Canada used the term "shared service center" to describe an entity that centralizes the performance of procedures requested to support an engagement.

Form APs from 2020 through 2023 in connection with its audits of 33 different issuers,[3] in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a).

18. Finally, between 2020 and 2023, KPMG Canada violated PCAOB quality control standards related to engagement performance by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's audit professionals would accurately identify in required Form AP filings the accounting firms that participated in KPMG Canada audits and their percentage of participation.

D. KPMG Canada Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301.10d

19. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[4] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[5]

20. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[6] or other persons, who

[3] Each of the issuers referenced in this Order was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[4] AS 1301.01. For purposes of AS 1301, "audit committee" is defined as "[a] committee (or equivalent body) established by and among the board of directors of a company for the purpose of overseeing the accounting and financial reporting processes of the company and audits of the financial statements of the company; if no such committee exists with respect to the company, the entire board of directors of the company." AS 1301.A2.

[5] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16 – Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (Aug. 15, 2012) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release").

[6] The term "other independent public accounting firms" in the context of communications with audit committees pursuant to AS 1301 includes "firms that perform audit procedures in the current period audit regardless of whether they otherwise have any relationship with the auditor." AS 1301.10d, Note.

were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[7]

21. In connection with KPMG Canada's audits of Mogo Inc.'s 2019 financial statements (the "2019 Mogo Audit"), KPMG Canada used B S R & Associates to perform certain audit procedures as an other independent public accounting firm. In connection with KPMG Canada's audit of PyroGenesis Canada Inc.'s 2020 financial statements (the "2020 PyroGenesis Audit"), KPMG Canada used B S R & Co. to perform certain audit procedures as an other independent public accounting firm. In connection with KPMG Canada's audit of IAMGOLD Corporation's 2019 financial statements (the "2019 IAMGOLD Audit"), KPMG Canada used Mazars to perform certain audit procedures as an other independent public accounting firm. With respect to the 2019 Mogo Audit, KPMG Canada failed to communicate B S R & Associates' name, location, and planned responsibilities to the relevant issuer's audit committee or audit committee equivalent. With respect to the 2020 PyroGenesis Audit, KPMG Canada failed to communicate B S R & Co.'s name, location, and planned responsibilities to the relevant issuer's audit committee or audit committee equivalent. With respect to the 2019 IAMGOLD Audit, KPMG Canada failed to communicate Mazars' name, location, and planned responsibilities to IAMGOLD Corporation's audit committee.

22. Accordingly, KPMG Canada violated AS 1301.10d in connection with the 2019 Mogo Audit, the 2020 PyroGenesis Audit, and the 2019 IAMGOLD Audit.

E. KPMG Canada Filed 38 Inaccurate Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a)

23. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.[8]

---

[7] AS 1301.10d. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

[8] Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1), subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

24. PCAOB Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."

25. The instructions to Item 4.1 of Form AP "Part IV - Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor who uses an "other accounting firm"[9] that incurs more than 5% of the total audit hours "[s]tate the legal name of other accounting firms and the extent of participation in the audit" in its Form AP.[10]

26. The instructions to Item 4.2 of Form AP "Part IV – Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor "[s]tate the number of other accounting firm(s) individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours" and "[i]ndicate the aggregate percentage of participation" by those other accounting firms.[11]

27. Form AP Item 3.2 notes that an other accounting firm participated in the audit if "the Firm assume[d] responsibility for the work and report of the other accounting firm as described in . . . AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors," or "the other accounting firm or any of its principals or professional employees was subject to supervision under AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement."[12]

28. For 38 audits across 33 different issuers with fiscal years ending in 2019 through 2022, KPMG Canada filed Form APs that failed to accurately report information concerning other accounting firm participants in the audits. In particular, the Firm failed to file accurate Form APs in connection with the following:

- the Firm's use and reporting of component auditors;

[9] See General Instruction No. 2 of Form AP ("'[O]ther accounting firm' means (i) a registered public accounting firm other than the Firm; or (ii) any other person or entity that opines on the compliance of any entity's financial statements with an applicable financial reporting framework").

[10] In the adopting release for PCAOB Rule 3211, the Board explained that information provided on Form AP was "intended to help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." See Improving the Transparency of Audits: Rules to Require Disclosure of Certain Audit Participants on a New PCAOB Form and Related Amendments to Auditing Standards, PCAOB Rel. No. 2015-008, at 4 (Dec. 15, 2015).

- the Firm's use of "shared service centers" ("SSCs");
- the Firm's use of personnel borrowed from other accounting firms; and
- the Firm's use of KPMG US through KPMG US's professional practice personnel.

i. Audits Using Component Auditors

29. During certain audits, KPMG Canada utilized work performed by other KPMG International member firms and one firm that was not a member of KPMG International (generally, "Component Auditors"). By performing the requested audit procedures, Component Auditors participated in the following seven audits ("Group Audits") as follows:

Issuer	Fiscal Year(s)	Component Auditor(s)
Galiano Gold Inc.	2020	KPMG Ghana
IAMGOLD Corporation	2020	KPMG Nigeria
Bank of Montreal	2020	KPMG Barbados
Neptune Wellness Solutions Inc.	2022	KPMG US
Nutrien Ltd.	2019, 2021	KPMG US
Suncor Energy Inc.	2020	PwC US

30. Following each of the seven Group Audits, KPMG Canada filed a Form AP. Despite the Firm knowing that in one or more of those Group Audits it utilized the work of KPMG Ghana, KPMG Nigeria, KPMG Barbados, KPMG US, or PwC US, KPMG Canada failed to report the participation of the relevant accounting firms in its Form AP filings.

31. Accordingly, KPMG Canada violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form APs filed for the Group Audits.

32. Following reevaluation of its Form AP reporting, KPMG Canada filed the following amended Form APs—one for each of the Group Audits—to report the participation of the other accounting firm:

Issuer	Fiscal Year	Form AP/A Filing Date	Description of Amendment
Galiano Gold Inc.	2020	Aug. 16, 2023	Identifying in Item 4.1 KPMG Ghana's participation representing 8% of total audit hours.
IAMGOLD Corporation	2020	May 28, 2021	Increasing the reported number of firms individually less than 5% of total audit hours by one.

Issuer	Fiscal Year	Form AP/A Filing Date	Description of Amendment
Bank of Montreal	2020	Jan. 3, 2022	Increasing the reported number of firms individually less than 5% of total audit hours by one.
Neptune Wellness Solutions Inc.	2022	Apr. 22, 2023	Increasing the reported number of firms individually less than 5% of total audit hours by one.
Nutrien Ltd.	2019	Mar. 1, 2021	Increasing the reported number of firms individually less than 5% of total audit hours by one.
Nutrien Ltd.	2021	Aug. 16, 2023	Increasing the reported number of firms individually less than 5% of total audit hours by one.
Suncor Energy Inc.	2020	May 28, 2021	Increasing the reported number of firms individually less than 5% of total audit hours by one.

33. In addition, in connection with the audit of Westport Fuel Systems Inc.'s 2022 financial statements (the "2022 Westport Audit"), KPMG Canada engaged KPMG Audyt SPK to perform audit procedures.

34. However, in KPMG Canada's original Form AP for the 2022 Westport Audit, filed April 14, 2023, KPMG Canada incorrectly identified KPMG Audyt ZOO, instead of KPMG Audyt SPK, as a participating other accounting firm at a 10% level. KPMG Canada did not in fact use KPMG Audyt ZOO's work in the 2022 Westport Audit.

35. Accordingly, KPMG Canada violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form AP for the 2022 Westport Audit.

36. On April 21, 2023, KPMG Canada filed an amended Form AP for the 2022 Westport Audit, to remove KPMG Audyt ZOO and identify KPMG Audyt SPK as a participant in the audit at a 10% level.

ii. Audits Using SSCs

37. In connection with 20 audits, KPMG Canada utilized work performed by an SSC, the GDC, which was located in India.

38. In connection with those 20 audits, the GDC, in turn, utilized either KPMG India or B S R & Co. personnel to perform certain audit procedures as part of the audits, as follows:

Issuer	Fiscal Year	Other Accounting Firm
Aptose Biosciences Inc.	2021	KPMG India
Aurora Cannabis Inc.	2021	B S R & Co.
Ballard Power Systems Inc.	2020	B S R & Co.
City Office REIT, Inc.	2020	B S R & Co.
CRH Medical Corporation	2020	B S R & Co.
Cronos Group Inc.	2020	B S R & Co.
Enerplus Corporation	2020	B S R & Co.
Fortuna Silver Mines Inc.	2019	KPMG India
Gran Tierra Energy Inc.	2019	KPMG India
Kinross Gold Corporation	2019	KPMG India
Mogo Inc.	2020	B S R & Co.
Mountain Province Diamonds Inc.	2020	B S R & Co.
Pembina Pipeline Corporation	2020	B S R & Co.
Points.com Inc.	2021	KPMG India
Rogers Communications Inc.	2020	B S R & Co.
Teekay Corporation	2020	B S R & Co.
Teekay Corporation	2021	KPMG India
Teekay Tankers Ltd.	2020	B S R & Co.
The Descartes Systems Group Inc.	2022	KPMG India
Theratechnologies Inc.	2020	B S R & Co.

39. Following each of the audits that utilized an SSC, KPMG Canada filed a Form AP. Despite utilizing the work of either KPMG India or B S R & Co. in each of the audits that utilized an SSC, KPMG Canada failed to report the participation of KPMG India or B S R & Co. in its Form AP filings.

40. Accordingly, KPMG Canada violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the 20 Form APs filed for the audits that utilized an SSC.

41. Between June and August 2023, KPMG Canada filed amended Form APs—one for each of the audits that utilized an SSC—to report the participation of KPMG India or B S R & Co. as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

iii. Audits Using Personnel Borrowed from Other KPMG International Affiliated Firms

42. During certain audits, KPMG Canada utilized, and supervised under AS 1201, personnel "borrowed" from other KPMG International member firms ("Borrowed Personnel") to perform work on the audits.[13] As a result, for the audits in which their Borrowed Personnel performed work, the other KPMG International member firms were participants.[14]

43. KPMG Canada utilized firms through their Borrowed Personnel on the following nine audits:

Issuer	Fiscal Year	Other Accounting Firm	% Participation
Mogo Inc.	2019	B S R & Associates	6%
PyroGenesis Canada Inc.	2020	B S R & Co.	9%
Alamos Gold Inc.	2019	KPMG US	Less than 5%
City Office REIT, Inc.	2019	KPMG New Zealand	Less than 5%
GFL Environmental Inc.	2021	B S R & Co.	Less than 5%
mCloud Technologies Corp.	2020	B S R & Co.	Less than 5%
Norbord Inc.	2019	B S R & Co.	Less than 5%
Teekay Corporation	2019	KPMG US	Less than 5%
TFI International Inc.	2020	B S R & Co.	Less than 5%

44. Following each of the nine audits, KPMG Canada filed a Form AP. Despite utilizing the above other accounting firms through Borrowed Personnel, KPMG Canada failed to report the participation of the relevant other accounting firm in its Form APs.

45. Accordingly, KPMG Canada violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form APs filed for the nine audits.

46. After reevaluating the implications of using Borrowed Personnel, KPMG Canada filed amended Form APs for each of the audits to report the participation of the relevant other accounting firm. In particular, on August 16, 2023, KPMG Canada filed an amended Form AP for

---

[13] KPMG Canada distinguished Borrowed Personnel from what the Firm considered "Seconded Employees." See Staff Guidance, Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, and Related Voluntary Audit Report Disclosure Under AS 3101, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion, at 7 (Dec. 17, 2021) ("[S]upervision of a professional employee in a secondment arrangement does not, in and of itself, mean that the other accounting firm participated in the audit. A secondment arrangement for purposes of reporting on Form AP is one in which, for at least three consecutive months, (1) a professional employee of an accounting firm in one country works for an accounting firm located in another country, and (2) the professional employee performs audit procedures with respect to entities and their operations in that other country and does not perform more than de minimis audit procedures in relation to entities or business operations in the country of his or her employer.").

[14] See Note to Item 3.2 of Form AP.

the 2020 PyroGenesis Audit to report the participation of B S R & Co. as an other accounting firm, at a 9% level. On August 18, 2023, KPMG Canada filed an amended Form AP for the 2019 Mogo Audit to report the participation of B S R & Associates as an other accounting firm, at a 6% level. For the remaining seven audits, KPMG Canada filed amended Form APs increasing by one the number of firms reported as participating at less than 5% of total audit hours.

iv. KPMG Canada's Use of KPMG US's Department of Professional Practice

47. KPMG Canada utilized the work of KPMG US through its Department of Professional Practice ("US DPP") in connection with the audit of Canopy Growth Corporation's 2022 financial statements (the "2022 Canopy Audit"). In particular, KPMG Canada consulted with the US DPP on a consolidation matter. KPMG US thereby participated in the 2022 Canopy Audit.

48. Following the 2022 Canopy Audit, KPMG Canada filed a Form AP. In the Form AP filing, KPMG Canada failed to report the participation of KPMG US in the 2022 Canopy Audit.

49. Accordingly, KPMG Canada violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form AP filed for the 2022 Canopy Audit.

50. KPMG Canada filed an amended Form AP, on August 21, 2023, to report the participation of KPMG US as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

F. KPMG Canada Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

51. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[15] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[16] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[17]

52. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being

---

effectively applied."[18] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[19]

53. From 2020 through 2023, KPMG Canada failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable regulatory requirements related to accurately reporting on Form AP the participation, including the percentage of participation, of other accounting firms in issuer audits.

54. Although KPMG Canada had certain quality control policies and procedures relating to Form AP reporting in connection with the use of other accounting firms, the Firm failed to implement and monitor them in an adequate manner. As a result, the Firm repeatedly filed numerous inaccurate Form APs between 2020 and 2023.

55. Accordingly, the Firm failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Canada is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $700,000 is imposed on KPMG Canada.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board,

Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG Canada. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Canada shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with PCAOB Rule 3211; and that such policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by AS 1301.

2. Reporting. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Canada shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG Canada or, if KPMG Canada concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG Canada shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG Canada's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within six months of the date of this Order, KPMG Canada's managing partner shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG Canada has implemented all of the modifications and additions, if any, to its policies and procedures that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG Canada's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG Canada shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. KPMG Canada understands that a failure to satisfy all applicable undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG Cárdenas Dosal, S.C.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-013

March 11, 2025

(1) censuring KPMG Cárdenas Dosal, S.C. ("KPMG Mexico," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $275,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, between 2020 and 2023, the Firm: (a) filed 10 inaccurate Form APs in connection with its audits of five different issuer clients, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; and (b) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Mexico has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings

brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG Cárdenas Dosal, S.C. is a public accounting firm headquartered in Mexico City, Mexico. It is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms ("KPMG International"). At all relevant times, KPMG Mexico was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm reported that it annually served as the principal auditor for between four and five issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. Cemex, S.A.B. de C.V. ("Cemex") is headquartered in Monterrey, Mexico. Its public filings disclose that it is a producer and distributor of cement, ready-mix concrete, and other construction materials. KPMG Mexico issued audit reports that Cemex included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for fiscal years ended December 31, 2019 and 2020.

3. Controladora Vuela Compañía de Aviación, S.A.B. de C.V. ("Controladora") is headquartered in Mexico City, Mexico. Its public filings disclose that it provides aviation services. KPMG Mexico issued an audit report that Controladora included in its Form 20-F filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2021 (the "Controladora Audit").

4. Grupo Aeroportuario del Pacífico, S.A.B. de C.V. ("Aeroportuario") is headquartered in Guadalajara, Mexico. Its public filings disclose that it operates multiple airports within Mexico and Jamaica. KPMG Mexico issued audit reports that Aeroportuario included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2019, 2020, and 2021 (the "Aeroportuario Audits").

5. Grupo Televisa, S.A.B. ("Televisa") is headquartered in Mexico City, Mexico. Its public filings disclose that it is a media company and cable, satellite, and broadband operator. KPMG Mexico issued audit reports that Televisa included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2019, and 2021 (the "Televisa Audits").

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

6. Petróleos Mexicanos ("Petróleos") is headquartered in Mexico City, Mexico. Its public filings disclose that it is a crude oil and natural gas company. KPMG Mexico issued audit reports that Petróleos included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for fiscal years ended December 31, 2020, and 2021 (the "Petróleos Audits").

7. Each of the entities identified in paragraphs 2 through 6 was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

C. Summary

8. This matter concerns KPMG Mexico's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with its reporting on the participation of other accounting firms in issuer audits. Specifically, KPMG Mexico filed 10 inaccurate Form APs from 2020 through 2022 in connection with 10 audits of five different issuers, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a).

9. In addition, between 2020 and 2023, KPMG Mexico violated PCAOB quality control standards related to engagement performance by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's audit professionals would accurately identify in required Form AP filings the accounting firms that participated in KPMG Mexico audits and their percentage of participation.

D. KPMG Mexico Filed 10 Inaccurate Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a)

10. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.[2]

11. PCAOB Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."

12. The instructions to Item 4.1 of Form AP "Part IV - Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor who uses an "other accounting firm"[3] that incurs more

---

[2] Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with Commission, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1), subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

[3] See General Instruction No. 2 of Form AP ("'[O]ther accounting firm' means (i) a registered public accounting firm other than the Firm; or (ii) any other person or entity that opines on the compliance of any entity's financial statements with an applicable financial reporting framework").

than 5% of the total audit hours "[s]tate the legal name of other accounting firms and the extent of participation in the audit" in its Form AP.[4]

13. The instructions to Item 4.2 of Form AP "Part IV – Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor "[s]tate the number of other accounting firm(s) individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours" and "[i]ndicate the aggregate percentage of participation" by those other accounting firms.[5]

14. Form AP Item 3.2 notes that an other accounting firm participated in the audit if "the Firm assume[d] responsibility for the work and report of the other accounting firm as described in . . . AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors," or "the other accounting firm or any of its principals or professional employees was subject to supervision under AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement."[6]

15. For 10 audits across five different issuers with fiscal years ending in 2019 through 2021, KPMG Mexico filed Form APs that failed to accurately report information concerning other accounting firm participants in the audits.[7] In particular, the Firm failed to file accurate Form APs in connection with the following:

- the Firm's use of an other accounting firm to review and evaluate the Firm's critical audit matters ("CAMs");
- the Firm's use of an other accounting firm through that firm's professional practice personnel; and
- the Firm's use and reporting of component auditors.

[4] In the adopting release for PCAOB Rule 3211, the Board explained that information provided on Form AP was "intended to help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." See Improving the Transparency of Audits: Rules to Require Disclosure of Certain Audit Participants on a New PCAOB Form and Related Amendments to Auditing Standards, PCAOB Rel. No. 2015-008, at 4 (Dec. 15, 2015).

[5] See Item 4.2 and Part IV of Form AP.

[6] See Note to Item 3.2 of Form AP.

[7] Each of the other accounting firm participants in the Order meets the definition of an "other accounting firm" requiring reporting on Form AP in accordance with the instructions of Form AP. See Rule 3211(a) and supra note 3.

i. Audits Using a "CAM Hub"

16. In connection with preparing an audit report, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any [CAMs] in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[8] A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[9]

17. During the relevant audits, guidance followed by KPMG Mexico required that another, specifically-designated KPMG International member firm review and evaluate certain CAMs that would be communicated in the auditor's report prior to the issuance of the report. KPMG Mexico referred to that designated member firm as a "CAM Hub."

18. During the relevant audits, another KPMG International member firm in Brazil (the "Brazil Firm") served as the CAM Hub for KPMG Mexico, and KPMG Mexico used that firm to review and evaluate the CAM determinations that KPMG Mexico would communicate in its auditor's reports. As a result, the Brazil Firm participated in the following five audits ("CAM Hub Reviews"):

Issuer	Fiscal Year(s)
Aeroportuario	2020
Cemex	2020
Controladora	2021
Petróleos	2020, 2021

19. Following each of the CAM Hub Reviews, KPMG Mexico filed a Form AP. Despite utilizing the work of the Brazil Firm in each of the CAM Hub Reviews, KPMG Mexico failed to report the participation of the Brazil Firm in its Form AP filings.

20. Accordingly, KPMG Mexico violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with Form APs filed for the CAM Hub Reviews.

21. On January 25, 2024, KPMG Mexico filed amended Form APs—one for each of the CAM Hub Reviews —to report the Brazil Firm's participation as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

[9] Id.

ii. Audits Using Department of Professional Practice

22. KPMG Mexico utilized the work of an other accounting firm through its Department of Professional Practice (the "DPP Firm") in connection with the Aeroportuario Audits, the Controladora Audit, and the Televisa Audits (collectively, the "Audits Using DPP"). In particular, KPMG Mexico, during the Audits Using DPP, consulted with the DPP Firm on technical accounting and audit topics, including, but not limited to, foreign currency translation, consolidation, and ICFR-related matters. The DPP Firm thereby participated in the Audits Using DPP.

23. Following each of the Audits Using DPP, KPMG Mexico filed a Form AP. Despite utilizing the work of the DPP Firm in each of the Audits Using DPP, KPMG Mexico failed to report the participation of the DPP Firm in those audits in its Form AP filings.

24. Accordingly, KPMG Mexico violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with each of the Audits Using DPP.

25. On January 25, 2024, KPMG Mexico filed amended Form APs—one for each of the Audits Using DPP —to report the participation of the DPP Firm as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

iii. Audit Using Component Auditors

26. In connection with KPMG Mexico's audit of Cemex's 2019 financial statements (the "2019 Cemex Audit"), KPMG Mexico utilized audit work performed by other KPMG International member firms (generally, "Component Auditors").

27. In particular, KPMG Mexico engaged multiple other KPMG International member firms as Component Auditors to perform various audit procedures. KPMG Mexico was aware that one of those Component Auditors, in turn, utilized the professional staff of another accounting firm to perform certain audit procedures requested by KPMG Mexico. By performing the requested procedures, the Component Auditors and other accounting firm participated in the 2019 Cemex Audit.

28. Following the 2019 Cemex Audit, KPMG Mexico filed a Form AP but failed to report the participation of the other accounting firms in the 2019 Cemex Audit in its Form AP.

29. Accordingly, KPMG Mexico violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with its Form AP for the 2019 Cemex Audit.

30. Following reevaluation of its Form AP reporting for the 2019 Cemex Audit, on January 25, 2024, KPMG Mexico filed an amended Form AP for the 2019 Cemex Audit to report the participation of three other accounting firms—each as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours—thereby increasing the reported number of firms individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours from eight to 11.

E. KPMG Mexico Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

31. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[10] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[11] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[12]

32. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[13] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[14]

33. From 2020 through 2023, KPMG Mexico failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable regulatory requirements related to accurately reporting on Form AP the participation, including the percentage of participation, of other accounting firms in issuer audits.

34. Although KPMG Mexico had certain quality control policies and procedures relating to Form AP reporting in connection with the use of other accounting firms, the Firm failed to implement and monitor them in an adequate manner. As a result, the Firm filed inaccurate Form APs between 2020 and 2022.

35. Accordingly, the Firm failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Mexico is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $275,000 is imposed on KPMG Mexico.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies KPMG Mexico as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG Mexico. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Mexico shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with PCAOB Rule 3211.

2. Reporting. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Mexico shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG Mexico or, if KPMG Mexico concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG Mexico shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG Mexico's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within six months of the date of this Order, the individual designated as KPMG Mexico's Senior Partner shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG Mexico has implemented all of the modifications and additions to its policies and procedures, if any, that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG Mexico's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG Mexico shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. KPMG Mexico understands that a failure to satisfy all applicable undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG Auditores Independentes Ltda. (Brazil),

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-008

March 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring KPMG Auditores Independentes Ltda. ("KPMG Brazil," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $700,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section V of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, between 2020 and 2023, the Firm: (a) failed to make certain required communications to the relevant audit committee or audit committee equivalent in connection with 38 issuer audits, in violation of AS 1301.10d, Communications with Audit Committees; (b) failed to report on PCAOB Form 2 the audit reports or consents issued by the Firm in connection with six issuer audits, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2200, Annual Report; (c) filed two inaccurate Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; and (d) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Brazil has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG Auditores Independentes Ltda. is a public accounting firm headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil. The Firm is a member of the KPMG International Limited network of firms. KPMG Brazil is registered with the Brazilian Securities and Exchange Commission (Comissão de Valores Mobiliários) and issues audit reports in Brazil. KPMG Brazil is licensed to practice public accounting by the Conselho Regional de Contabilidade do Estado de São Paulo (license no. 2SP014428/06). At all relevant times, KPMG Brazil was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and was a "registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(12) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(r)(i). During the period covered by this Order, the Firm annually served as the principal auditor for between 10 and 14 issuer clients.

B. Other Relevant Entity

2. KPMG Assurance Services Ltda. ("KPMG Assurance") is a public accounting firm headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil. At all relevant times, KPMG Assurance was not registered with the Board. KPMG Assurance is licensed to practice public accounting by the Conselho Regional de Contabilidade do Estado de São Paulo (license no. 2SP-023228/0), and issues audit reports in Brazil. During the period covered by this Order, KPMG Assurance performed audit procedures in connection with numerous issuer audits KPMG Brazil performed. At all relevant times, KPMG Assurance was a "public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(11) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(iii).

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

C. Summary

3. This matter concerns KPMG Brazil's repeated violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with (a) its failure to make certain required communications to the relevant audit committee or audit committee equivalent in connection with 38 issuer audits the Firm performed for fiscal years between 2019 and 2022, in violation of AS 1301.10d; (b) its failure to report on PCAOB Form 2 audit reports or consents that the Firm issued in connection with six issuer audits, in violation of PCAOB Rule 2200; and (c) its filing of two inaccurate Form APs, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a).

4. This matter also concerns KPMG Brazil's violation of PCAOB quality control standards related to engagement performance and monitoring. Specifically, from 2020 through 2023, KPMG Brazil failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm would make required audit committee communications and file accurate Form 2s and Form APs.

D. KPMG Brazil Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301.10d

5. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[3]

6. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and

[2] AS 1301.01. For purposes of AS 1301, "audit committee" is defined as "[a] committee (or equivalent body) established by and among the board of directors of a company for the purpose of overseeing the accounting and financial reporting processes of the company and audits of the financial statements of the company; if no such committee exists with respect to the company, the entire board of directors of the company." AS 1301, Appendix A ¶ A2.

[3] AS 1301.09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16—Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (Aug. 15, 2012) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release").

planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[4] or other persons, who were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[5]

7. In connection with the 38 audits identified with "X" below, KPMG Brazil used KPMG Assurance to perform certain audit procedures as an other independent public accounting firm.[6] With respect to each of the 38 audits, KPMG Brazil failed to communicate KPMG Assurance's name, location, and planned responsibilities to the relevant issuer's audit committee or audit committee equivalent.

[4] The term "other independent public accounting firms" in the context of communications with audit committees pursuant to AS 1301 includes "firms that perform audit procedures in the current period audit regardless of whether they otherwise have any relationship with the auditor." AS 1301.10d, Note.

[5] AS 1301.10d. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, A4-15.

[6] KPMG Brazil also failed to make the required audit committee communications in connection with the Firm's audit of Petróleo Brasileiro S.A. Petrobras for the year ended December 31, 2021 (the "2021 Petrobras Audit"), which the Board addressed in a previous disciplinary order. See KPMG Auditores Independentes Ltda., PCAOB Rel. No. 105-2023-034 (Nov. 14, 2023) ("November 2023 Order").

8. Accordingly, KPMG Brazil violated AS 1301.10d in connection with each of the 38 audits identified above.

E. KPMG Brazil Failed to Report on Form 2 Information Related to Issuer Audit Reports and Consents in Violation of PCAOB Rule 2200

9. PCAOB Rule 2200 requires that registered public accounting firms file annual reports with the Board on Form 2 "following the instructions to that form." The instructions to Form 2 require firms to identify and provide certain information relating to issuer or broker or dealer audit reports issued during the reporting period.[8] They also require that a firm representative certify, among other things, that the Form "does not contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state a material fact necessary to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which such statements were made, not misleading."[9]

10. With respect to six audits, KPMG Brazil failed to report on Form 2 the audit reports or consents that the Firm issued, as summarized below.

11. KPMG Brazil failed to report on any Form 2 audit reports the Firm issued for the following five audits: (1) the Firm's audit of Gerdau S.A. for the year ended December 31, 2020 (audit report issued April 21, 2021); (2) the Firm's audit of PicS Ltd. for the year ended December 31, 2020 (audit report issued February 10, 2021); (3) the Firm's audit of Zenvia for the year ended December 31, 2020 (audit report issued March 24, 2021); (4) the Firm's audit of Inter & Co, Inc.'s predecessor Inter Platform Inc. for the year ended December 31, 2021 (audit report issued April 15, 2022); and (5) the Firm's audit of JBS S.A. for the year ended December 31, 2022 (audit report issued March 29, 2023).

[9] Form 2 Instructions, Item 10.1(d).

12. KPMG Brazil also failed to identify Zenvia as an audit client on the Firm's Form 2 filed on June 30, 2023, even though during the reporting period for that Form 2, the Firm issued consents on July 7, 2022, and March 8, 2023. Those consents authorized Zenvia to use the audit report the Firm issued on March 31, 2022, in connection with its audit of Zenvia for the year ended December 31, 2021 (the "2021 Zenvia Audit").[10]

13. By failing to report on Form 2 the audit reports or consents issued by the Firm in connection with the six audits described above, KPMG Brazil violated PCAOB Rule 2200.

F. KPMG Brazil Filed Two Inaccurate Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a)

14. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.

15. PCAOB Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."[11]

16. The instructions to Item 4.1 of Form AP "Part IV – Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that, where the extent of participation of an "other accounting firm"[12] in an audit constitutes 5% or greater of total audit hours, the auditor must state in the relevant

[10] The instructions to Form 2 do not require Firms to provide the date of consents to an issuer's use of a previously-issued audit report, but note that "if such consents constitute the only instances of the Firm issuing audit reports for a particular issuer during the reporting period, the Firm should include that issuer in [the relevant Form 2] and include the dates of such consents and indicate whether the dates provided correspond to the issuance of a consent to the use of a previously-issued audit report." Form AP the legal name of the other accounting firm and the extent of its participation in the audit.[13]

17. As described below, KPMG Brazil filed two inaccurate Form APs in connection with the Firm's audit of CPFL for the year ended December 31, 2019 (the "2019 CPFL Audit") and the 2021 Zenvia Audit, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a).

i. The 2019 CPFL Audit

18. KPMG Brazil's Form AP for the 2019 CPFL Audit, filed on May 29, 2020, listed no participating other accounting firms in Part IV. However, KPMG Brazil had utilized KPMG Assurance to perform approximately 2,000 hours of work in connection with the 2019 CPFL Audit, accounting for over 5% of the total audit hours. As such, KPMG Brazil should have reported KPMG Assurance in its Form AP as a participating other accounting firm.

19. Accordingly, KPMG Brazil violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form AP for the 2019 CPFL Audit.

20. KPMG Brazil filed an amended Form AP for the 2019 CPFL Audit on September 29, 2020, amending the previously-filed Form AP to list "KPMG Assurance Services Ltda" as a participating other accounting firm in Item 4.1, with a participation level of 5% to less than 10%.

ii. The 2021 Zenvia Audit

21. In KPMG Brazil's Form AP for the 2021 Zenvia Audit, filed on May 5, 2022, the Firm identified KPMG Assurance as a participating other accounting firm at a 20% to less than 30% level.

22. After being contacted by the Division of Enforcement and Investigations, KPMG Brazil realized that it had incorrectly attributed 138 hours from KPMG Assurance's work on a 2020 local statutory audit to the 2021 Zenvia Audit.

[13] In the adopting release for PCAOB Rule 3211, the Board indicated that information provided on Form AP was "intended to help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." See Improving the Transparency of Audits: Rules to Require Disclosure of Certain Audit Participants on a New PCAOB Form and Related Amendments to Auditing Standards, PCAOB Rel. No. 2015-008, at 4 (Dec. 15, 2015).

23. KPMG Brazil filed an amended Form AP on February 8, 2024, and adjusted the level of KPMG Assurance's participation to exclude the statutory audit hours, changing its reported participation to a 10% to less than 20% level.

24. Accordingly, KPMG Brazil violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form AP for the 2021 Zenvia Audit.

G. KPMG Brazil Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

25. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[14] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[15] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[16]

26. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied," and that its system of quality control is effective.[17] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[18] Procedures that provide the firm with a means of identifying and communicating circumstances that may necessitate changes to or the need to improve compliance with the firm's policies and procedures contribute to the monitoring element.[19]

27. From 2020 through 2023, KPMG Brazil failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that (1) the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality related to communicating with audit committees and equivalent bodies, Form 2 reporting, and Form AP reporting; and (2) the Firm's relevant policies and procedures were suitably designed and were being effectively applied, and its system of quality control was effective.

28. Although KPMG Brazil had certain relevant quality control policies and procedures, the Firm failed to implement and monitor them in an adequate manner. As a result, KPMG Brazil failed to make required audit committee communications in connection with numerous issuer audits the Firm performed for fiscal years between 2019 and 2022 and filed inaccurate Form 2s and Form APs during that time frame.

29. Accordingly, KPMG Brazil failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.[20]

IV.

30. The Board previously ordered KPMG Brazil to engage in remedial actions to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by AS 1301.[21]

31. KPMG Brazil has represented that, following the November 2023 Order, it has established and implemented the following changes to its policies and procedures for the purpose of providing it with reasonable assurance of compliance with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications:

A. KPMG Brazil has implemented updated audit committee communications templates;

B. KPMG Brazil has communicated requirements related to audit committee communications, and the updated templates, to all personnel working on issuer audits;

C. KPMG Brazil has implemented a requirement that engagement partners and engagement quality reviewers on issuer audits submit confirmations regarding the use of the Firm's updated audit committee communication templates and compliance with audit committee communication requirements;

D. KPMG Brazil has assigned a member of the Firm's Risk Management department to track confirmations received via the procedure described in item (C) above, review each confirmation, and follow up on any concerns with respect to compliance with audit committee communication requirements; and

E. KPMG Brazil has provided training to issuer audit personnel at the manager level and above regarding audit committee communication requirements.

V.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Brazil is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $700,000 is imposed upon KPMG Brazil.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. KPMG Brazil shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (a) wire transfer pursuant to instructions provided by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies KPMG Brazil as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. KPMG Brazil understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of KPMG Brazil's registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to KPMG Brazil at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. With respect to audit committee communications, pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), KPMG Brazil is required to comply with its revised policies and procedures, including those described in Section IV above, intended to provide reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards for communications with audit committees and the documentation of those communications.

D. With respect to Form 2s and Form APs, pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG Brazil. Within ninety (90) days of the date of this Order, KPMG Brazil shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons (i) file accurate Form 2s in compliance with PCAOB Rule 2200 and (ii) file accurate Form APs in compliance with PCAOB Rule 3211;

2. Reporting. Within ninety (90) days of the date of this Order, KPMG Brazil shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph D.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG Brazil or, if KPMG Brazil concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG Brazil shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG Brazil's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within one hundred eighty (180) days of the date of this Order, KPMG Brazil's Chief Executive Officer shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG Brazil has implemented all of the modifications and additions, if any, to its policies and procedures that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG Brazil's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG Brazil shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

E. KPMG Brazil understands that a failure to satisfy all applicable undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 that could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG AG (Switzerland),

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-015

March 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring KPMG AG ("KPMG Switzerland," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $175,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, between 2021 and 2023, the Firm: (a) filed four inaccurate Form APs in connection with its audits of three different issuer clients, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; and (b) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Switzerland has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG AG is a public accounting firm headquartered in Zurich, Switzerland. It is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms ("KPMG International"). At all relevant times, KPMG Switzerland was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm reported that it annually served as the principal auditor for between one and four issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. ABB Ltd ("ABB") is headquartered in Zurich, Switzerland. Its public filings disclose that it is a technology company. ABB was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). KPMG Switzerland issued an audit report that ABB included in its Form 20-F filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020.

3. Molecular Partners AG ("Molecular Partners") is headquartered in Zurich, Switzerland. Its public filings disclose that it is a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company. Molecular Partners was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). KPMG Switzerland issued audit reports that Molecular Partners included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2021, and 2022.

4. Sportradar Group AG ("Sportradar") is headquartered in St. Gallen, Switzerland. Its public filings disclose that it is a sports technology company. Sportradar was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). KPMG Switzerland issued an audit report that Sportradar included in its Form 20-F filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2021.

C. Other Relevant Entities

5. B S R & Co. LLP ("B S R & Co.") is a public accounting firm headquartered in Mumbai, India. At all relevant times, B S R & Co. was a member firm of KPMG International, was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, and participated in one or more of KPMG Switzerland's issuer audits.

6. KPMG Delivery Center S.R.L. ("KPMG Delivery") is a "shared service center"[2] located in Romania that utilized personnel from an other accounting firm that was a KPMG International member firm.

D. Summary

7. This matter concerns KPMG Switzerland's violation of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with its reporting on the participation of other accounting firms in issuer audits. Specifically, KPMG Switzerland filed four inaccurate Form APs from 2021 through 2023 in connection with four audits of three different issuers, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a).

8. In addition, between 2021 and 2023, KPMG Switzerland violated PCAOB quality control standards related to engagement performance by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's audit professionals would accurately identify in required Form AP filings the accounting firms that participated in KPMG Switzerland audits and their percentage of participation.

E. KPMG Switzerland Filed Four Inaccurate Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a)

10. PCAOB Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."

[2] KPMG Switzerland used the term "shared service center" to describe an entity that centralizes the performance of procedures requested to support an engagement.

[3] Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with Commission, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1), subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

11. The instructions to Item 4.1 of Form AP "Part IV - Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor who uses an "other accounting firm"[4] that incurs more than 5% of the total audit hours "[s]tate the legal name of other accounting firms and the extent of participation in the audit" in its Form AP.[5]

12. The instructions to Item 4.2 of Form AP "Part IV – Responsibility for the Audit is Not Divided" require an auditor to "[s]tate the number of other accounting firm(s) individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours" and "[i]ndicate the aggregate percentage of participation" by those other accounting firms.[6]

13. Form AP Item 3.2 explains that an other accounting firm participated in the audit if "the Firm assume[d] responsibility for the work and report of the other accounting firm as described in . . . AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors," or "the other accounting firm or any of its principals or professional employees was subject to supervision under AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement."[7]

14. For four audits across three different issuers with fiscal years ending in 2020 through 2022, KPMG Switzerland filed Form APs that failed to accurately report information concerning other accounting firm participants in the audits.[8] In particular, the Firm failed to file accurate Form APs in connection with the following:

- the Firm's use of an other accounting firm to review and evaluate the Firm's critical audit matters ("CAMs");
- the Firm's use of professional practice personnel from an other accounting firm;

[4] See General Instruction No. 2 of Form AP ("'[O]ther accounting firm' means (i) a registered public accounting firm other than the Firm; or (ii) any other person or entity that opines on the compliance of any entity's financial statements with an applicable financial reporting framework").

[5] In the adopting release for PCAOB Rule 3211, the Board explained that information provided on Form AP was "intended to help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." See Improving the Transparency of Audits: Rules to Require Disclosure of Certain Audit Participants on a New PCAOB Form and Related Amendments to Auditing Standards, PCAOB Rel. No. 2015-008, at 4 (Dec. 15, 2015).

[6] See Item 4.2 and Part IV of Form AP.

[7] See Note to Item 3.2 of Form AP.

[8] Each of the other accounting firm participants in the Order meets the definition of an "other accounting firm" requiring reporting on Form AP in accordance with the instructions of Form AP. See Rule 3211(a) and supra note 4.

- the Firm's use of shared service centers; and
- the Firm's use of personnel borrowed from other accounting firms.

i. Audits Using a "CAM Hub" and an Other Accounting Firm's Department of Professional Practice

15. In connection with preparing an audit report, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any [CAMs] in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[9] A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[10]

16. During the audits of Molecular Partners' 2021 financial statements and 2022 financial statements (collectively, the "Molecular Partners Audits"), guidance followed by KPMG Switzerland required that another, specifically-designated KPMG International-affiliated entity review and evaluate certain CAMs that would be communicated in the auditor's report prior to the issuance of the report. KPMG Switzerland referred to that designated entity as a "CAM Hub."

17. During the Molecular Partners Audits, KPMG Switzerland consulted with and utilized a UK-based CAM Hub, which was a wholly owned subsidiary of an other accounting firm based in England (the "UK Firm"), to review and evaluate its CAM determinations ("CAM Hub Reviews"). The UK Firm directed and supervised its subsidiary's CAM Hub Evaluations on the Molecular Partners Audits. As a result, the UK Firm participated in the Molecular Partners Audits.

18. Additionally, during its audit of Molecular Partners' 2022 financial statements (the "2022 Molecular Partners Audit"), KPMG Switzerland consulted with a US-based other accounting firm's Department of Professional Practice (the "DPP Firm") on an income statement presentation matter. The DPP Firm thereby participated in the 2022 Molecular Partners Audit.

19. Following each of the Molecular Partners Audits, KPMG Switzerland filed a Form AP. In each Form AP filing, KPMG Switzerland failed to report the participation of the UK Firm and, for the 2022 Molecular Partners Audit, the DPP Firm.

[9] AS 3101.11, The Auditor's Report on an Audit of Financial Statements When the Auditor Expresses an Unqualified Opinion.

[10] Id.

20. Accordingly, KPMG Switzerland violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form APs filed for the Molecular Partners Audits.

21. On April 12, 2024, KPMG Switzerland filed amended Form APs for each of the Molecular Partners Audits. The amended Form APs reported the participation of the UK Firm in both Molecular Partners Audits, and additionally reported the participation the DPP Firm in the 2022 Molecular Partners Audit, as other accounting firms representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

ii. Audits Using Shared Service Centers

22. In connection with KPMG Switzerland's audit of ABB's 2020 financial statements and internal control over financial reporting (the "ABB Audit"), the Firm utilized work performed by a shared service center, KPMG Delivery. During the relevant period, , KPMG Delivery utilized an other accounting firm based in Romania (the "Romanian Firm") to perform certain necessary audit procedures as part of the audit.

23. Following the ABB Audit, KPMG Switzerland filed a Form AP, which failed to report the participation of the Romanian Firm in its Form AP.

24. Accordingly, KPMG Switzerland violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form AP for the ABB Audit.

25. On December 14, 2023, KPMG Switzerland filed an amended Form AP for the ABB Audit to report the participation of the Romanian Firm as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

iii. Audits Using Personnel Borrowed from Other KPMG International-Affiliated Firms

26. In connection with the audit of Sportradar's 2021 financial statements (the "Sportradar Audit"), KPMG Switzerland utilized, and supervised under AS 1201, personnel that it treated as "borrowed" ("Borrowed Personnel") from two other KPMG International member firms, B S R & Co. and another public accounting firm based in India (the "Indian Firm"), to perform work on the audit.

27. At the time, the Firm distinguished Borrowed Personnel from what the Firm considered "Seconded Employees." KPMG Switzerland understood that it was expected to report the Firm's use of the Borrowed Personnel as participants in the relevant audit for Form AP reporting purposes. In contrast, KPMG Switzerland attributed the work of Seconded

Employees to its own group audit hours for purposes of Form AP.[11]

28. Following the Sportradar Audit, KPMG Switzerland filed a Form AP and reported that B S R & Co. participated in the Sportradar Audit at a level of between 10-20% of total audit hours. Despite utilizing the Indian Firm through Borrowed Personnel, KPMG Switzerland failed to report the participation of the Indian Firm in its Form AP.

29. Accordingly, KPMG Switzerland violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form AP for the Sportradar Audit.

30. KPMG Switzerland subsequently reevaluated its Form AP for the Sportradar Audit and determined the Indian Firm had erroneously not been included as a participating other accounting firm. KPMG Switzerland also determined that the B S R & Co. personnel it utilized on the Sportradar Audit should have been considered Seconded Employees, with their work attributable to the Firm.

31. On June 9, 2023, KPMG Switzerland filed an amended Form AP for the Sportradar Audit, which (1) reported the participation of the Indian Firm in Item 4.2 as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours; and (2) removed B S R & Co.'s reported participation from Item 4.1.

F. KPMG Switzerland Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

32. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[12] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[13] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed

A secondment arrangement for purposes of reporting on Form AP is one in which, for at least three consecutive months, (1) a professional employee of an accounting firm in one country works for an accounting firm located in another country, and (2) the professional employee performs audit procedures with respect to entities and their operations in that other country and does not perform more than de minimis audit procedures in relation to entities or business operations in the country of his or her employer.").

by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[14]

33. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[15] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[16]

34. From 2021 through 2023, KPMG Switzerland failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable regulatory requirements related to accurately reporting on Form AP the participation, including the percentage of participation, of other accounting firms in issuer audits.

35. Although KPMG Switzerland had certain quality control policies and procedures relating to Form AP reporting in connection with the use of other accounting firms, the Firm failed to implement and monitor them in an adequate manner. As a result, the Firm filed inaccurate Form APs between 2021 and 2023.

36. Accordingly, the Firm failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Switzerland is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $175,000 is imposed on KPMG Switzerland.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

[16] See QC § 20.20.d; QC § 30.02.d.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies KPMG Switzerland as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG Switzerland. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Switzerland shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with PCAOB Rule 3211.

2. Reporting. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Switzerland shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG Switzerland or, if KPMG Switzerland concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG Switzerland shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG Switzerland's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within six months of the date of this Order, KPMG Switzerland's Chairman of the Board shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG Switzerland has implemented all of the modifications and additions, if any, to its policies and procedures that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG Switzerland's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG Switzerland shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. KPMG Switzerland understands that a failure to satisfy all applicable undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of KPMG (Australia),

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-016

March 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring KPMG ("KPMG Australia," the "Firm," or "Respondent");

(2) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $225,000 upon the Firm; and

(3) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions as described in Section IV of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that, between 2020 and 2023, the Firm: (a) failed to make certain required communications to the audit committee of an issuer client in two separate audits, in violation of AS 1301.10d, Communications with Audit Committees; (b) filed four inaccurate Form APs in connection with its audits of two issuer clients, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a), Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants; and (c) violated PCAOB quality control standards.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, KPMG Australia has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:

A. Respondent

1. KPMG is a public accounting firm headquartered in Sydney, Australia. It is a member firm of the KPMG International Limited network of firms ("KPMG International"). At all relevant times, KPMG Australia was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm reported that it annually served as the principal auditor for one or two issuer clients.

B. Issuers

2. BHP Group Limited ("BHP Group") is headquartered in Melbourne, Australia. Its public filings disclose that it is a mining company that, with UK-based BHP Group Plc, operated as a combined group known as "BHP." BHP Group was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). KPMG Australia issued joint audit reports that BHP Group included in its Form 20-F filed with the Commission for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2019 (the "2019 BHP Audit").

3. Rio Tinto Limited ("Rio Tinto") is headquartered in Melbourne, Australia. Its public filings disclose that it is a metal and mining corporation. Rio Tinto was, at all relevant times, an "issuer" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). KPMG Australia issued audit reports that Rio Tinto included in its Form 20-Fs filed with the Commission for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2021 and 2022 (the "Rio Tinto Audits").

C. Other Relevant Entities

4. KPMG LLP ("KPMG UK") is a public accounting firm headquartered in London, United Kingdom. KPMG UK performed audit work for and jointly issued (with KPMG Australia) audit reports in connection with the 2019 BHP Audit. At all relevant times, KPMG UK was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules, was a member firm of KPMG International and participated in one or more of KPMG Australia's issuer audits.

D. Summary

5. This matter concerns KPMG Australia's violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with its failure to disclose, or accurately disclose, the participation of other accounting firms in issuer audits. Specifically, KPMG Australia failed to make certain required communications to Rio Tinto's audit committee in the Rio Tinto Audits, in violation of AS 1301.10d. In addition, KPMG Australia filed four inaccurate Form APs from 2020 through 2023 in connection with the 2019 BHP Audit and the Rio Tinto Audits, in violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a).

6. Finally, between 2020 and 2023, KPMG Australia violated PCAOB quality control standards by failing to establish appropriate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide reasonable assurance that the Firm's audit professionals would accurately identify in required Form AP filings the accounting firms that participated in KPMG Australia audits and the percentage of their participation.

E. KPMG Australia Failed to Make Required Audit Committee Communications in Violation of AS 1301.10d

7. Pursuant to PCAOB auditing standards, an auditor should communicate with a company's audit committee regarding certain matters related to the conduct of an audit and obtain certain information from the audit committee relevant to the audit.[2] The auditor should communicate to the audit committee an overview of the overall audit strategy, including the timing of the audit, and discuss with the audit committee the significant risks identified during the auditor's risk assessment.[3]

8. PCAOB standards specify that each auditor, as part of communicating the overall audit strategy, should communicate with the audit committee the names, locations, and planned responsibilities of other independent public accounting firms[4] or other persons, who

[3] Id. at .09. In the adopting release for Auditing Standard No. 16 (now known as AS 1301), the Board indicated that "[c]ommunications between the auditor and the audit committee allow the audit committee to be well-informed about accounting and disclosure matters, including the auditor's evaluation of matters that are significant to the financial statements, and to be better able to carry out its oversight role." See Auditing Standard No. 16 – Communications With Audit Committees; Related Amendments to PCAOB Standards; and Transitional Amendments to AU Sec. 380, PCAOB Rel. No. 2012-004, at 2 (Aug. 15, 2012) ("AS 1301 Adopting Release").

[4] The term "other independent public accounting firms" in the context of communications with audit committees pursuant to AS 1301 includes "firms that perform audit procedures in the current

were not employed by the auditor, that performed audit procedures in the current period audit.[5]

9. In connection with KPMG Australia's Rio Tinto Audits, KPMG Australia used another KPMG International member firm to perform certain audit procedures as an other independent accounting firm. However, with respect to the Rio Tinto Audits, KPMG Australia failed to communicate the other accounting firm's name, location, and planned responsibilities to Rio Tinto's audit committee.

10. Accordingly, KPMG Australia violated AS 1301.10d in connection with each of the Rio Tinto Audits.

F. KPMG Australia Filed Four Inaccurate Form APs in Violation of PCAOB Rule 3211(a)

11. PCAOB Rule 3211 provides that each registered public accounting firm must provide information about engagement partners and other accounting firms that participate in audits of issuers by filing a Form AP, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, for each audit report issued by the firm for an issuer.[6]

12. PCAOB Rule 3211(a) provides that, "[f]or each audit report it issues for an issuer, a registered public accounting firm must file with the Board a report on Form AP in accordance with the instructions to that form."

13. The instructions to Item 4.1 of Form AP "Part IV - Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require that an auditor who uses an "other accounting firm"[7] that incurs more period audit regardless of whether they otherwise have any relationship with the auditor." AS 1301.10d, Note.

[5] AS 1301.10d. In the AS 1301 Adopting Release, the Board explained the rationale for identifying other independent public accounting firms for the audit committee as follows: "The audit committee should be aware of all the participants in the audit. This communication regarding other participants in the audit would enable the audit committee to inquire or otherwise determine, for example, whether the other participants are registered with the Board and are subject to PCAOB inspections and whether they have disciplinary history with the Board or other regulators." AS 1301 Adopting Release at Appendix 4, p. A4-15.

[6] Form APs must be filed by the 35th day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with Commission, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(1), subject to a shorter filing deadline that applies when the audit report is first included in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, see PCAOB Rule 3211(b)(2).

[7] See General Instruction No. 2 of Form AP ("'[O]ther accounting firm' means (i) a registered public accounting firm other than the Firm; or (ii) any other person or entity that opines on the compliance of any entity's financial statements with an applicable financial reporting framework").

than 5% of the total audit hours "[s]tate the legal name of other accounting firms and the extent of participation in the audit" in its Form AP.[8]

14. The instructions to Item 4.2 of Form AP "Part IV – Responsibility for the Audit Is Not Divided" require an auditor to "[s]tate the number of other accounting firm(s) individually representing less than 5% of total audit hours" and "[i]ndicate the aggregate percentage of participation" by those other accounting firms.[9]

15. Form AP Item 3.2 explains that an other accounting firm participated in the audit if "the Firm assume[d] responsibility for the work and report of the other accounting firm as described in . . . AS 1205, Part of the Audit Performed by Other Independent Auditors," or "the other accounting firm or any of its principals or professional employees was subject to supervision under AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement."[10]

16. In connection with the 2019 BHP Audit and the Rio Tinto Audits, KPMG Australia filed Form APs that failed to accurately report information concerning the Firm's use and reporting of component auditors.[11]

i. KPMG Australia Failed to Accurately Report in Form AP the Participation of Other Accounting Firms in its 2019 BHP Audit

17. In connection with KPMG Australia's 2019 BHP Audit, KPMG Australia and KPMG UK both performed audit work and jointly issued audit reports on BHP's consolidated June 30, 2019 financial statements and the effectiveness of BHP's internal controls over financial reporting as of June 30, 2019.

18. KPMG Australia utilized 10 other accounting firms to perform audit work on the 2019 BHP Audit.

[8] In the adopting release for PCAOB Rule 3211, the Board explained that information provided on Form AP was intended to "help investors understand how much of the audit was performed by the accounting firm signing the auditor's report and how much was performed by other accounting firms," and allow investors to "research publicly available information about the firms identified in the form, such as whether a participating firm is registered with the PCAOB, whether it has been inspected and, if so, what the results were and whether it has any publicly available disciplinary history." See Improving the Transparency of Audits: Rules to Require Disclosure of Certain Audit Participants on a New PCAOB Form and Related Amendments to Auditing Standards, PCAOB Rel. No. 2015-008, at 4 (Dec. 15, 2015).

[9] See Item 4.2 and Part IV of Form AP.

[10] See Note to Item 3.2 of Form AP.

[11] Each of the other accounting firm participants in the Order meet the definition of an "other accounting firm" requiring reporting on Form AP in accordance with the instructions of Form AP. See Rule 3211(a) and supra note 7.

19. On October 23, 2020, KPMG Australia filed a Form AP for the 2019 BHP Audit that reported the participation of three other accounting firms representing less than 5% of total audit hours, but failed to report the participation of seven other accounting firms, despite knowing of those firms' participation in the 2019 BHP Audit.[12]

20. KPMG Australia filed an amended Form AP for the 2019 BHP Audit on October 13, 2021. The October 13, 2021 amended Form AP made certain changes, but only reported five additional (of the seven) other accounting firms representing less than 5% of total audit hours (and accordingly increased the number of firms individually participating in less than 5% of total audit hours by five, from three to eight).

21. Accordingly, KPMG Australia violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form AP and the amended Form AP filed for the 2019 BHP Audit.

22. On November 23, 2023, KPMG Australia filed a second amended Form AP for the 2019 BHP Audit, which reported two additional other accounting firms representing less than 5% of total audit hours, increasing the number of firms individually participating in less than 5% of total audit hours from eight to 10.

ii. KPMG Australia Failed to Report the Participation of a Component Auditor

23. In connection with the Rio Tinto Audits, KPMG Australia directly engaged another KPMG International member firm in India to perform audit procedures to support a component auditor.

24. Following the Rio Tinto Audits, KPMG Australia filed Form APs. In its Form AP filings, despite knowing of the other accounting firm's work on the Rio Tinto Audits, KPMG Australia failed to report the other KPMG International member firm as a participant in the audits.

25. Accordingly, KPMG Australia violated PCAOB Rule 3211(a) in connection with the Form APs for the Rio Tinto Audits.

26. On November 23, 2023, KPMG Australia filed amended Form APs for each of the Rio Tinto Audits to report the participation the KPMG International member firm as an other accounting firm representing less than 5% of total audit hours.

[12] In connection with its audit of BHP's June 30, 2019, financial statements, KPMG Australia and KPMG UK reissued (and dual-dated) their joint audit report on September 22, 2020, resulting in KPMG Australia filing a Form AP on October 23, 2020.

G. KPMG Australia Violated PCAOB Quality Control Standards

27. PCAOB rules require that a registered firm comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[13] Those standards require a firm to "have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice."[14] As part of this requirement, "[p]olicies and procedures should be established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[15]

28. PCAOB quality control standards also recognize that monitoring procedures are necessary "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the policies and procedures relating to each of the other elements of quality control are suitably designed and are being effectively applied."[16] Under PCAOB standards, monitoring involves an ongoing consideration and evaluation of, among other things, compliance with the firm's policies and procedures.[17]

29. From 2020 through 2023, KPMG Australia failed to establish and implement adequate policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable regulatory requirements related to accurately reporting on Form AP the participation, including the percentage of participation, of other accounting firms in issuer audits.

30. Although KPMG Australia had certain quality control policies and procedures relating to Form AP reporting in connection with the use of other accounting firms, the Firm failed to implement and monitor them in an adequate manner. As a result, the Firm filed four inaccurate Form APs between 2020 and 2023.

31. Accordingly, the Firm failed to comply with QC § 20 and QC § 30.

IV.

13 PCAOB Rule 3400T, Interim Quality Control Standards.

14 QC § 20.01, System of Quality Control for a CPA Firm's Accounting and Auditing Practice.

17 See QC § 20.20.d; QC § 30.02.d.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), KPMG Australia is hereby censured;

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $225,000 is imposed on KPMG Australia.

1. All funds collected by the Board as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. The Firm shall pay this civil money penalty within ten (10) days of the issuance of this Order by: (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by Board staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies KPMG Australia as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Respondent understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may result in summary suspension of its registration, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5304(a), following written notice to Respondent at the address on file with the PCAOB at the time of the issuance of this Order.

C. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Board orders that:

1. Review by KPMG Australia. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Australia shall review and evaluate its quality control policies and procedures to assess whether those policies and procedures provide the firm with reasonable assurance that its personnel and other associated persons comply with PCAOB Rule 3211; and that such policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that Firm personnel will communicate to audit committees all matters required by AS 1301.

2. Reporting. Within three months of the date of this Order, KPMG Australia shall submit a written report to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations summarizing the review and evaluation of the areas specified in paragraph C.1 above ("Report"). The Report shall describe any modified or additional policies or procedures adopted or to be adopted by KPMG Australia or, if KPMG Australia concludes no such modifications or additions should be adopted, a detailed and satisfactory explanation of why the Firm believes changes are not warranted. In addition, KPMG Australia shall submit any additional information and evidence concerning the Report, the information in the Report, and KPMG Australia's compliance with this Order as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

3. Certificate of Implementation. Within six months of the date of this Order, KPMG Australia's Chief Executive Officer shall certify in writing ("Certificate of Implementation") to the Director of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations that KPMG Australia has implemented all of the modifications and additions, if any, to its policies and procedures that were described in the Report. The Certificate of Implementation shall provide written evidence of KPMG Australia's adoption of such modifications and additions in narrative form, identify the actions taken to implement such modifications and additions, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate implementation. KPMG Australia shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, implementation as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations may reasonably request.

4. Noncompliance. KPMG Australia understands that a failure to satisfy all applicable undertakings may constitute a violation of PCAOB Rule 5000 and could provide a basis for the imposition of additional sanctions in a subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Jaslyn Sellers, CPA,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-007

March 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring Jaslyn Sellers, CPA ("Sellers" or "Respondent");

(2) barring Sellers from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[1] and

(3) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $15,000 on Sellers.[2]

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that Respondent violated PCAOB rules and auditing standards in connection with two issuer audits and violated auditor independence requirements in one of those audits.

I.

[1] Sellers may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

[2] Based on her conduct, Sellers' civil money penalty in this settlement would have been $75,000. The Board determined to accept Sellers' offer of settlement and impose a lower penalty after considering her financial resources.

pursuant to Section 105(c) of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended (the "Act"), and PCAOB Rule 5200(a)(1).

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement (the "Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[3]

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[4]

A. Respondent

1. Jaslyn Sellers, CPA (f/k/a Jaslyn Huynh, CPA) is a certified public accountant under the laws of California (license no. 115956). Sellers served as the engagement partner for the relevant audits, discussed below. At all relevant times, Sellers was an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Issuer

2. NetSol Technologies, Inc. ("NTI") is a Nevada corporation headquartered in Encino, California. According to its public filings, it provides financial applications to businesses in the global finance and leasing space. At all relevant times, NTI was an "issuer" as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii).

[3] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondent's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[4] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

C. Other Relevant Entity

3. BF Borgers CPA PC (the "Firm") was at all relevant times a public accounting firm headquartered in Lakewood, Colorado. The Firm was licensed to practice public accounting in Colorado (license no. FRM.0013157, showing voluntary surrender on September 13, 2024) and multiple other jurisdictions. The Firm at all relevant times was registered with the Board, pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules.

D. Summary

4. This matter concerns Sellers' repeated violations of multiple PCAOB rules and standards in connection with her role as engagement partner on the Firm's audits of NTI for the fiscal years ended June 30, 2021 ("FY 2021"), and June 30, 2022 ("FY 2022") (each, an "Audit," collectively, the "Audits").

5. Specifically, Sellers failed during the Audits to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in multiple areas that she had identified as significant risks, including revenue recognition and accounting estimates. In addition, Sellers authorized the issuance of audit reports for each of the Audits identifying critical audit matters ("CAMs") that included descriptions of audit procedures intended to address each critical audit matter ("CAM"), but certain of those procedures were not actually performed.

6. Furthermore, as these multiple audit failures illustrate, Sellers failed to appropriately supervise the Audits by failing to adequately evaluate whether work was performed and documented, the objectives of procedures were achieved, and the results of the engagement team's work supported the conclusions reached.

7. Finally, Sellers failed during the Firm's FY 2022 Audit to adhere to U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") and PCAOB independence requirements by serving as the NTI engagement partner for a sixth consecutive year, in violation of partner rotation requirements.

E. Sellers Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards

8. In connection with the preparation and issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[5] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[6] PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report, exercise professional skepticism, and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[7]

[5] See PCAOB Rule 3100, Compliance with Auditing and Related Professional Practice Standards; PCAOB Rule 3200, Auditing Standards. All references to PCAOB rules and standards in this Order are to the versions of those rules and standards, and to their organization and numbering, in effect at the time of the Audits.

9. In addition, an auditor has a responsibility to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud.[8] PCAOB standards further require the auditor to design and implement overall responses to address the risks of material misstatement, and specify that the auditor should design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[9]

10. The auditor should perform substantive procedures for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure, regardless of the assessed level of control risk.[10] Performing substantive procedures for the relevant assertions of significant accounts and disclosures involves testing whether the significant accounts and disclosures are in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[11]

11. PCAOB standards further provide that when using information produced by the company as audit evidence, the auditor should evaluate whether the information is sufficient and appropriate for purposes of the audit by performing procedures to: (1) test the accuracy and completeness of the information, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness of that information; and (2) evaluate whether the information is sufficiently precise and detailed for purposes of the audit.[12]

12. As described below, Respondent failed to comply with these and other PCAOB rules and standards during the Audits.

i. Background

13. Sellers served as the engagement partner during the Audits and supervised the engagement team in the planning and performance of each of the Audits. As the engagement partner, Sellers authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit reports on NTI's FY 2021 and FY 2022 financial statements, which NTI included in its Form 10-Ks filed with the Commission.

14. In its Form 10-Ks for FY 2021 and FY 2022, NTI reported consolidated net revenue of approximately $55 million and $57 million, and consolidated total assets of $87 million and $73 million, respectively. The consolidated total assets for FY 2021 and FY 2022 included goodwill of approximately $9.5 million and $9.3 million, and intangible assets of $3.9 million and $1.5 million, respectively.

15. Sellers and the engagement team determined materiality for the FY 2021 and FY 2022 Audits to be $410,000 and $430,000, respectively.

16. Prior to serving as the engagement partner for the Firm's audits and reviews of NTI, Sellers had served as the engagement partner for another registered public accounting firm in connection with that other accounting firm's audits and reviews of NTI's financial statements for FY 2017, 2018, and 2019—three fiscal years total. Sellers then began working with the Firm and continued to serve as the NTI engagement partner during the Firm's audits and reviews of NTI's financial statements for FY 2020, 2021 and 2022—her fourth, fifth, and sixth consecutive years as the NTI engagement partner.

ii. Sellers and the Engagement Team Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence During the Audits

a. Revenue

17. NTI disclosed in its Form 10-Ks for FY 2021 and FY 2022 that it derived more than 85% of its consolidated net revenue of $55 million and $57 million, respectively, from: (i) software licenses, (ii) services, and (iii) subscription and support. NTI further disclosed that it recognized revenue based on the steps outlined in FASB Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers ("ASC 606").[13]

[13] ASC 606 includes the following five revenue recognition steps: (1) identify the contract(s) with a customer; (2) identify the performance obligations in the contract; (3) determine the transaction price; (4) allocate the transaction price to the performance obligations; and (5) recognize revenue when (or as) the entity satisfies a performance obligation. See ASC 606-10-05-4, Revenue from Contracts with Customers− Overall− Overview and Background.

18. During the Audits, Sellers and the engagement team understood that NTI generated revenue from several foreign subsidiaries, including entities located in China, Pakistan, and Europe. Sellers understood during the Audits that these subsidiaries constituted more than 77% and 70% of NTI's net revenue for FY 2021 and FY 2022, respectively.

19. During each of the Audits, Sellers and the engagement team identified revenue recognition as a significant risk.[14] To address the significant risk, Sellers was required to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that were specifically responsive to the assessed risk.[15] In addition, Sellers was required to evaluate whether NTI recognized revenue in conformity with ASC 606.[16]

20. During each of the Audits, Sellers and the engagement team tested NTI's net revenue by selecting certain significant revenue transactions recorded by NTI subsidiaries for testing. Sellers and the engagement team then performed contract-specific audit procedures that varied depending on the particular contract being tested and the evidence that needed to be obtained in order to evaluate whether NTI had appropriately recognized revenue for the transactions in conformity with ASC 606.

21. However, in testing these revenue transactions, Sellers and the engagement team generally failed to perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to evaluate whether NTI was recognizing revenue in conformity with ASC 606. Through these failures, Sellers and the engagement team also generally failed to perform procedures that were specifically responsive to the assessed significant risk for revenue recognition in each of the Audits.

22. For example, to evaluate NTI's license revenue in FY 2021 and service revenue in FY 2022, Sellers and the engagement team selected a multi-year contract between an NTI subsidiary located in China and its customer. In both FY 2021 and FY 2022, the contract contained multiple performance obligations, including the delivery by the subsidiary to the customer of a software license, from which license revenue was derived, and the performance of certain support services by the subsidiary, from which service revenue was derived.

[14] Sellers and the engagement team also identified revenue recognition as a fraud risk during the Audits. PCAOB standards require the auditor to presume that there is a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition and evaluate which types of revenue, revenue transactions, or assertions may give rise to such risks. See AS 2110.68, Identifying and Assessing Risks of Material Misstatement. Such fraud risks are also deemed significant risks. See id. at .71b, Note.

[15] See AS 2301.11.

[16] See AS 2301.36, Note.

23. During FY 2021, the subsidiary did not recognize any service revenue from the contract, but recognized $2.4 million in license revenue, well above the established materiality threshold. In order to evaluate this license revenue during the FY 2021 Audit, Sellers and the engagement team reviewed the contract and obtained evidence that NTI delivered the license to the customer. However, Sellers and the engagement team did not perform audit procedures to test whether the contract price was appropriately allocated to the contract's various performance obligations in the contract, a procedure necessary to evaluate whether the amount of license revenue recognized by NTI during FY 2021 was in conformity with ASC 606.

24. During FY 2022, the Chinese subsidiary did not recognize any license revenue from the same contract, but recognized $2.07 million in service revenue, again, well above the established materiality threshold. Sellers and the engagement team failed, however, to perform any procedures to evaluate whether the Chinese subsidiary had performed the required support services, and failed, as they had in the FY 2021 Audit, to perform audit procedures to test the allocation of the contract price to the performance obligations. Performing each of these procedures was necessary to evaluate whether NTI appropriately recognized revenue on this contract during FY 2022 in conformity with ASC 606.

25. In another example illustrating Sellers' failure to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in testing NTI's reported revenue, Sellers and the engagement team selected certain revenue transactions during the Audits in order to evaluate whether $9.2 million and $7.2 million of service revenue in FY 2021 and FY 2022 recorded by NTI's foreign subsidiaries in Europe and Pakistan, respectively, had been recognized in conformity with ASC 606. In performing the testing, Sellers and the engagement team relied on information produced by these two foreign subsidiaries to evaluate whether the required services were performed prior to recognizing revenue. Sellers and the engagement team did not perform any procedures, however, to test the completeness and accuracy of the company-produced information, as required under PCAOB standards, and should not have relied on the information produced by the two foreign subsidiaries without such testing.[17]

26. Other types of failures by Sellers to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in revenue recognition testing during the Audits included, e.g., relying entirely on NTI management representations that a subsidiary was entitled to receive additional license revenue because certain conditions in a prior year contract had been met—without obtaining any corroborating evidence (such as customer confirmations)—and failing to perform procedures to evaluate whether another subsidiary was recording revenue consistent with the provisions set forth in the applicable sales contract.[18]

---

[17] See AS 1105.10.

[18] See AS 1105.04.

27. In sum, Sellers and the engagement team under her direction failed during the Audits to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence and to exercise professional skepticism with respect to NTI's reported net revenue, in violation of AS 1015, AS 1105, and AS 2301.

b. Goodwill

28. NTI's reported assets as of FY 2021 and FY 2022 included goodwill of $9.5 million (11% of total assets) and $9.3 million (13% of total assets), respectively. NTI disclosed that it reviewed its goodwill for impairment on an annual basis, or more frequently if events or changes in circumstances indicated that the carrying amount of its goodwill may be impaired.[19]

29. In both FY 2021 and FY 2022, NTI performed a quantitative assessment to assess whether its reported goodwill was impaired by comparing the book value of each reporting unit against its fair value determined using a discounted cash flow ("DCF") method.[20]

30. During the Audits, Sellers and the engagement team understood that to estimate fair values using the DCF method, NTI began by estimating the cash flows that would be generated by each reporting unit. For the projected cash flows, Sellers and the engagement team understood that NTI management applied certain assumptions, including various projected growth rates. NTI then discounted those cash flows using a discount rate largely based on the 10-year expected return for companies included in the Russell Microcap index (the "Expected Return Assumption").

31. During the Audits, Sellers and the engagement team identified impairment of goodwill as a significant risk. To address the significant risk, Sellers was required to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that were specifically responsive to the assessed risk in each of the Audits.[21]

32. Sellers performed certain audit procedures during the Audits concerning NTI's reported goodwill. However, the procedures performed by Sellers and the engagement team to test the company's process used to estimate future cash flows were insufficient.[22] In particular, Sellers and the engagement team did not perform audit procedures to identify and evaluate, as required by PCAOB standards, the reasonableness of the significant assumptions NTI used in estimating cash flows for each reporting unit, including revenue growth rates and estimated earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortization ("EBITDA") margins.[23]

33. Sellers and the engagement team also did not sufficiently evaluate whether it was reasonable for NTI to determine the discount rate based on the Expected Return Assumption. Specifically, Sellers and the engagement team did not adequately consider the risks particular to NTI's reporting units during FY 2021 and FY 2022, such as industry, geographic, and liquidity risks, in evaluating the reasonableness of NTI using the Expected Return Assumption.[24]

34. By not adequately evaluating the significant assumptions that NTI used to estimate the fair value of its goodwill, Sellers and the engagement team failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning NTI's goodwill impairment assessment.

35. As a result, Sellers violated AS 1015, AS 1105, AS 2301, and AS 2501.

c. Intangible Assets

36. NTI's assets in FY 2021 and FY 2022 included intangible assets of $3.9 million (4.5% of total assets) and $1.6 million (2.2% of total assets), respectively. NTI disclosed in its FY 2021 and FY 2022 Form 10-Ks that its intangible assets consisted of "product licenses, renewals, enhancements, copyrights, trademarks, trade names, and customer lists," and that "intangible assets with finite lives are amortized over the estimated useful life and evaluated for impairment at least on an annual basis and whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying value may not be recoverable."[25]

37. Sellers and the engagement team identified the impairment of intangible assets as a significant risk in the Audits, and PCAOB standards therefore required Sellers and the engagement team to perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that were specifically responsive to those risks. Sellers and the engagement team failed, however, to perform any audit procedures during the Audits to evaluate whether NTI's reported intangible assets were impaired.

38. As a result, Sellers violated AS 1015, AS 1105, and AS 2301.

iii. Sellers and the Engagement Team Failed to Accurately Describe Procedures the Engagement Team Performed to Address CAMs

39. PCAOB standards require the auditor to "communicate in the auditor's report critical audit matters relating to the audit of the current period's financial statements or state that the auditor determined that there are no critical audit matters."[26] In addition, for each CAM communicated in the auditor's report, the auditor must: identify the CAM; describe the principal considerations that led the auditor to determine that the matter is a CAM; describe how the CAM was addressed in the audit; and refer to the relevant financial statement accounts or disclosures that relate to the CAM.[27]

40. Sellers authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit reports for each of the Audits. The audit report for each of the Audits reported a CAM relating to: (i) "[r]evenue recognition identification of contractual terms in certain customer arrangements" (the "Revenue Recognition CAM"); and (ii) impairment of goodwill (the "Goodwill CAM").

41. In each of the Audits, Sellers stated in the audit report that she and her team had performed numerous procedures to address the Revenue Recognition CAM and the Goodwill CAM, when in fact, they had not performed many of those procedures.[28]

42. In particular, to address the Revenue Recognition CAM, Sellers falsely stated that she and the engagement team had performed the following procedure in FY 2021 and FY 2022 when they had not done so:

- "Testing the effectiveness of controls relating to the revenue recognition process, including those related to the identification of contractual terms in customer arrangements that impact the determination of the transaction price and revenue recognition."

43. To address the Goodwill CAM, Sellers falsely stated that she and the engagement team had performed several procedures in FY 2021 and FY 2022 when they had not done so, including the following:

[26] See AS 3101.13 (footnote omitted).

[27] AS 3101.14. The Note to .14c states: "In describing how the critical audit matter was addressed in the audit, the auditor may describe: (1) the auditor's response or approach that was most relevant to the matter; (2) a brief overview of the audit procedures performed; (3) an indication of the outcome of the audit procedures; and (4) key observations with respect to the matter, or some combination of these elements."

[28] The Firm's description of CAM procedures in the FY 2021 audit report generally used identical language to the 2022 audit report, with only minor differences.

- "We tested the effectiveness of internal controls over the goodwill impairment evaluation, including controls over the selection of the discount rates and over forecasts of future revenue growth rates, EBITDA, and EBITDA margin."

- "We evaluated the consistency of estimates and assumptions relating to revenue and EBITDA growth inherent in the discounted cash flow model for the reporting unit to those used by management in other annual forecasting activities."

- "With the assistance of our fair value specialists, we performed a benchmarking exercise comparing management's estimates and assumptions related to revenue growth, EBITDA and EBITDA margin for the reporting unit as of the measurement date to the revenue growth, EBITDA and EBITDA margins of a peer group of public companies for the most recent three years and the projection period."

- "With the assistance of our fair value specialists, we evaluated (1) the valuation methodology used and (2) the projections of long-term revenue growth and the discount rates by testing the underlying source of information, and by developing a range of independent estimates and comparing those to the rates selected by management."

44. As a result, Sellers failed to accurately describe the procedures the engagement team performed to address the CAMs that Sellers and the engagement team identified during the Audits, in violation of AS 3101.

iv. Sellers Failed to Properly Supervise the Audits

45. AS 1201, Supervision of the Audit Engagement, states that the engagement partner is responsible for proper supervision of the work of engagement team members.[29]

46. As part of supervising an audit, the engagement partner must "[r]eview the work of engagement team members to evaluate whether: [t]he work was performed and documented; [t]he objectives of the procedures were achieved; and [t]he results of the work support the conclusions reached."[30]

47. During the FY 2021 Audit, Sellers reviewed certain work papers prepared by the engagement team related to the key audit areas identified as significant risks, but she failed to identify that the objectives of the procedures described in those work papers were not achieved and the results of the work performed did not support the conclusions reached. For example, Sellers reviewed the Firm's revenue work papers and concluded, despite obvious gaps in testing of certain selections and associated lacking documentation, that the work performed provided sufficient audit evidence supporting the Firm's conclusion that NTI was appropriately recognizing revenue.

[29] See AS 1201.03

[30] See AS 1201.05c (internal numbering omitted).

48. During the FY 2022 Audit, Sellers failed to review most of the work papers related to the key audit areas identified as significant risks, including revenue, and she did not otherwise evaluate whether appropriate work was performed and documented; whether the objectives of planned procedures were achieved; or whether the results of the engagement team's work supported the conclusions reached.

49. As such, Sellers failed during each of the Audits to properly supervise the engagement, in violation of AS 1201.

F. Sellers Violated Applicable Commission and PCAOB Independence Requirements During the FY 2022 Audit

50. PCAOB rules and standards require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons be independent of the firm's audit client throughout the audit and professional engagement period.[31] "[A] registered public accounting firm or associated person's independence obligation with respect to an audit client that is an issuer encompasses not only an obligation to satisfy the independence criteria set out in the rules and standards of the PCAOB, but also an obligation to satisfy all other independence criteria applicable to the engagement, including the independence criteria set out in the rules and regulations of the Commission under the federal securities laws."[32]

51. Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 provides that it shall be unlawful for an auditor not to be independent with respect to, among other requirements, the partner rotation requirements of Commission Regulation S-X.

52. Rule 2-01 of Commission Regulation S-X states that, with certain exceptions that are not applicable here, an accountant is not independent of an audit client when: "[a]ny audit partner . . . performs . . . [t]he services of a lead partner . . . for more than five consecutive years."[33]

[31] See PCAOB Rule 3520, Auditor Independence.

[32] See PCAOB Rule 3520, Note 1.

[33] 17 C.F.R. § 210.2-01(c)(6)(A)(1). At all relevant times, the Firm and the prior registered public accounting firm that Sellers worked for had five or more issuer audit clients and did not qualify for the small firm exemption to partner rotation requirements. Id. at § 210.2-01(c)(6)(ii).

53. Sellers served as the engagement partner for the FY 2022 Audit and authorized the issuance of the Firm's audit report. The FY 2022 Audit was Sellers' sixth consecutive year as the engagement partner for the audit of NTI's financial statements. By serving as the NTI engagement partner (the "lead partner" under Rule 2-01(f)(7)(ii)(A) of Commission Regulation S-X) for a sixth consecutive year during the FY 2022 Audit, Sellers was not independent of NTI within the meaning of Commission Regulation S-X and violated Exchange Act Rule 10A-2 and PCAOB Rule 3520.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), Jaslyn Sellers is hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Jaslyn Sellers is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[34]

C. Pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), Jaslyn Sellers may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after two years from the date of this Order.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $15,000 is imposed on Jaslyn Sellers.

[34] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Sellers. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

2. Jaslyn Sellers shall pay $5,000 within ten days of the issuance of this Order, $5,000 within six months of the issuance of this Order, and $5,000 within twelve months of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies Jaslyn Sellers as a respondent in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. Jaslyn Sellers understands that failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition, pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b), for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of Accell Audit & Compliance, P.A.,

Respondent.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-017

March 11, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is permanently revoking the registration of Accell Audit & Compliance, P.A. ("Accell," the "Firm," or "Respondent").

The Board is imposing this sanction on the basis of its finding that the Firm failed to comply with a Board order in violation of PCAOB Rule 5000.

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondent has submitted an Offer of Settlement ("Offer") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for purposes of these proceedings and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondent and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondent consents to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[1]

[1] The findings herein are made pursuant to the Firm's Offer and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

III.

On the basis of Respondent's Offer, the Board finds that:[2]

A. Respondent

1. Accell Audit & Compliance, P.A. is a corporation headquartered in Tampa, Florida. At all relevant times, Accell was registered with the Board pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. At all relevant times, Accell was licensed to practice public accounting by the Florida Board of Accountancy (license number AD66617).

B. Accell Failed to Comply with a Board Order in Violation of PCAOB Rule 5000

2. PCAOB Rule 5000, General, requires that a registered public accounting firm comply with all Board orders to which the firm is subject.

3. On September 24, 2024, the Board issued an Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions against the Firm, In the Matter of Accell Audit and Compliance, P.A., PCAOB Release No. 105-2024-037 ("September Order"), for Accell's failure to make certain required communications to the audit committees of two issuer clients. Pursuant to the September Order, the Board censured the Firm, ordered the Firm to pay a civil money penalty of $40,000 within ten days of entry of the September Order, and ordered the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions regarding Firm policies and procedures and to provide a certification that the Firm has done so within 120 days of entry of the September Order.

4. Accell has failed to pay the civil money penalty imposed upon it and has failed to provide a certification that it has completed the required remedial measures. Accell therefore failed to comply with the Board's September Order in violation of PCAOB Rule 5000.

[2] The Board finds that Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

IV.

In view of the foregoing, and to protect the interests of investors and further the public interest in the preparation of informative, accurate, and independent audit reports, the Board determines it appropriate to impose the sanctions agreed to in Respondent's Offer.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that:

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the registration of Accell Audit & Compliance, P.A. is hereby permanently revoked.

Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions

In the Matter of James Pai CPA PLLC and Yu-Ching James Pai, CPA,

Respondents.

PCAOB Release No. 105-2025-019

March 25, 2025

By this Order Instituting Disciplinary Proceedings, Making Findings, and Imposing Sanctions ("Order"), the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board ("Board" or "PCAOB") is:

(1) censuring James Pai CPA PLLC ("Firm") and Yu-Ching James Pai ("Pai") (collectively, "Respondents");

(2) revoking the Firm's registration;[1]

(3) barring Pai from being an associated person of a registered public accounting firm;[2]

(4) imposing a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000, jointly and severally, on the Firm and Pai;

(5) requiring the Firm to undertake certain remedial actions concerning its system of quality control prior to submitting any future registration application and to provide evidence of such measures with any future registration application; and

(6) requiring Pai to complete 40 hours of continuing professional education ("CPE"), in addition to any CPE required in connection with any professional license, before filing any petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm.

[1] The Firm may reapply for registration after three years from the date of this Order.

[2] Pai may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm after three years from the date of this Order.

The Board is imposing these sanctions on the basis of its findings that: (a) Respondents violated PCAOB rules and standards in connection with performing two audits of the financial statements of one issuer client; (b) the Firm violated PCAOB standards by failing to obtain an engagement quality review ("EQR") in connection with those audits; (c) the Firm filed inaccurate PCAOB Form APs in connection with one of the audits; (d) the Firm violated PCAOB quality control standards; and (e) Pai directly and substantially contributed to the Firm's EQR, Form AP, and quality control violations.[3]

I.

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, and pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5205, Respondents have submitted Offers of Settlement (the "Offers") that the Board has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings and any other proceeding brought by or on behalf of the Board, or to which the Board is a party, and without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Board's jurisdiction over Respondents and the subject matter of these proceedings, which is admitted, Respondents consent to the entry of this Order as set forth below.[4]

III.

On the basis of Respondents' Offers, the Board finds that:[5]

---

[3] All references to PCAOB rules and standards in this Order are to the versions of those rules and standards, and to their organization and numbering, in effect at the time of the audits discussed herein.

[4] The findings herein are made pursuant to Respondents' Offers and are not binding on any other person or entity in this or any other proceeding.

[5] The Board finds that each Respondent's conduct described in this Order meets the conditions set out in Section 105(c)(5) of the Act, 15 U.S.C. § 7215(c)(5), which provides that certain sanctions may be imposed in the event of: (1) intentional or knowing conduct, including reckless conduct, that results in violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard; or (2) repeated instances of negligent conduct, each resulting in a violation of the applicable statutory, regulatory, or professional standard.

A. Respondents

1. James Pai CPA PLLC is a public accounting firm headquartered in New York, New York. The Firm is, and at all relevant times was, registered with the PCAOB pursuant to Section 102 of the Act and PCAOB rules. The Firm is licensed to practice public accountancy by the state of New York (Company ID No. 059085).

2. Yu-Ching James Pai, CPA is the owner of the Firm and a certified public accountant licensed by the state of New York (license no. 086672). At all relevant times, Pai was the sole partner of the Firm and served as the engagement partner on all issuer audits it conducted, including those discussed in this Order. Pai is, and at all relevant times was, an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm," as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).

B. Issuer

3. SUIC Worldwide Holdings, Ltd. ("SUIC" or the "Company") (f/k/a Sino United Worldwide Consolidated, Ltd.) was, at all relevant times, a Nevada corporation headquartered in New York, New York. SUIC's public filings disclose that it was engaged in the business of providing IT-related products and services. SUIC was, at all relevant times, an "issuer," as that term is defined by Section 2(a)(7) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(i)(iii). The Firm audited SUIC's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2021, and December 31, 2022 (the "2021 SUIC Audit" and "2022 SUIC Audit," respectively, and collectively, the "SUIC Audits").

C. Summary

4. This matter concerns Respondents' violations of PCAOB rules and standards in connection with the SUIC Audits. Specifically, in both SUIC Audits, Respondents failed to: (1) properly plan and perform risk assessments; (2) obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence in testing revenue, accounts receivable, and related parties; (3) determine and communicate critical audit matters ("CAMs"); (4) make or document the audit committee communications required by PCAOB standards; and (5) comply with PCAOB audit documentation requirements. Additionally, Respondents failed to obtain written representations from SUIC's management for the 2021 SUIC Audit.

5. The Firm also violated PCAOB standards by failing to obtain EQRs for each of the SUIC Audits.

6. In addition, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3211 by failing to file accurate Form APs in connection with the 2022 SUIC Audit.

7. The Firm also violated PCAOB rules and PCAOB quality control standards because it failed to establish and implement a system of quality control to provide it with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel met applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements, specifically with respect to obtaining sufficient appropriate audit evidence in the performance of audits, obtaining EQRs, filing accurate Form APs, and preparing adequate audit documentation. In addition, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures, including monitoring procedures, to provide it with reasonable assurance that its system of quality control was suitably designed and effectively applied.

8. Finally, Pai violated PCAOB Rule 3502 by knowingly or recklessly, and directly and substantially, contributing to the Firm's EQR, Form AP, and quality control violations.

D. Respondents Violated PCAOB Rules and Standards in Performing the SUIC Audits

9. In connection with the preparation or issuance of an audit report, PCAOB rules require that a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons comply with the Board's auditing and related professional practice standards.[6] An auditor may express an unqualified opinion on an issuer's financial statements only when the auditor has conducted an audit in accordance with PCAOB standards and "concludes that the financial statements, taken as a whole, are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework."[7] PCAOB standards require an auditor to exercise due professional care in the planning and performance of the audit and the preparation of the report, exercise professional skepticism, and plan and perform audit procedures to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a reasonable basis for the auditor's opinion.[8]

10. As described below, Respondents failed to comply with these and other PCAOB rules and standards in the SUIC Audits.

i. Respondents Failed to Properly Plan and Perform Risk Assessment for the SUIC Audits

11. PCAOB standards require the auditor to "properly plan the audit."[9] Proper planning includes "establishing the overall audit strategy for the engagement and developing an audit plan, which includes, in particular, planned risk assessment procedures and planned responses to the risks of material misstatement."[10]

12. PCAOB standards also require the auditor to plan and perform audit procedures to detect misstatements that, individually or in combination with other misstatements, would result in a material misstatement of the financial statements.[11] "To plan the nature, timing, and extent of audit procedures, the auditor should establish a materiality level for the financial statements as a whole that is appropriate in light of the particular circumstances."[12]

13. PCAOB standards require that the auditor "identify and assess the risks of material misstatement at the financial statement level and the assertion level."[13] PCAOB standards also require the auditor to "presume that there is a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition and evaluate which types of revenue, revenue transactions, or assertions may give rise to such risks."[14]

14. For the SUIC Audits, Respondents failed to establish an overall audit strategy for the engagements and develop an audit plan; failed to appropriately consider materiality in planning the 2021 SUIC Audit, including establishing a materiality level and determining a tolerable misstatement amount; and failed to perform any risk assessment procedures to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement. Respondents also failed to presume that there was a fraud risk involving improper revenue recognition during the SUIC Audits.

15. As a result, Respondents failed to perform the procedures necessary to properly plan and perform risk assessment for the SUIC Audits, in violation of AS 2101, AS 2105, and AS 2110.

ii. Respondents Failed to Obtain Sufficient Appropriate Audit Evidence in Testing Revenue, Accounts Receivable, and Related Parties in the SUIC Audits

16. PCAOB standards require the auditor to design and implement overall responses to address the assessed risks of material misstatement, and specify that the auditor should design and perform audit procedures in a manner that addresses the assessed risks of material misstatement for each relevant assertion of each significant account and disclosure.[15] "For significant risks, the auditor should perform substantive procedures, including tests of details, that are specifically responsive to the assessed risks."[16] "The auditor must evaluate whether the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework."[17]

17. PCAOB standards further provide that when using information produced by the company as audit evidence, the auditor should evaluate whether the information is sufficient and appropriate for purposes of the audit by performing procedures to: (1) test the accuracy and completeness of the information, or test the controls over the accuracy and completeness of that information; and (2) evaluate whether the information is sufficiently precise and detailed for purposes of the audit.[18]

18. PCAOB standards require the auditor to design and implement audit responses that address the risks of material misstatement identified and assessed in accordance with AS 2110.[19] This includes applying substantive procedures to accounting estimates in significant accounts and disclosures.[20]

19. PCAOB standards require the auditor to "evaluate whether identified misstatements might be indicative of fraud and, in turn, how they affect the auditor's evaluation of materiality and the related audit responses."[21]

20. PCAOB standards also require the auditor to perform procedures to obtain an understanding of the company's relationships and transactions with its related parties that might reasonably be expected to affect the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements.[22]

21. PCAOB standards require the auditor to evaluate "whether the company has properly identified its related parties and relationships and transactions with related parties."[23] In addition, "[i]f the auditor identifies information that indicates that related parties or relationships or transactions with related parties previously undisclosed to the auditor might exist, the auditor should perform the procedures necessary to determine whether previously undisclosed relationships or transactions with related parties, in fact, exist."[24]

22. PCAOB standards also require the auditor to "evaluate whether related party transactions have been properly accounted for and disclosed in the financial statements. This includes evaluating whether the financial statements contain the information regarding relationships and transactions with related parties essential for a fair presentation in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework."[25]

a. Revenue

23. SUIC disclosed that it derived its revenues by providing IT services to customers pursuant to sales contracts. As of and for the years ended December 31, 2021, and December 31, 2022, SUIC reported revenues of approximately $379,000 and $221,000, respectively.

24. In the 2021 SUIC Audit, Respondents failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence as to SUIC's reported revenue.[26] To test SUIC's revenue, Respondents obtained sales contracts and traced the revenue amounts to the Company's general ledger and to Company-generated invoices. However, Respondents failed to obtain any evidence that SUIC had actually performed the services described in the invoices, that the revenue amounts SUIC recorded were accurate, or that any such amounts were collectible.[27]

25. In addition, Respondents failed to adequately evaluate (1) the sales contracts under FASB Accounting Standard Codification ("ASC") 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, which became effective for SUIC on January 1, 2018, including whether SUIC identified all separate performance obligations in the contracts, and determined and allocated the transaction price to the performance obligations; and (2) SUIC's financial statement disclosures, which stated that SUIC was reporting revenue in accordance with ASC 605, Revenue Recognition, which ASC 606 superseded.

26. In the 2022 SUIC Audit, Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence for the revenue SUIC recognized under the sales contracts, again failing to obtain sufficient evidence that SUIC had met its performance obligations under the contracts. Although Respondents obtained an acknowledgement from a related party of SUIC that the Company had performed services, that acknowledgement was dated April 1, 2022, approximately nine months before year-end, and addressed only a specific portion of services for which SUIC had recorded revenue.

27. Accordingly, in both of the SUIC Audits, Respondents violated AS 1105, AS 2301, and AS 2810 in evaluating the revenue SUIC reported. Respondents also violated AS 1015 by failing to exercise due professional care, including professional skepticism.

b. Accounts Receivable

28. In the SUIC Audits, Respondents also failed to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence concerning the valuation of SUIC's reported accounts receivable, including by failing to apply substantive procedures to appropriately evaluate SUIC's decision not to record any allowance for doubtful accounts, despite accounts receivable going unpaid for an extended period.[28]

29. In its December 31, 2021 financial statements, SUIC reported accounts receivable of approximately $339,000, with receivables greater than 90 days past due representing 28% and 16% of the Company's total accounts receivable and total assets, respectively. As of December 31, 2021, SUIC did not record any allowance for doubtful accounts.

30. To test accounts receivable in the 2021 SUIC Audit, Respondents obtained an accounts receivable aging schedule from SUIC, but they failed to test either the completeness and accuracy of the amounts within each aging category or SUIC's controls over the accuracy and completeness of the amounts within each aging category.[29] In addition, Respondents failed to appropriately test SUIC's assertion that an allowance for doubtful accounts was not necessary, despite the significant portion of receivables that were greater than 90 days past due.[30]

31. As of December 31, 2022, SUIC reported accounts receivable of $362,525, approximately 79% ($288,000) of which were more than 90 days past due. Again, SUIC recorded no allowance for doubtful accounts.

32. In the 2022 SUIC Audit, Respondents again obtained SUIC's accounts receivable aging schedule and identified a $55,000 account that was greater than 90 days past due as of December 31, 2022. Respondents understood that this account had become uncollectible due to the impacts of COVID-19 and proposed an audit adjustment for the account, which the Company recorded. However, Respondents failed to test the collectability of any other long past due accounts receivables or appropriately evaluate SUIC's decision not to record any allowance for doubtful accounts.

33. Moreover, although the $55,000 audit adjustment proposed by Respondents was over eight times Respondents' materiality threshold and related to an entity in which SUIC held a 10% investment, Respondents failed to evaluate whether the misstatement might have been indicative of fraud and, in turn, how it affected Respondents' evaluation of materiality and the related audit response.[31]

34. Accordingly, in both of the SUIC Audits, Respondents also violated AS 1105, AS 2501, and AS 2810 in evaluating SUIC's reported accounts receivable.

c. Related Parties

35. During 2021 and 2022, SUIC attributed 100% of its revenue to agreements with two parties, Entity A and Entity B. Specifically, in 2021, SUIC recorded 55% of its revenue from Entity A and 45% from Entity B, and in 2022, SUIC recorded 100% of its revenue from Entity A. In addition, as of December 31, 2021, and December 31, 2022, SUIC reported a convertible promissory notes balance of $287,000 and disclosed that the holder of all the notes was Shoou Chyn Kan ("Kan"). In the Notes to its 2021 financial statements, SUIC disclosed that it had entered into no related party transactions and had no related party balances. In the Notes to its 2022 financial statements, SUIC disclosed Kan's convertible notes as related party transactions.

36. Despite obtaining evidence during the SUIC Audits that Entity A, Entity B, and Kan were, or may have been, related parties, Respondents failed to appropriately evaluate SUIC's identification of, accounting for, and disclosure of its relationships and transactions with Entity A, Entity B, and Kan.

37. First, during the SUIC Audits, Respondents failed to appropriately evaluate whether SUIC should have disclosed and accounted for its sales agreements with Entity A as related party transactions in its 2021 or 2022 financial statements. Respondents failed to do so, despite obtaining a document from SUIC during the 2021 SUIC Audit that listed Entity A as a related party due to Entity A's relationship with a SUIC shareholder.

38. Second, during the 2021 SUIC Audit, Respondents also failed to perform the procedures necessary to determine whether SUIC should have disclosed and accounted for its sales agreements with Entity B as related party transactions in its 2021 financial statements. That failure occurred even though Respondents were aware that SUIC had entered into a joint venture agreement with Entity B to create a company known as SUIC Beneway USA (formerly SUIC QQ Pay USA).

39. Finally, Respondents also failed to appropriately evaluate whether SUIC should have disclosed and accounted for Kan's convertible notes as related party transactions in its 2021 financial statements. They failed to do so despite Respondents' 2021 work papers containing statements indicating that (a) Kan signed checks and made payments on behalf of SUIC; and (b) Kan was an authorized representative of SUIC in connection with a loan agreement between SUIC and a financial institution.

40. As a result, during the SUIC Audits, Respondents violated AS 1105, AS 2410, and AS 2810 by failing to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to determine whether SUIC had properly identified, accounted for, and disclosed in its financial statements related parties and relationships and transactions with related parties.

iii. Respondents Failed to Determine and Communicate CAMs during the SUIC Audits

41. PCAOB standards establish "requirements regarding the content of the auditor's written report when the auditor expresses an unqualified opinion on the financial statements."[32] Among other things, "[t]he auditor must determine whether there are any critical audit matters in the audit of the current period's financial statements."[33] PCAOB standards require the auditor to "communicate in the auditor's report [CAMs] relating to the audit of the current period's financial statements or state that the auditor determined that there are no [CAMs]."[34]

42. A CAM is "any matter arising from the audit of the financial statements that was communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relates to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective, or complex auditor judgment."[35] PCAOB standards identify factors the auditor should consider in its evaluation of whether a matter is a CAM.[36]

43. During the SUIC Audits, Respondents failed to perform any evaluation of whether there were CAMs. In the SUIC 2021 Audit, the Firm's audit report failed to refer to CAMs at all. In the 2022 SUIC Audit, the Firm's audit report stated that the Firm "determined that there are no [CAMs].” In fact, however, Respondents never performed the evaluation necessary to make that determination.

34 Id. at .13 (footnote omitted).

35 Id. at .11.

36 Id. at .12.

44. As a result, Respondents violated AS 3101.

iv. Respondents Failed to Make or Document the Audit Committee Communications Required by PCAOB Standards During the SUIC Audits

45. PCAOB standards require the auditor to communicate certain matters related to the conduct of an audit to the issuer’s audit committee.[37] These matters include the overall audit strategy; the significant risks identified during the auditor’s risk assessment procedures; significant and critical accounting policies and practices; critical accounting estimates; and the results of the auditor’s evaluation of whether the presentation of the financial statements and the related disclosures are in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[38]

46. PCAOB rules also require that a registered public accounting firm, at least annually for each audit client, describe in writing to the audit committee of an audit client relationships between the firm and the client that may reasonably be thought to bear on independence.[39]

47. In connection with the SUIC Audits, Respondents failed to make required communications to SUIC’s audit committee related to: (1) the significant risks identified during the engagement team’s risk assessment procedures; (2) significant accounting policies and practices; (3) critical accounting policies and practices; (4) critical accounting estimates; and (5) the results of the Firm’s evaluation of whether the presentation of the financial statements and the related disclosures were in conformity with the applicable financial reporting framework.[40]

48. In addition, the Firm failed to make any communication in writing to the SUIC audit committee about the relationship between the Firm and SUIC that may reasonably be thought to bear on independence.[41]

49. Accordingly, Respondents violated AS 1301, and the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3526.

41 See PCAOB Rule 3526.

v. Respondents Failed to Comply with PCAOB Audit Documentation Requirements in the SUIC Audits

50. PCAOB standards require that the auditor "prepare audit documentation in connection with each engagement conducted pursuant to the standards of the PCAOB."[42] PCAOB standards further provide that "[a] complete and final set of audit documentation should be assembled for retention as of a date not more than 45 days after the report release date (documentation completion date)."[43] In addition, although "[c]ircumstances may require additions to audit documentation after the report release date[,]" any documentation added "must indicate the date the information was added, the name of the person who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it."[44]

51. In connection with each of the SUIC Audits, Respondents failed to assemble a complete and final set of audit documentation by the documentation completion dates. The majority of work papers were modified between approximately three months and nine months after the documentation completion dates for the 2021 SUIC Audit and 2022 SUIC Audit. Respondents failed to indicate the date the information was added to the work papers, the name of the individual(s) who prepared the additional documentation, and the reason for adding it.

52. As a result, Respondents violated AS 1215.

vi. Respondents Failed to Obtain Written Representations from SUIC's Management for the 2021 SUIC Audit

53. PCAOB standards provide that the auditor should obtain written representations from management "for all financial statements and periods covered by the auditor's report."[45]

54. For the 2021 SUIC Audit, Respondents failed to obtain written representations from SUIC's management.

55. As a result, Respondents violated AS 2805.

43 Id. at .15.

44 Id. at .16.

45 See AS 2805.05, Management Representations.

E. The Firm Violated PCAOB Standards Relating to EQRs

56. PCAOB standards require that an EQR be performed on all audit engagements.[46] A firm may grant permission to a client to use the audit report only after an engagement quality reviewer provides concurring approval of the issuance of the report.[47]

57. The Firm failed to obtain EQRs for either of the SUIC Audits, in violation of AS 1220.

F. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rule 3211 by Failing to File Accurate Form APs

58. PCAOB Rule 3211, Auditor Reporting of Certain Audit Participants, requires every registered public accounting firm to file a Form AP for each audit report it issues for an issuer, and to include the identity of the engagement partner and certain information about the issuer and other accounting firms that participated in the audit.

59. A Form AP must be filed by the 35th day after the date a firm's audit report is first included in a document filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") or, in the case of a registration statement under the Securities Act of 1933, by the tenth day after the date the audit report is first included in a document filed with the Commission.[48]

60. For the 2022 SUIC Audit, the Firm initially filed a Form AP two weeks before it issued its audit report. In that Form AP and in an amended Form AP the Firm filed after it issued its audit report, the Firm listed another accounting firm ("Firm A") as a participant in the 2022 SUIC Audit. However, in fact, Firm A did not participate in the 2022 SUIC Audit. Thus, the Firm provided incorrect information about Firm A's participation in both of the Form APs it filed. The Firm never corrected the Form APs. The Firm filed those inaccurate Form APs after the Board already had sanctioned it for failing to comply with Form AP reporting requirements in each of its four prior audits of SUIC.[49]

61. As a result, the Firm violated PCAOB Rule 3211 in connection with the 2022 SUIC Audit.

G. The Firm Violated PCAOB Rules and Quality Control Standards

62. PCAOB rules require a registered public accounting firm and its associated persons to comply with PCAOB quality control standards.[50] These standards require that a registered public accounting firm have a system of quality control for its accounting and auditing practice.[51] "A firm's system of quality control encompasses the firm's organizational structure and the policies adopted and procedures established to provide the firm with reasonable assurance of complying with professional standards."[52]

63. As described below, the Firm failed to establish policies and procedures sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that its personnel complied with applicable professional standards and regulatory requirements.

i. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Engagement Performance

64. A firm's system of quality control should include policies and procedures "to provide the firm with reasonable assurance that the work performed by engagement personnel meets applicable professional standards, regulatory requirements, and the firm's standards of quality."[53] To the extent appropriate and as required by applicable professional standards, these policies and procedures should cover planning, performing, and documenting the results of each engagement, and should address EQRs.[54] During the period covered by the SUIC Audits, the Firm's quality control policies and procedures related to engagement performance were deficient in multiple respects.

65. As illustrated by Respondents' multiple violations in connection with the SUIC Audits, the Firm failed to establish and implement sufficient policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that (a) it would plan and perform audits consistent with PCAOB standards; (b) it would comply with AS 1215's requirements regarding the assembly and retention of audit documentation; (c) EQRs would be performed on all of its audits in accordance with PCAOB standards; and (d) it would comply with PCAOB requirements for the filing of Form APs.

66. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20.

ii. The Firm's System of Quality Control Failed to Provide Reasonable Assurance with Respect to Monitoring

67. PCAOB quality control standards require that a firm's system of quality control contain a monitoring component.[55] Through monitoring, a firm should establish policies and procedures to provide reasonable assurance that the firm's policies and procedures "are suitably designed and are being effectively applied," and that "its system of quality control is effective."[56]

68. During the period covered by this Order, the Firm failed to perform any internal inspection procedures or any other monitoring procedures to assess the effectiveness of its system of quality control.

69. As a result, the Firm violated QC § 20 and QC § 30.

H. Pai Directly and Substantially Contributed to the Firm's Violations

70. "A person associated with a registered public accounting firm shall not take or omit to take an action knowing, or recklessly not knowing, that the act or omission would directly and substantially contribute to a violation by that registered public accounting firm of the Act, the Rules of the Board, the provisions of the securities laws relating to the preparation and issuance of audit reports and the obligations and liabilities of accountants with respect thereto, including the rules of the Commission issued under the Act, or professional standards."[57]

71. Pai is, and at all relevant times was, the Firm's sole owner and partner, served as the engagement partner for the SUIC Audits, and was the individual in charge of the Firm's system of quality control. Accordingly, Pai was responsible for ensuring that the Firm complied with PCAOB rules and standards. He was also responsible for developing and maintaining quality control policies and procedures applicable to the Firm's auditing practice. As evidenced by the numerous audit and quality control violations described above, Pai repeatedly failed to carry out those responsibilities.

72. Pai knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that his acts and omissions would directly and substantially contribute to the Firm's EQR, Form AP, and quality control violations described above. As a result, Pai violated PCAOB Rule 3502.

IV.

A. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(E) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(5), the Firm and Pai are hereby censured.

B. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(A) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(1), the Firm's registration is revoked.

C. After three years from the date of this Order, the Firm may reapply for registration by filing an application for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

D. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(B) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(2), Pai is barred from being an "associated person of a registered public accounting firm" as that term is defined in Section 2(a)(9) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 1001(p)(i).[58]

E. After three years from the date of this Order, Pai may file a petition for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

F. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(D) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(4), a civil money penalty in the amount of $40,000 is imposed, jointly and severally, on the Firm and Pai.

    1. All funds collected by the PCAOB as a result of the assessment of this civil money penalty will be used in accordance with Section 109(c)(2) of the Act.

    2. Respondents shall pay the civil money penalty within ten days of the issuance of this Order by (a) wire transfer in accordance with instructions

[58] As a consequence of the bar, the provisions of Section 105(c)(7)(B) of the Act will apply with respect to Pai. Section 105(c)(7)(B) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person that is suspended or barred from being associated with a registered public accounting firm under this subsection willfully to become or remain associated with any issuer, broker, or dealer in an accountancy or a financial management capacity, and for any issuer, broker, or dealer that knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known, of such suspension or bar, to permit such an association, without the consent of the Board or the Commission."

furnished by PCAOB staff; or (b) United States Postal Service money order, bank money order, certified check, or bank cashier's check (i) made payable to the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, (ii) delivered to the Office of Finance, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006, and (iii) submitted under a cover letter, which identifies the Firm and Pai as respondents in these proceedings, sets forth the title and PCAOB release number of these proceedings, and states that payment is made pursuant to this Order, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Office of the Secretary, Attention: Phoebe W. Brown, Secretary, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

3. If timely payment is not made, interest shall accrue at the federal debt collection rate set for the current quarter pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3717. Payments shall be applied first to post-Order interest.

4. By consenting to this Order, the Firm acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any reapplication for registration pursuant to PCAOB Rule 2101.

5. By consenting to this Order, Pai acknowledges that a failure to pay the civil money penalty described above may alone be grounds to deny any petition to terminate a bar pursuant to PCAOB Rule 5302(b).

G. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(G) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(9), the Firm is required:

1. Before filing with the Board any future registration application, to establish, revise, or supplement, as necessary, policies and procedures to provide the Firm with reasonable assurance that: (a) Firm personnel will comply with PCAOB standards when conducting issuer audits; (b) Firm personnel will obtain, and adequately document, EQRs for all issuer audits in accordance with applicable professional standards; (c) the Firm will properly assemble for retention complete and final sets of audit documentation in accordance with professional standards; and (d) the Firm will comply with PCAOB reporting requirements on a timely basis, including with respect to Form AP.

2. To provide with any future registration application a written certification, signed by the individual ultimately responsible for the Firm's system of quality control, to the Director of the PCAOB's Division of Enforcement and Investigations, stating that the Firm has complied with paragraph IV.G.1 above. The certification shall identify the actions undertaken to satisfy the conditions specified above, provide written evidence of compliance in the form of a narrative, and be supported by exhibits sufficient to demonstrate compliance. The Firm shall also submit such additional evidence of, and information concerning, compliance as the staff of the Division of Enforcement and Investigations or the staff of the Division of Registration and Inspections may reasonably request.

H. Pursuant to Section 105(c)(4)(F) of the Act and PCAOB Rule 5300(a)(6), Pai is required to complete, prior to filing any petition to terminate his bar and for Board consent to associate with a registered public accounting firm, 40 hours of continuing professional education and training relating to PCAOB auditing standards (such hours shall be in addition to, and shall not be counted in, the continuing professional education he is required to obtain in connection with any professional license).

ISSUED BY THE BOARD.
